The Reign of Ice.

Roused from the chill of a frozen sleep, The Ice-King spoke with curses deep, And bade the bitterest North-Wind blow Down from the realm of eternal snow. Down from the home of the ice and frost, Where stlence reigns and life is lost, The North-Wind came at the King's command, With speed, and hate, and a cruel hand. He furrowed the seas with frozen foam, And mocked the mariner's dream of home, Of wife and child and sweet surcease From strife and storm in a port of peace, On slippery deck, with stiff ning sail, The seamen saw the gathering gale, And, freezing, stood by the ley mast, Palsied and dead in the spell of the blast, Down from the realm of the frigid sea, Relentless, and cold, and cruel, came he, To cast his cause o'er this land of rest, Where hearts are warm and homes are blest. The traveler, tracking his homeless way. Begging for bread in the storm that day, Fell frozen and dead in the ley air, As the mocking wind dealed his prayer, The widow shrank with shivering dread From his tey couch, in her chilly bed, And her heart stood still in the cold embraco Of that spectral flend with the fatal face, His curse was fiere at the homes of the poor: But the rich in their palaces boited the door, And laughed him to seorn, and he hastened away To visit the wretched ones over the way.

The woes of the wretched were carried back To the bitter North on the wind's wild track, And the Ice-King, touched with the old desire Of power sup: me over heat and fire. Prophetic spose in the frigid blast: "The human race must end at last, Despite their paide and their faithless prayers, Their selfish schemes and worldly cares. I'll crush their topes with endless death; I'll chill their is arts, congeal their breath; I'll freeze for a continue accedenth From central fire to outer girth; Their farms shall be but frezen land; Their ships be locked in icf strand; Their cities, filled with woe and ice, Shall lifeless stand in lifeless ice: The long-complaining waves shall be Penceful and still on the frozen sea; The Ocean, chained from shore to shore, Shall boast his mighty strength no more. The reign of Justice I'll renew, And banish all the selfish crew, Whose sin, and shame, and quick desire Find food and life in heat and fire.

At war with life, and scorning prayer. His curso is now in the bitter air. The ground is clad for the grave to-day, And, should no power the Ice-King stay, A wall of wo and wild despair Would strike the unrelenting air; Voiceless and cold, the Earth would roll A lifeless hero, with frozen soul.

THE OLD MAN ALWAYS RIGHT. BY HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN.

-[Bloomington Pantagraph.

I take it for granted that you have been in the country, and seen a very old farm-house with a thatched roof, and mosses and small plants growing wild upon the thatch. There is a stork's nest on the summit of the gable; for we can't do without the stork. The walls of the house are sloping, and the windows are low, and only one of the latter is made so that it will open. The baking oven sticks out of the wall like a little fat body. The elder tree hangs over the paling, and be-neath its branches, at the foot of the paling, is a pool of water in which a few ducks are disporting themselves. There is a yard dog, too, who barks at all Just such a farm-house stood out in the country; and in this house dwelt an old couple—a peasant and his wife. Small as was their property, there was a single ar-ticle that they could do without—a horse which made a living out of the grass it found by the high-road. The old peasant rode into town on this horse; and often his neighbors borrowed it from him, and rendered the old couple some service in return for the loan of it. But they thought it would be best if they sold the horse or exchanged it for something that might be more useful to them. But what might this something be? "You'll know that best, old man," said the wife. "It is a fair day to day, so ride into town, and get rid of the horse for money, or make a good exchange, which-ever you do will be right to me. Ride to

And she fastened his neckerchief for him, for she could do that better than he could; and she tied it in a double bow, for she could do that very prettily Then she brushed his hat round and round with the palm of her hand, and gave him a kiss. So he rode away upon the horse that was to be sold or to be bartered for something else. Yes, the old man knew what he

The sun shone hotly down, not a cloud was to be seen in the sky. The road was very dusty, for many people, who were all bound for the fair, were driving, or riding, or walking upon it. There was no shelter anywhere from the sunbeams. Among the rest was a man trudging along, and driving a cow to the fair. The cow was as beautiful a creature as any cow could be. "She gives good milk, I'm sure," said the peasant. "That would be a very good exchange-the cow for the horse." "Hallo, you there with the cow!" he said. "I'll tell you what—I fancy a horse costs more than a cow, but I don't care for that; a cow would be more useful to me here. If you like, we'll exchange."

"To be sure I will," said the man; and they exchanged accordingly. So that was settled, and the peasant might have turned back, for he had done the business he came to do; but as he had once made up his mind to go to the fair, he determined to proceed merely to have a look at it; so he went on to the town with his cow. Leading the animal, he strode steadily on; and after a time he overtook a man who was driving a sheep. It was a good fat sheep, with a fine fleece on its back. "I should like to have that fellow," said our peasant to himself. "He would find plenty of grass by our paling, and in the winter we could keep him in the room with us. Perhaps it would be more practical to have a sheep instead of a cow.

Shall we exchange?"

The man with the sheep was quite ready, and the bargain was struck. So the peasant went on in the high-road with his Soon he overtook another man, who came into the road from a field, carrying a great goose under his arm. "That's a heavy thing you have there. It has plenty of feathers and plenty of fat, and would look well tied to a string and paddling in the water at our place. That would be something for my old woman; she could make all kinds of profit out of it. How often she has said: 'If we only had a goose! Now, perhaps, she can have one; and, if possible, it shall be hers. Shall we exchange? I'll give you my sheep for your goose, and thank you' into the bargain."

tion; and accordingly they exchanged, and our peasant became proprietor of the By this time he was very near the town. The crowd on the high-road became greater and greater; there was quite a crush of men and cattle. They walked in the road. and close by the palings; and at the barrier they even walked into the toll-man's potato-field, where his one fowl was strutting about, with a string to his leg, least it should take fright at the crowd, and stray away, and so be lost. This fowl had short tail-feathers, and winked with both its oyes, and looked very cunning. "Cluck," cluck!" said the fowl. What it thought when it said this I cannot tell you; but as soon as our good man saw it, he thought.

