WHY DOES NOT GOD KILL THE DEVIL. BY JOSEPH HAIGH.

> Why does not God kill the Devil?
> The curse of his earthly domain, That we might have plenty of pleasure Without any sorrow or pain.
> Old Adam and Eve in the garden

Would never have eaten the fruit;
If God had encompassed the Devil,
Or had made his snakeship quite mute. But he gave him the power of persussion, That he might accomplish his plan; And he argued the point to the woman, And she made it clear to the man. Why does not God kill the Devil?

Why did he create such an elf?
Or perhaps I'm a little presumptuous,
He may have created himself.
But God is almighty and powerful—
The Book and the preachers say so— And once, long ago, the Lord banished The Devil to regions below. But he seemed to be free and untrammeled, And masterly work he has done
On the earth; for he gains o'er his Lordship, Ten thousand or more to his one.

Why does not God kill the Devil? And trouble would never begin; For then there could be no temptation No sorrow, forgivenessa nor sin. Hell-fire might then be extinguished Ar I save the expense of the fuel, And many a poor soul relinquished From punishment horrid and cruel.
The Lord could sit down in his kingdom, And all could be singing his praise, With none to dispute he was master And monarch of all he surveys.

Why does not God kill the Devil, And wickedness bring to an end? There could not be much opposition, For evil has really no friend, And all would prefer to be happy, And never would wander away— But the power of the Devil is greater Than God's; and he leads them estray.

Recruits he is constantly getting

From God's holy ranks, and ere long,

If the Devil should rally his forces,

The fight would be dreadful and strong.

Why does not God kill the Devil, If he goes about like a lion, Frightening the lambs from the Savior,
And driving the sheep off from Zion? A man never was a free agent, And neither is he a machine: He's governed by what is within him, And that which around him is seen.

If God made the devil to plague us,
And do us all manner of harm;

Just let him remove the old fellow,
And things will then work like a charm.

Why does not God kill the Devil? It would so much help the elect; He leads them so often to trouble— Much more so than one would expect— McCarthys and Beechers on trial For sins that they would not commit. If the Devil was not at their elbow, To urge and to aid them in it. And all the way down in the ranks, The pious ones often play smash; Figuring in the salary grabs— Absconding with public cash.

Why does not God kill the Devil? I ask this great question once more; Or otherwise save him from sinning, And place him on Canaan's bright shore. The glorious millenium can never Upon this wicked planet begin, Until God has killed off the Devil Or turned him away from his'sin. Then we shall be perfectly happy— No evil one here to deceive— And everything that is unholy, Along with the Devil would leave

At 11 o'clock, four hours later, the crape was torn down from beside the dwelling in Mary street. The order for the undertaker was countermanded. The doctor was told to hurry to his patient. The Sunday scholars in Old Swedes church were about passing a resolution of condolence, when the pastor, the Rev. S. B. Simes was handed a paper bearing the single word, hastily written, "Revived." The neighborhood was thick with rumors, all having for their purport the coming of the dead to life. Among those who had an inkling of the facts it was generally agreed that something not far short of a miracle had happened. The story is a remarka-in his life. Mr. Schrack dreaded the idea of his peculiar case being made public, but if the particulars were to be related, he said he would prefer narrating them himself, so that the statement might be correct. A Times representative yesterday found him sitting up in bed, with a bright color in his cheeks, and looking like anything but a corpse. He is a young man, probably 30 years of age, a good talker, and intelligent. He spoke in a hoarse whisper, not the result of his illness, but caused by his catching a slight cold in consequence of the perspiration he was thrown into by the made in the United States mint in remedies employed to revive him. He spoke earnestly of his experience, but was vivacious and smiling, and at times joked about the expressions of the doctor when he found him alive. He tells his story as follows: "Last September I had a terrible attack of hemorrhage of the lungs, and since then I have not been able to do anything, except for one period of three weeks. My health at times was fair, but three weeks ago I felt that I was going fast. My flesh left my body. My entire appearance changed. My appetite was gone. Everything I swallowed was at once thrown off my stomach. Last Thursday a week I found I would have to give up. I felt as though the power of action in my limbs was leaving me. I was fearful of going to bed, and so I sat in a chair for three days and three nights. I then made up my mind that I would have to die, and I asked to be put to bed. Wednesday night I was taken with something like a chill and spasms at the heart. After coming through that I seemed to revive until last Saturday: Every hour during that day I experienced a change. While the right hand would be purple the left would be white. When the left hand became dark the other became white again. The entire left side of my body was numb and almost useless. About 9 o'clock on Saturday night my eyesight began to fail me. I lost my hearing, and my speech became thick, my tongue being swollen. I had fully made up east. Recent orders are chiefly from my mind that I had to die. At about 4 o'clock Sunday morning the tips of my fingers became like lead. My sight had now entirely gone. My stomach was terribly swollen and was $38,000,000 of small silver coins greatly inflamed. Each succeeding cramp was more severe and reached higher up into the stomach. All the passages of my throat seemed to be closed. Shortly before 7 o'clock I asked to be moved to the foot of the bed. My head had scarcely touched the pillow when I exclaimed: 'Throw me over!' and then-I found myself in another land. The vision I looked upon was the most beautiful that man ever saw. It would be impossible for me to give a description that would do it justice. My first feeling was that of falling down a great height, and then I found myself in a valley. I walked along until I came to a terrible; dark, black river, at sight of which I shuddered and feared. Before me and beyond the river was a black cloud. Others were walking over the river, and, although I dreaded it, something urged me on, and I felt that I had to go with the others. As I got nearer to the dark cloud it became bright and beautiful, and expanding, it opened and disclosed the most beautiful sight. The first I saw was Jesus. I saw a great temple and a great throne. I saw my little boy, who over two years ago was drowned, and my other dead child. I saw my dead wife, but I could not touch them. saw people whom I had almost forgotten. I saw my old gray-haired grandfather, who died when I was but two years old. There were many whom I looked for but did not see them. Then the vision began receding, and I never can describe the terrible disappointment I felt when I found myself again in bed. I felt, indeed, grieved. It was 11 o'clock when I regained consciousness, and at once I felt as though my life had been renewed. I was a new man. I had not then, nor have I now, an ache or pain. My eyesight, my hearing, and my speech had fully returned, and I feel now as well as I ever did in my life." Dr. James H. Cantrell, the attending physician, said that Mr. Schrack was attacked with nervous spasms of the heart. "I expected his death at any moment. He was in such a condition since Sunday a week that I did not dare to make an examination of his lungs, as I knew he could not stand it. Mr. Schrack told me that during the four hours of his unconsciousness he had but one foot on earth, and he was very sorry that he had brought him back, because he was so happy where he was." Showing how fully he has recover

