she comprehended their meaning, and then seemed to stand still. She leaned her forehead against the frosty pane and gazed herself. She must go to him—comfort him! Tell him—What has she to tell him? What is this longing that has sprung so suddenly into life?

She hurried down the stairs, and encountered her husband's valet, inquiring his whereabouts. "He's in the library, mem, an' I'm to take him his mail and let no one disturb him, mem, unless he calls for you."

"Please don't move; I've something to say to you, and I'd rather you would call me, and all the jewels for generations are at your disposal."

"Oh, you're just the person I want to see," she said, her face in the fragrant blossoms, leaving the cases untouched. "I can never even begin to thank you!"

"I did not know what your toilet would be, so I brought you pearls and diamonds, and all the jewels for generations are at your disposal."

"I'm a free man once more, and I'll see you comfortable!" She nestled close with her encircling arms. "Well, now I'll confess, I was despondent and heart-sick, and all because I was haunted by a fair, sweet face that was mine and yet not mine; because little fingers were twining themselves in my hearting hair, and each of the four wrapped it up in her waterproof, and the rain wet them to the skin, and they kept their fish dry all the same."

resting-place; because every bird-song reminded me of my song-bird and the song she sang to me—oh, that sweet, prophetic song! The clouds and dark are dispersed at last, thank God! and the fairest of skies and smoothest of seas are before us.

And so that evening, just as the lamps were lighted, they entered their new home together; and when the servants had welcomed their mistress and been dismissed, and they stood together in the hall, the first thing John Carew hushed the thanks that trembled on Patty's lips, and folding her again in his strong embrace, he kissed the sweet upturned face.

"I know it will be grateful for you to be without money," here he opened and almost turned toward her, but sank back in his chair instead, with an expression it was well she did not see. Her sister trembled as she went on softly.

"I'm a free man once more, and I'll see you comfortable!" She nestled close with her encircling arms. "Well, now I'll confess, I was despondent and heart-sick, and all because I was haunted by a fair, sweet face that was mine and yet not mine; because little fingers were twining themselves in my hearting hair, and each of the four wrapped it up in her waterproof, and the rain wet them to the skin, and they kept their fish dry all the same."

How Women Fish. Did you ever see a woman fish? I don't mean a woman in a bathing suit, but a woman in the act of fishing. If she's got to go out to buy a paper of pins or a yard of ribbon, when it is wet, she'll load herself up with a waterproof and a neck protector. She is too delicate for a drop of rain to touch her, but she'll go out in a boat on a wet day and let the rain come down on her and stand looking like the bristled sail of a man.

There were four ladies who once went fishing. They selected a very rainy day, and they had all their waterproof cloaks and head and feet covering. They were all by themselves when they took a boat and went to fish. It was in Maine. With true feminine earnestness they started off without anything to put the fish in, but they had elegant tin vessels and caught a pickerel. When they got a pickerel they didn't know what to do with it. It was alive and flopping. They had it in the bottom of the boat, and wondrously they didn't let it get out. At last a happy and benign thought struck one of them. "Poor thing! it's getting all wet lying in the rain." And she slipped off her waterproof and wrapped it up in it. Each of the four caught a pickerel, and each of the four wrapped it up in her waterproof, and the rain wet them to the skin, and they kept their fish dry all the same.

How to Abolish Beggary. A correspondent of one of our contemporaries recently asked, "United States Senator Stanford, of California, who would be done in by the abolition of beggary. The answer of the philanthropic millionaire was as follows: There is only one way. Dry up the source of the evil. The conditions that make beggars. To try to cure poverty by street charity is like trying to stop a hole in your roof by mopping up the puddles that gather on our floor. No-bid is worse off because the Vanderbilt is worth $200,000,000. If they had not the wealth it would not exist at all. It is only in those communities where millionaires are possible to have the means of doing anything to ease. Now, what causes poverty? Ignorance of how to save money. I found beggars in California in 1850, when any man could go out with a tin can and earn $5 before breakfast. When by working three hours a day man could make his board and clothes, there were always shiftless creatures around whom the rest had to support. It is the same every now. The soil is wonderful fruitful, the best of the best men produce all the wheat of the state and export 1,000,000 of it every year, and yet there are beggars. We can eat, thrash and sack wheat at an expense of one cent a bushel, and yet potatoes cost only a half a cent a pound, and flour is only $4 a barrel, and yet there is want. An important cause is unthrift. People do not understand economy or practice it. The rich man has had to some time in his life. I really do believe that there would be beggars in the world before gold was discovered. It is the same with the poor. The sale and use of liquor. As long as there are ten times as many drunkards as sober men, the poor are mainly supported by the very poor, the sources of misery are pretty obvious.

