

THE ELECTION

DIDN'T GO OUR WAY.

"Tariff is a Tax!"

The question has been put, and the Democrats have it.

So far as can be learned up to noon today, Tuesday was a poor day for Republicans everywhere.

The Democrats have carried everything worth having from one end of the country to the other.

SOUTH AFRICA'S BANK ROBBER. Chase the Police Had for Him After His An interesting account is given by The Johannesburg Star, of South Africa, of the police chase after McKee, the bank robber, whose achievements in the matter of perpetrating robberies, escaping from jail and eluding the police entitle him to rank with the notorious Jack Sheppard, and whose regard for his clever black horse, which he called Dick Turpin, in the hurried start after McKee when he escaped from the Pretoria jail (says the newspaper in question) the mounted police forgot to take handcuffs with them. Further, McKee had friends all along the route. He was born in Basutoland, and every Basuto is his fast friend, even to Mama. Consequently when the police inquired along the road of Basutos if they knew the man for whom they were seeking, they invariably said they had not. McKee's love for his famous black horse, now at the mounted police barracks, was extraordinary. The police had to have three remounts before they could run that horse down. Two of the mounted police sighted McKee and Cooper far ahead of them. They spurred on after them, thinking that they would bring the fugitive to halt on the steep banks of the Rhenoster river. What was their surprise, however, when they saw McKee leap his horse down the twenty foot bank into the river, swim across, and when he saw Cooper's horse would not follow, come back and reaching out pull Cooper's horse down by the bridle and drag him through. One of the policemen had a horse which was being examined by the mounted police. McKee saw the smoke of the gun rise and his companion drew their horses apart and the bullet passed between them. Shortly after McKee drew his horse up, leaped down, removed the saddle and stood patting his horse on the head. The police approached and he surrendered without a word, giving over his two revolvers and his pocket watch to the mounted police. McKee was taken to the government with revolvers, for this was the sixth they had had from him. He said he gave himself up because he did not wish to kill his horse. Cooper handed over his revolver, too, looking rather glum. McKee said he knew he would receive twenty-five lashes, but he would only stay in jail for eight months, when he would come out and go back to his own work. He did not know why they had given him twenty-five lashes, for he had not murdered any one or stolen a sheep or cow. Robbing a bank of its surplus money was no crime. The police were entirely taken off their guard, and consequently at daylight the next morning the birds had flown unobserved by them. McKee has since been recaptured at Ladybrand.

Further, McKee had friends all along the route. He was born in Basutoland, and every Basuto is his fast friend, even to Mama. Consequently when the police inquired along the road of Basutos if they knew the man for whom they were seeking, they invariably said they had not. McKee's love for his famous black horse, now at the mounted police barracks, was extraordinary. The police had to have three remounts before they could run that horse down. Two of the mounted police sighted McKee and Cooper far ahead of them. They spurred on after them, thinking that they would bring the fugitive to halt on the steep banks of the Rhenoster river. What was their surprise, however, when they saw McKee leap his horse down the twenty foot bank into the river, swim across, and when he saw Cooper's horse would not follow, come back and reaching out pull Cooper's horse down by the bridle and drag him through. One of the policemen had a horse which was being examined by the mounted police. McKee saw the smoke of the gun rise and his companion drew their horses apart and the bullet passed between them. Shortly after McKee drew his horse up, leaped down, removed the saddle and stood patting his horse on the head. The police approached and he surrendered without a word, giving over his two revolvers and his pocket watch to the mounted police. McKee was taken to the government with revolvers, for this was the sixth they had had from him. He said he gave himself up because he did not wish to kill his horse. Cooper handed over his revolver, too, looking rather glum. McKee said he knew he would receive twenty-five lashes, but he would only stay in jail for eight months, when he would come out and go back to his own work. He did not know why they had given him twenty-five lashes, for he had not murdered any one or stolen a sheep or cow. Robbing a bank of its surplus money was no crime. The police were entirely taken off their guard, and consequently at daylight the next morning the birds had flown unobserved by them. McKee has since been recaptured at Ladybrand.

They tell of an engineer on the New Jersey Central railroad who is one of those men who, no matter what the odds are, will swear words in an accident his locomotive was smashed all to pieces. The engineer walked around the wreck, gazed at it mournfully, paused, and ejaculated, "Oh, fiddle!"

SOUTH AFRICA'S BANK ROBBER. Chase the Police Had for Him After His An interesting account is given by The Johannesburg Star, of South Africa, of the police chase after McKee, the bank robber, whose achievements in the matter of perpetrating robberies, escaping from jail and eluding the police entitle him to rank with the notorious Jack Sheppard, and whose regard for his clever black horse, which he called Dick Turpin, in the hurried start after McKee when he escaped from the Pretoria jail (says the newspaper in question) the mounted police forgot to take handcuffs with them. Further, McKee had friends all along the route. He was born in Basutoland, and every Basuto is his fast friend, even to Mama. Consequently when the police inquired along the road of Basutos if they knew the man for whom they were seeking, they invariably said they had not. In cleaning the tail race for the new mill the bottom is found to be a mass of live springs. The race is on the same level as the bottom of the wells of the neighborhood, and lowering it may cause some of them dry.

