Quite pleased with my scheme, I ran up stairs to give Patricia her cough drops, sitting down at the window of her room, and bowing cordially to Mr. Redmond, whom I could see writing at his uncle's study, in see writing at his uncle's study, in the great mansion across the way. The larches hid all the house but that one window. He was there a good deal, and I reflected that Patty's blue silk curtains were more becoming to my style of beauty than hers. "I'll bring my emproidery up and sit with you, Patty," I said.

"Do," she said, "I am tired of watching the evergreens swaying about against that gray spring sky."

So I filled my lap with rose-colored worsted, and framed myself in the blue window drapery for Mr. Redmonds benefit. Just the colors to set off the snow and pink of my comoff the snow and pink of my complexion. I had the satisfaction of meeting his eyes more than once when I glanced over the way.

"Seems to me you've wonderfully good spirits, Gert." remarked Patricia, languidly.

The De Lacy dinner-bell rang, and Mr. Redmond disappeared.

"Well, I must take them in another direction now," I said, rising. "I can't give any more time to you, sis, for I want to finish my blue silk suit before Mr. Sherrington comes. You'd better take a nap," Patricia settled herself obediently among her cushions. Suddenly she lifted her beautiful head.

"Has Mr. Redmond called to in-

"No, I believe not," I replied, indifferently. She showed a moment's surprise, then settled herself on her couch again, and in five minutes she was

My amazement allowed me to stammer nothing intelligible. In some distinct way I temporized the matter, and begged Mr. Redmond to give me time for reflection.

He went away, making an appointment for the next-evening.

So thunderstruck was I by the revelation of Mr. Raymond's wealth, that I wandered about the house in a dazed way, not heeding how mamma was fretting about Patricia, who had gone to ride with Mr. Sherrington.

"What is the matter, mamma? Is it going to storm?" I said, at last. ."To storm? Nonsense! Where are ess."

He purchased before the war about twenty acres of land there, at $600 am acre. During his absence in Europe at the time of the war he was strongly advised by a friend to sell: He did so through his agent, realizing $20,000 for the property. On his return home, and while en route for San Franciso, he stopped over to the Sherman house, when one of the Gage Brother incidentally asked about his property. "Well," replied Broughman, "I sold it eight years ago." "The devil," said Gage, look-

How Prairie Dogs Get Water.

It has always been a subject of curiosity and inquiry as to how and where prairie dogs, living on the prairie, far away from any river or stream, obtain their water. F. Leech, formerly of Mercer County, Pa., and a frontiersman of experience, asserts that the dogs dig their own wells, each village having one with a concealed opening. It matters not how far down the water may be, the dogs will keep digging until they reach it. will keep digging until they reach it. He knows of one such well 200 feet deep and having a circular staircase leading down to the water. Every time a dog wants to drink he descends this staircase, which, considering the distance, is no mean task. In digging for water the animals display as much pluck as in resisting the efforts of settlers to expel them from the land of their progenitors.—San Francisco

A Land Whale and its Jonah.

Thoskeleton of a monster, unknown to naturalists, containing the remains of a human being, was found in the Indian Territory not long since. Only a few of the bones have been unearthed, but they are said to be the largest animal remains ever discovered. Three of the front ribs measure each eight feet in length, while some of the teeth, which are of a carnivorous or-der, weigh eight pounds apiece. The human skeleton was in such a position as to indicate that the man had been swallowed by the animal, while the bones of the right side had been broken, apparently by force. The shape of the cranium showed that the skeleton was that of an Indian, and 102 flint arrow-heads and 15 flint knives lay by its side. The bones show that they have been buried for an immense period, as they crumble rapidly when exposed to the air.

Rest for the Mind.

When the daily occupation is monotonous and unengrossing, a full supply of excitement for the leisure hours may be desirable; but where the mental powers have been taxed to their utmost through the hours of labor; it is absolutely necessary to health and happiness that they be entirely released for a portion of the time that is left. It is not enough that the usual amount of time be spent in the absolute rest of sleep, if every waking hour be filled to the brim with eager serious occupation. It is not enough that certain hours be secured, free from absolute work, if they are still permeated with energetic thought, intense feeling or exciting pleasures. The mind needs rest from effort in its waking hours, a time when it may rightly lay aside its activity and enjoy being acted upon by calm and gentle influences.

