France and Russia have formed an alliance, offensive and defensive, and Europe is on a tremble once more.

Italy appears to be getting "riled" because of the Mafia affair at New Orleans, and have recalled their minister at Washington who has been there the past ten years. This is usually the first step when one nation proposes to declare war upon another. It is hoped that the difficulty will be amicably settled, for we do not want to be whipped just now.

One of the schemes of the Democrats in the legislature is to provide for the election of presidential electors by congressional districts, and then so geremander the state as to make as many of them Democratic as possible. If the Republicans of Michigan have this trap sprung upon them, they can credit it to their own folly in not attending to business at the last fall election.

Mayo W. Hazeltine is of the opinion that the heroine of the coming novel will not be the young girl whose wedding ends the volume, but the woman who has looked deeper into the mystery of human passion. In a word, novels that begin, instead of those that end, with a wedding are destined to be popular, and in a brilliant article in the April number of the North American Review Mr. Hazeltine strives to demonstrate this.

War Records and the Campaign. Soldiers in this city are in receipt of circular letters, sent out in the interest of Judge Champlin's candidacy, calling attention to the fine war record of that gentleman's brother. This Democratic device of parading a brother's service in the war, as a trap to catch soldier votes is not a new one.

It has been tried before. It is, in short, a chestnut. We fail to see, however, what it has to do with the issue, or why it should have any effect to influence votes. Gen. Champlin was a grand soldier, one of the noble martyrs -who surrendered their lives for their country. If he had lived to return home he might very likely now be a Republican, and voting a Republican ticket. All honor to him, for his patriotism. The Sentinel will never

FROM BERBLEN CENTRE.

Easter Sunday was a lovely day, and the Easter services, under the auspices of our Sunday school, were interesting and instructive, and were witnessed by a full house.

The Sunday School convention, held at Franklin Chapelon Saturday, was largely attended, and was a decided success in every particular.

Several persons are on the sick list et: Little Mars La Crone is recovering from the measles. His father, Dr. O. A. La Crone of Kalamazoo, was with him Saturday night and Sunday. Mr. W. E. Peck, our faithful and efficient town clerk and one of our best school teachers, is in feeble health. By the advise of his physicians he has withdrawn from the school-room. Mr. S. H. Cuddeback has been very low for several days, but is recovering. Mr. J. S. Wright is still confined to the house with la grippe. Mrs. Flewallen, an aged lady, is quite low at the residence of her daughter, Mis. Frank Layman.

The latest and one of most interesting social events in our village was the marriage of Mr. Edvin Rotter and Miss Meya McGining you will have traversed the entire northern frontier of China, 1,500 miles. Though you find several hundred miles of adobe sun dried mud wall, .yet other hundreds of miles are of good brick and higher than at Kalgan. By the time you have traced its length you will be willing to concede not only that China has a great wall, but also that the ruler who could conquer so vast a country, drive out the invading Tartars and build a fortification 1,500 miles long to keep them out was worthy to be called the first emperor and to give his name (China) to the country.

If any one laughs at the folly of spending so much labor on such a useless defense let him remember that it was a defense only against horseback riders, armed with nothing but bows and arrows. A few guards on the watch towers could, with their signal fires on the mountain tops, easily rouse the villagers far and near to the defense of their homes. And this well accomplished its purpose for over a thousand years, when the great Ghenghis Khan, with his brave Mongol followers, broke his way through.

This section of the great wall becomes for half a mile the city wall of Kalgan. A beautiful temple is built on this wall to celebrate Ghenghis Khan's victorious passage.

This two thousand year old wall is little known to the world at large, because there is another wall much oftener visited and described by visitors King's New Discovery for consump-tion, Dr. King's New Life Pills, Buckfrom the western world. How Rothschild Got Rich. The late Baron Charles Rothschild was one day asked by a friend whom he had taken with him on 'change at his request to tell him the secret of getting rich by specluations on the bourse, as the same people always did business with each other, and it was therefore natural to suppose that the profits and losses would be equalized in the long run. "Just count the number of gentlemen who are now making the biggest noise," said the baron. "There are fourteen of them."

"Very good; we will come and count them again in a fortnight." They did so, and this time there were only eleven.

"You see," said Rothschild, "the three that are missing have been swallowed up by the rest." "Then how must you go about it if you want to speculate successfully?" inquired the inexperienced stranger. "As when you are taking a Russian vapor bath-quick in and quick out

But the Sentinel submits that it appears like a grim joke to drag that brilliant and honorable record from the grave to use as a bait to catch soldier's votes | the nomination, and the vacancy will for a Democratic brother who was, himself, not a soldier. It is one of the grotesque features of the campaign. Of his competitor, Judge Montgomery, we need only the words of an Ionia veteran, who knew him in Eaton county, when a boy. "Robert M. Montgom-ery," this old soldier exclaimed with enthusiasm, "not only had a regiment of relatives in the army, but he was a soldier himself." Judge Montgomery rests his appeal to the soldiers on the fact that he was one of them, and not on the fantastic claim that his brother was. Though a mere boy, he did not stay at home on the plea that he was "too young." He went into the army and did his duty "like a man," though a boy in years."