From the Philadelphia North American. Mint Drons.

The two cent pieces were abolished five years ago. There are five times as many one cent pieces used as threes. Less than $10,000 of one cent pieces were coined last year. No five or threes (nickel) were coined last year for circulation. The old-fashioned silver dollar has not been made for five years. The shipping of silver coins from the mint began about a year ago. Silver is purchased at the mint to a limited extent. It is paid for in gold.

Nickel and bronze coins are only

The eastern, middle and western States take most of the nickel and bronze coins.

Double eagles are being made for the depositories because they are more salable. No silver is coined in subsidiary coin for depositors. The Government coins for itself alone. In the South the people are now using one cent pieces and threes very extensively. Five times as many five cent pieces as ones are sent away, and five times as many ones as threes. There is no coinage charged on gold. The only charge is for parting, refining and toughening. No silver is exchanged for notes at the mint. This is done by transfers which come through Washington.

Two weeks ago nearly $300,000 in gold dollars were made for the subtreasury department of New York. There are lying in the depositories and vaults of the sub-treasury in this city nearly $300,000 in five cent

Five cent pieces are circulated considerably in New Orleans. Pennies were recently sent to the city, which were the first ever called for. The large number of early orders for small coins came from the south-this section of the country. A large amount of the $38,000,-000 in small coins circulated within the vear were manufactured during the same period, and consequently the coins are new.

The Government has issued over since the redemption of fractional currency began, and the market is fairly glutted with them. The demand for one cent pieces has increased within the last three or four mounths, and the demands for fives has decreased. This is due to the issue of so many dimes. In brisk times the mint pays out from $3,000 to $5,000 a day for the accommodation of people making change and for shipment through the country. No trade dollars have been made this year. Several millions were coined in 1877. Their coinage was suspended in December. They were only coined to a limited extent for circulation. Nickel and bronze are kept at par by redeeming them in greenbacks. They are deposited in the mint in sums not less than $20, receipted for, and checks sent to the depositor.

No silver five cent pieces have been made for five years. In fact they have been abolished, as well as the three cent pieces. The nickel threes are still issued, although but few are used.

From $5,000 to $10,000 of eagles. half-eagles, quarter eagles and $3 pieces are made every year, in order to keep up the history of the coin. About $2,000 of ones are made actually for the same purpose. The mint shipped over the country in 1876 about $600,000 in small coins, pieces. They went chiefly west and east. In 1877 only about $385,000 in these small coins were shipped. The authorities of the mint can feel the pulse of business by the amount of coin sent in for redemption. If business is falling off the redemption is large: When it is steady the redemption moves along at the rate of about $500 a day. The greatest demand for silver coins is the half dollar. The quarter dollar is the second favorite, and the dime is the third and last in the list. The demand for half dollars is twice as great as for quarters, and five times more halves are required than

When business is brisk in the city about $700 or $800 a day in change is required for nickel and bronze. The railroad companies are demanding more than usual on account of the six cent fares. This demand, however, has fallen off somewhat within the past few days. .

Although more trade dollars were coined from April, 1872, to December, 1877, than were coined of the dollar of the fathers for the 81-years preceding, it does not follow that the trade dollar is popular. - The trade dollar was intended for the China trade, and nearly all that have coined have gone to China, Japan and India.

With one of the largest harvests ever raised; with idle capital whose owners are aching to invest it, this country should to-day be on the high road to prosperity. It would be but for the existence of a Congress that has spent nearly three months threatening the business of the changes in "I know that my Redeemer liveth." Job 19: 25.] I know there is a God on high,

I never look up in the sky Without a sense of awe

The feeling is that God is there Looking upon the race, And smiling when His children are Bowing before His face.

