It is quite easy to tell the comparative length of time a man and woman have been husband and wife from the way in which they conduct themselves on the street. The deportment of the man is more of an indication than that of the woman. Two weeks with their necks in the matrimonial noose, and when they walk down town together as young wife steps before a shop window resplendent with articles of dress, so dear to the eye of woman and to the purse of a man, and she remarks as she points to a display of rich dress goods: "Aren't those lovely, dear, and just look at those laces, aren't they beautiful?" and bending low over his precious charge, the young husband, flattered because his opinion is asked regarding material for ornamenting the opposite sex, breathes: "Charming, dear; superb; and you must soon have a dress off that very piece," and she looks up into his face with kiding eyes and says: "You precious darling, you're too good to live."

It is not of recovery from the fit of goodness that has fallen on him, however, and three months later the same couple are walking down the street and by the same shop window. There are the beautiful dress goods, and the eyes of the young wife gaze wistfully at them as she glances at her husband's face. "You remember that you promised to buy me a dress off that piece over there some time ago?"

"Yes, I know," but I had so much to think of that I forgot all about it, but you know what I had the last of the month."

Two months more slip by and again the couple are walking down the street, and now the wife is not on familiar terms enough with her husband to warrant her in leaning on his arm. Her eyes fall on the window with its rich display, and, reaching out to touch it, she says to her husband, and turning toward the window says: "Charley, look here, and Charley replies: "O, come on. You make me tired. Why don't you spend the most of your time gawping into the windows? I should think that the proprietors would be tickled to death to have you. You must think I'm stuck on dress goods," and with a yank on the husband's arm she is away from the tender grip of his wife, and starts off down the street, with her following meekly behind, and a little further on he makes her stand outside of a cigar store, and he goes in and chides the proprietor about twenty minutes about a new brand of chewing tobacco and trying to get him to acknowledge that the cigarettes he sells are doctored with opium.—St. Paul Globe.

He knew.
A teacher in a Sunday-school class was telling the little boys about temptation and showing how it sometimes came in the most attractive guise. She used as an illustration the paw of a cat.

"Now," said she, "you have all seen the paw of a cat. It is as soft as velvet, isn't it?"

"Yes," said the class.

"Well, although the cat's paw seems like velvet, there is, nevertheless, concealed beneath it something that hurts. What is it?"

No answer.

"The dog bites," said the teacher, "when he is in anger, but what does the cat do?"

"Scratches," replied the boy.

"Correct," said the teacher, nodding her head approvingly; "now what has the cat got that the dog has not?"

"Claws," exclaimed a boy on the back seat, and the little run around the class brought the lesson to an end.—Boston Courier.

What to Read.
When the best novels are furnished to the people, no doubt they will read them. All the sad trouble of feasting upon unwholesome literature comes from the fact that people who control the reading of the young either do not or cannot see the harm of it.

It is not by nature or education qualified to direct the reading of those under them. The man who is a reader of the mental diet of time novels will never recommend his boys to read Shakespeare, Homer or Macaulay. The woman who comes to her estate reading the story of "Charlotte Temple" is not likely to recommend the youthful members of the household to read Jane Austen, George Eliot and Mrs. Browning. Generally speaking, the cure for the disease of the mind is to be found in the mental diet of time novels will never recommend his boys to read Shakespeare, Homer or Macaulay. Hon. Cyrus G. Luce will speak in Dowagiac next Monday.

The public debt, less the cash in the treasury, was $10,927,013 less, Oct. 1 than it was Sept. 1.

The Democrats and Greenbackers in Cass county agreed upon a successful county ticket, Saturday, and all is lovely in the happy family.

Jeff Davis occupied nearly a page of the Baltimore Sun, of Oct. 1, in a refutation of remarks made by Gen. Sherman in a report he made to Congress last winter.

When prohibition is voted upon on its own merits, and not adulterated with politics, it carries every time, but when it mixes up with politics it is sure to get left.

