That was about the time that dear old Robin Goodfellow was making ready to leave Primrose Hall. The moment his engagement was over, Miss Primrose gave him a piece of her mind, and said they must part. I hardly think he wanted to go, he grew so serious. That day before his departure, Kate and I and Ruth were all together in our class-room, when Jean ran in with a paper-the Weekly Monitor, which Miss Primrose took regularly every Monday.

"Such a sweet piece of poetry, girls!" she said. "Do read it." And she handed us the paper. We all read it—Ruth last. This

"I wonder who wrote it," said Kate, "and whether she meant it?" "I think she did," said Ruth. "It sounds so."

And she took her scissors from the desk and cut the poem out. Then she sat looking at it and reading it over, with such a color in her cheeks, until Miss Primrose opened the door. Then she started and looked terribly frightened, and tucked the scrap into an envelope that lay on her desk, as though Miss Primrose was able to do her some great harm should she detect her: for she paid well and was in every way a credit to the establishment, besides being her own mistress, so that she might go at any moment if she chose. The Signor wanted Ruth in the music-room, and we were wanted for botany, and we did not meet again until supper time, when, in the corridor, on the way to the refectory, Miss Primrose said to Ruth—

"I found your French exercises sealed up upon your desk. Miss Rill, and sent it to the professor, who, being about to leave, was in haste to correct it."

Ruth looked at her, looked away from her-turned red and turned pale, and said:

quote: Last Monday two Mexican boys, Jesus Maria and Juan de la Cruz, Libustero, were taking a flock of 700 sheep across the sand hills of the Lomas del Arrenno, about 24 miles northerly from Fort Garland. These sand hills extend out into the San Luis Valley about fifteen miles, opposite the Mosco Pass. The herders undertook to make a 'short cut" across the hills instead of going around, as directed by their father. At first every thing moved gaily; the boys, and sheep, and dogs only sank in the sand, and they thought how foolish it was of old fogies to go around twenty miles, when it was only four across. But before they had got half way across, one of those sudden storms arose; up came a gentle breeze, the breeze became a wind, and the wind an awful hurricane; the sand moved about to blinding clouds, hills changed to holes, and every hole was a seething caldron. The poor boys struggled hard to of glistening sand all around him, and not a trace of the cruel storm nor a wreck of the sad disaster could be

He hurried home, where he arrived the next day, and told his tale of terror. The whole plaza turned out to search for the lost body and dig out the missing sheep, most of them being found six feet below the surface, and the natives from neighboring plazas had flocked to the scene, and were busily engaged digging out the sheep, saving the wool and feasting on mutton. The old gentleman's loss was their gain, and he could sav as he smacked his lips o'er a fine mutton

Women as Hod-Carriers in Vienna.

Correspondence of the Baltimore American I have before alluded to the fact that women perform the hardest kind of laboring work in Germany, but was not prepared for the sights I have witnessed to-day in Vienna. In America mixing mortar and carrying the hod is considered such hard work that few white men can be found willing to undertake it at the present day. An immense building near our hotel, oc-cupying a whole block, is in course of erection, on which not less than 400 persons are employed, fully 200 of which are women. All the hard laboring work is done by women, such as making and carrying mortar in buckets on their heads to the workmen handling the brick. They are not allowed a moment's leisure, several overseers being on hand to keep them constantly in motion. We found the same proportion of women at work on all the new buildings, and there must be many thousands of them today doing this species of laboring work in Vienna. They are both young and old, but all seem to be strong and healthy. At dinner time they swarm was to unprepossessing and too poor, into the shops to purchase a piece of and too unlike what girls fancy, to be brown bread and fat bacon and a mug thought of even so very little, by one of beer, and eat their dinners sitting like you. Ruth, God bless you! I on the curbstones. Their wages are love you, and I dare to tell you so one floren, or twenty-eight cents per now. Don't answer 'No,' Ruth, for | day, and I am assured by a gentleman resident here that most all sleep about the buildings on shavings, or in barns or sheds, having no homes. Amidst all the splendor and wealth

Seven members have been arrested. The society consists of 350 officers. The Chief of Police some time agolreceived a letter from three Chinese girls, which,

