A COMMON THEME.

There's not the least doubt, you'll succeed if you try to offer your goods in a dignified and stylish manner. It is not the least of your duties to keep your goods in a clean and neat condition.

With supplies so plenty don't linger to a stock; and while your profit line is in a stream; just go to the bottom of the matter, then speak for the credit of your goods and your store.

Don't listen to critics, who clamor for cheap goods and free from that olden error, when it is a long-remembered motto, though woven so long.

And howler how the robes of the great. You will hear it no doubt from the eagle's own lips, "Keep your goods in a clean and neat condition."

When the winter has been from the lip of the eagle, it is a long-remembered motto, though woven so long.

Less lively, less rare, than the creature complain of the author who writes out the poem divine—"The tremulous masses of soft-falling rain."

Not soon they grow weary of nature grow old, nor soon they grow weary of nature grow old, nor soon they grow weary of nature grow old.

From emerald to gold without stinting or prong, it hangs in the beauty of its author you see.

Then write your sentences, graceful, of course, and give as the latest that mirrors the sky; leave the critics their rag, it is a privileged thing.

And, without an old hobby to ride, they would die.

YUBA BILL AND JEFF.

The interruption of Jeff's "night-watch" was occasioned by an accident which prevented the progress of the Pioneer coach, which ought to have passed that point some time previously.

It was a very singular occurrence, and the stand-still in about four feet of rushing water, some 1,000 yards away from the inn.

There were only three passengers on board, and the driver, a gentleman named Mayfield, with his wife and daughter.

Jeff, on hastily springing from his bed and resuming his boots, found Mr. Mayfield and the driver of the inn, Yuba Bill, waiting for him.

Each in his own fashion, for assistance. The driver had drawn up the coach into a safe position amidst the waters, and had taken his team.

He and Mr. Mayfield had been requested to lend a hand in furling up the ladies. Mr. Mayfield's company on the occasion was a very singular one.

Yuba Bill—who, by the way, is a decided character, with something of the quaint and oracular Mr. Weller, senior, in him, combined with Yankee smartness.

A Window-Garden.

Those who appreciate the possession of a window-garden may find the following suggestions, by a writer in the Practical Farmer, useful in preparing it.

The window-garden, as a rule, is the very best to grow plants in, because in this manner they get the light all around them, thus causing them to grow symmetrical, for plants will instinctively grow to the light.

Before outdoor weather sets in, select the best window you have suitable for plant culture.

On a favorable southern exposure it is to be preferred; next to that, one looking east or west; but it is useless to attempt growing anything in a north window.

Go over every inch in the window-sash, and with strips of paper or putty stop every crack and crevice where Jack Frost is liable to make his entrance.

While it is of the utmost importance to keep the frost out, you must be equally careful to keep our plants in a moist atmosphere. Remember that the dry air of a sitting-room is particularly unfavorable to the growth of plants.

To growing plants, this moisture should be arranged in the form of a fine fine sprinkler.

I have one made of rubber, with a brass perforated nozzle, which is especially recommended for indoor gardening.

Another way to get the damp air so necessary to the welfare of plants is to set a shallow pan of water, which should be frequently renewed.

If you keep the temperature about 65 degrees by day, and 50 to 55 by night, you will be little troubled with green fly or red spider, but if your plants become infested, go to them at once.

Fumigation and washing are the means of prevention and cure.

Look over your plants every day, and if you find any insects, as they would rather get the better of you, give all the light and air you possibly can.

Most plants will luxuriate in the sunlight, but such red begonia can be arranged in the shade of some of the others.

There are such a large number of plants for winter flowering, I will only name such as anyone may succeed with.

Abundant produce large bell-shaped flowers. Boule de neige, white, dwarf habit. John Hopkins is a new yellow variety.

Beauties, with their pretty flowers and handsome foliage combined, make one of the most popular classes of plants.

Carnations are fine winter varieties. Peter of Ghent, a new white variety, is in my opinion the best of the class.

Germiums are abundant bloomers, and will grow for almost everybody.

Either the single or double varieties will do very well in a window-garden. Various, and like Oliver Twist, I want more.

Ivy may be grown in any part of the room, and the vines trained to wreath a piano, or in any way fancy may suggest.

The above are only a few of the plants suitable for a window garden. Hanging-baskets filled with trailing plants add to the adornment of a bay-window.

Do not attempt to grow all I have named; select such as are best suited to your windows, and my word for it you will regret starting a window-garden.

