THE TWO HUSBANDS

BY HELEN B. THORNTON.

,g ---"We are asked to the Sillman's, my dear, for to-morrow night," said pretty Mrs. Trevor to her husband. "It will be so nice."

The Trevors had been married but a little while, and hitherto no husband could have been more obliging than Mr. Trevor. His deference, his many stopped. "Let them ask," he said gruffly, as he took off his coat in the hall, for Helen had come to the door to meet him. "Well, then, that's settled," replied Mr. Trevor, as he put his hat on the rack, too obtuse to see how much his wife was disappointed, and not caring very much, if it must be confessed, to notice it. "So sorry that Mr. Trevor is too tired of evenings," they would add, "we all miss you so much." For Helen was proud, and had told her friends that her husband was quite fagged out at night, though she herself had already begun to see that he was more indolent than fatigued. Let us change the scene. The very night of this conversation, there was another one, also between two young married people, and also in reference to the Sillman party.

"So you have an invitation to the Sillman's, to-morrow night," said Mr. Chanter to his young bride, as he received her kiss of welcome. "I met both-when they have got once mar-Sillman myself, who told me that it was got up in a great hurry, which ac- please, and it will make no difference: counts for the short notice. But a woman gets no recreation, after she's married, unless she goes out, now and then, to a 'tea fight,' as you call it, or to a party. Why, my dear, if I was to let you stay at home forever, as some men do their wives, or make them, you'd soon lose those pretty cheeks of yours, and by-and-by even your spirits! and at last you'd become a dowdy, if not a confirmed invalid. Put a plant in a cellar if you want to kill it: give it fresh air and sunshine if you would have it bloom. Now, there's that fellow, Trevor. I felt, to-day, as if I would like to thrash him."

"Surely Mr. Trevor has nothing to do with my going out!" exclaimed

Mrs. Chanter, in surprise. "But he has with his wife's. The Trevor's are asked also to the Sillman's. But this lazy fellow of a husband says he don't intend to let Mrs. Trevor go! It's time to put a stop to the thing, he told me."
"Why, he doesn't work half as hard as you do! I've always heard his business was a very easy one." "So it is. He's richer, too, than I am, and can afford to take life differently. But he was always selfish and tyrannical, as poor Helen will find out to her cost. Pity she hadn't found it out long ago." Alas! she had already begun to find it out, and as the years went by she found it out more and more. She soon sank into a mere household drudge. Her husband did not desert her of evenings, as many husbands do desert their wives; he went neither to tavern, nor to club; we will say that in his favor; but he betook himself to his newspaper and segar, varied with an occasional doze. As he hardly exchanged a word with poor Helen, she might as well have been a thousand miles miles away. She sat in the same room with him, stitching, stitching, till her eyes ached with the monotony and weariness of it all. In the first year or two of their married life, he had continued the subscriptions to the two or three magazines and newspapers, which had been her favorites before she left her father's house. Always Lovers.

Married people should treat each other like lovers all their lives-then they would be happy. Bickering and quarreling would soon break, off love affairs; consequently lovers indulge in such only to a very limited extent. But some people-men and women ried think they can do just as they They make a great mistake. It causes all the difference in the world ... A FARMER'S SONG:

We envy not the princely man, In city or in town,
Who wonders whether pumpkin vines
Run up the hill or down,
We care not for his marble halls, Nor yet for his heaps of gold. We would not own his sordid heart For all his wealth thrice told.

We are the favored ones of earth, We breathe pure air each morn. We sow—we reap the golden grain— We gather in the corn; We toil—we live on what we earn, And more than this we do-We hear of starving millions round, And gladly feed them, too.

The lawyer lives on princely fees, Yet drags a weary life, He never knows a peaceful hour-His atmosphere is strife. The merchant thumbs his yardstick o'er, Grows ragged at his toil-He's not the man God meant him for-

The doctor plods through storm and cloud, Plods at his patient's will, When dead and gone he plods again,

The printer (bless his noble soul!) He grasps the mighty earth, And stamps it on our daily sheet, To cheer the farmer's heart.

Why don't you till the soil?

We sing the honor of the plow. And honor to the press, Two noble instruments of toil, With each a power to bless. The bone-the nerve of this fast age-True wealth of human kind-One tills the ever-generous earth, The other tills the mind.

