Abstract of Titles.

A N abstract of title is a brief statement of all the conveyances, liens and tax sales of record affecting the title to a lot or tract of land. A set of Abstract Books shows the conveyances on every lot of land in a county, and to be of value must be thoroughly made and MINUTELY ACOURATE. The making of such an abstractise a work requiring the greatest care and patience in searching, and the closest scrutiny of all matters relating to the same.

is owned and conducted by Messrs. DIX & WIL-KINSON, with office in the County Building at

MR. DIX has been prominently and credibly before this community in connection with real estate matters for more than sixteen years, and MR. WILKINSON has been associated with him seven years. During this time nothing has been spared to make the Berrien County Abstract Office all that an abstract office should be, and the reputation it now enjoys as trustworthy authority in all matters touching realty interests, is sufficient proof of its success.

Careful buyers no longer accept as satisfactory the "IT'S ALL RIGHT" of the would-be seller, for experience teaches that nothing is easier than to be mistaken, and without an abstract one cannot know what errors have been made, and responsible sellers are equally careful, for one cannot safely warrant a title without a knowledge of its distory.

While thanking its patrons for past favors, and soliciting their future orders, the office begs to in vite correspondence with owners of lots and farms who have never looked up their titles. Defects readily cured now may be past healing when one wants to sell. All correspondence will receive prompt and courteous attention.

When writing about property, please give correct description and name of present owner.

Principal and Interest.

"Oh, mother, mother, I am so tired!" "Cheer up, my child, we have not very far to go. Come closer; let me brush the dew from your curls. Now take my hand."

But the child hung back, sobbing with weariness and exhaustion, and the pale young mother, bending over her in the vain attempt to soothe the hysterical excitement, did not hear the rumble of advancing wheels until they passed close to her, and a rough, hearty voice exclaimed: "What ails the little girl? Ain't sick, is she?" Mary Ellsworth had never seen Farmer Raynesford before; yet the moment her eyes rested on his wrinkled. sun-burned face, with the shaggy brows overshadowing kind eves, she felt that he was a friend, and made answer

"Not sick, sir, but very tired. We have walked a long way." "Got much farther to go?" asked the farmer, tickling the horse's ear with the end of his whip. "To Breckton."

Mr. Raynesford gave a low whistle. "That's four miles off, and the little gal is pretty nigh used up already." "I know it," said the woman, with a sigh, "but I have no money to hire a lodging nearer. In Breckton I hope to obtain work in the factory." Farmer Raynesford gave the seat of in astonishment. "I won't hear to no such thing!" said he, energetically. "Why, that child can't go twenty rods farther! Here, get in along with me. sorest strait. It was an odd-shaped old farm-house gray with the storms of nearly half a century, with a broad door in one end overhung by giant lilac bushes, and a kitchen, where even in the bloomy month of June's great fire roared up the wide-throated chimney, and shining rows of tins winked and glittered at every upward leap of the flames. Mr. Raynesford jumped out of the wagon, threw the reins over a post;

"Look here, Hannah," said he to a tall, angular-looking female who emerged from a pantry near by, her face nearly or quite as sour as the saucer of pickles she was carrying. "Jest set a couple more plates on the table, will you? I've brought home a woman and a little gal I found a piece below, e'en almost tired to death. "Well, go on your own gait, Job

Raynesford," responded his wife, tart-"Only mark my words, if you don't end your days in the poor house, 'twont be through no fault o' yourn!" She shut the pantry door with a bang that made all the jelly cups and milk pans rattle, while Job, with an odd grimace, went out to help his guests to alight. "Don't mind my old woman," said he, apologetically, as Mrs. Ellsworth sprang to the ground. "She's kind o' sharp spoken, but she means well after all. We ain't all just alike in our no-

The years flitted by, sprinkling the hairs crept in among the raven locks of Farmer Raynesford, the care-worn wrinkles began to gather around his mouth and brow. Alas! those swift-footed years brought troubles innufaced than ever. "Yes," said she, slowly, "and perhaps you don't remember that it was just twenty years ago to-day that you threw ten dollars away on that woman and man, "but that I've done a good many things I've been sorry for-we ain't none of us perfect, you know, wifebut that is not one of them. No, never for a minute repented being kind to the widow and fatherless." Hannah shrugged her shoulders, but made no reply.

"Didn't you say you were going up to see the rich lawyer about the five thousand dollars to-day?" she asked presently. "Yes, but I don't suppose it'll be much use. If he'd wait a little I'd do over our heads, however; they tell me he's a hard man. I mean to explain to him just how the matter stands—" "I told you how it would be long ago!" ejaculated Hannah, unable to restrain her vexation. "What on earth ever possessed you to sign for Jesse Fairweather?" "I s'posed he was an honest man, and I wouldn't see an old friend wronged." "Fiddlesticks!" exclaimed Mrs.

Raynesford. "That's just your calculation, Job! There—Zeke has brought the wagon; do start off or you'll be too late for the York train."

casements of Mr. Everleigh's gothic library. The room was decorated with appurtenances of wealth and taste. Velvet chairs, with tall backs of daintily carved rosewood, were scattered here and there; marble vases occupied niches beside the doorway, and the rarest pictures hung on the paneled and gilded wall. But the prettiest object of all-the one which the rich lawyer oftenest raised his eyes from the writing to contemplate with an involuntary smile of pride and affectionwas a lovely woman in a white cashmere morning robe, trimmed with velvet, who stood opposite arranging flowers in a bouquet. She wore a spray of

He rose and drew her caressingly to-"My dearest, you are more precious to me than the whole world besides!" She let her head rest for a moment on his shoulder, and when she raised it there was a tear on her eyelashes. "Oh, Walter, if mamma could only see how happy we are!" There was a knock at the door. Mrs. Everleigh slipped from her husband's arm with the prettiest blush in the world, and was very busy with her flowers when the rich lawyer's "right hand man" put his grizzled head into the room.

"The old man wants to see you about that Fairweather business." "Show him in. Don't look so disappointed, love," he said, as the grizzled head disappeared. "I shall not be detained three minutes, and the horses are at the door."

