An English paper publishes a poem com-"Dearest, come kiss me; my lips are yet warm, And my bosom still pants from the class of thine arm; The blood dances wildly through each throbbing vein, But I droop for thy kisses again? To which a very "fresh" young gentleman promptly replies:

"Je-roosa-lem, dearest, I dart like a fish! My lips shall with kisses respond to thy wish, I'll check not the blood thrilling wild in each vein, But I'll stop thee from drooping for kisses

Then turn up thy bill, love; I'll pounce like a bird, And through vale and through forest the smack If you suffer for kisses, I am thar, you may bet, And I'll kiss thee from morning till the sun

'Come kiss thee? Why, thunder, I'm one of I'm the chap of all others you are trying to find. So you needen't look farther, I'm in for the clinnee, Though the blood should 'cayort,' and your pulse it may dance.

'So bring on the fruits, love-your kisses, l For I dream now of nothing but peaches and I am waiting and panting and praying till then; So come along, dearest, as quick as you can."

THE MYSTERY OF MULLENDELL

BY CYRIL DUNSTON.

"Henry! Henry Weed! Oh, if you lease, hayê you met Henry?" I turned to face the speaker, and saw a tall, dark-eyed woman, with black ourly hair, well mixed with gray, and a figure like that of Juno. She wore a black dress and a scarlet shawl, and her manner was that of a lady—a mother, or perhaps a young grandmother, looking for some little

"There are some children gathering nuts in the woods yonder. Perhaps you will find yours there." She laughed aloud, showing a row of broad teeth white as pearl, and evidently all her own. "It's not a child," she said. "You make me laugh. It's my husband. You must have seen him. He has not the power of making himself invisible. without being seen! They all tell me that. I don't believe them. Henry! Henry! Henry Weed!"

And she passed on without waiting for an answer. I felt very glad of it; for when I looked straight into her handsome eyes I felt sure that she was not quite sane.

"It's poor Mrs. Weed," said my hostess, "and her story is quite a strange one, and romantic, too. I'll tell it to you. "When my mother was a young married woman, and first came to live in this town, Squire Ingoldsby, as every one called him, kept a hotel on yonder heights, and Sara, his daughter lived with him.

"She was a pretty creature of sixteen; and as she would assuredly be an heiress, she had many suitors." "One of them was Edward Rhodes, young lawyer, and a splendid tellow in every way; she had certainly favored his addresses, and the Squire approved of them, and all the gossips in the place said that the wedding was a predestined fact; when Professor Weed came to Mullendell, put up at the squire's hotel, and 'not only advertised in the daily paper the fact of his intention to give a lecture on mesmerism in the lyceum of the place, but had posters pasted on every convenient fence and barn, with the promise to mesmerize any of the audience who were pleased to submit to the opcration, and to produce on the stage from among their number a clairvoyant who should read sealed letters, visit in spirit far distant places, and describe persons they had never seen in all their lives.

"Mullendell was a very dull place, and people jumped at the offer of an

"On the night of the exhibition, a beautiful Wednesday evening, the lyceum was full. After a short delay the door was opened and the audience saw what my mother always called a 'devilish-looking little man,' who advanced with a slow step towards the front of the platform and bowed to the audience.

"He was small and slight, and lressed in a full suit of stylish black. "On his bosom he wore a medal or order of some kind, which had been bestowed upon him in Europe, and at his watch chain hung, besides a costy seal, a little silver skull.

"His hair, very black and very smooth, set off his clear, brown eyes. to advantage. "His eyes were dark brown, with very long lashes; his mouth a mere line of scarlet, so small it was and so vividly red.

"Afterwards every mortal of that udience declared he was looking diectly at him or herself. "My mother thought so, and the glance made her shudder:

"The lecture was interesting, well written and bright, but the experi-

"In this she seated herself. The on himself-desperate, terrible and passes were made. Her face grew strangely beautiful. The lips were closed—a smile seemed to fix itself upon her lips.

"She sleeps,' said the professor.
"No one could doubt it, or that there was something unnatural in the slumber. The squire looked a little startled, but not alarmed. Edward Rhodes, on the contrary, had turned as pale as death.

Rage was upon his eye, and he fixed it upon the mesmeristin a threat-ening manner, which, however, that individual never noticed at all.