Col Bob Ingersoll thus enumerates the most glaring mistakes of Cleveland's administration:

"First, accepting the nomination. Second, taking the oath of office. Third, not resigning."

Old soldiers, don't forget that Yapple voted against restoring Gen. Grant to the army, and in favor of restoring Fitz John Porter who had been adjudged a traitor. Mr. Yapple is asking you, on this record, to vote for him, the first Tuesday of next month. Will you?

It must be entertaining to Tim Tarsney to have Yapple talk his rabid free-trade nonsense to his constituents in the Saginaw Valley. Tim don't like to have much said about that subject from Yapple's standpoint. It is not their way of thinking.

Is there any significance in the fact that the members of the Democratic whitewashing committee, who doctored up the pan-electric muddle for Cleveland and his cabinet, have failed to be re-nominated by their constituents? The rascals have been turned out.

We throw out and reject $150 worth of advertising this issue. We will fight through this campaign for God's everlasting truth and political rights, if we have to steal our musket and powder and live on the ocean for free lunch—Voluntarily Cyclone. Throwing away bread and butter to fight on an empty stomach, and steal in God's interest, is one way of looking at one's duty in life. Detroit News.

How fortunate that there is but one Cyclone in Michigan.

Mr. Dickie devotes the greater portion of his campaign talk to basting the Republican party. He says that the Democrats have pleaded guilty and do not need conviction. So now Mr. Dickie will do all he can to place the confessed guilty party in full control of affairs in order to attain the object he is pretending to advocate, and to which the confession is directly opposed. This is on a par with the Dr. who voted for Yapple in Congress in order to have tariff for protection only.

Encouraging reports from the Republican state and Congressional tickets come from all parts of the state. The word is also being passed around that the future bosses are quietly giving out instructions to the fusionists to put forth their best efforts in behalf of the fusion candidates for the legislature. It is a well-known fact that many of the fusion leaders have given up all hope of electing Mr. Yapple, and that they also concede the probable loss of two or three Congressmen. What they are after now is the United States Senate. Hence they are anxiously concerning the Legislative tickets. Republicans should be constantly on guard and beware of fusion propositions to "trade" votes.—Detroit Tribune.

This trading for Legislators is a scheme that has been well understood in all parts of the State.

- When Yapple spoke in St. Johns Friday, the following questions were handed him:
1. Why did you on Feb. 17, 1885, vote against the bill to place Gen. Grant on the retired list?
 2. Why did you on March 3, 1885, vote against the bill allowing the President and Senate to place Gen. Grant on the retired list when it was then known that he could not live a year?
 3. Why did you vote to restore or to allow the President and Senate to restore Fitz John Porter to his position in the army and to allow the President and Senate to place him on the retired list?
 4. Did you vote, when in Congress, against raising the duty on wool?
 5. Did you vote in favor of the Morrison bill reducing by 20 per cent. the present duty on wool?
- To the first three questions he said "no." He answered the last two by saying: "I did, and by the grace of God I will again if I get a chance."

Soldiers will remember that when ninety-five Democrats in Congress voted to restore Gen. Grant to his old place in the army, George L. Yapple voted No. But he voted to restore Fitz John Porter.—Lapeer Clarion.

Richmond, Virginia, people have made a grand exhibition of good breeding. After inviting the meeting of the K. of L. Assembly, they do not treat the colored delegates with common decency. It is a good advertisement for the F. F. V's. for the next meeting they may want held in their Capital city.

A gentleman who is going to stamp Indiana, is compiling a statement of the wonderful industry of the Cleveland administration since its inauguration, showing all of his little vacations, such as rides down the river, runs over to Baltimore, New York and Philadelphia to attend balls for charity, New York to vote, his time or two months in the woods, the time he was married, and other little vacations. He is pardonable for taking the time for his wedding. He ought to have been married long before he was. The compilation will be an amusing one.