Pruning. .

We have seen some pruning done

A correspondent of the Western Rural says:-I have raised mine in this way for three years. I plant two or three seeds in each hill, about the usual time of setting out cabbage. The weather and ground is then ceived ideas of what ought to be, or warm and they come quickly. When large enough to transplant, I remove all but one, transplanting into such hills as have been destroyed by cut worms. I cultivate and hoe twice thoroughly, and then keep the hills clean and mellew. They should be hoed every few days during the season of tending the different vegetables of the garden.

How to Keep a Cheerful Kitchen.

The kitchen, in the care of a capable housewife, can be as pleasant and spotless a province as the parlor above. Pans, kettles, skillets, stove -everything should be perfectly clean, for the unobserving little know how sensitive most articles of food in a raw state are. Meat, for instance, standing on a kitchen table by an open window that lets in air from stagnant water or otherwise, often "spoils" in a short time, and the queen of the kitchen is disgusted by the bad odor of once nutritious food.—Berries, everything in fact of the edible kind, allowed to remain in a dirty kitchen absorbs "the disease of impurity," and sooner or later tells on the health of the family.

Blue Grass.

A correspondent of the Home Journal writes: My way of securing a strand of blue grass is this: The first step is not to impoverish the soil by cropping before resting it in grass. Having prepared the ground for the seed well, early in the fall, sow the blue grass and grain at the same time. If the season be dry, roll the ground after harrowing; if the season be wet, or the ground sufficiently moist, use a brush instead of a harrow and roller. Keep stock off the ground after cutting the grain and the following spring the blue grass will show handsomely.

How Clover Makes Ground Rich.

Voelker says: "The clover plants take nitrogin from the atmosphere, and manufacture it into their substance, which on decomposition of the clover roots, and leaves produce abundance of ammonia. In reality the growing of clover si equivalent, to a great extent, to manuring with Peruvian guano, and you obtain a larger amount of manure, then in the largest dose of Peruvina guano, which a farmer would ever think of applying." The Professor goes on to say: "The best crop of wheat is produced where you grow clover seed; I have repeatedly seen it. I have come to the conclusion that the very best preparation, the very best manure, is a good crop of clover." Whether this may coincide with the observation of farmers or not we cannot say. One

THURSDAY MORNING, JUNE 11, 1874,

THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL. If the history of the past in this ountry teaches one lesson more plainy than another, it is that in the dissussion of great questions one may not be afraid to advocate what is ight, progressive and approved by Il the better instincts of his nature. Policy has a proper tendency to inlluence us in the selection of means to obtain certain results, but every move, when once taken, is in advance, and with an eye singled upon the point which is desired to be reached in the end. In all ages we have had men who have been denounced as fanatics, fogies, and demagogues, because they advocated measures that were in advance of their times; but if of Michigan people have been here on their principles and doctrines were founded on the immutable laws of justice and right, we see the public gradually coinciding, marching slowly but steadily to a point where the views of these men are fully recognized and endorsed. All this goes to prove that we are a progressive people, and that our watchward is onward and upward. In the great civil rights bill now pending in Congress, and which has occupied so much of the attention of that august body of late, and been so thoroughly and ably discussed by the papers throughout the country, what is there that should cause us to be alarmed, or even hesitate to adopt in legislation? Nearly every person admits that it is based upon sound principles, that must some day be universally accepted by every citizen of our republic, because they are right, and the right must prevail. However long discussed, whatever opposition may be raised, the time is sure to come when there will be an end to all distinction on account of color in the privileges of American citizens. Whenever a person is made a citizen of this republic he has a title conferred upon him that is the highest known to our laws, and all the inalienable rights of citizenship are his. All class legislation, all cast aristocracy, all favoritism must be extinguished, and cannot be tolerated in any government worthy of the name of a republic. Policy may cause some hesitation and delay in accepting this theory in all of its practical results, but every movement that the Government makes in the future will be a step towards this grand accomplishment. Who dare resist it? Who dare stand in the way and attempt to stay the onward march of intelligence and civilization? It is said that if civil rights are guaranteed to the colored men of the South to-day, it will cause a war between the We have long since customed to the voices of those who raise this cry. They are the same persons who, when slavery was about to be abolished, said that the negroes would fare worse after they had their freedom than they did under their masters. Many who declared this. would not now have slavery restored if they could. In Michigan there are some 20,000 negroes who enjoy the rights guaranteed to their brethren in the South by the Civil Rights bill. There is no war here, nor likely to be. The negroes, as a general thing, are well behaved, and know, with the disadvantages which nature has thrown around them, they cannot expect to equal the whites with the same facilities for improvement; neither are the whites afraid that the colored race will outstrip them in intelligence or moral worth. In short, every white man is glad that he was not born black, and is willing to give those who are, an equal chance in life. There should be more favor shown this race in the South than at the North, if any difference, as they there represent so large a part of the inhabitants and wealth of the country. They are bound to be the predominant class in that climate to which they are peculiarly adapted by nature. The advancement of this race, since their shackles have been removed, in education, industry, wealth and general knowledge, is very satisfactory. The richest man to-day in Mississippi is a negro who was a slave in 1860. We do not treat the other side of this question lightly. There are other reasons given for postpon-ing the passage of the Civil Rights bill that are entitled to a careful consideration: The idea we wish to express is, that sooner or later no political distinctions will be known among the citizens of this nation before the law, on account of race or color, and while the Civil Rights bill may be postponed for wise purposes, (though we cannot see any just reasons for it), the time is sure to come when its provisions will be acquiesced in peaceably and without a murmur. The only wonder then will be that they were not accepted years before. Dakota Correspondence.