And know what we behold—
A living Christ, Redeemer, Friend,
And Shepherd of the fold.

Such is the temper of the mind,

He lives, the great Redeemer lives! I love to bear in mind The blessed hope his spirit gives—our view, rotating upon its axis once in twenty-seven days, and changing its distance from us in the eye of the which is especially remarkable for the extraordinary length of its antennæ, is, in our pine regions, one of the most common and destructive of our insect enemies. Its general color is an ashen grey, mottled with variable darker spots; the scutellum is white; there are also patches of whitish color on the head, thorax and abdomen. These variations of color, being due to a covering of very fine short hairs, which oftentimes are rubbed off, are not to be depended upon in the determination of the species. As in M. scutellatus each side of the thorax is armed with a short thick spine. The length of the insect varies from threequarters of an inch to an inch and man?" half—the average size being over an inch; the antennæ of the males vary in length from one and a half to three inches; those of the female are some what shorter. The larva is a large, white, somewhat cylindrical grub, destitute of feet. During the summer the female lays her eggs in crevices of the bark of the white and red pine, selecting for the most part timber that has been scorched by fire, or felled by the wind or the lumberman's axe: the larva when hatched soon eats its way into the wood, and before this period of its existence is closed it often burrows immense galleries through and through the solid interior. throughout Canada and the Northern it is often excessively abundant. The late Mr. E. Billings relates that he in the county of Renfrew, on which he calculated that there were at least three hundred individuals of this spe-them; and perhaps it is as well that none should be. They give sinew and the sailor would never require skill, where there is nothing to disturb its surface. It is the duty of every one to extract all the happiness and en-

With his only son, his wife and two children having died, he has for some time past resid ed in a neat little house on Mary street, above Front. For the last four months he has been seriously ill with nervous spasms of the heart. During the latter part of last week he himself gave up all hopes of living, and the attending physician, Dr. James H. Cantrell, expected his patient's death momentarily. Apparently Mr. Schrack died at 6:40 o'clock on Sunday morning. His limbs be-came cold and rigid, his lips colored purple, and around his mouth was the blue mark generally supposed to betoken death. A hand mirror was placed over his mouth, but its shining surface was not dimmed. His friends and neighbors who stood around pronounced him dead and grieved for him. A few hours afterward the body was completely stripped that it might be prepared for the undertaker's hands. Before washing the corpse it was necessary to remove it from the idly when life's trials, toils and joys are so soon passed, and we pass on to an unknown future. We have the finest winter that I over saw. Spring work is being done. by plowing and sowing large amounts of grain. It is not here as with you. There is scarcely ever any cold weather after the holidays; but you are juite liable to have winter in April.

ED. RECORD :- Time flies very rap

Not so here, but plenty of rain. Times are becoming quite good here, and business is opening up and large preparations being made for building, and in fact new buildings are going up now in the city, and money is quite plenty for all legitimate business, at from 10 to 12 per cent. All money transactions here are for gold

Oregon had last year the largest vheat crop in her history, and it has been marketed, or a large portion of it at least, at good prices. The wool clip of the State was simply enormous, as also the cattle and beef stock, making the productions of Oregon very remunerative.

Immigration of a better class is coming here, or men with more money, and are taking up land and improving the country; and this year there will be thousands of acres of land put into cultivation, thereby increasing our prosperity largely. Men are here from the Eastern States buying up stock cattle and shipping them east.

To give you some idea of the immense business here, the last steamer took from this port 100 passengers and freight as follows: 91 bales of hops, 2,000 sacks of potatoes, 150 bales of hay, 1,441 baskets of apples, 40 cases of lard, 30 cases of eggs, 19 crates and SS sacks of beans, 1,000 sacks of wheat, 148 sacks of bran, 2,000 sacks of oats, 2,490 sacks of flour, 19 kits of herring, 50 boxes of morchandise, besides large amounts from Astoria, at the mouth of the Columbia. There are two steamers each week, all loaded, each way.

The market for wheat is now at a stand-still. Since the close of the Turkish war buyers are not willing to advance any over $2.00 per cental, and holders will not sell for less than Stock sheep are in better demand by far than one month ago. Prices are looking right up. Stock sheep are sought for at $1.25 per head. Hundreds were sold for $1.00 at the beginning of winter.

The mines are developing rapidly with better facilities for operation. Large amounts of bullion are produced The lumbering business is rapidly advancing, and large cargoes of lumber are shipped to Australia, Europe,

New York and Boston. Alaska, the northern limb of our vast country, is fast developing rich sources of wealth. Her gold mines and her seal skin market, with her vast fisheries of cod; herring, and halibut. A direct shipping trade is now opened from this port to Alaskan waters, returning with large cargoes of the different productions of that new country. The fishing interest of our home waters in the salmon canning and packing business brings immense revenue to the State. And yet while these statements are true, and but a tithe of our vast resources can be mentioned in one short letter, I advise no poor man with a large family and not money to start with, depending upon his labor to support them, not to think of sacrificing one dollar to come here, for thousands of Chinamen are here working at prices that will starve a white man to death. It is a curse that only time and legislation can remedy.

The week of prayer was very largely observed here, and quite a general religious interest is being manifested in all the churches.

