"Be calm, brave lady, we shall soon, I trust, release both of you; but I leave you not until you are free, if I perish while saving you."
Then the flames began to wind about the car and the fire was indeed progressing; the men threw themselves again upon the plank, and with a mighty effort wronched it away, thus releasing both girls from its weight, and they were soon removed to a place of safety, while their rescur-ers returned to the assistance of others. In a short time the fire was subdued and the danger was over, while the dead and wounded lay on the bank in a confused mass. Many had been killed, and several fatally injured.

Mabel and her sister were not as badly wounded as some, but each had a dislocated ankle and many bruises. "I see you are injured and cannot walk, but there is a large house near by where you can be cared for. Per-

"It certainly is not. I shall be proud to recognize my preserver at all times and in all places," murmured Elsie, in a greatful voice.

A few weeks after the accident, when the young ladies had nearly recovered, Mr. Vernon announced to his family that the son of a dear old friend, Ernest Englewood by name, had returned from abroad, where he had spent in travel the last five years. Around the world had he been, and now had just arrived from Cape Colony, Africa and wished to be presented to his famliy.

"He will call about two; so, girls,"

he added to his daughters, "there is a chance to secure a good husband. He is very wealthy as well as good looking and agreeable, and is the very man I should like as a son-in-law. In fact, as you know, his father and I decided to wed his only son to one of my daughters, if agreeable to the parties, when you were both children, and his boy a lad of twelve. It does not matter to me which marries him, so that the son-in-law is mine," he added laughingly, as he walked away. "Well, it does to me, very much," exclaimed Mabel. "As, being the oldest, and I may as well add, the prettiest, I hasten to appropriate him." "Of course," returned Elsie, "he would never think of a plain girl like myself. It's all right, dear; for when L marry it must be love. makes the match."

"Are the ladies at home?" asked spruce-looking colored footman, who had jumped from a gay carriage that stopped before Mr. Vernon's door. being answered in the affirmative he descended to the sidewalk, opened the carriage door, while a stylish, handsome man alighted and entered the

Mrs. Vernon and her daughter Mapel-the latter looking exquisitely beautiful in a tasty and becoming dress—soon appeared to welcome him. Mr. Englewood greeted them politely, and entered into an easy and animatconversation, but his eyes kept continually seeking the door as though watching for another. Mabel was charmed with the polished and elegant stranger, and chatted with him freely; yet, when meeting his expressive, dark eyes, she wondered at the strong likeness he bore to some person she had met, yet she could not remember who the person was, nor where she had seen him. "Mrs. Vernon," remarked Mr. Englewood, at length, "I believe you have two daughters. Can I not have the pleasure of seeing both to-day?"

"Oh, certainly. I will call Elsie. if you will excuse me a moment,' answered the lady. "My sister is a plain little body, and rarely goes into society," remarked Mabel, as her mother left the room. "The rarest pearls are found beneath the plainest looking oyster shell," was the quick reply, as the gentleman arose to greet the young girl who now entered. With a smiling face and kindling eye he offered his hand. "Oh, sir, is it possible that you are here? How glad I am to see you!"

exclaimed Elsie, as she clasped his hand before her mother could introduce her. "I am so surprised, for I thought to meet a Mr. Englewood, who is a stranger to me." "My daughter, you mistake. This is Mr. Englewood."

