Poetry.

THE POOR MAN AT THE GATE OF PARADISE.

A poor old fellow died a bitter cold day. And directly he paraded his way; Saint Peter he met—his dream I relate— With his great shining keys, keeping ward at the Gate.

Story.

The Power of a Smile.

Beautiful, indeed, did Irene Daton look in her costly silks and glittering diamonds, as she received the many guests who were continually arriving at her father's mansion, although it was yet an early hour; for, he it understood, this was the birthday of the lovely and aristocratic belle, Irene.

temples with an electric force. The flash of his eye was fiery and perceptible, the demon within him was aroused, and Walter Chester's power was gone; and when Irene's victim left her father's mansion, he was carried out by his friends—dishonored—disgraced—drunk—lost to friends, to society and himself.

Five years have passed and gone since we last visited the romantic little town of Walton. Five years have wrought many changes in the history of those who have been mentioned in this life sketch.

It is a beautiful spring day as the narrator alights from the train at the little railway station in Walton. Beautiful spring—the harbinger of returning joy—has not failed to return in her annual visit, when with all that makes this life pleasant and enjoyable.

Proceeding along the only street leading to the quiet village, we meet many familiar objects, the sight of which recalled pleasant memories; we faintly would dwell upon them, but our reveries were suddenly disturbed by the approach of a carriage drawn by two fiery horses, which the driver was vainly endeavoring to control.

At eight o'clock the young man came back to the late evening on which we saw him, when he was borne from Judge Daton's residence, intoxicated; and, dwelling upon the scenes of that evening, the mystery is not so deep, and partially clears away, and our imagination leads us along the downward path of the unfortunate young man, until we find him drinking the very dregs of degradation.

Great, indeed was the astonishment which depicted itself upon Irene's face as she beheld the man who had been the subject of her father's indignation, and who had been the subject of her father's indignation, and who had been the subject of her father's indignation.

Irene was victorious; and with a feeling of triumph she entered with more earnestness and zest into the pleasures of the evening.

a morbid desire to see him again a prosperous and temperate man. She would not confess to herself, at first, that this was the case, but as the time drew nigh for Walter to leave the hospitable home of Judge Daton, she was forced to listen to the pleadings of her own heart, and she would fain have stayed the hour of his departure.

And how was it with our hero? Was he willing to leave the home of her who had done so much for him with only a feeling of gratitude and thankfulness? Ah, no! During his hours of anguish had she not smoothed his fevered brow, moistened his parched lips, and administered many other little acts of love and sympathy?

Late one afternoon, as he was reclining on one of the rustic seats in the arbor, and thinking over the past and the future, he murmured to himself— "How different it might have been."

At the November election of 1864, a farmer from W. township, came to town early in the morning for the purpose of voting.

His wife wanted some pepper and salt. And accordingly, John, whose memory was treacherous, made a memorandum of the articles on a slip of paper, which he put in his vest pocket.

Arriving in town he proceeded at once to the polls to vote his ticket, when the clerk informed him that he had voted.

The Paris correspondent of the New York Times writes: "The American Register has just had an adventure which is probably unique in the history of journalism."

Miscellaneous.

SAUERKRAUT.

Now, you'll listen to what I speak about, I'm going for to tell you to make dot sauerkraut. Sauerkraut aint made of ledder, as every one subboos. But of dot teetle flower vet we calls de cabbage rosses.

At the Central Station Court. "And so he laid him down and died For the love of Barbara Allen."

A FAMILY DIALOGUE. James Pardon was that same husband. He had passed the Monday of his life, as well as his companion, but he was better than three dead men.

How He Voted. At the November election of 1864, a farmer from W. township, came to town early in the morning for the purpose of voting.

Weather-Wise Wonder-Workers. A writer in one of Eastern sensation papers in 1870 predicted storms, floods and earthquakes for that season, founding the prediction upon the number of icebergs in the Atlantic.

Supply of Wools and Woolens. A New York paper calls attention to the fact that a great number of the woolen mills are able to run but a few hours daily, at most, on account of a lack of water, and that in the last ninety days, not half the quantity of wools have been manufactured that the mills are able to produce.

answer to this charge I'll elevate you for six months without further delay," exclaimed his Honor, as he raised his glasses.

Signs, Tokens and Warnings. I believe in signs, warnings and tokens. I say this knowing that many will criticize, but I have had too many demonstrations to allow me to doubt that certain coming events cast their shadows before.

Prospects for Pork. If there was ever a case where it was safe to make predictions the facts would seem to justify the prediction that the farmer who will have a good lot of pigs for fattening next fall will have desirable property.

