Speech of Hon. Thomas W. Ferry.

The Senate baying under consideration the bill (H. R. No. 805) to repeal all that part of the ack approved. January 14, 1875, known as the resumption act, which authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to dispose of United States bonds and redeem and cancel the greenback currency, Mr. Ferry said: 💆

Mr. PRESIDENT: Admonished by the lateness of the session and the pending resolution sixing the day of final adjournment, I shall forego what I intended at more length to say, and content myself with as brief a state ment of the reasons which dissuade concurred ce in the present repeal of the resumption net as the importance of the subject will allow.

After full consideration of House bill No. 805, which proposes "to repeal all that part of the act approved January 14, 1875, known as the resumption set, which authorized the Secretary of the Treasury to dispose of United States bonds and redeem and cancel the greenback currency," your Committee on Finance have deem d it inexpedient to commend such repeal, and instead have recommend of to the Senate the adoption of an amendment as a substitute for the bill, which embraces three propositions:

First. That United States notes shall at once be receivable, the same as coin, in purchase of the 4 per cent. Government bonds.

Second. That on and after October 1, 1878, United States notes shall be receivable, the same as coin, for duties on imports. Third. That United States notes outstanding and in the Treasury on the 1st day of October, 1878, shall not be retired and canceled, but be reissued from time to time and form part of the permanent volume of the currency of the country.

The inexpediency of now repealing so much of the act of January 14,

1875, as provides for the resumption of specie payments on the 1st day of January, 1879, is supported by the fact that United States notes are today within three eighths of 1 per cent. of gold, and reached under the act now sought to be repealed; hastened no doubt by the beneficial effects of the act to authorize the coinage of the standard silver dollar and to restore its legal-tender character, which passed at this session. The resumption act was the result of mutual concession of antagonizing opinions and substantially a compromise measure. Gold, on the day the act passed, held a premium of 113 per cent. Public opinion was then more or less divided upon the best method to bring gold and currency together in value. Fixing an early day for resumption and preparing for specie payments by a rapid contraction of the currency and the accumulation of gold by the sale of bonds was the method pressed by those who considered less the distress and disaster of such means than the assurance of an end which should base the measure of commercial values upon gold at whatever cost to the people. This was antagonized by others, who protested against forced resumption on any day fixed by statute, and con-tended that it could sooner and easier be reached by the laws of trade—the forces of supply and demand. Against contraction of the currency and the hoarding of gold at the expense of an increase of the interest-bearing debt of the nation, they contended. To longer discredit United States notes by refusing to receive them for duties on imports, they urged, was a serious obstacle in the way of the restoration of the currency to par with gold.

I confess, Mr. President, that as an early advocate of the receivability of United States notes for duties and against contraction and forced resumption, as the safest, speediest method of arriving at resumption, rather than by naming a day when specie payments should be enforced, I reluctantly joined in the compromise measure of 1875, which I feared would entail upon the business and toiling community incalculable woe. The universal distress and unparalleled failures which have followed these past years of trial must sadly record the severity of the process which has brought the country so near resumption and so close to financial ruin. The remonetization of silver was a tardy step in the right direction, and though taken in the face of the protests and forebodings of its opponents, the measure has partly lifted the burden and extorted the confession that its aid to a return of commercial confidence and national prosperity has been, and is, undeniable. The provision for the coinage of from two to four millions of silver dollars monthly, to swell the circulating medium of the country, has become an efficient agent of relief in the current stringency. It is gratifying to notice how promptly the Secretary of the Treasury has provided for the execution of this remedy by having at this early day all the Government mints at work. coining the silver dollar. Over two and a half millions have already been coined. That the financial condition of the country favorable to early resumption may not be underrated, it may be well to consider, by comparison, the monetary standing of the country at the passage

