HOW HE GOT OUT OF IT: "If you will take my advice," said Mr. Wilding, making a last noble but futile effort to balance the ivory paperkuife on the tip of his first finger, "you won't go to the Brownriss' ball."

"And why not?" inquired his companion, irritably
"Well, I really wouldn't you know," said Mr. Wilding, giving up his strug-gle with the impossible, and laying the refractory paper-knife upon the table— "for a variety of reasons. Girls play the mischief with you, and you know what trouble it gave me to get you out of your last scrape. There are four Browning girls, aren't there? Aud they are all pretty?"

"I don't see what that's got to do with it," said Snooks, sulkily. There's safety in a multitude. I can't marry 'em all, can I?"

"Happily, no! Though if the laws of your land did not forbid it. I am inclined to think you might try to accomplish even that. Still, be advised, Snooks, and be conspicuous by your absence at the Brownrigs' 'small and early.' Papa Brownrig, when incensed, is not nice, and you are decidedly fate. It's downright indecent! They epris with Miss Kate."

"No, I am not," said Snooks, with decision, "not a bit of it. Though I allow she is a handsome girl, and has lovely eyes. Hasn't she, now?"

"Fact is, the fellow wants to spoon her himself, and don't see the force of being cut out," said he to himself. complacently, as he ran down the steps of Wilding's house.

Beyond all question the Brownrigs' ball was a decided success. The rooms were filled to overflowing, the staircases were choked, the heat was intolerable. Sir Thomas and Lady Higgins had actually put in an appearance after all, and the supper, if uneatable, was, I assure you, very expensive. No pains or money had been spared; everything was what the mistress of the house called "rug regal;" and all the | youngest Miss Brownrig to dance. He

Miss Brownrigs looked as charming as any one could desire. There were four of them. There was Katie, the s cond daughter-Snooks' friend, and the possessor of the lovely eyes. Katie's eyes were larger, darker, and (when she looked at Snooks and thought of his thousands) more will mend it. I'm not very sure you didn't sneak the truth at first. I really melting than ever that night. Her dress, if slightly bizarre, was intensely becoming. Snowks, for the first half hour, kept himself bravely alouf from her fascinations, declined to notice her reproachful glances and languishing eillades, and for reward was wretched. Finally, being driven into a corner during a fatal set of Lancer's he met her eyes, saw, and was conquered. She would dance the next with him? Yes (coldly). And the next? Yes (more gently). And the ninth—he can see she is disengaged for it? Yes (thi time quite warmly). An hour later the deed was done. Some capital champagne, a dark avenue (I believe there were some Chinese lanterns there originally, but a kind wind had blown them out), and a soft little hand slipped into his, did the work; and Miss Kate had promised bashfully, but with unmistakable willingness, to be the future Mrs. Snooks. W en however, her betrothed found what he had done, and remembered his former words, and all the awfulness of the parental wrath, his hear failed him. He went, as he usually did when in sorry case, in search of Wilding, and having discovered him, took him into a side room, and shutting the door, contronted him with a rather pale face.

"So the eyes were too many for you," said Wilding, calmly, after a deliberate examination of the disturbed face be-fore him. "I told you how it would "That's the sort of thing any fellow

"Don't be too hard upon him, papa, entreated Katie, weakly.

"I shan't, my dear, but my whip will," said papa, grimly. So he waited until five, he waited until half-past five, and then he took up a certain gold knobbed waip, that lay stretched on the table as though in r adiness, and sallied forth in search of Snooks' rooms. He found them and should go in and say good night to mamma, because you have been having Snooks too-in bed, suffering from a severe catarrh, caught, I presume, in the laurel avenue. No man knows what he did to Snooks But at least he gave him an increased desire for the bed, because for a fortnight afterward he never stirred out of it.

When Mr. Wilding heard of all this, I regret to say he gave way to noisy mirth in the privacy of his chambers and was actually caught by his washerwoman-who peeped through the keyhole—performing a wild dance in the middle of the floor.