"The usual performance of mesmeric exhibitions were gone through with. A letter, of which none but the recipient knew the contents, was handed up to the platform, and placed, folded still, upon Sara Ingoldsby's head, and she, with closed eyes, read every word

"After that the squire, the professor and Sara were often alone together in the private parlor, and rumor said that the poor girl went into hundreds of trances, and 'put a girdle round about the earth in less than forty minutes,' many a time and oft.

"And the end of all of this was that the engagement between Edward Rhodes and Sara came to and end, at her own desire, before Christmas; still, Edward!"
and that in April she was married to "I do not care Professor Henry Weed, in old Mullendell church, by the Rev. Dr. Dump-

"It was odd enough, they said, to see her following him about, watching every change of his face. "He was cold and silent, and did nothing for her entertainment in any way; but many a devoted husband would be happy to be half so much thought of and .considered. "That he still mesmerized her at intervals was attested to by the servants; but he lectured no longer. "When the squire died, leaving all to his daughter, the married pair

A Young Heroine. How a Wisconsin Girl Saves her little Sisters and Brothers.

Thomas Velfe and wife, with a family of small children, settled in this country something more than a year ago, and, being poor, they, after many hardships, erected a small dwelling and cleared a few acres of land, but they were in the wilderness ten miles from neighbors. A few weeks ago the father and mother left their children, consisting of a girl aged 1/2 years, one aged 6 years, and two other children aged respectively 3 years and 13 months, on a trip to the setstitution there were no locks or keys tlement to get a cow and bring in some potatoes to plant. After the parents had been gone a few hours the house took fire and the oldest girl immediately rushed to the roof with water, but not being able to remove the shingles she could do nothing to stay the flames, which gained rapidly, spreading on the inside of the roof. ty for some explanation. until bursting through they drove her from her work: The heroic girl now turned her attention to saving her brothers and sisters. Coming to the door of the building, she found that the child next to her own age had got out of the house bringing the baby with her, but the little 3 year old had crouched under a shaving horse in the further corner of the room. There being no chamber floor, the fire was dropping from the burning roof between the child and the door, and when asked to come out it refused to do so saying, "T am safe here, the fire don't drop here." Our little heroine hesitated only a moment, but rushing through the falling embers brought the boy to a safe place, both having their clothes somewhat burnt. But now comes the hardest part of the task before her. Scantily clothed was searched for him. Inquiries were and with no food, she took the babe hear, but must observe. Captured By Catholics.

A Young Indianapolis Girl Doing Pen-ance in a Dungeon, [From the Indianapolis News, July 7.] On the 29th of April, after dusk, Miss Laura Decker says she was kidnapped upon New York street. near Davison, by a party of acquaintances, with the exception of Merchant Policemen William Woods, and confined in the institution of the Good Shepards, on Kentucky avenue, where she tells an almost incredible story of her sufferings while there detained; that she was fed upon stale food, forced to do penance for imaginary sins, and every means tried to extort from her a belief in the Catholic Church. Besides, upon her fell the hard work and abuse of those who assumed to command. Laura also tells many strange things of the workings which she there witnessed; that another young girl, like herself having a leaning towards Protestantism, was confined in a solitary dungeon, with a ground floor, where she was confined with her hands tied behind her, and where her food was thrown in like it would be to a hog, etc.; and she says the abuse upon herself was altogether because she had a leaning toward the church of which Elder Black is pastor. There are many other things also, to which at present it is not advisable to give publicity, and the fact that she has her mother, who lives on North Noble street, and also against Officers Wil-her statement. The reason given by her people for this stringent action;