The Govest way to bring about an increase of the circulating medium, equal to the wants of the people, and ample to impart life to the now prostrate energies of the nation, and to restore commercial confidence to every avenue of industry and trade, is to provide for such increase as the pending amendment will; and, as auxiliary, for the should be some certain, reliable source of supply to the Treasury of coin to pay the interest on the public debt; for without it the Government might further advance of value of United States notes, to place them at par with gold at the earliest practicable moment. This desideratum is sought by the measure proposed by your committee. One feature looks at once to this. The exchange at par, as it provides, of these notes for 4 per cent. bonds which are purchasable only in coin, and are to-day in market above par in coin, will immediately advance their value. These notes then reissued in retiring bonds bearing 5 and 6 per cent. interest, will lessen to that extent the interest-bearing obligations of the nation, and measurably strengthen the public credit. The amount of ed to buy at disadvantage in open 4 per cent. bonds authorized is ten market to provide for coin obligations. hundred millions. The amount already sold is less than one hundred millions, leaving still issuable over nine hundred millions. Funding a like amount of ten hundred millions equally of 5 and 6 per cent. outstand ing bonds into these four per cents, will be a saving to the Government of fifteen millions of interest annually. Besides, the four per cent, bends, taken at home and in denominations of $50 and multiples, will not only enter into current exchanges but enrich rather than impoverish the nation to the extent of the accruing interest paid to our own people, instead of to holders abroad. This desirable object will be hastened by making these bonds exchangeable for United States notes, for their sale is less rapid in coin. This process of exchange will quicken as soon as the right is given, and the authorized issue of these bonds ere long be exhausted. It will become the people's loan to the Govornment, and he so popular that au- of the act remonetizing silver there thority for additional issues will be demanded, until our own people in-stead of foreigners shall hold the pub-more than equal to the interest due lic debt, and the interest wholly be drawn at home rather than shared abroad. The late sale of fifty millions of 41 per cent. bonds by the Secretary of the Treasury at a premium of 11 per cent. in gold, with accrued interest, is an assurance of this as well as evidence of an advancing public credit. The remarkable financial condition of France, so recently emerging from a disastrously exhaustive war, is largely attributable to her public debt being held by her own people. A measure which provides for the exchangeability of non-interest for low-interest bearing obligations of the Government upholds the value of the one and strengthens the holders of the other. This feature of the amendment proposed, must commend itself to general support. I may now consider the second feature of the amendment, that United States notes shall, on and after the the sum of national bank notes issued 1st day of October next, be receivable for duties on imports. By the act approved February 25, 1862, it backs there may then be in the Treaswas provided. "that all duties on imported goods shall be paid in coin or the total currency of the country.

The original creditors of the nation. who staked their capital on the issue of fratricidal war, have been well paid for the faith they placed in the final triumph of a just cause. They loaned their money to the imperiled Government with low credit; they gather their reward of large premiums from an impregnable nation with high credit. Tested in civil war and fiscal panic, with gold reaching as high as 285 on the 11th day of July, 1864, and falling to its present paltry premium of 3 of 1 per cent., and through this ordeal with an unwavering fidelity; good faith ends now to foreign holders of our bonds at 108, and duty to our citizens demands that they shall no longer suffer with forced use of paper driven below par by Government discredit. Long years of stag-nation in all branches of business, entailing loss of fortunes and casting dismay into thousands of households visiting want to countless laborers, whose cry for work and bread the golden seats of customs answer, with the remorseless siren; "Keep sacred the national faith," has no longer plea or defense. It was the best then obtainable and as fair a concession of antagonizing opinions as was practicable, and as the exigency of national condition demanded should be met by patriotic legislators who could rise above individual preference to enact some provision, rather than

It ended what they regarded an odious monopoly of banking and opened the best system ever devised by man to universal participation. It provided for the circulation of silver for fractional uses which served as the forerunner of the final restoration of silver to former equality with its more favored ally gold. Why not fix it July 1, instead of October 1, or even at the passage of the pending measure, as already suggested by the amendment submitted by the Senator from Indiana ? July I would be a very natural period to fix upon as it is the beginning of the fiscal year. My individual choice would be then, rather than any period later. There are, however, reasons for chosing October which are entitled to much consideration. The argument that done, or to restate what might have there would be less contraction of been done. medium. The question narrows down to one simply of policy, not of principle; it is an litem of time, in the place of surety against disability. Practically, I question if there will be any difference whether United States notes are made receivable for duties October 1; or July 1, for I believe that on the passage of this measure greenbacks and coin will be at par!before July 1 next, and the matter of difference of time as to value of notes be disposed of in advance. At the same time prudence and wise forethought demand that reasonable precaution be observed, when a period is be usbered that is to make all forms of money of equivalent and permanent value. That I do not overdraw this effect of what seems already to have influenced the public mind, I have i to refer to successive notices in the public prints of business firms and banking associations in various localities and States, acting upon what appears to them the inevitable, by an nouncing that they have resumed specie payments in advance of the time fixed for resumption by the Government. It is a gratifying concession to this auspicious event, that moneyed circles of the West and South, which sections were the early and persistent advocates of what eastern centers termed "irredeemable paper," "rag money," and "de-based coin," are the first to vindicate their faith by acts, and are unfurling in the face of Wall street's bated breeze the nation's financial banner, inscribed ""greenbacks as good as coin." Wall street growls and halts at the advancing era, borne aloft by berated "lunatics" and "idiots," but it musticlearn the irrrevocable lesson that all knowledge on finance does not dwell sorely with wise men of Gotham. The country is acting upon the conviction that on money questions all sections as well, are wiser than one center, and that all men, know more than any corner of men. New York City, so clamorous during the many dreary years of perplexity and loss, for early resumption, seems the last to respond to the welcome alivent. The city of Albany and others which adore that empire State are promptly meeting the inevitable by changing currency at par for coin: How long wilt our metropolitan city cling to her & per cent.? New Orleans, Mobile, Aglanta, Louisville, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, Saint Louis, and other cities feel the impulse to break down the barrier by treating the currency equal to coin. This early movement of indivinals and associations to resume spring from the conviction, which is becoming wide spread, that the Government will-on the 1st day of January next be abundantly rable to resume, and to maintain resumption thereafter. Forty per-cent. of coin to the volume of currency is an average of reserve considered by wisest financiers as sufficient to maintain specie payments, and the Treasury will have on the day of resumption over two hundred millions of coin to maintain its three hundred and forty millions of Treasury notes, while the banks will hold ascificient of Treasury notes and coin, with which to maintain their three hundred and twenty-five millions of-bank-notes.