Letter From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., ) June 3d, 1874. EDITOR RECORD :- Before another month, as matters look now, Congress will be cleared of Legislators, lobbyists and visitors of all sorts, and innumerable axes, still unground, must lie over for another session. A large number a visit, busy looking around and highly enjoying their first sight of the National Capitol. Every citizen who can, should come once in a lifetime if not oftener in order more perfectly to appreciate the glory of his birth-right, the noble institutions and monuments here of the past and present, and the future mighty developments and possibilities of his country. So far as logislation at this session goes, much that should have been done, financially, to aid the toiling millions, the laboring and producing classes and voters, has not been accomplished. The remedy for all evils of omission and of commission, affecting individual and national prosperity, is with the people; -- parties fall and rise at their mandate; -and, therefore, I never despair of the republic. A great part of the valuable time of Senators and Representatives has been forced from their more legit. imate duties and engrossed by all sorts of "investigations," endless in their ramifications and of little worth, in comparison with more important public affairs demanding prompt attention. But it is an old saying that large bodies move slow; and the present Congress, all things considered, is been briefer and less extravagant. In high social and fashionable life, the recent marriage of Miss Nellie Grant to Mr. Sartoris, at the White House, has been the great sensation and event of the season. Your Eastern exchanges have posted you fully about this and other current events. and all I have to say in this connection is, that the President's daughter has left her home and native land with the sincerest prayers and best wishes of hosts of friends for her life-long no worse than many of those which have met and adjourned heretofore; better, in this, that its session has happiness and welfare. Mr. Peck. Mrs. Burrows' who was here on a short visit, has left the city on his return trip home, with Mrs. and Miss B. They will be on the wing for a season, visiting friends, before reaching Kalamazoo, where Mr. Burrows will meet them immediately after the adjournment of Congress. Mrs. B. has made many warm friends here by her personal accomplishments and agreeable manners, and a cordial welcome awaits her and the M. C.'s return to Washington.