The other man had not the least objec-

"That's the finest fowl I've ever seen in my life! Why, it's finer than our parson's brood hen. On my word, I should like to have that fowl. A fowl can always find a grain or two, and can almost keep itself. I think it would be a good exchange if I could get that for my good "Shall we exchange?" he asked the toll-

"Exchange!" repeated the man; "well, that would not be a bad thing." And so they exchanged; the toll-taker at the barrier kept the goose, and the peasant carried away the fowl. -Now he had done a good deal of business on his way to the fair, and he was hot and tired. He wanted something to eat, and a glass of brandy to drink; and soon he was in front of the inn. He was just about to step in when the hostler came out; so they met at the door. The hostler was carrying a sack.

"What have you in that sack?" asked the peasant.
"Rotten apples," answered the hostler;
"a whole sackful of them—enough to feed the pigs with."

"Why, that's a terrible waste! I should like to take them to my old woman at home. Last year the old tree by the turfhole only bore a single apple, and we kept it on the cupboard till it was quite rotton and spoilt. It was always property, my old woman said; but here she could see a quantity of property—a whole sackful. Yes, I shall be glad to show them to her. What will I give? I will give my fowl in exchange."

And he gave the fowl accordingly, and received the apples, which he carried into the guest-room. He leaned the sack carefully by the stove, and then went to the table. But the stove was hot; he had not thought of that. Many guests were present-horse-dealers, ox-herds, and two Englishmen—and the two Englishmen were so rich that their pockets bulged out with gold coins and almost burst; and they would bet, too, as you shall hear. Hiss-s-s! hiss-s-s! What was that by the stove? The apples were beginning to

A candle placed six inches away "What is that?" from the pith was found to give 1,628 de-grees of revolution, and the little iron weight 10,021 degrees. Then, it is mere-ly a matter of calculation to compare the "Why, do you know-" said our peas-And he told the whole story of the horse that he had changed for a cow, and all the rest of it, down to the apples. two, and the mechanical force of the candle-light is expressed in grains. A "standard" candle six inches off was found to be equivalent to 0.00172 grains. Mr. Crookes has made experiments on the

"Woll, your old woman will give it to you well when you get home!" said one of the two Englishmen. "There will be a disturbance.³ "What-give me what?" said the peasant. "She will kiss me and say, 'What the old man does is always right?"
"Shall we wager?" said the Englishmen.: "We'll wager coined gold by the ton—a hundred pounds to the hundred

"A bushel will be enough," replied the peasant. "I can only set the bushel of apples against it; and I'll throw myself and my old woman into the bargain—and I fancy that that's piling up the meas-

And the bet was made. The host's carriage came up, and the Englishmen got in, and the peasant got in; away they went, and soon they stopped before the "Good ovening, old woman."

"I've made the exchange."
"Yes, you understand what you're about," said the woman. And she embraced him and paid no attention to the stranger guests, nor did she notice the sack. "I got a cow in exchange for the horse,"

"Good evening, old man."

"Heaven be thanked!" said she; "what glorious milk we shall have, and butter and choese on the table! That was a capital exchange!" "Yes, but I changed the cow for a sheep."
"Ah, that's better still!" cried the wife;
"you always think of everything; we have just pasture enough for a sheep. Ewe's milk and cheese, and woolen jackets and stockings! The cow cannot give those, and her hairs will only come off. How you think of everything!" "But I changed away the sheep for a goose." "Then this year we shall really have roast goose to eat, my dear old man. You are always thinking of giving me pleasure. How charming that is! We can let the goose walk about with a string to he log, and she'll grow fatter still before we roast her."

That was a good exchange," replied the woman. "The fowl will lay eggs and hatch them, and we shall have chickens; we shall have a whole poultry-It would be difficult to find any other American who served his country in so many and so varied capacities. But, as yard! Oh, that's just what I was wishing

"Yes, but I exchanged the fowl for a sack of shriveled apples." "What?-I must positively kiss you for that," exclaimed the wife. "My dear, good husband! Now, I will tell you something. Do you know you had hardly left me this morning before I began thinking how I could give you something very nice this evening? I thought it should be pancakes, with savory herbs I had eggs, and bacon, too, but I wanted herbs. So I went over to the schoolmas. ter's-they have herbs there, I know-but the schoolmistress is a mean woman, though she looks so sweet. I begged her to lend me a handful of herbs. Lend, she answered me 'nothing at all grows in our garden, not even a shriveled apple. I could not even lend you's shriveled apple, my dear woman. But now I can lend her ten or a whole sackful. That I'm very glad of; that makes me laugh!"

And with that she gave him a sounding "I like that!" exclaimed both the Engishmen togother. "Always going down hill, and always merry; that's worth the money." So they paid a hundred weight of gold to the peasant, who was not scolded, but kissed.

light shall be reflected on to a graduated scale, and any twisting of the glass thread shall be thus recorded. As the repulsion by radiation occurs only in vacuo, a Sprengel pump is employed to produce in the tube as perfect a vacuum as is possible.

To one end of the glass thread there is a turning disc and a Harding's counter, and this is outside the tube. Mr. Crookes has contrived a means by which the disc can be used without interfering with the vacuum. Such, briefly is the construction of the apparatus. It is used in this way.—

The light to be "weighed" is allowed to fall on the pith. This, as in the simpler radiometers, is repelled, and its motion causes a torsion of the glass thread and a motion of the mirror spot along the scale.

The turning disc is employed to unwind

the thread against this action, the mirror spot going back to zero on the scale. The Harding's counter tells the degree of tor-sion the glass thread has undergone by counting the amount of unwinding required. Then a little iron weight, the one-hundredth of a grain, which is within the tube, is lifted by a magnet on to the little cross-bar; its weight causes a tor-sun's light, and has worked out some calculations on it. It is equal to 32 grains on the square foot, 57 tons on the square mile, or three thousand million tons on the whole earth—force that, but for grav-

Court of Massachusetts, and afterward

the Attorney General of President Pierce.

