THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER

IF I COULD KEEP HER SO. BY LOUISE CHANDLER MOULTON.

Poetry.

Just a little baby, lying in my arms— Would that I could keep you, with your bab ckarms; Helpless, clinging fingers, downy, golden hair, Where the sunshine lingers, caught from other Blue eyes asking questions, lips that cannot speak, Rolv-poly shoulders, dimple in your check; Dainty little blossoms in a world of wee, Thus I fain to keep you, for I love you so. Roguish little damsel, scarcely six years old-Feet that never weary, hair of deeper gold;

Restless, busy fingers all the time at play, Tongue that never ceases talking all the day Blue eyes learning wonders of the world about Here you come to tell them-what an eager

Winsome little damsel, all the neighbors know; Thus I long to keep you, for I love you so. Sober little school girl, with your strap of books, And such grave importance in your puzzled

Solving weary problems, poring over sums, Yet with tooth for sponge-cake and for sugar Reaging books of romance in your bed a

Waking up to study with the morning light, Anxious as to ribbons, deft to tie a bow, Full of contradictions-I would keep you so.

Sweet and thoughtful maiden, sitting by my side, All the world's before you, and the world is wide; Hearts are there for winning, hearts are there to break, Has your own, shy maiden, just begun to wake? Is that rose of dawning glowing on your cheek Telling us in blushes what you will not speak? Shy and tender maiden, I would fain forego All the golden future, just to keep you so.

Ah! the listening angels saw that she was fair,
Ripe for rare unfolding in the upper air;
Now the rose of dawning turns to lily white,
And the close shut eyelids well the eyes from sight; All the past I summon, as I kiss her brow— Babe, and child, and maiden, all are with me Oh! my heart is breaking: but God's love Safe among the angels, He will keep her so.

An Old Lawyer's Story.

DEFAULT having been made in the conditions of a certain indenture of mortgage, made and accuted by Jacob Brown, of the village and township of Buchanan, in the County of Berrien and State of Michigan, to Itaniel A Waguer, of the same place, dated the nist day of May, A. D. 1872, to secure the sum of twelve hundred and fifty dollars, according to the conditions of five certain promissory notes of even data with said mortgage, which said mortgage was duly recerded in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the County of Berrien and State of Michigan, on the eighth day of May, A. D. 1872, at 11/2 o'clock, P. M. of said day, in Liber five 50 of Mortgages, on page 363, as appears by the record thereof. And whereas there is caimed to be due and owing upon said notes for principal and interest, at the date of this notice, the sum of six hundred and sixteen dollars and twenty-two cents. And no sait or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the whole or any part thereof, therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of a power of sale in said mortgage contained, that the premises set forth and described in said mortgage will be sold at public anction to the highest bidder, at the front doer of the Court House, in the village of Berrien Springs, in said County, on the s-venteenth day of October, A. The said premises in said mortgage are described as follows, to wit: (1) of Johnfamilton's the of the village A great many years ago, while was comparatively a young man, and still unmarried, I resided in a certain city of Pennsylvania, and enjoyed the reputation of being the cleverest lawyer ever known there. It is not for me to say the praise was merited, but I certainly found myself able to dis cover loop holes of escape for those whom I defended, which surprised even my fellow lawyers. I possessed by nature those qualities which would have made an excellent detective, and I was a thorough student of the law. There was no mystery about it, but among the more ignorant classes I had gained a reputation for more than human knowledge Perhaps it was not polite for them to say that the devil helped, but they did. However, I began to tell you about Mme. Matteau.

She was an old lady, who owned a little house in the suburbs of the city. She herself was of American birth, but her husband had been a Frenchman, and so the title madame had been bestowed upon her. She was now a widow, and her daughter Gabriella and her son Henri were her only living relatives. Her income was but slender, and she eked it out by taking a few boarders, generally steady old people who had known her for many years. These respected and liked her; but the city generally had a prejudice against her. There had been two sudden deaths in her house. Each time the victim was a stranger who came at night and was found dead Sawyer, in the village and township of The Oaks, in said county, on Monday, Septems in his bed in the morning. Each time 28th, 1874, on Monday, Oct. 5th, 1874, and a the jury was divided—some believing Monday, Nov. 2d, 1874, at 10 o'clock in the that strangulation had been the cause foreneon of each of said days. It was a terrible thing that two h deaths should have occurred beth her roof. Madame's friends hd her. The rest of the little world hd that these were strangers, and th trunks, with no one knew how Administrator's Sale.

