In a garden filled with flowers, You had one, a lovely rose, How you loved its bloom and fragrance But your Heavenly Father knows.

Jewels, too;—and one a brilliant, Sparkling in its cresent light, Gift of God, oh! was it sinful That 'twas precious in your sight?'

But your bird has floated skyward, Spread its wings for brighter spheres Leaving you with eyes uplifted, Gazing after, through your tears.

And the rose transplanted early To your own bright future home, Would you have it back to-morrow Where the storms of sorrow come?

And the jewel, brightly glowing, Given as a sacred trust, Hard to give it back, poor mother, Though the giving was but just.

Who shall bring the leaves of healing For a mother's wounded heart, When her child is taken from her,-Being of herself a part?

Time alone can soothe the anguish, Make the sorrow less a moan, Teach the lips to faintly utter, "Not my will but Thine be done."

Shortly after the foregoing letter was written Mr. Tilton returned to the city thoroughly discouraged with the result of his lecturing tour. The Golden Age, which had then been established for about twelve months, had not succeeded and was understood to be losing money. His pecuniary obligations were pressing, and although his claim against Bowen for the violation of the two contracts had a year previously been put under the exclusive control of Moulton with a view MORTGAGE SALE.

The said premises in said mortgage are described as follows: All that certain piece of parcel of land lying and being in the County of Berrien and of settlement, it had not as yet been effected. About this time Moulton. who was sick, sent for me and showed me a galley-proof of an article pre-pared by Mr. Tilton for the Golden Age, and which has since been published in the Brooklyn papers, in which he embodied a copy of a letter written to me by Mr. Bowen, dated "January 1st, 1871," in which he charged Bowen with making scandalous accusations against my moral character. This was the first time that I had ever seen the charges and I had never heard of them except by mere rumor, Mr. Bowen never saying at any time a word to me on the subject. I was much amazed at the proposed publication. I did not then understand the real object of giving circulation to such slanders. My first impression was that Mr. Tilton designed, under cover of an attack upon me in the name of another, to open the way for the publication of his own pretended personal grievances, and I protested against the publication in the strongest terms, but was informed that it was not intended as a hostile act to myself, but to Mr. Bowen. I did not any the less insist on my pro-DROBATE ORDER.—State of Michigan, County of Berrien, ss.—At a session of the Probate Court for the County of Berrien, holden at the Probate Office, in the village of Berrien Springs, on Wednesday, the 6th day of August, in the year one thousand eight; hundred and seventy-four.

On its being known to Mr. Bowen, he was thoroughly alarmed, and speedily consented to the appointment of arbitrators to bring about an amicable settlement. The result of this proceeding was that Bowen paid Tilton over $7,-000, and that a written agreement was and neensed to sell the real estate in said petition described.

Thereupon it is ordered that Monday, the 21st day of September next, at 110 clock in the forencon, be assigned for the hearing of said petition, and that the heirs at law, of said deceased; and all other persons interested in said estate, are required to appear at a session of said Court, then to be holden at the Probate Office in the village of Berrien Springs; and show cause, if any there be, why the preyer of the petitioner should not begranted: And it is further ordered, that said petitioner give notice to the persons interested in said estate, of the pendency of said estate, and the hearing thereof, by causing a copy of this and myself, of amnesty, concord and treachery peculiarly base that this > understand how Mr. Tilton secured its publication without seeming to be himself responsible for the deed. Finally, after attempting to obtain money both from myself and wife; as a price of its suppression, the Wood-hull women published their version of the Tilton scandal in November, 1872. The details given by them were so minute, although so distorted, that suspicion was universally directed toward Tilton as the real author of this which he so justly called "a wicked and horrible scandal," though it is not a whit more "horrible" than that which he has now fathered, and not half so wicked, because those abandoned women did not have personal knowledge of the falsity of their story as Mr. Tilton has of his. To rid him self of this incubus, Mr. Tilton drew up a voluminous paper, called a true statement, but which was familiarly "Tilton's case."