Then he presided over the Democratic Convention of 1860 at Charleston. In 1866 he was serving as one of three Commissioners appointed to codify the laws of the United States. He was afterward

Minister to Spain, the chief attorney of the United States in the Geneva Commission, and was nominated as a Justice of the Supreme Court by President Grant, but his nomination was withdrawn,in consequence of the discovery of some words once used by him which squinted strongly life of a very versatile man. He was a statesman of the model of Lord Halifax, Although light is generally regarded as imponderable, Mr. Crookes not only showed his apparatus, but actually "weighed" the light of a candle. The principle on which it is constructed is based on the fact that a fine mainly a delusion and that while they are complacently confident that their children are all right, they may in reality be all wrong. City people realize that they must alertly protect a child from the evil that prowls all about him; but country folks feel so safe from harm, that they knock the watch dog vigilent precaution, on the head, and the robber, bad comor thirty times without breaking, and it has a tendency to untwist itself again. pany, slyly despoils the moral natures of their sons, under their very no ses. The corrupt influences of a village are ends in a tube, and at one part of it is a small cross thread, to which is attached a disc of pith with one side blackened. At the junction of this cross-piece is a small circular mirror, so arranged that a more dangerous than those of a city, because the only measures of precaution taken against them, are, that good people give had ones a severe letting alone, and imagine that their offspring, will tread studiously in their footsteps. In this, they are a "heap muchoe" mistaken. Vice was never prevented from contaminating a community by such a course, more than an uncleaned, unattended ulcer, from eating the healthy flesh about it. Bad morals will never quarantine themselves for anybody's accommodation, till they are made to do so, any more than the miasmatic poison of a swamp will refrain from creeping into the house of the man who lives next it. The sensible thing to do, is, to drain the swamp.

Villages, by that stability and conservatism which tends to keep families for generations, aggregate finally, a larger percentage of concentrated wickedness and idleness than cities in which families are continually broken up by the improvement or deaths of individual members, and cannot so inevitably transmit a progeny of crime and pauperism.

A bad family in the country is in a much more hopeless condition for reform than in a city. No one advises, warns, or interferes with it. The children grow up like their parents, and degenerate with each generation. There is little private, and no concentrated effort to uplift them, and they become in time the poisonous social swamp, the emanations from which steal abroad and work ruin while men sleep.
When a child is twelve or fourteen years old, the average parent begins to have a glimmering apprehension that he is growing up, and that there are some subjects about which it is his duty to instruct and advise him. Accordingly in a lubberly, inefficient and utterly back-handed manner, he sets about a work which should have been begun some years before. The result is, that his anxiety is relieved, and that he thinks he has entered upon the most confidential relations with his son, who has ingenuously assured him, that, tho.' other boys have themselves been guilty of and have repeatedly solicited him to participate in the gravest offenses, he has always felt a virtuous horror of these misdemeanors which has pre-served him from indulgence. City people know that the their children may be pinks of propriety at home, they are likely to be anything else outside and so redouble their efforts in their behalf. Country people rejoice that while Mrs. Smith and Tom Jones, have the awfulest young ones that ever breathed, they can trust their own to the 'jumping off place." City people understand that the allurements of the road to ruin, must be counter balanced by those of the path of virtue Next he went to Congress, became a Whig after the sect of Tyler, and was subsequently sent to China as United and provide all sorts of innocent, healthful, amusements for the young. Country people expect boys to stay quietly by silent fireside, reading goody books, playing cats cradle, satisfied with the sabbath school picnic and church sociable for recreation and are frequently amazed that they have been doing something very different for a long time on the sly. City people exercise rigid supervision over their children's associates. Country peo-ple often aare not make distinctions where they see the necessity for them. City people realize that the most effectual way to escape pestilence, is to root it out in its own quarter. Country people indifferently believe it will spread only among the class with which it originated.

American Girl Diplomatists. It is a singular fact, says the Philadelphia Press, that fifteen of the ladies connected with the present Diplomatic Corps at Washington are American girls whose beauty and diplomacy captured distinguished husbands. Among the number are wives of the French, Italian, Guatemalan, and Turkish Ministers, and many others of lesser rank, including Mrs. Yung Wing, of the Chinese Legation, who was Miss Bartlett, of Connecticut. In the Diplomatic Corpse of Europe there are also several American ladies, such as the wife of the Italian Minister to the Hague, and others. Whether American women have a peculiar penchant for diplomacy, or diplomatists for them, is a question to decide. At all events, diplomacy is a career for which our women seem to be admirably adapted. They have also broken down the exclusiveness of herediary aristocracy, and some of them are connected with the oldest noble families of England and the Continent. Proverbial as is their beauty, their natural grace and dignity of manner and their intelligence are no less striking.

A Gentle Hint. Some time ago there lived a gentleman of indolent habits in Sussex, who made it business in the winter season to visit his friends extensively. After wearing out his welcome in his immediate vicinity, he thought he would visit an old Quaker friend, some twenty miles away, who had been an old school-fellow of his. On his arrival he was cordially received by the of engineering, it is a railure, but as a triumph of engineering, it is an extraordinary success. Sir M. J. Brumel has himself explained the origin of his idea for his work saying it was suggested to him by the operations of the tevedo, a testaceous worm, covered with a cylindrical shell, which eats its way through wood. This humble exerting toucht a mode for the averagion creature taught a mode for the excavation of the tunnel which has been the wonder and admiration of the most experienced engineers, and which will forever remain a monument to the genius of its author. The principal instrument employed by him was a huge frame or shield, by means of which the weight of the superincumb-ent bottom of the river was supported, whilst the men who were undermining the river were sheltered in the cells of the shield below. The work for the Tunnel was commenced in March, 1825, and completed in August, 1841. During these years vast obstacles had been overcome, about two millions of dollars had been spent, and a degree of energy and skill exhibited which attracted universal admiration. It is fortunate for the Chinese that they have an epidemic of cholera so seldom, for with their habits of filth and overcrowding they have no chance but to be decimated. When an epidemic does decimated. When an epidemic does come they find themselves quite helpless in the absence of anything like sanitary arrangements, and take refuge in gongbeating, paper-burning, and "sing-songs."