is the alleged fact that Laura was disposed towards a fast life, a charge which is indignantly denied by the complainant, and also contradicted by those who know her intimately. The whole trasaction is so incredible that the News, with its usual de-"The chambermaid told an odd a dream, and it is over. You can't her last word was Henry.' His version is in substance that Laura, previous to the time of the alleged kidnapping became enamored of a saloon keeper on East Washington street, and that he took her to his room on the night of the Emmett Guards ball and kept her secluded for several days before her mother could ascertain her whereabouts. She was brought to the Good Shepard (how the reverend gentleman does not state), where she was detained not by physical force, but by moral sussion, until her mother asked for her release in order that thev might celebrate July 4. Why We Forget. How often we hear persons say, "I have forgotten; I once knew very well, but it has gone from me." The difficulty is, we neglect to concentrate and bring to bear our intellectual faculties upon the object or subject presented. We see, hear, touch, taste or smell it, but if the mind is not fixed upon it, if the sense which is designed to reveal to us the things with which it is brought in contact is not charged with thought, the effect produced upon the mind is as transitory and fleeting as is the impression made by the clicking sound of the armature of the telegraph, when influenced by the electro-magnet under the touch of one who, being ignorant of the alphabet, imparts by his touch no intelligence, no soul. We must not only see and recognizes the distinction between secing and observing, and beautifully ilustrates it when he says, "I am not bserving, I am only seeing; for the beam of my eye is not charged with thought." THE REASONS WHY. Some people wonder that we have so many Democratic subscribers. We can easily account for this. "Is not the RECORD a political paper?" we are asked. It is, but presuming that a person may use common sense and ordinary prudence in expressing his views on political subjects and in advocating political measures, as well as in reference to any other matter, we claim that we pursue a course that is approved by a large majority of the best men in the Democratic as well as preferences. The reasons, however, that induces so many to take the RECORD, who are not of our political faith, and which will, we trust, induce many more to jurisdiction of the Dominion. become subscribers, are:

First, that the RECORD, having more than double the circulation of any other Republican or political paper in this part of the State, it is regarded as a sort of mirror reflecting the true sentiments of the party in this region, hence people desire to see what it respect, is always duly appreciated.

The Lord Gordon case has become juite notorious, so much so that it is now supposed that it has assumed such a shape as will probably result in some little trouble between the dominion and our government, unless it is soon adjusted.

It appears that this said Lord Gorlon is a humbug, at least there were some heavy financial operations in New York in which he figured. The suits against him in the New York courts, in which he was required to give bail, he paid no attention thereto, there water. They don't need the His bail bonds were high, and it became a serious matter with his bonds in the North, so there is enough of it, men as to how he might be secured, such as it is, for practical purposes.

and they released from responsibility. But Gordon was non-comatible, as nobody knew, his whereabouts. Finally after much labor, and expense he was discovered in Manitoba. The great question then was how to get possession of him. So the wits of detectives were set to work in order to induce him to cross the line into the territory of the United States, that he might be captured. The efforts of the detectives failed to induce him to cross the line, so some other scheme had to be adopted. About the first of July it was determined by interested parties to capture Lord Gordon. Accordingly Hoy and another man from Minneapolis started with authority to secure Gordon. These men employed other parties, and finding Gordon some fifteen miles west of Fort Garry they scized him, and were conveying him as fast as possible across the line, into the jurisdiction of the United States. They were however, soon overtaken and captured by some of Gordon's friends and were lodged in a Manitoba jail.

Other parties from Minnesota went to the rescue of the Minneapolis detectives, some of whom were also arrested. A trial was had before a Manitoba judge, in which the Americans were not allowed the least degree of fairness. After the case was heard, the Manitoba judge refused to bridge. The fire was first discovered in the hold of the boat, and as soon as the hatchways were opened the flames burst forth with great fury. All efforts to extinguish the fire were fruitless, and the steamer was run aground about 200 yards from the irginia shore, near Aquai Creek.

The number of bodies recovered up to Monday was sixty-seven. The scene at the burning is represented as most fearful and heart-rending. The following account is from the special correspondence, of the Washington Star, who visited the scene of the and children could be heard for miles. GAINESVILLE, Cook Co., Aug. 4, 1878. EDITORS RECORD :- I will endeavor to write you a few words about Texas, the "lone star" State. When I left Michigan I promised to write to friends. through the RECORD, as many wanted to know my views of Texas. I have been in Grayson, Cook, Montague, Clay and Witchita Counties, and my choice is Gook County, I have seen some very nice prairie and valley land, the only thing that's lacking is timber and water, but they can get tolerably good well water within from twenty to forty feet, but I haven't found any water that can compare with the nor-There is a great deal of post oak timber along the creeks, and that is low, scrubby timber. I like Gainesville and the country around it. It is a good farming and stock country. There is great talk of availroad at this place within the next two years. It is a place suitable for any kind of business a man desires to go into, but the main things here with the people are cotton, corn and stock. It is a good country for peaches, plums, grapes, cherries and strawberries. There are some apple orchards here but they are young and haven't got to bearing fruit yet. I haven't seen any such fruit as gooseberries, currants and raspberries since I came here. Lumber is high here. Cottonwood shingles are five, and pine ten dollars a thousand. Nails ten cents by the keg. Hardware is high here. They have to freight fifty miles with teams. Land rates from three to fifteen dollars per acre around this town; vacant lots seventy-five dollars each; other lots according to improvements. Gaines-