The Pause in Reading.

During the last ten years there has been a marked increase in the number of professional readers. The fact might suggest to an unobservant person that we are a nation of readers.

From whom the best have been called to defend the public ear. But the suggestion is not supported by the facts. In spite of schools of elocution and of common schools, the number of professional readers has increased.

It is not surprising, therefore, that in private life a person who can read so as to please and instruct a family group. Perhaps the following dialogue, translated from the French, may point out one cause of the reading.

A young man presented himself, one day, in the office of Mr. Samson, saying that he wished to take lessons in elocution, and the following conversation ensued.

How a Married Woman Goes to Sleep.

There is an article going the rounds entitled, "How Girls Go to Sleep." The manner in which they go to sleep can't hold a candle to the way a married woman goes to sleep.

Instead of thinking of what she should have attended to before going to bed, she thinks of it afterwards. While she is revolving these matters in her mind, and while snugly tucked up in bed, the old man, creating his legs in front of the fire and wondering how he will pay the next month's rent. Suddenly she says:

"James, did you lock the door?" "Which door?" says James.

"The cellar door," says she. "No," says James.

"Well, you'd better go down and look it up," says she.

"I'll do it," says James.

"Fasting People."

At intervals one reads of some wonderful man or woman who professes to live without food; and so clever is their management it is hardly possible to discern the fraud. There was the famous case of a "fasting" Englishwoman at the beginning of the present century. Her fame spread abroad and brought her crowds of visitors and a good income.

She had been a girl of her own family, and in her youth she had been a member of the English aristocracy. She had married a man of her own rank, and she had lived for three months without food and in the enjoyment of communion with angels.

Consider what Lee and Johnson would do if they were alive. THESE ARE THE SAME PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH THEY FOUGHT FOR FOUR YEARS. REMEMBER THE MEN WHO POURED THEIR LIFE BLOOD ON VIRGINIA'S SOIL, AND DO NOT ABANDON THEM NOW. REMEMBER THAT YOUR VOTE DEPENDS THE SUCCESS OF THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET—Wade Hampton, at the meeting in the interest of Democratic harmony in Virginia, at Staunton, July 26.

Mr. Tanner now has a chance to "gnaw it." His teeth all dropped out as an effect of his fast.

Americans voted 20 letters to the Russians 1, the Italians 5, Austrians 2, French 11 1/2, and Germans 12.

The Democratic party put on a mask in 1872. They have another in 1880. A little more gauzy this time than Mr. Greeley's.

Col. Bob Ingersoll doesn't believe in hell, but he does believe in making it hot for Democrats.

A man named Donaldson recently jumped from the Harlem bridge into the water, a distance of 116 feet. Unfortunately it did not kill him.

The tremendous receptions that have been tendered to Gen. Garfield during his late trip in the east, making the average Democrat feel suicidal.

Mr. Voter, the "solid south" is the revozier rebel confederacy, and don't you forget it. Ex-rebel ranks are solidly closed up for Hancock and English.

An armless soldier writes to the Cincinnati Gazette his reason for voting for Garfield: "It is fighting the very same enemy which was the cause of my losing my arm." A truthful saying.

Olle Bull, the Norwegian violin player, the greatest performer on that best of all musical instruments, died recently at his home in Bergen, at the age of 70 years.

English's record of poor men's mortgages foreclosed by him, given by the Cincinnati Commercial, is having a good effect in Indiana. English does not appear to appreciate the kindness of making it public, however.

One of the brilliant stars of the Democracy in the east, Charles Francis Adams, Jr., says "the prosperous condition of the country can be most surely maintained by continuing the Republicans in power." Therefore he will vote for Garfield and Arthur.

Things in the political world in Indiana are waxing hot. The voters of that State do not take any stock in the principles for which Lee and Stanton call Jackson fought four years, and will roll up a good sound Republican majority in that State in October.

The South is adjured to "think what Lee and Johnson would do were they alive." Would it not be as well for the North to think what Lincoln or Stanton would do were they alive, and stand by the principles they avowed when the solid South presents the same appearance in their time?

Landers, the man the Democrats of Indiana are running for Governor of that State, was one of the members of the legislature of that State during the war, who voted for the bill that contained the clause, "Not another dollar nor another man for the prosecution of the unholy war."

The Michigan Central telegraph offices all support by signifying passing trains, giving the engineer information as to how far ahead of him the next train is.

