

BUCHANAN RECORD.

JOHN C. HOLMES, Editor.

THURSDAY, MAY 23, 1889.

The Abbott hanging bill which passed the house at Lansing last week, died in the senate.

Mrs. Emma C. Fulson, mother of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, was married to Henry E. Perrine, at Jackson, Monday.

Allen Thorndike Rice, for many years editor of the North American Review, recently appointed Minister to Russia, is dead.

Over $16,000 was paid out to farmers and others from the First National Bank in this place, last Saturday. The bank has a statement in this paper that shows a prosperous business.

A wholesale use of disinfectant is called for in Chicago since the close of the Carter divorce trial. There was more rottenness in it than in Chicago river in July.

The Detroit Tribune says the composite photograph of the New York legislature, recently taken, looks like a barrel head. This should be an inducement to Michigan's law-makers to adjourn before some artist does the composite act on them.

Elmer Crockett of the Tribune, the newly appointed postmaster at South Bend, took charge Monday morning. His chief clerk is also a Tribune man, but that does not make the Tribune a Government printing office.

The Samoan conference between Germany, England and America is about through with its work, and so far as can be noticed, the Yankees have had things about their own way. The only differences of account have been between the Germans and the English being mere lookers on.

President Harrison has appointed John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, the smartest colored man in the country, to be fourth auditor of the treasury department, to succeed Charles M. Shelly, of Alabama, who is one of the Cleveland brigadiers, of the rankest sort.

Gov. Luce vetoed the bill repealing the law for reporting mortgages for taxation, embodying in his message the remark that "either the law taxing mortgages should be repealed or the best opportunity given for finding them." Either all mortgages should be taxed or none, and the repeal of the law for reporting them would simply be a premium upon chicanery in hiding securities from the supervisor.

The house at Lansing passed a bill granting the right of suffrage to women in all school, town, city and other municipal elections, last Thursday. The bill was immediately sent to the senate where it was promptly annihilated. The ladies, who have been lobbying for the bill, evidently forgot that the senate would have a vote upon the measure, and so spent their energies upon the house.

John Williams, of New York, has invented an apparatus by which he expects to be able to move passengers and freight 230 miles per hour. An experimental line will be put up between that city and Boston. He claims to be able to transport one ton of freight with one horse power 1440 miles in a day, at an expense of thirty cents, using electricity as a motive power. He is after a monopoly of the through mail business of the country.

The Governor of Missouri wanted his state troops to show up at the centennial parade. He advanced the money, and now the Legislature refuses to reimburse him. They are evidently Honorable Old Gents.—Detroit Free Press.

Strong democratic legislature in Missouri.

President Harrison has given fitting recognition to the colored Republican element in appointing ex-Congressman John R. Lynch, of Mississippi, to be Fourth Auditor of the Treasury. This particular auditor audits the accounts of the Navy Department, and Mr. Lynch's excellent record in an era of great temptation for colored Republicans in the South gives promise that his duties will be faithfully performed.—New York Press.

President Harrison is displaying good judgment in his appointments to Federal offices in the South. In this matter it is difficult to please both parties, and it is not necessary that both parties should be pleased. The president's selections in the South, however, seem to have been well received by the representative people of that section. The Democratic politicians do not like them, but this is a point in their favor.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The local option bill that was tabled a few days before, was brought to a second vote in the house at Lansing last Thursday, and passed by a vote of 55, all republicans, to 40, thirteen of whom are republicans. The Detroit Tribune of Friday gives the following account of a tilt between the two representatives from this county on the subject:

Representative Alshire (Dem.) declared incisively that there has been no committee work on the bill. He is a member of the committee on liquor traffic. Representative Pealer (Rep.) jumped to his feet and replied that the statement was not true. "Yes it is," young Alshire replied, "but I had not finished. There was a dash there where you interrupted me. I say there has been no committee work worth the name. The bill was the work of I believe of one man. Many members know little about it." He declared the idea that temperance should be made a party issue. He thought the bill innocuous and that it would prove empty of results. He said it was a popular but cowardly act, devoid of principle. He declared that the members were shirking their duty by shifting the responsibility from themselves to the people, who liked to be tickled with legislative powers. He found very few members who were genuine about the bill would be declared constitutional. He didn't believe Berrien (his county) would vote for local option again.

Representative Baker made a ringing speech. He said his colleague (Mr. Baker lives in Berrien county, too) was hand in hand with the prohibition party and that his speech was not designed to benefit the people, who want to vote on the question, but to kill the Republican party. The reason why Berrien would vote against local option is because the board of supervisors have a majority of two democrats. The Republican party is pledged to local option. It is progressive temperance legislation. Mr. Alshire says there was no committee consideration of the bill because the committee did not look with favor on his Democratic prohibition ideas. Representative Baker urged a full and free vote for the bill after making the best of his many speeches this session.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Three Dallen party surveyed a line through Bakertown Saturday, following the marsh just west of this place through Bakertown, passing along the east side of the pond, and south beyond Cottage Hill, and thence to Warren Center and South Bend. They gave them an almost perfectly level route, and over land that is not very valuable for any other purpose. If the road be built over that line there will be one station, at Cottage Hill, if not nearer to Buchanan. If Buchanan be called upon to buy ten miles of right way we would be as well pleased with that land as to have to buy Portage prairie.

