JOHN G. HOLMES, Editor.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 1, 1891.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS

LAST Sunday evening, Rev. E. W. Brickert, who has been pastor of the Christian church for several months. preached his farewell sermon, which was listened to by all the church could accommodate. It was a fine effort and is highly spoken of by all present. In hispeport he showed that twenty-three had united with the church during his pastorship, and that the Christian Endeavor society and Sunday School had also been largely increased. The many friends of Mr. Brickert will be glad to learn of his success wherever he may locate.

THE furniture factory of Kompass, Stone & Stoll invoiced last week and started up again with full force on Monday morning. To-day they will ship a full line of their new samples to their agency in Grand Rapids, from which point they have sold many goods in the past. They have also established an Eastern agency in Philadelphia, and will ship a full line of goods to that point in a few days. Wherever their goods have been introduced it has been no trouble to sell them, their styles and fine finish at once pleasing both dealers and customers.

On the 2d of December a boy was born in Antioch, Cal., whose father was a former Buchanan man, and he will be rocoginized by many on reading the following from the Ledger of that town:

When the word arrived at the coal mines that it was a boy the news was too good for Clarence McCoy to believe. He had been blessed with girls galore, and when the news arrived that it was a boy he thought it was a guy and would not believe his ears, and made tracks for home to prove the business by accular demonstration. He is the happiest man in town.

and rejoicing that we are convened with you around your family hearthstone, tonight, perhaps, and most prob-able, for the last time. This thought fills our every individual heart with a solemnity which none can feel and appreciate, save those who by experience have been associated with those they love as dearly as you are loved by us, and have lived to see the day when all such hallowed associations must be broken, and the time really come when, in the providence of God, a last farewell must be spoken. We are together here tonight as an expression of our love and sympathy for you, and that you may know and feel that by us you are represented and esteemed as among our very dearest friends. While we keenly realize that we are most infallible creatures, and that many times we have come so far short of being the help to you in the dear Lord's work that we might have been; had we but more fully trusted in our blessed Master for strength, instead of yielding to the petty annoyances and discouragements of life which, at times, have seemed so great as to crush our very life, were but in vain, still our young hearts have within them love for Christ, and a desire to be His true followers, and we humbly ask of you that you overlook our imperfections and failures, and when in the fucure you reflect upon the scenes of the past.

please think of each of us as your true and loying friend, for we truly do love you- and will ever remember you, and whether we ever meet again or not, the grand lessons you have taught us from God's sacred truth, both from the pulpit and in the Sunday school, are stamped within the depths of our hearts, and will never, through all time, be erased, and will be a strength and help to us in our endeavor to live Christian lives. We regret to have you leave, for we feel that we are being east out on the great sea of life with no leader to guide us; with no one to whom we can go for advice and encouragement, such as every young heart so much needs who have the Geo. H. Meade Post No. 36, G. A. R., trials, temptations and discourageis officered as follows, viz: Benj. The Dam Meeting.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Buchanan Improvement Association in Rough's opera house, on Monday evening. In the absence of the President of the Association, Mr. F. T. Plimpton presided. The first business transacted was the election of new officers and committees for the ensuing year, as follows: A. C. Roe, President.

C. B. Treat, Vice President. A. O. Koontz, Secretary. Wm. F. Bainton, Treasurer. Directors-L. P. Alexander, J. L. Richards, J. J. Roe, Rev. M. L. Tressler and J. W. Beistle.

H. Spencer, J. J. Roe and C. H. Baker. Messrs. L. P. Fox and L. P. Alexander, the committee appointed to make the preliminary survey to ascertain the amount of fall in the river, submitted their report, stating that in five miles of the river the fall was such that a ten foot dam could be built, and that the overflow would not cover more than forty acres of land, mostly cheap land, and therefore the damages would be light, and they thought the entire work could be done for $40,000. The report of the committee showed that they had attended faithfully to the business entrusted to them, and a vote of thanks was tendered.