Lactometer. Any housekeeper who desires to test the purity of the lacteal fluid furnished daily by the milkman can provide herself with an impromptu. and to all purposes an efficient lactometer in this easy way:-Procure a glass bulb and stem, both hollow, load it with quicksilver, sand, or even bird shot, until the instrument will float upright in milk known to be pure. Mark on the stem the point to which it sinks-the surface point. Remove it from the milk and float it in pure water, marking the surface point as before, which will be considerably higher on the stem than the other mark. Now take a narrow slip of paper, capable of being rolled lengthwise and inserted in the stem of the instrument so that figures on it will be visible through the glass. Lay off on this—in the direction of its length -a space equal to the distance between the two surface points, numbering the first point 0 and the other 100. Subdivide this space into ten or twenty portional spaces correspondingly numbered, roll the slip and insert it in the stem until the 0 is at the surface point of the milk, the 100 at that of the water. Your lactometer is now complete. Float it in your milk can every morning and the depth to which it sinks will register the percentage of dishonest water, if any, the milk contains. Suppose, for example, the instrument sinks till the surface line cuts the figure 15. The milk contains 15 per cent of added recommending the support of a very meritorious institution. The congregation was numerous, and the chanel was crowded to excess. The discourse being finished, and the plate was about being handed round to the respective pews, when the preacher made this short address to the waiting congregation: "From the sympathy I have witnessed in your countenances, and the strict attention you have honored me with, there is one thing I am afraid of, that some of you may be inclined to give too much. JOHN G. HOLMES, Editor.

THURSDAY MORNING, NOV. 8, 1877.

The results of the elections held last Tuesday show that New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Maryland, Mississippi and Virginia gave Demo cratic majorities. while Massachusetts. Connecticut, Minnesota and Wesconsin gave their usual Republican majorities.

Gov. Williams, of Indiana, has appointed Dan W. Voorhees to the seat made vacant by the death of Oliver P.

At the county election held in Chicago Tuesday, ail the Republican candidates were elected.

Twenty three of the chairmanships of House committees go to the "Solid South" by the selection of the Demo. crate Speaker, Raudall. New England has none.

A controversy has for some time been going on in France between the supporters of the republic and the Experor, and it has now come to a point that civil war is feared will be the result.

Congress is making preparations for a representation of this country at the Worlds Fair at Paris the coming year. An appr priation of $140,000 has been asked for this purpose and a bill to that effect is now before Congress for discussion.

It is now thought that the great war between Russia and Turkey is nearing the end. The Russians have been victorious in nearly every engagement lately, and are now overrunning Armenia at will. Erzeroum. one of the Turkish strongholds, has surrendered to the invaders without a struggle, and the Turkish armies are reported as routed and discouraged. Let the end come. The whole civilized world is praying for it.

The Lansing Republican has this to say of the business of the State Treasurer: The balance of cash in the state treasury Oct. 27 was $532,-438.48; receipts during the week ending Nov. 3 were $38,189.45; pay ments during same time were $127,-452 96; balance in treasury Nov. 3, 1877, $443,174 96; decrease for the meek $89,363 51.

During the last year, perhaps, the well-known cry of hard times has been more prevalent than for many years. One of the great reasons for that is, last year nearly everybody who could raise from $75 to $100, and many who could not, went to see the great show at Philadelphia, thereby sending millions of dollars entirely out of the Western country, and for which there was no value returned. There being a comparatively limited crop of grains in the West, that season, it become necessary for those people to do without the uee of this money until they could raise an other crop to give in exchange for it. So soon as that began to come into market, the supply of money became greater and the old cry less. In the mean time, it has been the lot of the Republican party and the "Bloody Bloated Bondbolders" to stand the cause of the whole proceedings.