The necessities of our government require the raising of from three to five hundred millions of dollars each year to pay current expenses. There are four ways of getting this money: A tax on the earnings of the citizens of the country and known as an income tax, an internal revenue tax or stamp tax that requires a stamp to be placed upon everything that is made or used, as was done in 1863-4 and for a few years following; a tax on imported goods, and known as tariff, and the fourth, direct tax, the same method as is adopted for procuring money for township, village, school and other local purposes. The one now in practice by the general government is the third, and the second, so far as applies to a light tax on whisky and tobacco. The property or direct tax is paid by the men with moderate means who own houses, farms or other property that cannot be hidden from the assessor, while the rich money lender who has his property in bonds, mortgages and notes, hides his wealth from assessment and avoids his honest share of the burdens of common government. He, however, comes in for his share when he pays for the imported goods he must have, as no American made clothes are quite fine enough for his aesthetic taste. The adoption of free trade by this country as advocated by the mouth pieces of the Democratic party, means the abandonment of the custom tax and the adoption of one of the other three mentioned, or a shift of the burden from the duke and nabob, to the man whose property is all in sight, who is the poor man of the country. It sounds quite nice for an eloquent man to talk of the beauties of free trade, but when any man undertakes to tell that he favors this kind of change in the method of raising the necessary means to operate the government, we stamp him either a demagogue or non compos mentis.

Dakota Correspondence.
FR. MEADE, Dak. Sept. 20, 1886.
Mr. Editor.—I recently paid a second visit to Crystal Cave, when a more thorough examination was made and a chamber, not seen on our former visit, was discovered. The hollow shown forth by a stamp at certain points indicates subterranean recesses, and it is easy to believe that a charge of dynamite would expose caverns rivaling Mammoth and Luray.

We followed the creek for two or three miles up the canon, where high on either hand hung fantastic rock formations or rose rugged slopes, while below, beautiful views and old stones claimed our attention, and everywhere we found traces of the "great flood" of '34. Pieces of buildings and furniture, signs and household utensils were strewn beside the stream or lodged high up among the rocks. But more numerous than all else were corks, and it seemed to me that all deadwood might have been made of them, from the numbers the whitewood had brought down. We found some good specimens of whitewood, and the Pathfinder found one rattly—a beautiful marked ribbon agate as large as a pint cup.

Learning that perished wood in abundance could be found in Sturgis, we went down there a few days ago. Never before had I seen it in such quantity, or in stumps and logs. The hillsides were covered with it, partly-colored, and gray, crystallized and not crystallized. We found pieces two or three feet long, the outside bearing the appearance of bark, the ends showing the heart plainly, but instead of being circular, they were in shape of an ellipse with sharp ends, the greater diameter about six times the lesser. By what process a tree could assume such form is a problem that leads some of us to renewed wonder whether, after all, this strange stone ever was wood. Gaining the hilltop we had a fine view of Sturgis and surroundings. The town lies in a broad plain, through which flows a clear creek and has plenty of room to spread out when the expected "boom" strikes it. An excellent macadamized road forms the principal thoroughfare; three good-sized hotels entertain the traveling public; a W. C. T. U., a Liberty Association, three church societies and the public school enlighten and elevate the people, while the usual business is carried on.

We follow the ridge back to the post, one and a half mile, examining the rock formations, investigating the meaning of drifts of various colored sand we see on the slope below us, and taking in the pretty views by the way. The sandstone is in some places of a silvery whiteness, at other places gold-colored, and an iron formation crops from it in knobs and bars at various points. Much of the distance down the ridge there are an upper and a lower ledge of rocks. At one place, fifty feet above the slope to the lower ridge, is a ledge of foot wide separated from the main foot by a fissure somewhat wider. The rock is strewn with iron knobs, and is quite a curiosity. The scumblers must per force cross it, and does it so easily, as the proberances on the main rock are in easy reach for steady hand, it is a puzzle.

The public debt, less the cash in the treasury, was $10,927,013 less, Oct. 1 than it was Sept. 1.

and the pathfinder is near to lend a hand if needed. Where the rocks rose is a steep ascent of several feet, and little foothold. But with a helping hand extended from above, and a knee forming a step below, the difficulty is overcome, and the scrambler counted a "good one" for climbing.

