OTATE OF MICHIGAN. County of Perrien, as.—By N virtue of a writ of Fibri Fucius issued ont of and under the seal of the Circuit Court for the County of Berrien and State of Michigan, to me directed against the goods and chattels, lands and tenements, of Charles Clark and L. P. Alexander, co partners, I did, on the 27th day of November, A. D. 1873, levy upon the fellowing described real estate, lying and being in the County of Berrien and State of Michigan, to-witz. The east eight (8) rods of block A in A. M. A stout steel bracelet about my leg,
A cannon shot and chain at my feet,
I pounded the stones in the public street
With a heart crammed full of hate as an egg

The school boys jeered at my prison rig,
And me, if I moved they used to call (For I went with a jerk if I went at all) "A gentleman dancing the jail-bird jig At a country ball !"

But once, as I sat in the usual place On a heap of stones, and hammering away At the rocks with a heart as hard as they, And cursed Maoadam and all his race, There chanced that way,

Sir, the lovellest girl ! I don't mean pretty,
But there was that in her troubled eye,
In her sweet, sad glance, as she passed me by,
That seemed like an angel's gentle pity

For such as I. And, sir, to my soul that pure look gave Such a thrill as a summer morning bright, With twitter and flutter of songs and wings, To one crouched all night long in a days

JOHN DRARMOND, Mortgage. From the first insight he got into her home life he knew she was not happy. Her father was dead, and her stepmother was a fretful, indolent woman, who shifted the care of the four headstrong, unruly children upon her stepdaughter's shoulders.

After his first call at Margaret's home young Dr. Leigh came often, and Margaret learned to look for his coming with pleasure which she could not conceal. Her life was so parrow, so hedged in by cares and perplexities. and so destitute of the things which she most coveted, that Dr. Leigh's visits were the pleasantest hours she knew, and she looked forward to them with a sense of rest and relief.

When he asked her to be his wife she did not hesitate long in giving him her answer. Her present life was so barren of beauty and brightness that any other seemed welcome in comparison with it. And then she loved Dr. Leigh. If she had not, she would never have consented to become his wife. She had too strict ideas of truth and honor to become the unloving wife of any man. "Lucia is coming home to-morrow,"

On the morrow Lucia came. A tall, graceful girl with a handsome face, and easy, stylish manner. She was was fully conscious of it. A girl eviing her own way; selfish and exacting, and yet pleasant enough to outward appearances when it pleased her

That evening Dr. Leigh called. Lucia was in the parlor playing when he came in. She had on a dress of some airy fabric which became her well, of a soft, neutral tint. Her hair had a cluster of pink roses in it, and a cluster of buds fastened the lace at her throat. There was a sort of careless grace about her and her toilet which Dr. Leigh thought very charming as Margaret introduced them. ed to hear the pretty things he was saying, and let him hold her hand, as lovers like to do.

For they were lovers Dr. Leight had come to Danforth six months before, and almost the first young woman to make the first get up these little tricks of the tollet. Life was too busy with the first young woman to make the first get up these little tricks of the tollet. Life was too busy with the first young woman to make the first get up these little tricks of the tollet. plains it, I suppose," said Lucia. "Still I can't quite understand it. Now I'm not at all egotistical, but really think I am better suited to Dr. Leigh's tastes than you are, for Dr. Leigh has seen something of the world and so have I; and we are better fitted by education for each other's society than you and he are. You should have some quiet, odd person like your. self."

"Perhaps you would like to have me give up Dr. Leigh to you, since he is so well suited for you," Margaret said, with flushed cheeks. "Don't take the trouble to get angry," Lucia said, coolly. "If I wanted him perhaps I should not ask you to give him up." And so the summer days went by, and Margaret knew, by the by, that Lucia was doing her best to get her lover away from her. And Dr. Leigh did not seem to be opposed to it. He still had pleasant, lover words for Margaret when they chanced to be alone, but somehow she fancied that his heart was not in them. She thought the band began to fret and chafe him, but he made no sign by which she could be sure of it.

One day her step-mother said to her, "For Lucia's sake, I must ask you to do one of two things: if you are still resolved to marry Dr. Leigh, knowing the circumstances, I must insist upon its being done at once. If you do not intend to marry him-and I should hardly suppose you would, as the case stands give him back his free dom and let him do as he pleases. You must have seen before this, that Lucia really likes him, and it is evident that he has a strong regard for her. As the matter stands now, you are between them and happiness. If to act according to his own inclinations, that she may not waste her affections Dr. Leigh laughed softly as he put on a man who cannot reciprocate them as he evidently would do, were he free to do so. At heart, I think Dr. Leigh And then he went away and left her | fully returns the regard Lucia has for him, but he cannot say so, because he Lucia's sake. This suspense and > certainty is too much for her." Mrs. Vane had hinted of this before. but Margaret had tried to believe that Dr. Leigh still loved her; that Lucia's brilliance dazzled him, and that, by and by, he would grow tired of the flash and sparkle of her superficialties, > and come back to his old allegiance. But now it was put before her in a manner so plain that she could not hesitate to look the matter squarely in the face.