An enterprising Englishman has offered to bet $1,000 that Dr. Tanner cannot fast forty days and forty nights, and let him and his brother keep watch. There seems to be a fixed determination to starve that man to death. He doesn't accept.

United States four per cent. bonds are quoted and sold in London at 1.13. Charge that up to the Republican administration.

Over 30,000 Knights, belonging to 308 commanderies were in attendance at the triennial convocation in Chicago last week.

The New York Times says the Republicans will carry Maine by 7,000 majority, and General Grant places New York as one of those states likely to cast her electoral vote for General Garfield.

Since the resumption act passed into effect European gold has been coming to this country to settle balances of trade. Before that the gold went the other way to pay the same kind of account and interest on our bonds. The Democrats opposed the resumption act with all their force in Congress.

Congressman McLane (Democrat), at a speech in Rhode Island, said: "The traditional policy of the Democratic party is hard money." And they sought to prosecute their traditional policy by flooding the country with irredeemable money and repealing the resumption act. So much for Democratic consistency!

Wade Hampton is becoming ashamed of his blood and thunder rebel speech at Staunton, Virginia, and is attempting to deny that he made such remarks reported in his speech by publishing in the New York World a "certified copy" of his speech, but the scheme is entirely too thin for any use. In his certified copy he omits the most obnoxious part, but the rest of it was all right. The speech was reported verbatim by the Virginian, a paper at Staunton, at the time, and Mr. Hampton made no objection to any part of it until he had a chance to learn what the country thought of his sentiments, and that he had spoken too plain while talking in meeting.

General E. N. Bates, who was candidate for State Treasurer of Illinois on the Greenback ticket in 1878, has written a letter to Hon. A. M. Jones, Chairman of the Illinois State Central Republican Committee, giving his reasons why he will support Garfield and Arthur, which we commend to the Greenbackets of this vicinity. Read the letter and then remember the truths it contains:

DEAR SIR—I am in receipt of your note of the 13th, asking for an expression of my opinions on the subject of national affairs, as involved in the political canvass. Such expression shall be given as fully as I can.

As you are aware I was, in 1878, the nominee of the Greenback party of Illinois for the office of State Treasurer. Under like conditions of national finances and of national affairs, my political convictions would be now as they were then. But the conditions have changed. Then business depression covered the country like a pall. The paramount questions were, whether the laboring man should have employment and compensation; whether or not capital should be locked up in the vaults of mammoth corporations and money kings, beyond the control of the people; and whether the activity, and beyond the reach of the poor, piteously crying for bread. These questions ARE NO LONGER PARAMOUNT.

The varied industries of the country are now fully employed at remunerative rates, and prosperity gladdens the hearts of the workers.

In this campaign the vital question is not one of labor or capital, or the quality or quantity of the currency, but whether or not we are to have a national Government, which is not the men, but the principles, that govern during the great peril shall administer it. For three years I was in the Union army, and to the best of my ability aided in the defense of the national flag. For fifteen months I was a Union prisoner of war in Libby and other Southern prisons. Since the close of the war, I have, by voice and by my vote, co-operated with those whose purpose seemed to be to maintain the principles for which the war was fought, and to guard the rights of all the people as secured especially by the last three amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

I shall not knowingly co-operate with the principles or overthrow the rights guaranteed in those amendments.

Twenty years since the national Democratic party has been the defender of disunion, and the ally of disunionists. Its last Presidential representative, James Buchanan, denied the power of the General Government to DEFEND ITSELF AGAINST ARMED REBELLION.

A majority of its Senators and Representatives in Congress opposed the levying, arming, equipping, and subsidizing of the Federal troops for the national defense; opposed the issue of national currency; and opposed the maintenance of the national credit; opposed the abolition of slavery when its abolition became a needed measure of war; opposed the arming of the militia; and opposed the policy that would manifestly weaken the enemy and strengthen the Federal army. On the eve of one of the most important battles of the rebellion, its delegates, in national convention assembled declared that the war in defense of the Union had been four years of failure, and demanded a cessation of hostilities. At the close of the war it attempted through Andrew Johnson to place political power in the exclusive control of rebels. It opposed the final power of reconstruction which recognized blacks as citizens and voters, and it now pledges itself anew to the constitutional doctrines and teachings of the democratic party.