With an annual product of eightyfour millions of coin and a balance of trade in our favor of $151,152,094. dy for our commercial paralysis and for the year ending June 30, 1877. financial distress will be at hand. Already its anticipated force is felt April 1, 1878, $203,229,501, being in the livelier step of toil and busier $48,453,509 more than the corresponding months ending April 1, 1877, who will hesitate to resume, and who ability to maintain them, there can be no reasonable nor financial grounds for now taking any backward step. Every principle of sound policy invites the intelligent reviewer of our financial condition to move in hand with these facts, by approving a measure which will settle our finances upon such a substantial basis as shall regulate the money question from the Halls vof Congress to the marts of commerce. It is far from wise to halt now, to recount and arraign what has been

month this paragraph: PAYING A PREMIUM FOR GREINBACKS.
SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—In this city recently small sums of greenbacks have been purchased for gold coin at a premium of fifty cents for over $1,000 in notes.

Greenbacks will then, if not before. put to blush such as have aimed to disparage those who have long plead for their placement in the honored prths of trade. No one then, as heretofore, will seriously doubt the feasibility of allowing greenbacks to be received for duties.

To make doubly certain a sufficient supply of coin in the Treasury to meet accruing interest on the public debt, there are still some who are indifferent to the act of discredit to these notes, by refusal to receive them for all public as well as private uses. It seems to matter but little to them that between citizens they are made to serve every moneyed purpose, while between citizen and Government, they are denied for certain uses, validity and value. No individual upholds his commercial standing who in any way impairs his promissory paper; nor can a Government keep its finan-cial honor unsullied by discrediting in any manner its obligatious. The time is propitious, and the opportunity rare, for every Senator to record his disapproval of this financial anomaly, by the support of a measure which looks to early release from this national dishonor. This amendment may not be just what each Senator would frame, but may it not be such a one as most can unite upon and support? It leans not to either extreme financial opinion, but is poised on moderate views, and framed by mutual concession. It breathes the spirit of our institutious, for it is the growth of compromise. It deals with a question affecting every fiber of commercial and industrial life. It is more or less vital to every citizen. It concerns the rich and the poor, the high and the low, the idler and the toiler. It touches the relations of capital and labor. It advances or retards the prosperity of the nation, and strengthens or relaxes the bonds of the Union. Your committee therefore invite the Senate to consider and concur in the amendment submitted.

The plan of some of the leading the conspirators. #### POTTER'S SCHEME.

Mr. Potter, of New York, has introduced and succeeded in getting passed by the House a resolution to investigate the election returns made in 1876 from Florida and Louisiana, with a view to showing that the President was fraudulently elected and has no right to his title. Mr. Hale offered an amendment, adding the investigations of crookedness in Oreon and Mississippi, but this the Democratic majority would not listen to for one moment, and the resolution without the amendment was passed, and the country may now expect to be treated to a sweet bit of investigation news for a few months. Mr. Hayes is now beginning to learn the true character and appreciation of the Democratic brethren to whom he has so freely offered the olive branch. Of the origin and probable effect of this move the New York Herald says: "No intelligent man of either political party can longer doubt this whole batch of incendiary attempts is instigated by Tilden. He never did anything more characteristic of his stillhunt methods. This astute and secretive plotter, who mistakes cunning for wisdom, is no doubt sincere in thinking he has been defrauded of the office to which he was elected by the people, and he probably justifies to himself the underhand attempts he is making to shake the stability of the government, imperil public tranquility, and disturb the business of the country. But neither his aim nor his methods will be indorsed by the public sentiment of the country: If the Democratic party sets itself in array against the title of a President who has been regularly inaugurated and lation will be maintained, not dishonhas completed nearly half his term, ored and depreciated, but always and the party will exhibit a truly remarkable example of political suicide. from the day that Hayes and Wheeler

It made its first public appearance in the resolution of the last Democratic public avowal of their party that its purpose is, if possible, to displace the President. It is a matter of history that the resolution just adopted was framed to express this object. The Speaker of the House was consulted in advance as to whether he would rule that it was a privileged question.