I fear Hon Chan will have no place to stand, so I tell you for great mercy. You fled to the school. What do you mean by this? Do you know of some way to hide for a short time from the fearful power of the Hip Ye Tong society? I think not. Why do you allow this matter to enclose you like a net? A Terrible Punishment. Mr. James Greenwood has published a frightful account of the silent system which is in operation at the Holloway model prison in London. It is an offense for a prisoner to speak one word, and he is never addressed except in whispers, so that he may be in prison two years without hearing the sound of the human voice. The effect of all this is so terrible on the mind that prisoners will speak out in desperation, at the risk of any punishment, rather than endure that horrible silence. The prisoners never see one another, but remain in perpetual solitude. One poor wretch, driven to desperation by nine months' solitude and silence, recklessly broke out, in Mr. Greenwood's presence: "For God's sake, governor, put me in another cell. . Put me somewhere else. I have counted the bricks in the cell I am in till my eyes ache." The request of the tortured wretch was refused. There is a fine hole in each cell, and as the wardens wear shoes of India rubber soles, the prisoners can never be sure of being alone. Those con-demned to the treadmill have to ascend 1,200 steps every alternate twenty minutes for six hours. And this in a place so hot and close that prisoners often lose in perspiration three stones in as many months. Every day the prisoners are taken to a chapel so arranged that they can see no one save the chaplain; and him, only through an iron grating. And this is the order of devotion observed. Wardens are constantly on the watch lest for a slight instant they, through the whole service depart from the rigid rule of "eyes right." They must look steadfastly at the preacher; must raise and lower their prayer book with the elbow squared, and all at once, like soldiers at drill. They may not scrape their feet without afterwards having to explain the movement. They scarcely wink an eye or sigh without danger of rebuke or punishment. God help them, poor wretch-

From the Cleveland Herald, July 16. Our readers are familiar with the principal circumstances connected with the terrible casualty at Niagara Falls on the Fourth of July. Two of the party were from near Cleveland, and we give below, in brief, the story of their elopement and its fatal end-

The names of this couple, as they appeared in the Buffalo papers, taken from the marriage license found among their effects, were John Elliott and Margaret Rollinston. The latter name is correct, but that of the young man is not, he having given a fictitious name, and reported that they were from Cincinnati, in order to throw their friends off the track in case of pursuit. His name was John Emmerson, and his father lives in Euclid Creek, 10 miles east of Cleveland. The father of the girl lives in the township of Willoughby, five or six miles east of the Creek. The young man was about 19 years of age, and his fiancee perhaps a year younger. The Rollinston family came to this city from Canada a little more than a year ago; and soon after went to Euclid, where they were employed upon the farm of Mr. Hunt. An intimacy sprang up between Miss Rollinston and young Emmerson, which resulted in their engagement to be married. It is understood that his friends opposed the match on account of the youth of both parties, and for other reasons known to themselves. The amatery pair therefore laid their plans for an elopement. The tale we are telling is not wholly a romantic and affecting one, of "the love" crushed and trampled under foot by flinty-hearted parents, of flight for all that seemed worth living for, and of death in each other's arms, amidst the roar of the mighty cataract. Part of the sensational features belong to the case, but the unpleasant fact is also to be added that John broke open a trunk and stole $500 of his father's money to give himself a "lift" in the world with his young bride.

The parties left home on Monday of last week, Emmerson taking, at Euclid station, a train for Buffalo, on the Lake Shore railroad, Miss Rollinston joining him at Willoughby. It has been ascertained that they went to Buffalo, and either there or in Canada procured a marriage license, though it is understood they had not been married, when they embarked for that fatal trip. Miss Rollinston had an aunt living near the falls, in Canada, and the couple had been visiting there for a day or two. A young brother of hers was also staying there, and he was the boy lost in the boat that went over the falls, having accompanied

When they went on the river for a pleasure ride, they were warned to keep near the shore, and, as they valued their lives, to keep out of the resistless current. Carelessly rowing and floating along, their boat was imperceptibly drawn into the current, and when they realized their danger it was too late. More swiftly each moment they were hurried on to the verge of the cataract, and then the fearful plunge came and ended their young lives.