The House committee on Banking and currency has agreed upon and reported to the House a silver bill providing for the coining at the sever al mints of the United States silver dollars of the weight of 4121 grains of standard silver, as provided in the act of January 18, 1837, on which shall be devices and superscriptions provided by said act, which coin, together with all silver dollars heretofore coined by the United States of like weight and fineness, shall be legal tender for all debts and dues, public and private, except where otherwise provided by contract; and any owner of silver bullion may deposit the same at any Unided States coinage mint or assay office to be coined into such dollars for his benefit, upon the same terms and conditions as gold bullion is deposited for coinage under the existing laws. The bill was brought before the House and passed by a vote of 168 to 34. It is probable that the bill will be speedily passed by the Senate and the chances are that the silver dollar will soon be among us

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS. The question of a system of postal savings banks, similar to that in England, has been agitated to such an extent as to bring about the introduction of a bill into the House of Congress to that end. On Monday last Mr. Phillips, of Kansas, brought forward a bill which provides that each office where the Postmaster's salary is $1,-000, on application a savings banks shall be established. Deposits shall be received at as low amount as 25 cents, the account not to exceed $200. It provides that when $25 is deposited it shall bear 3 per cent. interest when placed subject to ninety days' notice before call. It authorizes the issue of 3.65 bonds in denominations of $25, $50, $100, and $200, with coupons payable every three months, which on demand shall be payable on amounts deposited when called. It provides for additional bonds for Post-Offices where such banks are established, and that bonds may be increased from time to time, and leaves the execution of the provisions of the act with the Postmaster General, the Secretary of the Treasury to issue bonds on notification of the Postmaster-General that $50,000,000 is so deposited, that amount being held under the

DEATH OF SENATOR MORTON.

The death of Senator Morton took place at his home in the evening of Nov. 2. In his death the country loses one of her best statesmen and one whose place it will be hard to fill. Upon receipt of the news of his death, President Hayes issues the following proclamation expressive of the sympathies and respect for the deceased Senator:

EXECUTIVE MANSION. WASHINGTON, Nov. 2, 1877.

I lament the sad occasion which makes it my duty to testify to the public respect for the eminent citizen and distinguished statesman whose death yesterday at his home in Indianapolis has been made known to the people by telegraphic announcement. The services of Oliver, P. Morton to the nation in the difficult and responsible administration of the affairs of the State of Indiana as its Governor at the critical juncture of the civil war can never be over-valued by his countrymen. His long service in the Senate has shown his great powers as a legislator and as leader and chief counselor of the political party charged with the conduct of the government during that period. In all things and at all times he has been able, strenuous, and faithful in the public servic, and his fame with his N countrymen rests upon a secure A foundation. The several executive S departments will be closed on the day of his funeral, and appropriate honors should be paid to the memory of the] deceased statesman by the whole na-R. B. HAYES,

President of the United States. The funeral was probably one of A the largest and most imposing ever held in this country. Large delogations from all parts of the State were sent to attend, and among others a 1 committee from the Senate of which (he was a member.

The War.

The beginning of the end of the Turko Russian war appears to be approaching. In every part of the field of conflict the Turks seem to be losing ground. Mukhtar Pasha has not recovered from his terrible defeat near Kars, but is still on the retreat towards Erzeroum, with the Grand Duke Michael in swift pursuit, capturing fresh battalions almost daily. He is in a desperate situation, and, if he is attacked and defeated again, which must involve of necessity the fall of Erzeroum, the war on the Asiatic side will be at an end, and Armenia will be held by the Russians, to be claimed in the final settlement as indemnity for the expense of the war. In Europe, prospects are but little brighter. The Russian army around Plevna has made a change of front, only to seal up Osman Pasha more tightly. His communications with Sofia are disturbed, so that there is little hope of his obtaining provision and other supplies from that quarter. one force seeking to relieve him Achmet Pasha's, has been captured. and the Russian cavalry are driving Chevket Pasha's army in wild disorder away from their communications with Osman Pasha, with a prospect of capturing at least a portion of them. Raouf Pasha has squandered thousands of lives trying to force the Russians from their formidable position in the Balkans at Shipka without any success, and can do nothing more in those cold, stormy altitudes before another year. Suleiman Pasha, the renowned Turkish fighter, who succeeded Mehemet Ali, has done nothing but retreat since he reached the Lom, and is now in danger of being crushed between the armies of the Czarowitch and Gen. Zimmerman, the latter of which is now on the march, after its long rest, towards Silistria. Everywhere the Turks are losing ground and from their movements it would appear that they are seeking a soft spot for the final fall. The desperate character of their situation is indicated very clearly by the peace discussion which is now being agitated in England, and the somewhat officious if not impudent proposition that Russia shall make peace upon the original basis as decided by the Conference. There are several reasons why Russia will not consent to such an arrangement. First, being the victor, she will dictate her own terms. Second, she has lost already nearly 70,000 men, for which there must be a recompense. Third, she has been at enormous expense, and, if Germany could exact indemnity from France, she will not hesitate to exact indemnity in territory and money from Turkey. Fourth, the terms originally made by Russia were so modified in the Conference that they nearly disappeared. If she is going to make of little avail.—Chicago Tribune. The fact that the Spanish authorities have introduced homestead measures in Cuba has escaped comment in this country. Soldiers of the army, volunteers against the insurgents, and the insurgents who have submitted to the government, are to be granted portions of the government lands. The recipients will be tenants for three years, when, if the land is prop erly cultivated, they become absolute owners, their lands to be exempt from taxation for five years. This measure will do more to end the rebellion in Cuba than all the soldiers Spain has sent there.—Inter-Ocean.