For Lucia's sake! Always that plea. It was only one more sacrifice, and what did it matter if it was the greatest she could make? She had found his love so sweet—so restful; and now she must give it up for another's sake. Give up the sweet dreams and tender hopes which had made her life bright and beautiful for a little while. It was hard to do so, but perhaps it was her duty to. She did not want him to keep his promise to her if he loved another. That night he came. She was alone in the parlor when he came in. "I want to talk with you," said. "I want to know if you want your freedom back again. Yes, or no?' "Are you getting tired of your fetters," he said lightly, yet with a swift excitement perceptible under the lightness of his words.

"Please answer my question," said, very pale but calm. "I do not want to keep you if you want to go. "Perhaps you have grown tired of the engagement, and want me to assume the responsibility of breaking it? Is that it?" he asked, with a little flash of anger at the unfaithfulness her words implied, though she had not intended to put such a meaning in

"I ask you a simple question," she answered at I do not wish to keep you to any promises you have made, if, since making them, you have seen that you were mistaken in yourself. Here is your ring, if you want it back again, and Pgive you your freedom with it if you choose to take it."

"Since you wish it, I will take it, he said, with a curious mixture of anger and self disgust. He knew that he had proved recreant, and yet he wanted to throw the blame: upon her. He hated to have her accuse him of unfaithfulness, and he knew that he had been guilty of it. "But, remember, I did not ask for it," he said. "This is your doing, Margaret."

She had had a faint hope all along reserved, she was brilliant, and witty | that when it came to the final choice, he would not take the ring, but would "Do come again," she said, when come back to her. Now that hope Dr. Leigh rose to go. "Come often, was gone, and she turned away and please. I expect to be dull, here, this left the room with something of that is such a humdrum neighborhood. THE CHEERFUL HEART. The world is ever as we take it, Thus spoke a grandam bent with care, To little Mabel, flushed and fair. But Mabel took no heed that day Of what she heard her grandam say. Years after, when no more a child, Her path in life seemed dark and wild. Back to her heart the memory came Of the quaint utterance of the dame: "The world, dear child, is as we take it, And life, be sure, is what we make it." She cleared her brow, and smiling thought

"And half my woes thus quickly cured, The other half may be endured." No more her heart its shadow wore: She grew a little child once more. A little child in love and trust, She took the world (as we, too, must) In happy mood; and, lot it grew Brighter and brighter to her view.

She made of life (as we, too, should) A joy; and lo ! all things were good And fair to her, as in God's sight, When first he said, "Let there be light."

Exposition of the Grangers' Initiatory

Ceremony. It seems that the secrets and mysteries of the initiatory ceremony of the Grangers has at last been exposed. as the following clearly demonstrates: On being brought to the ante room of the lodge (Greengrooer Temple No. 101), I was told that I had been balloted for and accepted. My informant, who was securely masked by what I afterwards learned was a large burdock leaf, perforated with holes for the eyes, told me that if I valued my life it would be necessary for me to strip. As I did consider that of considerable worth to me, and as he italicised his wishes by carelessly playing with a seven shooter, I withdrew from my garments with eagerness. My masked friend then furnished me with the regalia of the first degree-called the 'Festive Plowboy' -which consisted merely of one large cabbage leaf attached to a waistband of potato vines. In this airy costume I was conducted to the door, where my companion gave three distinct raps. (I was securely blinded by binding a slice of rutabaga over each

My guide answered: "A youthful agriculturalist who desires to become a Granger."

tural marks about his person?' Guide-"I do." S. V.—"What are they?" Guide-"The candidate has carroty hair, reddish whiskers and a turnup nose. S. V.—'Tis well. Why do you desire to become a Granger?" Guide—(answering for candidate)— "That I may be thereby better enabled to harrow up the feelings of the rascally politicians."

S. V.—"You will bring in the candidate. My worthy stripling, as you cannot see, I will cause you to feel that you are received at the door on the three points of a pitchfork, piercing the region of the stomach, which is to teach you the three great virtues -Faith, Hope and Charity. Faith in yourself, Hope for cheaper machinory, and Charity for the lightning rod peddler. You will now be harnessed, and in representation of the horse, Pegasus, will be tested as to endurance and wind." (The candidate is here attached to a small imitation plow, by means of a hempen harness. A dried pumpkin vine is put in his mouth for a bit and bridle—he is made to get down upon all fours, the guide seizes the bridle and urged on by a Granger armed with a canada thistle, which he vigorously applies at the terminus of the spine, the candidate is galloped three times around the room. While making the circuit, the members arise and

The candidate is now conducted to the Most Eminent Squash Producer, who thus says: "My worthy brother, I will now invest you with the order of the Festive Ploughboy, which you have well won by your heroic achievements while harnessed. May you ever wear it with pleasure to yourself and may it be a means of terror to your enemies."