Novel Scheme for Producing Rain.

Senator Farwell, of Illinois, proposes, after his term of office expires, which will be next March, to devote himself to scientific work of trying to produce rain by the firing of cartridges of gun-powder or nitro-glycerine high up in the air. During the last session, Con-gress appropriated two thousand dollars for carrying on experiments of the kind, but Senator Farwell does not intend to limit himself to this small sum, and will, if necessary, contribute from his own pocket such sum as may be necessary to complete the trial to his satisfaction. The main fact on which theory of the experiments is based is the circumstance that neavy cannonading is often followed, after a day or two, by rain. Acting on this observation, attempts have been made at intervals, during the last one hundred years to preduce the last one hundred years, to produce rain by firing cannon, and producing concussions of the air in other ways, but without much success. Senator Farwell, however, says that, during the construction of the Central Pacific Railroad through the arid region east of the Rocky Mountains, where a great deal of blasting was necessary, it rained every day that there was blasting. For this reason he thinks that a sharp explosion of nitro-glycerine, produced high up in the air, would be more effective than cannon firing near the ground, and he proposes to send up balloons in the dry portions of Western Kansas and Colorado, furnished with torpedoes and slow matches, by which he hopes to obtain a concussion extending for fifty miles in every direction. The American Architect thinks that while the scheme does not give a very great promise of success, would be of great value. If the farmers of Colorado and Western Kansas could get a shower once a week by sending up torpedoes every day, the result would be well worth the trouble, and there is plenty of reason to suppose that such

MR. BLACKMAN, of Watervliet, a civil engineer, who is versed in water power, was in this place Monday-and took a look at our dam site, took measurements and made a few calculations. He found by measuring seven inches below the present surface, we have 1,235 square feet of water running 170 feet per minute, and that this would produce, with a ten foot head 31,088 net horse power, or by making a race to utilize four feet fall in the riflle, would give a normal 5,929 horse power or an actual net of 47,432 horse power. This is estimating a wastage of twenty per cent in the various kinds of turbine wheels. The Common Council will doubtless employ Mr. Blackman to make a complete plan and specifications of the work and an estimate of the cost, when they will have a substantial basis to work upon. It is the opinion of the RECORD that when this is done the good people of Buchanan will be perfectly satisfied to let some one else have the job of building, paying for and owning of the dam and water power. The only interest the general tax-payer can have in the matter is to have the power utilized and it matters but little who utilizes it, but to give employment to the greatest possible number of persons.

The bill is certainly a decided move in that direction and if passed will ultimately result in the removal of the County Seat. The Board of Supervisors have voted upon that question twice, and each time the capital was saved to Berrien Springs by promise of a railroad, and they have no nearer a railroad now than then. Should the question come up again it will take something more than promises to hold it there.

Division of Niles Township. For a number of years past the people of Buchanan have wanted a portion of Niles Township set off and made a part of Buchanan. Dissatisfaction over the bridge question between the townships has been the principal cause that raised this question, which has now taken tangible form. Buchanan originally asked more than was fair, wanting too big a slice, but now they are petitioning to have the "rangeline" made the division between the two townships, and a special meeting of the Board of Supervisors is to be held the 23d of this month, at the expense of Buchanan Township, to take this matter into consideration, and doubt-less a vote will be reached with little or no discussion. The "slice" of Niles Township asked for is a narrow one, and if granted will make Buchanan square township, give that township the entire control of the St. Joseph river, lay upon her the expense and responsibility of keeping up the bridge and will give the Buchanan people control of the proposed dam it they succeed in daming the St. Joseph river. The population of the strip proposed to be set off is probably between 125 and 150 and the taxabla valuation of the land about $71,000 and of personal property from $9,000 to $10,000. Regarding this place known as De-Funiak Springs, the land owners were very liberal in laying out, or setting apart, ample room for development. Primeval forests of stately pines occupy not only the suburbs, but extensive grounds adjoining the homes of the citizens. Springs of clear, and I think I am correct in saying soft, water are found in every direction I have been. The wells, usually less than forty feet in depth, have also pure and soft water, but so warm that those unaccustomed to it prefer to keep a supply drawn and exposed to the air some little time before drinking, as the air is much cooler than the water. Maturity.