A Lack of manual training. This last need is most serious. If so many people could be taught trades that the entire product of this country were doubled next year, the wages would be doubled, and the sources of misery are mainly supported by the very poor, the sources of misery are pretty obvious.

What Lard is Made of. A bill has been introduced in the Senate at Washington providing for the stamping of all packages containing any preparations of lard. The testimony given before the Senate Committee by various manufacturers of lard now on the market has added materially to the stock of public information on this point. A chemical examination of several prominent brands of lard has shown that the adulterated article, and furnished his customers with pure lard. The result of this effort to supply pure lard was the receipt of large numbers of letters complaining of the bad quality of pure product thus furnished. Another feature of the inquiry is the attitude taken by several leading Southern newspapers, commencing with the "Atlanta Constitution," who declare that the bill is really aimed at and designed to injure one of the most important Southern industries—the manufacture of cottonseed oil.—Bradstreet.

The Crown Prince's Scissors. At the state ball given at Turin in honor of the late Emperor's wedding in 1868, the Princess of Piedmont's dress caught in a spur of an officer of the Lanciers; the result was a tremendous rent in the sweeping skirt, and a long affair of getting the dress together. Bare the Princess had time to appeal to one of her ladies in waiting, the Crown Prince of Prussia had produced a pretty little morocco etof, from which he extracted a dainty pair of scissors, and kneeling down at the feet of the bride skillfully cut away the wreck. After he had effectually relieved the Princess of her embarrassment, he rose, bowed profoundly, returned the "thank you" to his pocket, and resumed his place at the king's side, amid the subdued murmurs of satisfaction of all the ladies near him.

The success that attended his graceful and heroic action was enhanced when, later on in the evening, it came out, that on Victor Emanuel complimenting him on the forethought he displayed in carrying a complete set of tools along in a satchel, "our Fritz" replied, "The whole man, not to me. Long ago she gave me a pocket necessary with all sorts of useful things in it—needles and thread, button hooks, a pocket-blaster and scissors, as you say just now—and made me promise to keep it always in my pocket, always wherever I went. That took place just now only proved that I am a lucky fellow to have such a clever wife to look after me."

Mrs. Fulson, the President's mother-in-law, has gone to Paris, and Washington society gossip whispers that she is on a shopping tour to purchase a wedding gown, and each of the four wrapped it up in her waterproof, and the rain wet them to the skin, and they kept their fish dry all the same.

ONE Niles spinster has already made love to thirteen young men since the beginning of last year. Thirteen is an unlucky number, and every one of the young men will swear to it.—Detroit News.

There is another slander on poor Niles.

THE Star is trying to induce Mr. Carothers to place his steam boat over the dam and try to make a summer resort of Niles. Is that to be on the principle on which the old farmer was going to make an editor outen o' Jim? He had proven a failure at everything else.

THE Republicans in their caucus, Saturday evening, had the assistance of about twenty or more Democrats and as many Prohibitionists in making their nomination for Marshal. The kindness of these disinterested parties, who had no intention of voting the ticket, is hard to appreciate. Candidates who obtain nominations in that manner deserve defeat every time.

KICKED.—Tuesday afternoon Mr. Frank Rowley, living about four miles south of town, was kicked in the face by one of his horses. His face was badly lacerated and bruised, and it was thought his skull was broken. At last account he retained his senses and would likely recover if no serious complication set in.