Many strange remedies are used by them, and among the most curious of these is one (referred to by Dr. David Manson in a very able report recently published on an epidemic of cholera last year at Amoy) an epidemic of cholera last year at Amoy) of pinching various parts of the body of the person affected with cash. In Amoy, during the epidemic, a skilled "pincher" commanded a high rate of wages. It happened to a foreigner there that one of his servants discovered that he possessed an innate talent for pinching, and that instead of earning $4 a month as a coolie, he could as a "pincher" earn at least $30.

I warn intending shepherds that there is no other domestic animal which needs better care or food, for profitable thrift, than sheep; that out of their finely-grinding manure mill comes nothing that is not first put into the hopper; that yet with proper care and skill, a well-selected flock of the right kind of sheep, in the right place, can be made to pay one hundred per cent on their cost every year. It is true that a flock will clear a field of weeds, briers, and rubbish, and will enrich it; but it will not live upon these alone. To relish this rough herbage the sheep must be fed liberally upon supplementary food, such as bran, meal, cut clover, grass, or green-corn fodder, and always a pint a day per head of linseed oil-cake meal, bran or other grain food. Then, with this alloy, the sheep's foot will take on a gold-en tinge, and will edge with gold the farmer's pocket, by making his poor lands rich; giving him at the same time a lamb or two, and a fleece every year. A field may be enriched, too, by sowing rapeseed this month at the rate of a peck per acre, and when the crop is of thrifty growth' the sheep may be turned in to eat it down through the late fall and early spring, thus fitting it for a crop of corn, oats, or roots next year. But the sheep must have their pint per day of bran or oil meal even

The poisoning of two children by aconite in Norwich is a remarkable case. It appears that a little girl and a little boy, each 5 or 6 years old, were making "ice-cream" from snow. They flavored the mixture with vanilla extract, and finding it not flavored enough to suit them, the little girl went for more vanilla; this time she got hold of an aconite bottle, and used its liquid contents freely. The effects were soon apparent, a physician was sent for, and ordered brandy among other antidotes. Here came in the prohibition vote lately passed by Norwich. The druggist had been prosecuted or threat-ened for selling brandy, and the law was so rigidly enforced that the article could not be found. Finally a druggist was found who had some, and to save the lives of the children he was persuaded to let some of it go. It came in good time, for the limbs of the children had become numb and paralyzed. The brandy stimulated the circulation and roused the children. There lives were saved at the last moment but the druggist is to be

The snowfalls throughout Switzerland just before Christmas were almost unprecedented. In Freiburg it has snowed, says a local journal, as in "the year of the great snow," 1784. In Lausanne no such snow has been known since 1829. In the Shone valley all the trains were stopped. in Geneva no fewer than six hundred and eventy laborers were employed in clearing the streets and public places. The aloon steamship Helvetia, on the lake of Zug, which carries so many tourists from ill nations to the Rigi-Arth Mountain ailway in summer, was sunk by the mere yeight of the enormous mass of snow which fell upon it. The blinding snow storm upon the lake of Geneva stopped the steamboat traffic, after the Cygne had been driven upon a sandbank near Villeneuve. A letter from Luzerne says: "We have such a gigantic fall of snow here as never has been seen so early within the themory of any living person. It is three feet deep in the streets."

A young man named Hubbard lives with Perry Worden, in Scriba. The other night Hubbard went to a dance, and was out nearly all night. He was sleepy next morning, but nevertheless got up at the usual early hour, and was present at family prayers. After the rest of the family arose from their knees it was observed that Hubbard still remained in an humble attitude, his head resting between his hands on the chair. The good leacon, thinking the young man was in a serious and penitent mood, concluded not to disturb him, and went out and did most of the chores which Hubbard was in the habit of doing. When Mr. Worden returned to the house, about two hours afer he found Hubbard still on his knees. Thinking to offer him consolation, he knelt down by him and found the young man was fast asleep .—Osweyo Times.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1879. The sale of four per cent bonds for the week amounted to $24,049,800.

It seems hard to find any thing in our exchanges on the senatorial question but "Chandler."

Up to the first of February, there had been coined $19,919,185 of the new silver dollars, and of these $13,920,000 are still in the treasury.

Reports from Europe state that the plague is producing great consternation, the citizens fleeing from it in all directions. It is now spreading in There are now stowed in Chicago elevators 12.018.771 bushels of wheat against 3,216,886 bushels at this time last year.

The sale of four per cent, bonds for the month of January amounted to $148,360,150, and $150,000,000 of the sixes were called for redemption. An additional call for $20,000,000 was made Saturday.

During the month of January there were $2,571,725 of legal tenders redeemed in gold, and the amount of coin in the treasury was increased $200,742 and there were $32,478,600 of coin obligations paid.

The Free Press is as mum as a mute about the selling out of the Democratic party to Moses W. Field and the Nationals. Probably it was so surprised as to make it speechless. That was an awful joke on the honest money part of the party.

The subject of taxation of mortages is employing the minds of our Legislators. The question is: "How shall the assessments be made so that the person holding the mortgage may be taxed for the mortgage, and the one who holds the property be exempt.

There is a complaint at the Treasury that both gold and silver continues to accumulate in the vaults. There are a few millions of those six per cent. bonds still unpaid, and it may be well to use some of the surplus in cancelling some of them.

The survey is being made for the erection of a ship canal across the upper part of the peninsula of Florida, and an appropriation for the purpose has been made by Congress.

The Democrats in the House are indulging in a free family light with Representative Bragg, of Wisconsin, as centerpiece. The Republican members take exquisite pleasure in urging on the fight that is to divide the northern and southern parties of the Democracy.

