

BUCHANAN RECORD.

JOHN G. HOLMES, Editor.

THURSDAY, MAY 1, 1884

Venor now predicts a frost in July.

A cargo of women, $18 in number, has just arrived from Europe to keep up the supply in Utah.

College classes in political economy are being treated to a refreshing difference of opinion on the question of tariff.

Some talk of Cyrus G. Bruce, master of the State Grange, as the next Republican candidate for Governor.

Hon. Julius C. Burrows has declined the appointment offered him of Solicitor of the Treasury. He prefers taking his chances for an election to Congress.

The Evening News is requested to borrow the dress pattern the Free Press uses as a map of Michigan. The News locates Caro in the Fourth District in his list of delegates to Chicago.

New York state retains the relic of barbarism, imprisonment for debt, and one debtor has been confined five years serving the penalty of a thirty-five dollar debt.

There is appearing a strong evidence that Robert Lincoln will have healthy following for first place on the Republican ticket to be nominated next month, at Chicago. His unquestioned ability and unpretending ways are winning for him great popularity.

It will be remembered that last July Gov. Begole discharged James C. Wilson from the office of trustee of the deaf and dumb asylum, and that Wilson protested against being discharged without an investigation. The case was then taken to the Supreme Court, with Wilson still holding the office, and last week it was decided in Wilson's favor, which means that public officers may not be summarily discharged from office without a hearing and proper investigation.

The Canadian judge who sentenced Luke Phipps, the Detroit murderer who shot his wife on the Detroit river ferry boat, to be hanged, pronounced a sharp bit of sarcasm on our laws when he said in his sentence: "In a country where it is so easy to get a divorce as it is in yours, there is no excuse for committing a murder for adultery." It had hardly been considered by our people that our divorce laws should be regarded as a preventive of murder.

GEN. WEAVER, the ex-Greenback President, spoke to a large audience in Rough's Opera House Tuesday afternoon. His speech was a good one, from his standpoint. His remarks were in harmony with the teachings of his party. He berated the two old parties for what he terms abuses of the laboring man, in laws that are taken advantage of, as instance the purchase of large tracts of government lands at government prices by English syndicates. We will all agree with him that it is not a pleasant thing for us to have our lands owned in large tracts by foreign or even home capitalists, but he fails to tell us how he is going to prevent people who have money from buying whatever is in the market. People go from Michigan to Dakota to pre-empt 160 or 320 acres of land, which costs them $1.25 per acre, or five years work on it. They get a deed, and if they can sell at double the price they will do so. If the syndicate buys it, even at this price, it is cheap, and by buying a number of those, make a Dalrymple farm or a syndicate ranch. Mr. Weaver might have a law prohibiting any party from buying more than 100 acres, and then prohibiting the purchaser from ever selling to any other man who owned any more than that amount.

He favors the unlimited coining of the "Daddy" dollar, and wants the mint to coin all of the silver that can be drawn to it, and found considerable fault because silver is accumulating in the government vaults. He wants them shovelled out, put them into circulation, and straightaway demonstrated that he did not mean what he said by calling at Weston's drug store after his speech, with fifteen silver dollars, and asking for paper money, National bank notes, anything, but the silver he was so anxious to have when making his speech.

He said that the value or purchasing power of money, either coin or paper, was governed by the supply and demand. By increasing the supply, the demand remaining the same, the purchasing power is correspondingly decreased. He would have the government issue enough paper money to pay the national debt. Pay no more interest. The debt is a little over twice the amount of current money in the country. By his statement that the purchasing power of money is governed by the supply and demand, he would by this plan decrease the purchasing power two fold, or make it so that three dollars would be required to buy what now costs one. The man who works now for one dollar would get three, and instead of paying one dollar for a bushel of wheat would pay three. The man who has borrowed and owes $1,000 that were worth 1,000 bushels of wheat, could pay his debt in $1,000 that were worth 333 1/3 bushels of wheat. We are in debt, and want awfully to get out, but not badly enough to ask Congress to legislate us out. He closed his remarks with a solicitation for subscribers for his paper, which he is publishing in Des Moines, at one dollar a year; check full of this kind of doctrine.

The Michigan State troops are to be supplied with Gatling guns in place of the common field pieces now in use.

EDITOR RECORD:—In your issue of the 24th you place before the community the Richards v. Rough case, as decided by the Supreme Court of Michigan, verbatim as reported, I believe. It is now a public document, and if treated with respect may be examined by the public. I ask the privilege of a brief review.

