CARPETS!

Carpets are the same low price that they have been for a year. Probably this is the best time to purchase Carpets that people will see for years. It is estimated that if the bill pending an increased duty upon wool passes Congress it will increase the price of carpets from 15 to 25 cents a yard. As long as we have Carpets at low prices we will ask a low price. Our prices this fall are as follows:

Cotton Ingrains, 15, 18, 20 and 25 cents. Union Ingrains, 30 and 35 cents.

All Wool Extra Super Ingrains, 45 cents. Hartford Extra Super, 50 cents. Others, 55 and 60 cents.

Tapestry Brussels at 40, 45, 50, 55 and 65 cents.

Body Brussels we have in several qualities, from the cheapest to the best, and have borders to match each pattern.

Handsome Patterns in Velvets and Moquettes.

Beautiful assortment of Rugs, in Moquet and Smyrna. We are selling a good Smyrna Rug, 30x50 inches, for $2.25, and one 36x72, for $2.75.

Good quality Floor Oil Cloth for 25 cents a yard. Also a large line of Oil Cloth Rugs at 25 cents a yard.

We sell all kinds of Mattresses and all kinds of Bed Springs at dry goods prices.

Our Carpet Department is one of the most satisfactory departments that we have. The reason is, we sell the Newest and Handsomest Carpets out each season, at the very lowest price. Look out for our sale of Lace Curtains and Bed

HONEST CONFESSION.

I.—ADJURATION.
She's sweet, she's young, she's gay, she's pretty, she's fond, she's true, she's bright, she's witty; There's no other girl in the whole big city So wholly divine as she is.

II.—HESITATION.
She's rich, she's fair, she's shy, she's winning, Her soul is like a thought of standing Would all her heart with grief, and I'm beginning To fear she's too good for me.

III.—DETERMINATION.
But still around her I daily hover, She knows no goddess I place above her, And when I have shown her how much I love her I'll win her—just wait and see!

IV.—CONFESSION.
What's this in my power? And I survive, or Have I gone mad? How can I love her, She's gone and eloped with a horse car driver! What a fool a man can be!

MAUD.

BY MABEL R. HOWE.

What an altogether sweet, lovable creature she is, to be sure! So pretty, so graceful, so dainty! Joel Anderson, her distant kinsman, has loved her from the moment he first saw her with the strong, abiding love of his life—the first he has ever known. But she is capricious—a maiden of many moods. To-day she is barely civil, to-morrow she is sweet and kind, and the next day dashes all his fond hopes to the ground by her frigid politeness.

As she stands a little apart from him now, her lovely mouth widens with an adorable smile, her eyes eloquent, her hands held out to him, he sees his heaven on earth.

"How good you are," she is saying softly, and oh, so kindly! "No one was ever quite so good to me before. It is lovely!"

He has taken both her pretty hands in his, and now holds them in a strong, warm pressure.

"If I could you like it," he says some- what awfully. "It was the prettiest I could find."

She laughs—a low, sweet laugh that always thrills him.

"Dear old Joel," she says, "I am well taken care of, and I am very happy. See!"

She releases one hand and holds out something that has been clasped tightly in it—a costly pearl necklace, the thing she has of all her most treasured possessions.

"Now," she says, "I am going to reward you. You may clasp it around my neck."

She held the trinket out to him with a gracious smile, and he stands with his head thrown back, the light in his face and eyes. What a strange thing love is, to be sure!

She feels a little thrill of pride as she thinks he is hers, he belongs alone to her—she sings it in her heart, and the light in his face, that brightness to his eyes—she alone can banish them. If she is kind he cares not if the whole world is cruel.

It is a little word, but so full of deep anguish long repressed that they both turn with a start to see from whence it comes.

"What was that?" Maud asks in a whisper.

She has moved closer to Joel, and now lays her hand on his arm. There is a little frightened air about her face as she looks at him.

"My arm as if to place it around her, and glances mischievously into her face. She flushes and draws away.

"Not that," she says in a low voice. Suddenly she gives a great start, as if struck a mortal blow.

"Joel," she says, "come here!"

"It is Sanders," he thinks with a great pain tugging at his heart. The man is standing, he is lying on the rustic garden seat that the oldsters are surrounded by trees, and standing as they are, they can look in on him without themselves being seen. His face is buried in one arm that is thrown over the side of the seat. His whole air is that of a man reckless with mad despair. His hat has fallen off, and Maud sees that his hair is almost entirely gray.

"How came he here?" she asks, suddenly, and she looks at Joel. He was not expected until this evening.

She speaks aloud. She has a burning craving to witness the effect of her voice upon this man after four long years, and watches him breathlessly.