ANOTHER RAILWAY HORROR. Again the blood is chilled at the ho ror on the Chicago & Alton Railroud. On Saturday night a collision occurred near Lemont, the result of which had been seventeen deaths up had ever been his reputation in all the to Monday night. The number of the injured, besides the dead, was about thirty. The rules of the road provide that, where the conductor infrings es the rules to the endangering of the train, then the engineer is justified and should refuse to obey orders. On this ground the engineer is held under

It is evident from the frequent railroad disasters, that some more stringent regulations should be adopted for the government and management of trains. There ought to be a power at every station to prevent any train, without direct orders from the train manager, from leaving on or near the time of any other train. In nine cases out of every ten accidents occur through some carelessness or mismanagement, that with proper attention might have been avoided. There ought to be a stringent order against the running of trains at so high a rate of speed as to endanger the lives of the traveling public. Let Government regulate railways speedily. especially as relates to safety. We believe that there can be some plan adopted whereby the fearful loss of life on the railways may be prevented. State authority seems to be inadequate to the emergency, and hence the only hope hes with the General Government. If no other plan suggests itself. let cach station master be clothed by virtue of his railroad position with Government authority to prevent the leaving of trains when such leaving would encroach on the time of any other train; except by immediate direction of the train master. Then make a severe penalty for the engineer or conductor to disobey such orders. Such an arrangement would have saved seventeen precious lives and many wounded in the Lemont hor-ror. Such an arrangement would tend to the placing in charge of stations only responsible and reliable men of the best judgment, by the railway companies. Further the law should make it a grave offense punishable by a severe penalty for the conductor or engineer of any train to leave any the little reliance that can be placed station or side track on the time of upon his earlier ones. orders of the train manager.

In addition to these arrangements let a Government official be appointed for each railroad, to be paid by the railroad company, to whom all station agents in their official capacity, as agents of the Government, shall be required to report the movement, arrival and, departure of all trains, and whose order shall at any and all times be obeyed by every person in charge of any train or station, engineer or conductor. Let proper restrictions and rules be adopted to prevent this general Government official from unnecessarily interfering with the running of trains, his duty, being to see that all the rules adopted by the roads for the running of trains and the prevention of accidents, are carried out and to suspend, or compel a new rule, where any rule adopted by the company would manifestly endanger life. Again we say that the fearful loss of life by realised recorders the second life by railroad accidents, the great danger in traveling thereby, demands action on the part of Congress look-ing to the safety of human life. From Harper's Weekly, Aug. 6. Vindication Completed. Oakes Ames Couresses, Two Months Be-fore Death, that Collax Had Been Wronged, and that He Himsolf Drew the $1,200 Oheck.

In the carnival of slander that attended the last Presidential campaign. the honorable reputation of Schuyler Colfax was to be weighed against the fading memory, and untrustworthy assertions of Oakes Ames. Against Mr. Colfax the opposition leaders seemed to turn with especial malice. Pure as paths of life, eminent as were his services to freedom, they hoped to crush him by i'lle insimuations, and perhaps to revenge upon him, the fall of slav-ery. The feeble and heattating charges made against him by Oakes. It is hoped the disease which was soon to bear that no pains nor lexpense will be him away had perhaps impaired those faculties which in their mature strength carried on to success one of the great est of modern financial, and engineering labors.

Lt has since happened that two inoidents have occurred that tend to show what became of the $1,200 check marked S. C., which Ames, in one tage of the controversy, said he had said fo Mr. Colfax. About two months fore his death, Mr. Ames admitted General Clinton B. Fisk, of St. with whom he had long been n close business relationship, that he believed the check was paid to himself; that Dillion, the cashier, was correct wronged in the matter. In other words, according to General Fisk's statement, which we are authorized to use, Ames was himself at last convinced the $1,200 check was never seen or heard of by Mr. Colfax. No one, therefore, can any longer entertain the preposterous charge, when even admitted testimony of Mr. Drew, who saw Mr. Ames draw a $1,200 check on the 22d of June, and pay the money to a stranger, receives confirmation from the statement of General Fisk. His testimony was evidently not trustworthy. He became sensible himself that he had been led into error; and if he was at last convinced that he had done injustice to Mr. Colfax, it is not impossible that he would have been equally ready to withdraw his other statements. Railway Horror