The corn that was planted early in January will do middling well, but that planted later, and especially the sod corn, has once in a while a cob with a few kernels of corn on it, and the grasshoppers have taken possession of that. The wheat does a little better, and will average from twenty to thirty bushels per acre. Last year it averaged from forty to fifty bushels per acre, so I am told by old farmers. Mr. Peery, an old farmer here, said that he had wheat last year that weighed seventy pounds to the bushel. Texas is a great place for wild game, such as buffalo, deer, bears and wolves, and small game of different kinds. I haven't seen any Indians yet although, there is a great deal of talk about them, but the white Indian here is worse than the red man himself. There have been quite a good many people killed here in different places since we came. I have known of as high place. Some were shot, others were scalped and some hung, but they were mostly horse thieves, and the cow boys killed them, so for my part I think it a good thing. There are prairies here that a man can look as far as he can see and not a stick of timber nor a can see is the herdsman and cattle, fying the mistake and ordering the from two to three thousand in a drove.

Lapear Democrat, some weeks ago, in relation to Hon. Josial W. Begolc, Congressman elect in this district trespassing on Government lands, and copied extensively by the opposition journals, has fallen to the ground How. A. B. Maynard, United States District Attorney has withdrawn from all connection in the matter, as the following letter will show, being satisfied that the Government has no claim upon these lands. The title by which Mr. Begole controlled these lands was disputed, but his action was the same cratic papers of this district which took such pains to circulate this report derogatory to the character of Mr. Begole retract the base slander. We publish the Attorney's letter in full: Detroit, July 23, 1873.

Hon. J. W. Begole, Flint, Mich. My Dear Sir:—I have come to the ngs commenced against you for treshe complaint was entered against you, I have been informed that the and Board have conveyed those lands to the Port Huron, etc., R. R., claiming that they belong to the State, and that the general Government has no title to them. I find also that Judge Withey, U.S. District Judge of the Western District; has held in a similar case that the Government had no title to the lands, upon the ground that the reversion to the general Government was contingent, and that in such a case no title upon which procecdings could be instituted remained to the Government. And further, that these views, I understand, have been substantially adopted by the Commissioner of the Land Office.

In view of these facts, I have determined to dispose of the matter as above stated, especially as I am aware that you proceeded in good faith on the belief, as you say you were advised by your counsel, that you had a good itle to the lands upon which the timber was cut.

These rail road lands have been, as ou are aware, subject to depredations or years, and I deemed it my duty to endeavor to protect them, on the theory that they might revert to the Government, and then, if stripped of their timber, their value would be gone. But inasmuch as the State now assumes the ownership, and the Eederal Courts in this State, as by the decision of Judge Withey, hold the title in the State, I do not deem it my duty to proceed in any case where the title of the Government is, at least,

Further Details of the Great Indian Bat-tle in the Valley of the Republican River. Unofficial information was received here yesterday concerning a reported fight on Tuesday last between a large party of Sioux (the particular tribe not known) and a smaller party of Pawnees, 120 miles southwest of Elm Creek, between the Republican and Blackwood Creek.

Conductor Norton, who arrived here from the West yesterday, reports that he found several Pawnees at Elm Creek who wanted him to bring them down to Columbus, which is twentyfive miles from the reservation, but the Loupe is between the station and the Indians' homes. Several Indians went down on the freight ahead of Conductor Norton's passenger train. Mr. Norton refused transportation to the Pawnees, whereat they felt very

They reported that while they were hunting buffalo in the Republican Valley, last Tuesday, a party of about 800 Sioux, well armed and all strong braves, attacked them and put them to flight. The Pawnee party numbered about 300 persons. Twenty-five Pawnee warriors were killed and seventy-five women and children were massacred. A large number of ponies were stolen. The massacre was reported to be of the regular Indian type, cruel in the extreme. The papeoses were taken up by the feet, and their brains were dashed out against the first hard substance that was found.