Mary Everleigh never troubled her pretty little head about business matters, so she never looked up as the halting sound of old Mr. Raynesford's crutch echoed on the carpet. But the instant he spoke she started as if an arrow had smitten her, and her slender hands clasped together, listening as intently as though her life depended on hearing every word. The old man was pleading and sorrowful—her husband politely inflexible. At length Job

"Walter, come here one minute—I want to speak to you." He obeyed, somewhat surprised; she drew him into a deep recess of stained glass window, and standing there with the rosy and amber shadows playing about her lovely brow, like some fair pictured saint, she told him how, twenty years ago, a wearied child and its mother were fed and sheltered by a kind-hearted stranger; how he had given them money and kind wishes, when they were utterly alone and desolate in the wide world. "But, my love, what has all this to do with my business matters?"

"Much, Walter! I am that little child!" "You, my dearest?" "I, my husband, and the noble man who, I am persuaded, saved my life

"Mary, you must surely be mistaken." "I cannot be mistaken, Walter. I should know him among a thousand. You said you loved me this morning now grant me one little boon!" "What is it, dearest?" "Give me that note he spoke of."

Mr. Everleigh silently went to a small ebony cabinet, unlocked it, and drew out a folded paper, which he placed in her hands. She glided up to the old man, who had been gazing out of a window in a sort of reverie, and

Every day they subjected is to a temperature nearly high enough without making a discovery which would have lifted them out of the Stone Age into the Bronze Age, and perhaps enabled them to survive the struggle in which they perished. They must have been very numerous, and have reached the point of development where they were

Isle Royale is ten miles from the nearest land, and is incapable of producing food, so that all supplies except fish must have been brought from some distant point. Their excavations could of course never go below the point at which water would accumulate. Their hammers, frequently to the number of several thousand, are found in heaps where they were evidently placed at the end of the season. As no graves or evidences of habitations are found, we hardly doubt that the ancient miners lived south of the great lakes, and made yearly journeyings with fleets of canoes to the copper mines. The aggregate amount of the metal which they carried off must have been very great, and it has, I believe, been generally thought that the copper implements of the ancient Mexicans came from this source. M. Charney in a recent number of the North

Not far away another party had cut down a dead cedar to make props for their tunnel. As they were putting the log in position, from its center dropped a small but perfectly formed stone hammer which had never been used. It was made from a stone found, I believe, only on the north shore of the hundred and fifty years old; but as cedar is almost indestructable in this climate, it may have been dead several years. The axman said that he had found several hammers in the center of cedars. It would seem barely possible that this hammar had been placed in a cleft of a tree, when it was a sapling, that the wood might grow around the groove serve as a handle. At all events, this one, which I have, was certainly placed where it was-about thirty inches from the ground - by human hands, undoubtedly by the ancient marry? That is an interesting question, the answer to which depends on several circumstances. For instance several circumstances. For instance, no girl should wed until she gets a husband worth having, no matter how old she may be before then. It is better for her to live single all her life than to have her heart broken by a dissolute man. Again, no maiden should plight her troth at the altar until she has made herself fit to be a write her meatering the next of conduct wife by mastering the art of conducting a home. Thirdly, no damsel should deck herself with orange blossoms, if neither she nor her suitor has the means of living, for while love in a cottage is very sweet romance, the old saying that "When poverty comes in at the door, love flies out of the wirdow," is often verified.

But, these considerations accepted,

At what age should young women

how old should a young woman be be-fore entering wedlock? Of course, in this matter, no rule can be laid down, to which exceptions should not be allowed, for some girls are sooner adapted for matrimoney than others. Gererally, all of them are in too big a hurry to change their names. Children in their teens have their beaux, and too many of them get yoked for life before they have sense enough to know what they are doing. They read in stories of the happy ending of heroines' trials, and they think that when they too get married all their troubles will end, and their days will pass in peace and felicity forevermore. They marry in haste and repent at leasure. They are too young. Even when their husbands are kind men and true Christians, even when they have become accomplished house-keepers, and even when Providence bestows on them a sufficient income, they speedily ascertain that they entered the wedlock state too prematurely. They break down. They grow delicate They become nervous, fretful, miserable, and are old and sickly before they are thirty-five, if they live so long and do not sink into

The church favors early marriages, but it does not want to celebrate the nuptials of children, and damsels from sixteen to twenty are only children. The best age, then, for a young woman to marry is from twenty-one to twenty-five. Then she understands what she is about, she has had time to prepare herself for the duties of a wife and mother, and she has the physical strength to fulfil her obligations. Having wisdom and health, she makes home happy, and should God bless her

The true wife not only has the confidence of her husband, but the affairs of her especial care flourish like a garden in the heighth of summer; all things beautiful spring from her touch, and he enjoys the blessing of her tact and taste without fully realizing how it comes. She loves the praise of her husband which should not be stinted, and she is desirous to share his life work: and his confidence and esteem is all the reward she asks. She will never overtax his income, for she knows how much it is; and her share of it is always expended, and although she may sometimes long for an increase of worldly goods, she never reproaches him when he is dilligent and does his best to maintain his family in ease and comfort.—Ladies' Floral Cabinet. An Arboricultural Curiosity.

There is a curiosity on lower Oglethorpe street that has attracted considerable attention from the residents of that section. It is a china tree that grew up very tall. Several years ago the top was taken off, leaving the main trunk of the tree about twenty feet high. On the top it has become somewhat decayed, but is making up for lost life by supporting a young forest. There are several different shrubs growing out from it, among others an evergreen three or four feet in height. a blackberry bush which has put on leaves and flowers, and a water oak which is about two inches in circumference. We are told that there are several other trees of the kind in that

Cats to Hunt Rabbits. The necessity of keeping down the rabbits which are eating up the colony of New Zealand has led to a demand for cats for rabbiting. Professional rabbiters, who are paid a price ranging from 1s to 3s for each dozen skins, according to their state, have been employing cats to aid them in the capture, and the venture has been so successful that in some parts good rabbiting cats can command half a crown each. The signs of the times are that the best thing this country can do for itself just now is to stop the coinage of silver dollars before all of the gold is driven out of the treasury by it.

The report of a coalition between the Democratic and Greenback parties does not strike General Weaver very favorably, and he says nothing of the kind will take place.

A number of State papers are trotting out Ex-Governor Austin Blair for Senatorial honors. Mr. Ferry appears to suit the greatest part of the State very well.

