

BUCHANAN

VOLUME XX.

BUCHANAN, BERRIEN COUNTY, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, APRIL 27, 1886.

NUMBER 10.

Business Directory.

SOCIETIES.

O. O. F.—Buchanan Lodge No. 73 holds its regular meeting at Odd Fellows Hall, on each Tuesday evening.

ATTORNEY.

THORNTON HALL, Attorney and Counselor at Law and Solicitor in Chancery, Buchanan, Michigan.

PHYSICIAN.

S. DODD, M. D., Physician and Surgeon. Office in E. S. Dodd & Son's drug store.

DENTISTS.

J. M. WILSON, Dentist. Office, first door north of Buchanan Bank, Charges reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed.

DRUGGIST.

R. E. S. DODD & SON, Practical Druggists. Large stock of chemicals, perfumery and toilet articles.

INSURANCE.

W. A. PALMER, Notary Public, Fire and Life Insurance, Office in Buchanan.

MANUFACTURER.

DODD BROS. WAGON WORKS. Manufacturers of the Buchanan Farm, President and Lumber Wagons, also Log Trucks.

BUCHANAN MANUFACTURING COMPANY.

Manufacturers of cheap and medium grades of Chamber Furniture. Capital $20,000.

THE VICTOR HAT CO.

Wholesale Manufacturers of Hats. Office in Buchanan.

WINDMILL CO.

Windmills, Pumps, Presses, Grains, etc. Factory and Office with Rough Road, Buchanan, Michigan.

MACHINISTS.

H. TALBOT, Machinist, Engines, Trenching, Mill and Agricultural Machines repaired.

MORLEY, Star Foundry and Agricultural.

Implements, Headgear for binding wire. Corner Front and Postage sts.

BERRY BODGETT, Manufacturer of Building.

Well and Pavement Brick. Yard in Mansfield Addition.

JOHN WEISBERGER, Manufacturer of Lumber.

Best Custom Sawing done to order. Mill on South Oak Street.

CHURCHILL, Dealer in Lumber.

Best Quality of Building, Corduroy and Flooring. Lumber, Sash, Blinds and Carriage Job Work a specialty. Factory on Alexander st.

TAILORS.

JOHN FENDER, Practical Tailor. Work executed in the latest style, and warranted to fit. Clothing made to order.

MILLERS.

L. F. FOX, Proprietor of Buchanan and Rural Mills. Custom and Merchant grinding of all kinds. Buchanan, Mich.

KINGERY & MARBLE, Proprietors of Indian.

Reserve Mill. Custom grinding a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed. Postage st.

CLOTHING BOOTS & SHOES.

J. K. WOODS, Dealer in Boots and Shoes, and Rubber Goods, Gentlemen's and Ladies' fine shoes a specialty.

WEAVER & CO., Dealers in Clothing.

Best Quality of Building, Corduroy and Flooring. Latest styles of goods always selected. Front st., Buchanan, Mich.

GROGERS.

TREAT & REDDEN, Dealers in Staple and Fancy Groceries, Canning, Soda and Water. Elegant Hanging Lamps. Fine Trade a specialty. Front st.

CHARLES HOP, dealer in Groceries.

Crocker, Glassware and Bakery Goods, Day's Block, Front st.

BECK & BEISEL, dealers in Groceries.

Flour, Oatmeal, Canning, Soda and Water. Stock and Produce. South side Front st.

MISCELLANEOUS.

GEORGE CHURCHILL, Contractor and Builder, and dealer in Lumber, Lath and Shingles. Front st.

Business Directory.

PHARMERS & MANUFACTURERS BANK.

Bank will receive personal and personal attention. Wm. Peers, Pres.; Geo. H. Richards, Vice Pres.; A. E. Ross, Cashier.

W. O. HAMILTON, Milk Dealer.

In all parts of the corporation daily. Residence, head of Front street.

D. MONTGOMERY, Grainer and Decorator.

May be found at Straw's Paper Store.

Buchanan Music School.

(Redden's Block). Piano, Organ, Guitar, Clarinet, Saxophone, Cornet, Violin, Viola and Double Bass.

Through Bass, Harmony, and Instrumentation.

Music arranged to order for any instrument or combination of instruments.

V. E. DAVID.

BEST BUILDING BRICK.

Having recently erected an Improved Brick and Tiling Kiln.

Best Brick.

FIRST-CLASS TILING.

Robust Health.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Myriads of Cures.

Trust Nothing Else.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

A Fine Hearse.

Our Greeting for the Spring.

Real Bargains.

SPRING STYLES.

An Elegant Line of Boots and Shoes.

Ladies', Gents' and Children's Wear.

Hard Pan Prices.

SCOTT & BROWNFIELD.

SALES AUCTION!

Charley Evans.

For the Best JOB PRINTING.

Call at the Record Steam Printing House.

Michigan Central R. R.

Time Table taking effect Dec. 13, 1885.

Table with columns: Station, Dep., Arr., and other train schedule details.

Deficit. Dep. Wayne, etc.

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

ST. JOSEPH VALLEY R. R.

On and after Monday, May 25, 1885, trains will run as follows:

CUT, CUT BEHIND.

When snow and ice was on our ground, and they were covered to the top of our duty, however, have had little regard for the picturesque, and like most men similarly situated, I was wearying for termination of my two hours' vigil, and I was about to admit the surrounding scenery.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At length the clock struck three, and I was at once filled with a feeling of weary satisfaction at the immediate prospect of being relieved, and of returning to the guard room and drinking a cup of hot coffee before turning off to sleep.

I heard the sentry on the gate lustily shout, "Sentry go!" as a summons to be relieved to go to his quarters, and I was preparing to take a last turn on my post, I perceived, at the extremity of the shadow cast by the officers' quarters, a ghastly figure in a long, white robe, endeavoring to shout for assistance, but was so "harrowed with fear and wonder," that I was unable to articulate a single word, but stood perfectly motionless, staring at the apparition. It moved slowly past me, but when it turned round and raised its disengaged hand to its white head, covering it as if in sorrow, its aspect so ghastly, that I felt that I had never seen the like before, and I was so overcome by the scene, that I was unable to utter a word.

At

BUCHANAN RECORD.

THURSDAY, APRIL 8, 1886.

Printed at the Post-Office, at Buchanan, Mich., Second-Class Matter.

W. TRENBETH,

THE TAILOR.

HAS A FINE STOCK OF

Foreign and Domestic

Cloths and Suitings,

And will make them up in the latest styles at very low prices.

Come and Examine.

MORE snow Tuesday.

HORR, SATURDAY EVENING,

MR. AND MRS. PERRY E. NEFF have moved to Richland, Mich.

PLATE GLASS has arrived for French's building, occupied by Keeler's drug store.

All persons indebted to PECK & BEISTLE are requested to call and settle at once.

DON'T fail to hear Hon. R. G. Horr, Saturday evening. The lecture will be free.

Those who do not care for election news will, perhaps, not enjoy this paper.

MELVIN RYNEARSON, formerly a Buchanan boy, has secured a position as baker in the Asylum at Kalamazoo.

If May flowers depend upon the April showers this year, they will most likely have a decidedly consumptive appearance.

MESS ELLA HAIN has just secured a prize of $9 cash in a word contest, and owns a Webster's Dictionary as the result.

FRANK BROWN, while on his way from Buffalo to Chicago with his company, stopped here for a visit over Sunday.

The Democrats of this township are sadly in need of a farrier. Their wheel-horse is sick with strong symptoms of glanders.

MR. FRANK'S KELSEY bought another farm Monday, the forty acres belonging to Mrs. Johnson, in that neighborhood.

You may not believe it, but Jesse Roe is going to open a jewelry stand in Scott & Brownfield's store, in the corner just vacated by J. M. Stettler.

MR. GEORGE BIRD shines in high colors with a new 'bus, and a good one. He proposes to declare a Boycott on dead heads.

