A Temperance Story.

Quiet and gentlemanly in his manner, unobtrusively he went about doing good, in his own peculiar but efway. Singularly enough that way was to frequent the saloons and bar-rooms, or more strictly their neighborhood, and waiting his opportunity to persuade young men and old away from these haunts. And many did this earnest, judicious worker save. Many to-day remember his kindly face, his tall, stooping form. of my face, as with catching breath he whispered: "Don't-father don't drink anv more." And then those white hands fell. I buried him by his mother.

Soon after this my parents died, leaving their entire property to me. I sold it, and my own home, and have used my life since as you know. It may seem trivial to you, but to me it is a never forgotten tragedy. And because I want to deepen your desire to save the fallen, though it has torn my heart, I have told you my story.' The old man had risen as he had

He seemed unlike himself. Like a tired child he rested his face upon my shoulders, his whole form shaking convulsively. With one arm I supported him. With the other I brushed his snowy white hair back from his face. Only a moment, and then he resumed his wonted calmness and self-control. And in that usual control, joined to that momentary weakness, I saw the key to a character that needed what God gave of discipline, to compel that control.

When he died his property was all devoted as he had used it, and is held in trust, to be used judiciously in aiding men who would break away from the snares that drunkenness weaves. His body rests beside his wife and little Robbie. He suffered as few men have, and he served more efficiently a good cause, than most men

"That bell tolls for the death of my husband; he will die at sunrise to morrow. Won't you," implored the woman, "plead for me? The queen sits in the box yonder." The great tragedy queen went to the royal box and begged for the life of that man-a man that she has no particular interest in, but simply because he was going to die. Mme. Ristori pleaded so well with the queen that with a pencil she wrote his reprieve and he was saved. Meanwhile the truth had crept out curtain rose again every person sprang the world, and a kind though strict hats and handkerchiefs were waved,

Feb. 26, 1877.
Dear Miss.—Every time I think you my heart flops up and down like a churn-dasher. Sensations of unutterable joy caper over it like young goats on a stable roof, and thrill through it like Spanish needles through a pair of tow-linen trousers. Visions of ecstatic rapture, thicker than the hairs of a blacking brush and brighter than the hues of a humming bird's pinions visit me in my slumbers, and borne on their invisible wings, your image stands before me, and I reach out to grasp it, like a pointer enapping at a blue-bottle fly. passages: Who marries for love takes a wife who marries for fortune takes a mistress; who marries for position takes a lady. You are loved by your wife and regarded by your mistress, and tolerated by your lady. You have a wife for yourself, a mistress for your house and friends, a lady for the world and society. Your wife will agree with you, your mistress will rule you, your lady will manage. Your wife will take care of your household, your mistress of your house, your lady of your appearances. If you are sick your wife will nurse you, your mistress will visit you, your lady will inquire after your health: You take a walk with your wife; a ride with your mistress, and go to a party with your lady. Your wife shares your grief, your mistress your money, and your lady your debts. If you die your wife will weep, your mistress lament, and your lady wear mourning. Now which will you take? To the man there is one choice he can rationally make—a marriage of love. My female readers, I hope, will also decide rather to wed a husband than the master or the elegant gentleman.

The Telepurp.

The Operator tells a story of a slabsided chap who entered a telegraph office, at Norwalk, and wanted to know if his dog could be sent to him from Danbury by telegraph. The operator assured him that nothing was more common, and requested him to call in half an hour, after getting a description of the animal.

The operator then sent his messenger boy to look for a dog as near the descrption as possible, which he secured to the desk by means of a telegraph wire. After a little coaxing the dog was made to lie quietly down and everything was in readiness for our rural friend. Punctual at the time appointed he made his appearance, and asked if the dog had come. "I will see," said the operator, and stepping up to the instrument he tapped a few times on the key; at the same time inserting his legs under the table he managed to step on the dog's toes, which caused the canine when the jay bird pipes his tuneful to yelp. "Ah, he's coming," said the again, where it lay undisturbed in the lay in the apple tree by the spring- operator, and then tapping more furdusty files until the Centennial Exhidrowsy beetle wheels his droning countryman. "Uncommon nice dog; must be worth $50; but he is the on the letter when it was first mailed hardest dog I ever received over the from Syracuse was 25 cents. wires; he is so muscular, you see, that he broke the wire; in fact a blackbird: your forehead is smoother piece of it is now attached to his neck, which he broke off."