The late Lord Cavendish's father. the Duke of Devonshire, has an estate of 193,000 acres, scattered through 14 counties. It is such estates as this, owned by residents of London, that is the curse of Ireland.

An extensive fire occurred in Racine. Wisconsin, last Friday night, the wind blowing a perfect hurricane from the lake at the time. Aid was sent from Milwaukee and from Chicago. The loss will aggregate nearly $3,000,000.

With perhaps one exception the Republican press of this district is in favor of the return of Hon. J. C. Burrows to represent this district in congress. He has made a good representative and there appears no good reason for making a change until there is a place vacant where he can be more useful, which does not appear now.

Here is an example for you. Senator Fair says the Chinese on the Pacific slope send home from $40,000,000 to $45,000,000 annually. There are 100,000, making an average of $400 to $450 for each Chinaman, and they are accused of degrading labor by working for 50 to 60 cents per day. The query is how a Chinaman can live and save these amounts on the wages received.

taken pains to compile a bill of particulars for the Grand Traverse Herald. It contains an outline of the business done by its favorite candidate for Senator Ferry's place. Less than one page of the Congressional Record would contain his whole session work. The Herald has probably seen the "bill of particulars" ere this.

Hon. J. C. Burrows recently made an excellent speech in Congress on the tariff question, favoring a tariff commission. He kept the house in a roar of laughter, while showing up the Democratic inconsistencies on this question, by quoting the speeches of their prominent men made on the floor of the House before the last campaign, and the remark of General Hancock, that "The question is solely a local one. It arose in my town once."

The strike at Muskegon is assuming a political turn, some of the desperate ones seeking office by the mangement of the mob. All such should be forever defeated. It is the acknowledged right of any American citizen to work or not upon terms offered by his employer, but he must not interfere with any other man who is willing to take his place, and any man who attempts to ride into office, or any other position, by such interference should be forever kept in the back ground. The free institutions of this country are in danger when such principles can be made

On Saturday, the wildest excitement was created by the murder, in broad daylight, of Lord Frederick Cavendish. the new secretary for Ireland, and Under Secretary Burke, in Phoenix Park, Dublin, by four roughs, who rode to where they were, in a car, alighted, and attacked the gentlemen with stilettos. A number of people were in the park at the time, but not near enough to render any assistance. The assassins have not been detected, but the murder is laid to Fenianism. This is an act that will not have a tendency to improve matters between the Irish people and English Government.

The New York World has a Washington correspondent who is truly a financial solon. He has a long special in the issue of May 5, in which he makes an attempt to berate the administration for gross mismanagement of the country's treasure, because the national debt is being paid too fast. The people can't stand such enormous taxation as this rapid payment of the debt must certainly indicate, and the country must certainly go to ruin unless a halt is called at once. Hear some of mismanagement of the financial affairs of the country. It is boasted that the largest reduction hitherto made in one year in the public debt was in 1867, when the reduction was $128,000,000, but that during the last ten months the reduction of the public debt has exceeded this vast sum by $1,000,000. It is proudly claimed, as though this were a fiscal virtue, that the reduction for the current year leads all preceding years and is likely to reach $145,-000,000. The reduction for April was $14,415,824, and after this huge outlay the available cash balance in the Treasury is $142,334,183. These figures should be cause for shame rather than exultation. They indicate a Federal taxation so excessive as to amount to robbery. The most pernicious and alarming feature of our current fiscal man-

The captain of a vessel bound from the Mauritius to Tasmania last November, attributes her riding out a terrific storm entirely to oil. Saturated swabs, with weights attached to keep them in position, were cast over every two hours, and mountainous waves meeting the oil glided off, leaving merely a heavy swell. The calming effect of oil is thoroughly estab-

At Magnolia, Miss., a bear went io the house of Eli Crawford, and, walking in at the open door, took a twoyear-old baby and started off with it. The other children and the dog made such lively protest that he dropped the prize, but just as he left the door pick ed up another which he also lost by the lack of a little backbone.

"Do you think, mamma," said a little one, "that Uncle Reuben is a good man?" "Why, my child, he is the best of all my brothers, and an excellent man." "And will he go to heaven?" "I think so, my child. Why do you ask?" "Oh, nothing much," replied the child, waking from a cort of reverse "I was thinking what a sort of reverie, "I was thinking what a homely angel he'd make, that's all."

But few of the imperial scions of Europe can boast the great and grand parentage which a Salem, N. J., boy enjoys. He has still living, two grand mothers, three great-grandmothers, great-great-grandmother, one grandfather, one great-grandfather, and one great-great-grandfather. A man went into his cow stall the other day and by mistake mixed her up a nice mash in a box of sawdust instead of bran. The cow, merely supposing that hard times had come, and were all going to economize, meekly ate her supper, and that man never discovered his mistake until the next morning, when he milked the cow and she gave down half a gallon of turpentine, a quart of shoe pegs and a burdle of lath. The New York Times calls for a decided and definite fight against the liquor dealers everywhere, when they band together to nullify the laws. It says they get into politics and exercise an influence altogether out of proportion to their importance as citizens, and that this influence is far from beneficial either to politics or society. An unknown man was found drowned at Baltimore, and on preparing him for burial it was discovered that he was pictorially tattooed. His breast had a representation of the crucifixion, with a Virgin Mary on each side, and churches in the distance. His arms had a goddess of liberty, an elephant, a crucifix, a lion, a mermaid holding an anchor and chain, and there were other devices.

A Connecticut correspondent of the New York Herald writes: Over three years ago articles appeared in the Bos-Kalamazoo people used 19,672,688 ton Journal and several other papers, advising the working of horses without shoes, and at the same time giving the experience of several persons who had used them without shoes with complete success. I was so impressed with the statement and the success of the experiments that I was induced to The Adrian Common Council have have the shoes of one of my horses taken off. I turned him to grass a month and then put him to work, lightly at first, and I must confess, with fear and trembling; but after a trial I was so pleased with the result that I took the shoes off my other two horses and have worked them without shoes ever since, now about three years. I find they work better, are more sure-footed, and far less liable to lameness than when shod, and I am well satisfied that horses' feet as nature made them are all sufficient for ordinarv work, and, I believe, for extraordinary work. After my long experience I should now as soon think of going to a farrier myself to be shod as to send my horses for that purpose.

