There is one honest boy in Wichita, Kansas, and he is a bootblack. The other day he blacked the boots of a gentleman at a hotel, who gave him, as he supposed, five copper cents. The gentleman was equal to the occasion, for he at once took the boy to a clothing store and bought him a $15 suit.

The city of Vancouver, B. C., was annihilated by fire Sunday. Fifty lives are known to have been lost. But two saw mills remain of the entire town of 300 buildings.

Owing to a technical error, the indictment against Mrs. Emma Molloy, for complicity in the Graham murder, was quashed.

If Ireland wants to convince the world that she is not capable of governing herself, a few repetitions of the Belfast riots will go far toward that point.

The Detroit papers accuse the legislative reunion of being a political affair. You could hardly expect such a lot of old fellows to get together on any kind of an occasion without talking politics. You might as well try to stop the wind from blowing.

Vincennes, Ind., High School contained eight white girls and one black one, the latter being left up toward the head of her class. When commencement came the eight refused to graduate with their black mate, and consequently there is to be no commencement in Vincennes this year.

It is now estimated that to enforce the eight hour system in the post-office department will cost the government $1,444,822 annually in the single matter of letter carriers. The congressman who will vote for any such extravagance should be elected to stay at home in the future.

The Marshall Statesman, Three Rivers Tribune, Iowa Sentinel, and Ann Arbor Courier favor the nomination of Col. O. A. James, of Hillsdale, for Auditor General.—Detroit Tribune.

Hadt's thought of it before, but you just add the RECORD to that list. We happen to know Mr. James to be a man of ability and popularity.

The Center, the leading Prohibition Michigan paper goes far out of its way to inform the Republicans of this State that they need not expect much assistance from the Prohibitionists if they nominate C. C. Luce, as he has forfeited their confidence. This is a consolation, but the Center might also have added that no matter whom the Republicans nominate they need expect no assistance from the Prohibitionists, excepting all the aid they can give to elect a Democrat, which, judging from past actions of that party, is the sole reason for their existence. The talk about their helping elect this or that, Republican if he will only endorse their lobby, is the height of nonsense, as they have always done their best to defeat the best temperance advocate the Republicans can put up, and elect an avowed whiskyite who may happen to be on the Democratic ticket.

A Prohibition organ says: "When the Democratic party, under Hoadly, took possession of Ohio, a few years ago, it, through a Democratic Supreme Court, wiped out the Scott liquor law and removed all restrictions on the 'traffic.' But our contemporary should also have mentioned that the Prohibitionists of Ohio alone made a Democratic victory possible in that State. Democrats will do the same in Illinois if our good temperance people will aid them in the work.—Inter Ocean.

The death of George Durke, the fireman of the wrecked train at Windfall, Ind., has caused the authorities to hold the three train-wreckers for murder in the first degree. The feeling was so strong against them that they were in danger of being lynched by the people of Windfall. These three young men are represented as country boys, who got on a drunk at Windfall, and thought it would be a good joke to push a freight car from a switch on the main track. This resulted in wrecking the train, injuring three men and killing one. "Drunk" should be no plea in mitigating such a crime, but the people of Windfall who furnish facilities for "country boys" to fill up with bad whisky would show how mad they were, not by hanging to a tree the drunken boys, but by summarily closing up the agencies, the whisky shops, which worked the ruin.—Inter Ocean.

Some followers of Burr Roblin's circus are credited with the robbing of two banks and a jewelry store at Hart, Oceana county, Monday.

Harvey is out of jail and has returned to his old haunts in this place. The justice in sentencing this alleged M. D. made one mistake—instead of giving him twenty days he ought to have gone up for many years. When he was drunk we were told that he is trying to force his services upon persons to whom his very presence is disgusting, and such critics should not be tolerated in a respectable community.

CHARLES HUNTER who made life interesting in Berrien county by stealing horses, forging notes and otherwise profligating by his wits, was arrested in Toledo and hustled back to Michigan. Welcome Address Delivered by Gov. R. A. Alger at the semi-centennial celebration, at Lansing Tuesday.

CITIZENS OF MICHIGAN:—With great pleasure I bid you welcome to this your capital-to-day and congratulate you upon this epoch in the history of our state.

Fifty years have come and gone, and during those years this great commonwealth has grown from infancy to its present mighty strength. Then it was almost a trackless forest. Now it stands in the front rank of the states of this great union.

Michigan, with her natural resources, and peopled by such noble men and resolute men, could not be otherwise than great.