"Oh, no, mamma, but this is our kind preserver—the one who rescued us from the burning cars. I could never, never forget him, although the barber has somewhat altered his appearance." "You are right, Miss Elsie, and I am delighted to see you. Pardon my calling, Miss Mabel, when you so distinctly forbade my doing so, but your father gave me full permission, and I could not deny myself the pleasure of renewing my acquaintance with your sister. "O, Mr. Englewood," stammered the confused and conscience smitten Mabel, I had no idea that-that-" 'So plainly dressed and boorish a clown could be the son of your father's old friend. Mrs. Vernon," he continued, turning to the mother. "I

Worth of a Mother's Love

There is no human love like a mother's love. There is no earthly loss like the loss of a mother. The older a man grows, and the more he knows of the world, the plainer this truth stands out in his mind. And when a man seems dead to every other influence for good, the recollection of a mother's prayers and a mother's tears often has a hold upon him which he neither can nor would break away

David, the man after God's own heart, could find no words which could express his abiding confidence in God, like those wherein he declares, "When my father and my mother forsake me, then the Lord shall take me up." Nor could he find any figure of the profoundest depth of human sorrow more forcible than that in which he says of himself, "I bowed down heavily, as one that mourneth for his mother." When the glorious Son of David was hanging on the cross in agony, with the weight of a lost world upon him, he could forget all his personal suffering, and could turn, as it were, for a moment, from the work of eternal redemption, to recognize the tenderness and fidelity of his agonized mother at his feet, and to commend her with his dying breath to the faith-ful ministry of the disciple whom he

The Bible abounds with pictures of loving mothers and of a mother's love. Hagar, weeping in the desert over her famishing boy; Jochebeb playing the servant to secure the privilege of nursing her babe for the daughter of Pharaoh; Hannah joying before God over the treasure of a longed-for son; the true mother in the presence of Solomon, ready to lose her child that it might be saved; the widow of Zarephath and the Shunammite woman securing the intercession of the prophet for the restoration to life of their dead darlings; Rachel weeping for her children, refusing to be comforted because they were not; the mother of James and John pleading with Jesus for favors to her sons: the Syronhæ nician women venturing everything, and refusing to be put aside, that she might win a blessing from him whoalone was able to restore to health and freedom her grievously vexed daughter; the mother of Timothy, teaching her son lessons by which the world is still profiting; and so on through a long list of those who were representative mothers, chosen of God for a place in the sacred record, and whose like are about us still on every side.—S. Golden Words.

Avoid a slanderer, as you would a scorpion. Great men are scarce; but there are many great grandchildren. A great man will neither trample on a worm, nor cringe before a king. An ingenuous mind will feel in unmerited praise the bitterest reproof. A hate which we all bear with the most Christian patience, is the hate of those who envy us. A desire to say things which no one ever said makes people say things nobody ought to say.

It is to be doubted whether he will ever find the way to Heaven, who desires to go thither alone. Men are apt to hunt more patiently to discover a heresy than to find an opportunity to do good. Men will never know us by our faith, for that is within us; they know us by our works, which are visible to them. The hand which casts into the waters of life a stone of offence, knows not how far the circles thus caused may spread their agitations. Cheerfulness is like the widow's measure of meal; the more is spent the more remains, and both the giver and receiver are enriched. Public sentiment is the sum of individual opinions, and of course he who contributes to form this sum is responsible for a share of its resulting. evils or its benefits. The owl was something more than an owl who told the butterfly that if he would keep from being singed he musn't even go near the smoke, much less the flame.

It is only necessary for a truly noble man to grow old, to become more charitable and indulgent. I see no fault committed that I have not committed myself .- Goethe.

He who eats his breakfast and supper at home, cannot get very far away during the day; so he that begins and ends the day with prayer will not get very far away from his family had at one time lived on the lands of Mr. A. S. Mayes. The girl had been seduced, and, before marriage, had given birth to a deformed and idiot child. Her seems to have been dissatisfied about the child, and: had influenced his wife to agree to a mode of getting rid of it. With this view a box was obtained, and the child, while yet alive, nailed up in it. But while this was going on a neighbor woman happened in, and, hearing a strange noise in the box, inquired

A BITTER LESSON

BY MRS. EMILY THORNTON. The 10:30 train for—was nearly full of passengers, and in about three minutes more would be steaming from the depot, when two young ladies entered seeking seats. One was a very sweet looking girl, not beautiful, yet far from homely; the other, whom she resembled enough to proclaim them sisters, possessed a charming face, perfect features, liquid blue eyes and waving golden hair. Hers was a beauty that would immediately rivet attention. Both were under twenty-three.