Considerable discussion followed, as to the manner of raising funds for the work, and it being the general impression that the only equitable way was by general tax, on motion of Rev. M. L. Tressler a committee of ten was appointed by the chairman to look after all the legal points involved and report at a meeting to be held on Monday evening, Jan. 12, 1891. The following constitute the committee: A. A. Worthington, Alex. Emery, John E. Barnes, Solomon Rough, J. L. Richards, F. W. Mead, Ellis Roe, John F. Reynolds, L. P. Alexander and Rev. J. F. Bartmess.

Discussion followed on the guestion of annexing a portion of Niles township. to enable us to build a suitable bridge to be owned by Buchanan, and on motion a committee of three, consisting of Jos. P. Beistle, Rev. M. L. Tressler and J.J. Roe, was appointed to look after that matter.

Rev. M. L. Tressler gave notice that at the next meeting an amendment to the by-laws would be offered reducing the dues of members to 50 cents per

A Walk in the Winter Greenwood. The warm fir wood is dark and low Within a sheltered valley deep, When o'er the hills the night winds blow, They rock its happy tribes to sleep.

A thousand tiny tracks are made Upon its carpet soft and white, And through its thick and fragrant shade Brisk bird wings glance in sudden flight, Here feasts are spread and months are fed. Where seeds and buds are scattered wide, And many a warm and cozy bed Is heaped where dreaming sleepers hide.

Sometimes a golden sunbeam strays Within to light the green and white; Sometimes at night the full moon's rays Fill these dim aisles with silver light.

But we are interlopers here! Our steps are strange, our voices new, the dwellers shy look forth in fear And vanish with a swift adjeu.

Electrical Reporting.

Electric Power describes a new sys tem of reporting baseball and other games by means of an ingenious electrical apparatus. The special object of the apparatus is to enable a full report of games to be made in sight of a large number of people and at the same time to dispense with one or more of the assistants now required in reporting such games. This device is intended not only to indicate the progress of distant games, but actually to be used at the opposite end of the ball field from the grand stand, in order to enlighten the spectators on many points on which they are liable to be mementarily in doubt. Spectators coming in late are often unable to ascertain the number of innings played, the striker at the bat, the number of balls and strikes called, etc., and even those already on the ground sometimes find it difficult to determine whether the unpire has called a strike or a ball. All these weighty issues, upon which the baseball enthusiest expends such intense solicitude, can now be clearly and reliably recorded, and all anxiety and uncertainty can be removed by a glance at the exhibition board placed in sight of the spectators, the indicators on which are electrically controlled and operated by an experienced person located close to the dia-

Eclipses in 1891.

This year's eclipses will be somewhat beyond the average. On the evening of May 23 the moon will rise in eclipse at five minutes to S, but the shadow will for the greater part have already passed away, and it is only in eastern countries and at the antipodes that her face that evening will be seen wholly obscured. It will be otherwise with the total eclipse of our satellite, which will begin at thirty-five minutes past 10 on Nov. 15 next. This, as the almanacs tell us, will be "entirely visible at Greenwich," whither, no doubt, the legendary cockney will once more betake himself in time to witness the phenomenon.

There will be two solar eclipses-one annular, and visible in this country as a partial eclipse on the upper limb, beginning at two minutes past 5 on June 6: the other a partial eclipse on Dec. 1, which will be visible chiefly in the Sonth Pacific. Besides these there will be, on May 10, a transit of Mercury over the sun's disk. which will be only partially visible in this part of the globe.-Science Notes.

It is estimated that when placed in the cemetery the tree will have cost not less than $2,500.—Chicago Tribune.