Since the arrival of the new commandant at the post, there have been various changes made. Daily drills, dress parade every day except Saturday and Sunday; regulation dress on duty—in fact, a rigid adherence to military discipline is forced on the officers as well as the privates. The undue use of government supplies is regulated, the officers' club-room is closed, and gaming tables are to be taken from the soldiers' club-room. A guard has been posted in the canon leading to Sturgis, and no soldier, officer or private is allowed to leave the garrison without a pass.

Soon after Gen. Forsythe's arrival an officer was disciplined for drunkenness, since which time the officers do not become "animated" as previously. For a few days the guard-house was full to overflowing, but few prisoners are seen now. When check roll will be called at any hour of the night, when the officer of the day visits Sturgis in the night and arrests every soldier found there without a pass, and when prisoners are set on all fours to pick out weeds from the parade ground, they naturally become more careful to obey. Of course there is some dissatisfaction at the rigid rule, but it appears to me that the officers are more displeased than the men.

The necessities of our government require the raising of from three to five hundred millions of dollars each year to pay current expenses. There are four ways of getting this money: A tax on the earnings of the citizens of the country and known as an income tax, an internal revenue tax or stamp tax that requires a stamp to be placed upon everything that is made or used, as was done in 1863-4 and for a few years following; a tax on imported goods, and known as tariff, and the fourth, direct tax, the same method as is adopted for procuring money for township, village, school and other local purposes. It sounds quite nice for an eloquent man to talk of the beauties of free trade, but when any man undertakes to tell that he favors this kind of change in the method of raising the necessary means to operate the government, we stamp him either a demagogue or non compos mentis.

Suppose that all these things happen, and that there has been done to any cause in which a Republican is interested, and yet what irreparable injury has been done to the cause of good government? With a Democratic Senate there is nothing between the people and the Democratic Executive, and the experience of last winter shows how far Democracy can go. "Already bills have been recommended looking to the payment of the rebel debt to the payment of rebel claims to the modification of homestead and pre-emption and other land laws, to the reversal of principles to which the Republican have devoted their lives, and something more, and yet men prate about this being an off year, and about there being no danger in trying experiments."

The truth is that Republicans must do their duty this fall with the earnestness and enthusiasm that they carried into the canvass of 1885 and 1872. There will be traitors in the camp, and spies of the cause of advisers and friends; there will be scheming and chicanery on the part of men sailing under all sorts of flags. There will be innocent men striking at the Republican party in the dark, and aggressive fanatics who would like to see it go down, but all the same the men who stood by Lincoln and Grant and Garfield must close their ears to bad advice and must keep their eyes on the front, because the front is the battle field, and on that field are formed in closest fighting order the traditional and unpromising enemies of the Republican party. A good soldier who will look to the front and not to the rear, in his battle array and then turn and leave the field under any provocation would not have been counted much of a man or much of a soldier in the times when the party faced the fury of enemies that gave it victory.—Inter Ocean.

Farmers Not Easily Fooled.
The free trade organs are following in Canada Yapple's scheme of trying to persuade the farmers of Michigan that the tariff is of no service to them; that they do not need protection on their wool; that the lumber operations in the pine woods of Michigan make no market for their supplies; that there is not enough competition for farmers now, but that agriculture would be more profitable, and farmers more prosperous, if the tariff were taken off. Detroit News.

The bears in the neighborhood south of Verona Mills, Huron Co., are making great havoc in corn fields this fall. William Martin caught one in his steel trap Monday morning that weighed 352 pounds after being dressed. He shot at one a few days before that was still larger.—Detroit News.

A party of men from Chesaning went hunting Friday, on the marsh near St. Charles. John Schultz, of the party, after dinner, complained of feeling drowsy and lay down to rest while his companions went to hunt. When they returned, a few hours later, they found Schultz in the bank dead. Apoplexy was the cause. He was married and was a shoe dealer in Chesaning.

PHACTS AND PHYSIC.

