HOW CUTTER EMBALMEDHIS WIFE

The other day Mr. Slocum-I don't know but what you know him ; he has been deacon and selectman and squire and pretty much everything in our village-was reading out loud from one of the papers about burying dead corpses. The editor didn't hold with burying of them, and said that burning or embalming was the proper thing. When Slocum had got through

"Well, there's Mr. Cutter, now he knows all about embalming." And then he says to me, "Cale"-my giv-en name is Caleb---"Cale," says he, "you've had experience in embalming. haven't you ?" Says I, "By gosh tered his words, that the effect was ludicrous beyond description. On one occasion an onslaught was made upon him by several members, principally from the South. He not only defended himself with surprising skill and vigor, but delivered such blows in return that many of his assailants retired from the conflict staggering under their ponderous weight. But others mixed in the struggle, and it was long maintained, the old gentleman a while, when one day I found that never getting worsted on a single point. When excited, his high-pitched voice would break into a screech, that rang through the hall with a piercing sound, resembling the scream of an eagle. "Mr. Speaker," said he, "members may assail my character and decry my motives, they may pervert my language and misrepresent my position; their assaults do not move me in the least; I shall bear them like a lamb !" his shrill voice penetrating every recess in the hall. Mr. Adams had no equal in a controversial debate. He was so thoroughly armed and equipped, and his knowledge was so extensive and exact, that no question ever arose that he was not prepared to discuss in all its bearings. Naturally aggressive, and as courageous as a lion, he never hesitated in attack or defense, and never flinched, even when assailed by any number of the ablest men on the Dem-

Tom Marshall at one time indulged in such excesses that his friends became alarmed, and determined to make an effort to reclaim him. Mr. Mangum was designated to remonstrate with the wild Kentuckian, and

"Your friends have been greatly concerned at the manner in which you have been conducting yourself." "Don't wonder at it, Been badly bothered myself. Sent you here to talk to me, didn't they ?"

"Yes, they thought as I sometimes take a glass myself, my advice would have the more effect."

admiration for your genius and talents. They are confident that with sobriety and application you might reasonably aspire to the highest place under the Government."

"What do you think I could get?" "I have no doubt you might be made Chief Justice of the United States."

"There's been one Chief Justice in our family; I don't care to follow him."

"You might even hope to become President."

But I tell you what I'll do, Mangum : you make me President of the United States, and if I don't make you Sec-was tainted, and gave a bad flavor to the whole making of cheese into which it had entered. We have before us a letter from a correspondent in Norway, who speaks of the ill effects resulting from permitting cows to feed from the litter thrown out from stables a practice too common in the country. Not only was the milk tainted, but also the butter and cheese made therefrom had an unpleasant taste and smell. It is well known that the wild garlic eaten by cows in spring lends its peculiar flavor to the milk and butter yielded from them. In fact, nothing can be more sensitive to ill-flavored substances eaten or drank by the cows, than is the milk or butter: The use of stagnant or impure water should then be scrupulously avoided, and if no other source of pure water is possible, a sufficient quantity should be pumped twice a day at least. There is no more striking illustration of the facts above

CONGRESS.

Congress adjourned on Tuesday of this week. We cannot say that it fin ished its work, as many important matters will have to lay over until the next session in December. Great many have found fault, and a great deal has been said in regard to the tardiness and apparent inactivity of the last session of Congress. Measures which the people thought ought to be taken up and disposed of in the early part of the session, perhaps for wise purposes, were debated and discussed at length, and the time of their final passage postponed and delayed. One reason for the impatience at times manifested on the part of the people, is that they underate the difficulty of legislation in regard to important measures where opposition so formidable and influential as that exhibited in the last Congress, has to be met and overcome.

If the last Congress will not receive praise from all, on account of what has been done, it certainly deserves credit from all on account of what it has not done. Unwise legislation is far worse than no legislation at all If investigations are had, reforms in augurated, expenses of the government reduced, fraudulent claims discountenanced, and the rights of the people regarded and protected, there is great reason to rejoice. The past Congress certainly is entitled to equal praise with any that has ever preced-ed it for all these. The past Congress has done more than this. Three of the greatest abuses have been done away with, viz: the Sanborn contracts, the moiety system and the government of the district of Columbia.

A new Postal law has been estab lished that will be a great benefit to the people; the question of cheap transportation has been wisely considered; the question of finances, alrhough not settled, has been placed in important measures in which Mr. Burrows has taken an active interest and part. For a new member, during his first term of service, it is a record of which he and his constitutents have every reason to feel gratified and proud; and which the latter will no doubt endorse, by giving him a united and cordial renomination and re-election to Congress. I have before me numerous papers, local and from other parts of the country, showing the high estimation in which Mr. Burrows is held, in and out of Congress, by the press and people abroad, as well as at home; but time flies, and I must end this letter at once without farther comment.

In haste, fraternally yours, The Major. Wisconsin Correspondence. ELROY JUNCTION, Wis.,

June 17th, 1874. ED. RECORD :--- I feel it my duty to say something in regard to the health and resources of this part of the country. The climate is very healthy and bracing. I have not felt so well for years, and my wife and child are gaining their health very fast, and I would say to any one coming here that needs recruiting up, would find it better than blue pill or quinine. This is a bluff, hilly country, but very productive, good water and plenty of shining brooks full of trout. Wheat and oth-er crops look well. Elroy is the junction of West Wisconsin, and Chicage North Western R. R. Two years ago when I first came here there was but ance. one small store, now there is five general stock stores, one hardware and one drug store. The town is growing of the very fast. There is two Round Houses one for the Chicago North Western, and one for the West Wisconsin R. R., and I could say with all candor, any one that was doing a dragging busi-ness, that there is plenty of chances here. As there are plenty of openings for men of small or large capital, there is more money here in circulation than in any small town I ever saw. The two Rail Roads pay offhere every month and that leaves a large amount. I have only a few words more, and that is I am sorry I did not come to this country sooner. I would be happy to see any of my friends. My store is opposite the Eating House and Freight Depot.