I had some knowledge of its composition, having heard much of it read! but some documents were only referring is no possible salvation for any that my pledges to Moulton for him, and do all in human power to save him ture he does not know how to govern that was ready to resign if that would stop the scandal. ality upon his wife; on the contrary, he explicitly denied it and asserted interference of neighboring churches, and the calling of the Congregational Council: After the Woodhull story was published, and while Mr. Tilton seemed really desirous, for a short time, of protecting his wife, I sent through him the following letter to her: Here follows the letter before published, sent by Mr. Beecher to Mrs.

Tilton after the publication of the Woodhull story.]

The whole series of events beginning with the outbreak of the Woodhull story repeatedly brought on me of torture, but I resolved to stop short a terrible accumulation of anxieties and waste no more time in making and perils. Everything that had matters worse. I felt that Mr. Moulthreatened before now started up with new violence. Tilton's behavior was inexplicable. His card "to a com- then to make a true and full statement, plaining friend" did not produce the effect he pretended to expect from it of convincing the public of his great magnanimity. Then his infamous article and letter to Mr. Bowen made its appearance in the Eagle. It had been suggested that the publication of from my church or family, as to the the "tripartite covenant" would have foundation of rumors which might get a good effect in contradicting the to them, to keep this promise. By slanderous stories about Mrs. Tilton and myself which Theodore professed. to regard as false, but which his foolish card and the publication of the article had done so much to revive and render mischevious. Mr. Moulton urged me to get from the gentleman who held the tripartite covenant a copy of it for us, when suddenly Mr. Wilkeson came out with it on his own responsibility. Its publication in this manner I made strenuous but unavailing efforts to prevent. He had originally kept a copy of it. Everybody in this business seems to have copies of everything but myself. On the appearance of that paper Theodore went into a rage. I put him, he said, in a false position before the public and he said he would publish another card giving a statement something like that he wrote to Dr. Bacon—that is as I recollect the matter-declaring | ed me strongly to maintain my faith that I had committed an offense and in him. Tilton yielded to his persuathat he had been the magnanimous sion, and graciously allowed himself party in the business. It was necessary to decide what to do with him. On Sunday I made up my mind to write to Moulton the following letter, garbled extracts of which are given in Tilton's statement:

SUNDAY MORNING, June 1, 1872.