During the whole of the operation the countryman gazed on the operator, with eyes wide open and full of surprise; but when the dog came from under the table, that was the culminating point, and he was struck with amazement. After looking at the dog a moment or so he said : Say, Mister, he ain't so big as he was, and he is darker; how's that?"

"Oh! that is easily explained, said the operator; "you see the chemicals employed in making electricity darken his original color, and the velocity with which he passed over the wire caused him to extract in size; but after you expose him to the air for a short time he will assure his original size and color."

"Du tell!" said the countryman, and, after placing fifty cents on the counter, he picked up the deg, and walked out of the office remarking that "the man who invented them telegraphs must be a very knowledgeable man."

The number of birds slaughtered annually, and imported into the United States, England and France, for the decoration of hats, bonnets, dresses, etc., is immense, notwithstanding these birds are, many of them, among the most efficient co-workers of farmers and gardeners. Thousands of ruby humming birds have been slaughtered to make a single dress, a red spot on the head and an orange one on the throat alone being used. Only the skins of the birds, with head and feet attached, are brought to market. -The blue jay comes in myriads from Bombay, the scarlet tanagers from Brazil, and peacocks, parroquets, and cockatoos, finches, jungle cocks, ori-oles and kingfishers, trojans and birds of paradise, and even vultures, are brought to untimely ends to adorn the human form divine. How strange, when for one little canary that dies a whole family will weep, and yet there are countless thousands of just as tender, sweet birds that are shot annually to supply this demand, each of which is as worthy of admiration as the dead pet. Such is the inconsistency of man, and the mystery of life.

A Washington correspondent says an application was received at the Dead Letter Office quite recently, from Mr. Palmer Gardener, of Burlington, Racine county, Wis., for a letter mailed to him in 1835. This letter contained a certificate of deposit for $360, issued by the Onondaga Bank, Syracuse, N. Y., and was sent from there in October of the year mentioned, by Wm. N. Gardner, to his brother, Palmer Gardner, at "Detroit, Michigan Territory." Not being claimed at Detroit it was sent to the Dead Letter Office and thence back to the Postmaster at Syracuse, who, being unable to find the sender, returned it to the Dead Letter Office lously on the key, he at the same time | hition. Selling Tramps.

A Hartford paper tells how a lady of that city "plays it" on tramps, through the agency of the bogus money known as "advertising greenbacks," and which to the casual obsirver appear genuine. The lady with studied carelessness puts a bill of this kind under the mat at the back door and waits the approach of the innocents. Up to the door comes trampy and his greedy eyes at once alight on the money. In a dash it is transferred to his pocket, and without stopping to knock and beg, as he intended to do, he hurries out of sight, radiant with the joy of one who unexpectedly strikes good luck. When at a safe distance he looks at the bill, and as the extent of the terrible deception draws upon him he clutches his hair and with a wild, desparing cry of "Sold, by Jerusalem!" crawls into a convenient rat-hole and dies. Wouldn't Put on Style.

The other day one of the clerks in a Washington street store found the porter crammed among the boxes down cellar, with pen, ink and paper before him. "Writing a letter, eh!" queried the clerk. "Yes; writing to he old man in Buffalo." Handed up the half-written letter for inspection, presently the clerk remarked: "I see you spell jug 'g-u-g'; that isn't right." "Of course not," replied the porter, "but you see I am writing to the old man, and he always spells that way. If I put the other 'g' to it he would think I was putting on style over him and forgetting that I was his son. He's good-hearted and I don't want to hurt his fellings." The letter went off with only one 'g' at the end of 'gug.'—Cincinnati Saturday Night.