Decoration Day, the 30th ult., was duly observed here as in other sections of the country. Visitors innumerable thronged the heights of Arlington, the Soldier's home, and other localities near this city, to do honor to the memory of the noble Union dead, the heroic defenders of their country and its flag, the gallant boys in blue. I have just received some papers from N. Y., giving a detailed account of the memorial services to Col. Ellsworth, at Mechanicsville, on the 27th ultimo. Editors and reporters of the press, of all parties, speak in the highest terms of the oration by Mr. Burrows. I have only one newspaper copy of it, which I have not had time to read yet in full, or I would forward by this mail. If you have not already, I hope you will soon get a printed copy of the oration, for publication in the Michigan papers, that Mr. B.'s friends and constitutents may have the satisfaction of reading it for themselves. Let me give, here, his concluding remarks upon Ellsworth's character and life:— "Fellow citizens! commendable as have been your efforts to give expression to your estimate of his private life and public virtues, yet no memorial marble can fittingly proclaim the true nobility of his character. Had you laid its foundation stones broad and deep upon the immutable granite, it would not have been firmer than were his convictions of duty; had its summit pierced the heavens, it would not have been loftier than was his patriotism; had you burnished its sides until they were as resplendent as the noon-day sun, it would not have been brighter than his heroic deeds; had you chiseled his name so deep into the marble front that it might defy the ravages of time, it would not have been more enduring than was his fidelity. For his high sense of duty which gave stability to his purposes; for his exalted patriotism which acknowledged no restraint: for this sublime heroism which was insensible to danger; for his unswerving fidelity which no power could alienate or corrupt, and for his pure life and heroic death, will his name go down among the brightest of history to the latest generation. And though this marble prove treacherous to its sacred charge and crumble into ruin; should all knowledge even of the spot where ihs ashes rest fade from the memory of living men-yet, so long as our banner rides on the breeze, so long as a solitary star remains to light up its found to be raised in its defense, just respectfully, your obedient servant,

DEAR SIR: -Your note of this date, requesting a copy of a memorandum which I had prepared, expressive of my views upon the financial question, and which you, with others, had heard read, is received, but at too late an hour to comply to-night. I will, however, take great pleasure in furnishing you a copy in the morning, as soon as I can have it copied.

It is proper that I should state that these views were reduced to writing, because I had been consulted on this question, not only by some members of the conference committee, but by many other members of Congress: To avoid any and all possibility of misunderstanding I deemed this course both justifiable and proper.

With this explanation I inclose you herewith the nemorandum referred Very respectfully, U. S. GRANT.

MEMORANDUM OF VIEWS entertained on the subject of desirable legislation on finance.

I believe it a high and plain duty to return to a specie basis at the earliest practicable day, not only in compliance with legislative and party pledges, but as a step indispensable to national lasting prosperity. I believe further that the time has come when this can be done, or at least begun, with less embarrassment to every branch of industry than at any future time, after resort has been had to unstable and temporary expedients to stimulate unreal prosperity and speculation on bases other than coin, the recognized medium of exchange throughout the commercial world. The particular mode selected to bring about a restoration of the specie standard is not of so much consequence as that some adequate plan be devised, the time fixed when currency shall be changed for coin at par, and the plan adopted rigidly adhered to. It is not probable that any legisla-tion suggested by me would prove acceptable to both branches of Congress, and indeed full discussion might shake my own faith in the details of any plan I might propose. I will, how-ever, venture to state the general features of the action which seemed to me advisable on the financial platform on which I would stand, any departure from which would be in a spirit of concession and harmony in deference to conflicting opinions. First, I would like to see the "legal tender clause," so called, repealed, the repeal to take effect at a future time, say July 1, 1875. This would cause all contracts made after that date for wages, sale, &c., to be estimated in coin. It would correct our notions of values. The specie dollar would be the only dollar known as the measure of equivalents. When debts afterward contracted were paid in currency, instead of calling the paper dollar a dollar, and quoting gold at so much premium, we should think and speak of paper at so much discount. This alone would aid greatly in bringing the two currencies nearer together at par. Second. I would like to see a provision that at a fixed day, say July 1,. 1876, the currency issued by the United States

SHOULD BE REDEEMED in coin on presentation to any assistant treasurer, and that all currency so redeemed should be canceled and never be reissued. To effect this it would be necessary to authorize the issue of bonds payable in gold, bearing such interest as would command par in gold, to be put out by the Treasury only in such sums as should from time to time be needed for the purpose of redemption. Such legislation would insure a return to sound financial principles in two years, and would, in my judgment work less hardship to the debtor interest than is likely to come from putting off the day of final reckoning. It must be borne in mind, too, that the creditor interest had its day of disadvantage also, when our present financial system was brought in by the supreme needs of the nation at the time.

I would further provide that, from and after the date fixed for redemption, no bill, whether of national banks, or of the United States, returned to the Treasury to be exchanged for new bills, should be replaced by bills of less denomination than ten dollars, and that, in one year after resumption. all bills of less than five dollars SHOULD BE WITHDRAWN acres of the very best Government land within five miles of town open for settlement: With the Railroad fin-settlement: With the Railroad fin-settlement: With the country will settle very fast.