THE Buchanan dramatic company treated the Three Oaks people to a rendition of The Social Glass, last evening. The entertainment was so well patronized and gave such pleasure that they repeat it tonight. The next stand will be in New Carlisle. The company have some expectations of being called to perform in one of the leading Chicago opera houses soon, and when they go to that village will most likely open the season at the Grand.

THE RECORD regretted to see Republicans who had taken part in the caucus working on election day to defeat one of the candidates regularly nominated. When they got through "kicking" there they should have taken their "medicine" like men. It does not hurt the party much but it sometimes does those who indulge in such work, especially when they come up as aspirants for office.

ACQUITTED.—After two weeks and two days, trial the jury in the case of Mrs. Emily O. Witter, in Denver, for the murder of her husband, last June, by poisoning with arsenic, rendered a verdict of not guilty, after being out two hours. This case has excited considerable interest in this vicinity by the fact of Mrs. Witter and her people being quite well and favorably known. Mrs. Witter with her two children will now make their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Marble, in this place.

THERE is a common sentiment among the taxpayers that the fat of the Marshal's office might with propriety be greatly reduced, and that in the case of that office the village has been paying a good price for very poor and inefficient service. So much so that the great share of the salary is about equal to being wasted. Just what disposition will be made in this direction by the incoming board is with the future. There should certainly be better service or less cash.

THE dwelling of Mr. O. Lamson, on Higbee avenue, two and a half miles east of Benton Harbor, was totally destroyed by fire at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The flames originated in the kitchen roof where a stovepipe passed through, and were first discovered while the family were at dinner. Such lessons are expensive, but when Mr. Lamson builds again he will spend a few cents in putting up a chimney instead of sticking a stove pipe through the roof. He has no insurance this time. Just expired.

THE Berrien Springs correspondent for the Palladium says into the operation of the Oronoko Seed Company as a swindle equalled only by the Bohemian oats scheme. The company is distributing seeds of what it terms choice varieties of oats, potatoes, etc., among the farmers, asking in return one-half of the crop raised from the seed furnished, and binding the farmer to sell none of his share for less than $1.50 per bushel. If there be any swindle in the scheme, it is in the representations of the company that the yield will be enough greater than the ordinary varieties to make up for the half given for seed. On this the farmer takes his chance.

BRO. SAWYER has now become thoroughly convinced that his laborious efforts to boom the town he lives in are not appreciated, and in the last issue advertises his Sun for sale, and also advertises for bids from some town that would appreciate a good, healthy boom. Better see George Fox. He has a town planted on his farm, in Scott county, Kansas, and all it needs is a healthy cultivation to bring it into vigorous life, and George is right after the little boom. His present address is Scott, Kansas. There's your opening for the boom business, Mr. Sawyer. No commission asked for this notice.

THE Journal gives its readers to understand that a letter has been received at the county capital from John Hiling, who is deeply interested in the Indiana and Lake Michigan railroad, stating that the prospect for that road being built this season are blue, and there is no telling when work will be commenced, while from Kansas comes the news that the contractor who is to build it is at work there, and comes from his job there directly to South Bend. This is the first prospective public enterprise that has looked this way that no one knows anything about, even to the men who are manipulating it.

THE account in the Michigan City News dispels all doubt that the Chicago suicide, mentioned last week, was Dan Hines, who for some time acted as foreman of the finishing department of the Buchanan Manufacturing Company. The News gives a detailed account of his maneuvering with the Jones woman, whose presence here was a prominent factor in his introduction to Buchanan, and also of her presence in Michigan City which led to the second eruption in his family, and finally to his suicide.

Since writing the above the News says Hines called at the house of Charley Russell the day he would commit suicide.