Her educational institutions, headed by the university and agricultural college, are among the foremost of the country, while the other state institutions, with the management of the home now being built for a capstone, will bear a favorable comparison with those of any state in the union, while in agricultural products she is unsurpassed, both as to variety and quality. She produces more iron, copper, lumber, and salt than any other state in the union.

There are brave men and women in our midst to-day who have battled with privations and adversities to whose energy and determination we owe in a large measure this great consummation. All honor to them, and may they, the pioneers of this commonwealth long remain among us, share the honors and receive the love and reverence so nobly earned. To them we owe a debt of gratitude we can never pay except with gratitude. At the election of 1858 the vote cast for governor was $322; in 1864 it aggregated 400,348. Her population in 1857 was 174,467, while to-day it will number fully 2,000,000.

These figures are given to us as a glance, to appreciate our wonderful growth. When in 1861 armed treason threatened the nation, and the government called for men to defend the flag, Michigan responded giving her full quota. It was then she showed her loyalty and patriotism. She voted the census of 1860 our population was 749,113, and Michigan sent to the front 99,707 of her bravest and best men, one in eight of her total population according to the census; men who grandly sustained the reputation of their state and whose blood stained every battle of the war. Of these the "Roll of honor" shows that 14,855 were killed in battle, died of wounds or disease, and many of them in that "Hell of helms," a southern prison, or nearly one out of every six who enlisted. Brave men of a grateful state will crowd for those of your comrades who stood by your side, many of whom you helped to lay away in far off graves, there to await the bugle call to their final rest. If these are here to-day they ache for loved ones so early lost, and indignation heats the blood and quickens the pulse of those who made these great sacrifices, as they read of the triumphal march of the head of the rebellion through the south, uttering the same old treasonable sentiments that carried the fire brand through the south in 1861, and whose pathway was strewn with the blood of the children of the south on mass. Let any section of the country teach its children to reverence those who took the oath before high heaven to defend their country and then attempt its overthrow, if they will; but let us teach our children that treason is treason, and never in future will it be tolerated for a day.

This is no appeal to sectional prejudice, but it is that which makes the future of this government safe. Unless we teach our children that this country is a heritage that to attempt to destroy it is wrong, and that to punish those who victoriously preserve it is right, we had better teach nothing.

As we protect with the greatest determination that which we value most, so let us with these rights we have permitted. Let us teach them to love their country, and to defend it if in danger, and to bow only to one flag, and that flag must be the Stars and Stripes, whenever the union has been assailed—the grand old stars and stripes.

The Bruce and Armada grange No. 637 at its last meeting adopted a resolution condemning the action of the State grange in appointing a committee to confer with the Knights of Labor; also condemning the late strikers and opposing any union with labor organizations.

The Democratic Programme.

In the campaign of 1884 the Republican speakers outlined a programme which the Democrats, if they came into power, would probably follow.

A programme involved the repeal of laws prohibiting the payment of pensions and claims to those who rebelled against the government, and the enactment of laws looking to the payment of the Confederate debt. It was not believed that the Democrats would have the temerity to push these measures at once. In this particular the Democrats have gone farther, and moved more rapidly than even the Republicans supposed. On the 8th of April the House Judiciary Committee instructed Mr. Oates to report favorably on a bill to repeal the law preventing the payment of pensions and claims to ex-rebels. This committee is composed of leading Democrats, the Southern States having a clear majority on the committee. This was the first step.

A month later, or on the 10th of May, Mr. Merryman, a Democratic member from New York, introduced a bill providing that all claims for pensions by any person or corporation against the United States for loss or damage resulting from the late rebellion shall be referred to the Court of Claims. On the 4th of June the bill was reported by the House Committee on War Claims, to which this bill had been referred, and argued that under this bill the outstanding Confederate bonds must be paid by the Federal Government. His argument was of course ingenious and adroit if nothing more. It appears, on investigation, that he represents the gentlemen who had been for several years buying up Confederate bonds. Any syndicate or corporation that holds bonds to the amount of $6,000,000,000 will make a tremendous effort to influence any measure to these ends, and a bill that will pave the way to the payment of these bonds. The speech of Judge Fullerton before the committee will undoubtedly be published by the press, and it is anticipated that a large number of people to influence the formation of a public sentiment favorable to the payment of the Confederate debt. This is the second step.

If it is found that public sentiment will bear the agitation of this question the third step will be taken promptly. If public sentiment will not bear the agitation there may be delay, but all the same it will be taken. The Democratic programme will be carried out if the Democrats remain in power. If it is deemed impolitic to agitate the question now, the discussion must be postponed until after the President-elect of 1888 and then pushed to the front.