The fight lasted all day and was very stubbornly contested on both sides. Overpowered by numbers, and weak from the loss of their best braves, the Pawnees fled in the night and escaped, leaving their guns and every-thing superfluous in flight upon the battlefield.

When the train-reached Columbus several Pawnees were seen there, who week here than I saw in Michigan in had arrived on the freight train from the battle-ground, and they told the same story as those at Elm Creek. DATER—AUG. 9.

The Sioux were undoubtedly Ogalallahs, coming, as they did, from Red Cloud Agency. The total loss, (men, women, and children, all told) was probably 100, and, as we stated, yesterday, about twenty-five braves were killed. The remainder of the Pawnee hunting party arrived at Silver Creek yes: terday morning on a freight train from Elm Creck. They had their wounded with them.

County Treasurer McShane was on

"T. W. FERRY. "The Hon. WM. A. RICHARDSON,

Secretary of the Treasury." The amount refunded is the exact difference between the pay allowed under the new law and the pay allowed under the old law. The new law gave an increase of five thousand dolars salary for the term, without mileage. The old law allowed five thousand dollars less salary, but gave mile-age in addition. The Michigan Sonators took the amount due them under the old law, which was in operation when they were elected, with mileage, and returned every cent additional which was allowed them under the

-On Saturday morning of last week, Lee Clark, of Battle Creek mail carrier, and stage proprietor of the route between this city and the above mentioned place was kicked by a victous horse belonging to a lightning rod peddler, at the stable of the National Hotel. Both feet of the animal struck Mr. C. in the right side with force enough to drive him against, his wagon, and push it several inches sideways, knocking the breath com-pletely out of him. He took the train for home, and left the team in charge of other parties. Although no bones were broken, internal injuries of a very serious nature, may result fatally. - Hastings Home Journal.

-The potatoe crop will be large this year, notwithstanding the persistent endeavors, of the bugs to reduce it. They, the potatoes, are selling at 75 cents per bushel now, and the prospects are good for a decline to 25 cents. Let 'em decline.-Manchester Enterprise.

Landon and Mrs. A. W. Platt were quite severely bruised by the fall, and Eddie Platt received a cut just above his right eye. Miss Stafford was also slightly hurt.

THE ST. JOSEPH Traveler says; The first shipment of peaches was made last Friday night—seven baskets.

The unhealthiness of a school kept up during the warm weather is ac-knowledged by all, and still in this county there are many district schools that have been in session for the last eight weeks and are yet unfinished. Superintendent Kingsland reports two schools with but three scholars each.—On Sunday afternoon the wind blew a half gale on the lake, and the water on the river side reminded us of the picture in the Bible of the Baptism by St. John. The old gentleman and the two ladies of the German Baptist Church, who were baptised in the waters of St. Joseph River, may draw some consolation for their devotion in this respect and their absolute willingness to engounter the elements of wind and water last. THE MoLIN CASE.—Testimony in the Dr. McLin case is being taken every few days. The Doctor thinks injustice was done him in the notices that recently appeared in the news-papers. He says that he thinks he shall be fully able to show to the public that he has been right in the affair, and that the blame rests on other shoulders. He, however, thinks it not a proper time to appear in the newspaper columns while the case is undergoing a judicial investigation. After the trial is completed, he desires the public to hear his side, and at that time he proposes to make a statement of the case. Till then he will let the matter rest, so far as the newspapers are concerned.

Personal.—Our young friend, Co lumbus Cotten, who for several years has been controlling and managing the boot and shoe store of his father, in this place, has accepted the agency of a boot and shoe firm of Chicago, and will travel soliciting orders throughout the State of Michigan. We are sorry to lose so good a business man, but wish him great success in his new avocation. He possesses qualities which will doubtless make him a desirable and efficient salesman.

DECEASED .- An industrious constable in Bertrand Township, is said to be making good wages killing dogs. Those engaged in this business are doing a noble work for our posterity, besides having a present benefit in reducing the price of sausage meat.