"He is not here," he says, and he looks at her with a steady gaze. He has his head with a watchful eye knows so well, and as she ceases to speak he springs to his feet and they are face to face, she, the wronged, deserted woman, and he, the selfish, impulsive man, after four long years.

She is pale, but very, very lovely. Never before has she looked one-half so beautiful. He stares at her as he is caught in a spiral long not forgotten.

"Even I believe," he replies. "It is a miracle, a miracle, a miracle!"

He piles her back his whole heart, but he says nothing. He does not know, and owing to his self-repression his voice sounds almost cold; but she scarcely heeds that.

"See—ah! how I must steel my heart and nerves! You will help me, Joel?"

She looks at him pleadingly, and in her earnestness lays her hand on his arm.

"I will," he says in an odd, smothered voice. "You know that, Maud."

"Yes—yes," she says. "You were always good to me."

She pauses—the breath comes hurried from her parted lips; her pretty necklace, that had brought her so much pleasure only a little while ago, rises and falls with her quick, convulsive breathing, sparkling in the morning sunlight like a living thing.

"We were to have been married," she goes on presently, in a slow, hard way that chills her listener. "The day was not far distant—a little over a month ago, I was to have been married to a man whom I had never seen, saying she was coming to visit me and be present at my wedding. All delight, I showed the letter to her, and she was pleased because I was. She came—a dear, splendid creature, ab, how beautiful she was! From the moment they met he was a changed man, and at last the truth became so apparent that I was compelled to acknowledge it myself. He loved her! and she would have given her life for him!"

She pauses a moment and then raises her eyes to his face. The beautiful eyes that are his light. Deep shadows are in their sombre depths, shadows of a sorrow of which he had not dreamed, so well, so bravely, she has hidden it.

"I was to have been married," she goes on in a low, smothered voice, "from the day they met he was a changed man, and at last the truth became so apparent that I was compelled to acknowledge it myself. He loved her! and she would have given her life for him!"

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

A few years ago the village spent $2,500 to build a stone arch over the creek in place of an old rotten bridge that was always a source of trouble by being out of repair. As a matter of course there were a few kickers at the time, but we doubt if there be a taxpayer in town who would have the old bridge back for three times the cost of the arch. Another improvement of a similar character is now demanded, and that is the walling in of the creek above the arch as far up stream as the Jones live stable, and clearing out all of the rotten frame work and rubbish that grace the avenue at the present time. The pile of rubbish that has been kept along there for a number of years is a disgrace to the town, not creating a very favorable impression upon strangers who visit the place. It will soon be necessary to build a new walk there, and it should be so built that we shall have no such unsightly collections as now exist there.

Rev. S. L. Hamilton and family left yesterday afternoon for Newcastle, Cal., their future home. Their many friends here will wish them a safe and pleasant trip across the continent. To show how Mr. Hamilton was appreciated on his last charge, we copy the following from the Dowagiac Republican:

The great surprise and regret of his church and the community in general was the departure of the Rev. S. L. Hamilton who will leave with his family for California, probably within ten days. A son unmarried and in poor health lives at Newcastle, Placer county, about thirty miles from Sacramento, and the parents go to make a home for him and assist in the management of his business. Mr. Hamilton continuing as well in the ministerial work as pastor in the church in Newcastle. If the call had not been absolutely in the line of duty, Mr. Hamilton would have returned to his charge, the Methodist church, in this city. Since his arrival here a year ago, Mr. Hamilton has proved himself active in pastoral work, able in the pulpit, fearless in the denunciation of wrong, striving with all his power to build up the right. Respected by all, and loved by many, his loss will be greatly felt by the city and conference. For a long time he has been a valued contributor to leading denominational journals. We unite with the many other friends in wishing Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and Miss Pearl a safe journey across country and long years of health and service.

News From the Camp of the "Meads and Persians."

Mr. William Mead came to Buchanan with his bride of seventeen years in the year 1843, since which time they have resided here. They are now enjoying a family reunion of their two sons and five daughters. The eldest daughter, Mrs. William Douglas, with her husband and two children are here from Stanwood, Washington, having been away nearly eighteen years. Mrs. Copeland and children, of Harrisburg, Pa., came the first of the week, making the family complete. All the Meads and their wives and husbands (the Persians), to the number of 47, met Monday evening at the home of Frank Mead, it being the 14th anniversary of their marriage. Recitations, music, and yards of talk made the time pass very pleasantly. The Misses Mowrey kindly assisted in the singing. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mead, Mr. and Mrs. William Mead and Miss Jones, whose ages combined are 341 years, sang some sweet old hymns. The following one brought tears to many eyes: Thus far the Lord hath led me on, And every evening shall make known Some festive memorial of His grace.

Much of my time has run to waste, And I perhaps am never my own; But I'll forgive my follies past, And give me grace for coming days.

All the company joining in singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," "Blest be the Tie that Binds" and "God be with You till we Meet Again."

Yesterday Mr. William Mead, wife and seven children called on Mr. Kerr and tested the strength of his picture gun, to-day the twelve grandchildren, with test the strength of his patience and camera. Long live the "Meads and Persians."

The new anti-lottery law is in force, as some of the Southern papers are discovering. The editor of the Age-Herald, of Birmingham, Alabama, has been arrested and placed under $5,000 bonds to appear for trial in the U. S. court for publishing lottery advertisements, and an entire issue of the Atlanta Constitution has been seized because it contained lottery advertisements.

The Democrats are dreadfully in earnest is shown by the shape they have worked some of the congressional districts in Ohio, in order to have as many of them Democratic as possible, and especially where the Republicans have a prominent member. Here is the shape they have made Mr. McKinley's district, so that he will be in a strong Democratic community.

The good people of Louisiana are engaged in a life and death struggle with the monster known as the Louisiana Lottery Company and they appeal to me to aid them by enforcing our own laws. Congress has passed a law prohibiting the sending of tickets through the mails, and to evade the effect of this the company is resorting to express companies.

I very respectfully ask that you will aid the authorities in crushing out this monster, by enforcing so far as you can, our laws against lotteries. Chapter 324 and section 3610 of Howell's statutes certainly make ample provisions for preventing the sale of lottery tickets in this state. Please render all the aid you can and oblige.

HENRY THAXTON, a railroad man whose home is in Galien, became frightened by an approaching train, while on a hand car last evening, and jumped or fell from the car, near the depot here and was severely but not dangerously bruised. —Niles Star, Monday.

DURING Tuesday night thieves stole a harness from the barn of W. K. Lacey, on St. Joseph avenue. The same evening a burglar walked into the house occupied by O. S. Brooks, in West Niles, and evidently was upstairs all the evening. About 9 o'clock Mrs. Brooks heard a noise upstairs—the intrusion of a thief, over a fence, or something, while wandering around in the dark. The lady of the house ran out and called to neighbor J. J. Van Riper, and while she was out the burglar was seen to escape through a side door. Nothing was stolen, but the seal skin cap and fur gloves of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks were found out of doors. —Niles Star.

Eighteen Months of President Harrison.

The administration of President Harrison has inspired confidence at home and respect abroad. Everybody understands by this time that the needs of the country are receiving thorough consideration, and energetic measures if necessary. There was some coolness at first, because certain matters were not disposed of more rapidly, but it is pretty well understood now that the President is acting on his own responsibility, not on outside dictation, and his own judgment must be satisfied before he acts. In the present head of the government is not only able and discreet, but a statesman long familiar with public affairs. Gen. Harrison surrounded himself with a clear and able cabinet. The administration of our foreign relations no longer follows a policy of bullying weak nations, but pertaining to the power. Germany accepted our demands as to Samoa. England does not expect to run Secretary Blaine, and the younger nations of our own continent and the Pacific accept our friendly leading towards closer relations. The White House is not forcing any "pet policy" on congress, but the personal influence of the President is felt in counseling with the members and uniting them on the lines of a broad republican policy and effective legislation. The demands of the national republican platform are being put into practice as never before, redeeming such criticisms of principle from the reproach of an empty profession which party platform have not infrequently been for twenty years. Such government honors the nation, and will be itself honored by the suffrage of the electors. —Niles Republican.

Thousands Poisoned.

In a recent work on Heart Disease Dr. Franklin Miles—the noted specialist—gives many new and startling facts. "Thousands of people are slowly poisoning themselves, weakening their hearts by the use of tea, coffee and alcohol. These are HEART WIPERS, causing it to beat rapidly, thus gradually wearing it out, producing shortness of breath when exercising, pains in side and shoulder, hungry and faint spells. Finally heart failure and sudden death. For weeks and months I have been recommending the New Heart Cure discovered by Dr. Franklin Miles, which is for sale at Barmore's.

FROM CHIKAMING.

LAKE SIDE, Sept. 29, 1890.

In compliance with your often repeated request, that we furnish the Record occasionally the news from this place and the surrounding country, we, with some hesitation, undertake to comply with your wishes.

This section of the county of Berrien, which has in the past been regarded as among the foremost of the fruit regions of the lake front, is this year almost an entire failure. Apples will be found in but very few cellars here on New Year's day. The Glavin orchards, that have furnished this fruit by the thousands of barrels, will have scarcely a bushel of good fruit this year, and so it is with all the orchards in this township so far as we are acquainted. This makes hard times for our Lake Shore people, who are dependent in a great measure upon the fruit crop.