Among the fond fancies of children s the belief that when grown up there will be no more lessons to learn, no more commands to obey, no more scoldings to endure. They will be men and women, therefore above rebuke and beyond coercion. It is a helpful belief, lending them the aid of a hope wherewith to assist patience during the dark days of the actual, in expectation of the cloudless skies of the ideal. And it is about as baseless as the mist wreaths of the morning. As if we were ever free from rebukes, lessons, commands, coercion!

Admission, 35 cents; children under 15 years, 25. Seats reserved at Lough's store without extra charge. See program in another column.

THE infant son of Mr. and Mrs. foseph Johnson died Saturday. The fineral services were held at the hane of Mrs. Metzgar Sunday, and the mains placed by the side of his mothy, whose death was chronicled in the column last week. Mr. Johnson eturned to his home in Chicago, Mongay morning.

Among the vocalists low before the public there are few who have the range of voice conbined with a full, pleasing quality and great power that Prof. Geo. R. Was has, and he has justly won golder opinions wherever he has appeared Hear him at Martin's Orchestral Corcert, Feb. 25, 1891.

LOOK out for the street parade of Martin's concert Band on the afternoon of/Feb. 25, and hear some of their hand selections in frort of the hall in the evening, and then bring your best girl up to hear their Grand Orchestral Concert.

FEW instruments have a more pleasing tone than the Saxaphone, and Prof. Paul Verweir has fully mastered its intricate scale and plays difficult variations with great smoothness and rapidity. Come and hear him on Feb. 25, at Rough's Opera House.

JOHN BISHOP is contemplating a pleasant trip to Europe with a party of wheelmen who propose to take a run with their bicycles through England, France, Italy and Germany. There are to be thirty or more in the party, and the trip is expected to last sixty or seventy days, cost $400 and be very pleasant to take.

THE first number of the Coloma Boomer, with Frank Williams at the helm, has appeared. The Michigan editors become and lonesome ever since Frank closed his labors as publication of the Covert News and went to chopping wood. His return to the journalistic field will be hailed with delight by his contemporaries.

LAST Saturday evening was the scene of a very pleasant party, at the home of Mr. David Dutton, it being a surprire in honor of Cerrey and Davie, about thirty of their young friends from town being present; refreshments being served, and all the imaginable games being played, They took their departure shortly before the midnight hour. All report having a lovely time.

FRED MARKLEY has commenced suit against Frank Whitman for $10,000 damages for the accident by which Fred lost his voice last winter, and Saturday had Frank placed under $7,500 bonds to appear for trial at next term of Circuit Court. Frank will hardly be apt to run away from the trial under that bond.

THE Benton Barbor-St. Joseph fight has been settled by an agreement to the consolidated charter, but the Benton Harbor committee insisted upon the new consolidated city having a new name. It was at last decided to leave the question of name to the legislature. This is the top notch of child's play and looks like bickering over trifles. The whole county will breath easier since the settlement of the evelasting quarrel. St. Joseph is one of the oldest towns in the state.

THE Republican caucus, Saturday, selected the following to represent Buchanan township at the County Convention: L. P. Alexander, W. A. Palmer, J. C. Coveney, John Shook, S. A. Wood, L. L. DISSOLVED.-Clyde H. Baker has bought his partner's interest in the dry goods business, which has been conducted the past four years by Boyle & Baker, and will continue the same at the same stand. Mr. Boyle has not yet determined what shall occupy his attention for the future. The firm has enjoyed a good trade, and been more than ordinarily suscessful. The RECORD predicts that Mr. Baker will continue the prosperity established by the firm.