MICHAEL DONNELLY, three miles south-east of Galien, will sell a lot of personal property at auction on Tuesday, April 13. N. Hamilton will do the talking.

MR. A. W. PAUL, four miles north-west of Galien, will sell a lot of stock and farm implements at auction, on the 13th inst. Charles Evans, auctioneer.

W. W. WATERMAN, formerly of this place, has bought a house and lot in Cassopolis, of Judge Smith, and settled down to stay there.

MRS. OLIVE, familiarly known as "Aunt Olive", died yesterday morning, at the home of her niece, Mrs. Joseph Clout, in this place. Aged about 82 years.

MARRIED, on Wednesday evening, April 7, at the residence of Mr. John Dempsey, by the Rev. C. G. Thomas, Mr. John C. Vile to Miss Jennie M. Tremell.

MARSHAL SHOOK found some little boys about fourteen years old, comfortably located on the street, a few days since, and engaged in a game he says is "Regular Chuck Luck".

ELDER WM. M. ROE will leave this week for Ohio, and will be absent two Sundays. Till his return there will be only a morning service in the Christian Church.

ATTENTION, FIREMEN.—When the fire alarm is sounded, you will take out the Steamer and not the Hand Engine.

J. L. RICHARDS, Chief, BUCHANAN, April 8, 1886.

JIM WOODS has evidently been attending sewing bees, or some other kind of bees, where he has come in competition with the women, and talked so much that his vocal chords are paralyzed.

SOME of the Bakertown boys came to town last evening, to attend the entertainment, and when nearly here their horse became frightened, turned about, upsetting the buggy, and spilling the boys out.

HON. R. G. HORR, one of the most pleasing and graceful speakers in the state, will discuss that all-absorbing subject of the Labor Question, in Rough's Opera House, Saturday evening. As his talk is purely non-partisan it should be listened to by all thinking men of the town. Don't forget that it is next Saturday evening, April 10.

MASONIC.—A regular meeting of Buchanan Lodge No. 100 F. & A. M., will be held on Monday evening, April 12, 1886. A full attendance is requested. By order of the W. M. B. D. HARPER, Sec.

BERRIEN COUNTY is one of the best counties in the state—for misadmitted couples. Since the organization of that shire 2,000 divorces have been granted, and others are on the nest.—Detroit Journal.

THE result of the election in this township substantiates the remark of Brother Stewart, of the South Haven Sentinel, that newspaper men should never aspire to anything higher in politics than helping other men into office.

HARRY HELMICK has taken charge of the Detroit Evening Journal circulation in Buchanan. He gets the one o'clock edition for delivering in the evening of the same day. Price, 10 cents per week, delivered. Try it.

THE Blue and Gray by the G. A. R. Post, last evening, was well rendered, considering the short time occupied in rehearsals. The tableaux were fine. The entertainment will be repeated this and to-morrow evenings.

BUSINESS CHANGES.—Peck & Beistle have sold out to Joseph Blake, to invoice next Wednesday; Scott & Hoffman are moving into Imhoff's new building, just vacated by A. E. Holmes, and C. B. Treat expects to move into Roe's building next week.

RAY. H. V. WARREN, at a meeting Saturday, tendered his resignation as pastor of the Presbyterian church, to be in force at the end of the present month. Mr. Warren is a gentleman of sterling worth, and his separation from the church will be one of sorrow.

THE RECORD is under great obligations to friends in all parts of the county, for promptly forwarding election news, enabling the RECORD to keep good its old practice of giving a more complete report than any other Berrien county paper.

In the Molloy-Graham case that has been so much interest in this section, Mrs. Molloy and Cora Lee have been held for appearance before the grand jury. The former is released on $5,000 bonds but Cora is held in prison.

If one could know how many of the boys of twelve to sixteen years of age about this town carrying revolvers in their pockets or otherwise armed, it would appal the most depraved. When you catch one of them without some deadly weapon about his clothes, you have a rare bird.

THE wind is frequently tempered to the storm lamb even in these degenerated days. An impoverished family living in Roynton, Berrien county, rummaging through a building recently occupied by their father, now deceased, found $60,000 in cold cash hidden under a floor. The money will be divided among eleven children; but the story lacks confirmation.—Detroit Journal.

Considerable of a yarn for one small corner of the state.

LIST of letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Buchanan, Mich., for the week ending April 8:

Mrs. Hattie Decker, George Foster, Mr. Sanford Marsh, Mr. Edward Marsh, E. D. Marshall, Mrs. Edith Rupert, Charles Sess, Mrs. Adah Wilson, Chas. F. Whitaker. Postal Card—Carrie Je-minder, Mr. Charles Left. J. L. RICHARDS, P. M.

POLITICS make strange bed-fellows. One would hardly look for such a pure and holy party as the Prohibitionists conning and working in harmony with the Democratic, but such is the state of affairs in the election in this township on Monday. The circumstance tends to prove the truth of the statement that all paths leading from the Republican party go directly to Democracy.

WHAT is described as the worst snow storm and blizzard of the winter visited the East part of the state Sunday. At Coldwater the snow was reported as drifted five feet deep. Adrian reports one foot of snow, with street cars and railroad trains blocked. The same was true in Port Huron, Detroit and other points. As is usual this vicinity escaped with a chilling of the atmosphere and a very light fall of snow.

TUESDAY evening there was a meeting of the Common Council, to which a number of tax payers were invited, for the purpose of discussing the proper thing to do in the Crocker case, where the village is sued for heavy damages for injuries, alleged to have been received by Mr. Crocker, of Niles, by falling from the sidewalk along Day's Avenue, where the Crandall livery barn now stands, and where the walk is stated to be ten feet high. The first complaint said six feet, but as years pass the distance increases, until it has become necessary for Mr. Crocker's attorney to amend the declaration and make it ten feet. It was concluded at the meeting that the proper thing to do with that case was to fight "Quicker's lightning." Other matters were discussed at the meeting, and among other things was developed the interesting fact that no member of the Council knew how much the village owes, or when any part of the debt becomes due, or were they right positive that they knew just how to learn about it. In fact they didn't know much about it themselves. Business men and the greater portion of corporations keep books that show just how such matters are. The village of Buchanan appears to be an exception. The Recorder was instructed to spend some time trying to solve the problem. Another matter that was discussed was the propriety of allowing the people to know what was being done, by publishing their proceedings. Some were opposed to it entirely. One thought it would be nice to publish the proceedings if they could be so mutilated that the readers might not know who makes the motions or votes. Nothing has been published for several months, as a matter of economy with the people's money. It costs $2 a meeting to publish in both papers, at least that was the excuse given.

MR. ELI J. ROE'S building was engaged three times Tuesday as a place of business: First, Lew. Boyle was going to move his dry goods stock there, but changed his mind; next, Roy Bros. were going to move their hardware stock there, and finally, C. B. Treat rented the property, and will move in next week.

HELEN G., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Peacock, died April 3, 1886, at Harrisburg, Pa.; aged 11 months and 17 days.

We had a darling baby, A daughter, bright and fair. Her feet have crossed the swelling tide; She'll soon breathe heavenly air.

What bright ethereal beauty Shall crown that baby brow, No mortal eye can picture, No voice can tell us now.

Score one short year we kept her— A bud dropped from the above. She taught us more of patience, She taught us more of love.

Our hearts are touched by sorrow At the loss that we must bear; But we cannot wish her back again, Life's weary tolls to share.

For now she's safe from danger, From sorrow, toil and pain; And what to us is sorest loss, To her is richest gain.

We've still a darling baby, A daughter, sweet and fair; She'll bloom again in Paradise, And we shall meet her there.