Buffalo is going to have a tremendous clock. It will be twenty-five feet in diameter 361 feet above the street, and lighted by electricity.

Excitement in Texas.—Great excitement has been caused in the vicinity of Paris, Tex., by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Corley, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head, every body said he was dying of consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief, he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Discovery, by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty-three pounds.

These bottles of this Great Discovery for Consumption free, at W. H. Keeler's drug store.

I have tried all the best remedies, but I have never found a better one. I have cured many cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, headache, indigestion, and all stomach and liver troubles. Dr. Jones' Head Cures Tonic quickly cures the above diseases. Can be taken by the most delicate. Price fifty cents, of W. H. Keeler's drug store.

The Maligners Rebuked.

Editorial misrepresentation we are glad to know is not approved and practiced by all partisan journals, while some like the Bill Ayer's acknowledge who in the respect he has thought a very mean man and in other respects was a great deal better. The most unscrupulous and reckless of this class that have come to our notice are the Advertiser, the Grand Rapids Leader and the Three Rivers Reporter, with the Kalamazoo Gazette and some others making an effort to become as unscrupulous as these have been found. Such journals can have a clear field for their misrepresentation. We shall not talk back in kind. The facts of the farm life of Mr. Luce are generally well known and when not known they cover so long a period of successful management and personal labor on the farm that it is a wicked waste of a printer's ink to utter a lie to undermine him.

On thirty-seven years Mr. Luce has lived on a farm, the first eighty acres of which he rode on horseback to Schoolcraft to buy, the seller being the late Judge Wells of Kalamazoo, a well-known and successful farmer. He farmed that eighty acres successfully until he was able to buy more land, and so he continued to do until he was owner of a large farm as he is now. For all these years, except four he has lived on that farm and personally given directions to and aided with his own hands in every department of labor that belongs to general farming. For many years he has fed from forty to sixty head of steers and found it profitable. His farm lies some ten miles south of the village of Bronson, which is his nearest railway station. The four years that he had lived on his farm he lived in Coldwater, eighteen miles distant, and served Bronson county as its treasurer. No amount of partisan falsehood can set aside these facts, and if these thirty-seven years of successful farming and farm labor do not establish his claim as a farmer, what would; and if setting forth these facts and asking the farmers of Michigan to elect him governor, because he has moved his place to the agricultural class in season and out of season for all the years of his farm life is partisanship, then all the editor of the Visitor a partisan.—Michigan Orange & Veg.

THREE persons were baptized in the flume near the office Sunday. Two of them little boys about eight or ten years of age who probably know about as much of the significance of the ceremony as a new born babe.

THERE is talk of an entertainment by home talent, in the interest of the High School and A. O. U. W., to be presented in the near future. The two can furnish material for a good entertainment, properly managed.

SINCE our plea for the establishment of a Chautauqua reading circle in this place, we learn that Mrs. and Anna Estes and Mrs. C. G. Thomas took the Chautauqua reading course of last year, and considered the time profitably spent.

A cowardly attack was made on John M. Glavin while he was returning to his home, in the dark of Thursday evening, that has the appearance of attempted murder. The assaulting party is not known.

ATTENTION is called to the advertisement of the new shoe store, on this page. This store is not in any way connected with the bankrupt stock thirty-day institution that occupied the same room a few weeks since.

THE Greenback Representative District Convention will be held in K. of L. Hall in this place, Saturday, Oct. 16. It may appear like a coincidence, but the Democratic Convention will be held in Rough's Opera House at the same time. The usual wedding ceremonies may be expected.

DR. BAKER, of Coloma has been nominated candidate for representative in the legislature, by the Republicans in the first district in this county. As that kind of nomination means an election in that district, the district is sure of a good representative for the coming term.

REV. HENRY M. JOY, of the Michigan Conference of the M. E. Church, at one time stationed in Niles, died in Greencastle Ind., as the result of a run away accident at that place, and was buried in Grand Rapids Saturday. He was one of the best known ministers of the Michigan conference and very popular.