BADLEY BURNED.—Thursday while Mark Price's daughter, Mrs. Anstis of Weesaw, was preparing dinner her clothing caught fire. She ran out of the house screaming, which attracted the attenthirty rods down the road, and before he could get to her and extinguish the flames which had burned most of her clothing, she was burned in a frightful manner about the back and hands. She undoubtedly would have burned to death had not help been at hand, as she was alone with her two small children.

for the last few years, and he lies in his

the saving of the life of a 2-year-old child of Mr. Joseph Carioro. Young McCarthy was at work repairing the roof of his father's barn off Boylston street, which abuts on the village brook. A platform leads from Mr. Me-Carthy's house to the top of the barn. The child walked along this platform to the roof, and before he was noticed fell into the brook, a distance of about twenty feet.

courage, but a rare presence of mind, in

The water was about three feet deep, and the curent was quite strong. The child's cries attracted McCarthy's attention, and, realizing the situation, he jumped from the building to the Boston and Albany railroad track. In order to save the child's life he had to act promptly, for the arch where the brook enters the tunnel was only 100 yards away. McCarthy ran down the track and reached the culvert just in time to jump into the brook and to grab the little one, who was being carried along to certain death.

By this time a large crowd had collected and every one was loud in the praise of McCarthy's courage and presence of mind.—Boston Herald.

Don't Kill Savage Dogs. I had occasion to call upon one of the most eminent physicians of this city, and he alluded to the reputed bites of mad dogs in East Orange, N. J. "Why did they kill the dog?' said he; "it was a crime to do it. Very likely the dog was not mad, after all. When a dog bites' a erson, the proper way is to catch th animal and keep him in custody, with good treatment. If he is mad, it can soon be discovered, and vice versa. Should the dog turn out to be unafflicted with hydrophobia, from what an agony of apprehension would the bitten person and his friends be saved.

"Now, as to this affair at East Orange, the dog having been killed, there is no way of determining whether he was mad or not. The persons bitten will be likely to worry themselves into such a state of nervous excitement that their health will suffer, and all of the matiety would probably have been removed in a few days and the dog been taken care of and watched, for the probabilities, of course, are that he wasn't mad after all -I mean hydrophobic madness, of course." It struck me that the doctor's remarks were wise.—New York Star.

A Battle Between Doctors. Although the matter has been to a great extent kept secret, a battle between homeopathy and allopathy has raged over the sick bed of Princess Henrietta of Flanders precisely similar to that which occurred at the commencement of Lord Beaconsfield's fatal illness. Her mother, who is an ardent homeopathist, called in Dr. Martiny, the head of that school of medicine, and all the eminent orthodox physicians declined to meet him in consultation. The attitude they assumed necessitated the summoning of a provincial practitioner by telegraph, and has given a wonderful opportunity to a young and able military doctor, who considers obedience the first duty of his calling.—London World.

A Noble Moose. A. McIntosh has the finest specimen of moose ever brought to La Prairie, Ills. The animal when alive weighed 1,400 pounds. The large blades are 14 inches across; it is 4 feet 10 inches between the horns, and has fourteen small prongs. Particular care was exercised in dressing the carcass, so that the hide is complete to the hoofs. Mr. McIntesh will send it to Duluth, where a taxidermist will fit it up.-La Prairie (Ills.) Magnet. Still Unsettled. Mr. Brown, of Virginia, spoke of Mr. Hough, of Tennessee, as if the name were pronounced "Hoe," which he claimed was very proper for him to do. but Mr. Hough resented it, and one received two bullets and the other three cuts, and the case is still unsettled. Mr. Brown insists that when a man wants to be known as Mr. Huff he needn't go all around the alphabet to accomplish it.—Detroit Free Press.

a hard and ong continued . Ville suffocation of fish and cell in said ponds where no thoughtful person has broken holes in the ice to permit the aeration of the water which is necessary for the continuance of fish life. When ponds are thus hermetically sealed, eels appear to suffer more than any other fish. On a hole being broken they come to the surface in a half dving condition and are easily caught. At Diglis, near Worcester, a number of eels have been caught in this way, the instrument of capture being a pair of blacksmith's tongs.