The Legislative committee for the investigation of the Insane Asylum at Kalamazoo will commence its work this week. There are some serious charges made against those in charge of the asylum, and if found true the perpetrators should be punished to the full extent of the law, and if not the public should know it. Let there be a thorough investigation.

Among those prominently named for the senatorial contest in this State, there appears the name of Omar D: Conger, present Representative in Congress. Mr. Conger has made an excellent record in the position he now holds, and would fill the Michigan seat in the Senate with ability. He is one of those men the Southern war claimants would be pleased to see out of the way.

The amount of four per cent. bonds that are being sold to parties in this country, should be the best evidence to our Greenback friends that their old cry, "There is not enough money in the country for the wants of trade," should be heralded abroad with the greatest possible demonstration.

The first payment of the annual interest on the Government debtsince resumption, shows the good effect of that condition of the national finances The treasury clerks are now busy with the interest payment and find that, instead of bondholders striving to draw all of the gold from the treasury as was predicted by the Greenbackers would be done, nearly three-fourths of them refuse the gold and call for greenbacks. Before January first on all such obligations, gold was demand-

During the year 1878, the balance of trade with Europe has been in favor of this country to the amount of $305,-542,571, against $140,056,112 for 1877. This is both the largest balance and the largest increase for a single year ever known. A report of recent date shows that $1,974,173 more gold has been imported during the year than was exported, while in 1877 the export exceeded the import by $25,000,000.

The House Committee on Coinage, Weights and Measures met Friday morning and agreed to report favorably, Forbes' bill, which provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall cause to be exchanged at the Treasury and at all the Sub-Treasuries of the United States, legal-tender silver dollars for trade dollars of 420 grains standard silver at par, and shall recoin said trade dollars into legal-tender dollars of 4121/2 grains of standard silver, as now provided by law, and shall stop further coinage of trade lots is a Republican lie. A lively time of swallowing may be expected about the time of the Spring conventions. It will all depend upon which party is the best greased, whether the Nationals will swallow the Democrats or the Democrats swallow the Greenies. Whichever it is will need a first-close dose of physic soon after.

Representative Hewitt, of Alabama, was asked a few days since how he thought Grant would run in the Southem states if nominated in 1880 for the Presidency. In reply he said: "Run? We haven't got rifles and shot-guns enough in the South to keep the niggers from voting for him." Which seems to be the general feeling among the Southern Democrats.

Moses W. Field has issued the call for the Greenback State Convention, to nominate State officers for the Spring election, to be held in Lansing, March 1. In his call he has omitted the most prominent feature of the National platform of principles, "The immediate and unconditional repeal of the resumption act." Wonder how he could possibly have forgotten that.

Springfield, Mass., has prohibited the blinds and screens from being placed before the doors and windows of drinking saloons. This will no doubt greatly shock the modesty of bows in view of the street. It is a little funny that when a man shaves, and to all intents and purposes is in a most uninteresting condition, he wants the whole front of the barbershop open; but when he takes a nip, although the thermometer is among the nincties, he wants the blinds down and the lattice door closely shut.-Inter Ocean.

The Canucks have issued an order prohibiting the importation of American cattle into Canada for three months. This looks as if the shipments from this country were materially interfering with the sale of Canadian beef and that they expect by three months to get rid of their stock, when they will return to good beef once

The split in the Democratic party in this State has at last taken form. There was a stormy meeting of the State committee in Detroit, last Friday, and the ruling majority decided that the smart thing for the party to do would be to co-operate with the Greenbackers, and have accordingly called a convention to take place at Lansing, March 5, the next day following the Greenback convention, which it is expected will adjourn one day, and so the two act together. The action of the Free Press as a Democratic sheet was denounced in severe terms on account of its honest belief on the financial question, and the "softs" propose that that sheet shall change its financial tactics or be unceremoniously thrown overboard as a party organ and a new paper started in Detroit at once. So it is evident, that on the 5th of March next, either the Greenback party will swallow the Democratic or vice

The cities of Memphis and Mobile have applied to the Legislatures of their respective States for the repeal of their city charters, and in the case of Memphis the bill to repeal has been passed. The reason given by these cities for this move is that they are both in debt, although not more than either could pay with proper exertion, and the repeal of their charters will be an aid to them in repudiation. Repudiation has become the rule among the Southern States, and the rule might apply equally well with cities, corporations and individuals as with States, and the time seems near when debt paying will have become an obsolete

Some ingenious fellow is going to get a patent on a collar filled with prads to be worn by sheep as a protection against dogs. The idea of the genius is that the dog always seizes the sheep by the throat. The theory may be all right, but the dogs in this vicinty would laugh at so simple a protection as a collar. In order to have a sure thing on the dogs we suggest to the inventor that he envelope the sheep in a dress of leather and have the spikes at least an inch in length, thickly set from the top of the animal's head to his hoofs, and then—lock him up in the barn.—Lansing Republican.

The only sure protection ever found in this section was to kill the dogs, but the trouble of that is, it is never tried until after the sheep are dead.

THE Buchanan Manufacturing Company has been receiving large amounts of maple lumber in two-inch plank, from Galien, and has had it all drawn here by teams, thus furnishing employment for several teamsters. They pay $2 per thousand for drawing.

The rail-road aid bond tax is rather stirring up the people of Chikaming, Berrien county, and they are resorting to every means possible to prevent its collection. The latest dodge is to refuse to bid a penny on property seized and offered for sale.—Post and Tribune.

THREE of our village nimrods went in the country Tuesday forenoon and captured twenty-five rabbits, or something that looked like rabbits when dressed, and as no one has complained of losing that number of cats we must take their word for it.

A PROPOSITION to build a fine hall in this place is being seriously talked of and we trust that it will be done, for that is just what Buchanan needs at the present time. A first class hall could be made to produce a good income in this place if properly man-

THE Niles Pulp Mill is probably receiving about as much free advertising on account of the amount of work done by them last year, as any house in Michigan. Nearly every paper in the State has had something to say about it. No charge for this notice.