Several tests have been made with the idea of determining just exactly how the people have been educated up to an indifference in the matter of paying Confederate claims and pensions. The tour of Jeff Davis in the several states in the South made for the purpose of the Southern people came to display their devotion and affection for a man who glories in all that Union people condemn in the war. It was made known that the Southern people were endeavoring to receive their acceptance of the Union with their defense of secession. In attempting to reconcile these two opposite views, they made what they call concessions in both directions. To organize secession and to express devotion for the lost cause can only be consistent with devotion to the Union under very close limitations. If devotion to the lost cause is stronger than devotion to the Union no prophet is needed to say where people who cultivate such a spirit will go as a matter of impulse. With this revival of lost cause memories in the South and the introduction of Confederate legislation in Congress the Democratic programme seems in a fair way to be carried out in all its details. It may be that the Democrats will make no move to the front, and will wait until the House Committee will take prompt action in reporting against the bill; but even if they do the record has been made. The Democrats have shown their hands and the people can draw their own inferences as to where they stand.

The proposition to pay the Confederate bonds is absurd on its face. It is not worthy of any sympathy either from ex-Confederates or Unionists. The plan that the bonds were bought in good faith by poor people who ought to have their money is disposed of easily. They bought the bonds on their faith in the Confederate Government. They were willing to take the risks. They based their action on the faith of disunion. They knew there would be no hope in case the Confederate cause failed. They sold their bonds at the close of the war for a trifle. They were bought up at the rate of 5 or 6 cents for a thousand dollars. They are now in the hands of speculators who have organized a movement to cheat the government out of six hundred million dollars. This is the plain truth in the case, and it cannot be varnished by any sentiment or by any appeal to sympathy, and it cannot be made respectable even by men as able as the argument as Judge Fullerton.—Inter Ocean.

And in the matter of the daily press it is an accepted fact that one possessing the most merit is the best medium of advertising for the reason that it commands greatest respect. It is like a friend whose judgment can be relied on, and whose opinion has no pretensions to all but legitimate business. Wild-cat advertising is a disgrace to all who invest in it, and it does harm every time.—Indianapolis Journal.

The mother of the unfortunate child died last week. She is at present confined in jail awaiting an investigation of her case by the proper authorities.

Physical Appearance of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston.

There is much of the physical man left of Gen. Joseph E. Johnston. He is almost as stout as he is tall, weighs about 150 or 160 pounds, is supple and quick as a boy. His nerves are considerably shattered, however, as those of a man above 60 might be naturally. He wears a full, short beard, which is almost as black as his hair, which is a little long and straight. His head is bald on top and half way down the back. He has a quick, piercing, little, light eye, and there is a fullness about his eye which phenomena, say denizens of Adams street, is not to be confused with that of Dr. Franklin's, because it was too antiquated. He evinced a very keen memory and a wide knowledge of general affairs. His education must have been thorough. Gen. Johnston is one of the best of his race, and he would fight a regiment if his integrity was questioned. He was always considered among the most loyal men of the south, and is intensely popular among the negro population. He is the son of honor—Washington Cor. Chicago Herald.

The Civilization of Ancient Mexico. According to Dr. M. A. Wells, in The Popular Science Monthly, ancient Mexico never had any very large cities. The inhabitants had no domestic animals, no beasts of burden, no means of transportation. They were in a primitive civilization to the Toltecs, living to the southward. The Mexico of to-day has not made any great strides. Mr. Wells says: "It is one of the very poorest and most wretched of all countries, and is not likely under any circumstances to develop into a great, civilized, rich and powerful nation." The fertile land consists of a narrow strip along either ocean. The interior is a high table land, from 5,000 to 7,000 feet above the level of the sea. There is no navigable river of importance, and the country at large is as arid as Arabia. There are hundreds of square miles of unexplored territory, and savage tribes of Indians that remain in contact with the whites. As to precious metals, they have been greatly over-estimated.

This is an uninviting picture, but Mr. Wells writes with the air of a man who is stating facts. Before our capitalists build any more railroads in Mexico they will do well to investigate these statements.—Atlanta Constitution.

The Kentuckian Explains the Matter. In Philadelphia there are 22,000 more women than men. In Massachusetts there are 50,000 majority, and a recent estimate shows that in Europe the women exceed the males by more than 4,500,000. Why is this the case? I asked of a social philosopher.

"The men are killed off by wars and accidents, I suppose," he replied. "Why is it, then," I asked, "that Kentucky, which has as many men killed as any state, has a fair preponderance of males?"

"Oh, that is easily explained," he replied. "Kentucky women are so beautiful and charming that the men from other states come and carry them away as soon as they are grown."—Louisville Post.