The party managers were anxious to conceal their purposes, if possible. In this they were defeated by the Speak-of privilege unless it clearly assailed

the title of the President. The reso-

Two newspapers in this State-the Kalamazoo Gazette and Hastings Banner—have published substantially the ritual of the new secret political order which is run in promotion of an irredeemable currency. The existence and active work of such an order are denied by some of its guerrillas, in order that they may raid into the other political parties more successfully. But there are many places where these secret lodges hold their meetings, initiate members, put them in the harness, and drive them at the will of the officers. In Jackson, for example, they boasted of having over 1,500 "pledged" voters prior to the last election, and they cast about 1,660 votes. In Wayne county they bragged how many township elections they would carry by "pledged" votes, and almost exactly filled the bill. PORTLAND, May 6, 1878. Editor Record:—The Record of April 18 came to hand yesterday, and it was chuck full of news from home. If any of your thousands of readers get strayed off 3,500 miles from home, and the old home paper comes to cheer their home, as the RECORD does ours. they will know just how to appreciate such a paper as the RECORD, coming every week so full of local news. I one paper is lost or gets strayed off in the mountains, we miss it as much as we do our dinner. The prospects in this country are very oncouraging. Business is lively, and the sound of the saw and hammer is heard in every part of our beautiful mountain city. Never in her history has so much good, permanent building been carried on in one season as now. The crop prospects are very flattering. Grain is very heavy, and the fruit prospects exceedingly good The deep blue waters of the Columia are dotted with the ships of commerce, bearing to market the products of the State; and railroad building is carried on in different parts of the State. The new steamer "Oregon," built in Philadelphia for the Oregon Steamship Co., left New York on the 16th of February, made the trip around Cape Horn, heavily loaded with passengers and freight. She spoke at San Francisco, but did not pass into Golden Gate. She landed n Portland in sixty-four days, the quickest time ever known. She left this Port last Tuesday, crossed the bar at Astoria, the mouth of the Columbia, and made her trip to San Francisco in just 41 hours. She is an iron steamer, fitted with every precaution against danger that money

That letter from Three Oaks by your correspondent, had the right ring. While reading it I went, in my wild ramble, all over that nice village, visited the old Governor and his brother, Wm. Chamberlain, strolled down and shook the honest old paw of J. L. McKie, talked with several of the fair ladies, and they told me it was correct about young groceryman Martin, and that Abo was a "way up" chap, you bet.

Immigration is coming here very

LETTERS OF E. C. BEARDSLEY. VICTORIA-ITS MANUFACTURES.

Manufacturing in Victoria has received a great impetus through the system of bonuses granted by the government and a heavy protective tariff. Among the manufactured articles and preparations may be mentioned books, diaries, and other manufactured stationery; dyes, glass, cloth, paper, cigars, starch, pianos, oilmen's stores, safes, brushware, soap, plows, threshers, harvesting machinery, steam engines, and many other things. In all, the number of manufactories on March 31, 1877, 1,703, employing 26,825 hands; the value of land, buildings and machinery being estimated at $23,057,885. A mint was opened, as a branch of the English mint, in 1872; it is July. Barley dull; 48c cash, 48c provided with the best and latest improved machinery, and up to Dec. 31, 1876, had minted 1,780,856 ounces of gold, value at $35,491,695. Meat preserving is also conducted on a very extensive scale, and large quantities are exported to Great Britian; and a silk company has been formed. There are 152 flour mills, 8 woolen mills, 96 tanneries, 241 brick yards, 102 breweries, 7 piano forte, 46 agricultural implement, 53 engine, 19 ship and boat, 3 blasting powder, 1 fire-proof safe, 77 iron, brass and copper, 53 iron and tin works, 6 wire working, 13 rope and twine, 159 moulding and sash, door and blind factories and many others, representing nearly every branch of manufactured goods known to the world. I was not only surprised at the extent and great variety of the manufactures in Victoria, but of the high state of perfection attained by the use of the most modern machinery, much of which was imported from England and the United States, but a very large portion was "home made" and very creditable, it was evincing not only excellent mechanical skill but much inventive genius. Wages paid to skilled mechanics are about the same for eight hours' work as are paid in Chicago for a day of ten hours. Taken altogether, the manufacturers of Victoria are surprisingly advanced and promise a great source of prosperity for the colony-Victoria being in this respect far ahead of paupers of her own, that is all she

An Imporiant Duty.