A Timely Book.

There is no subject so prominently pefore the American people at the present time as that of Mormonism. It is the topic of the hour. The newspapers and magazines are filled with it, the ministers preach about it and it is the topic of private conversation. The last' article of the late Dr. Bacon was "The Utah Problem" and was left unfinished with the question "What are you going to do about it?" Most people think they know all about it, but even the best informed after perusing the pages of the new book, "The Women of Mormonism" have to confess to feelings of astonishment at the iniquities there portrayed, and to admit that the half had not been told. Miss Frances E. Willard, in the Introduction to the book says: "I have read its pages with thoughts too deep for tears. Some sulphur shrouded planet may have a vocabulary fiendish enough to fitly characterize what they but mere English is only the vocabulary of a prating parrot in presence of such pathos and such woe." "The Women of Mormonism, or the Story of Polygamy Told by the Victims Themselves," is an authentic work. It is edited by a lady of Salt Lake City, Utah, who has long been one of the Anti-Polygamy cause. She relates the stories of the "victims" almost in their own words. The persons who made the statements, many of whom are still in the Mormon church and see no way out, were willing to make affidavits to the truthfulness of their accounts. Rev. Moses Smith, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, Detroit, Mich., writes: "I read the manuscript pages with an interest which at times rose to astonishment and indignation. This book I am sure will be found to be the right thing, in the right place, at the right time and for the right source. Every pastor in the land may recommend the volume before he sees it, and a million copies ought to be sold in one vear.'

This work is to make a great stir in the country; every one who hears of it wants to read it. It is sold only by subscription so as to have it circulated as widely as possible. To places where no agent can be secured the work will be sent by mail on receipt of the price, $2.

The enterprising agent who secures choice territory will be fortunate. We understand the publisher desires good agents in this county. Full particulars can be obtained by addressing C G. G. Paine, Detroit, Mich. Mrs. L. Haggérty is agent for this place.

Force That is Wasted in Russia. The revolutionary spirit in Russia is not merely the product of intellectual convictions; it comes rather from the unrest of those whose quickened intelligence can find no proper exercise, no satisfaction for itself, in the form of life offered to it. Outside the machine of government in Russia there is no career open to satisfy the wants which education has brought with it. Personal liberty is interfered with to a most dangerous extent. The provocation is felt at a thousand points, and is resented with an evergrowing bitterness. Trade is cramped by the restrictions under which t must be conducted. The demand which the professions make upon the services of the educated classes is not mearly large enough to meet the supply.

Men are thus driven into opposition to an system which gives them offense and others nothing to account them. others nothing to compensate them for it. It is not a constitution of which Russia is in need. She is not ready for this and could scarcely even ask for it, with any sense of the meaning which the term would bear. Her chief want is employment for her educated classes. Just as, and get prices.

under the empire, work had to be found for the Paris mob, as in Russia work must be found for the hand of diappointed students who are hatching con-spiracies and troubling the world around them very much because they can find no other business to occupy them. The process of mining and counter-mining, of revolution and repression, which is going on just now, stands for a needless waste of force on both sides. The ener gies which are employed upon it could have some other direction given them at much less cost. The first thing the Government has to do is to throw overboard the fear of being thought afraid. It can set itself with good hope to devise a cure for evils which are by no means insuperable, but which are increased and intensified to a really dangerous extent by the mixed policy of repression and neglect which is reported to us as now in Substitutes for Lumber in Building.

vogue.—London Times.

As an indication of the further inroads that other material than lumber is likely to make in building operations, an exchange says that, in view of the many destructive fires among domestic dwellings, we wonder that the use of light iron joists and fire-proof floors is not more extensive than at present. Half the danger and destruction resulting from fire in some domestic dwellings would be avoided by the use of such floors. It is generally the case that fires are first discovered when localized by a single room, and it is only the rapid destruction of the whole of the interior of a dwelling house that causes the serious loss which we at present take as a matter of course. We think that in a few years to come the entire destruction of a dwelling because one room has caught fire will be thought as outrageous as the destruction of a whole row of houses from a conflagration in one would be thought at present. A fire may very easily be starved out by want of com bustible material, a great deal easier than it can be extinguished by water when wood or other combustible material has once caught. In the localization of a fire in the room in which it occurred would lie the best protection to life and property against fire. It is not as if such protective means need require excessive outlay. A floor of iron joists and non-inflammable material can be laid, we believe, almost as cheap as the present wooden floors. To complete isolation of each room, the doors may be made, at no increase of present cost, of wood so impregnated with chemicals that it is no longer inflammable. These improvements will surely come in time; like all others, they may be foretold long before the public eventually receives the benefit of them .- North western Lumberman.

Buchanan Windmill. Mackerel, No 1, per pound, selling White Fish,per pound, selling Potatoes, new. The Simplest and Best.

Is strictly first-class in all respects; perfectly automatic in its action during storms. Has the best regulating device ever used. Material and workmanship unexcelled. Our new method of fastening the sails in the wheel is decidedly superior to the old way, as they cannot be blown out, nor will they decay where they contact with the rims. By this method the complete circle is filled, which adds to the power as well as to the beauty of the mill. Our mill is sold entirely upon its merits, and the purchaser assumes no risk whatever, as we guarantee satisfaction or no sale. We are prepared to meet all competition, and will not be undersold. We cordially invite an examination of the "Buchanan" mill, as we know that this will convince every one of its superiority.

THE sink hole on the C. W. & M Extention, near Benton Harbor, refuses to be filled. The last time it went down a team went with it, and came near staying. DR. E. W. ROE AND LADY, of Braceville. Ill., came to Buchanan Friday for a short visit with their parents, He reports having a good practice in his new home. A NUMBER of old side walks on Front street have been torn up, and will soon be replaced by new ones of the black concrete variety. There were more wooden ones in a worse condition that were not torn up. FROM all parts of the fruit-growing portion of this State come reports that the prospects for a large crop of fruit, this year, is good, not withstanding the quite severe frosts during the month of April. THE hotel was not closed, as was expected by the citizens of this place would be the case Saturday night, and the weary traveler still finds rest and refreshment at the Dunbar House as of yore.