MY DEAR FRANK. - The whole earth is tranquil and the Heaven is serene, as befits one who has about finished this world's life. I could do nothing on Saturday. My head was confused, but a good sleep has made it like crystal. I have determined to make no resistance. Theodore's temper is such, that the future, even if temporarily tamed would be absolutely worthless, filled with abrupt changes] and rendering me liable at any hour or day to be obliged to stultify all the devices by which we saved ourselves. It is only fair that he should know that the publication of the card which he proposed would leave him far worse off than before the agreeentered into between Bowen, Tilton ment was made, after my letter through you was written. and look back and smile at the past. Your loving H. W. B. There are intimations at the beginning and end of this letter that I felt the approach of death. With regard to that I merely refer to my previous statement concerning my bodily symptoms and add that on this day I felt such symptoms upon me. The main point is that I was worried out with the whole business and would have been glad to escape by death, of which I had but little dread. I could see no end but death to the accumulation which I now make, and leave the result with God. Mr. Tilton had repeatedly urged me, as stated in my letter, not to betray his wife, and I felt bound by every sense of honor in case I should be pressed by enquiries this promise I meant only that I would not betray the excessive affec-tion which his wife, as I had been informed, had conceived for me and had confessed to him. It certainly did not refer to adultery. If there had been such a fact in existence, its betrayal would have crushed her as well as me, and a pledge not to destroy myself would have been too absurd to be mentioned in this letter. In reply to this note which was calm and reserved rather than gloomy, Mr. Moulton wrote that same day a letter of three and a half sheets of copy paper, in which he deliberately, and twice in succession, reaffirmed his main statement, that there was nothing in the whole case on which I could not safely stand. He treated my resolution as born of such morbid despair as he had often reproached me for, and urgto be soothed by the publication of a card exonerating him from the authorship of the base lies to which the tripartite covenant referred. So once more, and this time against my calmer judgment, I patched up a hollow peace with him: That I have grieviously erred in judgment in this perplexed case no one is more conscious than I am. I chose a wrong path and accepted a disastrous guidance in the beginning and have indeed traveled on a "rough and ragged edge" in my long effort to suppress this scandal, which has at last spread so much desolation throughout the land. But I cannot admit that I erred in desiring to keep these matters out of sight. In this respect I appeal to you and to all Christian men to judge whether almost any personal sacrifice ought not to have been made rather than to suffer the morals of the entire community, and especially of the young, to be corrupted by the filthy details or scandalous falsehoods daily reiterated and amplified for the gratification of the impure curiosity and demoralization of every child that is old enough to The full truth of this history requires that one more fact should be told, especially as Mr. Tilton has invited it. Money has been obtained from me in the course of these affairs in considerable sums, but I did not at first look upon the suggestions that I should contribute to Mr. Tilton's pecuniary wants as in the nature of black-mail. This did not occur to me until I had paid perhaps $2,500. Afterwards I contributed at one time $5,000. After the money had been paid over in five $1,000 bills, to raise which I mortgaged the house I live in, I felt very much dissatisfied with myself about it. Finally a square demand and a threat was made to me by more was not paid Tilton's charges of it, but challenged and requested have written to Mr. Moulton I would do so. If he has reserved all my effusions of feeling he must have a large collection. I wish him to bring them all before the committee. should have been glad to get such hints as they contain to refresh my recollection, of facts and sequences. I have no fear of their free and fair publication, for they would doubtless make a sad exposure of my grief, weakness and despondency, they do not contain a line confessing such guilt as has been charged upon me, or a word inconsistent with my innocence, nor any other spirit than that prettily as possible and said, 'Oh, you of a generous remorse over a great and more and more irreparable evil. But however intense and numerous may be these expressions of grief, they can not possibly overstate the anxiety of which it is now clear I did not exaggerate, nor the sorrow and remorse which I originally felt on account of the injury which I supposed I had unwittingly done to a beloved family, and afterward for the greater injury which I became satisfied I had done by my unwise, blind and useless efforts to remedy that injury, only, as it proved, at the expense of my own name, the happiness

my own church. Gentlemen of the committee: In the note requesting your appointment, I asked that you should make a full investigation of all the sources of information. You have witnesses that I have no way influenced or interfered with your proceedings or duties. I have wished the investigation to be searching that nothing could settle its result. I have nothing to gain by any policy of suppression or com-promise. For four years I have borne and suffered enough, and I will not go a step farther. I will be free, I will not walk under a rod or yoke. If any man would do me favor, let him tell all he knows now. It is not mine to lay down the law of honor in regard to the use of other person's confidential communications, but in so for as my writings are concerned there is not a letter or a document I authorize any and call upon any living person to produce and print fourthwith whatever writings have of any source whatsoever. It is time, for the sake of decency and be brought to an end. It is an open pool of corruption, exhaling deadly vapors. For six weeks the nation has raised up and sat down upon scandal. Not a great war nor a revolution could more have filled the papers than this question of domestic trouble, magnified a thousand fold. and like a sore spot on the human body, drawing to itself every morbid humor in the blood. Miss Spicer Makes A Call.

"Good morning, Mrs. Simpkins! I thought I would just run in and make a neighborly call. Glad to see that you can have time to make worsted work in the morning. I cannot; my time is too valuable. I have too much that is useful to do to waste my time as you do. Is that your Edward on the sofa? And why isn't he at school? Toothace? Nonsense. If there was a circus coming he would 'toothache' it off quick enough. It's astonishing to | parental advice to the girls: me how you let your children that you think your all perfection, so | mother do the washing. I won't give my advice—but I can't help telling you that bye and bye you will be sorry, if you are so weak and do unless it's asked. "How much did you give for your new bonnet? sixteen dollars? well no wonder Mr. Simpkins looks troubled, such extravagance at home. You ought not to wear blue. When I came home from church I said to sister. Why doesn't some one tell Mrs. Simpkins how ugly she looks in blue?" You see you are pale. Now there's Mrs. Janeway—she is as pretty as a pink and she can were any color she ancies; but these pale, scrawny women ought to get some friend to advise them, if they havn't sense enough to dress themselves with taste. That I said because all her mother's family died off early and she favors the Cat-line. However I am not deceitful; I always speak my mind out-but I don't give my advice unless it is wanted:

"Then that mincing Mrs. Vincy, the young widow, came along; says I, to her, 'Why don't you wear a cap, Mrs. Vincy'?' 'Don't choose to,' said she, as saucy as a bobolink. 'Want to look young may be,' said I, 'in hopes to catch a young husband?' She was not disconceited, but she blushed as are hard to suit, Miss Spicer: when I did wear a cap you told me I wore it to look interesting, so that people would pity me, and say: poor thing—she looks so lonely.' 'Yes,' said he. 'Know the reason?' I inquired. 'No,' said he. 'Because,' said I, 'They don't stay widowers long enough to be prayed for !' He walked along quite lively, considering that he inclines sowewhat to rheumatism. However it's silly in him to marry again, and some one ought to advise him, but I never give

So, the next tning we heard was that Mr. Simpkins wasn't going to marry Lizzie Gay and was going to marry you. To be sure, you are rich, abomination was buried below all and have been a good wife as far as you know how; but you understand as I could advise you, only I never give my ad—dear me, what are you so angry at, Mrs. Simpkins?—you should not give way to your temper in such a manner as that. Stained and Polished Floors.

A correspondant of the Country Gentleman, who thinks that carpets too expensive for daily use, and that something is cheaper, and at the time easily kept clean is needed, says that a friend's hall and kitchen were floored, as he supposed, with stripes of black walnut and pine, but he was informed that the owner had caused the floors to be smoothly laved and with his own hand painted each alternate board a dark color and then with chellached finished the whole to a fine polish. He says :- "I shall have my hall and dining-room floors plained smoothly and evenly by a carpenter and then rubbed carefully with a spunge or brush, avoiding any daubs over the seam, into each alternate board a stain prepared as follows: One quarter of a pound of asphaltum and half a pound of beeswax to one gallon of terpentine. If too thin add beeswax: if too light in color add asphaltum though that must be done with caution; as every little graduate the shade and black walnut is not what its name indicates but a rich, dark brown; or burned umber in alcohol, to the proper consistency of easy application, may be used without the beeswax; and after a thin cat of shellac has been laid over the who. and the surface smoothed over with sandpaper, a coat of common varnish will give it a splendid finish: A breadth of carpet or matting, or a piece of oilcloth laid down, will protect it where the greatest wear comes.

To Boil a Ham.

Take a ham weighing about eight or ten pound, soak it for twelve or twenty-four hours in cold water, then cover with boiling water: add one pint of vinegar, two or three bay leaves, a little bunch of parsley. The dried and sifted will do, or even the seeds of parsley may be used, if the fresh cannot be procured. Boil slow two hours and a half, take out, skin it, remove all the fat except a layer about half an inch thick, cut off with sharp knife all the black-looking outside; put the ham in your driping-pan, fat uppermost, grate bread crust over it, and sprinkle half a tablespoonful of powdered sugar over it; put it in the oven for half an hour until it is a beautiful brown. Eat cold. Cut the nicest portion in slices; the ragged and little odds and ends can be chopped fine and used for sandwiches; or by adding three eggs to one pint of the chopped ham and fry brown, you have a delicious omelette for breakfast or lunch. The bone should be put into the soup kettle. The rind and fat should be rendered and strained for frying potatoes or crullers.

Laziness Brings on Nervousness.

Many inquiries have been made why nervous disorders are so much more common among us than among our ancestors. Other causes may frequently occur, but the chief is, we lie longer in bed. Instead of rising at four, most of us, who are not obliged to work for their bread, lie till reven, eight or nine o'clock. We should inquire no farther; this sufficiently accounts for the large increase of those painful disorders. It may be observed that most of these arise, not bearly by sleeping too long, but even from what we imagine to be quite harmless, the lying too long in bed. By soaking (as it is emphaitically called) so long between sheets, the flesh is, as it were, parboiled, and all becomes soft and flabby. The nerves, in the mean time, are quite unstrung, and all the train of melancholy symtoms, faintness tremors, Blood, intestinal contents. and garbage were swept into the pond which in addition appears to have received, as is still sadly too common, the soakage from the yards and drainage from the farm house. But it is the last straw which breaks the camel's back: the purifying poisonous organic matter swollowed with the foul water, speedily produced bloodpoisoning, fever, congestion and death of the six surviving horses.