A Question of Privilege.

· A singular discovery was made by a young lady, at Watertown, N. Y., the other evening. A young gentleman called on her and spent two very agreeable hours. About ten o'clock, the old folks having retired, he concluded it time also to leave his charmer. The young lady accompanied him to the door, bade him good night, and then passed up-stairs to her chamber. Some minutes later she had occasion to visit the dining-room, when, on entering, horror of horrors ! she was utterly confounded to see the young gentleman she had so recently bidden good night sitting in one corner with the servant girl on his lap. She gets less pay at the other place but she has more privileges.

Liecture on the nature, treatment, and radical cure

A lecture on the nature, treatment, and radical cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatornheas, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy and Mits; Mental and Physical Incepacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. OULVERWELL, M. D., author of the "Green Book." &c.

The world-renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougles, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

We had been sitting long without speaking. A sadness could be felt settled upon my companion. I was not disappointed, for after a few moments of silence he continued: "Thirty years ago I was a mechanic, receiving good pay, and was master of my business. I owned a cottage that I had built myself, and might have been happy with my wife and little boy. But gradually the wife, never strong, was sadly and slowly sinking in health, which fact strangely I did not realize. One night, after I had been idle for a few weeks. I returned home to find her unusually feeble, and was myself moose and partially intoxicated. She was so ill that she had been unable to in my arms, and fold him close to my sorrow he made his way to the place which I had sent him, which proved to be full of loafers of all ages. Although he could not hide the traces of his tears, in his manly way he executed the degrading errand. As he turned from the place, their drunken chaffing and banter was turned pitilessi upon him. One drunken fellow who hated me for my success in business, coward as he was, called "Say, Dab, how do you like doing errands for a drunkard?" Burning with shame, little Robbie hurried along, followed by two or three boys older than himself, bent upon the fun that the cowardly brute had begun.

"Let's daub his clean clothes, take down his pride a little, and get a swig of his father's rum," said the leader, as they followed close upon Robbie in the gathering darkness. The boy had been a favorite with

THE political excitement is at last settled and now business can proceed once more. A change can already be perceived in nearly all parts of the country, and it is to be hoped that the chronic cry of hard times will be heard no more.

The Illinois Legislature are talking of the feasibility of establishing a State Normal School, in the northern part of the State and now have a bill before that honorable body looking to such an establishment.

THE Spitz dogs are the subject of considerable comment throughout the Eastern States. It is said that the bite of these dogs will communicate hydrophobia and war has been opened against them.

On Tuesday last a bill was passed by the State Senate providing that no proprietor of a public hall, theatre, or other building shall allow his place to be used until he receives a certificate from certain officers that such a building is safe from fire or other accidents. This is one of the effects of the Brooklyn fire and should have become a law long ago.

The Coroner's Jury in the Ashtabula case disaster has rendered its verdict after so long a time. It holds the Lake Shore Railroad Company responsible for the catastrophy on account of the imperfect construction of the bridge, and for not having the cars heated in such a manner as to have the fire extinguished as soon as the cars were off the track and overturned, thus violating the statutes of the State of Ohio. It also blames the engineer of the fire department for not using the means at hand for extinguishing the flames.

On March 12 the Legislature passed a bill Making the following appropriations to the State University for 1877-78:

School of Mines, $30,000; professor of geology, $5,000; physical laboratory, $2,000; professor of physic, $5,000; hospital, $2,000; physiological laboratory, $1,000; general library, $5,000. professors in dental school, $9,000; apparatus, $1,500; addition to same, $4,000; astronomical department, $1,500. Total, $57,-

The campaign cry that the Republican candidate for President was unstable and could be pulled about by the nose as meekly as a sick lamb, does not seem to be true; at any rate he starts out by having his own way in the selection of his cabinet, notwithstanding the loud protestations of those who are disappointed by being left out. His choice is as follows: W. M. Evarts, of New York, Secretary of State. John Sherman, of Ohio, Secretary of the Treasury.