Michigan, BARNUM'S WORLD'S FAIR .- Barnum will not visit our town this year, but will exhibit in South Bend Tuesday, Aug. 26, for one day only. Among the leading features on exhibition in this Traveling World's Fair are Prof. Faber's wonderful Talking-machine, which talks, laughs and sings perfectly in all languages; the great triple equestrian combination, the monster sca lions, wild Fiji cannibals, horseriding goat, a rhinoceros as large as an African elephant. Barnum's national portrait gallery, 100 life-size oil paintings of all the Presidents of the United States, military horses, kings, emperors, statesmen; Prof. Rogers classic and historic statuary, 100 lifelike moving mechanical automatons, of the moving mechanical automatons, or the most exquisite proportions and de-signs, operated by a steam engine; playing water fountains, moving trains of cars, Grotto of Calypso, landscape and sceinic transformations, Bohemian glass blowers, running water mills, singing and flitting automaton birds, living curiosities, performing lions, trained elephants, mechanical bell ringers, death-bed scene of Napoleonthe Emperor is seen breathing and gasping for life—a masterpeice of art, besides hundreds of novelties we have not the time nor space to describe. In addition to this yast show Mr. Barnum exhibits, free of charge, a well filled menageric of wild animals and birds, the collection being as large as any other show in the country for half a dollar. next following. BUSINESS CHANGE.—We are pleased to notice that Messrs. Charles D. Nichols and James Graham have become associated together in business at Berrien Springs, under the firm name of Nichols & Graham, successors to the well known firm of Platt & Co. The new firm deal in dry goods, clothing, hats and caps, boots and shoes, groceries, glass-ware, crockery ware, and a general line of hard ware. They also purchase all kinds of country produce. Their large and commodious store rooms enable them to keep a general assortment of goods of every description, and they aim to supply their customers with almost any article they may desire to purchase the year round. As the firm is composed of shrewd business men of many years experience, we predict that they will not only retain the customers of the old firm, but add many new ones and find their business, which is already large and profitable, constantly growing and improving. List of Letters.

During the time, I have used it in numerous cases of Diptheria. I always apply it to the throat warm, and in no case where I have used it have I ever known the disease to go to the lungs, nor have I lost a patient with that complaint when I was called in the first instance. I have also used it with Salt Rheum, Croup, Erysipolas, Scarlet Fever, and in fact in all cases where an external remedy is required. The roputation Dr. Price has acquired by candid, honest dealing, and years of successful practice has induced unprincipled persons to copy and imitate him as far as they dare, in order to deceive. Let it be remembered that no person in the west is treating Chronio Diseases similar to Dr. Price—that his practice is not one of experiments, but founded on the laws of Nature with years of experience and evidence to sustain it. That it does not tear down to build up—make sick to make well—no harsh treatment, no trilling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work. But knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of these diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our epinion, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or to cure overybody, but ito claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their nilment, to call, investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing, as consultation is free. Visits will be made regularly.

Inving, a every instance, produced a perfect care in the worse cases of sore neck. The medicinal and cooling properties, with the advantage of always having a perfect, smooth surface, is a guarantee against chafing, and will in all cases cure the most irritated sore ricks, as hundreds will restly that have given them a trial. All we ask of the most surrupilous is to give our Zinc Collar Pad a fair trial, us we feel confident in warranting them to do all we claim, and give satisfaction.

First. Is the chemical action of the Zine, with the acid and satine constituents of moist sores, resulting in an astringent, acting speedily on the edges of the wound, and by its smooth surface and cooling tendency, quickly produces a cure.

Second. It prevents, in all cases, the hamestraps coming in contact with the neck, or the hames from contracting the top of the collar, and thereby pinching the cords of the neck, and is the only Pad made that will not wear the hair on the neck. of the flock, that is the only and made that the hair on the neck.

Thisp. With the use of them you can work a raw-necked horse every day, and cure the worst cases in from six to ten days, as has been done in many cases during six to ten days, as has been done in many cases during the last season.

Fourart. It is the most durable Pad ever made.

We deem it unnecessary to add other advantages, or even to add the numerous testimonials we have received during the short use of our Zine Pad, and only ask that it may have a fair trial, feeling full confidence in the success of the goods.

The Zine Pad must be protected from the sum by being covered over the top with either cloth or leather, in extreme hot days, as it will, in such days, become heated in the sun, but will always KEEP GOOL IN THE SIADE. GA