THERE appears to be a tendency on the part of some in this county to attempt to enforce Act No. 275 of the Public Acts of 1887, in the case of the St. Joseph Valley railroad. The provisions of the Act are that the owners of any railroad that has been built within the state either wholly or in part by public or local aid or subscriptions shall not abandon its operation, take up its tracks or close any of its stations, on penalty of a fine of not exceeding $1,000 per day. As that great thoroughfare has now been built about 600 days, there is an accrued liability of $600,000. There are two difficulties in the way of collecting this claim: The road was abandoned and dead before the law came into existence, and it might be somewhat troublesome to find holders of stock whose aggregate worldly possessions, aside from the stock, amounts to one six hundredth part of the liabilities.

THE village election Tuesday was of usual order, quiet, but rather cool, as to the weather. The Republicans, Democrats, and Prohibitionists each had tickets in the field, of which all but one of the Republicans were elected. Joseph P. Beistle on the Democratic and Prohibition tickets being elected Trustee over Aaron Miller. Following is the detailed result.

F. O. HARTSELL, Teacher.

AT the October term of the Board of Supervisors, S. L. Van Camp presented a bill for $200 to pay for extra work imposed upon him by the new tax law passed by the Legislature while he was in office. The bill was before the Board at a previous meeting and failed to pass, but this time it went through. It is of not very serious consequence, but as an election is soon to be held to determine whether those men shall continue to hold this office, the voters will, without doubt, be pleased to know who votes, and how they vote. It is not at all likely that if the bill by the Legislature had reduced the labor of the office the sum of $200 would have been covered back into the county treasury from his salary, which was $1,200 per year and found. Following is a detailed statement of the vote:

YEAS. Stewart, Bainbridge, Groat, Berrien, Smith, Colburn, Kingsland, Hagar, Landon, Lake, Glavin, New Buffalo, Eley, Niles, Pook, Niles City, Sylvester, Oronoko, Lewis, Pipestone, Bell, Sodus, Vincent, Three Oaks, Brant, Watervliet.

NAYS. Gillette, Bertrand, Alexander, Buchanan, Keith, Colburn, Babcock, Niles City, Stover, Roylton, Cummings, St. Joseph, Smith, Weesaw.

ABSENT. Lawrence, Benton, Beers, Lincoln.

THE following townships have settled with the county since the first of March: Lincoln, amount returned, $884.68, $20 of which is dog tax; Galien, $102.66, $6 dog tax; Weesaw, $197.58, $18 dog tax; St. Joseph, $589.37, $48 dog tax; Benton, $655.43, $94 dog tax; Bertrand, $52.21, $6 dog tax; Oronoko, $87.60, $14 dog tax; Pipe-stone, $133.98, $7 dog tax; Roylton, $58.14, $8 dog tax; Berrien, $245.58, $1 dog tax. Chikaming, $150.10; Niles City, first and fourth wards, $838, second third wards, $680; Lake, $1,071.20; New Buffalo, $422.42, $4 dog tax. County Treasurer Storms says that considerable more tax is being returned this year than was last.—Berrien Springs Cor. Palladium.

SINCE the death of Capt. George H. Richards, of Buchanan, an effort has been made to have a receiver for the St. Joseph Valley narrow gauge railroad appointed at the Berrien Springs end of the line, and thus put the road into operation once more. A few facts have been made public quite recently which prove that there has been a great deal of unnecessary rat tape connected with the affairs of the road. The road made money while it was kept in operation, and the fact that a controlling interest is held by the Farmers & Mechanics' bank, at Buchanan, may explain why the bridges were condemned. The point about to be settled is whether the incorporators cannot be forced to operate the line.—Detroit News.

INDIANA AND LAKE MICHIGAN RAILWAY COMPANY. AT the October term of the Board of Supervisors, S. L. Van Camp presented a bill for $200 to pay for extra work imposed upon him by the new tax law passed by the Legislature while he was in office. The bill was before the Board at a previous meeting and failed to pass, but this time it went through. It is of not very serious consequence, but as an election is soon to be held to determine whether those men shall continue to hold this office, the voters will, without doubt, be pleased to know who votes, and how they vote. It is not at all likely that if the bill by the Legislature had reduced the labor of the office the sum of $200 would have been covered back into the county treasury from his salary, which was $1,200 per year and found. Following is a detailed statement of the vote:
