

BUCHANAN RECORD.

VOLUME XXIV.

BUCHANAN, BERRIEN COUNTY, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, AUGUST 14, 1890.

NUMBER 29.

Guatemala's Queer Hotel.

Recently an item has been going round in regard to a boiling lake near Lassen's Peak, California. It is not generally known, but we have in Nevada a similar boiling lake.

It is situated at the eastern base of the first large mountain range east of the Sink of Carson, lies on the edge of an immense desert—a desert so large and scorching that in summer the Indians never attempt to cross it except at night, and even then they always go well up the mountain.

On three sides of the lake are rocks two or three hundred feet high, which are perfectly bare and are burned to a deep brick red.

The area of the lake is about two acres, and the steam is constantly rising from the water, the whole surface of the lake does not boil.

The agitation—boiling—is confined to the great springs which burst up at several points. These springs force columns of water from a foot to two or three feet in diameter to a height of over twenty inches above the general surface of the lake, causing a loud rapping sound and considerable local convection.

The water of the whole lake is doubtless boiling hot, though not seen to boil for a brook flowing from it down into the sand of the desert sends up a cloud of steam for a distance of one or two miles.

About a mile from the lake is a great deposit of sulphur, running through which are streaks of pure alum, from two to six inches wide—Virginia, Nev., Bitter Lake.

High Rates of Speed.

One of our correspondents not long ago asserted that a speed of 100 miles an hour by steam locomotives was entirely practicable, and thought it would be attained.

In a recent lecture before a scientific club, Prof. Edwin Thompson declared that the speed of the cars can now be obtained with steam locomotives as to be expected by means of electricity, and he considered from 100 to even 150 miles an hour possible.

While in a steam locomotive there are reservoirs for the water, which are put in motion, stopped, and reversed continually, in the electric locomotive we have simply a rotary motion, which is a much simpler and more economical.

It is not a great deal, about fifteen hundred, I believe; but I would like it safely invested, and Fred thought perhaps you could give us advice.

Doctor Gilderoy stared. He had come prepared to put his heart against the entreaties of poor relations; but here was Fred's wife entirely independent of him, a moneyed personage in her own right.

The thought staggered him. Success is a wonderful softener of human nature, and the doctor's features relaxed in spite of himself.

"I shall be glad to help you invest, my dear Fred," and I really think you are a sensible girl.

"I would be happy to have you and Fred come and stay with us awhile."

"Thank you, uncle," said Mrs. Fred. "This house is mine, and I think we had better remain in our home."

"Is there nothing else I can do for you?" asked Doctor Gilderoy, as he took his leave.

"Nothing more," said Fred's wife. Doctor Gilderoy went home, seated himself and drew a long breath.

"A superior woman," he said to himself. "A very superior woman!"

"What did they want, uncle?" asked Lulu Gilderoy.

"The strangest part of it," said the doctor. "They didn't want anything. My dear, I never was more mistaken in my life than about Fred's wife."

The Life of Man.

Man, born of woman, is of few days and no teeth. And indeed it would be better for him to be a worm, if he had less of either.

As for his days, he wasted one-third of them, and as for his teeth, he has convulsions when he eats them, and as the last one comes out, he is obliged to spit them out.

"You'll call, won't you, uncle?" demanded the doctor. "I can't congratulate her upon marrying Fred, for I think she is a bigger fool for doing it.

"I can't congratulate her upon marrying Fred, for I think she is a bigger fool for doing it. I can't congratulate her upon marrying Fred, for I think she is a bigger fool for doing it.

THE CRANKS.

There is one kind of man who has accomplished much.

Though often without a sole thank; Because his intentions were misunderstood.

The man to you known as a crank.

When Noah his ark in the days of old reared, The rabble around him were frank.

To tell him a fable was something unheard, And to laugh at the comrade crank.

But when the tide rose, o'er the mountain tops wide, And they strove in the sea's bosom dead,

They thought of the truth they once did deride, And remembered the wisdom of the crank.

When Columbus first to the Castilian court, Of a country rich, verdant, and frank;

They laughed him to scorn, and made him their sport, And doubtless some called him a crank.

But when a new world he discovered full soon, Their pants and their rapiers he sank;

Each hung up his head to the nearest tree, And praised the wise thought of the crank.

When Fulton his steamboat was building; his said, Folts thought it a lunatic's prank,

And deemed his home in a home for the mad; For such you know, laugh at a crank.

But when his invention completed at last, Moved up his head to the nearest tree,

They opened their eyes, as she swiftly steamed past; No one of them called him a crank.

When Pasteur his mission attempted to show, Some called him a fool mouth-brag;

Each hung up his head to the nearest tree, And praised the wise thought of the crank.

His thoughts are all twisted and tangled one way, Like the strands in a thread knitter's bank;

But this will be righted and straightened some day, And then all the praise to the crank.

Like a foreign hand organ that grinds but one tune, When turned by an Italian tank,

His mind ever dwells on one thing; only one, The wonderful mind of the crank.

Perpetual motion still claims his thought, If he wishes to invent something ever brought.

To work; it will be by a crank.

On this you can bet with assurance your gold, And high on your winning can bank,

Though he battles with hopeless, though hopeless, and old, The smartest of men is the crank.

Why do you find fault with Mr. Bridgman, who would be a very acceptable candidate for a third term, and surely be elected?—Niles Star.

THE RECORD finds no fault with Mr. Bridgman. He is a gentleman in every sense of the word, and has made a good Prosecuting Attorney as we shall expect to have again, but the people who do the voting have demonstrated that third terms are not popular in our county—Oaks.

WEATHER.—A Waterbury, N. Y., man, who has kept an account of the weather, claims that it invariably repeats itself, and gives the following as the result of his observations: "All years ending in 9, 0, or 1 are extremely dry; those ending in 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6 are extremely wet; those ending in 7 or 8 are ordinarily well balanced; those ending in 0 have extremely cold winters; those ending in 1 have early spring; those ending in 2 have a late spring; those ending in 3 and 4 are subject to great frosts."

THE Buchanan Enterprise is authority for the statement that the directors of the Warren Featherbone Co., of Three Oaks, have decided to remove their works to a new offering better shipping facilities and where labor can be more readily obtained. Joliet, Elgin, LaFayette and Kensington are mentioned. Niles can fill the bill, and is willing to pay a reasonable bonus.—Niles Republican.

They ask $10,000 bonus, and ask your citizens to subscribe $25,000 for their stock at par, and the stock locks considerable of being dead weight on the market. If you expect to get any such manufacturing establishment on more favorable terms, you will be likely to wait long. Buchanan has no advantage to offer them over what Three Oaks has, but would like to see them remain in Berrien County. Now if you have any snap about you, Mr. Republican, here is a chance for you to put in your work.

An investigation is needed into this pension business, and there is a man in Buchanan township that was mustered into service when it was understood Morgan was about to invade Ohio and Indiana. He was given only a few days' work, and as it turned out there was no truth in the report, and at Cincinnati he with many others, who were discharged for the same purpose, were discharged. Twenty years or more afterwards he was taken with a diarrhea, and by swearing he contracted it in the army he got a pension. How many thousands are there who have got a pension in like manner?—Niles Mirror.

Name your man and he shall be investigated, forthwith.

PROBABLY the youngest soldier to carry a musket in the late civil war was Wallace Riley, of Buchanan, Mich., who is now in the city visiting friends, and who proposes attending the reunion of the 2d mounted rifles at Buffalo, Monday, August 11. Mr. Riley is an old Lockport boy and enlisted from this place when only twelve years of age. He was a good sized boy, however, and as they wanted to get volunteers of any description, the deception passed. Col. Fisk was in command of the regiment, and Lieut. Col. Raymond was out with the boys. Mr. Riley was in company with a drummer, and by Capt. Rushmore. They young volunteer served about two years, taking part in the battles of Cold Harbor, Petersburg and at other places. He was in active service in Grant's last campaign, participating in all battles from the Wilderness to Appomattox Court House. Dr. Payne, well known among Lockport men a quarter of a century ago, was the surgeon of the regiment.—Lockport, N. Y., Union.

A CHILD fell off the train yesterday, east of Dowagiac, when in full headway. The train backed up, and to the joy of its crew, found the child uninjured, except a slight scratch or two. The train was delayed nearly an hour.—Niles Star, Friday.