(The M. E. S. P. then proceeds to invest the candidate with the regalia of the Festive Ploughboy, which consists of a long Tomato necklace). "The Grand Hailing Sign of Distress is made by gently closing the left eye, laying the right fore-finger alongside the nose, and violently wagging the ears. It requires practice, but the. advantages are immense. It also has an important signification, which you will do well to heed. The closing of the eye signifies that in all your dealings with mankind you are bound to have an eye to business. Laying the finger alongside the nose is emblematical of wisdom, and places you at once among the "knowing ones." This is extremely handy in prognosticating new weather, and saves the wear and tear of almanacs. Wagging the ears signifies sublimity of purpose, and is thought to be emblematical of "childhood's happy hours." It is also supposed by some profound scholars to have a distinct reference to appledumplings, but this fact is somewhat obscured by the dust of ages. In token that you are one of us, you will now be branded. This ceremony is very impressive, and consists of two brands. They are both applied 'while the iron is hot,' and consists of one letter of the alphabet each. The first is the large letter S, on which you will please sit while the other letter is applied to the stomach. The letter S. my worthy chicken, signifies scooped, and refers to railroad monopolies. It is also supposed to indicate the Seat of learning—the spot where the old-time teacher hunted for brains with the ferule. The second letter is C, and is applied, as I said before, to the stomach. It has a double meaning. First the application is an agricultural one-'Corn Crib'-and has reference to the stomach as being the great receptacle for Bourbon Whisky. But, brothers, do not be diligent in finding a home market for your corn. The second application of the letter C, my distracted infant, is got hold of as follows: When one Granger desires to ascertain 'for sure' if there be another of the order in the room, he raises himself gently by the slack of his unmentionables, scratches his off thigh with his near hoof, and remarks in a voice of thunder, 'Are there any Grangers about?' The answer is 'Jeesewax!' The inquirer then says, 'Let us see' (letter C) and the other party must immediately pull out his stomach and disclose the brand. These brands are applied in such a manner that I am enabled to assure you that they will wash." I was here interrupted, Mr. Editor, by a volley fired into the open window, evidently intended for me. Fortunately I escaped without a scratch, and, which is of more consequence, succeeded in fetching off my precious manuscript. This is about all there is in the ceremony of any importance. I must leave the country at oncearmed men are at my heels—they know I am writing this to expose them. You may hear from me again by mail, if I should deem it best to expose the other degrees. Until then-adieu.

From your scared friend, B. Pole. Notice.—The ceremony of initiation is used during the absence of the lady members. Their initiatory.ceremonies are entirely different, being much simplified, as it should be.

How to treat Fainting People. There are some observations in th Lancet which might be studied with advantage by police constables. Referring to a case which lately occurred in New York, in which death speedily followed the extraction of teeth after an ineffectual endeavor to administer nitrous oxide gas, the Lancet maintains that had the patient, who had tainted from terror, been laid flat on the floor instead of being kept in an upright position, she would probably have recovered in a few minutes; and it then points out the danger of treating syncope by the erect posture, instancing the case of a poor woman who lately fainted on an English racecourse, and, having been placed by a policeman in a sitting posture, was only saved from death by the accident of a doctor happening to pass by at the moment and laying her down until she recovered.

and patrons. This afternoon I had the pleasure of witnessing the manner of procedure. I was told they would be out, and was on the watch. Presently I saw forty or fifty of them com-of the largest saloons in the city, there are some dozen or more in all, large and small, and in they went, a few men who were near the door following them in. I was not so fortunate as to get inside, for by the time I reached the door the proprietor had locked it, fearing so many would crowd in that the floor would give way, which happened in one of the saloons this week.

A part of the ladies took the chairs around the billiard tables, while others remained standing. They first sang a familiar hymn and then the leading ones commenced soliciting the inmates to join the pledge, while one of them conversed with the keeper of the saloon, endeavoring, I suppose, to persuade him to quit the business. They sang again presently, and then one of the ladies offered prayer, then they sang again, then another prayer, and so on for nearly an hour. Those who were in the saloon drinking and playing could not get out, the door being locked, and had to "stand the fire." I am told that many who have been caught in that way have signed the pledge and promised to reform, though

So, singing and praying, they remained for half an hour, and

The women seem to be in earnest.

THE CENTENNYAL.

The bill presented to Congress to obtain an appropriation from the National Treasury to help defray the expenses of the celebration to be held at Philadelphia in 1876, on the occasion of the one hundredth birth day of our nation, and to make the affair, in one sense, international by inviting the crowned heads and aristocracy of other nationalities to participate in the celebration, and to be entertained at the expense of the government, received a death blow in the Senate on Friday of last week. It does seem that some of our legislators exercise less judgment and caution in regard to subjects requiring the appropriation of the people's money than in reference to any other matter that comes before them for consideration. The people have noticed the attempts being made to appropriate, for an illegal purpose, twenty to thirty millions of money belonging to the govern-ment, every dollar of which is needed to discharge obligations already assumed, with mingled feeling of contempt and fear, knowing the injustice attempted to be perpetrated and the little restriction under which our public servants are often prone to act when legislating on subjects of this character.

The events which will cali the people together on the 4th of July, 1876, are precisely the same in their nature as those we commemorate every year since it was declared that we were a distinct and independent nation.

It is proposed by the citizens of Philadelphia to make the Centennial Celebration in that city a grand affair, and have in connection with it sufficient to induce people from every State and county throughout the entire length and breadth of this Republic to come together and help to make a successful and pleasant domestic celebration of an event purely national in its character. No one for a moment will oppose the proper celebration of the 4th of July, but many do object to having money taken from the treasury of the nation to aid in an enterprise of this kind.