That terrible scourge, diptheria, is very bad in many places here, many families losing all their children, and it is also among grown persons. Nineteen children died last week in one small village with the disease. Hell is undergoing alterations and repairs quite extensively in this country, quite to the satisfaction of many The subject has been very hotly dis cussed through the press and pulpit, and the final decision is that the hel of to-day is not the hell of orthodox belief one hundred years ago.

The laboring men have formed strong organization to try and protect themselves against the labor of the Chinamen; but the real object is gotten up by a few old political hacks to run themselves into office.

The whole country is overrun and infested with thieves and desperate characters, so that it is really unsafe to be out anywhere at night. The insane asylum at East Portland has 258 patients. This is a terrible country for insanity: The O. S. N. Co. are preparing to build four more large beautiful steam. ers to do the vast business of the Columbia and its tributaries.

Next Friday is China New Year. Several large ships here after wheat but no wheat in the market. Success to you and old friends at home. J. L. SMITH.

CHINA TOWN. One block removed from a busy retail street, and running parallel with it, is the principle business street of are of brick, generally two, often three- and occasionally four stories. The shops are small, and with the exception of the restaurants and meat shops, quite neat, well arranged, and in many cases, very attractive. The average Chinese meat shop is about the nastiest looking place you could imagine, and their restaurants, little better. They can do the most business in the smallest space, of any people I ever saw. I measured a shoemaker's shop on the sidewalk. Shoemaker and his bench—or stool—seven pairs Inham Etwell, a log scaler and a citizen of St. Charles, fell under a citizen of the stage or in dressing for their parts, lounged in citizen of the school isystem than has kanies and continued or in dressing for their parts, lounged in citizen or inderesting and citizen citizen or inderesting and citizen feet of the stage, smoking and at times standing on the tables and chests at since the close of the school is the citizen or inderesting and citizen the school is the school is citizen to citizen or inderesting and citizen feet of the school is citizen for i Chinaman, but his trade is all with white people). They are evidently a peaceable, quiet people; an hour's stroll amongst them, olbowing one's way through the crowded streets, crowding against fruit stands and little shops, that seemed all in partnership, I did not see a single indication of drunkenness or incivility, nor did I hear any boisterous, profane language. I fear the same could not be said of a similarly thickly populated Christian community. For you must remember these people "are heathens-unfitted to live, and know no better, poor things, than to be civil." Visiting China Town again at night, the streets and sidewalks that were crowed in day time are densely packed, all evidently enjoying themselves, all bearing evidences of happiness, yet as orderly and quiet as it were possible for them to be; there's no loud yelling, no pushing or jostling, and no evidences that they are addicted to strong drink. "Aye, but they have a worse habit, they smoke opium.' What effect has opium on them?" "It stupifies them, puts them to sleep, and they remain so until the effect passes off-when they are then ready for work or another dose." I could not help the remark that opium would not be a bad substitute for whisky on the night after election or on the 4th of July-it would save the expense of extra policemen on such occasions. I glanced into a "Joss" house, but, as there were no heathens in, just then, I was disappointed in not learning any of the prayers, and the two attendants did not feel disposed to give a special performance for my benefit—however, the supply of incense in the way of burning paper, was sufficient to keep the two ugly little Gods from rising up in their power and hurling us from the temple. I am surprised that a people so fond of, and such remarkable adopts at the decorative art should be content with such plain, cheap-looking Gods. The samples I saw gave no more evidence of artistic talent than the usual drawing of a jack of spades on our cheapest steamboat cards, and showed not half the elegance of design usually shown in the ordinary Indian sign in front of the cigar stores. But I was told these were not a wealthy people, and, of course, could not afford expensive Gods. THE CHINESE THEATRE. In company with a friend I attended the Chinese theatre. The audience room is about 50x80 feet, including stage, and the ceiling sufficient high to admit of a gallery. The seats are wooden benches with straight board backs; the back seats being raised so that a good view of the stage is had from all parts of the house. The walls are a dingy yellow, the place dimly lighted, several drop lights, about ten feet above the front of the feet deep, extending entirely across the hall, with neither curtain, wings, nor scenery of any kind. At the rear of the stage are two doors, one at our right answering for the exit, the other at the left is where the actors enter. These doors are hung with curtains. On either side of the doors on the stage, and in full view of the audience, the stage furniture, mechancial effects, etc., are stored. The orchestra occupies a position against the wall, on the stage, between these doors, playing on every instrument from which it is possible to extract a noise. I noticed cowbells, cymbals, bells, gongs, steel bars, single-string fiddles, and several varieties I could neither name nor describe. The prime object aimed at was noise, and the more exciting the play, the louder the orchestra pounded. The leader played an immense pair of cymbals, and as he approached a climax in the performance, which is also a climax in the music, from the floor he first stood on a chair, then, as more energy was to be thrown into the music, he leaped on the table and I think those cymbals could have been heard-on a quite evening-in China. Add to this the three immense gongs, a dozen cow bells, a sort of kettle-drum, several steel bars that shricked an unearthly jingle, and numerous other hurdy gurdies, have them all played or pounded as only an active Chinaman can pound them, and you have a partial idea of the noise-not music-made by this Chinese orchestra. Pasted on the wall over the heads of the orchestra, were several large sheets of red paper, on which was written columns of Chinese characters. On inquiry I learned the larger one was the list of the music performed by the orchestra, and the smaller ones gave the programme of the play, the four sheets denoting the four acts of the piece. As we went in late (about 9 o'clock, the play having commenced at 6 in the afternoon) and the actors' voices were at times drowned by the orchestra insisting on having its say, whether the actors did or not, and the fact that I do not understand the Chinese language very well at best, I could not get the run of the story-but there were two fellows evidently after the same woman, and there was an individual that seemed to have more bangles hanging to his clothes and longer plumes in his hat (his were fully 6 feet high) and whenever he sat down he had a chair placed upon a table on which he perched, whom I concluded was a royal personage. There were some China Town. The business structures | games at one time before this august individual, in which there was some very clever juggling and some extraordinary tumbling. The stage manager sat near the door by which the actors entered, and if not on time he pulled the curtain aside and called the dilatory performer, the audience patiently waiting the meanwhile .-When the play was interesting, the stage manager stood up on the chair or sat on its back so as to get a better view of the stage; he smoked a cigarette nearly all the time and seemed at times to act as prompter as well. The the girl to his heart, the victor bore her in triumph to the other side of the stage, whereupon the dead man got up, pulled the dagger out of himself and retired to the dressing room, whence he emerged shortly after and taking his seat on a table near by, complacently lighted a cigarette, and calmly looked on while the other fellow was talking love to the girl for whom he had given up his life but a few moments before. Learning that the play would not be finished until 3 o'clock, upon receiving a promise from a Chinaman that he would tell us next morning how it all came out, my friend and I returned to the hotel E. C. B. to rest our ears.

Coffeville is in the south part of Montgomery county. The Verdigiis river runs near the town, furnishing good water power for mills. The soil is a limestone and black loam, mixed with black sand; easy of cultivation and very productive, yielding good crops of all kinds of vegetables and grasses, affording a large range of fine grazing for stock. It is especially adapted to the successful cultivation of fruits of almost every variety. In regard to the soil and productions of Montgomery County the same may be Indians have some fine farms. There are no railroad lands in this county for sale, and very little desirable Government lands now to be had, the same having been nearly all taken under the preemption act. : A small portion of southern Kansas was purchased by the Government of the. Osage Indians in the spring of 1871. Said lands were not subject to homesteads, but only to preemption, so no one need come to this part of the State for Homesteads, but should stop farther north in the State. The climate of Southern Kansas is POISONED. On Tuesday George Bird's drayman was employed to remove some rubbish from the Grange store, and among it was a part of a cheese which had moulded. He examined the cheese and thought it would be all right by only cutting off the mouldy part, and took it home. Mrs. Bird cut off the mould and placed some of the remainder on the table for supper, and all of the family partook of it quite freely, pronouncing it good. In a short time, however, it began to be "binding" for all concerned, when Dr. McLin was called, who administered the proper doses and brought the family out of their misery.

CORRECTION.—Mr. R. M. Shaffer who was disadvantageously mentioned in the columns of the RECORD some time since, in connection with the sale of theese in South Bend, has been wronged by the publication, made through misrepresentation, the allegation being false, which is shown by the following statement by Mr. Deacor, the dealer with whom Mr. Shaffor was represented to have transacted the business in question:

I would state that I bought cheese some time during the past summer of Rough & French, per J. A. Imhoff, which did not prove satisfactory. I never bught cheese of R. M. Shaffer.

South Bend, Dec. 19, 1877. We are satisfied there has been a falso accusation against Mr. Shaffer, and willingly make the correction that shall release him from any stigma in the matter whatever. He had not been in South Bend for two years previous to December last.

RICHARD McCUMBER met with a serious accident on Wednesday, the 13th. He was at his stable in the act of placing a stronger halter upon a fine, large bull. While his back was to the animal but for a moment, the bovine took advantage of the same, and making a lunge at Richard, deposited him on the floor partly under the manger. While in this condition the animal quickly made the second charge, but Richard grasping him by the horns broke the force of the blow, and at the same time brought the animal down upon his knees. Here commenced a tussel for life on the part of Richard, and on the part of the bull for victory. Still grasping the animal's horns, Richard managed to struggle to his knees, the bull meantime was vigorously butting, bunting, and bellowing, having become furious; and to make matters worse, Richard's red neck handkerchief became loose and flounted in the bull's face like a picador's flag. Perceiving that his strength was giving way, by a mighty effort he regained his feet, but no quicker than the bull, for hardly had he gained an upright position before one of the blunt horns of the enraged blow. By some means during the conflict they had changed their base of operations to a corner of the stable, where stood a stout hickory bludgeon. During a slight lull in the hostilities, Richard managed to gain possession of this weapon, with which he belabored the beast, until he gave up the battle. Bruised and bleeding Richard made his way to the house, in a fainting condition, where proper remedies were applied to his wounds. On the whole, his escape was remarkable, and our advice is, "Shoot the bull."