Emmigration is pouring in from all quarters, attracted here by the richness of the soil, healthfulness of the invincible power of a united people, may it float climate, soft water and the beautiful forever on land and sea, the pride of country will always of course, property was taken function of cheap function of course, property was taken function of cheap function of course, property was taken function of cheap function of che drive, the better out of circulation. With paper a legal tender, and at a discount, gold and silver become articles of merchandise as much as wheat or cotton. The surplus will find the best market it can.

With small bills in circulation there is no use for coin except to keep it in the vaults of banks to redeem circulation. During periods of great speculation and apparent prosperity there is little demand for coin, and then it will flow out to a market where it can be made to earn something, which it cannot do while lying idle.

Gold, like anything else, when not needed, becomes a surplus, and like every other surplus, it seeks a market where it can find one. By giving active employment to coin, however, its presence can, it seems to me, be secured, and the panies and depression times of nominal specie payments, if they cannot be wholly prevented, can at least be greatly mitigated. Indeed, I question whether it would have been found necessary to depart from the standard of specie in the trying day which gave birth to the first legal tender act, had the country taken the ground of "no small bills" as early as

Again, I would provide an excess of revenue over current expenditures, I would do this by rigid economy, and by taxation where taxation can best be borne. Increased revenue would work a constant reduction of debt and interest, and would provide coin to meet demands on the Treasury for the resumption of its notes, thereby diminishing the amount of bonds needed for that purpose. All taxes, after resumption begins, should be paid in coin or United States notes. This would force redemption on the national banks.

With measures like these, or measures which would work out such results, I see no danger in authorizing free banking without limit.

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE, June 1 .- The Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds reported favorably on the bill to authorize and provide for the construction of a substantial iron and masonry bridge across the eastern branch of the Potomac River, and appropriating $146,000 for that purpose. -A most singular occurrance took place at the house of William Bedell, in this village, on Wednesday night of last week. A horse belonging to him, had been sick for over a month, and at about 12 o'clock on the night of the day before mentioned, broke through the door of the stable in which he was confined and passed over two fences reached the house, where he broke down the door and passed into the dwelling. Passed across the room, he stepped upon the lounge and thrust his head through the window, and in this picturesque condition remained until he was discovered by those he had alarmed by the noise he made in breaking into the house. The female portion of the family were terribly scared and fled from the premises in the utmost dismay. Mr. Bedell called on his neighbors for help, and after being joined by two or three other men they succeeded in throwing the horse down and securing him. He was then knocked on the head and killed .- Dowagiac Re-

To SUBSCRIBERS.—The terms o the RECORD henceforth will be as follows: $2 per year; $1 for six months; 50 cents for three months. If paid yearly in advance, $1.50 per year. No reduction made when paid in advance for a less period than a year. No paper will be continued after the expiration of one year unless paid for. If the paper is paid for before it is over 60 days in arrears it will be considered as advanced payment. We hope all will understand the above. All who pay us $1.50, on or before the 6th day of July next will receive the paper one year from May 7th.

THE RECORD is now furnished at the small sum of $1.50 per year if paid yearly in advance. We know that a paper should have something besides cheapness to induce people to subscribe for it. Besides being cheap, the RECORD will not suffer in comparison with the majority of county papers. We expect in the future to make the RECORD, in every respect, a first class, county and family newspaper, and ask our subscribers to continue to give us their support, and to use their influence, so far as is consistent with their judgment and conscience, to induce others to subscribe for the paper.

MRS. STANTON'S LECTURE.—Colins & Weaver's Hall was well filled by an intelligent and appreciative audience to hear the lecture of Mrs. Elizabeth Cady Stanton, on Thursday evening last, on the subject of Woman's