Notices of the Press.

The voteran Magazine, which long ago outgrawits original title of the New Monthly Magazine, has not in the least abated the popularity it won at the outset, but has added to it in many ways, and has kept fairly abreast of the times, thanks to the enterprise of the publishers and the tace and wi-dom of its editors. For whatever is best and most readable in the literature of travel, discovery and fiction, the average reader of to-day looks to Harper's Magazine, just as expectantly as did the reader of a quarter of a century ago; there is the same admirable variety of contents and the same freshoes and suggestiveness in its editorial departments now as them.—Boston Journal.

Tuis standard article is compounded with the greatest care. Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever. It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean. By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong. As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Did any enfeebled human being ever secome strong under the operation of powerful cathartics or salivants? It is sometimes necessary to regulate the bowels, but that cannot be done by active purgation, which exhausts the vital forces and serves no good purpose whatever. The only true way to promote health and vigor, which are essential to regularity of the organic functions, is to invigorate, discipline and purify the system at the same time. The extraordinary efficacy of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters in cases of debility or irregularity of the organs of digestion, assimilation, secretion and discharge, is universally admitted. Appetite, good digestion, a regular habit of body, active circulation of the blood, and purity of all the animal fluids are induced by this superb tonic and corrective. It has no equals, moreover, as a preventive of chills and fever, and other types of malarial disease. To emigrants and travelers it is particularly serviceable as a medicinal Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boscher's German Syrur to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor dying consumptive, at least to try one bottle, as 40,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the GERMAN SYRUE cannot be too widely known. Ask your Druggist about it. Sample Bottles

My practice, not one of experiment, but founded on the laws of Nature, with sars of experience and evidence to susting it, does not tear down, makesick to make well; no harsh treatment, no trifling, no flattering. We know the cause and the remedy needed, noguess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinion, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or to cure everybody, but do claim to reason and common sense. We invite the sick, no matter what their allment, to call, investigate before they abandon hope, make interrogation and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing, asconsultation is free. How to Cook and Serve the Canyas-Back. Upon the table, the canvas-back makes a royal dish, though few can distinguish between it and the redhead when both are in season. Only those very familiar with the birds can tell which is which when alive, and, when served, it becomes almost an impossibility. The celery flavor is more marked in the canvas-back in the best of the season. It is seldom served precisely as it should be anywhere out of Maryland. If allowed to remain in the oven five minutes too long, it is unfit for the table. A great deal also depends upon the carving. A good quick oven will gook a fullsized duck in 22 minutes. It should never remain in over 25. After a duck is picked and drawn, it should be simply wiped dry. Water should never touch it, and it should be fairly seasoned before going to the fire. When done, the birds should be placed in pairs in hot, dry dishes. There is no need to prepare a gravy; immediately they are cut, they will fill the dish with the rich st gravy that ever was tasted. Or e canvas-back to each "cover" is considered a fair allow ance at a Maryland table, but when the bird is only an incident of the dinner or supper, of course half a bird is sufficient for each person Slicing the bird is unheard of. The two prong ed fork is inserted diagonally across the breast-bone, and the knife lays half of the bird on each side, leaving the "carcass" on the fork between. The triangle of meat an inch thick comprised between the leg and the wing, with its apex at the back and its base as the breast, is considered the most delicious morsel of meat that exists. The canvas back in Mary land is served with large hominy fried

