Berrien Co. Record.

JOHN G. HOLMES, Editor.
THURSDAY MORNING, JAN. 3, 1878.

They must have all the inhabitants necessary, in China. There is a proposition now to levy a tax on all babies in that country.

It is claimed that in the Ohio Senatorial struggle, General Ewing will have thirty Senators and Representatives who will stick to him on every ballot, and his friends do not regard Pendleton's chances as even second best.

In the Kentucky Legislature are fifteen Republicans, one in the Senate and fourteen in the House. The opposition factions are so evenly balanced that this fifteen have the balance of power in their hands, and can say what Democrats will be elected in the organization.

The report of the State Treasury, as given in the Lansing Republican, is as follows:

The balance of cash in the State Treasury Dec. 22, was $503,875.18; receipts during the week ending Dec. 29 were $13,563.30; payments during the same time were $50,940.14; balance in treasury Dec. 29, 1877, $425,581.84; decrease for the week, $37,788.84.

THE LEGISLATURES.

The New York Legislature was organized yesterday. Wm. H. Robertson was chosen President pro tem. of the Senate, and James W. Husted Speaker of the House.

The Pennsylvania Legislature met on New Years day, at noon. Thomas V. Comer was chosen Speaker pro tem. This being an adjourned session, with but few exceptions the officers of both houses are the same as last year.

The Maine Legislature met yesterday. The Senate elected Warren H. Vinton, President, and Samuel W. Lane, Secretary. The House elected Henry Lord Speaker, and Oramdel Smith Clerk.

The Maryland Legislature met at Annapolis yesterday, and temporarily organized, with J. Fenner Lee as President of the Senate, and Murray Vandever as Speaker of the House.

The Russian cavalry accomplished another difficult feat in crossing the Balkans at such points as to turn the Turkish position at Kamastr, just south of Euphrat. This enabled them to strike the Sophia road south-west of Sophia, or between that city and Ichtiman. The latter place is about thirty miles south-west of Sophia, in a defile on the road leading to Bazardjik or Tartar Bazardjik. The plain ranges which approach each other at Ichtiman, narrowing the plain to a mountain defile. The Servians approached Sophia from the north-west, on the great road leading from Belgrade to Adrianople. The Russians strike this same road south-east of Sophia. Bazardjik, twenty miles south-west of Ichtiman, is on the railroad to Philippopolis, Adrianople, and Constantinople, about 100 miles from Adrianople. General Gourkha, last summer, moved through Schipka Pass toward Adrianople, via Kazanlik and Bskisagra, and would have struck the Bazardjik and Adrianople road about fifty miles east of Bazardjik.—Inter-Ocean.

Trouble in Crete.
LONDON, Jan. 2.—There is a great excitement to-day, caused by news just received from Crete. A number of Christian families yesterday attempted to enter Retimo, a small town on the northern coast, but were prevented by the Turkish populace who assaulted them, men, women and children. After driving the Christians back, the Turks closed the gates of the town, and then turned to the British Vice Consul, threatening his life and pursuing him with knives until he found friendly shelter in the house of a brother consul. The Turkish soldiers quietly stood by during all the outrages, and not once attempted to stop the riotous disturbances at Athens yesterday, and sailed last night for Retimo, and it is believed here that England will take temporary possession of the island with a view of preventing a repetition of the outrages.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the wedding of Rutherford B. Hayes to Miss Lucy Webb was celebrated in a very common-place, unostentatious manner at the White House, Monday evening, Dec. 31. Of those invited to be present there were those who were present at their wedding, and a few of their most intimate friends, not to exceed one hundred persons. The only present given was a silver log cabin, from the officers of Hayes' old regiment, in memory of a winter spent in camp, during which the kindness of Mrs. Hayes, the Colonel's wife, won the hearts of the soldiers. The base of the cabin was inscribed:

To THE MOTHER OF THE PRESIDENT.
It was the expressed wish of the President that no presents be given, but this one was accepted as a memento.