The annual meeting of the Berrien County Medical Society met at New Buffalo, Wednesday, Feb. 13th, 1878, Dr. Stratton, of St. Joseph, in the chair. An interesting paper was read by Dr. Dunning, of New Troy, on epidemic, endemic and prevailing; diseasos, showing that the last year Grange Store, at Chicago wholesale has been one of unusual health. Malariai diseases have not been so prevalent as in former years. In some parts of the county consumption has been more frequent for which various causes were assigned. Animals have enjoyed a great immunity from disease with the exception of hogs. Crops were good, especially the cereals, and free from fungi. The paper, was ordered published in the Detroit . Locals a · The Parent of Insomnia.

The parent of insomnia or wakefulness is in nine reases; out, of ten a dyspeptic stomach. Good digestion gives sound sleep, indigestion interferes with it. The of the gastric organs is a disturbance of the great herve entrepot, the brain. In-vigorate the stomach, and you restore equilibrium to the great centre. A most reliable medicine for the purpose is Hostetter's Stomach, Bitters, which is far preferable to mineral sedatives and nowerful narcotics which though they may for a time exert a soporific influence upon the brain, soon cease to act, and invariably injure the tone of the stomach. The Bitters; on the contrary, restore activity to and their beneficent influence is reflected in sound sleep and a tranquil state of the nervoust system. A wholesome impetus is likewise given to the action of the liver and bowels by its use.

Queen's Eggs.

As soon as spring opens, our bees should all be examined by lifting the frames of each hive, and if the stocks cre weak, the bees are shut to one side of the hive by means of a division board, so as to keep up the necessary heat for brood-rearing on as many combs as they can cover. As soon as the queen has filled these combs with eggs, we spread them people in unheard of localities of foreign apart, inserting an empty comb be-(ween those occupied with broad, and in a few days" time the queen will fill this one also; and so we keep on untri every available cell is occupied with brood. Thus it will be seen that instead of the qu-cu laying her eggs on the outside of the cluster, she ligs them in the center of the broad nest, where they should be. After the hive is full of broad and bees, it does not make so much difference, as the weather is warm and bees are plenty, so that the queen can deposit her eggs anywhere in the hive. As soon as the stocks are full, take a frame of brood just gnawing out and place it in the weaker ones, giving the strong one an empty comb for the queen to fill again, and so keep on until all are full .- American Bee Journal.

Effect of Electricity.

A writer in the Breslan Landwrith, records some observations on the action of lightning upon the devolopment of flowers, that open up a wide field of conjecture as to the possible influence of electricity upon the phenomena of vegetable life. During the prevalence of a series of heavy thunder-storms about the middle of last month, there were standing among other flowers upon a table in front of the writer's windows, several specimens of the evening primrose, Enothera biennis. The plants were as yet in bud only, the sulphur-colored petal of the future flower being completely enclosed and hidden by the four sepals of the surrounding calyx. In watching the progress of a storm from this window on the 12 ult., it was noticed that the occurrence of a particularly vivid flash of leghtning was instantaneously followed, or rather accompanied, by the bursting open of the calyx of one of these buds, and the display of the fully developed bloom within. On other occasions, both the same evening, and on July 15 and 16, when also thunder-storms were raging, similar phenon ena were observed, the buds always bursting open simultaneously with the flash, before the sound of thunder could be heard. It was noted that this action was invariably confined to one bud only at a time, though numbers in the same stage of growth stood close together, as if it were specially directed to one particular object to the exclusion of all others, and also that the further developments of the buds the singularly opened, was in all respects normal.—London Farmer.

Two Flowers From One Stalk.

Mrs. Lucy A. Millington, of South Haven, Mich., writing to the Gardener's Monthly, says: "Perhaps some of the readers of your Monthly would like to know how to get two flowers instead of one from every flowering sheath of their calla lilies. As soon as the joint flower is cut, or begins to wither, pull the stalk down through the open sheath clear to the bottom. At the bottom will be found standing, close to the stalk, another bud, inclosed in a delicate covering. Cut the old stock away as close as possible without injuring the bud, and if it has not been kept back too long it will grow up very quick. I have never failed to get both buds to flower. I never tie up the leaves close, but leave them free.

BISCUIT WITHOUT SODA. - One quart of flour, two teaspoonfuls of yeast powder, one heaping teaspoonful lard; one level teaspoonful of salt; milk and water mixed, half each, about two-thirds of a pint: mix the flour and yeast powder together, then rub the lard well in until no particles of lard can be seen; add the milk and water, mixing all together with a spoon; turn out and knead until smooth, the dough should be as soft as it can conveniently be rolled out. Roll out about an inch thick, cut out with a round, smooth cutter, then fold over in the center like a turnover, having first dampened the upper side to make the folds stick together. Allow plenty of room in the pan so they will not run together. -N. Y. Times.

The Scientific Farmer, in reply to a correspondent, gives the following treatment for the cure of ring bone: "Pull off all the shoes, and blister the part with an ointment of bin-icdine of Mercury, one part, mixed with hog's lard, eight parts; clip off hair and rub in well with the hand; tie up in a stall so that she can't lie down or get to the blistered part with her mouth; after 4 days wash off carefully, and when dry, grease every day with a little pure lard. Follow with a long rest of, say, twelve weeks, DRAINS IN DEEP PEAT MEADOWS. -Tile drains in peat meadows where the peat is several feet below the tile are of frequent occurrence. When properly laid is little danger of their filling with the fine peat. Boards should be laid on the bottom of the ditch which has previously been made of a regular grade; then lay the tile upon the boards, covering the joints with a small bit of inverted sod, or a narrow strip of tarred paper .- Scientific American.