POLAND'S DEFEAT. Full returns from the election in the Second Congressional District of Vermont shows that Dennison, the Independent Republican candidate, is elected by a large majority. He re ceived 7,099 votes, Poland, the regular Republican nominee, received 5,740 and Davenport, (Democrat) 2,022; scattering 931. Some of the Democratic papers are seemingly jubilant over this unexpected result, and represent it as a defeat of the Republican party. It is in no sense a victory to the Democrats or the Reform party. The facts in the case are well understood, and the Republican press have taken pains not only to represent the true reasons for the defeat of Poland, but also impress upon the people the lessons it teaches. In the first place it proves that the Republican party, when not satisfied with the candidate who may by some means receive the nomination, do not go over to the opposition, or organize a new party, but have the disposition and ability, in such an emergency, to organize a bolt and carry it on successfully, as in the present instance, and elect a staunch Republican who is of the right ilk. The Republicans must nominate their best men for official positions if they wish to get the full strength and co-operation of the party, or to perpetuate the party. The scratched tickets which are voted of late indicate this fact very plainly. It also teaches political officers that they must discharge their duties faithfully and be held to a strict account for their conduct as public servants. Poland is charged with whitewashing reports of committees with which he was connected. He is the author of what is known as the "Poland gag law," which attempts to change the libel law to favor correspondents in Washington. These might possibly be overlooked, but Poland took the "salary grab," and this will condomn him for all time to come: This is the first opportunity the Republican party has had of showing its utter condemnation for a salary grabber, and it has

The result of the Republican Congressional Convention for this district was not received in time to give it to our readers last week. After transacting the preliminary business of the Convention, Col F. W. Curtenius, of Kalamazoo, in a few remarks eulogistic of the Hon. J. C. Burrows, moved that he be renominated by acclamation, which motion prevailed by an unanimous vote, amid loud applause. A committee was then chosen to inform Mr. Burrows of his nomination, with a request to appear before the Convention.

The address of Mr. Burrows before the Convention, accepting the nomination, we give in full below.

The following gentlemen were chosen members of the Congressional Committee: W. P. Bennett, of Cass, Chairman; Levi Beebe, of Van Buren; F. W. Curtenius, of Kalamazoo; J. P. Thresher, of Berrien; T. E. Clapp, of St. Joseph.

The following resolutions were reported and adopted:

We are, as Republicans, still called upon to stand together, to do the work which still lies before us and which makes the continued existence of the party necessary. Two years ago two parties came before the people, presenting their platforms of principles and their candidates. Those principles were discussed fairly and fully. On theone hand was the Democratic party, adopting a platform in the main good and sound, one on which even Republicans could stand. They, moreover, placed in nomination a man who had been the idol of the Republican party. Yet, with all this, and notwithstanding the disaffection in the Republican ranks, we placed Gen. Grant upon our platform, and there was never such a victory achieved. We carried 286 out of 366 electoral votes, while the opposition carried but six States in the Union. In 1868, the opposition carried eight States, and after a trial of twelve years, through the most perilous times, in war and peace, such was the splendid endorsement received by the Republican par-

On the 4th of March, 1873, this Republican party entered upon its new lease of power under the most solemn pledges to the people and the country. calling for an appropriation of $3,000,000 in aid of the proposed exposition, but which would probably end in a request for $80,000,000. Should the bill have been passed, it would have been but the entering wedge for further attacks upon the public treasury, and the Republican party would have been held responsible for all the cesults that would have followed. I

Republican Platform.