The United States Mint will commence the manufacture of $50 gold coins as soon as the dies are completed. The coins are to be similar to those issued from the Mint in California in 1851, but did not remain in circulation long, for the reason that their intrinsic value was greater than the market value, owing to the amount of silver used in alloy being in excess of the standard amount required.

Secret agents from France are in Chicago contracting for all of the preserved meats possible, consisting of compressed beef, put up in packages about the right size for one days' rations for one man, and a sort of condensed soup. Similar contracts have been made by other agents on the same mission in other places in this country, in quantities sufficient to support a large army a long time in the field. This has a slight appearance of an intention on the part of France to have a hand in the troubles now going on in Europe. This country will endeavor to feed them as long as they may see fit to fight.

Canadian Troubles.

Our Canadian neighbors are afflicted with hard times and they see no immediate prospect of relief. For a few years they sailed upon the sea of apparent prosperity and were pleased with their political and com-mercial position. Now they find that their experiment has been expensive their experiment has been expensive and is daily growing worse. They have a debt of nearly one hundred and fifty millions of dollars for a population of three millions and a half, or some forty dollars per head. This is becoming yearly a heavier burden, because their credit is weakening and the rates of interest are gradually getting higher. Out of a total revenue of twenty-three millions nearly eight are now required to pay interest. All this has occurred during years of prosperity when they had peace in all their borders, and when all parts of the country were united in a patriotic desire to build up a vigorous young nation. Now that adversity has fallen upon them, the most prudent politicians and writers are inquiring what the future has in store for them. They do not see how matters are to grow in any direction except a bad one. They call attention to the fact that since the war we have reduced cur debt very greatly, and reduced our interest to the very lowest point, showing a prompt recovery from the disasters of our civil commotion. Without any such national stock, their condition has been gradually worse. Some attribute it to their low tariff and some of their high, and others to the repeal of the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States. The real facts are that they have not the population or resources to stand the extensive superstructure of complicated government and great public works that they have been endeavoring to sustain and push forward. The undertaking they already have in hand will increase their national debt to two hundred millions, and make the burdens of the people greatly larger than at present. The real facts must be evident to those who will be called upon to sustain the load, and they will become convinced that their troubles arise from national causes, which their legislators cannot remedy. They are too small for what they have undertaken, and the soon-er they throw open their great nation-al highways and become the outline for the Northwest, the sooner will they recover from their dilemma.

States:—Chicago Post. . . 'The Coldwater Republican tells a story of a young farmer in Orland township, Branch county, who a few days ago, while at work in a field, hung his vest containing his watch and some greenbacks, on a fence, and killed the animal without ceremony, cut her open, recovered his green-backs, only a little worn, sold the carcass to a biltcher, paid the owner the full amount received, and went on his way rejoicing.

Roger Williams was a native of Wales, was a puritan, and the founder of the colony of Rhode Island. He died in Providence in 1683. Many years afterwards, the private burying ground where he was interred was searched for the remains of himself and wife, for the purpose of erecting a monument over them. Very little was found. The shape of the coffins could only be traced by a black line in the earth. The rusted hinges and nails and a round wooden knot alone remained in one grave, while a single lock of braided hair was found in the other. Near the graves stood an apple tree, the larger roots of which had pushed its way to the precise spot occupied by the skull of Roger Williams, and, turning, passed round it and followed the direction of the backbone to the hips. Here it divided into two branches, sending one along each leg to the heel, when the roots turned upward to the toes, the whole bearing a striking resemblance to the human form. These roots are now deposited in the museum of Brown university. It was thus found that the organic matter-the flesh, the bones, of Roger Williams-had passed into an apple tree, transmuted into woody fibre, bloomed into fragrant blossoms, and bore luscious fruit, which from year to year has been gathered and eaten. Those, therefore, who ate the apples from this tree ate Roger Williams.