DIED.—Mr. Jacob Weaver, a resident ot this township for over forty years, died at his home last Friday May 5, after a sickness of about two weeks. Age 6814 years. Mr. Weaver was an exemplary citizen, and leaves a large circle of friends.

What was supposed to be the wrecking train went through this place Sunday morning and returned east in the evening. There was no wreck, but it was the steam derrick going to Michigan City to be turned around.

AT the meeting of the St. Joseph common council May 3, the bonds of nine saloon keepers were accepted. Part of the bondsmen are saloon keepers, and one is bondsman of three different concerns. An old deaf and dumb lady was run over by a freight train on the Michigan central road about one mile east of Niles yesterday afternoon and instantly killed. Her body was mangled in a horrible manner.

THE buffalo robe mentioned last week as having been exchanged with Joseph Henderson for his new one, on the day of the show in this place, was stolen from Ndman Bolster, of Rolling Prairie, Ind., and by the assistance of Constable Evans, was returned to him. Mr. Henderson is still wondering who has got his robe.

THERE are one or two alleys in this town that stink bad enough to knock down a buzzard, and must certainly breed disease unless attended to. Will the village authorities take a stroll about town and attend to them at once. Delays are not healthy.

MR. ROBERT COVENEY uses about as expensive bait as any man in this part of the country when he goes fishing. When he was out last Sunday he cast a $130 gold watch and chain into the river at the-hook end of his line. There are those who would suggest that a cheaper bait would have done just as well any other day in the week.

IF Dr. Seeley were to visit Buchanan now, he would hardly know whether he ever lived upon Front street or not, by the appearance of that property under George McNiel's administration. A few weeks more and it will be more changed yet.

MRS. WARREN, of Ann Arbor, who has been speaking in this place the past few evenings, on the subject of Temperance, will speak at the M. E. church to-morrow, Friday, evening, and at Rough's Opera House Sunday evening, commencing at 7:30 o'clock, sharp. A general invitation is extended to all to be present and hear a good lecture.

TRAINS were somewhat behind time yesterday, on account of a smash-up that occurred near Dexter, caused by a freight train running into the rear of the train that carried the Maybury, Pullman and Hamilton circus. One man named Costello, of Dexter, who had been to Chelsea to attend the circus, was killed.

To have a year lapse in the saloon business, with one or two thousand dollars invested in liquors, and not be able to secure bonds for next year, materially reduces the profits. The owner is not allowed to sell his stock on hand without paying his tax and giving the bonds. Nor is he allowed to give it away, and the only remaining means left for disposing of it is to drink it himself or empty it into the creek.

THE RECORD learns that the city of Dowagiac has contracted with Mr. Carney, of Decatur, for several hundred dollars worth of black concrete walk, the same as is being laid by Mr. Carney's son in this place, the city paying for the walk out of monies raised by a general tax. This looks like the proper way to keep up the walks of the an absolute necessity, and that it is viduals as done here and then having so much poor walk and the village responsible for any damage that occurs to persons traveling over them.

THROUGH the kindness of Mrs. N. S. Welch we have in our possession two relics in the newspaper line. One is a copy of the Detroit Daily Free Press, dated Saturday morning, July 30, 1836, and flying at its editorial head the ticket: For President, Martin Van Buren, of New York; For Vice President, Richard M. Johnson, of Kentucky. It also contains an advertisement of a new and elegant line of packet boats that are to accommodate the passenger traffic between Rochester and Buffalo, in a style that shall be up to the spirit of the times. The other paper is a copy of Vol. 1, No. 1 of the Niles City Globe, of June 6, 1868, D. B. Cook, editor and publisher.

A LETTER from Superintendent E. C. Brown, of the Michigan Central railroad, to the Superintendent of the St. Joseph Valley railroad, announces that on and after May 15, next Monday, No. 18 will carry passengers between Niles and New Buffalo. If the St. Joseph Valley company will now run their train to Berrien Springs, leaving here at 12:30 and returning as at present, they will accommodate those who live in the west part of the county, and attend to the mail as well as by the present arrangement, as all mail from the west will have been here long enough for transfer by that time. No. 18 on the Michigan Central is a freight train going west, that leaves Niles at 7:30 P. M., Buchanan 8:05, Dayton 8:25, Galien 8:38, Three Oaks 9:07, and New Buffalo at 9:40. This is good so far as it goes, but if the Michigan Central company are really anxious to accommodate these people they will allow them to ride on No. 31, which is also a freight going east in the morning, leaving New Buffalo at 3:22 A.M., Three Oaks 3:50, Averys, 4, Galien 4:15, Dayton 4:27, and Buchanan 4:46.

> The Niles editors are not the only ones who make mistakes in their news items. In the Independent of May 4, under "Galien," is the following: "Weather fine and roads good." "Mr. Clark Curtis is recovering slowly and is now able to walk around." "Thursday night is the time for the election of officers in the I.O.G.T." Now the facts are, the weather has been very cold, rainy and unpleasant. Mr. Clark Curtis has not been sick at all. Thursday night is not the time for the election of officers in the I.O.G.T. The Independent correspondent is way off. and it is not the first time. And again, in the Galien news, it says that "Porter Churchill has sold his store and is packing up his goods to go to Dakota. THE case against Harvey Hudson for selling liquor to a drunkard, set for trial yesterday, was adjourned to this morning, when the case was withdrawn at the request of the Prosecuting Attorney, upon the payment by Hudson of the costs and ten dollars. When it came time for trial, the chief witness had concluded that he was so Whyk at the time of the alleged sale that we didn't know whether he got liquor o Hudson or not, and as a consequence he testimony was not considered reliable hence the withdrawal.

The Berrien County Record: Buchanan,

A MEETING is to be held in South Bend, to-morrow aft oon, for the purpose of organizing a opany for the construction of a narro gauge railroad, from that city to the line, to form an extension of the Joseph Valley road. A number of those in this place and St. Joseph who are most interested will be present.

