WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV. 27, 1873.

CONGRESS.

Next Monday there will be inaugurated the first session of the Forty-third Congress. The important duties which will devolve on this Congress can hardly be estimated at this time. For as the good of the country is concerned it is expected that prompt and efficient action will be taken, looking to the securing of some plan of freight transportation between the East and the West. On this matter the position of every Senator and representative will be watched with deepest interest by the entire country. The day has come when some must be wrought out to overcome the great freight monopolies of the present day. Let justice to all parties be the watchword, to the railroad as well as to the agriculturalist. Justice to all cannot injure any great interest or industry of the country. Such legislation as will secure elasticity of the bank circulation is important, and needs the most careful attention of Congress. It is evident upon the people of the West at least, that some system must be adopted whereby the currency may be expanded sufficiently to transact the business of the country. To our mind there cannot be the least objection to a system of banking, on the same basis as our National banks with the same securities, whereby one capitalist may have the same right as any other capitalist to engage in that business. The great law of demand and supply will regulate the volume of currency the same as any other business is regulated. A system also of the interchangeability of bonds for greenbacks, and vice versa, would doubtless do both good to the government and the business interests of the country. The Spanish-Cuban difficulty will doubtless engross the attention of Congress upon its assembling. Whether war results therefrom or not, is subject of the increase of the Navy of this country will need the serious attention of our National Legislature. The people generally, we opine, are now ready to grant the necessity for so increasing our Navy that we may at any time be in a condition to repulse respect to our flag on the high seas.

MISSISSIPPI CORRESPONDENCE.

TOUGALOO, Nov. 15, 1873. Eds. Record.—The State Fair for Mississippi was held this week at Jackson, lasting the whole week. All schools, teachers and pupils are admitted free on Friday, that being considered the great day of the week, and with the visitors of other classes from all parts of the State they make quite a throng, gathering to see and hear what they can which indicates improvement in all departments of industry. I wish it could be said that in all these visitors see very much. In some there is a good display of thrift and desire for a good display. In some very little. It is so in the Agricultural department, a lamentable want of enthusiasm and even fair interest. One would think the show in that was rather to display how not to do it than the opposite. All we saw under that head did show that as yet Mississippi farming is in a feeble state. And all the products show, if these are specimens, that Mississippi farmers know not how to raise them, so scanty, so meagre, so dilapidated, if that is the word, did these specimens of wretched farming look. A few wilted garden vegetables and field crops were the staple. No fruit to mention, no fine, smooth, superior specimens of what goods and culture can do. I was sorry if it could be done so much better. But lack of enthusiasm here is a reason why such as might be brought and which are really raised are left at home.

Being appointed to take charge of our schools and conduct them in the Fair I went with some four or five of the lady teachers and a majority of the students, Friday, on a special train going in the morning and returning in the evening. These people greatly enjoy a thing of this sort. I must relate an incident of the day showing how we meet with opposition here from the southern people. At the wish of the ladies I asked the conductor, could we ride on the engine? He answered, "Certainly, sir, with all politeness. So, introduced to the engine, filling its carrying capacity to its utmost, the ladies on each side of the engineer as he directed its running, and I upon the tender, on the woodpile. It was a lovely morning and we had a fine ride. On arrival a gentleman craved the privilege of escorting the ladies in his carriage to the Fair ground, a mile and more off, while I remained to form the students in procession and walk. He paid all bills, furnishing the teachers tickets, showing all the attractions of the Fair ground, and in no such way before the crowd of southern aristocracy as would indicate that it was not popular to do it. The fact is, a great deal of talk of proscription from this class of northern people who come among them, shows other than the truth. There is a proscription, and there are those who deserve to be proscribed, and are for other reasons than they allege. Let northern people do good work among them and the real sentiment of the public honors them. More and more the way is opening to do what needs to be done here.

THE CUBAN QUESTION.

The aspect of Cuban affairs looks altogether more pacific than when we went to press last week. It is now thought in the best informed circles that there will be no war with Spain on account of the Virginia matter. It is asserted from official circles that Spain is disposed to make due reparation for the outrage committed by the Cuban authorities. But the Spanish government may be assured, but with reckless intimation and a bold defiance of the wishes of the people, its destiny will be sealed.

THE ST. JO. TRAVELER SAYS.

Hon. Daniel S. Briggs, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, visited our schools on Thursday afternoon. We learn that a party is being organized in Royalton for a grand hunt, which will come off in a few days.—The three young ladies who were trying to smoke one cigar, on Church street, near the German church on Wednesday evening, need not have run so when they saw that young man coming toward them. He did not wish their cigar, he only wanted to see how young ladies look with a cigar in their mouth, puffing like a Chicago rough.

THE ST. JO. TRAVELER SAYS.

The many worthless ones upon our streets without collars and cuffs, that the new dog law is not strictly enforced. A claim of $500 has been filed against a city of Port Huron by a Mr. Stobbin, for damages by one of these pests, which killed 12 fine sheep in one night.—Arrangements have been perfected with the Pulman Sleeping Car Co., by which sleeping-beds in all cars running over the C. & M. S. R. R., have been reduced in price fifty cents. The price is now only $1.50, the old price was $2.00. The traveling public will appreciate this effort on the part of the managers of the road to place these luxuries within the reach of every traveler by night trains.

DEER HUNTING.

On exchanges in the Northern part of the State give accounts of successful deer-hunts. In some places venison is quoted almost as low as beef.

THE NILES Republican says: Quite a fatal accident occurred at Corymbo, near New Buffalo, thirty-two miles west of this city, on the Central road last Thursday evening. Two men jumped from the accommodation train bound east, and the day express dashing along west struck them, killing one of them instantly and breaking a leg of the other. One leg and one arm of the man killed were cut off when he struck the express train. Dr. Donice was sent for and amputated the leg of the wounded man. It was at first reported that the men were under the influence of liquor when they jumped from the train, but the wounded man, Chas. Nelson, who was conveyed to this city, says this is not so. He further says that they paid their fare from Michigan City to Corymbo and were certain the train would stop. The man killed was Jacob Lawson. They were from Norway.—The Central Church has been supplied with new and costly gas fixtures.—It is reported that Z. Jarvis, a private banker of Dowagiac, has suspended.—Dr. Donice had a fine buffalo robe stolen from his barn last Friday night. He says he will give $25 for the robe and the arrest of the thief.—Frank Pierce, a brakeman on the Central road, had one of his arms severely crushed, while coupling cars at the west end of the bridge on Friday last, that amputation was necessary.—Some men halted Fred Moore, on Monday night, near the old bridge, and wanted him money, watch, or any other little valuables he might have about him. Fred argued the question with them a few seconds and then put for home and asked his mother to put him in his little bed.—A young woman claiming to be from the sinful city of South Bend, and giving a new name to every person she met, including those of Andrus and Rice, stole a set of furs from Miss Lida Stines, at the Central School Building, and a pair of gum shoes from some one else, on Friday. She also spirited away a bottle of cologne from Finley's drug store. She was arrested at the depot by officer Lucas and taken before Esquire Gray, but was released at Miss Stines' request, on promise of better conduct in the future.

"BOSS TWEED".

At last justice has overtaken the greatest thief the country has known. William M. Tweed, the New York City robber and plunderer has been tried, found guilty and sentenced to the heavy term and twelve years in the Penitentiary. After some of the late trials of the greatest of criminals in the New York Courts, it was feared that justice had departed from the metropolis of America. The result, however, in the case of Tweed, causes honest men all over the country to breathe freer, and to have a little hope that crime may yet be punished, though it walks through halls gilt with gold and carpeted with wealth. The entire country rejoices at the justice that has at last overtaken Tweed, and yet the most potent political worker that this nation has ever known. Through his influence ballot boxes were stuffed, the will of the citizens set at naught and the politics of a whole State controlled. By his almost unlimited political influence, he was allowed to go on in his schemes of robbing and plundering the taxpayers of New York City. It would never do for any political aspirant to oppose Tweed, except at the cost of almost certain defeat. But justice long suffering, at last rose in her might and dethroned the thieving, lawless, and yet the most potent political worker that this nation has ever known. THE NILES Democrat says:

Rev. J. F. Conover, of Kalamazoo, officiated with great acceptance at Trinity Church last Sunday.—It is noticeable that those merchants who advertise most liberally are doing the largest business.—A liberal mixture of cards and whisky got several persons into a fight at the Bond House last Tuesday night.—Some unkind young men in this city are discussing the question of raising a volunteer company for the prospective Cuban war. If all of them can get the positions of commissary or quartermaster the movement will be a success.—Some burglars entered the auction store of Moses Davis, on Main street, Friday night of last week, by taking out a pane of glass and removing the bar from the back door. The loss sustained by the house was between $70 and $100.—On Tuesday afternoon the marriage of Mr. Nathaniel Bacon, of Chicago, and Miss Mary Landon, daughter of Hon. R. W. Landon, took place at Trinity Church. The estimable qualities of character which adorn the lives of the groom and bride drew together a large congregation of sincere friends.—Our citizens will certainly regret that Rodney C. Paine tender his resignation of the office of Mayor of this city. For some time past the health of Mr. Paine has been such that to attend to the arduous duties which not infrequently accompany that office was too much, and being a man that never neglected the duties which devolved upon him in any capacity, he felt it his duty to resign the office into other hands. His valuable services as a member of the Council will be much missed by that body as well as by the people generally.