The annual school meeting for this district was held at the Union School House on Monday evening. As but few were in attendance, the business. was done up with dispatch. The Director's annual report shows that there were paid out during the year, for teachers' salaries, $2,869.75; on the honded indebtedness, including all interest due, $5,189.19; incidental expenses, $285.80; cost of wood house, $117.00; cost of fuel, of which good share is still on hand, $443.-25; for trees, and care of same, $35. 10; funds now on hands, $2,103.98. The meeting authorized the school board to raise by taxation for the coming year the sum of $2,000 to pay the school bands due next January, and the sum of $2,600 to pay interest on-bonds. The district has now outstanding a bonded indebtedness of $26,000. The total expenses of the school district for the past year was reported at $9,306.10, and the total monies received at $11,410.08. It was voted that there be nine months school taught, by male and female teachers. Mr. Wm. Pears and Dr. J. M. Roc were re elected members of the Board for the coming two years. Near the close of the meeting the following resolutions were offered, ex-on the death of Prof. S. Tenny, the celebrated lecturer, with whon many of our citizens were acquainted: WHEREAS, .. Prof. S. Tenney, during his brief visits among us, has endeared himself to us, not only that we have been greatly benefited and instructed by the intellectual feasts spread before us by him in his lectures from time to time, but also that motwithstanding the height to which he had risen in the scientific world, the scientist was merged in the broad catholicity of noble Christian manhood, and pressive of the sense of the meeting

Resolved. That while we deplore the loss to the educational interests of our country of so great a mind, we reverently submit to the will of Him who doeth all things well, and we would extend our sympathy to his bereaved family in this their hour of sad affliction. Be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be published in the BER-RIEN COUNTY RECORD, and also that copy be transmitted to the family of the deceased.

We regret the fact that so few of the tax payers and patrons of our schools take any interest in the affairs of the district, and absent themselves from the annual meetings. Some, through a mistaken notion, think that their presence will make no difference, and through their ignorance (it can be called nothing clsc) will tell you that a few will run things as they desire, anyway, so they will stay away. If they but attended these meetings, and took a little pains to inform their selves, no such exaggerated reports as we hear upon the streets would be a sixual took. circulated: We have an efficient and economical School Board, and we believe it would please them to meet every patron of the school at the annual meeting, the time when they render the account of their stewardship. We ask all to resolve to attend the next meeting.

What the Billious Require. Since torpidity of the liver is the chite cause of disorder, it is evident that what the bilious require is an alterative stimu-lant which will larouse it to activity, an effect that is followed by the disappearance of the various symptoms indicative of derangement. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters invariably achieve the primary result mentioned, besides removing the constipation, flatulence, heart-burn, yellow-ness of the skin and whites of the eyes, pain in the right side and under the right shoulder, nausea, vertigo and sick head-ache, to which bilious invalids are peculiarly subject. As a remedy for chron lescence from disease, where a tonic is inic indigestion, mental despondency and dicated, wine, brandy, porter, &c., have been recommended; but these are of very nervousness the Bitters are equally efficacious, and as a renovant of lost vigor, a means of arresting premature decay, and doubtful efficacy; to say the least. Make a strong soap sude, using hot water; when it is cold, wash the skin in it, carefully squeezing it between the hands to get the dirt put of the wool; then wash the soap out with clan cold water; next, dissolve alum and salt of each half a pound in a little hot water, which put in a tub of diwater sufficient to cover the skin, and let it soak in it over night or welve hours; now hang the skin over a ole to drain; when well drained, se ead or stretch carefully on a board to dry. It need not be tacked if mawn out several times with the hand while drying. When yet a litthe damp, spri...kle pulverized saltpetres a d alum (an ounce each mixed to gether) on the flesh side, rubbing it in well. It is now to leave in the shade for two or three days, the fligh side in until perfectly dry. When entire ly dry, scrape the flesh side with a blunt knife to remove any scraps of riesh. Trim off all projecting points, and rub the flesh side with prenace or retten stone, and with the hands. Prepared in this way, it is white and beautiful, suitable for a door mat, and also nice for the feet in a shigh or wagon in cald weather.