HOWARD SMITH has purchased the right to operate the Sanders & Smith Feather Renovator in Jackson county. Mr. Smith is a man of steady habits, and we predict that he will make a success in this his new venture. He will commence operations in Jackson city in a short time.

BARNARD COVERT, and an accompa niment, gave two interesting concerts in this place, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Mr. Covert is an extraordinary man. At the advanced age of 75 years he retains the power of his voice in a remarkable degree. His selections are mostly of the revolutionary patriotic style, and are real invig-

A TROUPE of Jubilee Singers gave an entertainment in the hall, Friday evening, but some how or other the people of Buchanan have had a full supply of jubilee music, and they were not well patronized. Other troupes who contemplate coming here make a note of this.

THE Niles Democrat wants to know the opinion of the county press regarding a man who will take a paper eight years without paying a cent for it. We are unprepared to say, but we have but little sympathy for the publisher who is foolish enough to keep sending his paper to any man that long without pay for it.

Mr. WILL CHURCHILL intends spending a month or more in a trip through the lumber districts of the northern part of this peninsula for the purpose of becoming better acquainted with the lumber business, and for the purpose of making some purchases. He also expects to have better health in consequence of the trip. He started this morning.

THE Mr. Riley, who was recently injured by falling a tree near Three Oaks, and afterward died from the effect of the amputation of his leg and was buried in that place, has been resurrected for the benefit of the medical science. Some of the people of Three Oaks accuse the Niles fraternity of doing the resurrecting, but the doctors there, of course, deny it.

Louis Knorr, an employe of the Michigan Central Railroad Company in Niles, met with a rather serious accident Friday, while handling some heavy square bridge timber. A stick fourteen inches square fell from the tlat car, striking cornerwise across his leg, and cutting it entirely off between the ankle and the knee, nothing holding the two parts together but a small bit of skin. The wound was dressed by Dr. Bonine.

GEORGE BUTTERFIELD, who is mentioned in our "Items From Three Oaks" as being very sick, died Tuesday. He has been in a helpless condition for about seven or eight years. He attempted to board a freight train at the crossing, at Wilson's mill, and was thrown in such a way as to break his back, and he has since had no use of his lower limbs.

THERE was a meeting of the Northwestern Produce Exchange Association in this place yesterday. This is a Grange organization, as the lengthy name will indicate. Their purpose is to procure the best market for their produce, and for the best rates on goods purchased, and for these purposes have kept Mr. Thomas Mason, of this county, in Chicago the last year The organization is so well pleased with the result of last year's business that they have concluded to keep Mr. Mason in Chicago another year, Berrien county leads the State on the perfection of her Grange organizations.

About twenty-five or thirty went from this place to Niles, last Friday evening, to hear the Camilla Urso Concert, and all pronounce themselves well pleased, especially with soprano and the violin music. When we become as good a performer on the violin as she, we will make some rich man a present of the RECORD office and go "fiddling."

THE February number of the American Agriculturist contains a long and interesting article on the extensive lumbering interests of this State, illustrated by views of the log way in the Menominee river, and the lumbermen's camps. The March number will contain an article concerning the mining interest and extensive works in | procured assistance, repaired to the | hard labor, for two years and six iron, ore and copper in the northern peninsula. SENSIBLE By the proceedings of the Common Council, in another column, it will be seen that Trustee Roe introduced a resolution to issue the bonds of the village at seven per cent. to raise money to pay the village indebtedness now drawing ten per cent. The resolution was passed. This, like the funding process applied by the Government, will be attended with a small amount of expense, but will save the village about $45 per year, which

THERE was an attempt made to raise $250 to donate to the man who could be induced to take the National off Mr. Scullin's hands and run it in the interest of the Democracy, but as no one could be found to take it for that amount, it is understood that Mr. Scullin is to be made a present of the money, perhaps not the full amount, as a sort of tickler to keep him in good spirits. Miss Macgoffin was accompanying Governor Miller from New York to Minnesota to be governess in his family, and the match was made on the cars. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. McMurdy.

A later report says that the above is hoax so far as titles are concerned.

MORTAL COMBAT.-Wm. Glen, an Irishman for some time in the employ of Dr. McLin, and W. H. Waterman met in deadly combat last evening about six o'clock, in Waterman's shop under the bank. Glen went into the shop and got into a quarrel with Waterman about Dr. McLin's accounts, when Glendrew a revolver, Waterman a razor and business commenced. Glen retreated to the steps leading to the shop, when he fire three shots through the glass door, but Waterman dodged into the corner of the room and the bullets lodged into the wall, and both came out of the fracas with whole skins. A warrant was placed in Marshal Hathaway's hands for Glen's arrest and he, accompained by Constable Evans, tried until mid-night to capture him, but this morning he was still at large, in town, and the officers standing about the streets telling people what a runner Glen was. The tree fell and crushed his leg. He laid in the snow for two hours, a small boy trying to help him to the house with a sled. Unable to do so, he went for help. He then laid for several days without the best of care, so said. Was removed to Thos. Martin's, in our village, where he had the best of care Then his leg was amoutated as the only hope of saving his life. He died two hours-after. Was then placed in a coffin with the amputated leg; was taken to the new cemetery and decently buried. Nothing is definitely known of his history previous to his arrival here, a few days since. Some three or four days after his burial, a person living south of this place suggested the propriety of examining the pauper's grave. Marshal D. F. Bommersheim and W. K. Sawyer visited the grave, and from appearances supposed the grave to have been robbed. The pants that were on the body when buried were found on the top of the Sponge Cake.—One cup sugar, two eggs, six tablespoonsful cold water, one teaspoonful cream tartar, one-half teaspoonful cream tartar and the country of the spoonful soda, one and one-fourth cups flour; bake in a large square tin.

Carbolic acid diluted at the rate of one drop to ten of water, or one ounce to ten of water, will make a wash which will rid a hog of vermin.