At the Republican Caucus, Saturday afternoon, LeRoy H. Dodd was chosen Chairman and Geo. W. Noble, Secretary. The following ticket was placed in nomination: For Supervisor, Lorenzo P. Alexander; Township Clerk, Robert H. Rogers; Treasurer, Clyde H. Baker; School Inspector, John G. Holmes; Commissioner of Highways, Robert H. Coveney; Drain Commissioner, Levi W. Spaulding; Justice of the Peace (full term), Lorenzo P. Alexander; Justice of the Peace (to fill vacancy, three years), Edward Ballengee; Justice of the Peace (to fill vacancy, two years), Levi W. Spaulding; Constables, Charles Snyder, Amos C. Bartlett, Charles Wray, Arthur Allen.

Obituary. Mrs. Polly Murphy was born in Ross county, Ohio, in March, A. D., 1809, and died in Berrien township, Berrien county, Mich., Apr. 2, A. D., 1886; aged 77 years, and 1 month. The funeral services were held at Berrien Centre Church, on Sunday, April 4, 1886, Elder J. F. Bartness delivering an excellent discourse and worthy tribute to the memory of the deceased, for his text Job, 14: 14. Mrs. Murphy and her husband, Mr. Jno. Murphy, have been residents of Berrien township for fifty-two years; in the truest sense, sturdy pioneers. Her aged husband, several children and a large circle of relatives mourn her death. She went to her rest "Ripe in years, and full of faith in Christ."

At the election Monday the voters did three good things and one very poor one. They voted to raise $600 for township purposes; $1,500 for highways; $1,500 for the care of the poor, and then scrippled the library down with only $50, a sum that is not equal to the keeping up the natural wear and tear of the books. There ought to have been at least six times that amount raised. It was plainly evident that the library had fallen into the hands of its enemies—men who do not read its books. That the books are read, is shown by the examination of the records. It shows that on March 26 there were 40 books taken; 27th, 78; 28th, 25; 30th, 21; 31st, 28; April 1st, 14; 2d, 20; 3d, 67; 5th, 27. The only comment that fairly fits the case is outrageous.

Board of Supervisors. Bainbridge—Geo. F. Stewart, R. Benton—J. C. Lawrence, R. Berrien—Cyrus B. Grant, R. Bertrand—Freeman Franklin, D. Buchanan—L. P. Alexander, R. Chikaming—W. A. Keith, D. Galien—B. R. Starns, R. Hagar—E. L. Kingsland, R. Lake—C. L. Whitcomb, R. Lincoln—J. S. Beers, D. New Buffalo—J. M. Glavin, R. Niles—E. B. Storms, R. "City, 1st and 4th wards,—J. M. Babcock, D. Niles city, 2nd and 3rd wards,—G. A. Lambert, D. Oronoko—Wm. H. Sylvester, D. Pipestone—Anson Lewis, R. Roynton—J. H. Skover, R. St. Joseph—G. F. Comings, D. & P. Sodus—Fred F. King, R. Sodus—H. H. Martin, D. Waterville—Ed. Brand, R. Weesay—Clayton Smith, D. Those marked * are re-elected.

FOLLOWING is a list of Pathmasters appointed at the township meeting, Monday for this township: Dis. No. 1 Everett McCullum. " 2 Geo. Markley. " 3 R. V. Clark. " 4 Charles McCracken. " 5 Gottlieb Cool. " 6 Charles Swartz. " 7 Harry Haskins. " 8 Jacob Weaver. " 9 Joseph Fuller. " 10 Samuel Rollins. " 11 Evan Thomas. " 12 Frank Wade. " 13 Anselm Wray. " 14 Mathias Huss. " 15 John Burrus. " 16 William Burrus. " 17 David Montgomery. " 18 Vacant. " 19 " " 20 Burl Longfellow. " 21 Joseph Wells. " 22 Fred Andrews. " 23 R. Marble.

Dr. C. W. Spaulding and wife, accompanied by his sister, are moving to Tenn. This step is made to give his sister a change of climate. She is low with consumption.

Mrs. Emery, of Buchanan, was here last week on a visit.

The M. E. Society, of Dayton, voted a request that Elder James Docking be returned to this charge.

Hiram Hall has bought Mr. Ash's blacksmith shop for $500, and III, and family have become residents of Galien.

The Teachers' Examination, at Berrien was liberally patronized by this place. Five out of six of the pupils of the Galien high school received their "sheepskins." Nellie Droggie teaches in the Wilson district; Clara Boyle, in the Eaton district; Carrie Lamb, in the Elm Valley district.

The election passed off very quietly. There were only two tickets, a Republican and a Citizens ticket, and very unfortunately (or fort-nately), there were no citizens elected and the township will be under Republican rule for another year.

Charlie White is enlarging his fish pond, preparatory to stocking it with German carp.

G. A. Blakeslee and family are all attending Conference at Lamoni, Iowa. David Cornwell is putting down a well for G. A. Blakeslee & Co., back of their store.

[Berrien Springs Era.] The steamer J. H. Johnson is plying on the river in the wood business. There was a quit claim deed recorded in the office of the register of deeds of this county many years ago, made by a man in the north part of the county wherein he deeded his wife to the world under the impression that that would act as a divorce. This is only one of the many queer documents of record in that office.

The debt statement for March shows a decrease of $14,087.884.

A full year of prosperity will not take up to the laboring men the loss they have sustained by the strike of the past six weeks.

The Iowa legislature has passed a law prohibiting aliens from owning land in that state. Now if Congress will enact something of the same sort, the country will be benefited.

Strikes are like fire, easy to start but to be stopped with great difficulty, and only after heavy loss.—New York Tribune.

Commissioner Black is described upon the pension rolls as a total physical and mental wreck. His performances in the investigation of his department now going on go far to confirm the truth of the description so far as his mind is concerned.—Detroit Tribune.

We believe that the recognition of the right of power of any organization outside of this country by a secret and despotic agency would sound the death-knell of this Republic and pave the way for anarchy and then despotism.—Kansas City Journal.

The selection of Jefferson Davis to deliver the dedicatory speech at the Confederate soldier's monument at Atlanta reminds the Constitution of that city in the investigation of his department made at Atlanta, just prior to the war of the rebellion, when he began thus: "Fellow citizens—if there is to be war let it come. We can be ready in ten days." In another ten days we will take Washington. In ten days more New York will fall into our hands. Boston we don't want, because we don't care for baked beans."

St. Johns banks refuse to buy Bohemian notes.

John Hoffman's child, at Cadillac, got a button in its throat and choked to death.

Last Friday little Marion Parks, of Elk Rapids, fell into the river, but was rescued by her Newfoundland dog.

P. C. Davis has sold his 30-acre peach farm near South Haven for $3,000 cash. The peach outlook is reported good.

William Ryan, of Arhela, blew out the gas when he retired at the Thayer House at Flint, Thursday night, and next morning he was found dead.

H. W. Horton, who died at Grove-land Oakland county, Saturday, on the farm for which he received a patent from Andrew Jackson, 50 years ago, was 80 years old and was a soldier in the war of 1812.

Two silly Kalamazoo young men who chance to love one and the same girl, tried to settle the matter Sunday by a resort to fistfights. Both were badly punished, and while the foolish fellows were punning each other, the object of their attentions was on her way to church with another man.

Daniel LaDuke, a Frenchman, is in jail at Saginaw City, charged with the murder of a valuable horse. LaDuke hired the horse from a livery stable, and on the street in East Saginaw kicked the horse in the stomach so violently that it died in a few hours. The extreme penalty for the crime is three years in state prison.—Detroit Journal.

Some Timely Talk. The Journal desires to say a few words to the Republicans of Michigan about the approaching political campaign. We are hearing another contest in this State of the kind that draws nigh it behooves us all to take counsel of cool judgment and practical common sense. This is no hour for local bickerings or personal strifes. Neither let us all determine that from this on until November next we will make a square, manly fight for Republican principles and Republican success.