MINOR TOPICS.

Millard Fillmore, ex-President of the United States, died at his residence in Buffalo, N. Y., March 8th, aged 74 years. Mr. Fillmore was elected Vice President in 1848, and on the death of Gen. Taylor became President. He held many different places of trust and honor during his most violent snow storm occurred in the West on March 9th, completely blockading the Central Pacific Railroad. A passenger train was snow bound near Fort Dodge, and great section. It is already apparent that suffering ensued from exposure before the passengers could escape. All the freight trains were abandoned.

The press in Germany is advocating the practicability of a law to compel every man entitled to vote to attend each election and vote unless disabled by sickness. One of the resolutions of the Michigan Patent Convention, adopted on Wednesday of last week, declares that "Patents ought to be granted for seventeen years; and under no circumstances should they be extended beyond the time for which they were originally granted." Some of the most fearful and oppressive monopolies of the country have been created and perpetuated by our present system of granting an extension of patents, giving the exclusive benefit of certain inventions to individuals. This subject | ther in the Supreme Court. Senator should receive the attention of Congress. The above resolution will receive the sanction of the Grangers, and should be in the platforms of all political bodies.

The attention of Congress is called to the fact that Missouri is putting herself on a war footing. The peace of the neighboring States and of the general government is in great jeopardy. The report of the Adjutant General of that State shows that her warlike property consists of fifty-eight Enfield rifles, thirty-two Austrian muskets, fifty-eight United States muskets, two carriages and caisons, twenty six pound guns, two Woodruff howitzers, three thousand cartridge boxes, sixty-one cavalry belts, thirty two cavalry sabre knots, two heavy cavalry sabres and one horse pistol.

Lee County, Towa, has decided that "Algebery" is a useless thing, and has abolished it from the schools.

The praying women of Ohio have closed up over 350 saloons in that State leaving many villages without a drinking place in it.

Our Legislature acted wisely in voting down the "annual session" proposition in the House, on Wednesday of last week. The people of this State expressed their views on this subject in 1868 by a very decided vote of 100,314 against 24,482.

The resolution of the Committee on Elections has been adopted by the House of Representatives, unseating Alexander M. Davis, Democrat, and giving the seat to the contestant, Mr. Thomas. The House now stands, Republicans, 198; Democrats, 89: Liberals, 3; vacancies, 2—one in Louisiana and one in Arkansas.

A curious verdict was given a man in Chicago, recently, for $277, in a suit to recover $1,180 stolen from him while asleep in a Pulman sleeping car. By consent of both parties the case goes to the Supreme Court. It looks as if the party is not entitled to anything he should have got nothing, and if he is entled to anything he should have got the full amount. The Railway Co. claim they are not common carriers, and if they are they are not responsible to passengers beyond a reasonable sum ordinarily carried by travelers.

Work of the Legislature.

LANSING, March 7, 1874. EDITORS RECORD :- Presuming that matters hereaways may be of interest to the readers of the RECORD, especially during the extra session of the Legislature, I will send you occasionally a synopsis of such matters as I may consider of any importance or interest to them.

Lansing just now does not present a very inviting appearance, in fact it is in the midst of its annual deluge of mud. Mud in the streets, mud on the sidewalks, mud everywhere, and if the definition given at the "Theater Comique" be correct, that "dust is only Lansing mud with the juice squeezed out," it is evident that a bountiful supply could be obtained, provided some ingenius Yankee would only invent the squeezing process.

On Monday the members of both Houses began to arrive, and by noon of Tuesday, (the time fixed in the proclamation of the Governor for convening them in extra session) very nearly all of them were on hand ready for work. On Tuesday afternoon the Governor delivered to the two Houses in joint convention, his special message. It is a plain, common sense document, in harmony with the sentiment of the State, I believe. After the Reports from Sioux City. San delivery of the message both Houses proceeded directly to the work before them. After considerable discussion it was decided to take up the proposed amendments and act on them as in committee of the whole, section by upon the question of salaries the recommendation of the Commission will not be adopted, but the amount will be fixed in the constitution, the only question being as to the amount, upon which there is quite a difference of opinion. The sentiment against appointing the Judicial officers and in favor of electing them is, as far as I can judge, almost universal. The clause allowing the Regents of the University and members of the Board of Education the right to seats in the Legislature has been stricken out by both houses. The lower House refused yesterday, by a decided vote, to strike out the present prohibitory clause, but did strike out the word "male" in sections 2 and 3, article 6 relative to the elective franchise. This, however, was in committee of the whole. I scarcely think it will carry on the question of submission, as that requires a twothirds vote in each House. The article on the Legislative department under consideration in the Senate vesterday drew out a heated discussion on a motion made by Senator King to strike out the third subdivision of section 22. King and others contending that this clause in connection with the latter clause of section 5 article 6, was designed to rob the people, through their Legislature, of right to make such rules and regulations in reference to the pleading and practice in courts and to centralize the power still fur-King made one of the best speeches of the session in support of his motion. Strange as it may appear there is quite a strong opposition to the whole of this section 22, containing 19 subdivisions, limiting the power of the Legislature as to local or special legislation, and while there is no doubt but a majority of both Houses regard this as the saving clause of the whole constitution, it begins to look as though the proposition would not receive the requisite two-thirds, at least in the Senate. Some doubts are beginning to arise as to the right or power of the Legislature to submit any of the amendments proposed, it being regarded as virtually a new constitution, or