A hen may be calculated to consume one bushel of corn yearly, or eighteen pounds of eggs. This is equivalent to saying that 3.1 pounds of corn produce, when fed to this hen, one pound of eggs. A pound of pork, on the contrary, requires about five and onethird pounds of corn for its produc-tion. When eggs are twenty-four

Brain Grafting. The surgical feat of -replacing lost teeth, scalps and other portions of the human organism must pale before a recent achievement in Indiana. A rising young lawyer, out hunting, was so unlucky as to lose a part of. his skull and a considerable quantity of brains by the accidental discharge of his gun. He survived, nevertheless, and in the course of three months, under good treatment, was about again, and with an ingeniously contrived mica trap-door over the hole in his head to protect the sensitive contents of his skull from changes of weather. But the loss of so much of his brains grieved him, and it was decided to make up the deficiency with some brains of a healthy animal. A valuable horse belonging to the young man's father was sacrificed and a piece of its brain was dropped into the youth's cranial aperture. The patient. was put to bed, carefully nursed and kept in perfect quiet until the assimilating process was complete. A piece of silver plate was finally substituted for the mica covering, and the young barrister went forth into the world again a well man, and resumed the practice of law. But several marked changes have come over his mental characteristics. He can do harder thinking than ever before, is less imaginative and fickle, and seems to have greater amount of "horse sense." An old fondness for speech making has left him, and he has become reserved, but always speaks to the point when anything needs to be said. Another curious thing is that he has become a devoted student of the French language—a thing he did not care an atom about before-and the doctors say that it is because the horse they took the brain from belonged to the Norman breed. The case has many other features hardly less remarkable, and the young man is quite a lion

The Age of Wonders.

A large establishment has been opened in St. Louis for drying eggs, and is operated by hundreds of thousands of dozens. The eggs, after being carefully inspected by light, are thrown into an immense receptacle, where they are boken, and by centrifugal operation the white and yolk are separated from the shells, very much as liquid honey is taken from the comb. The liquid is then dried by heat by a patent process, and the dried article, which resembles brown sugar, is put in barrels and is ready for transportation. The dried article has been taken twice across the equator in ships and then made into omelet and compared with olemets made from fresh eggs in the same manner, and the best judges could not detect the difference between them. Is not this an age of wonders? Milk made solid; cider made solid; apple butter made into bricks. What next?

Judge and Jury Plant.

The natives of Madagascar formerly found in the plant Tanglin, not found elsewhere, such peculiar virtues as to make it a substitute for the jury and, udge of civilized society. The seed is poisonous, and when a person is to be tried, he is made to swallow a portion of the pounded seed. Those in whom it causes vomiting escape, but, those whose stomachs retain it, it is quickly fatal, and their guilt is then held to be proven.

It is curious to reflect that our own ancestors were strong believers in the efficacy of trial by ordeal, as it is called, and we can see quite clearly that it offers a simple means of dispos-ing of rouges, if indeed it does by chance entrap the honest people as well. We are almost inclined to recommend a trial of the system, in such cases as the Pomeroy boy, and then if it don't work, let the trial proceed in due form .- Scientific Farmer.

Talmage on Prayer.

Men think they can do everything until God shows them they can do nothing without His help. Trouble makes men pray. And that is why women pray better than men—they have had so much of it. Before he has had trouble, a. man's prayers are poetic. He begins way up among the sun, moon and stars, and gives the Lord a great deal of astronomical information. He must be highly gratified. Then he goes down gradually. and beautifully, and lands in forever and amen. Trouble will drive all that out out of him.

Mr. Gibbons, a St. Clair county farmer, signed an order for a lightning-rod, and of course, a note for $182 was presented to him in less than a week. He promptly canceled that note by snatching it and putting it in his pocket and kicked, the light. ning-rod sharper off his premises. Evening News.

CATARR

The Haskins Engine, AFFORDED BY SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE.

TT is a fact that can be substantiated by the most I respectable testimonials ever offered in favor of any proprietary medicine, that the RADIOLL CURK FOR CATARMA does in overy case afford instant and permanent relief. No matter of how long standing, or how severe the disease; the first does gives such evidence of 12 value in the treatment of Catarrhal affections that confidence is at once felt in its ability to do all that is, claimed for it. The testimony of physicians, druggists, and patients is unanimous in this respect, and the accumulating evidence is in point of respectability superior to any ever before obtained in favor of a popular remedy. The proprietors, therefore, may justly feel proud of the position the RADIOAL CURK has attained, and believe it worthy of its reputation.

10 YEARS A SUFFERER. From Hon. Theo. P. Bogert, Bristol, R. I

Messrs. Weeks & Potter: Gentlemen.— Feeling thoroughly convinced of the efficacy of Sanford's Radical Cuerfor Catarry, I am induced to drop you a line to say that although I have been sceptical of all the nostruma advertised as "radical curea," I have never found anything that promises such relief and ultimate cure as that of Sanford's.