Letter From Washington.

Barrows in Congress.

WASHINGTON, D. C.,

June 18, 1874. ED. RECORD :-By the time this letter comes to hand for publication, Congress will have adjourned and the people's representatives be wending their way homeward to great their constitutents and give an account of their stewardship. I take advantage of an opportunity so favorable to comment upon the Congressional record made up by the Hon. J. C. Burrows, by enumerating some of the questions discussed by him during the session, of vital interest to the people of his District and the country at large. 1st. He spoke and voted in favor of the repeal of the "Salary Grab"-see his printed speech. I wish I had a copy by me that I might give just here some telling extracts therefrom. 2nd. Voted against any and every attempt to restore the franking priviledge. Srd. Voted and spoke in favor of cheap transportation. In his speech delivered March 14th last, he advocated the power of Congress to regulate inter-State commerce and showed conclusively, by arguments drawn from the Constitution and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the U.S., the rightful jurisdiction of the General Government to regulate the commerce when carried on by railway corporations, and to fix the tariff of charges for freight and passengers' transported over these lines, established by virtue of State laws, etc. This speech made a most favorable impression, and members of the opposition joined with the Republicans in praise and approval thereof. 4th. Voted in favor of the improvement of the Mississippi River, by the construction of Fort St. Phillips Canal, an important and timely movement in the interests of cheap transportation. 5th. For Free Banking. He voted for every measure embracing this principle ; maintaining that, if the present banking system is continued, it should be free, with proper safeguards established to protect the people, &c. 6th. He voted for a measure looking to resumption and the appreciation of greenbacks. 7th. Against an appropriation of $3,-000,000, for the "Centennial job."

going towns, and to derive inspiration and instruction from their busy people. Many of these villages are no less attractive than was Goldsmith's Auburn before the hand of desolation gave the poet a subject for fThe Deserted Village." There is no reason to fear; however, that a later Goldsmith can ever immortalize his "gray goose quill' by writing of these Michgan towns, except in terms of eulogy. the ceaseless energy and activity everywhere displayed, effectually dis-count the future, so that should any mere modern bard expect to write of a "Deserted Village" in this State, he will find his occupation, like Othello's, are the in the South-western part of the State, on the main line of the Michigan Central Railroad, eighty-eight miles east of Chicago. It is a well-built town of 2,800 population amid charming surroundings in the far-famed St. Joseph Valley. As an indication of its intellectual and moral status, I need only mention that the village is adorned by a finely built school house, costing $35,000, · and seven churches. The school, one of the finest in the State so noted for its modern school system, is in charge of Prof. Kent. Eight teachers are employed, and 500 pupils are in attendance. The business town is fully up to the dignity of its social and intellectual character. I was never more surprised than to find here five or six large

ZINC COLLAR PAD CO.

I was interested to find the only establishment of the kind in the world. This pad is not more a matter of economy than of humanity. Thousands of cruel or careless teamsters have put their horses through weeks of relentless torture in the hot season, for want of some wholesome and convenient appliance to prevent galls or sore neck, caused by bad fitting collars, prespiration and excessive chafing. This want is fully supplied by the zinc collar pad. They are so constructed as to exactly fit the conformatian of the neck, are easily attached to the collar, have a cooling tendency; are soft and pliable to the raw flesh even, and possess curatives qualities in a remarkable degree. In all fair tests, this pad has never failed to cure the worst case of sore neck. Using it, especially in hot weather, great care should be taken to observe the printed directions for its use. They become heated in the sun, but are always cool in the shade. Home Correspondence. ED, RECORD :--- I forgot last week to say what to do with the apple-tree borer. The best way to dispose of him is to shave off the bark with a sharp knife till he is found and killed. If he has gone into the tree, follow him up with a small wire. In small trees they do. not usually bore more than two or three inches, and are easily reached with a wire. I will now introduce the codling moth: The codling moth is altogether the most destructive insect pest the apple grower has to contend with. It is constantly known as the "apple tree worm." In its large state it is the reddish-white worm, about one-half inch in length, with which everybody

Let us remember this and let no opportunity pass by for secur- ing what will contribute to the pros- perity of our city."	many in our village at the present time. We trust the boys will be very careful, and that we will have no sad news to publish this year, of death by being drowned. We notice many such accounts in other places where they claim to be as cautious as any other people in regard to this matter. It is not wise to be ventursome when we know there is a possibility of losing our lives. THERE was a heavy rain south of us a few miles, on Saturday afternoon last. It did not rain a drop here, and the thermometer stood 96 in the shade until nearly five o'clock. THERE is a great warfare at pres- ent between potato bugs and paris green. It is hard to tell the result yet, but if the supply of paris green is as limited as represented, the bugs will have a fair chance to come off vic- torious.	of transacting such business as may properly come before them. Shall we leave them, and go to a place where it will take ten or twenty years of patient toil to work up to the point that has here been ob- tained? It is true that in some parts of the West they do not fence. Why is this? Simply because it has been thought cheaper to herd the stock, or watch the crops, than to fence. It would be very nice to go out on the prairie to break a few acres of ground, sow wheat upon it, and leave it with- out further care until ready to har- vest; but it is not so pleasant to have our crops run over by a herd of steers, or trodden into the ground by a drove of colts.