A Novel Cure for Rhoumatism-

An Englishman with rheumatic gout found this singular remedy a cure for his ailment: He insulated his bedstead from the floor, by placing underneath each post a broken off bottom of a glass bottle. He says the effect was magical, that he had not been free from rheumatic gout for fifteen years and that he began to improve immediately after the application of the insulators. We are reminded by this statement, says the Scientific American, of a patent obtained through this office for a physician some twelve or more years ago, which created considerable interest at the time. The patent consisted in placing glass cups under the bedposts son, since which he has been residing in a similar manner to the above, and the patentee claimed to have effected some remarkable cures by

Established less than two years since as a representative Republican paper, pledged to maintain and defend the principles and organization of the great National Republican porty, the Inter Ocean has attained a circulation and influence with the masses of its voters everywhere to entitle it to approach the commencement of a new calendar year, and to propare for the preliminary work of the next campaign, the shadow of which is already casting itself upon the country, in the confident belief that its friends will need no other specific pledge for the future than has been given in its columns from day to day during the past eighteen months. Since its first publication it has maintained the position of are vigilantly at work. Despite the overwheiming rebuke administered to them in 1872, the opposition are skillfully massing their forces for a more determined onslought upon the Republican organization at the next State and National elections. Encouraged by the apathy of Republicans in the "off year," seizing the unprecedented financial stringency as a pretext, and using as a hoodwink the deep feeling among the agricultural classes for better and cheaper modes of transportation than now exist, under as many names as there are haugry Demagogue eager for office, is getting itself into readiness to becom once more the Ruling Party of the nation.

THE DEMOCRACY,

IN THE SOUTH

the old Democracy of Secession and Rebellion is being warmed into life by the apparent reverses Republicanism has suffered in the North. The election of Allen in Ohio, the triumph of Tammany in New York, and the few desultory successes which have come to Anti-Republican tickets in various States of the Wost and Northwest, have inspired the Rebels of 1891 with the hope that the day is dawning when the Lost Cause is to be voted into a victory they lailed to achieve by means of the bullet and bayonet. Already R. M. T. Hunter, a former Senator from Virginia, and a member of the Cabinet of Jeff. Davis, kas published his scheme for the virtual payment of Four Hundred Millions of Dollars for the Emancipated Slaves of the South.

The Richmond (Va.) Whig and Governor Gilbert Walker are urging this plan with all pertinacity; and there can be little doubt that a large party of Southern Representatives in the Forty-third Congress will be prepared to advocate the payment of this money by the General Government. The past history of the Democratic party gives no warrant that it will oppose this infamous robbery of the people of the North for the benefit of traitors; but if the party is true to itself and its instincts the South will find it and its representatives a subservient South will find it and its representatives is another scheme that is broadly hinted at in many parts of the South, and is, without doubt, one of the projects to which the leading Democrats of that section would address themselves if the time should ever come when a majority of the Northern States and the General Government should be in the hands of the party which helped the rebels in their work of destroying the Union.

THE PAYMENT OF THE REBEL DEBT

These are not fanciful issues. They are real dangers, either to be met face to face, or else to be equelched in their morepition by the continued success of that organization which crushed the rebellion, gave freedom to the slaves, and destroyed the slave-holding Confederacy.

THE FARMERS

know that the INTER-OCKAN was their carliest, as it has been their staunchest and warmost, friend. It is emphatically the organ of the people in the best sense of that term, believing in the fullest protection of the rights of the many against the encroachments of the few. It believes that all chartered corporations should be held to be subservient to the power that created them, and without an infringement of the just rights of others it insists, and will continue to insist, that all corporations enjoying special privileges voted to them by the people shall serve the people fairly and justly, at a compensation allowing a reasonable profit upon the actual capital employed.

THE FAMILY.

The INTER-OCEAN makes special efforts to render itself acceptable to the families of its patrons. To this end everything is rigorously excluded that could possibly offend. The religious and moral character is guarded with especial care, and its aim is "to encourage the true, the beautiful, and the good."