In the matter of the estate of Samuel Collins, deceased. Notice-is hereby given that by virtue of an order of the Judge of Probate of Berrien County, in the State of Michigan, made on the 29th day of June A. D. 1874, in the matter of the estate of Samuel Collins, deceased, the undersigned, W. K. White, Administrator of said estate, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder, on the premises, in the townships of Gallen and Three Oaks, in said County of Berrien, on Saturday the 26th day of September, A. D. 1874, between the hours of 11 o'clock A. M. and 2 o'clock P. M., the following described real estate, to wit: A part of the South-east one quarter (A) of section Notione, (1) township eight, (3) south of range twenty (20) west—three and a half (3) acres. Also, the East one half (4) of North-west one quarter (A) of section seventeen, (17) township eight, (8) south of range inneten (10) West—eighty (80) acres. All in Berrien County, Michigan.

Terms and conditions of sale made known on the mumoney and other valuable propertJamained in madame's possession to one said she was a murderess, everyone said it was "very strant in an odd tone, and no one since t second death had visited Mme. iteau.

I, my perhaps because I had admired a great deal, and her daughter ch more—had always insisted that was merely a coincidence, and in a will in which apoplexy and heart disea are so common, it was no such many at two men should have met such the deaths in the same house. Bulmy faith in this same house. hand. "Mme. Matteau," I said, "he calm: collect yourself. As your lawyer I must know all. Tell me, from first to last, what happened-what was said. what was done. If you-"

I paused; her black eyes had flashed upon me. I could not ask her whether she had any confession to make. I saw that she had not. Un less she was the best actress who ever lived, Mme. Matteau was innocent of any crime.

"If you have any suspicions," I added, "tell them all to me." "There is no one to suspect," sobbed the poor woman. "In the house were Gabriella, my daughter, whom you have seen: old Hannah, the cook; Mr. and Mrs. Beauchamp, friends of my poor dear husband in his boyhood—the best. kindest people; Mr. Gray, a very old man, too feeble to leave the house; poor, deformed Miss. Norman, and the librarian, Mr. Bassford. None of these would murder a mouse. See how kind they are; they remain in my house; they send me word that they have no doubt of me. Oh, how can anybody?" "And this man who-" I began. "Yes," said Mmc. Matteau. will tell you; he was fair, young, handsomely dressed; he asked Mr. Bassford at the depot if he knew of anyone who could accommodate him. Mr. Bassford brought him home. My only empty room was the one in which those other two strangers died. I could not bear to put him there, but Mr. Bassford laughed at me. We had supper afterward. He talked a long while to Gabriella. It was late ask." when we retired—late for a quiet household. Hannah had made his fire. She came and told that she had done so. He said good night. "After he had gone we found that he had left his watch on the table. He wore it only by a bunch of seals, and he had been setting it by the clock, and showing it to us as something very handsome. I knocked at his door to restore it to him. He had not left us but fifteen minutes before; but he must have been asleep already, for he made no answer. So I kept it fir the night, and wore it lown to breakfast next morning. I came down I met a gentleman in the hall. He inquired for Mr. Glen.

That was the new comer's name. I sent Hannah to wake him. She had a key that would open the door, and used it. The next thing I knew we were all in the room and the windows were wide open, and the doctor had been sent for; and the young man who called was screaming that his brother had been choked to death; and there was the inquest, and they arrested me. The brother said the first thing to be noticed was that I were Mr. Glen's watch and seals: I had forgotten it in my terror." "So Hannah had a key to the room?"

"Yes; at least it was one that would open it. It was the key to Mr. Bassford's room. She knocked the other out with a stick and put that "The people who were there on that night were your boarders when the other men were found dead," I asked.

"Oh, yes!" "And Hannah was there also?" "All my married life Hannah has lived with me."

"Your daughterove sees your household in your absence?" "Yes, poor child, with Hannah's

I thought a little while. "Madame," I said, "there is some strange mystery in the affair. I do despair of proving your entire, innocence. Meanwhile, be as calm as possible, and endeavor to remember everything connected with the sudden deaths that have occurred in your house. The incident that seems the least important may really be of the most immense value."