The Voices of the Singers. The German singers have the most robust voices; the Italians the purest. There is strength and endurance to the German voice which the Italian's does not possess; the latter is fragile, sweet and soft, but cannot be compared with the strength and endurance of the German voice, and cannot be abused. That is why Italian singers of the finest quality do not sing so often.—Globe-Democrat Interview.

Action of Coffee and Alcohol. Experiments to determine the relative action of coffee and alcohol show that while alcohol increases the production of heat it really lowers the body temperature. The caffeine in coffee process the opposite effect, and thus, if given in conjunction with alcohol, coffee prevents the reduction of temperature.—Chicago News.

To Keep Milk From Souring. Pasteur discovered that when milk was heated for a short time at 172 degrees, and cooled, it kept longer than if it was much longer than if it were cooled. Dr. J. Van Guens finds that this treatment destroys most of the lower organisms in the milk, so that they are only able to revive when the conditions of temperature are extremely favorable.—Boston Budget.

East Saginaw has one saloon to every twenty-seven voters, the calculation being based upon the vote cast for governor in 1884, and one saloon to every 170 people in the city, there being 177 places in which liquor is sold. Taking Saginaw county entire, it is found that there is one saloon to every sixty-four voters.

THE present prospect is that Berrien county will be somewhere in the State when the next Governor is chosen. There are Hon. Henry Chamberlain of Three Oaks, and Hon. H. C. Sherwood of Water-vliet, both being strongly boomed as a farmer candidate on the Greenock ticket, and Hon. Wm. Chamberlain, who is in the hands of his friends for nomination on the Republican ticket. One thing Berrien county can always be depended upon, is for the best crop of candidates of any county in the State. This is a product not usually enumerated in the Secretary of State's reports, but we are always on hand.

BUCHANAN, June 11, 1886.

DEAR MR. EDITOR:—We desire through the paper to express our thanks to the children and parents who so generously presented us the handsome dictionaries and holders on the last day of school. Our pleasure on receiving them was only equalled by our surprise. Nothing could have been chosen that would have pleased us more. We think it wonderful how so many little folks kept the secret from us. We hope to profit by the use of our presents; they will be constant reminders of the kind friends who gave them to us. And we also wish to thank those who so kindly left the platform and seats on the grounds for us to use.

MAY HALLER.
EDA BEARDSLEY.

THE Haire murdertrial, which occupied the attention of the Cass Co. court nearly all of the two weeks just passed, resulted in Haire's acquittal. This is a case that has attracted a great deal of attention and been quite expensive in this county. And already we hear criticisms of prosecuting Attorney Roe for prosecuting the case when Judge Smith gave his opinion the man could not be convicted again.

The view the RECORD takes of the case is, that Mr. Roe did just what was right, to prosecute the case to the full extent of his ability. The man was convicted once before by a jury of twelve men, but a new trial ordered by the Supreme court on a technical point. If Mr. Haire is innocent it is just that he should be acquitted, but if guilty, and the prosecution has failed to convict him for lack of sufficient evidence, more is the pity.

IF the Legislative reminiscences of "Old Settler," contributed to the Niles Republican, are all as accurate as that portion relating to John Groves, copied by the RECORD, they are truly a valuable contribution to biographical history. Since copying his sketch we learn that Mr. Groves instead of being a native of Ohio, was born in Freeport, Maine, Dec. 22, 1810, and graduated at the Bangor college, moved from there to New Albany, Ind., where he commenced practicing law, and came to Buchanan in 1842 and lived here in 1861, as was stated by Old Settler. The facts that he stated so correctly are to be found in the Legislative Manual that is issued by each legislature, by anyone who will take the trouble to look.

THE following teachers have been engaged for Buchanan schools: First Primary, May Haller; Second Primary, EDA BEARDSLEY; Second Primary, Nellie Baldwin; Fourth Primary, not yet supplied; First Grammar, Mary Mary; Second Grammar, Annette Banton; Third Grammar, Lizzie E. Young. In the High School room there will be O. E. Aleshire, B. F. Buck and Pamie Metzger. This arrangement of the High room is made necessary by the fact that the pupils who were in the Grammar room last year are not prepared to enter the high school class; making an extra teacher necessary.

SINCE the arrest made in this place for the use of the slingshot, a few weeks since, the boys have been quite shy of their way of using them, but they are at the mischief once more, and some more arresting is becoming necessary. Two boys were seen to use one on a bird cage that was hanging at the front of a house on Portage street, Tuesday noon, and other depredations are becoming numerous. The next set of boys who come before the justice on that charge will most likely not be released on suspended sentence, as were the others. The limit of punishment for that kind of business is ninety days in jail and a heavy fine, and the penalty will most likely be used to its best advantage.