Botany in Winter. I feel convinced that, if the teachers were not opposed to it, the subject would ere now have been more widely taught, and I shall therefore say a few words in anticipation of difficulties. It has been suggested that materials would be scarce in winter. Not at all. Let the children be familiarized with the observation and comparison of the peculiarities of a sprig of holly as contrasted with one of ivy, or let them be shown how different are the buds and leafless shoots of the beech from those of the oak or a horse chestnut. Show them how to observe the bud scales, how to infer the leaf arrangement from the scars, how to notice the color, roughness, markings, etc., of the periderm. Or give them introductory notions as

Boys, Keep Away from Africa.

Two or three weeks ago three young men. each having over $1,000 in cash left Pittsburg for Africa to explore. About a dozen letters have been received from boys referring to this incident and asking for advice or information. Had the three young men set out for an idiot asylum, calculating to ask to be taken in and cared for during the remainder of their lives, they would have exhibited more common sense. Africa is not a country where every Tom, Dick and Harry can go roaming about at will. All the seaports are in the hands of Egyptians, Moors, French. Germans or English. Any one has a legal right to land, but not every one has a legal right to go gallivanting around the country.

Stanley had to have the backing of two governments to enable him to do so. A correspondent of The New York World was threatened with arrest if he went beyond certain boundaries. A young man who has no better sense than to set out on such an expedition ought to have a guardian, and that guardian ought to have legal permission to tan his jacket ten times a day .-- M Quad in Detroit Free Press.

Who Will Be the Next Pope?

It is stated that the French and Spanish cardinals are concerting for the nomination of Cardinal Zigliara as the successor to Leo XIII. The general feeling is that at the next conclave the election of a foreign pope is impracticable, the only available non-Italian members of the Sacred College being the Swiss Cardinal Mermillod, and the American Cardinal Gibbons. It is not likely, however, that either of these will emerge as the successor of Leo XIII.

The nomination of Cardinal Zigliara, who is a Dominican monk, is not altogether unlikely. He is a native of Corsica, but, strange to say, he took out letters of naturalization as a subject of the ex-Pontifical states. He is a man of great learning and quite outside all political questions. I have reason to believe that if the pope died to-morrow Cardinal Zigliara would be sure of nearly forty votes. His only opponents would be the Jesuits, whose nominee is Cardi-

Queer Electrical Mishap.

A queer accident befell a Portland woman last week. An electric light wire had sagged to the tinned roof of er house, and the current was conductd by the water conductor on the outside of the house to a trap in the cellar, :hence by the waste pipe to a washstand on the second floor, thence by the water pipe to the street, so that when the lady out her hand on the faucet of the water pipe she couldn't let go. But luckily he wind was blowing, and, as the wires wayed, the water pipe and its adjuncts were electrified with but an intermittent surrent, so the lady was liberated after, few minutes' imprisonment and coniderable suffering.-Lewiston Journal.

Chopped Off His Own Hand by Accident, Graham T. Holtzclaw, a well known young attorney, cut off his own left hand with a hand ax. He had arrived home late for breakfast with a steak which he desired the cook, Mary, to prepare for him. In a good natured way he told her that if she would cook the steak he would cut some kindling. With a whetstone he sharpened a hand ax, the blade of which is about five inches broad, and proceeded to cut the kindling.

Taking a soggy piece of pine block, he held it upright on the chopping block, and aimed a heavy blow to split it. The block slipped as the ax blade descended, and the young man's left hand was thrown under the blade. The blade struck his wrist at the joint, and the hand was completely severed, rolling to the ground beside the block. Holtzclaw seized the stump of the left

Herbert Bismarck in Paris. Count Herbert Bismarck, after spendng five weeks with different friends in England, has arrived in Paris. He has come chiefly in search of "distractions," which was also his object north of the channel. Whather the search has been so far successful is more than doubtful, as he is looking a sad and depressed man, wearing the appearance of one from whom the tide has flowed. An old friend with whom he had been conversing last evening was heard to remark after he went away that he was not up to date, and seemed hardly to take in what is going on in any part of Europe, or what has gone on since he dropped out of politics. In this connection the person I quote observed: "How wonderfully soon a politician who is not great in himself, like Mr. Gladstone, loses touch with the political world when obliged to retire therefrom!" Prince Bismarck is said by his son to bear up well against the neglect into which he has fallen. He finds occupation in business enterprise. His brewery scheme interests him. The princess takes far more to heart their changed position. She is in poor health. Count von Hatzfeld, of the German embassy in London, is also in Paris, but his visit has no connection with that of Count Herbert Bismarck.-Cor. London News.