THE BENTON HARBOR Palladium says:

Messrs. Geo. R. Wright & Brother, of the washboard factory, are to fill their first order from Benton Harbor this week. They have received a large order for hangings, and their new building not being ready, they have set up a portion of their machinery in Vail-stake's furniture factory. The work on their building will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and they expect to be running as soon as Christmas at the latest. "Bungtown," as a nickname for this place will be quite appropriate hereafter.

The longest way home from singing school.

The County Press.

THE NILES Republican says: Quite a fatal accident occurred at Corymbo, near New Buffalo, thirty-two miles west of this city, on the Central road last Thursday evening. Two men jumped from the accommodation train bound east, and the day express dashing along west struck them, killing one of them instantly and breaking a leg of the other. One leg and one arm of the man killed were cut off when he struck the express train. Dr. Donice was sent for and amputated the leg of the wounded man. It was at first reported that the men were under the influence of liquor when they jumped from the train, but the wounded man, Chas. Nelson, who was conveyed to this city, says this is not so. He further says that they paid their fare from Michigan City to Corymbo and were certain the train would stop. The man killed was Jacob Lawson. They were from Norway.—The Central Church has been supplied with new and costly gas fixtures.—It is reported that Z. Jarvis, a private banker of Dowagiac, has suspended.—Dr. Donice had a fine buffalo robe stolen from his barn last Friday night. He says he will give $25 for the robe and the arrest of the thief.—Frank Pierce, a brakeman on the Central road, had one of his arms severely crushed, while coupling cars at the west end of the bridge on Friday last, that amputation was necessary.—Some men halted Fred Moore, on Monday night, near the old bridge, and wanted him money, watch, or any other little valuables he might have about him. Fred argued the question with them a few seconds and then put for home and asked his mother to put him in his little bed.—A young woman claiming to be from the sinful city of South Bend, and giving a new name to every person she met, including those of Andrus and Rice, stole a set of furs from Miss Lida Stines, at the Central School Building, and a pair of gum shoes from some one else, on Friday. She also spirited away a bottle of cologne from Finley's drug store. She was arrested at the depot by officer Lucas and taken before Esquire Gray, but was released at Miss Stines' request, on promise of better conduct in the future.

"BOSS TWEED".

At last justice has overtaken the greatest thief the country has known. William M. Tweed, the New York City robber and plunderer has been tried, found guilty and sentenced to the heavy term and twelve years in the Penitentiary. After some of the late trials of the greatest of criminals in the New York Courts, it was feared that justice had departed from the metropolis of America. The result, however, in the case of Tweed, causes honest men all over the country to breathe freer, and to have a little hope that crime may yet be punished, though it walks through halls gilt with gold and carpeted with wealth. The entire country rejoices at the justice that has at last overtaken Tweed, and yet the most potent political worker that this nation has ever known. Through his influence ballot boxes were stuffed, the will of the citizens set at naught and the politics of a whole State controlled. By his almost unlimited political influence, he was allowed to go on in his schemes of robbing and plundering the taxpayers of New York City. It would never do for any political aspirant to oppose Tweed, except at the cost of almost certain defeat. But justice long suffering, at last rose in her might and dethroned the thieving, lawless, and yet the most potent political worker that this nation has ever known.

THE NILES Democrat says:

Rev. J. F. Conover, of Kalamazoo, officiated with great acceptance at Trinity Church last Sunday.—It is noticeable that those merchants who advertise most liberally are doing the largest business.—A liberal mixture of cards and whisky got several persons into a fight at the Bond House last Tuesday night.—Some unkind young men in this city are discussing the question of raising a volunteer company for the prospective Cuban war. If all of them can get the positions of commissary or quartermaster the movement will be a success.—Some burglars entered the auction store of Moses Davis, on Main street, Friday night of last week, by taking out a pane of glass and removing the bar from the back door. The loss sustained by the house was between $70 and $100.—On Tuesday afternoon the marriage of Mr. Nathaniel Bacon, of Chicago, and Miss Mary Landon, daughter of Hon. R. W. Landon, took place at Trinity Church. The estimable qualities of character which adorn the lives of the groom and bride drew together a large congregation of sincere friends.—Our citizens will certainly regret that Rodney C. Paine tender his resignation of the office of Mayor of this city. For some time past the health of Mr. Paine has been such that to attend to the arduous duties which not infrequently accompany that office was too much, and being a man that never neglected the duties which devolved upon him in any capacity, he felt it his duty to resign the office into other hands. His valuable services as a member of the Council will be much missed by that body as well as by the people generally.