The following platform was adopted at the Republican State Convention held at Lansing, Wednesday, Sept. 2d:
We, the delegated representatives of the Republican party in Michigan, assembled in convention in the twentieth anniversary year of its organization, appear before the people of the State and of the Union after the uninterrupted exercise by that party of all the responsibilities that? In the appropriations made at the last session of Congress we made exercise by that party of all the responsibilities of power during its entire existence, offering no apologies, deprecating no criticisms, invoking no charity in the construction of its acts, but challenging a faithful scrutiny of its record through every vicissitude of war and peace, and the candid judgment of all just men.

In no spirit of vain glory, but in simple deference to historic truth, we assert that since the Republican party raised its banner in Jackson in 1854, it has never failed under trials more service than have beset the history of any other vere than have beset the history of any other party since the organization of the Government to stand in the advance line of human and national progress. During the turbulent years before the war, during the war, and in the unprecedented perplexities which succeeded, it has forfeited none of its pledges to humanity, to its sister States, nor to the interests of our own citizens. It has promised the protection of good laws and a faithful administration of them. It has legislated wisely for the development of our abundant resources. It has bec liberal in the encouragement of learning and bountiful in providing for the unfortunate. It has persistently cultivated a better civilization and there is no malignant hand that can point to any of its legislation which may be used to been prudent and economical in expenditure has kept down taxation; has been and is stead ily reducing the public indebtedness, and the financial credit of the State, under its management, is of the highest standard in all the comment, is of the highest standard in all the com-mercial cities of the world.

We shall regard it as a good reason for ac-ceding to the statement of our opponents that "the mission of the Republican party is ended," when we are pointed to a political organization when we are pointed to a pointed organization more beneficent in its aims, or more devoted or comprehensive in its patriotism; but as long as it leads all other parties, as it has done in the past and still does, in the advancement of good work, in the investigation of grievances, and in the redress of wrongs, we can discover no reason for surrendering the reins of power into the hands of a party whose last public service was to drag the country into civil war, to diagrace its financial credit, and to leave the Government on the very brink of dissolution, and which made its last effort to regain the confidence of the people under the lead of its life-long enemy to the most brazen, bare faced and shameless coalition ever known in the history of parties, formed solely and avowedly on against any.

We fully appreciate the extraordinary character of the financial difficulties through which the country has recently passed, and regard it atives should have differed like their constituencies as to what were proper remedies in circumstances wherein they were without, specific precedents for guidance. We endorse as wise and timely the measure finally agreed upon by Congress between conflicting interests and opposing theories.

While we recognize in the greenbacks and national bank notes a circulating medium far superior to any paper currency heretofore existing in the United States, saving as it does to the people, directly and indirectly, many millions of dollars annually over the old State bank system in exchange and discount, we demand hat in all financial legislation Congress shall keep steadily in view the resumption of specie payments, to the end that at the earliest day practicable the promises to pay of the Govern-ment may be equivalent to coin in like amounts hroughout the commercial world. We believe that banking, under a well guarded national system, should be free, the volume and locality of issue to be regulated by the business law of demand; and we denounce repudi-ation in every form or degree; holding the pledged faith of the Government sucred and in-violable in both letter and spirit. We would not forget the claims of the col-ored people of the South to the nation's foster tation has met with opposition from the Democratic party, and if the question is settled at all, it must be by ing care and protection. Wrested from their master's control, with freedom conferred upon them by the Government as a war measure and in aid of the Union cause, given the elective franchise as means not alone as protection to themselves, but of protection to the nation, it is now the high duty of the Government, from which it cannot shrink without incurring and know anything about it, and that we must go out and let them manage it.

Errors of theory are responsible for it. We have and mistakes in conduct are but the legitimate fruits of their former enslaved condition. The Government assumed the responsibility for evils resulting from these when it clothed them with full rights and privileges of citizens. We appeal to the National government, as the good name and fair fame of the nation is dear to it, to protect these people in their civil and political rights, and in their persons, property and homes, and to provide and secure them in the enjoyment of all educational ad-

Help Each Other.