G. W. McCreery, of Iowa, Secretary of War. R. W. Thompson, of Indiana, Sec-

Probably few things in our history have shown the true American character more completely than the quiet mode in which the Presidency was settled, and the ready acquiescence of all the people in the declared result. Of course, the finding of the Commission did not change the opinion of the extremists in the defeated party. That was not to be expected. In case Tilden had been seated instead of Hayes, there would have been thousands of Republicans as vehement in denouncing the acts of the Commissioners as many Democrats are now in their abuse of the "odd man," Justice Bradley. What we take pride in is the 'acknowledged fact that we settle even the most gigantic issues no other country in the world could the same experiment have been safely tried. It is a circumstance that establishes the ability of the people for self-government more completely than almost any other test that could have been devised. The world can come to us for an example of how to avoid civil war, or even foreign complications, by the principle of arbitration:

Senator Cameron, of Pennsylvania, voted for Messrs. EPSOM, N. H., May 3, 1870. Dear Sir-Having received great benefit from the use of Peruvian Syrup, I am willing to add my testimony to the thousands of others constantly sounding its praise. During the late war I was in the army, and had the misfortune to be taken prisoner, and was confined in Salisbury and other Southern prisons several months, and became so much reduced in health and strength as to be a mere skeleton of my former self. On being released, I was a fit subject for a Northern hospital, where I remained some two months and then came home. My physician recommended and procured or me several bottles of Peruvian Syrup, which I continued to use for several weeks, and found my health restored and my weight increased from ninety pounds to one hundred and fifty, my usual weight, and I have been in my usual good health ever since; and I can cheerfully recommend it in all cases of weakness and debility of the system, whether arising from an impure state of the blood. dyspepsia, or almost any other cause, believing it will in most cases give entire satisfaction.

Not election majorities, but such as inerest the great army of American producers. Twenty-five years ago the eight counties of Missouri now traversed by the Old Reliable Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad were nearly a wilderness. To day, by a late census, it is discovered that these counties produce over one-fourteenth of the entire wheat crop of the State, over one-twelith of the corn crop, and over one-ninth of the oats. The same growth of country is now being repeated in Kansas, Nebraska, Colorado, and New Mexico, and the immortal Greeley had this identical route and section of country in mind when he breathed those stirring words of wisdom, "Young man, go West. Therefore, it is but natural that parties taking this advice should desire to pass over a road that has done so much for a State, (especially as it offers the best facilities) and see for themselves. By the Hannibal & St. Joseph R. R., through cars are run from Cleveland and Toledo, and through connections made from Cincionatic and Indianapolis, via Quincy, to St. Jo., Atchison and Kansas City, and rom Chicago to Karsas City without change. We are about to issue, in connection with our own, a county map of Colorado and New Mexico, giving valuable information as regards time tables, routes, distances, altitudes, &c., which we will be pleased to furnish free, upon application in person or by letter addressed

This is a delicate, quite snowy dish. easy to make, and good when it is done. It needs good apples, that is, with a sprightly flavor; pure, quarter, and remove the cores; stew in a bright tin or enameled souce-pan, with sugar to taste, and a little cinnamon; as soon as the apples are done through, having kept the quarters as whole as possible, turn them into a pudding dish, being careful not to break them up. While the apples are cooking, get the meringue (pronounce it always mee-rang) ready. For a moderate sized dish, use the whites of four eggs, beaten to a stiff froth, four ounces of sugar, and flavor with lemon; spread this over the apples in the dish, set the dish in the oven, and bake until the surface is well and evenly browned. Serve bot for desert, but some prefer to let it get cold and eat with cream .- American Agriculturist.

What is a Salmi? "Mrs. W. J." The regular "salmi" of French cookery, is a sort of stew made from the remains of game. The meat is carefully cut from the bones, and these are pounded into small bits and cooked to make a gravy or sauce. The bones are strained out, the sauce variously seasoned - usually wine added—and then the bits of meat are warmed up in it. In our restau-rants a very indefinite mixture, and a not very delicate one, is served under high sounding name of salm. If you. Var Riphe & Hisham, Atty's for Assignee. Var Riphe & Hisham, Atty's for Assignee. made it at home, you would call it a stew or a hash, as there was more or less gravy with it. Very good it is when properly made at home, and served on slices of toest as a breakfast dish .- American Agriculturist.