In the National Hotel Reporter of Chicago we find the following very complimentary notice of Mr. A. B. Sabin, as "mine host" of the Dunbar House, by one who has evidently, stopped there at some time. As to his recommendation of Mr. Sabin no one will enter objection, but regarding the policy of the Common Council there will, of course, be a wide chance for difference of opinion: "It is reported that Mr. A. B. Sabin, the enterprising proprietor of the Dunbar House, Buchanan, Michigan, is about to close and retire from this really excellently kept house, disgusted that his efforts to sustain a first-class hotel are not thoroughly appreciated by the citizens of that somewhat enterprising manufacturing town: This will be regretted by the traveling public who have found substantial comfort and attention at the hands of the accommodating proprietor. This action on Mr. Sabio part is mainly due to the fact, that the former bond for the past, accepted by the authorities to permit a bay to be attached to the hotel, hās been revoked on a slight technicality, of value of property of the bondsman, or an increase of security required under the law, and as the margin derived from the bar is an important factor in sustaining the hotel proper (ptherwise unprofitable), Mr. Sabin has been compelled to employ that adjunct to run the house reputably and self-sustainingly, and yet the house, the only hotel in the place, is to be allowed to close by reason of the con-servative "stand off" of the business men of the town to supply the requisite nerve to support the hotel, by giv-ing bonds necessary to keep the house open. All conservators of law and order know that if bars are to be tolerated at all, it is far better, for the morals of the place, that the same should be placed under the strict surveillance of a law-abiding hotel keeper whose best interests are subserved by intelligent and careful management, as in contrast to the, existence to the everwith-us-licensed liquor and billiard saloons who ply their business exclusive of all other objects. It is, however, to be hoped that Buchanan will not be so blind as to ignore the fact, that at least one good hotel in their town is town instead of depending upon indi- not wise to allow their interests to be slighted by the presentation of a soft plank or mud bed to the ubiquitous traveling man after his day's work. when he can be accommodated by so good a landlord as is mine host of the Dunbar House. TRAVELING MAN. The Narrow Gauge-It is Coming to the Front and this Time to Stay.

Mr. Sol Bough, the well known capitalist and manufacturer at Buchanan, and Engineer Graves, drove over from Buchanan to-day to make a cursory inspection of the proposed narrow gauge road between the two places. They re-turn home this afternoon, and to-morrow Mr. Graves will begin a preliminary survey. The line selected by these two gentlemen and over which the survey will be run, starts in our county on the first north and south section line east of the Dunker or brick church in German township, passing south on this line through the farms of Elder James Miller, and between the Wm. Miller and R. Sarle-farms, then crossing diagonally through the Chamberlain farm to the next section line east, then running directly south on this line to the Lake Shore road, striking west of the James Andrews and Man-ly Avery farms. The line will pass between the Ritter and Abe Smith fams, through Chan Carpenter's and the Reuben Dunn farms, crossing the Laporte road there. Messrs. Rough and Graves, in conversation with a Tribune representative declared that they had investigated the matter thoroughly and no 40 miles of road can be built that will pay a better dividend than a narrow guage from the St. Joseph harbor to South Bend. The ten miles already built between Buchanan and Berrien Springs is more than paying expenses with the traffic between those two places. When it reaches the unequaled harbor at St. Joseph, it will be the cheapest inlet for all the iron and lumber used in South Bend, Buchanan and Berrien Springs, and will also be a valuable outlet for manufactured products. These gen tlemen say that by running the road on section lines the farmers along the route will donate the right of way, and the Michigan people stand ready to build it from St. Joseph to the State line if our people will build the six or seven miles from there to its junction with the Lake Shore road. It is the intention to run down the side of the Lake Shore into this city, or if that company objects, to cross its road and go directly north to the Grand Trunk and come in on the side of their line, that company being very friendly to the enterprise. Messrs. Rough and Graves interviewed several of our manufacturers and found them all favorable to the enterprise. When built to this point an effort will be made to extend it south ward on the survey of the South Bend Bend Southern should the Wabash company not build on it.-South Bend Tribune, May 8.

During the period from 1870 to 1880,
New York increased 28 per cent.; but it gained only 264, 285 inhabitants, not half gamed only 204, 285 innabitants, not hair so many as were added to London between 1871 and 1881; and its population last year was considered less than a third of that of the English capital. If our proportionate increase continues to be so much larger than that of London, of course we will in due time catch up with the older city, and put it in the second place as to size; but that day is still far off, and as New York grows more populous it may show a smaller more populous it may show a smaller rate of increase. The remarkable thing about London is that a city of such unparalleled magnitude, in the midst of an old civilization, has been growing at a rate which, if continued, will give it double its present population less than a century hence. Since 1861 it has coined over 38 per cent. If it keeps on gained over 33 per cent. If it keeps on increasing in that proportion, by the end of the first quarter of the twentieth century it will contain about 7,000,000 of people.

But such estimates of what will happen in the future have only a curious interest. Many causes may contribute to make the growth of London much less proportionately during the next fifty years than it has been during the twenty just passed. It is an impressive fact, however, that so vast a capital, already far ahead of any other city in the world in population, should have increased one-third in twenty years, and that it should be now three times as large as it was sixty years ago.

The population of London was 1,378,000 in 1821. It has, therefore, gained nearly 2,500,000 inhabitants since then.

The population of New York was 123,that city added a third during the twen-ty years, it would still contain nearly three times as many people as New York.—New York Sun.

One day when I had been there about six weeks, our class had for translation Grimm's fable of the Wolf and bered, had been persuaded by the fox to attack the man, and had in the encounter come off second best. Relating afterward his misadventure to the fox, the I was well nigh killed." After commenthe began with great seriousness to give as a reason for this extra rib the old story of Adam sleeping in the garden and having a rib extracted out of which to have a wife made, I laughed outright, and the old man was greatly taken aback at my incredulity. He assured me that it was really a fact that men were each a rib short, and any doctor would tell me the same. Two of the sons were present, but notwithstanding their great learning in other matters they appeared to be no better informed in this than their fath: r. The discussion went on, and everybody stopped work to listen to it. But no one supported me; on the contrary, I was openly laughed at by some who were university stated. dents (that is, who had gone through the gymnasium) for setting my knowledge against the master's. For several days the subject was continually crop-ping up in class or at dinner, so that everybody in the school knew of it. It was becoming a standing joke, and as yet the laugh was against me. At last Mr. M— announced in the open school that he had the previous evening asked some of his medical friends at the club (die Lese und Erholungs Gesellschaft) about the ribs, and he found that men had as many as women. "But," he added, half-triumphantly, "Adam may have been one short for all that!" "SOLACE."