The Public Debt Decrease.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—The public debt statement for December shows a decrease in the debt for the month of $71,623, and the following balances in the treasury: Currency, $5,498,844; special fund for the redemption of fractional currency, $10,090,000; special deposits of legal tenders for the redemption of certificates of deposit, $32,882,000; coin, $139,513,405, including coin certificates, $33,424,900; outstanding legal tenders, $349,943,776. This is the first decrease of the debt in any December since 1873.

A late dispatch from Oshkosh says that Father Desmet, Golden Gate, Justice and Belcher mines have just been sold to California capitalists for $100,000.

Finance of France.

The New York Tribune's Washington correspondent has been investigating the silver coinage laws of France with the advantage of having the French Minister and Legation to furnish him with the facts. These facts he relates as follows: France has only one silver coin—the five-franc piece—which is a legal tender at all. Her smaller silver coins are not a legal tender for any amount. They circulate from the necessity of having small change. The five-franc piece is a legal tender to any amount; but it is only issued in a limited quantity, and is kept at par by being exchangeable for gold at the Bank of France. France does not allow the free coinage of silver. The Franco government buys silver bullion, and issues all the silver on government account it allows to be coined. The limit of the silver coinage which France allows per year is fixed by law. In 1874 it was twelve millions of dollars in our money; in 1875, fifteen millions; in 1876, ten millions eight hundred thousand; in 1877, the same. These amounts of yearly coinage of silver are barely enough to make up for wear, and loss, so as to supply the necessary amount for small change. France creates a great demand for small change, and keeps the country full of coin, by not allowing the circulation of any small paper bills. During the war with Germany, France suspended specie payments—that is, she simply made the bills of the Bank of France legal tender, but did not allow the bank to issue above an amount fixed by law. And she also allowed the bank to issue small bills to an extent determined by law. Ever since the war, these small bills have been gradually reduced. And now no small bills are put out. No bills less than one hundred francs—about twenty dollars—are now issued. Thus, there being no small paper bills, gold and silver are kept in the country because they are absolutely necessary to do business with.

Comparing France with the United States, we find that French small silver coins are not a legal tender at all. On the other hand, the United States has put out fifty millions in small coin, which are a legal tender to the amount of five dollars. France does not allow free coinage of silver. The silver dollar free in the United States propose to allow free coinage, so that the silver bullion and mine-owners can coin all the silver they choose. France limits the amount of silver coined to not quite a million dollars a month, and never allows the whole amount in circulation to exceed the absolute necessities of trade for small change. The silver men of the United States propose no such limit. France redeems her silver, on presentation, in gold, and thus keeps it at par. The silver men of the United States do not propose this. France allows the man who receives payment at the Bank of France—her bond-holders and everybody who holds a debt against the government—to demand and receive either silver, or gold, or paper, according to his choice. Only he cannot have paper or silver to an extent which would increase the total circulation of either as fixed by law. Gold alone is entirely unlimited. Some of our Congressmen propose that we shall declare our bonds payable in silver, and pay in what we choose to give, and not in what our creditors choose to take. The finances and coinage of France have been managed with consummate ability and tact. Hence her credit is excellent, and gold and silver are the common money of her people. The greatest care is taken to keep gold and silver in the country, and not allow paper to run them out of the country, and also not to allow silver to run out, gold. To regulate these things, there are no free banks, allowed to issue paper; but the government bank has the amount of its paper issue strictly limited by law; there is no free coinage of silver, allowing bullion owners to issue too much silver, and so run gold out of the country; but the government takes into its own hands the coinage of silver, and keeps the amount carefully down to the strict necessities of the trade; and, in order to keep gold and silver plentiful in the country, no small paper bills are allowed, and thus everybody must have and keep coin in order to do business. This last policy prevails in England, Belgium, Germany and France; and these countries are always full of gold and silver, because their laws prohibit the circulation of small bills, and so make gold and silver absolutely necessary. These are the richest nations in the world, and their financial systems will always keep them rich. At present, the United States cannot copy their wise example; but we can bear it in mind, and gradually work toward it. We can at least study the causes and legislation which have made these countries the great sources of ready cash—the inexhaustible fountains of coined money—which neither great wars nor prolonged commercial troubles can exhaust of their gold and silver, nor reduce them to our condition.—Evening Telegraph.