The next legislature elects a United States senator. There are many good Republicans in the State, no doubt, who would willingly serve in that honorable capacity. This is well and good, but the first thing on hand is to elect a legislature that will fill the place with a Republican. To do that the party must fight for Republican principles and Republican success, and not for the purpose of gratifying their personal ambition, no matter who he may be or where he may live, or the nature of his ambition. Whether Mr. Conger shall succeed himself or his place shall be given to Beckwith, or Lacey, or Burrows, or Cutcheon, or Horr, or Hubbell, is a matter of secondary importance, and one that can be safely left to the legislature. The point of the highest import is that we elect such a legislature as will insure the selection of some such sound Republican senator. In doing this we can afford to waste no energies by striving to serve the personal ends of any man living. By a long pull and a strong pull together, we will reach certain victory and then there will be time enough to settle all minor matters of whatever name or nature.

One word more. In this contest what good can come from indulging in local flings or stirring up animosities among brethren of the same household of faith?

The question of the hour is not in what part of the State any man may reside; what his claims may be for this or that; or how much he may have done in the past for Republican success. But the burning, vital question is: Is he a good Republican? Has he the ability to fill the place the party asks him to fill? Is he strong with the people? Does he sympathize with the needs of honest labor? Has his life been clean, honest, and straightforward? Is he a man of earnest convictions, and has he the courage to express those convictions?

These Republicans of Michigan, are the pertinent questions to be considered when selecting men for our places of public trust, and when rightly answered it matters little whether such men live in Detroit, in Grand Rapids, in Lansing, in the Saginaw valley, in Kalamazoo, in the upper peninsula, or in any other spot in Michigan.

Devotion to principle and fitness for the place should decide the make-up of our next State ticket, our legislative tickets, our county tickets, our tickets and an old-fashioned fight for Republican principles, and judging from the sure outlook here in Grand county, we will march straight on to an old-fashioned Republican victory throughout the north and breadth of the State. Republicans of Michigan everywhere, let us work for such a victory.

Let us present a solid, unswerving phalanx to the opposing factions, and such a victory will surely crown our efforts in the coming struggle.—Grand County Journal.

Locals. WILL U. MARTIN will be in Buchanan on his regular trip for Tuning and Repairing Pianos and Organs, on or about April 14, 1886. Orders may be left at Morris' Restaurant, or address by mail on that date.

FOR SALE.—On easy terms, Lots 9 and 10, Block A, Collins' addition to Buchanan, near High School building, will be sold at a bargain. For particulars, address J. M. CRANE, 24 Bagley Ave., Detroit, Mich.

FOR SALE OR RENT.—The House and Lot on Oak street, first north of the U. B. Church. For information, inquire of 1044* MRS. EDNA ESTES.

50 GIRLS WANTED. We can give permanent employment to girls between the age of 10 25. We learn them to knit, providing they come with the intention of staying at least one year. Board reasonable. Good wages. Address at once. COOPER, WELLS & CO., St. Joseph, Mich.

More new Goods, at Mrs. DUNNING & CO'S. SCOTT & HOFFMAN will move in Jacob Imhoff's new building to-day, corner of Front & Oak streets.

Good copper bottom Boilers, for $1, at the FAIR. Come in and see our new line of Crockery. SCOTT & HOFFMAN.

A full line of Garden Seeds in the bulk and package, at BISHOP'S. You can buy good Gingham, from 5 cts. to 10 cts.; good Standard Prints, at 5 cts., and all Goods as low as any man can sell them.

GRAHAM. For the convenience of my friends, I have concluded to move back to the old stand, just vacated by H. Oppenheim. C. B. TREAT.

A full line of Gray Bros' ladies' fine Shoes, both kid and goat, just received by J. K. Wood's. Call and see them before buying.

Remember, we have a small stock of Wall Paper to close out, cheap, at HIGHS'. Just look, as you go into Morgan's, at those Bedroom Sets. They are elegant and cheap. E. MORGAN & CO.

40c Hats, at Mrs. DUNNING & CO'S. Good copper bottom Tea Kettles for $1, at the FAIR.

Come now while it is dull, if you want Goods cheap. The money we must have. GRAHAM. Don't forget I am going to move next week to the old quarters. C. B. TREAT.

More new Glassware, at BISHOP'S. Nicest colors in plaid worsted Dress Goods, found at HIGHS'.

Those decorated Tea Sets are different from anything you have seen, both in quality, price and beauty. Call and see them. E. MORGAN & CO.

25c Hats, at Mrs. DUNNING & CO'S. Hotel Falls 25c, at the FAIR.

Grand opening of the Grocery in the new quarters next Wednesday night. C. B. TREAT. Flower Seeds of all kinds, at BISHOP'S.

Ladies call and see Pattern Hats and Bonnets, at Mrs. DUNNING & CO'S. REMEMBER! REMEMBER! The 5c and 10c Counter, at the FAIR.

Remember, Mrs. DUNNING & Co. has just returned from Chicago with a variety of Goods in her line, first door west of post-office.

NEW TONSORIAL ROOMS. Everything clean and razors sharp. The patronage of the public is respectfully solicited. Rooms in basement of Imhoff's block. T. BENNETT. Paper Curtains, at STRAW'S.

TO MY INSURANCE PATRONS! If any man calls upon you with the story that I am going out of the Insurance business, tell him promptly that he is a liar, and set the dog on to him, and greatly oblige me. I shall attend to all renewals promptly and be on hand for new business. 3w* CHARLES EVANS. Stereoscopic Views 50 cents per dozen, at STRAW'S.

FOR SALE. General stock, consisting of Dry Goods, Groceries, Hardware, Boots and Shoes, drugs, etc. Post office in building. Am doing a good paying business, but compelled to sell out at a sacrifice on account of ill-health. Address, R. B. JENNINGS, New Troy, Mich.

Old Maids' Coffee-pots at THE FAIR, 10 cents. Now is the time to save money, and you can do it by dealing where they sell goods at 5 per cent. off for cash. PECK & BEISTLE.

THEY ARE HERE! THEY ARE HERE! Come and see them! Dress Goods of all kinds! You can find just what you want at BOYLE'S. The best line of Ceiling Decorations at STRAW'S.

TO THE BUTTER MAKERS. If you want Dairy Salt, E. Moran & Co. have it. New Jerseys! New Dress Goods! New Prints! New Hose! At HIGHS'.

NOTICE! All persons knowing themselves in debt to the firm of REDDEN & BOYLE will please call and settle, as we wish to balance all old accounts, and oblige, REDDEN & BOYLE. Sewing Machine Needles cheap at STRAW'S.

Nice Prints, only 5cts at BOYLE'S. Best selected stock of Ladies' and children's Hosiery ever saw, at HIGHS'. Step in, and see the largest stock of Wall Paper ever in Buchanan, at STRAW'S.

Look at the 5 cent Gingham, at BOYLE'S. 6,000 rolls of New Patterns of the latest designs, at STRAW'S. We have adopted the plan of giving the cash customer the benefit. PECK & BEISTLE.

NELLIE SMITH has removed her stock of Millinery 1st door north C. D. Baker's furniture store. A full line of Garden Seeds, at SCOTT & HOFFMAN'S. NEW GOODS! NEW GOODS! You will find lots of them at BOYLE'S.

We keep a fine assortment of Lead Pencils, Pen-holders, Pens, Slates-pencils, Stationery, Tablets and Notions of all kinds constantly on hand. P. O. NEWS DEPOT. See the line of Glassware at THE FAIR.

NEW GOODS! NEW GOODS! Dress Goods, Cotton Hosiery for Ladies, Men and Children, way down at High's. REMEMBER, 1st door north furniture store you will find NELLIE SMITH, MILLINERY.

Lots of nice country Pork and Bacon at SCOTT & HOFFMAN'S. Go to BOYLE'S for your Brocaded Velvets. You will find just what you want. HIGHS'. Elegant stock of White Goods, at HIGHS'.

Rolled Avena, far superior to Oat Meal, for sale at BISHOP'S. Handsome line of Clasp, just received, at BOYLE'S. Bargains in Cotton Hose, at HIGHS'.