The lecturer commenced by saying that women had a right to the ballot as a Constitutional right. Women are allowed to pre-empt land, obtain passports, pay taxes and suffer penalties for the violations of the law. They are governed by law made by lawmakers who are selected without any respect to their choice or approval. They are subjected to taxation without representation, and this in all ages has been declared to be tyrany. The right to the ballot is a natural

protect self and property. It is as effectual in many instances for this purpose, as weapons of warfare. Women have a constitutional right to the ballot as citizens, and also a natural right to exercise it. It is likewise her duty to vote, and to take part in the political affairs of the Nation. Every subject of any great importance has its moral as well as its material bearings. Women represent the former, men the later. It is only when these two elements are united that the greatest good can be accomplished. The great question of Finance and Temperance now agitating the minds of the people, present that material and moral bearings. The influence of women in the war against intemperance is everywhere recognized and admitted. Some say women do not want to vote. If this be true why have any objections to extending the privilege to them? If only one woman in the State desires to vote, and it is right that she should vote, the proposed amendment to the constitution of this State would reach this case precisely. What is the use of having the word "male" in the constitution and fencing against women, if they will not exercise the right of suffrage? Another objection urged against giving women the ballot is, that it will demoralize politics. Some say politics will demoralize the women, and while some say woman suffrage would divide families and set husband and wife against each other; others say that it will only duplicate the voting, as they would vote the same ticket. Another objection is, that the ballot and bullet go together. If women vote, they must bear arms and perform military duties. This argument is not sound. During the late war 136,000 people in this State were exempt from the draft, and yet they were all voters. During the late war there was a division of labor, and woman did her part nobly and well, in the hospital and sanitary department. War is not a component part of our Nationality, and a high state of civilization would not permit a resort to arms for the settlement of difficulties. Other objections commonly made to the idea of woman suffrage were referred to and discussed. The lecturer closed by stating that she believed the people of this State would vote in favor of it next fall, and alluded to several favorable indications tending in that direction.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.—The new barn belonging to Mr. D. Fisk was struck by lightning and somewhat damaged, on the morning of the 8th inst. The lightning went down the conductor all right, till it got near the bottom of the siding, it then went inside the siding, ran along the oak sill, tore out a large splinter and split the sill or cracked it, tore off four siding boards at the bottom girt and sill, breaking them to pieces, and throwing the pieces up toward the chipyard, and strewing the battens around promiscuously. It then went into the ground, or part of it, tearing a hole about two inches in size at the bottom of the rod. The whole damage will not exceed five dollars, but if the rod had been on the opposite side of the bay where the hay was, the barn must have burned up.

not "tree" caterpillar, as the printer made me say last week), is the first pest to visit the orchard in the spring, and is worse this season than I have ever known it before. The eggs are laid in the fall in a band or circle round a small limb and winter over in perfect safety. This band of eggs is very hard—can hardly be cut with a knife. A few warm days in the spring will hatch them out, even before the leaves are out. They commence immediately to eat and build their tent or nest. For a short time they make a tree look as if it had been scorched with fire. They continue to propagate all summer, and their progress of destruction seems to increase with the warmth of the season. The only remedy is to rub them out. The earlier this is done after they hatch the better. It should be done when they are in their tents, as they all collect there in bad weather and at certain times each day. It will not do to simply knock them off of the tree they must be killed. June 3d, 1874. EDITOR RECORD :—Some boys from Benton Harbor, on Sunday last, took pleasure ride on Lake Michigan. After riding till about 6:30 P. M., they drew the boat alongside the North Pier and stripped for a swim. The largest boy, Alfred Pointer, while in the water was taken with cramps, called for help, and went under the water before assistance could reach him. His brother, instead of calling for assistance from St. Joseph, rowed the boat to Benton Harbor and reported. Mr. Pointer, the father of the two boys, immediately came over and made search for the body, with a large crowd to assist him, but up to the present time the body has not been recovered. Alfred was a young man (colored) of about 19 years, and has been working in the Barber Shop with his father. He was a good man and liked by all who knew him.

Centaur Liniment. There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue, and no lameners which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. It has produced more cures of rheumatism neuralgia, lockjaw, palsy, sprains, KENTAYPOE swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns alt-rheum, car-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and o strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than It is a counter-irritant, an all healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are rendered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever before sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Cantaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including trozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumers, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the rellow wrapper Contaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spayined or sweenled horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—this limiment is worth your attention. No family should be without Contaur Liniment. Sold by all Druggists, 50 cents per bottle; large bottles, $1.00. J.B. Rose & Co.,