We are also told by some of their most trusted and prominent leaders that "the Democratic party is now the party of the South, and that Hancock and English are nominated and supported by a solid

The Berrien County Record: Buchanan, Michigan, Thursday, August 26, 1880.

South, or Garfield and Arthur, nominated and supported by liberty-loving, law-abiding Unionists North and South, will be elected and Hancock and Vice-President of the United States for the next four years. I have stated reasons, conclusive to my mind, why I cannot support the former. I need state only a few why I shall support the latter.

The Republican party has a record of 20 years in behalf of liberty and loyalty. It has shown itself the advocate and defender of free speech, free education, free labor, and free trade. It has exemplified its devotion to this line of policy by the selection of General James A. Garfield as its candidate for President. It is to the people of this country in 1880 what Lincoln was in 1860—an example of the possibilities open to every boy and to every man in this nation. Springing from poverty and obscurity, by his own labor and diligence, integrity and ability, he has raised himself to his present high position, and has demonstrated his fitness for the highest trusts of the office of Chief Magistrate, to which he has been nominated.

I believe that a continuation of the present unparalleled business prosperity of the country, the protection of the rights of all the people, and the stability of the National Union can only be secured by the election of the Republican party in this campaign. I therefore tender to this party, through you, whatever service, by pen or voice, or vote, I may be able to render from this hour to the close of this Presidential campaign. Truly yours,

ERASTUS N. BATES, The Hon. A. M. Jones, Chairman Illinois Republican State Central Committee.

ONE OF THE EFFECTS. The Democratic "Home Rulers" of Alabama and other southern states have for several years shown a determination to rule, regardless of the majority votes, and that they are apt to succeed and be left alone in their glory to fight it out among themselves is evident by the following call issued by the colored citizens of Montgomery county, Alabama, since the late election frauds in that state have become thoroughly known:

Comely: Our dissatisfaction exists throughout the whole country among the colored people as to the way they were treated at the late election, where they cast as solid Republican vote as ever before being united, without any dissension in their ranks, and they are at least cast as large a vote as in 1876, where the Republican majority in the county was 3,881—while it was changed this time to a Democratic majority of nearly 2,700, obtained by the Democratic party, who, by means of "troops at the polls," the arbitrary throwing out four beats with large Republican majorities, etc.

We, the undersigned, a committee of administration, have been formed to devise ways and means to assist our colored friends all over the country to leave the country if they cannot get their rights guaranteed to them by the constitution of this state and of the United States, and to assemble in mass meeting here, in the city of Montgomery, on the 24th of September, at 12 M. And to express in tones of indignation and protest our determination to insist on your rights, and if they are denied you to quietly leave and seek homes in a land where they will be cheerfully guaranteed to every man, irrespective of his color or political views.

We are satisfied, in our own minds, that the majority of the white people of this county, especially the planters, men who know that they cannot cultivate their lands, and who, without colored labor, are opposed to these stupendous frauds alluded to above, and would be willing to give us our political and civil rights, but we are sorry to say they are powerless, and in the hands of the few unscrupulous politicians who run rough shod over this country. A last chance is given to them and to us, and that will be the next presidential election in 1880. We, the undersigned, would like to stay and die in the land where the most of us were born and where the graves of our ancestors lie; but after we were made free men, we love our freedom and our rights more than we love our native land. We are unable to get them respected, and to be ourselves and children free men for all time to come. Don't send delegates, but come one, come all, to the mass meeting on the 24th of September, at 12 M.

CONFIDENTIAL X RECORDS. (which is in the State Va. Ky.)

The Corners here by consultation. Not do in any plain or loin, and consequently not be bothered with any repain, we have plenty of time to run our noses in the government, and to get the south its pre-eminence in the old times. Havin' niggers to do all our work, we could give our hull minds to poker, horse-racing and government, while the scampin' north and both sides of the Atlantic are busy with their and such other belittlin' pursuits. Then wuz haleyan days, and we perse, the Lord bein' wit, to heven back again.

The result of our consultation may be briefly stated. Wat we want is to wipe out all the remainin' sines in the late unpleasantness, and git back to the old harmony and accord by the years and with side effect, we will plant our battal' fields, to develop the good old brotherly feeling, and claspin our hands across the differences which unfortunately dividin' up, be wunst more we will be in the government, we will be in interests, all under one flag.

To do this, we count everything must be sot back eggskagly where it wuz. So long ez any vestiges of the late unpleasantness are visible, we wuz a war, and then our harts wuz free, and the ugly feelin' will come up.