Mr. Depew in Demand.

There are few men in public life more scrupulous in keeping appointments than Chauncey M. Depew. That much courted gentleman, as a general thing, is unable to accept one-third of the invitations that he receives, but after he has accepted an invitation to attend a meeting, a banquet or a ball nothing but sickness will prevent his keeping the engagement. Occasionally he finds himself "booked" for two or three engagements on the same evening, and he manages to get around on time and make a pleasant impression at each place. A few nights ago he had two dinners and a private reception on his hands. One dinner was at the Union League club and the other at Delmonico's. Mr. Depew made the principal speech at each. One evening he went to Yonkers and delivered an oration on the occasion of the opening of a new building. He came back to this city, and reached Delmonico's in time to take a prominent part in the Patriarchs' first ball of the season. Doubtless the fact that Mr. Depew never allows himself to fret about anything explains how he can fill two or three important engagements in an evening, and appear on each occasion fresh, calm and smiling .- New York Times.

Electrical Lectures.

It was recently suggested that electrical night schools be established in various cities for the benefit of those who desired to become familiar with electrical subjects, but who were fully occupied during the day. Columbia college is about to put into practice a modification of this idea, and its president, Dr. Seth Low, states that it proposes to have a course of evening lectures, illustrated by experiments, on the practical applications of electricity. Dr. Low, while favoring the idea of night schools in electricity, under certain conditions, is of opinion that, in some cases where they are practicable, a course of evening lectures can be given with very great benefit.-New York Commercial Advertiser.

To Protect Lamp Chimneys.

The season is just on us when lamp chimneys break in spite of all precautions, and cause people to use bad language who are usually above such weakness. The usual remedy or preventive recommended is to chip a fragment out of the glass to allow for expansion. Nine times out of ten the glass is cracked by the process and destruction expedited. If the chimney is washed in coal oil and never even wiped with a damp cloth it will be practically indestructible, and will smoke jet black before it will crack. I have recommended this remedy to customers for years, and have never heard of its failing .- Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Tule of Summer Days.

A tale of roses and roguery is wafted from the last midsummer days. It was at a seaside resort, and a young man, a veritable Prince Charming, before whom all women go down and who cannot help "practicing" when he is near a pretty girl, was at his usual occupation -devoted to several of them, at once. He counted, in fact, this time four victims to his attractions. As two, however, were at the hotel on the beach and the other pair in separate cottages in different directions, he had managed to make all happy without any clashing.

Just before the season closed, however, the fair cottagers went with their parents to pass a few days at the hotel en route to their city homes. Four sweethearts under one roof were too much for even this clever campaigner. He concluded that the situation was too complicated for him, and a prompt departure was arranged for. The evening he left he managed to see each girl separately and to murmur in her ear a tender tale of love. He would take no decided answer then, but if his affection was returned he begged her to wear at breakfast the next morning a red rose which

Boston Wants to Come Nearer. It is gratifying to observe that the business men of Boston are disposed to make an active effort to secure quicker time by rail between this city and New York. The members of the Executive Business association have discussed the question, and have come to the very sensible conclusion that the public interests of the city demand a better service, and that such a service can be secured without prejudice to the interests of the railroads connecting the two cities." No one who has studied the conditions involved, and who knows of how much the modern railway is capable, will doubt this. A new line would probably not be a profitable enterprise, but it is within the power of the existing lines to reduce the time of the journey by express trains from six hours to five, and there is no sufficient reason for delaying to do so .--Boston Post.