The Sunday edition of the Inter-Ocean gave its readers meagre information of ansaccident which occurred about 10:30 o'clock Saturday evening, on the Chicago, Alton, and St. Louis Railway, two miles north of Lemont. The information was obtained by a reporter at an early hour Sunday morning, the railway, authorities have The second car of the freight train ing kept the matter carefully to themselves; and persistent search and inquiry among them failed to elicit any particulars of satisfaction. A mysterious train was leaving! the Alton depot. laden with medical men and medical stores; the Superintendent was in charge, but no one seemed to know more than that they were going to the scene of an accident at Lamont. At 7 o'clock Sunday, morning the relief train returned laden with dead and wounded, and from the lips of the sufferers, and those who can be congratulated upon a narrow escape; the story of the wreck is told. It is another instance of criminal carelessness-a negligent or drunken conductor, whom no law can reach. Ten families are weeping over the bodies of murdered friends; six families are watching the pulses of the wounded who are hovering between the light of the world and the dark, uncertain fuin his statement, and he further said | 1872-8 turned the attention of a great | ture, and more than a score of sick that Mr. Colfax had been greatly many emigrants toward the State of are being tenderly cared for at the

While the porter was preparing their quarters for the night, a number of gentlemen, among whom were Mr. Smith, Warden of the Peni-tentiary, Mr. Fleury, the Purchasing Agent of the same, Captain William Little, a prominent citizen of Spring-field, Mr. N. Divebliss, the Steward of the Penitentiary, and others of equal prominence, went into the smoking car before retiring. Meanwhile the train sped on-on to death. A thick fog hung over the ground for a to Texas, for it is a money making long distance, and as the Sag swamps were reached it deepened, till, as it is said, an object at eight feet distance could not be discerned. As the train turned a short curve, where the direction of the road changes, about two miles north of Lemont, O'Niel, the driver, saw the flash of the headlight .. For a moment, so bewildering was the fog, he thought it was the reflection of his own; but he saw his mistake, his heart throbbed with instinctive bravery, he reversed his engine, opened the valves, and leaped for his life. But he was caught in the wreck and noses through the fence and root up badly scalded; his fireman, and Metz-ler, his friend, were killed in the the third row of potatoes. People go in for dogs here, too. I know of some

The New Plan of Hotel Rates, Intro-duced by the Grand Central Hotel, New

A trip to New York not many years ago was considered one of great expense, and by the old method of traveling, one of much inconvenience. Of Lite years, however all this has changed. The "Palace Sleeping Car, through connections, and the modern palatial hotel have succeeded. Rates of travel have long since cheapened, but a reduction in hotel charges has been of more recent date.

The most important innovation in hotel rates began with the opening of the Grand Central Hotel on Broadway, New York. The Grand Central was built under the direct supervision of the proprietor, Mr. H. L. Powers, who not only took the first step in this matter, but with rare foresight and business sagacity, sparing neither pains or expense, in the per fection of his plans, has now the satis-Tuesday, August 26th, 1873, faction of hearing his magnificent Giving Three Grand Full and Complete Performances of the entire house spoken of as not only the larg 20 GREAT SHOWS est in America, but one of the finest in the world.

AN ENCOUNTER WITH HIGHWAY-MEN.—One night last week as Mr. Geo. Spicer, of Three Oaks, was on his return home from Buchanan, after crossing the high R. R. bridge a few miles west of Buchanan, a man came out of the woods, caught the team and told Mr. S. that he wanted that team. He was coolly informed that he could not have it, whereupon he asserted that he was in earnest, and must have it. Mr. S. struck the team with the whip, but the grip of the miscreant was too firmly fastened on the horse's bridle. Seeing things getting serious Mr. Spicer concluded there was no need of further delay, and thereupon drew his revolver and fired at the robber, at the same time striking the horses with the whip. Whether he hit him or not he could not tell, but he seemed to fall back as the horses sprung forward, released from his grasp. After going a short distance Mr. S. concluded he would go back, and see how badly he had hurt his man, but as he was stopping a shrill GEMS! GEMS! GEMS! four for fifwhistle greeted his cars ahead of him in the woods. He therefore concluded there were others about, and that it was no place for him there. So putting whip to the team he hurried forward through the woods, where several shots were fired at him, one taking effect in the buggy box, passing under the scat and the ball lodging therein. It is to be hoped that the man that caught the team was seriously hurt by the shot given him, better still if he was killed. However, if he was hurt or even killed his comrades in crime of course took care of him, and the public would never know anything about it, except some physician was called on to dress the wound.