The following remedy is recommended for frost bites: Extract the frost by the application of ice water till the frozen part is pliable, avoiding all artificial heat; then apply a salve made of equal parts of hog's lard and gunpowder rubbed together until it forms a paste, and very soon the frozen parts will be well.

Molasses Cake.—Two cups of New Orleans molasses, one of butter, four eggs, half cup cold water, one-half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of ginger, four cups of prepared flour, heat the molasses before mixing and stir the butter in while hot; let it cool before you put the eggs in; this will make the cakes, as they should not be very thick; bake one-half hour in Water Pound-Cake.-One pound of flour, one pound of sugar, one-half pound of butter, four eggs, and one cup of warm water. Use prepared flour, or put into the flour before sifting it two even tea-spoonsful of any good baking powder. The cup of water must be quite warm, but not really hot. Beat eggs separately.

Cement For Leather.-A cement is made by mixing ten parts of sulphide of carbon with one of oil of turpentine, and then adding enough gutta percha to make a tough, thickly-flowing liquid. One essential pre-requisite to a thorough union of the parts consists in freedom of the surfaces to be joined from grease. This may be accomplished by laying a cloth upon them and applying a hot iron for a time. The cement is then applied to both pieces, the surfaces brought in contact and pressure applied until the joint is dry.

Keeping Iron and Steel Goods From Rust.—Iron and steel goods of all descriptions are kept free from rust in the following manner: Dissolve half an ounce of camphor in one pound of hog's lard, take off the seum and mix as much black lead as will give the mixture an iron color. Iron and steel goods, as well as machinery of all kinds, rubbed over with this mixture, and left with it on for twenty-four hours, and then rubbed with a linen cloth, will keep clean for months. If the machinery is for exportation it should be kept thickly coated with this during the voyage.

Cellars.

There are hundreds of houses in the country, that are built over dark, noisome holes of dampness, impure air, decaying vegetables and rotting timbers, says the American Builder. These holes in the ground are called cellars, but they are so unsuited for the purpose which they are designed to serve that they deserve rather to be called "death traps." Light is as essential to the healthfulness and purity of a cellar as it is to the dining-room or parlor. The requisite of a good collar are freedom from dampness, light, and a temperature low enough to prevent decay, and there is no difficulty in securing these conditions if cellars are only constructed above ground. Dark, close houses are notoriously unhealthy, and every possible device is resorted to light and admit air currents in them; yet we see cellars that are a hundred times worse than the darkest of houses left without light or ventilation, to breed the germs of disease and death. All houses require cellars, both for the storing room they afford and their contribution to the comfort and health of the dwellers; but there is no reason why sanitary laws should be set at defiance in their construction, neither is there any necessity for groping about in darkness, and, besides, when light is admitted there is an immunity from the danger of fire which attends carrying a light into the darkness, and which, from accident or carelessness, results sometimes in a disas-

Humane and Rational Cure for Horse

Colic is one of the most fatal diseases horse flesh is heir to. The symptoms of coli care readily detected. The animal scrapes with its fore feet, kicks at the and shifts about, turns around, smells the floor, crouches, puts the noso to the flanks, lies down, rolls, remains for a time on the back, and breathes heavily throughout.

But there is a ready and safe means of relief and cure in every homestead in the land-a means and method recently brought forward at a meeting of the London Farmer's Club, by Mr. Frederic Street, a gentleman of great skill and experience in the training and management of horses. When a horse shows the symptoms of an attack of colic, apply at once, says Mr. Street, a horse-cloth, or woolen rug wrung out of boiling water, to the belly and up the sides, and cover with another couple of cloths to retain the heat. As they cool, renew the cloth as often as needful. A large bran poultice, as hot as can be borne, is equally effective and retains the heat longer.

The Best Cow for Small Farms. The Live Stock Record says: "Our opinion, and also that of the principal opinion, and also that of the principal dairymen of the country, is, that the Jersey, commonly called Alderney, is above all others the best cow. They are easily kept, very docile—a point not to be overlooked—and beautiful; give milk of superior richness, from which is produced finely-colored, solid butter, having an acqual taxture and flavor. Butter made equal texture and flavor. Butter made from such milk has been known to keep when placed in a dry (not cold) cellar without the use of ice, and when taken out was in a hard, firm condition, and was then sold twelve to eighteen cents per pound higher than best ordinary butter. The cost for Jerseys is not much more than for scrub, and they will more than make up the difference in price in a few

How Grapes Ripen.

According to Comptes Rendus, St. Pierre and Magnien have arrived at the following conclusions in regard to the changes which grapes undergo while ripening. During the process they evolve carbonic acid in darkness as well as in light, when exposed to air or placed in an indifferent light. The amount of oxygen evolved in air is always in excess.of the oxygen taken up; this has been re-marked in the case of observations extending over a long space of time. Grapes can absorb or give off water according as they are placed in a moist or dry medium. As the change goes on the acids decrease in amounts, while the quantity of sugar increase. The acids and the glu-cose are carried to the grapes by the sap. Here the acids are slowly consumed, while the sugar increases in point of concentration, and at a still later stage the sugar itself is consumed,

Items for Feeding Dairy Cows.

A good butter cow ought not to cat less than from six to eight quarts of meal per day, but not clear corn meal. Bran is not worth much to make butter, but mixed with corn meal gives health and thrift.

The meal, if fed alone, passes directly into the "third stomach," without remastication. The water the cow drinks may increase the quantity of milk, but it will not produce butter.

Meal fed with hay, cut fine and wet

The Garrote.

The garrote is a Spanish mode of execution; it derives its name from garrote, a stick or cudgel; it is used exclusively in Spain and its colonies; originally, it consisted simply of placing a cord around the neck of a criminal, who was seated on a chair fixed to a post, and then twisting the cord by means of a stick, inserted between it and the back of the neck, till strangulation is produced. Subsequently a brass collar was used, containing a screw, which the executioner turned till the point of it entered the spinal column, where it unites with the brain, causing instantaneous death. It is thought the Spaniards adopted the garrote from the Moors, as, in its primitive form, it exactly resembles the punishment of the bowstring in use among Mohammedan na-

Franklin at Versailles.