THE enthusiasm existing in all parts of the county for the Republican candidate for County Clerk is such as will astonish some one. Tom O'Hara has been elected twice by Republican votes, but they will fail to materialize on Tom's side of the balance sheet this time. They think they have helped him long enough, and will vote for the "Boy from Weesaw" this time.

THE Star tells of a milliner of that place being found lying near the Michigan Central track in that place, Monday, badly hurt. She had started for Chicago that morning, and was expected to return that evening. It is supposed that she attempted to get off while the train was in motion.

THE Star says, the two golden crowns were stolen from the chapel at Notre Dame, Tuesday night, by thieves who gained entrance to the church by a window. One of the crowns cost $8,000 and was a present of Napoleon III., and was valued very highly for that reason. The other cost $2,000.

DISAPPOINTED.—Buchanan was filled with people from ten miles round who came to hear Hon. J. C. Burrows, who was announced to speak in Rough's Opera House, last evening, but were compelled to return to their homes without hearing him. The appointment was made in accordance with a letter dictated by Mr. Burrows, and we are not able to account for the failure to appear.

YESTERDAY morning, Mr. N. Johnson saw a large bird go into his woodshed, when he quietly shut the door and went inside to investigate. It was a pretty fellow, and when Mr. Johnson tried to pick him up, the bird rolled over on his back and put up two elegant claws, which Mr. Johnson took hold of, when the claws went through the fleshy part of his thumb, making a quite severe wound. He succeeded in boxing the bird, and now has a fine specimen of the genus Circus Hudsonius, that he will gladly present to any one who is ornithologically inclined.

THE records of the Board of Supervisors, so far as relates to the charges of sheriff and deputies, for the past two years, tells a beautiful and interesting chapter in Berrien county history. One was for $188 for chasing a thief who had stolen $250 worth of property, and then was not caught. Another for the arrest and custody of a woman who was allowed to escape, and the only effort made to capture her was with the pen used in charging up the bill of costs. "Turn the rascals out."

THERE is a law in this state imposing a severe penalty on any one who shall allow Canada thistles to grow and mature on their premises, but notwithstanding there are many places in this county where they form the chief crop. There is a patch in Berrien township, near the Pennell school house on the river road, that would make the purest Canuck angry with envy. If there is any law on our statute books that ought to be strictly enforced that is it, but what is everybody's business no one attends to. Please call your highway commissioner's attention to the matter.

"The boy from Weesaw" whom the Republicans have trotted out and entered against Tom O'Hara in the race for the county clerkship, is said to be a very nice sort of a young chap, if he does live in the Gallin woods. But, candidly now, our Republican brethren, don't you think he exhibited a woeful lack of discretion to engage in a contest with the most formidable candidate the Democratic or any other party in this county ever nominated?—St. Joe Republican. (Democrat.)

We can tell you better after we hear from the votes, next month. Lots of fellows going to vote for "the boy from Weesaw" who voted for Tom before. You may be badly astonished at the running qualities of the boy, who has spent this much of his life educating himself and supporting an invalid mother. He is teaching school now, to procure provender for her.

For the first half of the year, but little more than half as much of poor fund has been expended, as for the same time last year, and Supervisor Alexander is confident of getting through the year with somewhat less. This is aside from the township expense at the county house, which is greater this year. The doctor bill is greatly less this year than last. There are a few who have been receiving aid to keep their families over winter and live up all their earnings in the summer, who need some kind of sharp discipline. One of them, an able bodied smoked yankee went away and left his family of wife and four children to be fed by the writer, as Supervisor, two months while he was larking about the country. This and similar frauds are perpetrated on the holder of that office in a manner to destroy the patience of a saint, if he have any regard for the expenditure of the public money.