Keeping the Plowman Cool. The last thing out for keeping farmers from being sunburned is an umbrella attachment for swing plows. It is an elegant device, and will, undoubtedly fill the eye of the city farmer.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

STATE TICKETS. For Justice of the Supreme Court, for full term, B. M. HARRIS, of St. Joseph, Mich. For Justice of the Supreme Court, for full term, B. M. HARRIS, of St. Joseph, Mich.

STATE CONVENTION.

The Republican State Convention to nominate candidates for Justice of the Supreme Court for full term, and a candidate to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Judge Christiancy, also two Regents to the University...

The ballot for a candidate for Justice to fill vacancy resulted as follows. Isaac Marston, of Bay, 122; H. H. Coolidge, of Berrien, 18; Charles Upson, of Branch, 18; Daniel H. Ball, of Marquette, 18; A. Gaylord, of Saginaw, 15; scattering, 5.

The nomination of Mr. Marston was made unanimous. Mr. Marston was the late Attorney General of the State. He is a young man of superior legal talent and acknowledged as one of the leading lawyers of the State.

The following resolutions were presented and unanimously adopted: Resolved, That the Republicans of the State of Michigan, in convention assembled, pointing with just pride to the high character, eminent ability, non-partisanship and purity of the Supreme Court of the State, and to its high standing among the present judicial tribunals of the land, with satisfaction commend it as a court, organized and maintained through its entire existence by the agency of this political organization...

Resolved, That we can with equal pride point to the University of the State and its continually increasing and beneficent influence, and we believe its high standing is in a great measure attributable to the business ability, sterling integrity and unpartisan management of the Regents, and we commend it to the liberal support of the people.

The Admission of Colorado. The entrance of a new State into the common family is a rare, important and interesting event, since but three have been carved out of the vast territories of our broad Republic in the past eighteen years.

A bill to amend section 8 of an act entitled "An act to provide for the ratification in 1876; if accepted the State will enter the Union by proclamation of the President in time for its Representative and Senators to take their seats March 4th, 1877.

At every session from that time to this bill for the admission of the Territory has been presented and urged with untiring persistence, until at last it would seem, the Federal legislature, wearied by the ceaseless importunity has yielded a reluctant assent and provided the means.

The Constitution will be framed and submitted to a vote of the people for ratification in 1876; if accepted the State will enter the Union by proclamation of the President in time for its Representative and Senators to take their seats March 4th, 1877.

ted with a system of railroads completed and in profitable operation, of sufficient extent to answer all the requirements of intercommunication with its neighbors, and its own towns and cities. There are now seven hundred and twenty-five miles of rails in the different lines, two hundred and twenty-five of which are of the narrow gauge order, with about two hundred miles additional under contract to be completed within the present year. The Capital and leading towns are in direct connection with the Union Pacific at Cheyenne on the north, and with the Kansas Pacific on the south. A line still more southerly, (the Atchison, Topeka, & Santa Fe) is completed to within one hundred and fifty miles of the city of Pueblo 125 miles south of Denver, and will probably make the connection during the next twelve months.

Its mines of gold and silver are the richest and most extensive in the world, being everywhere in the matter of production however in the great Comstock in Nevada, by virtue of its most extensive development, and the enormous capitalized combination of California whose millions have been poured out like water for that purpose. Its plains are underlaid with bituminous coals of the finest quality, and while its agricultural area is limited to the capacity of the mountain water courses for irrigation, it is constantly expanding and will doubtless be ample to supply all the needs of a dense population.

Thousands of invalids and tourists visit its resorts every summer in search of health and recreation. The climate is said to be the finest to be found on the continent, and its mountains, parks and canyons form a never ending theme of enthusiastic eulogy by those who have enjoyed a trip among them.

The product of gold and silver for the year 1874 was $6,000,000. Agriculture yielded about $6,000,000, live stock $5,000,000, manufactures $2,000,000. Within the next twenty years Colorado will probably take rank among the richest and most prosperous States in the Union.

Never in the history of the world was there such an exhibition of magnanimity as that manifested by the Federal Government in its dealings with the Southern States. Southern divinity should be prompt to recognize it. How can you say you have been dealt with tyrannically? Have you forgotten that in 1861 the Federal Government prostrated itself in the very dust, begging you to stay the fratricidal blow, and offered every measure of compromise consistent with the honor of the nation and the union of the States? Have you forgotten, in 1863 while the Government stood wavering off on one hand the blow aimed at the nation's life, that in the other it held out to you a proclamation of almost universal amnesty? Have you forgotten the renewed offer of pardon in 1864-65-67? Have you forgotten that on the 4th of July, 1868, the executive head of this nation proclaimed and declared "unconditionally and without reservation to all persons who participated in the rebellion full pardon and amnesty for the offense of treason?" Have you forgotten the generous terms of the surrender at Appomattox? Have you forgotten that every seceded State has been received back into the Union with full restoration of all its rights? Have you forgotten that not a single man who participated in that conspiracy has ever paid the penalty of his treason? Do you forget that day by day measures for the removal of political disabilities imposed by the Fourteenth Amendment pass this House unchallenged and unquestioned? Do you forget that we have welcomed back to places of profit and power the very men who were chief among the conspirators? Nay, more, do you forget that in the next Congress which assembles in this capital city there are to be more leaders of the Confederacy than of the Union forces sitting in this Hall? And yet sir, in the face of all these facts, you persist in your denunciation of that power to which you are indebted for the greatest blessings of life.