To CLEAN FEATHERS. - Dissolve four ounces of white soap, cut small, in four pounds of water, moderately hot, in a basin, and make the solution into a lather by beating it with a small rod; then introduce the feathers, and rub them well with the hands for five minutes. They are next to be washed in clean water, as hot as the hand can bear it.

CLEANSING FLUID.—Dissolve four ounces of white castile soap in one quart of soft water. When luke-warm. add four ounces of water of ammonia, one ounce each of ether and glycerine. Bottle the mixture without delay, adding more water if it grows hard with keeping, or an account of cold. The ammonia, ether, and glycerne can be measured- and mixed by the druggist. A tablespoonful of black peper will prevent gray or buff linen from spotting if stirred into the first water in which they are washed. It will also prevent the colors runing, when washing black or colored cambrics or muslins, and the water is not injured by in, but just as soft as before the pepper was put in.

MORTGAGE SALE.

DEFAULT having been made in the payment of a certain sum of money secured to be paid by a certain Indenture of Mortgage, bearing date the first day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sevent, made and executed by Daniel D. Gardiner and Hounah V. throw it off, the patient has rest and the lungs begin to heal.

To enable the pulmonic syrup to do this, Schenck's hardrake Pills and Schenck's Sea Weed Zonic must be freely used to cleane the stomach and liver. Schenck's Mandrake Pills set on the liver, romoving all obstructious, relax the gail biador, the bile starts freely, and the liver is soon relieved.

Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is a gentle attuniant and alterative, the alkali of which it is composed mixes with the food and prevents souring. It assists the digostion by toning up the stomach to a healthy condition, so that the food and the Pulmonic Syrup will make good blood; then the lungs heal, and the patient will surely get well if care is taken to provent fresh cold.

All who wish to consult Dr. Schenck, either personally or by letter, can do so at his personal office, correr of Sixth and Arch Sis., Dhiladelphis, every. Monday.

Schenck's medicines are sold by all druggists throughout the country.

VEGETINE

Renovates and Invigores

ITS MEDICINAL PROPERTIES ARE ALTERA TIVE TONIC, SOLVENT AND DIURETIC.

VEGETINE is made exclusively, from the juices of carefully selected barks, roots and herbs, and so strongly concentrated, that it will effectually endicate from the system every taint of Scropiula, Stropiulous Humor, Tumors, Cancer, Cancerous Humor, Eryspelas, Salt Rheum, Spphillic, Diseases, Canker, Faintness at the Stomach, and all diseases that arise from impure blood. Sciatical Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumalism, Neuralgia, Gour and Spinal Complaints, can only be effectually cured through the blood.

For Olders and Eruptive Diseases of the Skin, Pustules, Pinples, Blotches, Boils, Tetter; Scald Head and Ringivorm, YEGETINE has never failed to effect a permanent cure.

The following letter from Rev. E. S. Best, Pastor of M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians. Also, those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of the Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt about the curative powers of VEGE-TINE;

NATICE, Mass., Jan. I. 1874.

Ms. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—We have good reason for regarding your VEGETINE's medicine of the greatest value. Weifel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from necrosis of his leg, caused by scrotlous affection, and was so far reduced that nearly all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying, two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him as he had not vigor enough to endure the operation. Just then we commenced giving him VEGETINE, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has latoly resumed his studies, thrown away his crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little while he will be perfectly cured.

He has taken about three dozen bottles of VEGETINE, but larely uses but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking modicine.

Respectfully yours,

E.S. BEST,

MRS. L.C. F. BEST.

If NEGETINE, will relieve pairs, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can be called the GREAT BLOOD for Chills and Fever.?

I have over 200 such testimonials as these, but want of space compels me to conclude.