A SURVEYING party is at work under Mr. Graves, on the line of the proposed railroad between Berrien Springs and Eau Claire, and it is understood that Berrien Springs is willing to bond herself for $80,000, to spend in that way, with an idea that such a road will save to them the court house. Perhaps it will, but the road to St. Joseph will be very much more apt to do so, and besides, will be of more value commercially to the town and to the entire county. St. Joseph offered some time since to give enough that, with the $80,000 Berrien now proposes to raise, would build the road and put it in fair condition. Another difference would be that the narrow gauge road to St. Joseph would not only be a paying investment, but it would make the ten miles ahead built pay, while the broad gauge road talked of can never pay. The talk does not extend toward St. Joseph, because of cross-grained feelings against the holders of the mortgage on the St. Jo. Valley road, and so they propose to spite the face by amputation of the village nose. The road to St. Joseph need have no more connection in ownership with these mortgages than has the Northern Pacific, if its builders still find it to their interest, and compatible with their ireful feelings, to keep them separate. There can be no question as to which will be the better of the two ways, but there is no accounting for the ways of man, or a village full of them. They sometimes live to regret past actions.

A few days ago while W. B. Sprague was walking in his pasture, he saw a turtle with a tag or check attached to its shell, by a following inscription: "A. K., '68, C. & W. M. R. R.—Traveler Herald."

DR. STRATTON, of St. Joseph, was called to Royton Saturday evening to attend Mr. R. D. Collier, who fell from the roof of a house where he was building a chimney a few hours before and fractured his leg. The doctor gave the necessary surgical attention and Mr. Collier is doing as well as possible, although on account of his age it will probably be some time before he will be able to walk unsupported.—Benton Harbor Daily Palladium.

THE Republicans of Berrien county have nominated Benton H. Stern, of Allen for Sheriff, and there is no reason why he should not be elected by a good majority. We remember him well as a worthy member of the army and a capable man for Sheriff. The military record he bears was made as private corporal and sergeant in the company we were in and afterwards First Lieutenant and Commissary of Subsistence at Washington, Arkansas.—South Haven Sentinel.

[Berrien Springs Journal.] The cider mill has a contract with the Chicago Vinegar Works for about 1,500 barrels of cider. Acid is put in the barrels as they are filled, which soon turns them to vinegar. On Monday and Tuesday they shipped 500 barrels.—J. N. Platts, of Buchanan, was coming to this place Tuesday with a load of brick for the new Baptist parsonage, and was thrown from his wagon near Extra Wilson's place, and the loaded wagon passed over his neck, very seriously injuring him.

GALLIN ITEMS.

Oct. 6, 1886.

An old man about sixty was knocked from the railroad track, at this place Wednesday morning, breaking his arm and hurting him otherwise quite badly, though not serious. He was tramping his way east.

Last Thursday afternoon, as Perry Noggles' team was hitched in front of Ritzler's, they became frightened at the cars. Breaking away, they ran down Main street at a furious rate. The buggy was turned over and broken quite badly. The team escaped without injury.

The new mill started up last Friday. They are not doing much as yet. Quite a number of our citizens were busy last week attending the fairs. A goodly number went over to Three Oaks Saturday, and the report they bring back is quite encouraging for the management of the fair. There were over sixty entries in horses, and some as fine stock as was ever exhibited at any of the larger fairs. The other departments were good. What is the matter with having a fair at Gallin? If our business men will take the matter in hand, there is no doubt but that Gallin can make as good a showing as any of her sister towns. Now, gentlemen, talk this matter over.

Mr. James Susan, of Michigan City, was in town a few days last week.

Prof. Kelley spent Saturday and Sunday with his brother at Berrien Springs.

G. A. Blakeslee is taking a trip through Western Iowa.

Mrs. Charles Artus was taken very sick while waiting in the depot, at Three Oaks, Saturday evening, for the train coming to Gallin. The air in these depots is allowed to get so foul that they are not a fit place for a lady to wait.

While Henry Ritzler was at the slaughter house, Monday evening, his team of colts took a notion to run, leaving Henry cutting up a beef. They ran east about two and one-half miles and were stopped by Jesse White. All escaped without injury. U. No.

Port Huron boasts a lady who was born in St. Clair, married a Port Huron man and removed to that city; has never been in any other town; never had any gentleman's company save the man she married, before or since her marriage, and looks upon that husband as a king among men.