The first point I object to is the mistake as to the age of the plaintiff. The Judges say that he was twenty-three years old when the accident occurred. The fact is, he was not twenty-one. The evidence on the 1st page of the Record of the case is conclusive on this point. Two and a half years might add much to a young man's experience. Again the Judges say, "There is no question in this case but that the injured party had as much knowledge of the machine and appliances used and of all the circumstances relating to the machine and its safety as did the defendants or their foreman." The Judges are correct in this statement, for the evidence goes to prove and the fact can be demonstrated that neither Mr. McNeil, Mr. Mead, Messrs. Rough Bros., or the plaintiff had sufficient mechanical knowledge to judge in this case what was or was not safe. There was but one person connected with this affair who had the required knowledge. The counsel of that one was rejected. Had they taken Mr. Talbot's advice it is not probable the sad accident would have occurred. The plaintiff is called by the Judges a skilled employee. I ask what evidence there is of his mechanical skill, further than the mere fact of being able to manage well, by repetition, the one machine he was set to work at? The plaintiff has good, sound understanding—I am thankful for that—but when you talk of skill, as pertaining to a complicated machine, how is it to be obtained but by application in a direction that would bring the desired result? Of mechanism proper there is no evidence the plaintiff had the slightest knowledge.

In the decision the statement is made that the die and punch were both new. Under ordinary circumstances this would convey the idea of safety, but in this case of danger, because they were new and untried, made much larger than was contemplated by the makers of the machine. On page 30 of the record of this case Mr. Talbot says: "The dies they had been using were smaller, and the space between the two sides was not large enough to take this one in." The die and punch being larger and in shape to make the use of them more dangerous than those supplied by the makers of the machine, was clearly the ground of Mr. Talbot's objection to making the punch and die as requested.

But now to the vital point. In another case, decided at the same time, the Judges say: "This case closely resembles the case of Richards v. Rough. In both cases the injury was the result of such an accident as no one would have been likely to foresee." Strange statement for the Judges to make, with the record of the case before them. Did not Mr. Talbot foresee? Did he not forewarn? On page 31, 32 and 33 of the record of the case you will find the consultation between McNeil, Mead and Talbot, in regard to the new die and punch. They were considering, Mr. Talbot's objection to the way Mr. McNeil proposed to have it made. Mr. Talbot's reason was so convincing that Mr. Mead remarked: "I guess Mr. Talbot's way is best." But Mr. Talbot's way was not adopted. But Mr. Talbot did foresee and did forewarn, and to prove the correctness of what he apprehended, in only about four hours' use of the punch and die as he was directed to arrange them, the crash came. My boy was mangled for life; and after weeks of intense suffering the injured eye had to be removed and the plaintiff suffer the deprivation through life.

The decision again says, "Neither does it appear that anything could have been done to the machine, by the defendants, to guard against danger or accident more than was done." With the evidence from the record of the case, on page 31, 32 and 33 just referred to, are we not absolutely astounded with the statement that nothing was left undone to make the machine secure.

In Mr. Talbot's testimony we find these words, part of a conversation with Mr. McNeil: "The better way was to fasten it (the die) so that it would be impossible to move," and suggested the way that was adopted after the accident; and it is a notable fact that after the accident Mr. Talbot's suggestion was fully carried out, and since then all has gone well.

A. RICHARDS.

The warm weather affords unusually good opportunities for our farmers to proceed with their farm work. Plowing for corn is well completed, and a number of our farmers are nearly ready to plant.

The forest fires of Sunday last came near doing serious damage in our neighborhood, but happily for the vigilance of our citizens who responded to the demand, the fires were subdued without other damages than the loss of some fences and quite a quantity of wood—one man losing some forty cords.

Thirteen candidates offered themselves for the rite of baptism at Franklin Chapel on last Saturday afternoon, Elder Stormy Davis officiating. He also has an appointment at Grange Hall next Sunday evening. All are invited to attend the services.

Our efficient Supervisor Grant has nearly completed the canvass of the assessment roll for Berrien township. The following candidates were elected officers for the ensuing term in the Berrien Central Lodge, L. O. G. T.: M. L. Becker, W. O. T., A. C. Palmer, P. W. C. T., Lina Murphy, W. V. T., S. Colfax Peck, W. S. Jos. A. Becker, W. T. Norah Hess, W. F. S., Allen Layman, W. M.; Maud Horton, W. I. G.; George Booth, W. O. G. The lodge is in a highly prosperous condition and accessions are constantly received to our ranks. The lodge contemplates holding an open meeting the 27th of May. All lodge and temperance people, and in fact everyone interested, are cordially invited to attend.

Last fall a Paw Paw man was bitten by a mad dog, and it is now feared that he will die of hydrophobia.

NEW TROY ITEMS.

April 28, 1884.

Mr. H. A. Wells, after some two years' absence, has returned to the home that knew him so well in other days.

There was no graduating class this year; and at the close of the yearly examinations, last Friday afternoon, Mr. Sherwood, in a few appropriate words, bade his scholars farewell. The primary department, however, devoted the afternoon to literary exercises, under the skillful management of their teacher, Miss Christina Anderson.

Miss Myrtle Parlee has gone to Buchanan for the purpose of attending school.

A Sunday School Institute will be held at the M. E. church next Sunday. All those interested in Sunday school work are invited to attend.

Miss Minnie Vinton will spend her vacation with her sister, at Sawyers.

Mr. Wm. Smith has gone to Nebraska.

Mrs. A. W. Pierce is very low with the lung fever.

Mr. Thomas Lewin has just shipped a car load of potatoes.

Bill Dickey is on the warpath, and whoever steals those suckers should bear in mind that Bill "fights to kill."