66 WE And Jur MEIGHBORS"

is the latest and raciest work by Harriet Beecher Stowe, Author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," "The Minister's Wooing," "My Wife and I," and other powerful stories, each the literary sensation of its period; and this story promises a like genuine and wholesome sensation. It bears directly on social topics of interest, embracing the romance of youthful companionships, the brightness of happy home-life, the spicy complications of neighborhood associations, and such follies and profound domestic miseries as have led to the widespread Temperance movement of the day. Mrs. Stowe is now in the prime of that genius which wrote "Uncle Tom," ripened by years of study and observation. Her novels are immensely popular, "Uncle Tom's Cabin" alone out-selling by hundreds of thousands any edition of any original work ever publishedsave the Bible: Her book two year ago, "My Wife and I," outsold every contemporary. Such a pure and ennobling story as " We and Our Neighbors" should be read in every home. This new Serial is now running exclusively in the

Weekly Family Newspaper, ECHRISTIAN UNION Henry Ward Beecher,

Potatoes are looking finely.—Bugs are not as plenty as they were last year at this time, and a larger average planted. The scarcity of hay, and consequent high prices, last winter and spring, has induced many to sow a "patch" of millet. Without doubt the winter of 74-5, will see less marsh weeds brought into this immediate vicinity and sold under the name of hay. "So be it." Our land owners are just beginning to see the necessity of putting out fruit of all kinds. There has been more strawberries set out this spring, probably, than in the three years previous. There is some building and improving going on about here, of which I will speak in the future. The measles

Don't Re a Grumbler, Some people contrive to get hold of: the prickly side of everything, to run against all the sharp corners and find out all the disagn cable things. Half the strength spent in growling would often set things right. You may as well make up your mind, to begin with, that no one ever found the world quite as he would like it; but you are to take your share of the trouble and bare it bravely. You will be very sure to have burdens laid upon you that belong to other people, unless you are a shirk yourself; but don't grumble. If the work needs doing, and you can do it, never mind the other boy who ought to have done it and don't. Those workers who fill up the gaps, and smooth away the rough spots, and finish up the job that others leave undone—they are true peace-makers, and worth a whole regiment of growlers.

· Elevating Effects of Boarty.

All our moral feelings are so interwoven with our intellectual powers that we cannot effect the one without in some degree addressing the other; and in all high ideas of beauty it is more than probable that much of the plessure depends on delicate and untraceable perceptions of fitness, propriety and relation, which our purely intellectual, and through which can be presented to the human mind, inveribly exalting and purifying it occording to their degree. And it would appear that we are jutended by the Deity to be constantly under their influences, because there is not one single object in nature which is not capable of conveying them, and which to the rightly perceiving mind does not present an incalculable greater number of beautiful than of deformed pearls.—Ruskin.

A Beautiful Experiment.

If an acorn be suspended by a piece of thread to within an inch of watter, contained in a hyacinth glass, and so permited to remain without being disturbed it will in a few months. burst and throw a root down into the water, and shoot upward its tapering stem, with beautiful green leaves. A young oak tree, growing in this way on a mantle shelf of a room, is a very interesting object.

A loving heart and a cheeful countenance are commodities which children should never fail to keep on hand. They well best season their food and soften their pillows. Sour faces and cross words make everything go wrong. Keep in the sunshine of God's lave and don't nive their faces. love, and don't give their frowns a chance to deepen into wrinkles.

Many afflictions will not cloud and obstruct peace of mind so much as one sin; therefore, if ye would wait cheerfully, be more careful to walk holily. All the winds about the earth, make no earthquake, but only that within.

I know thousands of parents who have received from God a child, and then they turn the young immortal into a dressmaker's doll! As if God had not made the creature beautiful enough, they must overload it with upholsterings of silk and laces, and then torture its graceful freedom into the tongues and screws of arbi-others? Those who govern well are generally calm. They are prompt and resolute, but steady and mild.

What is Eternity?—The question was asked at a Deaf and Dumb Asylum, and the beautiful answer was given by one of the pupils, "The life-time of the Allmighty."

What is done is done, has already blended itself with the boundless, ever living, ever-working universe; and will also work there, for good, or for evil, openly or secetly, throughout all time.

—Carlyle.

God makes no promise to those who hold back. But he gives strength to the obedient, and light to those who are determined to trust him.

The law of human conduct is like the law of the road-keep to the right.