in cakes, celery, and a dry champagne,

Leaves for Barnyard and Stable, Forest leaves are excellent to supply the stable yards, and where straw is scarce also the cow stables and hogpens. They can be most conveniently gathered soon after falling, or after the first snow, or at least before the wintry blasts have scattered them. They can lay compactly, and being moist can be handled with great facil. ity. A cart with a few standards stuck in the sides will hold a considerable quantity; and the heat thing to gather or load them with is a wooden hand rake: a wooden four-tined strawfork is also very handy when the leaves are moist. Leaves absorb large quantities of the liquid manure and are an excellent fertilizer in the spring. They can be gathered, too, when other labor about the farm is slack .- [Germantown Telegraph.

To Induce Sleep.

Sleep has many friends and many foes. Its best friend is weariness, but even weariness and it sometimes fall out. The last method we have heard of for curing cases of pure sleeplessness, when unaccompanied by pain or disease, is the following: Get out of bed and take a linen bandage, although a large handkerchief neatly folded longwise will do as well, per-haps better. Dip one half of the handkerchief into water; pass the wet portion around the wrist; over this lay the dry half, and tuck in the end so as to make all secure. Lie down again. The wet bandage will be found to exercise a most soothing influence on the pulse; this will soon extend over all the nervous system, and calm, refreshing sleep will be the result.

The great secret of beautiful hair is plentiful brushing. The skin of the head is constantly peeling off in tiny scales. These are to be removed only by means of the brush. Two brushes are as much needed as oneone for vigorous brushing and one to polish and give the gloss sought for. Hair should be washed occasionally, Hair should be washed occasionally, but never with soap, which makes it hard and dry. Borax should be used with great care, if used at all, as it Deeds of the County of Berrien in said State, on the 11th day of March, A. D. 1874, at 11½ on the 11 stroys the gloss. Rain-water and the yolks of eggs, in place of either, are the best wash. Hot water is injuri ous, whisky and water are excellent preventatives against taking cold. Every month or six weeks clip the ends of the hair that are split, passing the comb through the hair and cutting the ends as they appear above it. Never tie the hair tightly, and if you must use a hot iron, put a bit of tissue paper between it and the hair.

In cases of illness, where it is desirable to stimulate perspiration, a vapor bath may be improvised thus: Put a few hot bricks in a pail of water -over which the patient must be seated in a cane bottom chair—and use a large blanket, which will cover him from the shoulder to the floor, for confining the steam.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE. CUCCESS is the test of merit, and success in the treatment of Catarrhal Affections, after so many miscrable failures, means undoubted specific curative properties in the remedy used. Does Saxronne Radioal Curk for Catarrh possess such properties? The evidence, in the shape of unsolicited testimonials from the most respectable people in all stations of life, must be conclusive on this point. Naver, we believe, in the shape of nucleus has such valuable testimony been citered, freely offered, in favor of any remedy than that in the possession of the proprietors of Saxronn's Radioal Utile. And valuable astis, it does not represent a thousandth part of the recommendations which are the day offered by friends to friends in its favor. People of wealth and refinement in all parts of the country daily admit its superiority over any method of cure known to the regular medical profession, but shun the publicity incidental to a published statement. Hence the testimonials for our possession represent but a small part of those withheld for the resson mentioned. The following runsolicited testimonials from HEXEN WELLS, Esq., of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, is an outspoken indorsoment of which we are justiy proud.

Milness of the above. v!" and the lad shook his head in dismal but expressive pantomime as he tend rly rubbed a lump that looked like a billiard ball with hair on it. Witness of the above, Mr. GEORGE M. VAUGHAN, Medford, Mass, The pastor gravely paused for the interruption and resumed:

"The Apostlo Paul"-"Siw Mrs. O'Gheminio down at Greenhaum's this afternoon," said the eldest daughter, addressing her mother. Saw ha! the same old black silk made over with a vest of tilleul green silk, cent tail basque pattern, overskirts made with diagonal folds in front, edged with deep fringe; yellow atraw het, with black velvet facing nside the brim, and pale blue flowers.

She's going to Chicago."