It is said that Franklin's appearance at Versailles in a plain suit of drab cloth was. like so many other notable circumstances, accidental, his court suit not arriving in time, and the King sending to tell him to come as he was. Be this as it may, there seems to be evidence to show that he subsequently appeared in a black relvet embroidered coat, and a small sword, and the portraits taken of him in France paint to his dressing handsomely. One, by Greuze, represents him in a green silk dressing gown, edged with fur, and a light-colored satin waistcoat and frilled

A Luxurious Mode of Exercise. The skill of the inventor, it seems, has come to the relief of the wood-sawyer, and transformed the drudgery associated with this profession into a luxurious mode of exercise. The "swinging-saw," as described in the Scientific News, consists of an easy chair mounted upon a substantial framework, into which the happy operator seats himself, and by a swinging movement sets the saw in rapid When the trees are felled the position of the saw can be readily changed to serve the purpose of cutting off the

The president of the New York Elevated Railway company, Cyrus W. Field, makes a very extraordinary report of the condition of the rapid-transit pioneer in this city. Its track, as far as completed, is thirty miles long. Its trains carry nearly one hundred thousand passengers ind run on an average the enorm ous distance of twenty-seven thousand miles. The financial showing is still more favorable. On May 16, 1877, it had less than $10,000 in cash, and owed $278,000. Now it owes not a dollar, and has $768,-000 in bank. This road, its president says, pays a tax to the city of 5 per cent on its net annual income, which tax, he says, now amounts from $25,000 to $30,-000 a year, and this tax will increase with the increased income of the road.

"We know the public is down us," remarked the old milkman, as he dipped out the desired quart from one of his big cans, "but the public is mistaken. In the first place we put in a little wateronly a bit to make up for shrinkage. It goes to the big dealers, and they sin't a bit keerful when they get to pouring in water. They sell it to the grocers, and they put in chalk with one hand and water with the other, and they are thinking about politics and get in too much. The servant gal goes after the milk for the family and drinks a third of it, and she puts in water to make up the measure; and, you see, when the family gets it the taste ain't there, and they goes for us poor old men, who hasn't a dishonest hair in our heads. That's the way, mister—gee up, there, Homer." Poma Bai, the brilliant young Mahratta lady, whose profound knowledge of Sanscrit literature and facility in original composition have given her a recognized position among modern pandits, is now only 22 years old. She began to learn Sanscrit with her mother's help at the early age of 4 years. She has lately traveled, in company with a brother, throughout the length and breadth of the peninsula. At Calcutta she was welcomed by a party of Bengall and English ladies, to whom she exhibited her extraordinary power of improvisation in stokas, or verses composed in accordance with the elaborate rules of Sanscrit poetry. In a set speech, also in Sanscrit, she showed that neither seclusion of women nor early marriage existed in the early days of Hindoo history.

Wilhelmshaven, on the North Sea, is now the most extensive German naval establishment. New mercantile docks are now being made in connection with the war harbor, around which lie the naval vards and denots. Coast defences protect the town of Wilhelmshaven on the east and northeast. All the works are connected by telegraph with the central station. Along the coast are observatories, used for announcing the approach of hostile vessels, which may be blown up by torpedoes fired from the land at the moment vessels are over them, their exact position being indicated by means of instru-ments for measuring distances. Three detached forts give protection on the land

Edison's sisters tell a good story of Edison's boyhood: "He tried to set on eggs," she said. "What's that? How? What do you mean?" inquired the listener. "Why, he was about six, I should think, and he found out how the goose was sitting, and then saw what the surprising result was. One day we missed him, called, sent messengers, couldn't find him anywhere. By and by, don't you think, father found him curled up in a nest he had made in the barn and filled with goose eggs, and hen's eggs, actually sitting on the eggs and trying to hatch them."

People will grumble in this world. The privilege of growling, says the Boston Journal, is one esteemed by every American citizen. A good story is told of two friends. One was inclined to accept the inevitable and make the best of The other was a trouble borrower, nothing was just right with him. There was always a fly in his jar. They died and met above. A suggestive feature of the iron trade is the marked decline in the production of iron rails and a corresponding increase in the manufacture of rails made from Bessemer steel. Bessemer steel rails were first made in this country in 1867, and, since then, this industry has steadily risen, from an annual product of 2,650 tons to 432,169 tons for 1877. Since 1872, the yearly product of iron rails has fallen from: 905,930 tons to 332,540 tons. The production of Bessemer steel shows a healthy growth during recent years, the result for 1877 being 687,342 tons, against 160,108 tons in 1870.

A Welch preacher who like some other persons, was accustomed to use both the noun and pronoun, when one alone was necessary, after announcing on Sunday norning as his text, "Your adversary, the Devil goeth about as a roaring lion seek-ing whom he may devour," astonished his hearers by saying, "Brethren, I shall consider this subject under three heads, ist, who, the devil, he was; 2d, where, the devil, he was going and 3d, what, the devil, he was rearing about."

A duel has been fought in Algeria under singular conditions. M. Poivre, Presdent of the Council-General, challenged M. Feuillet, editor of the Zeramua, for libeling him in his paper. The editor agreed to fight if M. Poivre would sign a paper authorizing him to continue his attacks in case neither party should be hurt. This was done, and an exchange of bullets took place, without result, and now the Zeramma is in possession of a letter of license to abuse its aversary at pleas-

In the opinion of many well-informed Englishmen the political and commercial interests of Great Britain require the building of a railroad from the Mediterranean Sea to India, and touching the principal cities of Turkey in Asia, especially Diarbekir, Mosul, and Bagdad. No doubt Disraeli had this in view when he determined to secure the possession of Cyprus, which of itself is of no apparent advantage to Great Britain.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver. PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pres-side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low: and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

Dr. C. McLane's Liver Pills, in CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL. For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.