This is about the terms the Corners will be compelled to demand:

1. That there may be no unpleasant remembrances of the great struggle left, Afrikin slavery shal be re-established, with the chance given the south to get her slaves, and to look in the Chinese and poor whites, wuz wat we intended afore the war.

2. To placate the south, which hez his feelins hurt, the general government shal pay for all the rights liberated wuz can't be found, with a suitable compensash for the time in wuz those emancipated by the feend Lin.

3. Er a proper thing to attach the south to the Yoonyny and restore proper feelin, the general government shood to wunst pay all losses sustainid by the south durin' the war no matter what the cause, and to give the Corners the land durin' the claims wuz may be presented.

4. That no vestige uv bitternis may remane—that the last rood may be dug out—penshuns shood be payd by the Corners to the veterans, and to the soldiers in the servis by the confederacy, dat em back to the close uv the war, the same as federal soldiers.

5. That the south may feel a proper interest in the government, we will uvverget a very extensive system uv internal improvements in the south. To make it perfectly shure this system must incloud the slack-watrin wuz a ceshun erik, the buildin' up a gorgeous custom-house and postoffs at the Cross Rodes, with such other improvements ez from time to time we may decide we want.

To clinch the continued allegiance uv the south, the payments shood be made in government bonds bearin' interest at the rate uv eight per cent., to be known ez "the consiliashen series," with makes it shoor that the south wuz never secede fill they hev spent their harts any how. It wuz to prevent both sechesn ez well ez repositiow, and would go a great ways toward holden the south to the old flag. No southerner woud think uv seceshin with a government bond in his pokkit.

These are the main pins. Uv course it would be natrally understood that the democracy shood hev a clean majoriy in both houses of congress, and that the President, of he is northern man shal be in sympathy with the oppressed south, and shal agree to sign without question any bill wich congris shal pass.

We shal not insist that the name uv the government shal be changed to that uv the "Confedrit States," for we don't want to offend our brethern uv the north wich will be payin interest on their bonds.

The Corners make no appeal to the good feelin uv the north, but only to their selfishness. Ef the north wants to consolidate us, now is the chance. Ef the north wants peace and harmony it hev a golden opportunity. We admit we wuz beet in war, and hev bin beet in votin, but if we git back all that we lost by the war, with our harts to make up for our feelins bin hurt, we forge ever be a forgivin' race, and magnanimus ez well. Wat we want is peace.

Will the south embrace this opportunity, by seceshin Hancock, or will it petfoate the old feelin by makin' Garfield President?

That is the question wuz every northern man to answer for hisself.

We uv the south shal deposit our votes for Hancock and Peace, and shal shoot thro the kidneys every man in the Southern States wich is not in accord with us. We must hev peace.

Di-covers by Accident. The fact that many of the most valuable discoveries have been the result of chance rather than of design or contemplation, is again illustrated in DAY'S KIDNEY PAIN.

A Queer Nod. Many people think it cheaper to buy 25 cent sizes of a proprietary medicine. But they make a mistake. For instance, Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry costs 10 cents a bottle. A quantity of ordinary 25 cent conglom. Besides it takes a less quantity of Wistar's Balsam to cure a cold. A single dose is often sufficient. For deep seated coughs and Consumption it has been tried to be the best and quickest cure ever discovered.

What a Prominent Druggist of St. Paul. MINN. WRITE.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 12, 1880. Dr. Bosanko Medicine Co., Piquette, O.

Gentlemen—Please send me, per express, four dozen Ypsilanti, 75c. Have said the Ypsilanti, 75c. of December 6, and can find your testimonials from our most prominent and influential citizens, if you desire them. Very respectfully yours, R. A. BECKER.

Don't Make a Mistake. Why will you use salves and lotions, and other outward applications for cure of skin diseases? The relief thus obtained can only be temporary. Why not strike at the root of all skin diseases by getting your blood and liver in a healthy, vigorous condition, and thus make it impossible for you to get and throughly by the use of Dr. Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla.

Piles of 10 Years Standing Cured. GEORGIA, Vt., Sept. 16. I am glad to say a word that may encourage any person that may be suffering as I did for twelve years from Piles, or Hemorrhoids, or both. After suffering as you have, these have been thus afflicted can realize, and trying various remedies prescribed by regular physicians, I was persuaded to buy four packages of Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, and after using only one and a half packages I was cured. I have not since felt the need of more, but for the balance of it would not part with it, and I hope that you will do as I supposed there would be any uncertainty of getting more.