LECTURE. -The lecture at the M E. Church, on Wednesday evening of last week, by Rev. R. C. Crawford, on "Prison Life," was everything that might be expected from a man who has had so many years' experience as Chaplain of our State Prison, and it gave universal satisfaction. The subject is one in which we all should feel a deep interest. Many of the reforms recommended by Mr. Crawily Bell Ringers at Collins & Weaver's Hall, on this (Thursday) evening, March 12. It is now nearly thirteen vears since this old time honored troupe visited us, but a reputation like that of the "Senior" Company is not soon forgotten, and doubtless many of our readers remember their last visit. The company consists of Mr. Wm. Peak, Sr., (father of W. H Pcak. of Niles) Mrs. Wm. Peak, Miss Fannie Peak, ton, Master Bernard, and Mr. W. K. Lavake and Mr. Ed S Peak, both formerly connected with the "Jumor," or "Niles party." They will on this occasion present an entirely new and original programme, which will probably, in point of excellence, excel anything ever offered in our village. We call on our civizeus to show their appreciation of this truly first class troupe by giving them the support and patronage their talent so well deserves. THE CHARTER ELECTION passed off on Tuesday with rather more than the ordinary interest. This was owing to the united opposition of the saloon interests, together with that of some others, against the re-election of Marshal Fancher. In order to defeat him this saloon interest got a ticket headed "People's Ticket." On this ticket was placed three of the candidates nominated at the Village Cancus on Saturday evening, viz: Charles S. Black, Hiram N. Mowrey, and Ezra M. Griffin, Against Capt. Binns for Trustee they placed Dr. Roe, against Marshal Fancher they put Sanford Smith, against O. W. Rose for Treasurer they put Wm. Pears, and against L. P. Alexander for Assessor they placed N. B. Collins. Several of these persons and their friends, as well as the solid phalanx of the entire saloon interests, worked with a hearty good will. Does Frank Muzzy intend to run for Mayor again? is a question we are asked almost every day. Not knowing, we are unable to say .- Mr. E. Coffinger, of this City, has again received the contract for carrying the mails between this city and St. Joseph, and at a better figure, we are glad to say, than he heretofore received.— Mr. John Barber, of Beardsley's Prairie, Treasurer of Milton township, Cass county, dressed and sold a hog on the 24th of February, that weighed, nett, 750 pounds, receiving $7 per hundred, or the trifling sum of $52.50 for his hogship! Also one that weighed, dressed, 568 pounds, at the same figures, amounting to $39.76, or $92.26 for the two. Mr. Barber says if these will not fill the bill he has one in the pen test will. One year ago he sold two hogs that dressed 600 pounds each, and three years ago one weighed 600 pounds alive. And seven years ago, he sold one that weighed 912 pounds on foot, and netted 804 pounds. This will do.—The Methodist revival at Pokagon is daily increasing in interest, over fifty converts have been made, among whom are some of the most hardened sinners there. Church is held in the morning, afternoon and evening on week days, and early attendance is frequently necessary to obtain even "standing room.". There is talk of erecting a tabernacle large enough to accommodate a multitude, to meet the exigency of the occasion. Truly the spirit of God is moving.

He was in the stable currying his father's horses, when one of them kicked him in the mouth, knocking out five of his teeth, and badly injuring the jaw bone.

THE BENTON HARBOR Palladium says: Revival meetings continue in the Baptist Church and the expected that quite a number will be baptised on Sunday evening.—We accepted an invitation from the Grangers, last Saturday, to partake of their Harvest Feast in their hall. A large company were gathered, and all enjoyed themselves much. The affair was very pleasant, and was enjeyed to the full by every one present.

THE ST. JOSEPH Traveler says: This week has been signalized by a better and more confident feeling among our merchants and fruit growers than is generally the case at this time of the year. The open and mild winter through which we have just passed has rendered the prospects for a rich harvest this season beyond a question. Fruit of all discription promises an abundance and we may put 1874 down as one of the most prosperous. Mr. L. R. Brown, Esq., of South Haven, has purchased the mill property of the estate of the late Mimard N. Dunham of Stevensville, and has just put in machinery for cutting staves. Thursday was a gala day with our fishermen. The re-inauguration of the fishing season. During the day eleven boats went out to the grounds and set their nets for the finny tribe. With this day we may consider this most important branch of St. Joseph's industry as fairly opened. There are seventeen firms engaged in this branch of business, giving employment to at least one hundred men, and producing during the entire season, on an average, a revenue to the town of not less than from $800 to $1,000 per day. Thesefish are dressed, carefully packed in pulverized ice in suitable sized boxes and shipped to Chicago where they are sold at from eight to twelve cents per pound: Years ago most of the fish taken here were salted and packed in kids and half barrels, but of late ordered Liver and Catarrh and general hardly enough is put up in this way weakness for a good many years, and was to supply the home market. We wish them a successful season.

FROM LAKETON. March 3d, 1874. MESSRS. EDITORS:-Your correspondent at Laketon in his communication of Feb. 23d has taken the opportunity to slur Supervisor Landon in his assessment of school tax that is one of the unfortunate cases not provided for in the statute. Those bonds covered all the territory in the District before it was cut off, and no act of the school inspectors could release the obligation, though it may appear unjust. Corporate Bonds cover all territory bonded." Landon did not act on his own-interpretation of the law, but by the counsel of Mr. Muzzy and other counsel. The fault is in the law, and innocent persons should not be censured. Suppose one tier of sections on the east of Lake was attached to Oronoko township, would that release them on their R. R. bonds? Not at all, and that is a parallel case.—The Grangers now occupy the Odd Felows's Hall, at Charlotteville and meet Wednesday afternoons.—C. M. and still falling. Yours, GALIEN, Feb. 26, '74. EDITORS RECORD :- I see through the columns of your paper items from different parts of the country, and my eyes for a moment rest upon an article entitled "Bad Spirits." Now I think these bad spirits trouble men in various ways, even some who profess to be Christians, or those who class themselves with God's people, those who put their religion on for a Sunday shield and when the day is passed lay it aside until another Sabbath. I do not believe in such religion, it reminds me of the Scribes and Pharisees. Hypocrites for a pretense make long prayers. Oh! you man, God requires no such religion as that. He wants that religion that happifies the soul, that then it will drive that bad spirit from you. Then you will not want to quarrel with your neighbors, as you do. Some call you crazy, while others think you have got as many devils as Mary Magdalen. Now, as near as I can find out, you were out of your place when you went to your neighbors to quarrel about things that did not concern you at all. If you had been attending to your own business and had not been meddling, the door would not have been opened and you ordered to walk out. You had better have been on your knees imploring the Father in Heaven to cleanse you from