Three bars Toilet Soap and a pound of Baking Powder for 30c, at BISHOP'S. Yours, for good goods at low prices. C. B. TREAT. Prunell's Evaporated Peaches, Evaporated Apples, French Prunes and a full assortment of Dried Fruits, at BISHOP'S.

To know how cheap you can buy Embroideries, price them at BOYLE'S. Everybody that has not settled up in four to five years are requested to do so, at HIGHS'. E. MORGAN & Co. is always on hand with a full stock of any thing usually found in the Grocery Line.

Oh, you ought to see those new Buttons at BOYLE'S. New Ribbons at Horr's, this week. Come in and see our Rockingham ware—pie plates, cuspidors, and such. SCOTT & HOFFMAN. The first of March is past, but I can still use money. Please call and settle. G. BISHOP.

Try a can of Baking Powder and get a present, at SCOTT & HOFFMAN'S. The greatest bargains in town are to be found on JOHN MORRIS' 10 Cent Counter. SCOTT & HOFFMAN, Successors to Geo. W. Fox.

Are at his old stand, where they are ready at all times to serve his old customers as well as others that may call. Cash paid for all kinds of country produce. SCOTT & HOFFMAN. Did you ever try any of the Delicious Morning Comfort Coffee? at BISHOP'S.

Prize Coffee, at BISHOP'S. Did you ask where you could get a good set of Strings for your Guitar or Violin? J. H. Roe keeps the best Guitar, Violin and Banjo strings for the least money, and a good stock of all kinds of Musical Merchandise. Prints, Sheetting and Denims are Very Cheap with HIGHS'. The best 50ct. Tobacco in town, at SCOTT & HOFFMAN'S. You will always find a complete line of Groceries, Crockery, Glassware, at C. B. TREAT'S.

TAKE NOTICE! ALL THOSE INDEBTED TO SAMSON & PIERCE ARE REQUESTED TO CALL UPON GEORGE SAMSON, AT HIS HARDWARE STORE, AND GET RECEIPTS WITHOUT DELAY. The latest style of Glass ware, at SCOTT & HOFFMAN'S. For sale, cheap, large house and three lots, near the M. C. depot. For full particulars inquire of JOHN ALLIGER, Buchanan, Mich.

The best 50ct. Tea in the world, at SCOTT & HOFFMAN'S. A grand rush for the Prize Coffee, at PECK & BEISTLE. EXTRA copies of the RECORD may always be found at the news depot in the post office room.

REMOVAL.

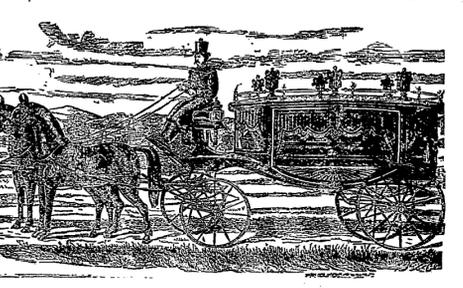

To customers and the public in general. I have removed my stock of MILLINERY

Into room first door north of Baker's furniture store, where you will always find a full and complete stock of

Hats, Feathers, Flowers, Laces and Veilings,

At extremely low prices; call and examine. RESPECTFULLY, NELLIE SMITH.

UNDERTAKING!

C. H. BAKER

Has just put in a new and complete line of Undertaking goods, consisting of wood and cloth covered caskets, and a nice assortment of Ladies' and Gents' Burial Robes, and would be pleased to have you call and examine his stock before buying elsewhere.

THE RAILROAD STRIKE.

HOW THE STRIKE ORIGINATED ON THE SOUTHWESTERN SYSTEM.

Map of St. Louis and East St. Louis—Portraits of Governors Marmaduke, of Missouri, and Martin, of Kansas, and Vice-President H. H. Hooper.

St. Louis, March 31.—What a tremendous conflagration can result from a small spark is shown in the recent railroad strike which spread over all the roads of Mr. Gould's southwestern system from the discharge of a single man. It began in this way:

One year ago an agreement was made between the Knights of Labor and the managers of this system that no man should be discharged without a hearing. On Feb. 13 District Attorney 101, of the Knights of Labor, held a convention at Marshall, Tex. Among the delegates was C. A. Hall, a former member of the Texas Pacific on charge at Marshall. He had secured, it is alleged, a leave of absence to attend the convention from his immediate superior, the master car builder. The convention lasted four days. At noon of the last day Mr. Hall resumed his work, but received a note in the evening on quitting work with this same master car builder that he was discharged for being absent from business without leave. The local committee demanded his reinstatement, which was refused. A local strike was organized, but the men refused to obey the committee. A meeting of the executive board of the Knights was called, and an order was given for the men to quit work at Fort Worth, Marshall and Dallas. Again the executive board asked for the reinstatement of Hall, and threatened in case of refusal to call all the men out on the Gould system which employs as shogmen, truckmen and trainmen, some 15,000 men. March 6 the order for the machine shogmen to strike was given, and immediately 3,000 men quit work. The railroad managers still refusing to yield, on March 5 the order to quit work was given, and immediately 3,000 men quit work. The railroad managers still refusing to yield, on March 5 the order to quit work was given, and immediately 3,000 men quit work.

board of the Knights was called, and an order was given for the men to quit work at Fort Worth, Marshall and Dallas. Again the executive board asked for the reinstatement of Hall, and threatened in case of refusal to call all the men out on the Gould system which employs as shogmen, truckmen and trainmen, some 15,000 men.

On March 6 the order for the machine shogmen to strike was given, and immediately 3,000 men quit work. The railroad managers still refusing to yield, on March 5 the order to quit work was given, and immediately 3,000 men quit work.

On March 10 the order was given by the railroad managers to lay off all the clerks, telegraph operators and yard watchmen, which resulted in the discharge of 5,000 men.

The above map of the city of St. Louis and East St. Louis shows the location of the various roads entering in or near the city. St. Louis is the center of four lines of railroad from the west, while out of East St. Louis there are three main trunk lines. On the Union depot there was little change noticeable in the arrival and departure of trains, but at the stock yards, west of the depot, and at Carondek and the various freight yards, thousands of cars and locomotives remained idle.

GOVERNOR J. S. MARMADUKE. A lack of provisions almost to starvation in towns supplied by the railroads, a loss in wages to the strikers of $30,000 a day, besides a loss directly to the strikers of $100,000 a day, besides a loss indirectly to the strikers of $100,000 a day, besides a loss indirectly to the strikers of $100,000 a day.

GOVERNOR JOHN A. MARTIN. On March 20 there was a conference of the governors of Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Arkansas with Vice-President Hooper, in the hope of bringing about a settlement of the difficulties. Gen. Marmaduke, of Missouri, is largely identified with some of the leading business interests of his state, so that for personal, as well as public reasons, he was eager to see an adjustment of the troubles.

GOVERNOR ELI H. MURRAY. At Thomastown, Ga., there died quietly last week A. N. Kellogg, a man who did much to revolutionize the newspaper system of this country. Co-operation of Missouri and Kentucky trials has been found to be the solution of most knotty problems that vex humanity. Men accomplish by simply having things to do.

When the war broke out, in 1861, Mr. Kellogg was editor and publisher of a small country paper in Wisconsin, "The Barnboro Republic." His printer enlisted as a soldier, and left him without a typesetter. The chance was that he would be unable to get his paper out on the publishing day. He cast hurriedly

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

PROJECT FOR FREIGHT TRAFFIC ACROSS CENTRAL AMERICA.

The Inter-oceanic Ship Railway Scheme of Capt. Eads Which is Just Now Engaging the Attention of Congress—Steamships to be Carried Over the Land.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The problem of how to transport vessels across Central America seems to be far from settled. The "Lesser" canal project is being projected as a means of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the nature of the work will permit, and capable engineers are confident that it will be completed in a few years. Its estimated cost was originally $200,000,000.