In the pond at Dulwich an enormous eel has been killed. The water was entirely covered with ice, and a hole being made a great eel came to the surface. It appeared to be in a comatose condition, and was taken out without much difficulty. It measured 3 feet 9 inches in length, was 12 inches round the thickest part and weighed 9 pounds. But, though eels, along with other fish, suffer from insufficient aeration of the water in small ice covered ponds, there is no doubt that they are peculiarly

There are several instances of conger eels being washed ashore in great numbers during the continuance of severe frosts, their air bladders being tightly distended. In 1841 great quantities of eels were killed in the River Lagan by the frost and floated down to the quays at Belfast. There are, however, instances of eels which had been literally frozen and quite brittle reviving after an hour or so spent in a tub of water placed in a warm room. - London said a practical electrician to me the other day. "I mean in the kind which are used for gas and electric light in combination. Of course it is convenient to have the gas all ready for use if the electric apparatus gels out of order, and in theatres and public institutions the joint fixtures are particularly useful, no doubt. But I think where the double fixtures are used in hotels or private houses the taps ought to be made conspicuously distinct; in fact, it would be well to have the gas tap screwed up while the electric light is being used. "The other day two actresses came mighty near being suffocated in a Pittsburg hotel through the double fixture trap. When they went to bed one of them tried to turn out the electric light. She did turn a tap, but it didn't shut off the light. Then her companion got up and turned off the electric light. But the first girl had turned on the gas when she thought she was turning off the electric light. Result, two young women in a state of asphyxiation next morning; would have been dead had not their room been very large. It is a mistake likely to occur, and those who have double fixtures should take care in time."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Peril in Double Lighting Eixtures. "There is a good deal of danger in these gas and electric light fixtures,"

Wissmann's Man Baptized. The negro Sankurru, who has been Maj. von Wissmann's companion and servant for many years, was baptized a lew days ago at the parish church of Lauterberg. Sankurru was liberated by Wissmann from the hands of a slave lealer in 1884. He visited Lauterberg n 1887. When the major went to Ma leira in the same year to recruit his shattered health Sankurru enlisted as a soldier in Dr. Wolf's expedition to the Tongoland. In November last he returned a second time to Germany, with the intention of joining Wissmann, to whom he is devotedly attached, upon his next journey to Africa. He expressed a wish to become a Christian, and after regular instruction by Pfarrer Spanuth, of Lauterberg, he was baptized in the presence of great congregation in the parish church, before whom the negro made his public confession of the faith. The sister of the imperial commissary stood as one of his sponsors. Three days after his baptism the ardent negro followed his master to Africa.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Girl That Cries Glass. The physicians and oculists of Findlay, O., are greatly puzzled over the case of Jennie Sutton. From the right eye of the girl fifty-four pieces of broken glass were taken by Dr. T. C. Fritch. These pieces of glass have been coming from the eye of this girl for the last month, and only Friday Dr. Fritch reremoved every evidence of glass in the eye and announced that all were taken ont. The next day she came back and had fifty-four more pieces removed. The girl is a domestic in the family of ex-County Surveyor Stringfellow, whose wife has been taking the particles of glass from the girl's eye for a month past. It is estimated that over 100 pieces of glass have been taken from the eye since the case first attracted attention. -Exchange.

Two Dead Men and One Dead Hog. Wednesday Mr. Wash Tetter went out early in the morning to look after his stock, and about 10 or 11 o'clock his horse returned home without him. His wife sent a negro to see about him. The negro followed the horse's tracks to the bottom, where he found the dead bodies Mr. Tetter and Mr. James Philpot and a dead hog. Mr. Tetter was shot in the abdomen. Mr. Philpot was shot through the neck. The supposition is that the two men met over the dead hog, each claiming it, and that they concluded to shoot it out. They both had Winchester rifles.—Houston (Miss.) Cor. Memphis Appeal- Avalanche.