No one is independent, all need assistance. The monarch and the millionaire, as well as the humble poor, need the friendly aid of their fellow men. This fact is universally recognized, but then too often it is not sufficiently practised. Men often prey on each other like hungry wolves when they should lend a helping hand. How many tears would be dried, hearts made whole, and dark, desolate homes ity if we all heeded the golden rule of the Savior, "Do by others as you would have others do by you." In the almost universal squabble for wealth, position, and fame, this rule is too much unheeded, and men are eager to trample on the rights of their fellow men, rob them of their just deserts, and build their fortunes on their ruin.

Those whose faith teaches that all of mankind are brethren, and are journeying together to one everlasting home, should see that they put their faith in practice and cherish fraternal brightened with sunshine and prosperfaith in practice and cherish fraternal love and good will towards each other. They should weep with those who weep, and rejoice with those who rejoice, and never, like the priests of old, pass by on the other side when they behold their fellow men in disor at least a kind word.

SCHOOL MEETING. - The annual school meeting was held at the Union School Building in this village, on Monday evening last. The number of voters present was 89. A full report was made by the Director of the money received and expended for bubuilding purposes, and also the reg-ular annual report. The reports were accepted and adopted. Wni. Pears was re-elected member of the School Board and Dr. J. M. Roe was elected vice Wm. Osborne, whose term expired. It was voted to raise, by taxation, $1,000 to discharge present indebtedness that is due and $3,200 to pay interest on indebtedness. It was voted to have ten calendar months of school without intermission, except Saturdays and legal holidays, school to be taught six hours each day, with fifteen minutes intermission in the forenoon and afternoon.

MORE ABOUT THE BURGLARIES .-On Tuesday last E. M. Plimpton left this village for Detroit, to get commission from the Governor to bring the prisoner, who was arrested in Chicago for breaking into Messrs. Estes & Noble's store, mention of which was made in last week's paper, to Buchanan. Arriving here Thursday noon, Mr. A. A. Jordan proceeded on same train on which Mr. Plimpton returned, to Springfield, Illinois, obtaining the requisition of the Governor of that State and returning via Chicago and St. Joseph, with his prisoner, Friday night. On Saturday the prisoner was brought before Justice Alexander, waived examination and was lodged in jail to await his trial at the next term of the Circuit Court. The prisoner states that this is the first time he ever was in Michigan, and that he purchased the trunk containing the stolen goods at the depot in Chicago, not knowing at the time what the trunk contained. Several parties here recognize him as being here before, and the baggageman at the depot in this village also recognizes him as being one of the parties who came with the trunk when it was checked to Chicago.

PEOPLE should remember that in patronizing our home stores, the profits on their purchases are spent at home, helping to improve and increase the general business of the place. You should always give those stores your preference, and not favor any firm that comes among us temporarily, as the money paid them is expended usually to benefit other localities. Our merchants are good business men, honest and reliable in all their dealings, do not deal in shoddy or damaged goods, and give as good bargains the year round as can be obtained anywhere. Our most prudent and careful citizens will testify to the truth of these statements.

of TUR NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA WAS COMculation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough regision, and to issue a new edition entitled The American Cycloradia.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolu-tions have occurred, involving national chang-es of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commer-cial and industrial activity has been commenc-

Large occessions to our geographical knowl-edge have been made by the indefinigable exolorers of Africa. The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multi-tude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battle have been fought and important sieges main-tained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transcient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history. In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventious in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and histori-The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ful termination. None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type; forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experionce and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been ad-ded not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufaccost of their execution is onormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopedia, and worthy of its high character. -This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. A victim is likely to drown, All hall to the friend whose devotion, Will lift a man up when he's "down."

Frankness.

· Be frank with the world. Frankness is the child of honesty and courage. Say just what you mean to do on overy occasion, and take it for granted that you must do what is right. If a friend asks you a favor, you should grant it if it is reasonable; if it is not, tell him plainly why you cannot; you will wrong him and yourself by equivocation of any kind. Never do a wrong thing to make friends or to keep one. The man who requires you to do so is dearly purchased and at a sacrifice. Deal kindly and firmly with all men, and you will find it a policy which wears the best. Above all, do not appear to others what you are not. If you have fault to find with any one, tell him, not others, of what you complain. There is no more dangerous experiment than that of undertaking to do one thing to a man's face and another behind his back. We should live and speak out of doors, as the phrase is, and do what we are willing should be known and read by all men. It is not best as a matter of policy, but as a matter of principle.