It was on Simon's own recommendation that Edwin M. Stanton succeeded him as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet. Chase and Seward had conservative, not to say timid, notions about carrying on the war. Cameron was for bold and thorough-going measures. So there was a division of opinion between Cameron and Lincoln. But Lincoln could not do without his planner of campaigns. Stanton came in. Some of those whose names were reviewed by Stanton were trying to defeat Lincoln for the second time. Lincoln sally and anxiously talked with him about it. Cameron said: "Why, Mr. President, don't you remember what was done when Andrew Jackson was a candidate for the second time? They went around and got the signatures of every state in the Union to sign a paper asking him to be a candidate for re-election. This created such a sentiment in his favor that no other man could stand against him. I shall go to Pennsylvania to-night and it shall be the first state to start the ball."

It was done, and in a very short time nearly every state in the Union had signed the paper. The great wire-puller then went back to Washington to see the president. He came in during a reception at the Executive Mansion, when hundreds of persons were passing in a line to shake hands with the president, who saw his faithful organizer approaching. His Lincoln, who wore white cotton gloves. He waved one hand to the land in the air and cried out: "Cameron, three more states in today!"

All this and more the veteran told the newspaper correspondent who visited him on his 57th birthday. SARAH KING.

THE NEW YORK APARTMENT HOUSE A Whole Village Has Its Home Under One Roof.

The stranger visiting New York, especially the stranger coming to the city down the Hudson or the East river, will observe here and there large buildings that make the structures around them look like doll houses. He will wonder what they are, thinking they must be some mighty public building, like a great postoffice or city hall. They are not to be mistaken for anything of the kind. They are full of floors and suites of rooms to be rented to families. The suites are called apartments, or popularly flats. The buildings are usually constructed with a hall in the middle. On this hall, going up floor after floor, the front doors of the suites open. Each flat has, besides a small inside room, a kitchen, a bath and a toilet. The ground floor little or no sunlight in the middle rooms. The top floors are the best.

The best way to avoid dark rooms is to make one common entrance from the street and have the great central hall run parallel with the street instead of at right angles to it. Many of the most approved flat houses are now built in this way. The apartments straggle along the hall sideways instead of running back from the streets.

One of the largest of these buildings is that in the pictures, known as the New York flats. It is near Central Park, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It is not yet wholly completed. One artist shows the part which is finished. The plan is merely to add on more apartments in the same style as the first. The general effect will be the same as shown, only larger and broader. The architecture is said to be Moorish, but it is not Moorish to be sure.

The Late Madame Heilbron. This popular prima donna, who died recently at Nice, was born in Brussels. She sang in the opera house of the Royal Conservatory there. At the end of her first year she took the first prize for singing and piano, and attracted the notice of the king by her brilliant performance. Her rich voice and fine expression that he recommended her father at once to send her to Paris for further study. This was done. In six weeks she made her debut at the Opera, in an opera called "La Grande Tante." It was written especially for her by the French composer Massenet. Next she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

From the start her career was almost uninterfered triumph, although she was young to reap the highest artistic rewards, being only 24 years old. If she had lived longer she would have become greater.

She had youth, she had beauty, she had genius. What life could have been more favored! From Paris she went to Holland and sang in the theatre there. The city of Holland gave her a diamond necklace. She returned to Paris in 1871 and had a prosperous season there. She took the part of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni." She also sang in "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Traviata." Her highest success, however, was not reached till after she had spent a season of study in Milan and learned the French method. Then she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

PROJECT FOR FREIGHT TRAFFIC ACROSS CENTRAL AMERICA.

The Inter-oceanic Ship Railway Scheme of Capt. Eads Which is Just Now Engaging the Attention of Congress—Steamships to be Carried Over the Land.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The problem of how to transport vessels across Central America seems to be far from settled. The "Lesser" canal project is being projected as a means of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the nature of the work will permit, and capable engineers are confident that it will be completed in a few years. Its estimated cost was originally $200,000,000.

It was on Simon's own recommendation that Edwin M. Stanton succeeded him as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet. Chase and Seward had conservative, not to say timid, notions about carrying on the war. Cameron was for bold and thorough-going measures. So there was a division of opinion between Cameron and Lincoln. But Lincoln could not do without his planner of campaigns. Stanton came in. Some of those whose names were reviewed by Stanton were trying to defeat Lincoln for the second time. Lincoln sally and anxiously talked with him about it. Cameron said: "Why, Mr. President, don't you remember what was done when Andrew Jackson was a candidate for the second time? They went around and got the signatures of every state in the Union to sign a paper asking him to be a candidate for re-election. This created such a sentiment in his favor that no other man could stand against him. I shall go to Pennsylvania to-night and it shall be the first state to start the ball."

It was done, and in a very short time nearly every state in the Union had signed the paper. The great wire-puller then went back to Washington to see the president. He came in during a reception at the Executive Mansion, when hundreds of persons were passing in a line to shake hands with the president, who saw his faithful organizer approaching. His Lincoln, who wore white cotton gloves. He waved one hand to the land in the air and cried out: "Cameron, three more states in today!"

All this and more the veteran told the newspaper correspondent who visited him on his 57th birthday. SARAH KING.

THE NEW YORK APARTMENT HOUSE A Whole Village Has Its Home Under One Roof.

The stranger visiting New York, especially the stranger coming to the city down the Hudson or the East river, will observe here and there large buildings that make the structures around them look like doll houses. He will wonder what they are, thinking they must be some mighty public building, like a great postoffice or city hall. They are not to be mistaken for anything of the kind. They are full of floors and suites of rooms to be rented to families. The suites are called apartments, or popularly flats. The buildings are usually constructed with a hall in the middle. On this hall, going up floor after floor, the front doors of the suites open. Each flat has, besides a small inside room, a kitchen, a bath and a toilet. The ground floor little or no sunlight in the middle rooms. The top floors are the best.

The best way to avoid dark rooms is to make one common entrance from the street and have the great central hall run parallel with the street instead of at right angles to it. Many of the most approved flat houses are now built in this way. The apartments straggle along the hall sideways instead of running back from the streets.

One of the largest of these buildings is that in the pictures, known as the New York flats. It is near Central Park, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It is not yet wholly completed. One artist shows the part which is finished. The plan is merely to add on more apartments in the same style as the first. The general effect will be the same as shown, only larger and broader. The architecture is said to be Moorish, but it is not Moorish to be sure.

The Late Madame Heilbron. This popular prima donna, who died recently at Nice, was born in Brussels. She sang in the opera house of the Royal Conservatory there. At the end of her first year she took the first prize for singing and piano, and attracted the notice of the king by her brilliant performance. Her rich voice and fine expression that he recommended her father at once to send her to Paris for further study. This was done. In six weeks she made her debut at the Opera, in an opera called "La Grande Tante." It was written especially for her by the French composer Massenet. Next she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

From the start her career was almost uninterfered triumph, although she was young to reap the highest artistic rewards, being only 24 years old. If she had lived longer she would have become greater.

She had youth, she had beauty, she had genius. What life could have been more favored! From Paris she went to Holland and sang in the theatre there. The city of Holland gave her a diamond necklace. She returned to Paris in 1871 and had a prosperous season there. She took the part of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni." She also sang in "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Traviata." Her highest success, however, was not reached till after she had spent a season of study in Milan and learned the French method. Then she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

PROJECT FOR FREIGHT TRAFFIC ACROSS CENTRAL AMERICA.

The Inter-oceanic Ship Railway Scheme of Capt. Eads Which is Just Now Engaging the Attention of Congress—Steamships to be Carried Over the Land.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The problem of how to transport vessels across Central America seems to be far from settled. The "Lesser" canal project is being projected as a means of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the nature of the work will permit, and capable engineers are confident that it will be completed in a few years. Its estimated cost was originally $200,000,000.