So I left and went home. Strange enough, on the way I met the doctor who had been called in. He was a dull, heavy kind of a person, considerably given to beer drinking, and my opinion of his ability was not very great. However, I questioned him on the subject, and he replied: "Well, you see, I don't say the old woman murdered him. If she did, I should say it was by sitting on him, or smothering him with the bolsters. I suppose the cause of his death, was asphpxia. Well, then, what is asphyxia? Why, too little breath to keep one living. He died because he was short of breath. I wash my hands on that matter. Only there's the watch; that looks hard.

I had learned nothing from the doctor. The coroner lived near me. His jury had been twelve of the most ignorant men in town. This is all he told me.

"He was smothered, that man was, so were the other two. Men don't smother themselves. We made it inscrutable Providence t'other time. We make it murder this time. That there watch, you know."

was but one way in which to pene- toward the hearth. I do not know trate the mystery. I must enter the how long I sat there. Suddenly I be-She was chilly with house; I must see the people there, came and a loss to the fire her chair these men had died so suddenly, and hands had been clasped about my spiritualist had she lived to day, was a mere absurdity.

"I believe that there is some horrible unseen thing in the room," she said, "some awful shapeless spirit, that when it is locked in with the victim, murders him. Let others believe what they will, I believe that."

The words haunted me, but I laughed at them, of course. Whatever it was I would try to know. I had a plan.

At dusk I went into my bedroom myself. I came out a strange man. I wore a white wig, a pair of green goggles and an overcoat, the tails of which reached to my heels. I had a muffler around my throat and a little | self upon the bed, I also should have hunch on one of my shoulders. I carried a thick cane and stooped a great deal as I walked. In my hand I carried a carpet-bag, and in my bosom a pair of pistols, well loaded. As I passed out into the street the early moon was just rising; she lit me on my way to the door of Mme. Mat-teau's house. It was opened for me when I knocked, by old Hannah. Her eyes were red and swollen. Then I told her that I was a stranger, and had received Mme. Matteau's address from a gentleman in New York, and desired to stay all night under her roof. She shook her head.

"I don't think you can," she said. "The lady is away from home. Besides we are in trouble here. I don't think Miss Gabriella would---" But here Miss Gabriella herself appeared. "I am an old man, miss," I said, "and as you see quite infirm. I dread another step. I should take it as a kindness if you would accommodate me, and I will pay you any price you

Miss Gabriella looked at Hannah. "We have only one room," she said, "and that--" I ended the question of my stay by begging to be taken to it. "You will have supper, sir?" asked the girl.

But I declared that I had eaten. and only wanted rest. Her reply was:

"Hannah, show the gentleman to the blue room and make a fire." I was in the blue room, the scene of the three sudden deaths or murders. It was a small apartment, painted blue. It had also tains, and a blue silk coverlet on the bed; a neat striped carpet, a set of old mahogany furniture, and a very handsome ewer and a basin of costly china. It was at that time almost a universal custom to burn wood. In this room, however, was a small coal fire. I alluded to this as Hanna came in with the scuttle. "Yes, sir," she said. Misses does burn coals. Her son is a clerk or the like at the new mines at Mauch Chunk, and he sends it cheap to her: but it's a nasty, dirty-smelling thing, and I hate it Now it's built and lit, 'twill warm up in fifteen minutes. It takes longer than wood." She went out of the door and came back in a minute with a little tray on which stood a pot and a cup and saucer, also a bowl and a tiny pitcher, and something in a napkin:

"Miss sent a bit and a sip," said she. "Tea rests us old folk mightily. Good night." "Good night," I said, "I expect I shall sleep soon: I must be up verv early, though, for I have bills to pay, I have some hundreds of dollars with me to pay out to-morrow, and it's in this bag.

She looked at me in a queer sort of a way and lingered beside me. At last she spoke: "Look ye, sir; I think that old folks of your age do wrong to lock doors on themselves. You might be, ill at night, and who'd get in to you? Leave your door unlocked."

Was it this woman's practice to beg travelers who stopped with her mistress not to lock the doors? Was, there some baneful potion in the cup she had given me?