And now, sir, how has this leniency on the part of the General Government been received? The gentleman from Kentucky tells us that the people of the South have accepted the situation in good faith, and there is no obstacle in the way of national peace except such as interposed by the National Government. How, sir, have you accepted the situation? It is true you have disbanded your armies, but only to organize the Ku Klux and White Leagues, oath-bound to secret murder. You have abandoned your warfare against an armed nation only to strike down unarm'd defenseless citizens. You have accepted the abolition of slavery and the liberty of the black race only to attempt his enslavement by a system of vagrant laws which, if executed, would consign that people to a servitude no less terrible than slavery itself. You have accepted of the citizenship of the black man only to declare that this is a "white man's government." You recognize his right to the ballot only to make the use of it by him so perilous as to endanger his life and property. You have sheathed the blood of the slain in the robes of the assassin. You have quelled the leaping fires of revolution only to light the more desolating torch of the incendiary.

Such has been your "acceptance of the situation," and such the condition of affairs in the Southern States. And now what more do you ask? You stand here and demand that every Federal soldier shall be withdrawn from the borders of the Southern States; that every carpet-bagger shall abandon his new home in the South, and every scalawag be driven from your States. Pardon the use of these terms; they are the coinage of a repentant and reconstructed South. For one I stand here as a Republican to protest against the acceptance of peace upon any such conditions, feeling that the nation cannot so dishonor itself.

What offense has this Federal soldiery committed? They are conservators of the peace; they are not Ku Klux or White Leaguers; they drive out no citizen from the States; they whip no school teachers; they kidnap no legislators; they demolish no school houses; they burn no churches; they have done no murder. And so long as used to protect the most sacred rights of American citizenship I shall not deplore its existence. The Federal army is objectionable to the South because it disturbs massacres, interferes with riots, prevents revolutions, disperses mobs, intimidates White Leaguers, guards churches and school houses, and fills with wholesome fear the men who plot against the peace of the State and the life and property of the citizen. A soldiery thus used is offensive only to men who are plotting treason.

And who are these scalwags whose presence cannot be endured? They are the men who have renounced their adherence to the lost cause, and have sworn a fresh allegiance to the country and the flag. In that renewed fidelity I demand for them the amplest protection. But it is demanded of us that all carpet-baggers shall abandon the Southern States. Who are these carpet-baggers? They are the men who fought the country's battles and saved the nation's life, and when the war was over made their homes in the Southern States. If there are those from the North who have settled among you solely for the purpose of eating out your substance and plundering the people, they deserve the execration of all good men and shall receive no defense from me. But those carpet-baggers who have been and are in an instrument of unbridled tyranny. No words of denunciation too severe, no language too bitter and intemperate, no malediction too terrible to fitly characterize the Federal Government in its dealings with the late rebellious States, while they are in arms against the Government are paraded as examples of patient suffering and heroic endurance worthy the imitation of martyrs.

Sir, I am not surprised that the Democrats of the North should continue to atraign that party which was take the strong arm of the Government, they shall live and be protected in all the rights of American citizenship wherever the flag of my country floats. One word more and I am done. If you will pardon me, I say it in all kindness, men of the South, there is a way to peace. I tell you, too, there is but one road. In it lies a peaceful solution of all our difficulties. Whether you pursue it is a matter of your own free choice. It is a highway on which if you will but walk, you will find speedy and enduring peace and unexampled prosperity. Men of all parties, even my colleague (Mr. Willard) can walk on it, for it is unobstructed by no constitutional doubts, but is paved by the Federal compact. May I point you to it? Behold it here.

Strip the masks from your own-lawed Ku Klux; disband your White League; visit swift and condign punishment upon your untried and untried felons, and enforce State and Federal law with a firm hand. Give to human life some security and to property protection; recognize the equality of all men before the law, and their right to its fullest guarantee; put out the fires of your burning churches and schoolhouses; make the freedom of the ballot so secure that there shall be no intimidation; let free speech be recognized; let treason be unknown; renew your allegiance to the Government; extend a generous welcome to Northern labor and Northern capital; abandon all hope of the lost cause; in a word, "accept the situation" in good faith and in the highest sense, and you will have peace universal. Do this, and your barren fields will stir with a new life; your desolate cities will echo with the hum of returning industry; your spacious harbors will choke with the tide of commerce. Do this, and the whole South will spring from her baptism of blood into the fullness of a new life, redeemed and regenerated forever. All hail that auspicious day!