The Origin of the Cel-brated Tobacco Chewers' Compliation. [New York Mercury 1

John Anderson, the great tobacconist, millionaire and philanthropist, died re-cently; and that reminds me that some years since and not so very long ago, but many livin' men remember it, John Anderson, Ben Wood and Fernando Wood sat on the same bench together makin' cigars. Anderson used to keep a cigar store on Broadway, opposite Pearl street, near a big hospital with green shutters, that has long since moved up town. But it was in a little store near Ann street that he laid the beginnin' of his greeces.

Anderson's big hit was made by his "Solace tobacco," and this tobacco owes most of its luck to a name; and this name had its origin in the brain of an old New York Bohemian called Williams-Thomas Williams-who was a very curious character, and had led an eccentric existence. He was a big fat fellow, very dignified, and carried a heavy gold headed cane. He was an Englishman, belonged to a "good family," and at one time had handled a good deal of money.

But he had two hobbies, both expensive ones—the stage and the lottery.

He was all the time followin' actres es about, and buyin' tickets in all sorts of "schemes." He followed Mrs. Siddons all over England, with some friends in a four-in-hand coach, always takin' a private box at all the lady's performances.

These two hobbies soon brought him to grief, and he came to this country to make a livin' with the only things he make a livin' with the only things he had left-his education and his brain. He got some translatin' to do, and he worked awhile on a paper that was popular in its day, called Winchester's New

One day he dropped in at Anderson's shop and saw Anderson there. The two got talkin', and Anderson said he had been tryin' for some time to think of a nice name for some tobacco he had wanted to introduce. "Can't you think out a name for me?" he said to Williams. Williams tried the tobacco Anderson spoke of liked it very much, and said he would take some of it to his rooms to serve him as a "solace in his lonely or the tobacco made a tremendous hit. About eighteen months afterwards About eighteen months afterward Anderson met Williams on the strand asked him to call at his stored next day. Williams, wondering rise was up, did so, and, to his greaterson and no little gratification and handed him a check for straining answered "What's this for our off," answered

"Make it English."

Mr. Fox, the father of the orator. Charles James Fox, trained his son from childhood to share in the government of England. This anecdote shows the child's precocity:

While the elder Fox was Secretary of State he used to allow Charles to read all his dispatches. One day, when the boy was only ten years of age, the Secretary brought home a paper which he had very carefully written—an answer to be sent to a foreign government, with whom England had good cause to find

He gave the paper to Charles, and asked him to read it. The lad did so. "What do you think of it?" asked the parent, earnestly, for he thought it extremely good.

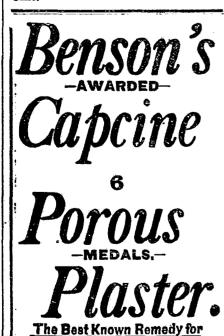

The boy shook his head. Then he looked into his father's face; then he straightened himself to his full height, and smiting his little fist upon his swelling breast, he exclaimed:

"Oh !-make it stronger! make itbig !—make it—English !" Fox caught the inspiration from the look, the tone, the words of his boy. He threw the paper into the fire, and then sat down and wrote again, and produced a paper which electrified the country. Several residents of Norwich, Conn. recently witnessed what they call a "singular lunar phenomenon." "Two pyramidal luminous protuberances appeared on the moon's upper limb." If they had staid in the gin-mill till morn. ing, instead of trying to get home bestore daylight, their delirium tremens would have taken some other form.

The Western Reserve.

Several of the seaboard States et an early day, when, in fact, they were col-onies, acquired claims to lands extending westward practically to the utmost limit. Among this number were Connecticut, Virginia, New York, and Massachusetts. These laid claim to portions of the territory embracing Uhio, their claims being based on their chartered grants, but all finally ceded the right of eminent domain to the United States, Virginia and Con-necticut reserving, however, the ownership of about 3,700,000 acres each. The Connecticut lands form what was called the Western Reserve, and the Virginia the region about the Falls of the Ohio, which eventually became a part of the State of Indiana. The Western Reserve began to be settled about the year 1800. The pioneers of Ohio were New Englanders, who, however, found their way to that State, settling at Marietta, Cincinnati, and at other points. The Reserve was in the provident way to the serve was in the northeastern part of

Ague Cure

Is a purely vegetable bitter and power ful tonic, and is warranted a speedy and certain cure for Fever and Ague, Chills and Fever, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, and all malarial disorders. In missmatic districts, the rapid pulse, coated tongue, thirst, lassitude, loss of appetite, pain in the back and loins, and coldness of the spine and extremities, are only premonitions of severer symptoms, which terminate in the ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever ague paroxysm, succeeded by high fever and profuse perspiration.

It is a startling fact, that quinine, arsenic and other poisonous minerals, form the basis of most of the "Fever and Ague Preparations," "Specifics," "Syrups," and "Tonics," in the market. The preparations made from these mineral poisons, although they are palatable, and may break the chill, do not cure, but leave the malarial and their own drug poison in the system. producing quinism. dizziness. the system, producing quinism, dizziness, ringing in the ears, headache, vertigo, and other disorders more formidable than the disease they were intended to cure. Axer's Ague Cure thoroughly eradicates ATER'S AGUE CURE thoroughly eradicates these noxious poisons from the system, and always cures the severest cases. It contains no quinine, mineral, or any thing that could injure the most delicate patient; and its crowning excellence, above its certainty to cure, is that it leaves the system as free from disease as before the attack.