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC. The manager is desirons that every ticket-holder in the Fourth Concert which comes off in Public Library Hall, on the 31st of March, shall be perfectly satisfied with the distribution of Gifts which is to take place at that time. The distribution of $1,500,000 is an affair of such importance that although the interests of the alt sent ticket-holders will be faithfully cared for by the management, yet they would be glad for all to see and know, each one for himself, that everything is done which the most scrupulously exacting could ask, to make the distribution absolutely fair and impartial. All arrangements for the drawing on the part of the management are complete, and the ticket holders are invited to send delegates to a meeting to be held in the Public Library Building, on the 20th of March, to select a committee to co-operate with the committee appointed by the trustees to count and examine the tags, and see that every ticket is fairly represented in the drawing. The time is short, and whatever is to be done must be done promptly. Your co-operation in this matter is earnestly invited. Yours, THOS. E. BRAMLETTE,

Agent and Manager, Pub. Lib. Ky. It is quite generally the custom to take strong liver stimulants for the cure of liver complaint, and both the mineral and vegetable kingdoms have been diligently searched to procure the most drastic and poisonous purgatives, in order to produce powerful effect on the liver, and arouse he lagging and enfeebled organ. This ystem of treatment is on the same principle as that of giving a weak and debili-tated man large portions of brandy to enable him to do a certain amount of work. When the atimulant is withheld, the organ like the system, gradually relapses into a more torpid or sluggish and weakened condition than before. What then is wanted? Medicines, that, while they cause the bile to flow freely from the liver, as that organ is toned into action, will not overwork and thus debilitate it, but will, when their use is discontinued, leave the liver strengthened and healthy.

Blackwood's Magazine, which is high authority in such matters, says of Sir Edwin Landseer's paintings: "Landseer's dogs are immortal pictures. They are life -perfect reality-not a muscle that does not speak; and the brilliancy, color and execution are altogether charming. One of his paintings which will always talk to you, in the dog and sheep language at least, is 'The Twins.' - We have received a copy of a fine chromo after this painting, about two by two and a half feet in size. It is furnished to subscribers to The Christian at Work, T. De Witt Talmage's paper. Those who wish to learn further respecting it may write for terms and specimen copies, which are mailed free upon application. Office, 102 Chambers street, N. Y. See there advertisement."

ABOUT BITTERS .- At certain periods of life a tonic is a necessity; but there is danger in using stimulants that injure the organs of digestion while giving temporary relief. To obviate this, and present to the public a tonic free from ALCOHOLIC POISON, Dr. Greene prepared the Oxy-GENATED BITTERS, a sure cure for DYS-PEPSIA and all kindred complaints. Sold everywhere. John F. HENRY, CURRAN & Co., Proprietors, S and 9 College Place, New York. Centaur Liniment.

There is no pain which the Centau Liniment will not relieve, no swelling It will not subdue, and no lamenes which it will not cure. This is strong languago, but it is true. RADICAL AND RIGHT.

The consolidation, at the beginning of this year, of the Chicago Evening Post and the Chicago Evening Mail, affords an auspicious occasion for congratulating the patrons of both upon the prespects of the future.

The union of the two is expected to combine the good qualities for which each has been distinguished, and secures for the Chicago Post and Mail such a combination of editorial talent, capital and business ability as cannot fail to rapidly increase both its circulation and influence. Already the Post and Mail is conceded to have a larger city circulation than any other Western evening paper, while the country circulation of both Daily and Weekly will be rapidly extended, till they are commensurate with ecknowledged merit. It aims, first of all, to give news from all parts of the world, on all subjects, whether political, commercial, legal, social, artistic, literary, or religious, in a style at once candid, terse and vivacious.

Second, to promote business, not only by giving the latest and most accurate market reports, and commercial thtelligence, but by discussing fundamental principles in a way to aid the

to arrive at just conclusions as to where lie their true interests. In the struggle going on between the producers and railroads—labor and capital—it will condemn all unreasonable rates and unjust distriminations exacted by the latter, while it will show the former that extreme measures and blind antagonisms will only result in joint to both parties, since each is, and must continue to be dependent upon the other.