A considerable amount of our space, this week, is devoted to giving the result of Tuesday's political fracas. Perhaps the result was not as you would best have liked it, but the question is settled, for at least two years, and will be abided by.

HARVEY HUDSON, whose serious illness was noted in these columns two weeks since, died at the home of his brother-in-law, Clarence White, on Terra Coupee Prairie, Saturday evening. The funeral services were held from that place yesterday.

WORKMEN are building a new bridge where Oak street crosses the mill race, and building it of lumber. If the memory of the RECORD be correct, this job has been done about twice before within fifteen years. To the RECORD it looks as if it would be economy to build a good stone bridge there, and make it permanent.

The stormy weather of the past week found a large share of farm crops still unharmed. A large percentage of the potato crop is undug, and but a small amount of corn has yet been husked. Unless there be a great change in affairs, there is likely to be serious disagreement between the farmers and the weather clerk.

The Merritt & Stanly minstrels gave an entertainment in Rough's opera house, Thursday evening, to a rather sparse house. They had a pretty fair band and street parade, but their stage and orchestra music was but fair. Their man who sails under the cognomen of Tom Mack is nine-tenths of the show.

The season has arrived when you will want to subscribe your next year's reading matter. On all magazines and metropolitan papers, we give subscribers for the RECORD the benefit of our commission saving them from ten cents to one dollar on each. This is done only with those who take the RECORD. It is not necessary to subscribe for both at once.

The usual crowd of rowdies were out last Friday celebrating Halloween. There were a number of depredations inflicted which call for the punishment of the depredators. Such, for instance, as the destruction of the property of a widow who is not in circumstances by which she can repair damages. The day does not give license for any such work.

The human family is a queer animal. This was demonstrated by the remarks about the new fangled election process. Some Democrats growled about it because it was a Republican contrivance. No other objection to it. And some Republicans didn't like it for some other as trivial reason. Thus far we have not heard of a single man who has been through the voting mill and is not still alive and enjoying good health as before.

The article headed "Legally Dead", which appeared among the miscellaneous on the fourth page of last week's RECORD has a local significance not known to the RECORD at the time. Sumner Norton, mentioned, is the gentleman who fell from J. F. Hahn's wagon, last summer, and Eliza, the wife of Micah W. Norton, was a cousin of the Eaton family in this place, and died in this township a few years since.

The old grist mill is to have new "inards", built on the most approved plan of modern times, and will be grinding good flour in about two months. Meanwhile the contract between the farmers and Charles S. Black, by which he is to improve his power at the mouth of the creek for custom grinding is still in force, so that we are certain of at least one additional flouring mill, and good present prospect of another.

The new voting booths are a curiosity to a majority of the voters, but they are an improvement so far as they go. It was the evident intention of the framers of the law to prohibit the handling of tickets outside of the polling place, but seem to have missed that part of the plan. This will be a small job for the next legislature. A new election law on the Australian system took effect in Indiana this year, and the officers have been practicing the voters for two weeks so they can go through the process correctly.

Our citizens were surprised and pained to hear, early on Wednesday morning, of the death of Mrs. Wm. Evick, from exposure to the severe storm of Tuesday night. Some time between ten o'clock and midnight, of Tuesday evening, Mrs. Evick left her home on Regent street, shoeless and dressed only in her night clothes. About midnight her husband discovered her absence and at once informed the neighbors and Marshal Shockley. All joined in the search, but naturally enough missed their operations to that part of the city north of Main street, as Mrs. Evick's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Dean, live on Fifth street, north. Their anxious efforts to find the unfortunate lady were fruitless; but Green Finley, who started about daylight to drive to South Bend, discovered Mrs. Evick's body, cold in death, lying on the sidewalk on the corner of Fifth and Oak streets, where she had perished from exposure and exhaustion. Mr. Finley gave the alarm and the body was soon conveyed to her late residence. Dr. Abbot, coroner, summoned a jury and their verdict was in accordance with the facts as here stated. Mrs. Evick was out of her mind for a short time from the effects of a recent sickness, and was closely watched by her husband, but in spite of the careful vigilance managed to escape, with the sad result herein mentioned.—Niles Republican.