It was on Simon's own recommendation that Edwin M. Stanton succeeded him as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet. Chase and Seward had conservative, not to say timid, notions about carrying on the war. Cameron was for bold and thorough-going measures. So there was a division of opinion between Cameron and Lincoln. But Lincoln could not do without his planner of campaigns. Stanton came in. Some of those whose names were reviewed by Stanton were trying to defeat Lincoln for the second time. Lincoln sally and anxiously talked with him about it. Cameron said: "Why, Mr. President, don't you remember what was done when Andrew Jackson was a candidate for the second time? They went around and got the signatures of every state in the Union to sign a paper asking him to be a candidate for re-election. This created such a sentiment in his favor that no other man could stand against him. I shall go to Pennsylvania to-night and it shall be the first state to start the ball."

It was done, and in a very short time nearly every state in the Union had signed the paper. The great wire-puller then went back to Washington to see the president. He came in during a reception at the Executive Mansion, when hundreds of persons were passing in a line to shake hands with the president, who saw his faithful organizer approaching. His Lincoln, who wore white cotton gloves. He waved one hand to the land in the air and cried out: "Cameron, three more states in today!"

All this and more the veteran told the newspaper correspondent who visited him on his 57th birthday. SARAH KING.

THE NEW YORK APARTMENT HOUSE A Whole Village Has Its Home Under One Roof.

The stranger visiting New York, especially the stranger coming to the city down the Hudson or the East river, will observe here and there large buildings that make the structures around them look like doll houses. He will wonder what they are, thinking they must be some mighty public building, like a great postoffice or city hall. They are not to be mistaken for anything of the kind. They are full of floors and suites of rooms to be rented to families. The suites are called apartments, or popularly flats. The buildings are usually constructed with a hall in the middle. On this hall, going up floor after floor, the front doors of the suites open. Each flat has, besides a small inside room, a kitchen, a bath and a toilet. The ground floor little or no sunlight in the middle rooms. The top floors are the best.

The best way to avoid dark rooms is to make one common entrance from the street and have the great central hall run parallel with the street instead of at right angles to it. Many of the most approved flat houses are now built in this way. The apartments straggle along the hall sideways instead of running back from the streets.

One of the largest of these buildings is that in the pictures, known as the New York flats. It is near Central Park, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It is not yet wholly completed. One artist shows the part which is finished. The plan is merely to add on more apartments in the same style as the first. The general effect will be the same as shown, only larger and broader. The architecture is said to be Moorish, but it is not Moorish to be sure.

The Late Madame Heilbron. This popular prima donna, who died recently at Nice, was born in Brussels. She sang in the opera house of the Royal Conservatory there. At the end of her first year she took the first prize for singing and piano, and attracted the notice of the king by her brilliant performance. Her rich voice and fine expression that he recommended her father at once to send her to Paris for further study. This was done. In six weeks she made her debut at the Opera, in an opera called "La Grande Tante." It was written especially for her by the French composer Massenet. Next she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

From the start her career was almost uninterfered triumph, although she was young to reap the highest artistic rewards, being only 24 years old. If she had lived longer she would have become greater.

She had youth, she had beauty, she had genius. What life could have been more favored! From Paris she went to Holland and sang in the theatre there. The city of Holland gave her a diamond necklace. She returned to Paris in 1871 and had a prosperous season there. She took the part of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni." She also sang in "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Traviata." Her highest success, however, was not reached till after she had spent a season of study in Milan and learned the French method. Then she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

PROJECT FOR FREIGHT TRAFFIC ACROSS CENTRAL AMERICA.

The Inter-oceanic Ship Railway Scheme of Capt. Eads Which is Just Now Engaging the Attention of Congress—Steamships to be Carried Over the Land.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The problem of how to transport vessels across Central America seems to be far from settled. The "Lesser" canal project is being projected as a means of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the nature of the work will permit, and capable engineers are confident that it will be completed in a few years. Its estimated cost was originally $200,000,000.

It was on Simon's own recommendation that Edwin M. Stanton succeeded him as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet. Chase and Seward had conservative, not to say timid, notions about carrying on the war. Cameron was for bold and thorough-going measures. So there was a division of opinion between Cameron and Lincoln. But Lincoln could not do without his planner of campaigns. Stanton came in. Some of those whose names were reviewed by Stanton were trying to defeat Lincoln for the second time. Lincoln sally and anxiously talked with him about it. Cameron said: "Why, Mr. President, don't you remember what was done when Andrew Jackson was a candidate for the second time? They went around and got the signatures of every state in the Union to sign a paper asking him to be a candidate for re-election. This created such a sentiment in his favor that no other man could stand against him. I shall go to Pennsylvania to-night and it shall be the first state to start the ball."

It was done, and in a very short time nearly every state in the Union had signed the paper. The great wire-puller then went back to Washington to see the president. He came in during a reception at the Executive Mansion, when hundreds of persons were passing in a line to shake hands with the president, who saw his faithful organizer approaching. His Lincoln, who wore white cotton gloves. He waved one hand to the land in the air and cried out: "Cameron, three more states in today!"

All this and more the veteran told the newspaper correspondent who visited him on his 57th birthday. SARAH KING.

THE NEW YORK APARTMENT HOUSE A Whole Village Has Its Home Under One Roof.

The stranger visiting New York, especially the stranger coming to the city down the Hudson or the East river, will observe here and there large buildings that make the structures around them look like doll houses. He will wonder what they are, thinking they must be some mighty public building, like a great postoffice or city hall. They are not to be mistaken for anything of the kind. They are full of floors and suites of rooms to be rented to families. The suites are called apartments, or popularly flats. The buildings are usually constructed with a hall in the middle. On this hall, going up floor after floor, the front doors of the suites open. Each flat has, besides a small inside room, a kitchen, a bath and a toilet. The ground floor little or no sunlight in the middle rooms. The top floors are the best.

The best way to avoid dark rooms is to make one common entrance from the street and have the great central hall run parallel with the street instead of at right angles to it. Many of the most approved flat houses are now built in this way. The apartments straggle along the hall sideways instead of running back from the streets.

One of the largest of these buildings is that in the pictures, known as the New York flats. It is near Central Park, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It is not yet wholly completed. One artist shows the part which is finished. The plan is merely to add on more apartments in the same style as the first. The general effect will be the same as shown, only larger and broader. The architecture is said to be Moorish, but it is not Moorish to be sure.

The Late Madame Heilbron. This popular prima donna, who died recently at Nice, was born in Brussels. She sang in the opera house of the Royal Conservatory there. At the end of her first year she took the first prize for singing and piano, and attracted the notice of the king by her brilliant performance. Her rich voice and fine expression that he recommended her father at once to send her to Paris for further study. This was done. In six weeks she made her debut at the Opera, in an opera called "La Grande Tante." It was written especially for her by the French composer Massenet. Next she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

From the start her career was almost uninterfered triumph, although she was young to reap the highest artistic rewards, being only 24 years old. If she had lived longer she would have become greater.

She had youth, she had beauty, she had genius. What life could have been more favored! From Paris she went to Holland and sang in the theatre there. The city of Holland gave her a diamond necklace. She returned to Paris in 1871 and had a prosperous season there. She took the part of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni." She also sang in "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Traviata." Her highest success, however, was not reached till after she had spent a season of study in Milan and learned the French method. Then she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

PROJECT FOR FREIGHT TRAFFIC ACROSS CENTRAL AMERICA.

The Inter-oceanic Ship Railway Scheme of Capt. Eads Which is Just Now Engaging the Attention of Congress—Steamships to be Carried Over the Land.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The problem of how to transport vessels across Central America seems to be far from settled. The "Lesser" canal project is being projected as a means of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the nature of the work will permit, and capable engineers are confident that it will be completed in a few years. Its estimated cost was originally $200,000,000.