THE BENTON HARBOR Palladium says:

Messrs. Geo. R. Wright & Brother, of the washboard factory, are to fill their first order from Benton Harbor this week. They have received a large order for hangings, and their new building not being ready, they have set up a portion of their machinery in Vail-stake's furniture factory. The work on their building will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and they expect to be running as soon as Christmas at the latest. "Bungtown," as a nickname for this place will be quite appropriate hereafter.

THE ST. JOSEPH Herald says:

Hon. Daniel S. Briggs, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, visited our schools on Thursday afternoon. We learn that a party is being organized in Royalton for a grand hunt, which will come off in a few days.—The three young ladies who were trying to smoke one cigar, on Church street, near the German church on Wednesday evening, need not have run so when they saw that young man coming toward them. He did not wish their cigar, he only wanted to see how young ladies look with a cigar in their mouth, puffing like a Chicago rough.

THE REST OF FAITH.

BY ANSON D. F. RANDOLPH.

Why vex my heart on what I need not know, Or search for that I may not hope to find, While restless thoughts still urge me to and fro, What I can do, and what I cannot find.

While mysteries compass all my outer life, Still greater mysteries do I find within; The good and evil in tumultuous strife, And I'm not wiser than the child within.

God's Visits. God is said to visit men both for purposes of judgment and mercy. He visits the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of them that hate him.

Heaven and Joy. O, what a blessing the light of the natural sun is! Its beams fall upon us, and make us and everything around us cheerful.

The Presence of God. We are never alone. The Christian's life should never, can never, be a solitary one. A life of service must be a life of love.

God knows what keys in the human soul to touch in order to draw out its sweetest and most perfect harmonies. They may be minor, strains of sadness and sorrow; they may be the loftier notes of joy and gladness.

Desertion Notice. Whereas, my wife Caroline has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, the public are hereby notified that I have no further concern with her.

"Phungrams." An henpecked husband determined to sup with a party of friends against the will of his wife.

Somebody, evidently down South, says "people who imagine there is no cotton raised at the North are mistaken."

An Essex street man bought a pig Saturday, says the Danbury News. "What do you feed your pig?"

BENJAMIN MEMORY. A simple Highland girl called upon a master with whom she had formerly served.

A female lecturer in Boston said: "Get married, young men, and be quick about it."

An Iowa preacher said in his sermon the other Sunday: "Religion in the heart, my friends, is like four aces in the deck."

We cannot be too careful how we play with the English language. One day lately a married lady of this city, while admiring the falls from Warburton avenue bridge, remarked, "Isn't that dam nice?"

An uneasy boy whose mother tried to quiet him, on a Boston and Maine train, the other day, by telling him the conductor sometimes swallowed naughty boys, astonished her a moment after, as the portly conductor appeared at the door, by creeping behind her and exclaiming, in a whisper, "Ma, I guess he has swallowed one already."

As they sat in the light of the cold, pale moon, he said to her "love, I am mine," when she said to him, "look at your turnip, old con, I've promised to be in at just nine."

A woman appeared at the shop where her husband is employed, and apologetically said: "Jim is not well. You must excuse him from coming to work to-day. He and I had a little difficulty at the breakfast table this morning, and he won't be able to work this week."

A bunch of shingles fell from a wagon to a ferry boat and struck squarely on the head of a colored woman who exclaimed: "Y' gutterber 'b' shamed to muss a cullud w'm'n's har dat way. I wish dey had fell oberboard."

A lady reporter, sent to an agricultural fair, wrote of a lot of pigs, "They look too sweet to live a minute."

A girl presenting herself for a situation at a house "where no Irish need apply," in answer to the question where she came from said: "Share, an' couldn't y' pervase be me accint that it's Irish I am?"

A country editor waxing eloquent in the description of a new organ, says: "The swell died away in delicious suffocation, like one singing a sweet song under the bed-clothes."

A man, after walking six times with one lady at a ball, was asked if he was fond of dancing. "O, no," replied the youth, "I don't care for it, but my doctor advised me to-day to take a sweat, and this is cheaper than a Turkish bath."

"Shoot folly as it flies—Pop," was set up by a stupid composer: "Shoot folly as she flies—Pop!"

"Isaac," said Mrs. Partington, after she came from a Baptist church, "there is to be dreadful designs this afternoon! The minister gave out that he should dip four adults and ten adultresses."

When a Kansas lawyer quotes Lincoln to the jury he is fined by the Judge "for profanity and contempt."

A romping four-year old boy had been denied some gratification by his mother, but it did not seem so trifling to him as to her. So, striking an attitude before her, he said, with the utmost gravity, "Mother, were you ever a boy?"

"One of the most tantalizing things in a small way," says the editor of the Waller Herald, "is that of being bitten by an undiscoverable flea."