ACCORDING to previous agreement, the ministers of Buchanan met in the study of Rev. M. L. Tressler, on Monday afternoon, to effect a permanent organization of the Ministerial Association. The meeting was moderated by the temporary Chairman, Rev. Bartmess. After call of roll and Secretary's report, the committee on constitution reported. The report was received and adopted seriatim, after slight changes. The name of the organization as adopted is, "The Ministerial Association of the Evangelical Churches of Buchanan, Mich." The object of the association is "to promote unity and fellowship among the evangelical churches," and "to discuss such subjects as will tend to increase the efficiency of its members in the work of extending the Master's kingdom." The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Rev. Bartmess; Vice President, Rev. Klump; Secretary, Rev. Tressler. The term of office is six months. Of the business transacted, the following items are of interest: It was enacted that on Sabbath evening, Nov. 30th, a discourse be made by each of the ministers from their several pulpits on the subject, "The Proper Observance of the Sabbath Day." The first week in December, beginning Dec. 1st, was the time agreed upon for a series of union temperance meetings. The ministers are to take turns in addressing the people of Buchanan on that subject during the evenings of that week. As to the National Thanksgiving service, it was decided to hold the morning service in the Christian church, and the union prayer service in the evening in the United Brethren church. The choir of the Christian church is to furnish the music, the Rev. Bartmess is to conduct the devotional exercises, and the Rev. Tressler is to make the address. The places of business, in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the U. S. and the Governor of the State, are to be closed during the hours of service. By order of the association these transactions are offered for publication. J. F. BARTMESS, Pres. M. L. TRESSLER, Sec.

THREE OAKS ACORN. Our streets presented quite a ridiculous appearance, on Saturday morning. Signs were misplaced and everything in general disorder, owing to our young people celebrating Halloween.

Mrs. Hurlbert, who has been visiting friends in Benton Harbor the past week has returned home.

There have been speeches by all parties the past week, and we must say that for "maul-slinging" the Prohibitionists took the cake. While we admire the principles of that party, we do not think it wise to build up in that way. Mr. M. H. Nye made a flying visit home from Washington, D. C. to vote, and returned Wednesday morning. The government is now safe. Millie Cass gave a party at her home, Friday evening.

The citizens of this place are very much pleased with the announcement made by the Featherbone Co. They realize that the town would not thrive without the factories.

The new election law resulted in a very quiet election in this township. FRISKIE.

FROM GALLEN. Miss Lizzie Wolf, after visiting a few days at the home of her parents, returned to Chicago, where she resides.

We had the pleasure of examining a piece of crayon work, at the home of Mr. C. L. Harris, executed by Mr. Sherman Cutshaw, of this place, and the work needs no remarks, but will speak for itself, being from the hand of one who never had an instructor.

Election passed off without a jar, and the booths seemed to act as a modifier, and all can bespeak for Galien, that she has nobly sustained herself for Republicanism.

William Henry Harrison Bunker, of Month, is a lucky unlucky man. Some time ago he was kicked by a horse and his knee cap knocked around to one side of his leg. He limped for several years. Recently he was logging and in unloading a log the thing slipped and fell on his game leg. William Henry yelled, fell and fainted. When he came too he found that the blow had knocked the knee cap back to its original position and he was all right and has not limped since.—Detroit Journal.

Stephen Langridge, of Albion, was instantly killed and his wife badly hurt by attempting to cross the tracks of the Michigan Central railroad in front of a fast express train Friday night. Have an idea, that is, we have decided in our own mind, that if we set out goods for less than anybody, they will sell. An idea like this don't come to one often, maybe only once in a life time, so on the strength of it we propose to work for the month of November and try it and see how it will operate. If it works well we may try it again. As this is a wagon and plow town, we propose to turn the wheels and plow our way through, regardless of stones and boulders. Do not think for a moment that we will slacken our pace at the end of November, but we are not far sighted and cannot tell what we will do after that, but during November you shall have the stuff if you are interested.

500 dozen Ladies' Misses' and Children's black extra long Stockings, made of German Knitting Yarn, regular made, double heels and toes, and double knee, 5 to 9 1/2 inches, ribbed, all sizes, 50 cents per pair. This Stocking has been sold by us for several years and we find two pair will wear a boy a year, summer and winter, without darning, unless it should be torn or out. We would say we do not believe this stocking can be matched for twice the price. We also have similar looking Stockings for 25, 15 and 10 cents.

We also have an All-wool Gents' Half Hose at 50 cents that cannot be matched for the money. We also have similar looking goods for 25 cents, and others 3 for 25 cents and 2 for 25 cents.

We also offer Ladies' Black Cashmere Hose, full regular, at 50 cents. May be you can match them; we don't think so.

We offer 100 dozen Gents' Natural Grey All-wool Undershirts and Drawers, also Medicated Red for $1 each; also Scarlet Radium at $1; also Scarlet Radium at 50 cents. The above are goods that you will not be able to match for the money.

We also offer Gents' White Shirts and Drawers, Grey Shirts and Drawers, soft as a kitten's ear, at 37 1/2 and 50 cts. We also offer Ladies' in plain and ribbed, at 25 cents. We also offer Ladies' Vest, extra quality, in Scarlet, at 75 cents, in Grey and Red, at $1, and Black at $1.50. Extra quality.

We shall continue the slaughter of Cloaks during November.