It was an innocent looking cup enough—an old-fashioned affair covered with little gilt springs. The tea was fragrant Hyson; but the suspicion that had crept into my mind had tainted it. I fancied a strange color, a curious smell. I put it from me and would not have tasted it for a king-

I had not intended to sleep, and I did not undress myself. I merely removed my disguise, and sat down beside the table with my pistols beside me. That some attempt might shortly be made to murder me I felt to be possible. I thought of all the old tales I had heard of trap doors, and sliding panels, and secret entrances to travelers' rooms. I was not a coward, but I felt strangely nervous; and singularly enough for a man in my perfect health my hands were growing. cold, and my feet were lumps of ice, while my head was burning hot.

. Fifteen minutes had passed and the fire was kindled, but the room was not warm. The blue flames struggled among the black coals, and flung fork ed tongues tipped with yellowish tints into the room. There was nothing cheerful about the stove, though it was of that open style now called Thus, without any new light, I went | Franklin. Yet I drew a chair toward home and formed my plans. There it from habit, and sat with my feet moment more I was able to clamber out of it upon the shed below.

There I remained until the day dawn. With my returning senses the truth came to me. That which had murdered the three men who slept before me in the blue chamber was nothing more or less than the coal stove.

It was provided with what is called a damper, and this being caught in a manner which closed it sent the poisonous air into the room. It had been kindled as a wood-fire would have been at the hour of retiring, by one quite ignorant of the danger possible from coal gas, and they had slept never to awaken. Had I thrown mybeen found dead at daylight, in all probability.

As for the fact that neither doctor nor coroner discovered the truth, I have but to say that they were not deeply scientific men.

Of course I rejoiced the household by my discovery next morning, and equally, of course, Mme. Matteau, who was not only freed from suspicion, but became the object of universal sympathy. She was always grateful to me, and she proved her gratitue by giving me what I soon asked for, the hand of her daughter Gabriella in marriage.

Naming the Baby.

Smudge had ransacked various books for a name, and as the sixth of the latest edition of Smudge was indicative of toil in the ranks of men, as the infant looked strong-almost warlike-a great name was the quest of its distracted parents. Mrs. S. wanted it named after some Bible character. Smudge suggested Samson Goliah which would typify strength. Mrs. S. leaned to Moses Samuel, emblamatical of weakness.

Smudge had declared that he would expose the child to the measles before it should be nicknamed Mose or Sam. Then he hinted at Jonah; but Mrs. S. would listen to no such monogram She didn't want her last child's name connected with the fish story! Already they had named one child Haman and she was sure that he would be hanged some day. Seeing that no Scriptural name could be agreed upon, she suggested Omega, reminding Smudge that they had named their first child Alpha.

"You don't call this one Omega, said Smudge. "I'll put the name away, and when we want it I'll let you know. How would Martin Luther do?"

"I'm a Baptist, I am, Smudge, retorted Mrs. S., coloring. "I don't want any Lutheran names in this house. For your mother's sake I allowed one of my children to be called Jonathan Wesley. She don't poke any Methodist names on me again. If Luther had been a Baptist the name might do There's Roger Williams. Roger Williams, Smudge, would sound well. He could write it

R. William Smudge, you see." "But he never will," cried the parent, with determination. "Roger Williams was a Baptist, and you know, Mrs. Smudge, that I don't lean that way. I'd sooner call him Tom Paine." "Call him Tom Paine and I'll kill him before he's weaned." "You like Puritans, Mrs. Smudge.

Call him Miles Standish." "No sir! I don't want my child to grow up with any such outlandish name. You called our second boy Plymouth Rock Smudge, and that name will kill him before he votes. No more Puritan names." "You're the confoundest particular woman I ever saw," retorted Smudge. "If it had been a girl we would have called her Cleopatra Octavo."

"No we wouldn't. Our fourth girl now groans under the name of Olympia Tarpei. It will make her an old maid. Let's compromise, Smudge. You like a strong mame Goliah, for instance I a Baptist one. Let's call the boy Roger W. Goliah Smudge." "Put the Bible name first?"

"I won't do it!" "Then we'll call him something

"My father's name was Joshua Gideon," meekly suggested Mrs. S. "What do I care if it was. None of my children shall be called after any of your relatives. That's settled Let's fall back on a late name—Garibaldi, for instance."