In proportion to the quality and amount of matter furnished, the Post and Mall will prove itself the cheapest paper published. Containing pithy editorials, and all the latest news furnished by the larger journals, it will the afforded at half the price. Thus bringing it within the means of thousands who do not now take a daily paper, and adapting it to the conomical requirements of other thousands who now take more expensive journals. The low terms fixed upon are justified by its present large circulation, not less than the reasonable prospect that it will soon attain the largest circulation of any paper published in the valley of the Miss'ssippl.

8.50 P. M

I want to be out doors playing, And run all undressed down stairs. "I can see the flowers in the garden bed, Shining so pretty, and sweet and red; And Sammy is swinging, I guess; Oh, everything is so fine out there, I want to put it all in my prayer. (Do you mean I can do it by 'Yes'?) "When I say 'Now I lay me,' word for word, It seems to me as if nobody heard; Would 'Thank you, dear God,' be right?

He gave me my mamma, My papa and Sammy— Oh, mamma, you nodded I might." Clasping his hand and hiding his face, Unconsciously yearning for help and grace, The little one now began;
His mother's nod and sanction sweet
Had led him close to the dear Lord's feet,

And his words like music ran: "Thank you for making this home so nice,
The flowers, and folks, and my two white mice (I wish I could keep right on),
I thank you, too, for every day,
Only I'm most too glad to pray;
Dear God, I think I am done.

"Now, mamma, rock me, just a minute, And sing the hymn with 'darling' in it, I wish I could say my prayers. When I get big I know I can,

Oh, won't it be nice to be a man And stay all night down stairs?" The mother, singing, clasped him tight, Kissing and cooing her fond "Good night," And treasured his every word: For well she knew that the artless joy And love of her precious, innocent boy, Were prayers that her Lord had heard.

Stand Up.

Some time ago, we read an account of an occurrence on the Mississippi River, which suggests an important thought. As a steamboat was passing along, the pilot noticed a man floundering in the water and crying lustily for help. The pilot at once shouted: "Stand up! The water where you are is not more than three or four feet deep!" The man obeyed, and to his own surprise and the merriment of the passengers, discovered the unmanly part he had been acting.

Thus it often is in life. People suppose themselves in great difficulties; their courage fails; their manhood forsakes them; they make everything a burden. They pour their lamentations into every ear they can reach; dispair seems ready to come upon them. But if they would only open their eyes, plant their feet firmly on the ground, stand straight up, and take a deliberate view of their situation, they would discover how imaginary were their fears, and how ridiculous they were making themselves in the sight of their beholders. To whine and complain, and to fail to make use of the powers given us, and of the opportunities presented, is injurious to both soul The cheerful heart, the firm resolve, the willing hand, and the calm trust in Christ, brighten the path of life, overcome its dfliculties, and at length secure the great victory.—Presb. Banner.

Give if You Can.

Every one can do something to relieve the misery that surrounds us. No one can grasp the world, but each can deal with a part, and relieve individual want. The poor man out of his poverty can do something for his poorer neighbor; and if every one would do but a little, the aggregate of relief would be great. If every brave word utterd, were to germinate into a deed, the world would feel an electric shock in every department of reform.

Envy. Envy is one of the most dispisable of fashions. There is scarcely a crime to which it will not lead its victims. It was envy that robbed the poor Naboth of his vineyard, and added murder to the theft. It was envy that led the guilty Absalom to desire the throne of his father David. It destroys all that is best and noblest in character. So subtile is it in its workings, that we learn on the highest testimony that "Envy is rottenness of the bones;" it cuts out all honor and manliness; it gives sleepless nights and restless days. Moreover, envy is utterly useless; it helps nobody, it effects no alterations, it wins no goal. As we read in Job, "it slayeth the silly one;" and all sensible people must feel that there is marvelous silliness in envy.

Appearances and Opinions. Circumstances have much to do with the foundation of opinions. I overlook from my window a field which in April looks like a desert; it is flat, sterile, and most dreary in aspect, not a green thing visble in all its twenty acres; it looks like plague spot on the landscape, and the eye turns from it, as from a repulsive spectacle. In August, that same field is the richest, and the grandest in the whole prospect, for then it is laden with golden wheat. It is the same field, yet how different the appearance! So I have observed that young men who modestly begin life, with little or no demonstrations, often have a very luxuriant and substantial maturity. It is well to defer our judgments until August.—Dr. Parker, Author of Ecce Deus.

Love the Bible. If we love the Bible as we ought, it is dearer to us than life, nearer to us than any of our relations, sweeter to us than our liberty, and more pleasant than all earthly comforts. All arguments against the word of God are fallacies, all conceits against it delusions, all derisions against it blasphemy, and all oppositions against it madness. We speak of God in prayer; He speaks to us in His word. We should take the candle of God's word and search the corner of our hearts.

The Bible's Author.

Bad men or devils would not have written the Bible, for it condemns them and their works; good men and angels could not have written it, for in saying it was from God when it was but their own inventions, they would have been guilty of falsehood, and thus could not have been good. The only remaining being who could have written it is God, its real author.

That it does not tear down to build up—make sick to make well—no harsh treatment, no triffing, no flatterings; We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of these diseases acculately; no oncouragement without a prospect. · Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most eco-nomical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPA-RATION for its intended purposes."