Quite a number of Masons went from this place Monday to Grand Rapids, to attend the ceremonies of laying the corner stone of the Masonic home, Tuesday. Nearly all returned Wednesday morning, tired and sleepy, but well pleased with their trip. Some of the party took a trip to the Soldiers' home, with Col. S. Wells, where they found every thing in good order. Over 400 old soldiers are present, who certainly could not ask for a better place in which to spend their declining years, and the officers, Gen. Pierce and Major Long, are untiring in their efforts to make the inmates happy and contented.

THREE OAKS has been having a time with her School Board, who had been elected to attend to the school interests of the town. The board decided that they did not want to employ for another year the man who has been superintending the village schools the past three years, whereupon a number of petitioners sprung up, and were presented to the board asking that body to reverse its action. The board called a public meeting of the citizens, where they propose to plainly tell their reasons for their action, and allow the public to digest them.

WAR has been declared between the Village Marshal and a justice of the Peace in Galien. As the story runs by the time it reached Buchanan, the J. P. was "bailing" his cow along the highway, when the marshal happened along and ordered the obstacle removed. As it did not remove, there ensued a conflict at arms in which the Marshal came out second best by a decided majority. The fracas is now in the hands of the law. Better let some one rub your bristles down with a curry comb, gentleman, and stop the nonsense.

Report of Berrien County Teachers' Association.

The second meeting of the Berrien County Teachers' Association was held in Buchanan, May 18, 1889. The program was full of interest and instruction to teachers, and we all gained some new ideas for our work.

Mrs. Fields, of Niles, presented a paper on "The Objects to be Kept in View in Teaching." She brought before our minds the sacredness of the teacher's mission—the mission of training the boys and girls to become pure, intelligent, brave men and women.

Miss Jennings read a paper on Normal Training, in which she spoke of the object of the system and what was hoped to be gained by its adoption in our schools.

Miss Beardsley, with some of her little folks, gave a very interesting exercise in Number Work, in which she illustrated her methods of teaching the number 9.

Miss Bissell's paper on Geography and Miss Kempton's on Language led to some very lively discussions.

In Geography, the subject of map-drawing and the amount of time which should be spent upon it in the several grades, was discussed. The idea was presented that the maps should be so clear that the pupil will be able to read from it the physical features of the country; also that from the study of the pictures in the geography the pupil may gain a great deal of valuable information.

In the discussion of Language, the advisability of teaching false syntax was warmly debated, though those holding to neither opinion were concurred by the forcible arguments presented.

Dr. Bradley's paper on Theory and Practice of Hygiene contained many interesting and practical thoughts.

Miss Taylor's essay on Vacations reminded us that our school year was drawing to a close.

MUSIC was furnished by some of the Buchanan young people and was appreciated by all present.

We were gratified to see so large a company present and such a lively interest manifested, and trust that all present felt paid for attending.

The officers elected for the coming year are as follows: President, P. H. Kelley, Galien; Vice-Pres., Mary Reynolds; Sec., Minnie Sherwood, Buchanan.

Committee on program—President, Secretary, Miss Whitehead, Three Oaks; Miss Bronson, Niles; Miss Bissell, Galien.

MINNIE SHERWOOD, Sec.

A PORTION of the editorial fraternity of this county went to Indianapolis Monday to ride back Tuesday with an editorial excursion party from that section to Benton Harbor. None but the metropolitan sheets, such as Three Oaks, Niles, and Berrien Springs.

JOHN SHOOK, Marshal.
May 23, 1890.

PROBABLY no man in this vicinity has stayed more closely by his job than has George Bird. He commenced doing teaming and carrying the mail in this place in 1862, and has been at it ever since. When the Cleveland administration came in no one interfered with his official position. Probably because none thought that any but he could do the work satisfactorily. It has always been his boast that he never misses a train or skips a meal.

A GREAT improvement was made at the Front and Detroit street crossing, Tuesday, by putting in tiling and filling up the gutters to a level with the street on either side. Such an arrangement at each of the street-crossings about town would be the proper thing. There are but few things more annoying to teamsters than the deep chuckholes left at each street crossing. The worst one in town is on Front street, near the foundry.

FIRE.—Tuesday afternoon one of John Simmon's children went into a dark closet in his house, struck a match for a light, and succeeded in finding some of the clothing which burned at lively rate. The house was filled with smoke which came out through every crevice, giving the appearance from outside that the house was all on fire within. No alarm was given, and by the assistance of a few neighbors the fire was extinguished with but little damage. Insured with W. A. Palmer.

ONE thing Buchanan should do this year is to establish an agricultural fair and make it a success. Niles has tried it for a number of years and made a complete failure of it. The society that held the fairs there has given up the ghost, and leaves southern Berrien county without a good fair. The best one ever held in the south part of the county was held here, and we can do the same thing over again if we try.

MR. B. F. NEEDHAM served a good advertising point for the harvesting machine for which he is agent, by having those who had bought of him call for their machines Saturday. There was but one car-load arrived, but headed by the band it made a pretty good procession, which was driven about the principal streets of town. He had another car-load on the road, but they did not arrive in time for the show.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. Wm. Trenbeth has bought of Geo. Churchill the vacant lot on Front street, between the saloon and Miley's undertaking rooms, seventeen feet front, 125 feet deep, the back part extending to the rear of the Miley building, paying $400 cash for the same. He intends commencing work next week on a two-story brick building thereon for the accommodation of his merchant tailor business. This will be one more toward clearing out the wooden row along that side of Front street. About six more brick buildings along there will give the street a pretty respectable appearance down to the creek.
