Mr. G. Chorman, of Niagara Falls, had a dog which had become addicted to barking at teams and pedestrians as they passed, much to the annoyance of its owner, who had tried to break him of the habit. Failing in his teachings, Mr. Chorman decided to put the dog out of the way, and, thinking a trip over the falls the most effective, pro-ceeded early Sunday morning, with the assistance of one of his employes, to drop him into the river from the center of Goat Island bridge. Bidding doggy good-bye as he. floated down the rapids, he returned home; but doggy would not have it that way. During the afternoon a stranger, walking across the new suspension bridge, observed a dog under the bank, and notlined the gate-keeper at the American end of the bridge, who, with a glass, recognized the dog, and knowing that he had been sent over the falls, notified Mr. Chorman that the dog was below the bank.

The work of printing and getting ready for distribution to the post-offices of the country of the new postal notes, which are to be used after September 8, is proceeding as rapidly as possible at Washington. They will be used for transmitting sums of $5,00 and under at a cost to the sender of only three cents. They are made payable to bearer and require no such process as the money order does, for either its purchase or delivery of the money to the payee. They are bound in books of 500 each with the address of the post-office printed on each note. The paper is the best quality of linen banknote paper, and the pages of the book are perforated, so that when the note is torn off a stub remains to show the amount for which the note was issued. They will prove a very great convenience to the public in the transmission of small sums, especially of fractions of a dollar.

The Wood River, Dakota, Times makes the following startling announcement regarding President Arthur and his party:

During the past two weeks a number of strangers, all well provided with to $20. When they pay him money for good riding animals and firearms, and resembling a party of regulators or Texas cowboys, have been encamped on Willow Creek. During several days past some of the party have rid-den through the town in a defiant manner and mysterously disappeared From a man who came in to day it is learned that the party, who induced him to join, and made him take certain pledges of secrecy, were organized to proceed to Yellowstone Park. They left last night, going on the stage road, and he escaped during the night. The object of the expedition is to corral and capture President Arthur and party, and to spirit them away into the mountain fastnesses and caves, where they will be fed, but kept prisoners. while members of the party act as pickets to prevent being surprised and captured, while negotiations for ransom are conducted. The captain or leader of the party has an idea that a heavy ransom will be offered by the United States and personal friends of the President after the search for the President's party shall be given up, and half a million dollars or more can thus be extorted from the secret-service fund and divided among the party on the principle adopted by the Italian banditti. An escaped member of the party says that there are sixtylive men in the outfit, and some of them were guerillas in the late war. Five Shoshone and Bannock Indians go along as guides and scouts, who are armed with repeating rifles and scalping knives. The leader is a Texas desperado, on whose head a price has been set. and, with the exception of two Italians, who left the reilroad grade, the others of the party are cowboys. A grand council was held night before last on the prairie, where every man swore by his dagger in the firelight to do his duty.

STUDY FOR YEARS.

A special treatment for years. He is not a boastful, ignorant pretender, but an educated physician, seeking to do good, by devoting his talent and energies to the treatment of a class of maladies that have been with him a long and patient study. To be able to treat successful-ly chronic diseases it requires that a physician should be a sound, thorough scholar in the art of science and medicine generally. He should give his entire time to their study, be thorough in his investigations and have a long and varied experience. Dr. Brewer claims to work no wonders or to do any more than any well educated physician can do who devotes his whole time to the study and treatment of chronic diseases exclusively and has had his many years of experience. For years Dr. Brewer has visited the places he now visits, and has obtained his reputation by being honest in his dealings, candid in his oplinions and rensonable in his charges. Those who are afflicted are invited to call, investigate and decide for themselves. It will cost nothing to do so. Address all letters to F. B. BREW ER, M. D., Lock Box 350, CHICAGO, ILL.