To Cook PEAS.—Peas are cooked without water in French kitchens. Put the peas in a saucepan, with a good piece of butter-size according to the quantity of peas. Place two or three lettuce-leaves over the top. Put on the cover, and set on the back of the range. They must cook very slowly till tender. Take out the let tuce leaves, and serve. If peas are cooked with water they must boil -Let there be only just sufficient to cook them. Add a bit of soda the size of a pea. When tender, do not drain them, but salt, and add three or four spoonfuls of rich cream-or butter will do.

For ridding lawns of unsightly weeds, such as plantain and dandelions, the following plan is recommended by an experienced gardener: To the end of a light wooden rod attach a small sponge, or better, wind a few thicknesses of cloth around it, dip the sponge in oil of vitriol, and with it-touch the heart of the weed. The oil of vitriol may be carried in a wide mouthed bottle at the end of another DISEASED PEACH TREES.—The following is said to be a sure remedy for the yellows in peach trees: "One part of saltpetre to two of salt, placed close to the body of a tree before a rain. It seems not only to destroy any fungoid growth of vermin which may be infesting the roots, but to act as an excellent fertilizer.

BREAD PUDDING.—Take the crumb of a penny loaf and pour on it a pint of good milk boiling hot; when it is cold beat it very fine with two ounces of butter, and sugar to your palate; grate half a nutmeg in it, best it up with four eggs and put them in, and beat all together nearly half an hour; tie it in a cloth and boil it an hour. You may put in half a pound of "durrants, for change, and pour over it a white wine sauce.

FRICASSEE OF EGGS .- Take some kard-boiled eggs, cut them into quarters, yolks and whites. Heat some gravy, seasoned with shred lemonpeel, parsley, thyme, and grated nutmeg. Put in the eggs, together with a piece of butter rolled in flour, shake it gently over the fire till properly thickened; garnish with artichoke bottoms, sliced thin and fried, and yolks of hard-boiled eggs, chopped

OLD-FASHIONED LEMON PIE.-To the juice of one lemon add half a cupful of sugar and half a cupful of nice molasses. While the sugar is dissolving, chop the remainder of the lemon (after removing part of the yellow rind) very fine. Add to it the juice; cover a very large baking plate with a good crust, pour in the mixture, shake over it about a tablespoonful of flour, cover with a short crust rolled pretty thick, and bake in a very quick oven. You must stick the upper crust very carefully under the lower one, in order to save all the GERMAN CREAM BISCUITS.—Take four ounces of butter, six ounces of powdered loaf sugar, seven ounces of flour, one tablespoonful of fresh cream, and one egg. Make the above into a dough, beating it well; then roll it out very thin, cutting it into square pieces two inches long and one broad. Bake in a quick oven, and when done they should be a light yellow brown.

VEAL SAUSAGES .- Take fat bacon and lean veal in equal quantities, with a handful of sage, a little salt, pepper, and, if at hand, an anchovy. Let all be chopped and beaten well together, floured, rolled and fried. Veal saueages are better suited for persons whose digestion is not very strong than those made of pork.

If wounds made by cuts or bruises are covered with sticking plaster the pain will be lessened and the wound will soon heal. If the prepared plaster is too costly, a plan as good is to keep a mucilage bottle and cover al piece of cloth with the mucilage and apply. Those who use glue will find it as handy as anything.

Dr. Price's reputation has been acquired candid, honest dealing and years of successful practice.