Old, Tried, and True. Remember Dr. Guyssot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla is not a new untried compound. It has stood the test of forty years' use, and has proven itself to be the best vegetable compound ever discovered for curing scrofula, syphilis, skin diseases, blood diseases, liver complaints, urinary troubles, etc.

An Old Lady's Gratitude. A lady 70 years of age expressed great gratitude for the benefit she has derived from Warner's Safe Bitters, and declares that it has cured her of a certain specific for dyspepsia.

Wicked for Clergy men. Rev. —, Washington, D. C., writes: "I believe it to be all wrong and even wicked for clergymen or other public men to be led into giving testimonials to quack doctors or vile trusts of the kind, and to give their names and reputations to such infamous and unscrupulous agents to sell their worthless remedies used in daily, that all physicians use and trust in daily, we should freely commend it. I therefore cheerfully commend it to you, and I trust that you will do as I have done, and have no equal for family use. I will not be wronged."—New York Baptist Weekly.

No Good Preaching. No man can do a good job of work, preach a good sermon, try a law suit or do any other thing, unless he is in good health. An article which he feels miserable and dull, with sluggish brain and unsteady nerves, and none should make the attempt in such a condition when it can be seen that he is nearly dead. THE case of Harvey Juday vs. William Smith for adultery came before Justice Dick for examination Saturday. Smith was bound over for trial in the October term of their circuit court. On Monday night Smith took advantage of the leniency of the officers in allowing him to go alone to procure bail and took "French leave" of these parts. New Troy, Aug. 23, 1880. Mr. EDITOR:—The Republicans of New Troy and vicinity met last Saturday evening at Pierce's hall in pursuance to an invitation extended to them by the Garfield and Arthur club of Weesaw, to hear speeches by George S. Bridgeman and Dr. Barringer of Bridgeman, in support of Republican principles and candidates, but on calling the meeting to order it was announced by the President of the club that owing to a misunderstanding between different persons, the Greenback party had also obtained speakers for the evening, but could procure no room in which to hold their meeting, and in order to do as we wish to be done by, the time would be equally divided between the four speakers present.

Mr. Kelley came and put it in his pocket. An indebted Texan—presumably a runaway slave—was first seized by the boy when McCullough was acting Othello and P. B. Wardle Jago, became so incensed by the deed that he produced his pistol and declared that he would "shoot the villain." "He was a villain," said the Texan, "and if he don't stop abusing that woman Amelia, I'll shoot him anyhow."

Who Doubts It? Once upon a time there lived a man whose appetite was voracious. He ate all ways eating, and yet could never get fat. He was the thinnest and most miserable of creatures to look at. He always declared that he had something alive in his stomach, and a king physician, learned in doctoring, confirmed his opinion, and prescribed a most ingenious plan to dislodge the enemy—a water-went, which he took up in a meadow, where a lizard had drunk his fill, and was coming back to return down the man's throat into his stomach. He had nearly closed in doing so, when the patient awoke, and in his enemy by the tail, killed him on the spot.

How They Vote in Appenzel. Near to Sargans the Rhine becomes the dividing line between the Austrian Tyrol and East Switzerland. The Swiss canton of Appenzel—"the little land of Appenzel"—with its pastoral people and its queer customs, runs in here to get a peep at the passing river. These Appenzelers are very different people, even for democratic Switzerland. It is not only that every man has a voice in the law-making that is democratic, but it is also in the way in which they vote, in which will is expressed. There was a time when people chose their Kings by meeting en masse on a field and giving the tallest man the crown. Something very similar is practiced even in Little Appenzel. Every May-day the whole voting population of the canton meet, and armed with swords and umbrellas, and led by a band of music, march out to a meadow, where the affairs of state and the election of officers are settled in short time by the sovereign people. The women of Appenzel occasionally take an active part in the uniform of state, gallantly fight to the ladies the best standing-room on the green. A little platform for the town grandees is elevated by the side of the procession hall and listens to a prayer. Then follow the affairs of state, decided simply by a show of hands. Taxes are voted, thus laid out in the next year. In a few hours Appenzel's outdoor Parliament is finished, and the people go to their homes and lay their swords and flags away to rest for another year. In the year 1850, Appenzel's Parliament for 500 years, Harper's Magazine.