The political pot, however, continues to boil. The Democrats are very "tender footed" when they are asked why they did not recognize the Grand Army in their nomination for sheriff. Some of the unfriendly Democracy make bold in saying that the nominating speech, by which the "old soldier" was introduced to the convention, was enough to have killed a Brigadier General, and must have annihilated a modest Captain. It is said, by those present, that the gentleman who undertook to champion the Captain's cause, was badly scared in 1845 in the history of the Democratic party of this county, and very wisely traced it down to this present time, giving his history and connection with the party (except that portion of it when he denounced the Democratic party as a set of demagogues, and swung the Green-back banner), and telling the convention how loyal to the Democratic cause he had ever been. They say it is a fact that the speaker did, before the close of his introductory or nominating speech, accidentally mention the name of the Captain in connection with the nomination for sheriff, but with his breast heaving with the same patriotism that actuated it in the time of the rebellion he entirely forgot to mention his military career, leaving the convention far better posted in the history of the venerable speaker than in that of the modest Captain. The prayer of the Captain may well be, "good Lord deliver us from such friends."

Had the Captain succeeded in capturing the nomination, he would have made a very strong run in this part of the county, and would have been hailed as a complement by the Grand Army posts of the county. The Democrats showed some wisdom in closing the nominations, at their county convention, by refusing to flood the ticket, and instead seeking some one to Ros them over the troubled waters. M.

Original Matter Containing Hitherto Unpublished Information.

Captain Charles King, who recently visited St. Paul and Minneapolis for the Cosmopolitan Magazine, has prepared for that monthly an illustrated article entitled "Twin Cities of the Northwest" which will prove interesting reading not only to the residents of these two cities, but also to a great number of readers scattered throughout the country who have watched with astonishment the marvelous growth of these towns. His article will appear in the October issue, which will also contain the second part of a story by Julian Gordon, the non de plume of one of New York's most popular novelists, a story which has attracted wide attention throughout the East, the writer bidding fair to make a reputation far in advance of Amelie Rives, or any of the American stars appearing upon the literary horizon within the past two or three years.

The Wonderful Tower.

The highest structure in the world is the Eiffel Tower, at Paris, 1,000 feet high. But the great discovery of Dr. Franklin Miles is certain to lower far above it in promoting human happiness and health. This wonderful nerve medicine builds up wornout systems, cures fits, spasms, headache, nervous prostration, dizziness, sleeplessness, monthly pains, sexual troubles, etc. Mrs. John R. Miller, of Valparaiso, Ind., writes: "Dear Dr. Miles, I have gained twenty pounds a month while taking it. Finely Illustrated and sample boxes of the Restorative Nerve Tonic, free at Barmore's, who guarantees it."

Rev. F. M. Stone, of the United Brethren Church, Blue Mound, Kan., says: "I feel it my duty to tell what wonders Dr. King's New Discovery has done for me. My lungs were badly diseased, and my physicians thought I could live only a few weeks. I took five bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery and am sound and well, gaining 20 pounds in weight."

Arthur Love, Manager Love's Funny Folks Combination, writes: "After a thorough trial and convincing evidence, I am confident Dr. King's New Discovery cures colds, coughs, croup, and all cures when everything else fails. The greatest kindness I can do my many thousands of friends is to urge them to try it." Free trial bottles at W. F. Runner's drug store. Regular size $5.00, and $1.00.

The Great Spring Medicine.

GENTLEMEN—I have been troubled with bad blood for some years, but recently purchased two bottles of Hubbard's Rheumatic Syrup, which has recently cured me of my ailment. As a blood purifier it has no equal, and I also take pleasure in recommending it as a tonic, alterative, and reliable rheumatic remedy. Very truly yours, S. B. FERGUSON, Eaton Rapids, Mich.

This is to certify that we know Mr. Ferguson, and believe the statement made by him to be true. We unhesitatingly endorse the remedy, and we believe it to be the greatest family medicine on our shelves.

Specimen Cases.—S. H. Clifford, New Cassel, Wis., was troubled with neuralgia and rheumatism, his stomach was disordered, his liver was affected to an alarming degree, appetite fell away, and he was terribly reduced in flesh and strength. Three bottles of Eucletic Bitters cured him.

Edward Shepherd, Harrisburg, Ill., had a running sore on his leg of eight weeks' standing. Used three bottles of Eucletic Bitters and seven bottles of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and his leg is sound and well. John Speaker, Catwauk, Ill., had large fever sores on his leg, doctors said he was incurable. One bottle Eucletic Bitters and one box Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him entirely. Sold by W. F.