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with sars of experience and evidence to sustain it, does not tear down, makesick to make well: no harsh treatment, no trifling, no fluttering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment oo Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinion, reasonable in our chalses, claim not to know everything, or to cure everybody, but do claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their allment, to call, investigate before they abandon hope, make sinterogation and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing, as consultation is free. Visits made regularly.

In order to keep a natural healthful activity of the system we must resort to artificial means. For this purpose Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is very eff-actual. A few doses will create an apps tite and give fresh rigor to the enervated body. For dys repsia, it is invaluable. Many eminent physicians have doubted whether dyspersia on he permanently cured by the drugs which are generally employed for that purpose The Sea Wood Tonic in its nature is totally different from such drugs. It contains no corresive minerals or acids in fact it assists the regular operations of nature, an supplies her deficiencies. The tonic in its nature so much resembles the gastric juice that it is almost ident cal with that fluid. The gastric juice is the natural sol vent which, in a healthy condition of the body, cause the food to be digested; and when this juice is not ex creted in sufficient quantities, indigestion, with all its distressing symptoms, follows. Vegetine Is not a vile, nauseous compound which simply purges the bowels, but a safe, pleasant remedy, which is sure to purify the blood, and thereby restore the health.

Vegetine Is now prescribed, in cases of Scrofula and other diseases of the blood, by many of the best physicians, owing to its great success in curing all diseases of this nature. Vegetine

Does not deceive invalids into false hopes by purging and creating a fictitious appetite, but assists nature in clearing and purifying the whole system, leading the patient gradally to perfecthealth.

Vegetine Was looked upon as an experiment for some time by some of our best physicians, but those most incredulous in regard to its merits are now its most ardout friends

Vegetine, Instead of being a pulled-up medicine, has worked its way up to its present actonishing success, by actual merit in curing all diseases of the blood of whatever nature Vegetine,

Says a Roston Physician, "Has no equal as a blood purifier. Hearing of its many wonderful cures, after all other remedies had failed, I visited the laboratory, and convinced myself of its genuine merit. It is prepared from barks, roots, and herbs, each of which is highly effective; and they are compounded in such a manner as to produce asteni-hing results." Vegetine

Is acknowledged and recommended by physicens and apothecuries to be the best purifier and cleauser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health. PROOF.

WHAT IS NEEDED. Dear Sir,-My only object in giving you this testimotial is to surend valuable information. Having been badly afflicted with Salt Rhoum, and the whole surface of my skin being covered with pimples and eruptions many of which caused me groat pain and annoyance, and knowing it to be a blood disease. I took many of the advertised blood preparations, among which was any quant ity of Sarsaparilla, without obtaining any benefit until I commenced taking the VEGETINE; and before I had completed the first bottle I saw that I had got the right nedicine. Consequently I followed on with it notil I had taken seven bottles, when I was pronounced a well man; and my skin smooth, and entirely free from pimples and emptions. I have nover enjoyed so good health | and I'll let you take me in any i before, and I attribute it all to the use of VEGETINE To benefit those afflicted with Rheumatism, I will make neution also of the Vigrier's wonderful power of curing moof this acute complaint, of which I have suffered

"I wanted to ask your opinion," whispered a young peanut peddler as he beckoned Big English into Justice ally yesterday morning.
"About war maps?" inquired the big boot black.

"No, but about drugs. Dad has got the shakes. He gave me a quarter to get quinine with. Now, suppose I get 10 cents worth of quinine, put in enough chalk or flour to make up a two shilling package, and we lay out the other 15 cents in dates and gumdrops and things?" "It were well, my boy," replied

Big English. "Yes, but would chalk and quinine mixed together hurt anybody? "On the contrary, they would soothe the nerves, tone the system, and recuperate flagging energies," was the dignified reply. "And you'll get the chalk and help me mix 'em?"

"I will. You will find me in the barn when you return. Say nothing to nobody, and your dad shall be made well again and we shall be made happy.'