When young men are brought to ruin by extravigant expenditures, the fault is not often wholly their ownand this is especially true of those who are living with their parents and are under age. The father and mother, if they do their duty and are not culpably negligent, will know the the course from which it is derived, and also pretty nearly what his expenditures are, and the knowledge that they are giving attention to these matters will be a strong check against. wrong-doing, if any check is required. They will also know how he spends his evenings, and what his associates are, and if he is spending money freely they will find out where it comes from. And the employers of the boys, and especially of those holding responsible positions, neglect a duty they owe to themselves and to those in their employ, if they do not inform themselves as to their habits that they may grow up frugal, industrious and honest.

If any man thinks it won't pay to make manure to feed his lands, let him try it once, and he will soon laugh at his present folly. But for manure, the people of New England would have starved to death a half century ago. With it their country is growing all the time. Because we have a genial climate and generous soil is no reason why bad farming won't render it unproductive in time; it has done it and no man can deny it. The question for us to decide is not how much of our cotton crop it will take to support the farm, but how much of the leven of manure and labor we must put into our lands in order to make them self-supporting, thereby leaving the cotton crop entirely surplus, and therefore, entirely cash to gingle as we please.—Planter and Grange.

The following calculations are made by Professor Johnson: A foot in depth and an acre on the surface of sand will hold 1,197,900 pounds of water; prairie soil will hold 1,524,-600 pounds, while peat will hold 2,-047,300 pounds of water. The average rain-fall in New England being forty inches annually, equal to 9,-075,000 pounds per acre, it would, at the ordinary rate of absorption, all be held in seven and a half feet in depth of prairie soil and in four and a halfh feet in dept of peat.

To RESTORE COLOR.—When color on a fabric has been accidentally or otherwise destroyed by acid, ammonia is applied to neutralize the same, after which an application of chloroform will, in almost all cases, restore the original color. The application of ammonia is common, but that of chloroform is but little known.

The Scientific American gives the following which our readers, who raise poultry, will do well to heed: "Put a teaspoonful of sulphur in the nest as soon as the hens or turkeys are set. The heat of the fowls causes the fumes of the sulphur to penetrate every part of their bodies, every louse is killed, and, as all nits are hatched within ten days, when the mother leaves the nest with her brood, she is perfectly free from nits or lice."

The immediate relief afforded by SANFORD'S RADIOAL GUIR FOR CATARRH IS but a slight evidence of what may follow a persistent use of this remedy. The hard, incrusted matter that has lodged in the mass I passages is removed with a few applications; the ulceration and inflammation subdued and healed; the entire membranous limings of the head are cleansed and purified. . Californians are proverbially extravagent; whether male or female. They seem to care little or nothing for money-other than to supply their immediate needs. This extravagance is one of the evils of the early flush times. A man of bibulent propensities, who has only four bits in his pocket, and does not know and, parcare, where the next half dollar is is coming from, will invite a party up to a bar and spend it all for one round of drinks. Women never think of asking the tradesman to take off anything in the price of the article they are purchasing, but pay just what he usks for the article. Thousands and thousands of dollars are squandered by the extravagant habits of people here. They pay what ever is asked and spend as they go, without regard for the morrow. Whatever they want they buy, regardless of the cost, and not stopping to ask whether they can afford it or not. In living and dressing these systress goat habits are maning these extravagant habits are manifest. If the fashionables of Nob Hill in this city wear $500 dresses on the street, the woman in the humbler walks of social life feels herself as amply able to put the month's earnings of her husband on her back, and she does not begrudge it either. And so with the men. - The best of everything, and everything they want, they must have and will have if it takes the last piece of coin. There are thousands of dollars which Californians are swindled out of in the making of change. The difficulty here in making the exact change, owing to the kind

Attracted by the sound of silver bells, nearly 2,000 persons filled the Avenue, Prebyterian Church yesterday-morning, and listened to a peculiar discourse on God's enemies in general and Satan in particular.

The pulpit itself is like a flowery bed of ease. Carpeted it is with the choicest fabric known to the weaver's loom thick and soft, and yielding to the feet of those who take hold on righteousness.