The Foremost Tonic of the Age. Taking into consideration the character of its vouchers, the history of its cures and its immense annual sale, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be fairly entitled the toremost It me of the Age. It is not only a tonic but a constitutional and local alterative, and its tondency is to substitute healthy für diseased action throughout the system. If the atomach is feeble and torpid it produces a vitalizing impression upon its mucous tissues. No sooner has the dyspeptio avallowed a dose of it than he knows by his consection that his stomable has received an accession of vigor. It increases the desire for food and the ability to digest and assimilate it. If the liver is decelier, it improves the condition of the organ and imports to it a new and healthful impulse. The bowels being obstructed, it prom tes the flow of bile into them and re establishes their untural action. Its effect upon the brain, the nerves and the kidneys is equally salutary. In short, it toms, alters, and regulates the whole system.

Ayer's Ague Cure, For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise

No one remedy is londer called for by the necessities of the American people than a sure and safe cure for Fever and Ague. Such we are now enabled to offer, with a perfect cortainty that, it will eradicate the disease, and with assurement that have a proposed the cortainty that are now that the cortainty that it will eradicate the disease, and with assurement that no home can are canabled to offer, with a perfect certainty that it will cradicate the disease, and with assurance, founded on proof, that no harm can arise fromits use in any quantity.

That which protects from or prevents this disorder must be of inmense service in the communities where it prevails. Prevention is better than cure, for the patient escapes the risk which, he must run in violent attacks of this baleful distemper. This "CURE" expels the miasmatic poison of Fever and Aque from the system, and prevents the development of the disease, if taken on the first approach of its premonitory symptoms. It is not only the best remedy ever yet discovered for this class of complaints, but also the chempest. The large quantity we supply for a dollar brings it within the reach of everybody; and in bilious districts, where Fever and Acue prevails, everybody should have it, and use it freely, both for cure and protection. It is hoped this price will place it within the reach of all—the poor as well as the rich. A great superiority of this remedy ever any other ever discovered for the speedy and certain cirre of Intermittents is, that it contains no Quinism or other injurious effects whatever upon the constitution. Those cured by it are left as healthy as if they had never had the disease.

Fever and Ague is not alone the consequence of the miasmatic poison. Agreat variety of disorders arise from its irritation, among which are Neuralfia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Tookhache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Palpitation, Painful Affection of the Spleen, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colle, Paralysis, and derangement of the Stomach, all of which, when originating in this cause, put on the intermittent type, or become periodical. This "CURE" expels the poison from the blood, and consequently cures them all allke. It is an invaluable protection to immigrants and persons travelling or temporarily residing in the malarious districts. It taken occasionally or daily while exposed to the infection, that will be excited from the syste

Aver's Cathartic Pills.

For the relief and cure of all derangements in the stomach, liver, and bowels. They are a mild aperient, and an excellent purgative. Being purely vegetable, they contain no mercury or mineral whatever. Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief, when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the PILLs with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by 2/pr x Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be compited. Their sugar conting makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh; and portectly reliable. Although scarching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Tull directions are given, on the wrappes to each box how to use them as a Tamily Physic. without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

Full directions are given on the wrapper to each box how to use them as a Family Rhysic, and for the following complaints, which these Pills rapidly cure:

For Pryspepsia or Indigestion, Listless-ness, Languor and Loss of Appetice, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach, and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Billious Headache, Sick Headache, Sick Headache, Sink Hea

Dysentery of Diarrhoen, but one Tor Bysentery of Diarrhoea, but one mild dose is generally required.
For Highmatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side; Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.
For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowds, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous, where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

A GRANGER'S DREAM. - A

Granger dreamed that he died. He went straight to the spirit-world; he knocked at the gate of the New Jerusalem; and it was opened unto him. The books were opened; he was asked, "Did you ever belong to any secret society?" To which he replied, "I did to the Grangers." "Then, sir, you can't be admitted; depart." He then went to the door of the bottomless pit where the same questions were again asked him by the Devil, and again he was told to depart. After he had gone a little way off, he was accosted by the homely ruler of the pit, when the following propositions were made: Stranger, said Nick, I will not admit you here; they do not want you in heaven; but I will sell you two hundred barrels of brimstone for cash ten per cent. off, and you can start a little hell of your own, with no agents or middle-men."