Ah! now I know why fair young days were dark, Why pitcous tears of youth fell swiftly down, down, Why at the dawning sang no morning lark, Why sullen afternoons were full of frown. I had not reached thy being's larger arc, Nor worn, as thy great gift, Love's sacred signifying a village of huts, is literally a land of water. I find thousands of lakes here not down on any map, lakes which are long and tortuous, deep and cool and clear, and hiding fish along their woody banks by the basketful.

find lakes like rivers in their length and purity and clearness; rivers that strength. In fact, this is a land of room, and it is a land to be filled up in time entirely with people; a land of tremendous possibilities. For reasons I have not space to explain, I count it forty-fold more desirable than Mexico, toward which America has set her face

I have been roaming industriously up and down Canada now for two weeks, and as one of the general results of my observations, I am bound to bear testi-mony that there is more solid happiness to the square mile in Canada than in the United States. These sturdy Canadians, it seems to me, have read and well understood that the Creator of this earth took six whole days to complete it and that He rested on the seventh day, well content with His work. And so the honest and industrious Canadian is not particularly ambitious to surpass his Maker in achievements of toil. But I venture to say that if it had been possible to let out creation to the average New Yorker he would have completed not only the earth but the whole planetary sys-the entri but the whole phatetally sys-tem in five days, put up a stock job on his neighbor on the sixth and twisted his very buttons off him, and finally have gone to Long Branch and Coney island on the seventh day and had a champagne dinner at each place. And just as likely as not he would have even then been dissatisfied with his work and complained that he was not doing

But while the Canadian is a little slow comparatively, let it be kept in mind that he is sure. Let us not forget the fable of the tortoise and the hare.

And yet, looking away out yonder to the great nothwest, where they are building a railrord with a speed that far outstrips our swiftest achievement in this tremendous department of pro-gress, while only to-day is announced the most remarkably short passage of the Atlantic ever made-four days and seventeen hours-a Canadian ship; so that I do not quite know which we shall call the tortoise. The heart of Canada, geographically, if not figuratively speaking, is more like Europe than Europe is. I mean to say rather, the French portion of this un-traversed land has suffered less changes from old customs and traditions and the like than any portion of Europe. Here you find still the spinning-wheel, the loom, the knitting-needle. And yet the new mower, the reaper, the sewing-machine, indeed the great four-story wooden mill is to be seen here as in Massachusetts. But the French women hold on lovingly and tenaciously to their old implements of industry. It is is the force of habit, perhaps, impelled by their constant disposition to employment.

It is here among these industrious, pious, and simple-hearted people that you find the domestic virtues almost perfect. Here is love for parents, children, God, as in no city in Europe now; as in no part of the United States. These French first set foot in the great Richelieu valley more than a century since, and, remaining quietly and con-tentedly here, they have grown in num-bers and in riches to be of great importance. When England conquered the land they numbered less than fifty thousand. They are now more than a million, and they have had but little accession from immigration. These men are the largest I ever saw outside of some select regiments in England. And such patient industry and perfect housewifery I despair of finding any-where as here. A gentleman from Boston who has built a woolen-mill on this river said to me: "Crime is unknown among these people almost en-tirely." Wishing to be certain of this statement, I sought out the clerk of the courts and found that in three years' time in a city of five or six thousand inhabitants there has been but two criminal trials. Good testing this of the morality, the sense, and the purity of the people. Henceforth I shall greatly

It may not be generally known that in all France there is not a single farmhouse. It is an important truth never-theless. The French will not live alone like the Saxon, in France or America. If you see an isolated house here you may set it down as the habitation of some stolid old John Bull, who is trying, unconsciously, to live out and up to the old baronial traditions of his ancestors. All along the Richelieu, even the St. Lawrence, you see miles and miles of villages. But back a long way from the bank not a single house. And is not this constant intercourse the reason of the Frenchman's ready politeness? I think so. I saw not one beggar or even the semblance of one in all my wanderings among the French Canadians about the banks of the Richelieu and St. Hy-acinthe. And yet I should presume it the paradise of tramps, for I found it frequently impossible to get the people to accept anything for hospitality; and even when they did consent to take pay it was so disproportionate to what I have paid on the other side of the line that I almost felt as if I was 'swindling them. I discover neither wit nor wisdom in the assertion attributed to Gen. Sherman in connection with his recent visit to Canada. For I should not only ex-tend the New York line to the St. Lawrence river, but to the north pole, if necessary, to take in Canada. Of course the serious discussion of this subject may well be left to our children, as it likely will be. But what I mean to urge is the fact that this is a substantial country, a country to be greatly respected and ardently desired; a country to be conrted and won as you would court and win a proud and a noble woman with ample dower in either hand and a fair good name. AN INDIAN GRADUATE. Inter Ocean. Mr. William Harrison McKinney, a full-blooded Choctaw, was the first Indian to graduate from Roanoke.