"Or Bonaparte." "Which one?" "Nepoleon the Third." "No; I won't have him called Bonaparte.' "Then you shan't call him Garibaldi," retorted Mrs. S. firmly. Smudge, you're the thickest individual I ever lived with. You won't listen to anything I propose.'

"Then call the boy Daniel Webster. I always admired the old statesman.' "Our family shan't-be disgraced by a Whig name," said Mrs. Smudge. 'Lafayette is a great, a good name.' Smudge thought; he was on the eve of suggesting the name of the great Frenchman himself.

Smudge. "There's your old Baptist name again! I tell you, Roger Williams shan't in any form hang to that boy's coat tail."

"He must have a middle name."

And thus the quarreling over the Farm and Household.

Plaster or No Plaster. Formerly farmers of this section placed great reliance on the use of gypsum, or ground plaster, as a stimulant or fertilizer, but of late many have materially altered their minds with regard to the benefit derived from its application and some have abandoned its use altogether. Those who have ceased to use it think that when the land was new, its benefit was marked and apparant, but that, as their land grows older, plaster ceased to be of benefit. They have claimed to have tested this matter by applying it in alternate strips of corn, as well as on clover or grass lands and that thev could notice no difference in the growth of vegetation, by or from its use. I have used none myself for the past two years, and with the exception mentioned below, have noticed no material diminution in the yield of any meadows or pastures as the result; but I have a newly seeded ten acre meadow, upon one half of which I sowed plaster at the time of seeding two years ago this spring will produce one third more hay; the difference in the growth of the grass (clover and timothy, half and half) is very marked. This field is what is here known as old land, having been cleared some thirty years.

Many years ago I noticed the same difference upon a newly seeded field of clover, that had been cleared two years preivous; part of the lot had an application of gysum and part did not. The difference in the growth of clover on those two plats was so great that standing on an eminence half a mile distant, it was plainly apparent during the growth season for two or country?" remarked one of the genthree years. Upon the part sown with plaster, the growth of clover was much ranker and greener. And now for the conclusion to the whole mat-"And what do you think of our those who have ceased to use gypsum will eventually "come back to their old love" again; that they have heretofore been too profuse in its use and that their lands have become "plaster sick," or else that they have been imposed upon by dealers, who have sold them an inferior article. Unless I should see good reasons for the contrary, I shall bereafter give my clover and grass lands a light dressing with plaster once in two years.—Penn. Cor. Country Gentleman.

Hogs that Will Not Kill Poultry.

A South Carolina gentleman, having found that Cheser-White hogs were addicted to killing poultry, and having heard that Berkshires were inclined the same way, was induced to try the Essex, a small fine black kind. He found them most innocent, and since keeping them he has not lost a

The Western Rural does not adduce this as advising our Western swine-breeders to give up Chester, Berkshire, Poland, etc., on account of poultry killing propensities, for, even if it were true that these favorite breeds were such connibals, it will pay better to keep chickens out of their way than to forego the profit arising by feeding of heavy swine in the great corn zone of the West. We do not look to see the Essex favorites except among suburban farmers, and that other class who raise only a few igs. - Western Rural.

Paper Flour Barrels.

About the coming flour barrel, which is to be of paper made from the straw of the grain, the Republican of Decorah, Iowa, at which place a factory is established, says:-This paper barrel is a round cylinder of heavy compressed waterproof paper, about one-fourth of an inch thick, wooden head and bottom. There are two paper hoops at the ends on which the barrel rolls. The barrel has no "belly" and weighs ten pounds less than the wooden barrel, and consequently about five barrels more than at present can be loaded in a car. These barrels are also air tight and water proof, and they stand more thumping and rough usage, we verily believe, than the best oak stave bar-

Our columns to day contain the news of a little boy having been bitten by a rattlesnake in Cambridge, and this is only one of some three or four similar incidents which have occured in this county this season. A lady correspondent writes us that a little sweet oil taken internally and some rubbed on the part bitten, with a cloth, as soon as possible after the Lite, will be found a sure cure, either on cattle, horses or human beings. She says she has tried this remedy on her own person, and on a horse, and that it is an absolute cure. This is

THE BOY WITH THE HICKORYSHIRT.