I have been afflicted with this dreadful disease for more than ten years, and not until recently could I be induced to persevere with any until I read the letter of Mr. Henny Wells, and can truthfully say that after using five or six bottles I am thoroughly convinced of the curative properties. Hoping that others similarly afflicted like myself will be induced to make the trial, I am, gentlemen, very truly, etc.

VEGETINE.

HER OWN WORDS. BALTIMORE, MD., Feb. 13, 1877. Mr. H. R. STYLNS.

Dear Sir.—Since several years I have got a sore and very painful foot. I had some physicians, but they couldn't cure me Now I have heard of your Vegetine from a lady who was sick for a long time, and became all well from your Vegetine, and I went and bought me one bottle of Vegetine; and alier I had used one bottle, the pains left me, and it hegan to heal, and then I bought one other bottle, and so I take it yet. I thank God for this remedy and yourself, and wishing every sufferer may pay attention to it. It is a bleasing for health.

VEGETINE.

SAFE AND SURE. MR. H. R. STIYINS.

In 1872 your Vegotine was recommended to me, and yielding to the persuasions of a friend, I consented to try it. At the time I was suffering from general debility and nervous prostration, superinduced by overwork and irregular habits. Its wonderful strengthening and curative properties seemed to affect my debilitated system from the first dose; and under its persistent use I rapidly recovered, gaining more than usual health and good feeling. Since then I have not healtated to give Vegetine my most unqualified indorsement, as being a sale, sure, and powerful sgent in promoting health and restoring the wasted system to new life and energy. Vegetine is the only medicine I use; and as long as I live I never expect to find a better.

Yours truly.

II. R. SEYENS, ESQ.

Dear Sir.—About one your since I found myself in a feeble condition from general debility. Vegetine was strongly recommended to me by a friend who had been much benefited by its use. I procured the article, and atter using several bottles, was restored to health, and discontinued its use. I feel quite confident that there is no medicine experior to it for those complaints for which it is especially prepared, and would cheerfully recommend it to those who feel that they need something to restore them to perfect health.

Busted in Business.

The other evening a very polite darkey made his bow to one of the desks editorial, with hat in hand, and the propitiatory remark:

"I know it's kind o' cheeky to ask it of a stranger, but de fact am I'm busted in business; had to sign over, sah; can't pay two cents on de dol-

"Is that so? I'm sorry to hear it. Hope your creditors are satisfied?" "To be suah! Dev's all right. It's me dat's a sufférin.' I mus' go fro de bankruptcy court. De fack is, I want you to advance me the capital to set up agin in business."

"What is your business?" "Ise a jobber and whitewaser, sah. 'Ise bin doin' a smashin' business." "Well, how much capital will it require to set you up in business again?" "Thirty-seven and a half cents,

This proved too much to be resisted. The capital was furnished then and there, and if it didn't set up that mercantile son of Africa in less than twenty minutes, we made a mistake in estimating his business tendency .-Hartford Times.

The Home Missionary reports Wisconsin Sunday school teacher as giving to her class this explanation of the poor widow's two mites cast in the Lord's treasury: "Now, girls, I want you to understand this. You see, she was a poor woman. It makes me think how my dear old mother used to work late in the night before the old fireplace. And there is no doubt in my mind, girls, but this good woman knit those mitts herself to sell at the store the next day to get something to eat; but she cast the pair of new mitts-all that she had-into the treasury, from love to her Lord."

A down-town man. noted for his good nature, says; "What's the use of wrangling? Nobody can tell how easy it is to get along without wrangling till they try. Now, I like to sleep on the front side of the bed; so does my wife; but we didn't wangle about itwe just moved the bed in the center of the room. It's a heap easier than wrangling 'bout it."

A gentleman whose proboscis had suffered amputation was invited out to tea. "My dear," said the good woman of the house, to her little daughter, "I want you to be very particular, and make no remarks about Mr. Jenkins' nose." Gathered about the table, everything was doing well; the child peeped about, looked rather puzzled, at last started the table: "Ma, why did you tell me to say nothing about Mr. Jenkins' nose? He hasn't got any."

One by one all the comforts of this life are taken away from the toilmillions. It used to be a great consideration for us to think in our poverty that none of our rich neighbors could ever get to Heaven. Now, alas! we are assured that there is no place else for them to go! Oh, woful times! Oh, wretched, harsh and insconsider-

A little boy, who was nearly starved by a stingy uncle (his guardian), with whom he he lived, meeting a lank-grayhound one day in the street, was asked by his guardian what made the dog so thin. After reflecting, the little fellow replied: "I suppose he lives with his uncle."

"I never turn out for scoundrels," said a bully, meeting a Quaker, and stepping up square before him to: inaugurate a quarrel. "I do," said the Quaker; and placidly took the other side of the way.

"Mamma," asked a precious youngster at a tea-table the other evening, after a long and yearning gaze toward a plate of doughnuts, "do you think I could stand another of those fried holes?" "He took two drops of thought and beat them into a bushel of bubbles," was the description given of a speaker, whose rhetoric ran ahead of his logic, Rowland Hill said of some in his day, "They had a river of words, with only a spoonful of thought." Four-years-old to his mother holding the baby:-Say, mamma, say! Zat squawling 'ittle baby seems to sink 'ee's ze only chile you got! I'd give him back again.