About Idleness.

Many young people think an idle life must be a pleasant one. But this is a sad mistake, as they would soon find out if they made a trial of the life they think so agreeable. One who is never busy can never enjoy rest; for rest emplies a relief from previous labor; and if our whole time were spent in amusing ourselves, we should find it more wearisome then the hardest day's work. Recreation No. 22 Curtis Moldboards (wood beam). 2 50 is only valuable as it unbonds us; the idle can know nothing of it. Many people leave off business and settle down for a life of enjoyment but they find that they are not nearly so happy as they were before, and they are often glad to return to the occupation to escape the miseries.

Let Us Have Falth.

*Let us have faith that right makes might, and in that faith let us to the end dare to do our duty."
In looking over the rocord of the noble life which drew this grand utterance, we realize that the sentiment was no spread-eagle bombast for sensational speech-meeting, no romantic motto for floating pennons at gay tournaments, but a great principle which inspired the immortally grand action of an earnest man. It holds a spirit of faith in the power of truth that overleaps the hoveling mo-tive which looks alone to policy. It carries a heroism that made a martyr to a good cause. The result it accomplished is too great to be measured by time. The human beings it freed from slavery are not yet born, and already they number millions. Shall it help us also to bring to freedom numberless bondsmen more slavish than these? "LET US HAVE FAITH."

Patienco.

One of the hardest lessons to learn is to wait. It is easy to be patient while the hand and brain are busy, but to be thrown out of employment, to see no prospects in the future but darkness above and all around, and yet be serene is only possible to the sub-lime soul that can look, by faith, beyoud the mists of the present to eternal suns that shine where infinite love resides. A faith that can overleap the trials which beset men's pathway, and grasp the promised good for the future, is worthy to be set after, and is surely attainable, for the purpose is steadfast. "Whatsoever things yo desire, believe that ye shall receive them and ye shall have them." He who performs to the best of his ability every duty, may rest assured that his life will be fruitful. The night may seem long to the waiting one, but the morning will dawn in the appointed time.

THE very common and very world-ly and very wicked objection against moral reform, that "there is a demand for wickedness, and there must be a supply for it," is one that is so cold blooded, so utterly abhorrent to every mother's heart, who has a son to lose by one vice or a daughter by another, that it seems far more satanic than human. We envy no man his religion or his philanthrophy, who can look upon his fellow men as so much "food for the Devil's powder," and never feel a single threb of noble impulse that brings him to the rescue. He is no true man, to woman born, but only an incarnation of unmittigated selfishness.—Temperance Record.

DELAY not repentance one moment. for if you repent not this present day -you will have a day more to repent of and a day less to repent in.

Some professors of religion are much more ready to fight for christianity than they are to live according to its precepts.

KEEP your temper in disputes; the cool hammer fashions the red hot iron into any shape needed.

Indistinct Ailments. There are many distressing symptoms of disease the causes of which are uncertain. Debility, nervous irritation, mental stupor and headache; for instance, may possibly be symptomatic of chronic disense in some particular organ; yet, in, a great majority of cases, they arise from indigestion, and morbid conditions of the liver and bowels engendered by a foul stomach. When this is the case a few doses of Hostotter's Stomach Bitters will usually effect a complete cure, but should the symptoms be only miligated without being entirely removed, by a brief course of the remedy, let. it, be continued until every trace of disease has vanished. Dyspepsia is a wonderful mimic. It imitates heart disease, brain disease, kidney disease, and half a dozen other frightful ailments, and when the doctors have solemnly announced the existence of one or other of these complaints, half a dozen doses of the Bitters will; in most cases, explode their theories by curing the pa-

Duad Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect-Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, reliev-ing Congestion or Inflammation of the Eiver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Dis-

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form. 🔭 🔭

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long inwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vine-GAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigor-ant that ever sustained the sinking system. Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vincoar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time of implointments.

which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

HAIR ERENEWER. -Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HARR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous; and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff, and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance: A. A.