A fig for your upper-ten boys, With their canes and cigars and eye-glasses; Their dandified airs and soft eyes, Winking down on each girl that passes; They may guzzle clamoake and champagne And pride in their very high birth; But give me that lad that goes plain, That boy with the hickory shirt.

He is round as a barrel, and brown As the peach in the mid-autumn sun; From the sole of his foot to his crown, He is brim full of frolic and fun. Not afraid of hard work or of cold, He is fearless and rough, without hurt : His honor's as good as pure gold-The boy with the hickory shirt.

To say his big heart cannot beat With kindness for parents and brothers, Would picture his traits incomplete. If his sisters shared not with the others, In fact he's a broth of a blade: I can't fathom how much he is worth; But the poor girl's fortune is made,
That gets Jim with the hickory shirt.

- A Mutual Mistake.

In the other years, when Maine was a district of Massachusetts, Ezeikel Whitman was among those chosen to represent the district in the Massachusetts Legislature. He was an eccentric man, and one of the best lawvers of his time. In -those days Whitman owned a farm, and did much work upon his land; and it so happened that when the time came for him to set out for Boston, his best clothes were a suit of home spun. His wife objected to h s going in that garb, but he did not care. "I will get a nice, fashionable suit made as soon as I reach Boston,' he said.

Reaching his destination, Whitman sought rest at Doolittle's City Tavern. Let it be understood that he was a graduate of Harvard, and that at this tavern he was at home.

As he entered the parlor of the house, he found that several ladies and two or three gentlemen were there assembled, and he heard a remark from one of them, "Ha! here comes a countryman of the real home-spun genus. Here's iun." Whitman stared at the company and then sat down. "Say, my friend, are you from the

"Ladies and gentlemen, permit me to wish you health and happiness, with every other blessing earth can afford and may you grow better and wiser with advancing years, bearing ever in mind that outward appearances are often deceitful. You mistook me, from my dress, for a country booby, while I, from the same superficial cause, thought you were ladies and gentlemen. The mistake has been mutual." He had just spoken, when Caleb Strong, the Governor of the State, entered and inquired for Mr. Whit-"Ah! here I am, Governor: Glad to see you." Then turning to the dumbfounded company: "I wish you a very good evening." And he left them feeling about as small and cheap as it is possible for full-grown people to feel.

A Horse Attacked With Hydrophobia

The Liverpool Daily Albion says A remarkable case of hydrophobia has occurred at Robert Town, Liverpool, near Dewsbury. On the 16th of last May a mare, the property of Edward Walker, farmer, was bitten by a small black and tan terrier dog, which was seen to run into the stable in which the mare was located. Mr. Walker drove it away, and although he followed it, lost sight of it in one of the lanes of the village. Half an hour afterwards the dog returned to the stable and again snapped at the mare whereupon she kicked it. On the 2d instant the horse's lower lip became very much swollen, and Mr. Sumper, veterinary surgeon, having been called in, he treated it for a disease known as the staggers. On "Lafayette Williams," says Mrs. Monday night however, the animal became very violent, and snapped and bit at everything within her reach. Ultimately she exhibited all the symptoms of hydrophobia. The veterinary surgeon pronounced that she was suf-"Then you shan't call him, Lafayfering from the disease, and conse-

"Whose Glory Is His Shame." ED. RECORD :- Quite a feeling of indignation in the Christian community, has been caused by the erection of an Atheistical monument recently in our cemetery. The monument itself is beautiful and artistic in style and finish, but covered over with words of moral filth, falsehoods and obscene blasphemy. On all the other monuments are inscribed words of reverence, trust, hope and confidence in the All Father, and in a resurrection through the merits of His Son, to an endless life of blissful immortality. But on this, God, His word, His Church, religion, in fact, everything good and sacred, are blackened with the filthy effusions of an Atheistic brain. All good and decent men and women denounce this monument, thus nscribed, as a moral nuisance, that ought to be abated, if there is any lawfor it, and if there is not, it is because our Legislature never dreamed of such an infamous sacrilege being perpetrated in a Christian burying-ground, and therefore made no provisions for its abatement. But let it stand. Monuments may be erected to folly and infamy as well as to fame and sacred memory. The author may congratulate himself that his lot is not cast in a land where his principles prevail for if he has read history, he can call to mind a few instances where his Atheistical principles were, for a time, triumphant. It wasn't necessary then to search the land over for specimens law and rectitude, for they were the rule instead of the exception. Heaven save us from such a rule in this land.