Author. . That control able woman, Mrs. Aller a contravell have to admit that say has been skating on thin ice, so to speak. In undertaking to instruct her readers in the mysteries, graces; science and customs of dancing and skating, she collides with the world's champion, and it is not the latter who is overthrown. Mrs. Barr describes skating as par excellence, "the pursuit purely idle, gay and aristocratic," says "half the work of the skater is done by the foot that is off the ice," tells of "the Fen skaters of Cambridgeshire and Lincolnshire who, with their long runners and a fair wind, do their mile in two minutes," etc., etc. The article has come under the eye of Joe Donoghue, who, having beaten all competitors and holding the world's skating record at all distances, must be conceded competent to join issue with any skater with the pen. From far off Holland he writes in response to Mrs.

Declining to discuss the "gayety" or "aristocracy" of skating, he says it has always impressed him as "anything but" an idle pursuit." He gives the "foot off the ice" no credit except for being ready to use when its turn comes. "I always thought," he says, "that the work is done by the foot that is on the ice." With pardonable impatience the champion dismisses the romancing about the the Fen skaters' "mile in two minutes" by pronouncing it "nonsense," as "there never was a skater in England who ever skated a mile in less than three minutes." Joe concedes to Mrs. Barr the dancing floor, but puts his experience and quite extensive observation against her positions regarding skating and skaters in every important particular. If she has faith in her teachings there is only one thing for her to do-challenge Joe Donoghue in person or by champion, after the manner of Rebecca, to meet her on good ice in fair contest, the vanquished to crown the victor champion of the theory and practice, of skating.-Utica

Singular Preservation. A New York undertaker, who for the past few months has been engaged in disinterring the dead bodies of old Knickerbocker families from the vaults in St. Luke's churchyard, received a special order from an old New York family recently to remove the bodies of two children from a vault in the churchvard. The undertaker opened the coffins. The bodies were in old fashioned metallic coffins, made to conform to the lines of the body, with rounded and narrow ends and a bulging center. Glass plates covered the faces of the dead, and these plates were in turn protected from damage by metallic shields. When the undertaker raised the metal shield and saw the faces of the dead he was astonished to find that though the bodies had been in the vault for forty years they were as perfectly preserved as if they had just been buried. The bodies are those of a boy and girl. According to inscriptions on the caskets the boy died on Nov. 24, 1856, at the age of 4 years, 6 months and 7 days, and the girl on Feb. 7, 1851, at the age of 10 years. The little boy looks as though he were asleep. His mouth is just open enough to show a set of pearly white teeth. The girl is just as well preserved. She also has beautiful blond hair falling down over her forehead almost to the cies has taken root in alien climes, like R. coccinca in Brazil. I cannot cite a parallel at present. But Mr. Sander informs me that there is a growing demand for these plants in realms which have their own native orchids. Among enstomers who write to him directly are magnates of China and Siam, an Indian, and a Javanese rajah. Orders are received—not unimportant nor infrequent -from merchants at Calcutta, Singapore, Hong Kong, Rio de Janeiro, and smaller places of course. It is vastly droll to hear that some of these gentlemen import species at a great expense which an intelligent coolie could gather for them in any quantity within a few furlongs of their godown. But for the most part they demand foreigners .-Longman's Magazine.

The Figure Nine. For one hundred and ten years to come, no man, woman or child will write the current date without using the figure 9; for nineteen years during that period two 9's must be written-in 1899 1909, 1919, 1929, 1939, 1949, 1959, 1969, 1979, 1989, 1.70, 1991, 1993, 1993, 1994, 1995, 1996, 1997, 1998; and for one year-1999—three 9's will have to be set down. Of the people now living, it is safe to say that no one will ever write the date of his orher own time without using a 9. Besides minding their p's and q's, the next three generations must give particular heed to their 9's. Nine has never been regarded as a particularly lucky number, but beyond question the years in which it will hold so conspicious a place will bring benefits of undreamed value to the world.-New York Tribune.