Mrs. Sophia Curtis, of Chicago, has moved into the place formerly owned by Mrs. Wm. Pierce. Mr. Curtis will remain in Chicago this summer.

The anti-prohibition party had a grand camp fire and war dance at the A. L. club rooms on the evening of the 19th. As the police was badly demoralized, and the secretary of the organization has not been seen since, I am unable to transmit the minutes of the meeting; but Louis Wharton and Dr. Streeter stood even chances as Presidential candidates.

Old Mr. Anderson, of Sawyers, whose leg Dr. Pardee amputated some days ago, is doing finely, and he has many chances of ultimate recovery.

SAWDUST.

FROM THREE OAKS.

April 30, 1884.

An addition is being built on the Congregational parsonage.

John B. Farwell, of Chicago, was here one day last week looking up the featherbone business.

James Ray, of Hudson township, Ind., near H. B. Knights, while putting out fire that had caught in his fence, last Sunday, sat down to rest, and while sitting, a dry beech tree blew over and some of the dead limbs struck him and killed him instantly. He was very badly broken up. He was a man about 71 years of age, and very much respected.

An Editor's Testimonial.

A. M. Vaughan, editor of the Greenwhich Review, Greenwhich, O., writes: Last January I met with a very severe accident, caused by a runaway horse. NEARLY A FIRE.—Monday evening Geo. Howard went into Rough's Opera House to do his janitor work when he found the room filled with smoke. He set about a lively skirmish to find its origin, and discovered a basket of charcoal in the tin-shop that had caught a spark from some place. It was promptly deposited in a safe place, and the scare ended. It was what some people would term a close call.

EVERY few days some one whose carelessness goes to make up the greater part of their stock of knowledge, deposits a pile of ashes and live coals in the alley in the vicinity of this building. Now whoever that is, will sooner or later get caught at it, and if he doesn't get prosecuted it will be because there is no law bearing on such contemptible carelessness. Such work endangers the entire business portion of the town, and it is to every one's interest to see that the perpetrator is thoroughly punished.

FIRE.—Monday morning at about 2 o'clock fire was discovered in C. S. Black & Son's furniture factory at the mouth of the creek. Being so far away, the fire department could not reach the fire until it had gained such headway that it was impossible to check it, and all that could be done was to protect the surrounding property. The factory was a total loss, which Mr. Black estimates at $10,000 to $12,000. Insured for $6,000. No fire was kept about the factory, and just how it came to be there at that time is the mystery. Incendiaries or spontaneous combustion might explain it. The proprietors wish to extend their thanks to the fire department and citizens for the assistance rendered on the occasion.

AFTER copying our remarks in regard to the action of Freeman Franklin, at the late election, the Mirror of last week says:

"The denial of the editor of the Record amounts to nothing. If Mr. Franklin, after participating in the Trial census, as stated, and after being nominated by the Republicans, did not say if he was elected he would accept of the office, then we will attend to it. Did not the following conversation take place between the editor of the Trial census, as stated, and after being nominated by the Republicans, did not say if he was elected he would accept of the office?" "You are the first man that has squarely put the question and I will answer, I would." It is not denied that he told me, rather in an undertone, not to vote for him, but will he himself deny he did not say if elected he would serve?"

Before the polls opened Mr. Franklin publicly and in unmistakable terms told the Republicans to head their ticket with some other name, as he did not want the office in any such way. In spite of this protest he was receiving a fair vote, and at noon Mr. Wm. Haslett asked him if he would accept if elected, and he said he would if elected. The trouble with the "Democrat" who has been reporting these facts to the Mirror in such a manner as to carry with them a false impression, is that he has not for a long time held the office of Supervisor of Berrien, and was the man who was defeated for the nomination by Mr. Franklin, and now takes this means of attempting to squelch Mr. Franklin, a means which, if another person should attempt with him, he would pronounce as simply contemptible.

GALLEN ITEMS.

GALLEN, April 30.

At a meeting of the Common Council on the evening of April 28th, the petition of Matthias Huss, to open a petition in this place, was considered, and his bonds rejected—which means that there shall be no saloon in Gallen for one year to come, and she modestly steps to the front and hoists the temperance banner. Yet business has received no shock, and stocks have taken no fall. The factories keep up their humming, and the stores their trading, and the farmers bring in their wheat and other produce as of yore. Gallen will keep on building churches and parsonages, but other towns may have her saloons and pool tables.

On motion to accept the bonds offered by Matthias, Geo. A. Blakeslee, Ed. Prince, Richard Dutler and Wm. Beach voted no; Fred Berger did not vote. "The world do move," and Gallen is proud of her village Council.

Go and hunt up our pool-table, Matthias, and receive sympathy from him who shared your fate at a previous meeting of the above Council. Oh, that treacherous Council, that could not play pool and would not let others play; that will lavish money on our schools, and not allow our young men to receive schooling in the pool-room, and be promoted to the higher grade—the saloon. Go back to the farm, Matthias, and cease your aspirations; or go to some of the high-toned towns—the more popular towns, and they may receive you; but don't come to enlighten Gallen—she is unable to appreciate the virtue of even "ein glass lager."