WE give our readers this week the Platforms of the Democratic and Reform parties of this State. The platforms this year are not subject to very severe criticism.

In this age of scepticism, facts are reuired to inspire confidence in the minds of the people; but, with good endorsers, they are willing to test any article claiming extraordinary merit. The proprietors of Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer offer the following endersement of the merits claimed by them for their preparations by the Pittsburg, Pa., "Christian Advocate," viz: "The public have so often been deceived by the use of worthless preparations for the hair, that an article of this kind, to gain their favor and secure their patronage must possess real meret. We are glad to assure our readers that Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer is meeting with the success which its merits justly deserve; and we have reliable evidence, that it will perform all that is claimed for it in restoring gray hair to its natural color, and, as a permanent dressing, is unsurpassed."

Centaur Liniment. There is no pain which the Contant Linimentjwill not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue, and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. It has produced more cures of rhoumatism neuralgia, lockjaw, palsy, sprains, swellings, caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, ear-ache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains, spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk red harmless, and are healed without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is solling as no artide ever before sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheuma tism, pain or swelling deserve to suffer if they will not use Contaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheu matism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spayined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Never before in the history Head, nerves, kidneys, bladder, womb, and blood. Affections of the urinary organs, gravel, scrofula, rheumatism, catarrh, asthma, brunchitis, dyspepsia, &c.

Dr. Prico's reputation has been acquired: candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with years of experimene and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, make sick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinion, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or to cure everybody, but do claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their allment, to call; investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogations and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing, as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

Dr. V. Clarence Price can be consulted at Niles, Reading House. Saturday and Sunday, the 19th and 20th of September, 1874. At Laporte, Merrill Hönse, on Saturday and Sunday, the 29th and 30th of August.

Much serious sickness and suffering is prevented by their timely use; and every family should have them on hand for their protection and relief; when required. Long experience has proved them to be the safest, surest, and best of all the Pills with which the market abounds. By their occasional use, the blood is purified, the corruptions of the system expelled, obstructions removed, and the whole machinery of life restored to its healthy activity. Internal organs which become clogged and sluggish are cleansed by Ayer's Pills, and stimulated into action. Thus incipient disease is changed into health, the value of which change, when reckoned on the vast multitudes who enjoy it, can hardly be computed. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and preserves their virtues unimpaired for any length of time, so that they are ever fresh, and perfectly reliable. Although searching, they are mild, and operate without disturbance to the constitution, or diet, or occupation.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, Billous Headdache, Sick Headache, Jaundice or Green Sickness, Billous Colic and Billous Evers, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhoen, but one mild dose is generally required For Dysentery or Diarrhoen, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rhenmatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Meart, Pain in the side, Back and Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression, a large dose should be taken, as it produces the desired effect by sympathy. nathy.
As a Dinner Pill, take one or two Pills to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.
An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these Pills makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

More Rattlesnakes Wanted

In the state of Ohio there resided a family consisting of an old man of the name of Beaver, and his four sons, all of whom were hard "pets," who had often laughed to scorn the advice and entreaties of a pious, though very eccentric minister, whe resided in the same town. It happened that one of the boys was bitten by a rattlesnake, and was expected to die, when the minister was sent for in great haste. On his arrival he found the young man very penitent and anxious to be prayed with. The minister called upon the family, knelt down and prayed in this wise : "O Lord, we thank Thee for rattlesnakes. We thank Thee because a rattlesnake has bitten Jim. We pay Thee to send a rattlesnake to bite John; send one to bite Bill, send one to bite Sam; and, O Lord, send Thy biggest rattle-ing but rattlesnakes will ever bring the Beaver family to repentance.' A one-legged soldier, a Mor mon, recently asked Brigham Young to supply, by a miracle, the missing limb; but the Apostle, not to be they remove the cause of disease, and the taries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by ex-tensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspensia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the off-springs of Dyspepsia. Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has hap-pily been ended, and a new course of commer-cial and industrial activity has been commenc-

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transcient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authen-

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and histori-The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a success

been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its com-position as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge. The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explana-tions in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture, and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufac-tures. Although intended for instruction rath-or than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character. worthy of its high character.