A MEETING will be held at the office of J. C. Dick at 7 o'clock Monday evening next for the purpose of completing arrangements for a grand celebration on the 4th of July. Everyone should be interested in this, and by united effort make the celebration a fitting one, that will reflect credit upon our village and sustain our reputation for enterprise. A general invitation is extended, and it is hoped that a good attendance will be had, which will result in a complete success.

DON'T the Niles School Board know that there are printing offices in their city? We notice they send to Kalamazoo for blank orders on the Treasurer, a job that can be done in the smallest office, and they pay a good round price for them, too. Perhaps the prevalent idea that anything bought away from home is best has control of the board, however.

LIST of letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Buchanan, Mich., for the week ending June 17: Miss Lydia Andre, H. Barron, Anna Byles, J. D. Banks, I. B. J. L. RICHARDS, P. M.

HE DIED BY THE ROAD SIDE.—Tuesday forenoon Mr. Geo. L. Harding went out to H. N. Mowrey's farm, about two miles west of town, to do some planting, in a field that is sheltered from any chance at a breeze, and, on such days as Tuesday, a pretty hot place. About noon Mr. J. J. Wells, in coming from his hay field, saw him sitting by a tree in the road about thirty rods west of Samuel Weaver's corner, but not recognizing him, did not pay much attention to him. About twenty minutes afterward Mr. A. L. Drew drove along and discovered that he had fallen over on his side with his face to the ground and was dead. He immediately gave the alarm, which brought a number to the spot. The remains were brought to Mr. Mowrey's home in this place, and the funeral services were held at the Advent church this forenoon. Mr. Harding was about 55 years old, and in poor health all spring, and had at one time suffered from sun stroke. It is thought his death was caused by being again overcome by heat. He leaves a family of four boys, his wife having died about a year ago.

IT is supposed to be the province of Michigan graded schools to prepare their graduates for the University. Following is the list of schools that are fulfilling their mission in this line: For all courses, Adrian, Ann Arbor, Bay City, Balfie Creek, Coldwater, Detroit, East Saginaw, Flint, Grand Rapids, Ionia, Jackson, Manistee, Michigan Military Academy, Monroe, Pontiac, Saginaw and Ypsilanti. For all courses except A. B.: Alpena, Dig Rapids, Lansing and Owosso. For courses leading to B. S. and B. L.: Benton Harbor, Fenton, Hastings and Yassar. For B. L.: Charlotte, Port Huron and Raisin Valley Seminary. About one-fiftieth of the graded schools of the State. We are informed by our Director that it is the aim of the Buchanan School to at some time join the list.

THE sixth Commencement exercises of the Buchanan High School took place at Rough's Opera House on Friday forenoon before a large audience, the spacious hall being so full that standing room was at a premium. The stage was beautifully decorated with flowers, ferns and foliage. About midway of the stage was erected a low picket fence, with an arched gateway in the center, on which was the class motto: "Irons wait at labor's gate." Here, as the graduates finished speaking, they were met by Director Rogers, who presented them with their diplomas. The members of the class acquitted themselves with such credit that it would be invidious to make comparisons. Suffice it to say that all did exceedingly well. The exercises were opened with music by the Glee Club, after which Rev. C. G. Thomas offered an impressive prayer, followed by a well executed piano solo by Miss Huldah Hahn. Then followed the class essays as follows: "Cost of Progress," Miss May Tichenor; "Monuments," Miss Anna L. Simmons; "Night Brings Out Stars," Miss Annie A. Treat. At this stage a trio was sung by Mrs. Graham, Misses Baldwin and Roe, when the exercises were resumed with "Dignity of Labor," by Mr. Wm. J. Bradley; "John B. Gough," Miss Jessie Valentine; "Victories of Thought," Miss Lizzie Strassburg. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful, each graduate being presented with handsome bouquets, baskets, crosses, &c.

BERRIEN SPRINGS and vicinity has been peculiarly fortunate in its supply of swindlers this Spring. First there was Horton, but he is in jail, and now a Charles Holcomb, who represented a graveyard insurance company, that was located somewhere in Hoosierdom. He gathered in such of the residents as he could and left, but the Journal says there is still left a good crop of suckers for the next sharper.

THE Chicago papers of Friday contained a detailed account of how Gilbert A. Coby was run out of Irving Park, a Chicago suburb, for raping two little girls, one of whom died. He is 63 years old and is now said to be insane. The escape he had from lynching was a narrow one. Mr. Coby will be remembered by many Berrien county people as a former banker in Niles.