State Items.

Woodsmen are in demand, especially in the upper peninsula, and wages will range from $16 to $22.

Mendon is credited with forty widows, six widowers and more pretty girls than she knows what to do with. The usual amount of verdancy pervades the ranks of freshmen at the university this year. One was heard to inquire for Prof. Hennagin's book on French idioms.—Detroit News.

At the meeting of the board of supervisors of Midland county, in June, about $5,000 more were voted than the law allows. An injunction was issued restraining the treasurer from paying these illegally issued warrants.

The gas well sunk by Harrington & Axman at Port Huron was torpedoed Saturday night, and a flow of gas followed sufficient to heat and light the residences of the proprietors. Other wells will be sunk at Port Huron.

The Saugatuck Commercial says: Thousands of bushels of peaches have been lost in this section this fall, because growers could not be prepared for the "rush" which always follows a day or so of excessively hot weather.

"Want some money?" said an honest-looking farmer to an Allegan banker recently. In response to a laconic (in money matters) "Can use some," out came (figuratively speaking) an old stocking and its contents figured up just $6,000. Of course the h. i. f. was a peach grower of the great fruit belt, living near Saugatuck.

The Moran house, an old Detroit landmark, erected in 1734, and the oldest building in that city, was torn down last week. Under the floor were found five pairs of moccasins and an old pair of handcuffs. The hardware used in its construction was all handmade.

TWO LIGHTHOUSES.

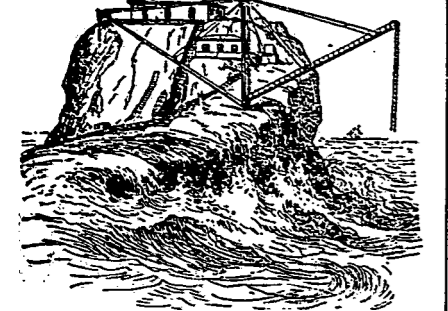

The Minot's Ledge and Tillamook Towers.

Among the triumphs scored by marine engineering in America, none is more marked than the construction of the two lighthouses here given. One, Minot's ledge, is in Massachusetts Bay. The other, Tillamook Rock light, is in the Pacific, eighteen miles from the mouth of the Columbia river. Both are out in the ocean, which sweeps around them and lashes their sides as if it would eat them up. Minot's ledge is a most dangerous lying rock in Massachusetts Bay. Since Massachusetts began to be of commercial importance there have been lighthouses there of wood and iron. The iron ones were destroyed by a gale. In 1852 the work of building a stone tower was begun. The ledge had to be excavated far down in a pit-like hollow to furnish foundation enough. So furious were the breakers here that the work could only be done at low tide in the calmest weather. It was a bad season that year, and workmen were able to get in only 130 hours' labor altogether.

During the whole year 1857 there were only 130 hours and 21 minutes of working time. But through difficulty and danger the work proceeded, till in 1859 the Minot's ledge lighthouse was completed. It is a substantial stone tower. It is 114 feet high altogether. The tower is built of solid stone to a distance of 23 feet above the rock. It seems firm as the everlasting hills. The greatest diameter is 30 feet, which tapers off to 12 at the top. This piece of workmanship cost $100,000.

The other lighthouse, Tillamook rock, in the Pacific, seems even a more difficult work. The rock is a volcanic cone, rises to a tremendous, bold cliff, 120 feet out of the water. In the calmest weather the waves that strike against it are so beaten back and broken that it is dangerous to land there. There is no calm for Tillamook.

In heavy storms the water is dashed into a shower of spray, quite over the top of the rock. This was the place where the gentle pastime of building a lighthouse was undertaken. Two men rowed out one still day and ventured a landing, not knowing whether they would come off alive. They did, however, and left there a cable made fast to the top. The other end of the cable was attached to the mast of a vessel, and over that, by means of a pulley, a cable was run. Material and supplies were placed upon the wicked old rock. This was in October, 17. In January a storm swept over it, carrying away the but containing the men's supplies.