The good minister waited patiently, and then in tones just a shade louder than before, said—

"The Apostle Paul"-" ent in swimmin' last night with Henry and Ben, pop, and stepped on a clam sheil," exclaimed his youngest son; "cut my feet so I can't wear my shoes; and please, can't I stay at home to merrow?"

The pastor informed his son that he might stay away from the river, and then resumed his topic. He said "The Apostle Paul says"-'My teacher is an awful liar,' shouted the second son; "he says the world is as round as an orange, and it turns round all the time faster than a circus man can ride. I guess be hain't get much sense."

The mother lifted a warning finger toward the boy and said, "Sh!" and the fither resumed: "The Apostle Paul says"-

"Don't bite off twice as much as you can chew," broke out the eldest son, reproving the assault of his little brother on a piece of cake. The pastor's face showed just a trifle of annovance as he said in very firm, decided tines-

"The Apostle Paul says"-"There's a fly in the butter! shricked the youngest hopeful of the family, and a general laugh followed. When silence was restored, the eldest daughter, with an air of curiosity, said:

"Well, but pa, I really would like to know what the Apostle Paul said," "Fars me the mustard," said the pastor, absently.

Then the committee rose and the Senete went into executive session. and soon after adjourned.—Burling-

The Taylor Jug. A gentleman traveling at the West met an emigrant journeying with his family to the fertile regions beyond the Mississippi. He had all his goods packed in wagons, and on one load there hung a hugh jug with the bottom broke out. He asked the stranger why he carried that with him. "Why," said he, "I had a son with Gen. Taylor's army in Mexico, and the old gentleman always told him to carry his whisky jug with a hole in the bottom; since then I have carried my jug as you see it, and find it the best invention I ever met with." "Now," said Rev Dr. Tyng, who re-lated the anecdote, "if our presidents, governors and legislators would only carry such whisky jugs as this western emigrant carried; if their jug had no bottom in it, we should have much less drunkenness and misery.' Oh, the ruinous example of those in high station!

From a San Francisco Letter. Cosins to Rent.

The poor people of this city have an unaccountable mania for funeral pomps and ceremonies; consequently when a member of a family dies all available funds are expended in laying the body in state, and in an impressive cortege. The matter of carriages is not vexatious to the purse of the mourners, as their occupants are expected to contribute their quota to the expense of conveyance, a privilege eagerly embraced by hundreds who regard a funeral procession in the light of a gala parade. But the lying in state, to be imposing, is a costly luxury, particularly with the impecunious; consequently, as a corpse is an object of curious inspection by admiring friends, the beauty of the exhibition can be secured at, a smaller expense through the hire of a casket than through its purchase outright. In an undertaker's window can be seen a coffin of the most costly fabrication, with a superabundance of silver ornamentation, lined with rich satin, and otherwise adorned munificently. A fac-simile of this $300 casket can be hired of its exhibitor, who supplies an exquisite lining in accordance with the rules of the trade, pink for a brunette, light blue for a blonde, and so on, and into the loaned receptacle places the corpse until the hour of burial arrives, when the inside frame of the coffin is slipped out, and the deceased transferred to a cheap stained-wood imitation of the outer casket, and "planted" without the imposture being detected. At present a handsome external, case demands a rental of $5 a day, and as the body is generally "laid out" for three days, this, with incidentals, constitutes a good

ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANTHING OF IT? IF NOT, IT IS TIME YOU DID. There are but few preparations of medicine which have withstood the impartial judgement of the people for any great length of time. One of those is Thomas' Ecceptuse Ott, purely a preparation of six of some of the best Oils that are ever known, each possessing virtues of its own. Scientific physicians know that medicines may be formed of several ingredients in certain fixed proportions of greater power, and producing effects which could never result from the use of any one of them, or in different combinations. Thus in the preparation of this Oil a chemical change takes place, forming a compound which could not by any possibility be made from any other combination or proportions of the same ingredients, or any other ingredients, and entirely different from anything over before made, one which produces ibo most astonishing results, and having a wider rango of application than any medicine aver before discovered. It contains no alcohol or other volatile liquids, consequently losing nothing by evaporation. Wherever applied you get the benefit of every drop; whereas with other preparations nearly all the alcohol is lost in that way, and, you get only the small quantity of Oils which they may contain.

J. B. BLOOMER, Virgillo. N.