For Liver Complaints, Aven's Agua Cure, by direct action on the liver and biliary apparatus, drives out the poisons which produce these complaints, and stimulates the system to a vigorous, healthy We warrant it when taken according to

Reserved Power. It is not wise to work constantly to the rate of which we are capable. the engineer of the railroad were to keep the speed of his train up to the highest rate he could obtain with his engine, it would soon be used up. If a horse is driven at the top of his speed for any length of time, he is ruined. It is well enough to try the power occasionally of a horse or engine, by putting on all the motion it will bear, but not continuously. All machinists construct their machines so there shall be a reserve force. If the power required is a four-horse, then they make a six-horse power. In this case it works easily and lasts long. A man who has strength enough to do twelve honest hours of labor in twenty-four, and no more, should do but nine or ten hours' work. The reserve power keeps the body in repair. It rounds out the frame to full proportions. It keeps the mind cheerful, hopeful, happy. The person with no reserve force is always incapable of taking on any more responsibility than he already has. A little exertion puts him out of breath. He cannot increase his work for an hour without the crease his work for an hour without the danger of an explosion. Such are generally pale, bloodless, nervous, irritable, despondent, gloomy. We all pity them. The great source of power in the individual is the blood. It runs the machinery of life, and upon it depends our health and strength. A mill on the stream where water is scanty, can be worked but a portion of the time. So a man with little good blood can do but little work. The reserve power must be stored up in this fluid. It is an old saying among stockraisers that "blood tell." It is equally true that blood tells in the sense in which we use the word. If it is only good blood, then the more of it the better. When the reserve power of an individual runs low, it is an indicate the sense in the sense of an individual runs low, it is an indicate the sense of an individual runs low, it is an indicate the sense of the tion that a change is necessary, and that it is best to stop expending and go to accumulating, just as the miller does when the water gets low in the pond. Such a course would save many a person from physical bankruptcy.

The person who wrote for "one ounce of grose of suppliment" wanted corrosive sublimate, no doubt. A person with a weak back writes for a "Borous Plaster." A "shamie leather skin" is called for by a person who wants a chamois skin. "Bickrement of potash," which is called for in one note, probably means bichromate of potash.

In another note bichromate of potash is tortured into "prock mate of potash."

"Bludroot" and "liqurash" are called for in another note. Some persons wrote for "anuf yellow to culler to bbls of cutton rags." Opodeldoe is spelled "oberdelduck" in one note, and in another seidlitz pow-

It is the opinion of M. Colladon that lightning descends in much the sand manner as a shower of rain, and that when it falls upon a tree the different streams are drawn by the converging branches to the trunk, which is consequently found in such cases to have been split from top to bottom. In the same connection, the learned Professor has pointed out that a poplar or other tall tree may, if its roots strike into damp soil, serve as a lightning conductor to protect a house; and he thinks he has verified this conjecture by examination of a number of individual cases of lightning-stroke. Where the house stands between the poplar and a piece of water, the danger of the situation may be increased, as he fears that in such a case the shortest path for the lightning-from Tropical Fruits. Mangoes from Jamaica are among the most delicious of these rare fruits. They are pearshaped, with a thick, golden, red-cheeked rind and an orange-colored pulp. A large pit l ke a peach stone takes up half the fruit, and contains a bitter ker-nel. The specimens of this fruit are said, by those who have eaten it in South America and Jamaica, to be excellent. It is necessary to pick the mango when it is ripe, as those that ripen after they are picked are devoid of flavor and worthless. It is consequently a perishable eng, go, and full twenty per cent of succession of the country spoil before they reach the country. The sweet mango is the species usually seen here. There is a slightly acid kind sometimes sold, which is very pleasant to the taste. Fresh mangoes are worth from fifty cents to one dollar a dozen. to one dollar a dozen.

The sweet mangoes put up at Bombay are a famous East Indiana chutney, and a popular accompaniment of curries in England. Though seldom used in this country, they may be bought for $1.50 a bottle. They should not be confounded with pickled musk melons, which are called mangoes by New England house-

The red and yellow banana are not different species. All bananas are naturally yellow and are made red by grafting. The effect of the graft runs out in seven years, when we have sometimes bananas that are red, spotted or streaked with yellow. There are over forty or fifty varieties of this fruit. The little guinoes, or fig banana, is not unknown to our fruit stores. It is not over a finger long, and it is one of the finest species. The plain-tain and banana are of the same family. The oriental Christians searching for the Garden of Eden believed that the banana was the forbidden fruit, and named it the "tree of Paradise," though the "forbid-den fruit" sold in Paris fruit stalls and in our own market is a species of orange, the grap shaddock. It is of no special value, is acid, and is kept more for display than for anything else. The legend says, it was good till Eve tasted it, but it has been bad since. The deep depressions near the stem of the fruit like the mark of teeth are supposed to be the orgin of its claim.

The mandarin oranges are a small species of fruit with a dark-colered perfumed rind hardly thicker than brown paper. The tangerine is a variety of mandarin. It is the thinnest skinned species of orange known. Mandarin' and tangerine oranges, which are in market during the winter months, are sold from seventy-five cents to one dollar a dozen. The seedless St. Michael oranges are --brought from the Azores, and though common in England, are seldom seen in this country. They are a small, light-collered fruit, with scarcely any seeds, and are excellent in flavor. In this city they bring from sixty to seventy-five cents a dozen.

Fresh cocoanuts, or the immature cocoanuts, picked when they are half ripe, are the favorite food and beverage of the tropics. The stem and green cup at the base dropping off is the external indication that they have sourced.-Exchange.

706 in 1810, and in 1880 it was nearly ten times that. During the twenty years from 1860 to 1880 it gained about one-half, against the increase of one-third in London between 1861 and 1881. It is safe to estimate that at the begin-ning of the next century we shall have made another gain that would give us 1,800,000. Even then, therefore, New York would contain less than half the present population of London; and, if

Measuring by the Eyc. A correspondent of the Boston Transcript suggests that children should be exercised in measuring by the eye. He says that years ago, when he went to school in a little weather-beaten schoolhouse, the scholars had most exciting contests over the teacher's favorite exercise of having them estimate with the eye the size and weight of different ob-be, and after a few experiments in measuring one can easily believe it, but not Mr. Matthew Arnold has told us that "the school system all through Germany * * * is, in its completeness and carefulness, such as to excite a for-eigner's admiration." The following illustration of this is literally true: Herr M-, of We erstrasse, Bonn-on-the-Rhine, has four sons, each of whom has passed through the Gymnasien course Adolph, the eddest, is a Landgerichts-Referendar to sort of County Court Judge); Lorenz holds the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and is a professor in a public school; Julius is an "advocat," and Theodore holds a Governand Julius know French and English almost as well as they know their own language, and they both have such knowledge of Latin as to be able to write it. The wolf, it will be rememwolf describes the hunter's knife as a "bright rib, which he drew from his body and smote me with it so sorely that ing on the wolf's mistake, Mr. M. said: "I suppose you know that a woman has a rib more than a man."