Examination. The Spring Examinations of Teachers will take place as follows: New Buffalo, Union School House, Saturday, March 27th. Niles, Union School House, Tuesday, March 30th. Buchanan, Union School House, Friday, April 2d. Galien, Union School House, Saturday, April 3d. New Troy, Union School House, Wednesday, April 7th. St. Joseph, Union School House, Saturday, April 10th. Pipestone, Shanghai School House, Monday, April 12th. Berrien Springs, Union School House, Tuesday, April 13th. Watervliet, Union School House, Saturday, April 17th. Benton Harbor, Union School House, Saturday, April 24th.

The examinations will begin at 9 o'clock promptly, and every candidate for a certificate should be present at the commencement of the examinations. Every one desiring to teach and not having a certificate in force, must be present at some of these appointments prepared for a written examination. I shall consider it my right to reject any applicant whose senses of hearing may be imperfect; also any that have shown a lack of capacity to govern or instruct. I do not wish to hear too many apologies to explain the mental condition of applicants, for I do not wish teachers to appear for examination in an unprepared condition, and they have no right to place themselves at such a disadvantage. Examinations are held for the purpose of ascertaining the proficiency of teachers, and excuses will not be accepted in place of qualifications. The times demanded and we must have more thorough and efficient teachers in the schools of this county.

I wish to meet as many teachers as can possibly attend the examination at New Buffalo for the purpose of consultation, and discussion, and the reorganization of the Teacher's Association.

The public are cordially invited to attend. EDWARD L. KINGSLAND, County Supt. of Schools, Feb. 27th, 1875.

THE NILES Democrat says: The temperance ladies are still discussing the advisability of establishing a coffee and eating room in this city. On Sunday last about 15 persons were admitted to membership in the Methodist Church, on probation. The meetings at this Church still continue.

Sunday Reading

GOD CARES. One of the sweet old chapters. After a day like this. The day brought tears and trouble. The evening brings no kiss. Nor rest in the arms I long for— Rest and refuge and home; Grieved, lonely and weary, Unto the Book I come.

Slender. Slander is a poison which extinguishes charity, both in the slanderer and in the person who listens to it; so that a single calumny may prove fatal to an infinite number of souls, since it kills, not only those who circulate it, but also those who do not reject it.—St. Bernard.

The slanderer of one is a people's great recommendation as the praise of others.—Holling.

The worst kind of people are the most injured by slander as we usually find it to be the best fruit which the birds have been picking at.—Swift.

Slender is a voice that strikes a double blow, wounding both him that commits and him that is committed.—Saurin.

Those who, without knowing us, think or speak evil of us, do us no harm; it is not us they attack, but the phantom of their own imagination.—Bryner.

If any one tells you that such a person speaks ill of you, do not make excuse about what is said of you, but answer: "He was ignorant of my other faults, or else he could not have mentioned these alone."—Bpistolar.

Slender whose edge is sharper than the sword, whose tongue outwans all the war of Nile.—Shakespeare.

Close thine ear against him that shall open his mouth secretly against another. If thou receivest not his words, they fly back and wound the reporter. If thou dost receive them, they fly forward, and wound the receiver.—Lauter.

As by flattery a man opens his bosom to a mortal enemy; so by detraction and slander he shuts the same to his best friends.—South.

The proper way to check slander is to despise it; attempt to overtake it, and it will outrun you.—Alex. Dumas.

What indulgence does the world extend to those evil-speakers who, under the mask of friendship, attack indiscriminately with the keen, though rusty blade of slander!—Madame Roland.

Have patience awhile; slanders are not long-lived. Truth is the tide of Time; ere long she will appear to vindicate thee.—Kant.

When the tongue of slander stings thee, let this be thy comfort—they are not the worst fruits on which the wasps alight.—Burger.

Remember, when incited to slander, that it is only he among you who is without sin that may cast the first stone.—Hosea Ballou.

Present Duty. The way to make easy times is as clear as daylight. Let every man or woman who owes money pay it at once, if possible.

Stop grumbling at the faults or mistakes of others, and attend faithfully to your own affairs. Deal fairly, leniently, and cheerfully with all persons who owe you or are pecuniarily troubled.

Causes of Nervousness. The malady which above all others causes nervousness, is dyspepsia, biliousness and constipation. The great sympathetic nerve which connects the epigastric region with the brain, is always injuriously affected if the stomach and bowels are disordered; it is permanent derangement of the functions of those organs reacts by sympathy upon the entire nervous system.