Oysters Thriving in California Waters. Two years ago Max Ehring placed forty sacks of seedling Long Island sound ovsters in the water near the head of the bay. Today the bed extends over a space of 1,200 acres, and the oysters are large enough and in sufficient quantity to furnish the city of San Diego. Compared with the celebrated Saddle Rocks they are one-quarter the size, and with the world renowned Bine Point they are almost identical in shape, size and flavor. The bed is spreading fast .-San Diego Sun.

Eurglars' Tools Serve a Good Purpose. A minor part of our new press came broken, and as the blacksmith here had no drill, through the kindness of Marshal Jackson we borrowed the tools captured from the burglars. Excursion Boats in Winter.

The big fleet of white painted, side wheel summer excursion boats are in the midst of their long winter rest at the South Brooklyn basins. Viewed from the decks of the Thirty-ninth street ferryboat they form a picturesque spectacle as they lie side by side or in long lines among the tall masted black ocean sailing craft and steamships. They are in contrasting positions also with many small and graceful yachts, which are slumbering away the time until the spring breezes will stretch their sails and they will skip out to see old ocean again. Not all the iron steamships of the Coney Island line are among the idle white hulled sidewheelers. One of them at least took the perilons and venturesome voyage by ocean to Florida and, with a band of music on board to tempt the tourist to choose her ahead of her rival, is daily making the trip from Jacksonville to Palatka on the St. Johns river. in Florida. When with returning warm weather the land of flowers ceases to allure and Coney Island's charms return to bloom again, the long ocean trip in the pleasure boat must be taken again, but it is safe to say not many will bid for the task of reaching New York past stormy Hatteras by that trip.—Brooklyn

A Cold Weather Fiend. There is a specimen fiend abroad, in winter weather especially, whom it were calumny to call human. The sole object for which this fiend prowls the earth is to steal up to you unawares and put an icy hand on some exposed part of your person with the inquiry, "Aren't my hands cold?" The shock is enough to kill you, but it is not the purpose of your tormentor to put you to death speedily. It is his purpose, rather, to reserve you for experimental practice. Winter weather lasts in this climate from four to five months, and he aims to get in his fine work from two to three times a day for that period.

Often the fiend is related to you by ties of consanguinity, and occasionally he is on terms of intimacy that admit of the dwelling beneath the same roof, but neither ties of blood nor bonds of friendship can palliate his offense. There should be a penalty fitted to the crime, and in pondering the matter over, after being victimized to the extent that I jibbed at every footfall, and am a regular symphony in goose flesh, I have de cided that the only adequate punishment for such an offense against humanity and good breeding is a shotgun.-Chicago Herald.

The Installment Plan.

There is something eignificant in the extraordinary growth of business houses run on the installment plan. They are not confined to Grand street and lower

Broadway, but are to be found in imposing buildings on Twenty-third street and Fifth avenue, and their business is carried on in a fashion that indicates considerable financial skill. They sell goods at a profit which causes the more conservative establishments a good deal of surprise. Their customers are invariably women, and they sign what is known as an "agreement," which binds them to pay a stipulated sum at intervals for anything that they purchase.

The wording of the "agreement" is ingenious, but any one who is familiar with the law, and who examines the papers carefully, finds that it is nothing more or less than a chattel mortgage, with a rate of interest that is usurious.

Another Story of "Collars and Cuffs." Prince Albert Victor, second son of the Prince of Wales, commonly known as "Collars and Cuffs," was a roystering blade at school. When he was short of money, as was often the case, he would write to his august grandmother to help him out of his dilemma. The queen always answered his appeals for aid with a kind letter of advice, but no money. On such occasions Albert Victor would go out into the campus and sell the queen's autograph letter to the highest bidder. A large number of English families have such letters in their possession.—San Francisco Argonaut.

If any one has a house that is overrun with rats he can get rid of them in a very cheap and simple manner.