It was on Simon's own recommendation that Edwin M. Stanton succeeded him as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet. Chase and Seward had conservative, not to say timid, notions about carrying on the war. Cameron was for bold and thorough-going measures. So there was a division of opinion between Cameron and Lincoln. But Lincoln could not do without his planner of campaigns. Stanton came in. Some of those whose names were reviewed by Stanton were trying to defeat Lincoln for the second time. Lincoln sally and anxiously talked with him about it. Cameron said: "Why, Mr. President, don't you remember what was done when Andrew Jackson was a candidate for the second time? They went around and got the signatures of every state in the Union to sign a paper asking him to be a candidate for re-election. This created such a sentiment in his favor that no other man could stand against him. I shall go to Pennsylvania to-night and it shall be the first state to start the ball."

It was done, and in a very short time nearly every state in the Union had signed the paper. The great wire-puller then went back to Washington to see the president. He came in during a reception at the Executive Mansion, when hundreds of persons were passing in a line to shake hands with the president, who saw his faithful organizer approaching. His Lincoln, who wore white cotton gloves. He waved one hand to the land in the air and cried out: "Cameron, three more states in today!"

All this and more the veteran told the newspaper correspondent who visited him on his 57th birthday. SARAH KING.

THE NEW YORK APARTMENT HOUSE A Whole Village Has Its Home Under One Roof.

The stranger visiting New York, especially the stranger coming to the city down the Hudson or the East river, will observe here and there large buildings that make the structures around them look like doll houses. He will wonder what they are, thinking they must be some mighty public building, like a great postoffice or city hall. They are not to be mistaken for anything of the kind. They are full of floors and suites of rooms to be rented to families. The suites are called apartments, or popularly flats. The buildings are usually constructed with a hall in the middle. On this hall, going up floor after floor, the front doors of the suites open. Each flat has, besides a small inside room, a kitchen, a bath and a toilet. The ground floor little or no sunlight in the middle rooms. The top floors are the best.

The best way to avoid dark rooms is to make one common entrance from the street and have the great central hall run parallel with the street instead of at right angles to it. Many of the most approved flat houses are now built in this way. The apartments straggle along the hall sideways instead of running back from the streets.

One of the largest of these buildings is that in the pictures, known as the New York flats. It is near Central Park, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It is not yet wholly completed. One artist shows the part which is finished. The plan is merely to add on more apartments in the same style as the first. The general effect will be the same as shown, only larger and broader. The architecture is said to be Moorish, but it is not Moorish to be sure.

The Late Madame Heilbron. This popular prima donna, who died recently at Nice, was born in Brussels. She sang in the opera house of the Royal Conservatory there. At the end of her first year she took the first prize for singing and piano, and attracted the notice of the king by her brilliant performance. Her rich voice and fine expression that he recommended her father at once to send her to Paris for further study. This was done. In six weeks she made her debut at the Opera, in an opera called "La Grande Tante." It was written especially for her by the French composer Massenet. Next she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

From the start her career was almost uninterfered triumph, although she was young to reap the highest artistic rewards, being only 24 years old. If she had lived longer she would have become greater.

She had youth, she had beauty, she had genius. What life could have been more favored! From Paris she went to Holland and sang in the theatre there. The city of Holland gave her a diamond necklace. She returned to Paris in 1871 and had a prosperous season there. She took the part of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni." She also sang in "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Traviata." Her highest success, however, was not reached till after she had spent a season of study in Milan and learned the French method. Then she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

FROM OCEAN TO OCEAN.

PROJECT FOR FREIGHT TRAFFIC ACROSS CENTRAL AMERICA.

The Inter-oceanic Ship Railway Scheme of Capt. Eads Which is Just Now Engaging the Attention of Congress—Steamships to be Carried Over the Land.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The problem of how to transport vessels across Central America seems to be far from settled. The "Lesser" canal project is being projected as a means of connecting the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and the nature of the work will permit, and capable engineers are confident that it will be completed in a few years. Its estimated cost was originally $200,000,000.

It was on Simon's own recommendation that Edwin M. Stanton succeeded him as secretary of war in Lincoln's cabinet. Chase and Seward had conservative, not to say timid, notions about carrying on the war. Cameron was for bold and thorough-going measures. So there was a division of opinion between Cameron and Lincoln. But Lincoln could not do without his planner of campaigns. Stanton came in. Some of those whose names were reviewed by Stanton were trying to defeat Lincoln for the second time. Lincoln sally and anxiously talked with him about it. Cameron said: "Why, Mr. President, don't you remember what was done when Andrew Jackson was a candidate for the second time? They went around and got the signatures of every state in the Union to sign a paper asking him to be a candidate for re-election. This created such a sentiment in his favor that no other man could stand against him. I shall go to Pennsylvania to-night and it shall be the first state to start the ball."

It was done, and in a very short time nearly every state in the Union had signed the paper. The great wire-puller then went back to Washington to see the president. He came in during a reception at the Executive Mansion, when hundreds of persons were passing in a line to shake hands with the president, who saw his faithful organizer approaching. His Lincoln, who wore white cotton gloves. He waved one hand to the land in the air and cried out: "Cameron, three more states in today!"

All this and more the veteran told the newspaper correspondent who visited him on his 57th birthday. SARAH KING.

THE NEW YORK APARTMENT HOUSE A Whole Village Has Its Home Under One Roof.

The stranger visiting New York, especially the stranger coming to the city down the Hudson or the East river, will observe here and there large buildings that make the structures around them look like doll houses. He will wonder what they are, thinking they must be some mighty public building, like a great postoffice or city hall. They are not to be mistaken for anything of the kind. They are full of floors and suites of rooms to be rented to families. The suites are called apartments, or popularly flats. The buildings are usually constructed with a hall in the middle. On this hall, going up floor after floor, the front doors of the suites open. Each flat has, besides a small inside room, a kitchen, a bath and a toilet. The ground floor little or no sunlight in the middle rooms. The top floors are the best.

The best way to avoid dark rooms is to make one common entrance from the street and have the great central hall run parallel with the street instead of at right angles to it. Many of the most approved flat houses are now built in this way. The apartments straggle along the hall sideways instead of running back from the streets.

One of the largest of these buildings is that in the pictures, known as the New York flats. It is near Central Park, between Fifth and Sixth streets. It is not yet wholly completed. One artist shows the part which is finished. The plan is merely to add on more apartments in the same style as the first. The general effect will be the same as shown, only larger and broader. The architecture is said to be Moorish, but it is not Moorish to be sure.

The Late Madame Heilbron. This popular prima donna, who died recently at Nice, was born in Brussels. She sang in the opera house of the Royal Conservatory there. At the end of her first year she took the first prize for singing and piano, and attracted the notice of the king by her brilliant performance. Her rich voice and fine expression that he recommended her father at once to send her to Paris for further study. This was done. In six weeks she made her debut at the Opera, in an opera called "La Grande Tante." It was written especially for her by the French composer Massenet. Next she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

From the start her career was almost uninterfered triumph, although she was young to reap the highest artistic rewards, being only 24 years old. If she had lived longer she would have become greater.

She had youth, she had beauty, she had genius. What life could have been more favored! From Paris she went to Holland and sang in the theatre there. The city of Holland gave her a diamond necklace. She returned to Paris in 1871 and had a prosperous season there. She took the part of Zerlina in "Don Giovanni." She also sang in "Lucia di Lammermoor" and "La Traviata." Her highest success, however, was not reached till after she had spent a season of study in Milan and learned the French method. Then she returned to Paris for the third time, and now she took it by storm. She became a member of the Italian opera at Paris, under the direction of the French manager, but she went to London, and finally to America, which is the land of gold to all artists.

AMERICAN WHO IS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE GEOGRAPHY OF THIS COUNTRY, WILL SEE BY EXAMINING THIS MAP, THAT THE

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC RAILWAY

THE FAMOUS ALBERT LEA ROUTE

THE GREAT ROCK ISLAND ROUTE

INSANITY

HOPTONIC

WALNUTINE

DELAND'S

SALETERATUS SODA

PEARL TOP

EVERY OUNCE OF ADULTERATION

U. G. SOAP

THE WOODS CORN SHELLER

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

PATENTS

1760 Cullards 1885