Playing the Fool.

When a man loses his temper he generally loses his common sense with it—

One man was driving out of town with a load of bricks and another was driving in with a load of hay.

They met on the road and the driver of the hay wagon asked the driver of the brick wagon to get the best side of the road.

"You there!" shouted the first driver in a loud voice.

"You there!" shouted the second, equally loud.

"No!"

"I'll stay here a year first!"

"And I'll stay here!"

Both men proceeded to make themselves ostentatiously comfortable.

Such travelers as come along took the "best" side of the road and passed them by.

At the end of an hour the hay man broke the silence.

"If there's anything in the world I hate it's a human boy."

"Then it's a wonder you haven't killed yourself before now."

"Another hour, passed, and this time the brick man spoke.

"I'm going to sleep; I hope you won't disturb me."

"Just what I was going to ask of you!" said the other man.

Both men pretended to sleep, but toward night the hay man broke out.

"Say, you're a mighty mean man!"

"The same to you."

"What are you going with the bricks?"

"Four miles out."

"To whose place?"

"To John Dayton's. Where is your horse?"

"To Steiner's brick yard."

"Say, man, I'm John Dayton myself, and I've traded this hay for brick."

"Well, I don't see how you are driving the first load out."

"What a pair of fools we are!"

"Here, take up the road!"

"No, let me turn out."

"All right."

And in their eagerness to do the square by the load of hay was upset and a wheel taken off the brick wagon.

Thought Only of Mamma.

On one of the wettest days of last week a countryman, who might have been a prosperous farmer or a successful merchant, was walking along Market street in the rain when he noticed a little girl in front of him.

THE Indianapolis Journal says: "The work of placing the track of the St. Joseph extension of the Vandalla in order will be begun this morning, and the present intention is to put on regular trains between Terre Haute and St. Joseph on the 15th of April. The greater portion of the track has now become well settled. There will be some cleaning out of ditches and filling of little washouts to do before the track will be in shape to run trains over. Experts say it was very wise for the Vandalla to keep their trains off of this extension until the winter was over, as now the track can easily be placed in position, and made smooth and solid."

HERE is a bit of law, prepared by the last legislature, which should not be forgotten at the coming town meeting and the primaries: "At the annual township meeting, held on the first Monday of April, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety, there shall be elected by ballot, on the regular township ticket, two suitable electors of the township to serve as members of the board of review, one of whom shall be elected for one year and one for two years, and annually thereafter one member shall be elected for two years, who shall take the constitutional oath of office as other township officers. The supervisor and the two electors so elected shall constitute the board of review for such township. The township board may temporarily fill any vacancy which shall occur in the membership of said board of review."

REV. J. A. FRYE preached his last sermon for this conference year on Sunday evening, and after the regular services gave a brief review of the work done by the church in this place, from which it appears that less than two years ago a class was formed of twenty-one persons, who for a time held meetings in the opera house, but soon decided to build a church building for their accommodation. A lot was procured and the finest church building in town was erected thereon, at a cost of nearly $7,000, and what is most remarkable for so small a society, the building is free from debt. Since the building of the church a good parsonage has been purchased, and but a small amount of the purchase price remains unpaid. From a membership of twenty-one the society has increased to nearly sixty, and but for removals of members the number would be about seventy. This shows what a society can do when the pastor and people work together as have Mr. Frye and his people. It is needless for us to say it is the general wish of his church and our people generally that Mr. Frye be returned to this charge.