In these days of burglaries, robbery and murder it seems unsafe for a man to travel or be without arms after nightfall, and even then, in many instances, his arms avails but little, as his residence is entered, himself and family chloroformed, his valuables taken, while he sleeps. If a few of these reckless dare-devils could be shot while committing their crimes it would undoubtedly produce a wholesome effect on others.

SCHOOL.—Johnson's school has now 97 pupils. This speaks well for the popularity of Mr. J. as a teacher. More pupils from the country are attending his school than have attended any other school taught in our Village for some time past. We are glad to see success attending his efforts and we trust to yet see some improvement in the system and plan of conducting our Public School, so that less money may be made to accomplish greater good. When we thus speak we know that we reflect the sentiment of a large portion of our tax-payers.

UNIFORMITY OF TEXT BOOKS.—In this issue we publish the report of the Board for the establishment of a uniformity of Text Books, for use in the public schools of Berrien county. We presume the report is from the County Clerk, but if so, from some cause he omitted his signature. about the matter. There seems to us to be considerable of a muddle in this Text Book | now in course of reconstruction. Mr. proceeding, and parties interested will do well to wait a week or two, such developments as may by that time present themselves. We imagine the law is a good one, but we are inclined to the opinion that there are some mistakes relative to its enforcement or adoption. The people and schools may, therefore, be benefitted by taking a little time to consider. Our advice then, is to make haste slowly. It is not our design to cause any unnecessary alarm, but a word of caution may prevent needless expense. In a week or two, when we shall have had a little more time for the examination of the matter, we shall give our readers the result of our investigations.

FROM GALIEN.

Aug. 18th, 1873. EDITORS RECORD :- A very sad accident occurred here last Friday night. Mr. Henry Klasner, a German and quite an old man, living about one mile west of this place, had been in town all the afternoon and evening, and about eleven o'clock started to go home on the railroad. He was very much under the influence of liquor at the time and in attempting to cross the cattle guard fell through. He was unable to get out or to get help and was run over by the cars and instantly killed. His body was mangled in a shocking manner. An inquest was held over the body but the jury have not yet given in a verdict. The funeral was held yester-day (Sunday) at Blakeslee's hall, a very large concourse of people were in attendance. Much indignation is felt and not a little expressed against the saloon keepers for the part they took in bringing about the death of this man. Why are not the laws of

Mr. J. M. Page—Dear Sir: I commenced using your Arnica Oil Salve in my practice some three years ago. During the time, I have used it in numerous cases of Diptheria. I always apply it to the throat warm, and in no case where I have used it have I ever known the disease to go to the lungs, nor have I lost a patient with that complaint when I was called in the first instance. I have also used it with the best success in cases of Piles, Rheumatism, Salt Rheum, Croup, Erysipolas, Scarlet Fever, and in fact in all cases where an external remedy is required. I would with greatest confidence recommend it to the profession as a remedy that will do all that is claimed for it, some distance away, when his mother saw one of their neighbors approaching in a vehicle. This neighbor, by the way, is tolerably well off in worldly goods, and is known by poor Johnny and other little boys and their families as the "Rich Man"—one remarks ble for his kindness to your remarks ble for his kindness to your reason to the same same and their families as the "Rich Man"—one remarks ble for his kindness to your reason to the same same and their families as the "Rich Man"—one remarkable for his kindness to poor peo-ple. Johnny ran out, and the rich man took him into his vehicle, as he was going right past the Sunday school. It was a very hot day, and so Johnny took off his shoes and stockings to keep himself cool. When he arrived the exercises had already begun, and as the man was going to a church a few miles beyond, and he agreed to call for Johnny on his re-

WHERE HE WAS AHEAD.—A man in Portland married a widow. She had a fashion which is too common with all ladies who have buried a man, of giving him glowing accounts of the angelic virtues of the departed. As a prohibition law is in force in Maine, he could not drown his sorrows in liquor, so he nerved his soul to a terrible revenge. One night, when his wife was sleeping soundly, perhaps dreaming of the "first" victim of her charms, he arose from his bed, took a sledge hammer, and deliberately raising it to his shoulders, he marched to the grave-yard, and smashed the tombstone of his dead rival into little Manufactured to Order, as bits. Now, when his wife says any-thing about the virtues of the dead man, he replies, 'It may all be very true, old gal; but he can't smash my tombstone. There's where I'm ahead."

SLIGHT CLERICAL ERROR.-A blushng maiden of 40 summers entered the Town Clerk's office in Wheeling, Va., recently, and asked, in a voice trembling with agitation, for a lice se. The clerk took down her name and address. "Name of the other party?" asked the clork. "Faithful, and he lives with me," replied the fair one. The clerk looked at her for a moment, and then blushigly com-pleted the filling of the document, which he handed to the lady. He was astonished at her conduct. She gave one glance at the license, hoarsely whispered "Monster!" and swept majestically out of the office. The clerk had presented her with a marriage license, when it was a dog license she wanted.

par An old negro named Pete was very much troubled about his sins. Perceiving him one day with a very downcast look, his master asked him the cause. "O, massa, I'm such a sinner!" "But Pete," said his master, "you are foolish to take it so to . heart. You never see me troubled about my sins," "I know the reason, massa" said Pete. "When you go out duck shooting, and kill one duck and wound anoder. don't you run after the wounded one?" "Yes, Petes" and he wondered what was coming next. "Well, massa, dat is de way

Jesus was more sublimely great standing unknown at the carpenter's bench in Nazareth, with apron on, than if he had been surpliced as a priest in the temple, or arrayed in robes of royalty on Pilate's throne. He was greater and all diseases of the stomach and bowels, have all been cured and prevented by the use of 'Wilson's Specific Remedy.

For the cure of complaints and diseases of children, all should get it and cure their children's Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, and prevent Croup, Diptheria, (Eutrid Sore Throat) and all other dangerous effects of sudden and severe colds. And every mother in the land should assert her rights, demand and insist on being liberally and bountfully supplied with this remedy. It will save her many sleepless nights of weary and anxious watching. Mothers, keep this remedy on hands, and save all this trouble and anxiety, and your little and precious ones from all their restless, fretful and cross spells, caused by Hives, Nervousness, Aches, Pains, &c. It regulates the stomach and bowels, opens the pores, equalizes circulation; gives tone, strength and vigor to the whole system, and induces to a more perfect constitution in after years. The great advantage of this over all other remedies is, that it is not necessary to know the exact name or nature of the disease before it can be used. It can be applied at any and all times. It is always the right remedy. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers.

All orders should be addressed to EPHRAIM WILSON, with an adz in his hand than with a crown on his head. Christianity allows no aversion toward the mechanic. It gives him an honorable position. It invites him to its home and visits him in his. Yet how many rich young ladies who would scorn to associate with the sons and daughters of our working men! The matrimonial problems that busy their brains involve such fractions as lawyers, physicians, large salaried preachers, wholesale merchants, millionaires, and gentlemen of leisure. It would be ridiculous, they think, to throw themselves away on mechanics! Of course society has its affinities, and that is well. Education grants it. Refinement and culture always seek their level. But we dig down for gold. Too often dissipated dandyism is petted and honored, while music of the river of life, washing its shores on high and pouring in cascades upon the earth. Not so cheerful was the song of the morning stars, nor the shout of the sons of God so joyful, Gushing from the fountains of eternal harmony, it was first heard on earth in a low tone of solemn gladness uttered in Eden by the Lord God himself. This gave the key note of the gospel song. Patriarchs caught it up and taught it to the generations following. It breathed from the harp of the psalmist, and rang like a clarion from tower and mountain top as prophets proclaimed the year of jubilee. Fresh notes from heaven enriched the harmony, as the Lord of hosts Both in quality of goods and prices.

His teacher was just hearing the lesson, which, by the by, Johnny was not acquainted with, which was the fate of the rich man and Lazarus.

Soon after Johnny took his seat it came his turn to answer a question.

"Johnny, can you tell me where the rich man went?"

"He went to the other meeting," replied the little lad, thinking only of of his late companion.

"No, no, my son; the rich man went to hell," said the teacher, with great impressiveness, while the scholars were tittering with laughter.
"Did he?" exclaimed the lad, in all honesty. "Then he has taken my shoes and stockings with him," and up he jumped, seized his hat and put out of the school room and down the road to overtake the rich man and recover