The above reply to a circular sent by the Democratic party signed "An old soldier" appeared in the Ionia Sentinel March 20, 1891. Credit is also given Judge Champlin for deciding a ent, March 26th. bounty case in favor of the soldier, but in this case he only did his duty as he was sworn to do and wrote an opinion which the whole court agreed to, and he was assigned the task of preparing the opinion and expressing the law.

This the judges must always do. Judge Montgomery, the Republican candidate, enlisted as a private when he was sixteen years of age in the 7th Mich. Cavalry. He holds an honorable discharge, and as the Colonel of the 7th Mich. Cavalry, I know these facts to be true. GEORGE G. BRIGGS, Late Col. 7th Mich. Cavalry. Dated, Grand Rapids. Mar. 27, '91.

The Farmer's Market

All things seem to be working together for the good of the American farmer, and we take pleasure in reminding him that they have been set at work by Republican policy. The latest beneficial movement is the removal of the embargo on American cattle; this is the work of Ambassador Phelps, acting under instructions from the Republican secretary of state. Moreover, Mr. Phelps has been able to create an extensive demand for American beef in the capital of the German empire, and to induce German capatilists to invest $800,000 in slaughter houses at Hamburg, mainly for the preparation of American beef for the German market. The prohibitory orders against the introduction of the American hog also are likely to be repealed as a result of Republican diplomacy. Let us review what has been done for the American farmer since the passage of "the infamous McKinley bill," and either directly or indirectly because of it.

The Brazilian market has been made free to United States produce.

A bounty has been provided for every pound of beet, maple or sorghum sugar produced. An impetus has been given to the industry of wool growing. The German market has been reopened to American beef. Millions have been, or are being spent in the erection of tin-plate works, the operatives of which will be consumers of farm products. One American tin-plate factory al. ready is producing roofing plates at "a little lower cost than that of foreign goods of like weight and quality," This being a purchaser's testimony.

The wholesale prices of flannels and some other woolen goods are a shade lower than at this time last year. Freights are lower than in any other country of the world. So is the price of nearly all farming

Our Spring Times. When spring comes to seek her own Do they all rise at her words? Is the little fledgeling's tone Sweet as was the parent bird's? Where once more the streamlets roam Do the robins all come home?

Here's a nest upon the bough. But there comes no bird to claim; Has she made a new nest now? If from some far land we came We should all the home nest know, Even were it filled with snow.

There are blue eyes that we miss In the fush of violet time; something lacking in the bliss Of the bird bells' sweetest chime; In the heart are many spots acred to forget-me-nots.

If perchance youth cometh back Through some treasure on your knoe. Still the heart will prove a lack, Lovely though the child may be: For if it so needeth you, You still need your mother too.

Sometime will the far off springs Come back with these later ones: There will be no missing wings. There will be no missing tones-All the joys, but dearer grown, Of the spring times we have known. -Mary A. Mason in Frank Leslie's.

Effect of a Fairy Story.

Alice Denning, the daughter of a Williamsbridge dairy farmer, is just five years old, and her baby brother, not yet christened, has owned an identity the same number of weeks. As is customary under such circumstances, Alice viewed the infant's advent with marked disapproval, and listened with gloomy silence when her mother endeavored to arouse her interest and satisfy her curiosity by telling her that the little boy had been found lying under a currant bush, where the good fairies had placed him. Her father even showed her the bush, behind the barn, where the child had been discovered.

Alice remembered that last spring a bluebird had hatched out a family in the orchard. She had taken one of the young birds, while it was still in a state of nudity, and brought it into the house, but Mrs. Denning had made her take it back to the nest and restore it to its parents. She had committed that lesson faithfully to heart.

On a recent morning the baby disappeared. Luckily babies of that age are soon missed, and as he was not in the house Mrs. Denning, in great alarm, went out to find Alice, thinking that the little girl had taken him. Alice was cantiously peeping around the corner of the barn, intently watching the currant bish that her father had pointed out to her, and under its boughs, where the fairies had formerly deposited him, the baby, well wrapped up in a blanket, was lying asleep on the snow. Alice admitted that she had placed him there, hoping that his first guardians would take him back, as the bluebird had received its returned nestling last year .--New York Sun.

Meissonier's Posthumous Works. It is not known yet what will be done with all the unfinished pictures left in Meissonier's studios. They represent a fortune, for many of them, which were condemned by the fastidious taste of the painter himself, will soon bein the hands of the dealers and heralded as masterpieces. Most of the sketches and mere studies, one need not doubt, will turn out full fledged paintings by the time they reach the amateur. One can but remember what happened after Daubigny's death and after Millet's death. Each had a son who painted, and much of the work of those sons is dearly cherished today in hundreds of cabinets in America and elsewhere as that of the illustrious fathers. The postnumous paintings of Meissonier will probably be numerous, but it is only right to add that the high character of Mr. Charles Meissonier may be considered a guarantee, so far as his personal influence can go, for the integrity of the artistic remains of his distinguished father.-Art Amateur.

The druggist quite agreed with him and said: "Step behind my prescription counter, sir; you will be unseen there." Two minutes later another good minister came into the store, bought a mild cigar and asked if he might be permitted to smoke in the store, because: "Our bishop has just been preaching against smoking," he explained, almost in the exact words of his predecessor. He also was sent behind the prescription counter. Sixty-Four Years Married. Greene county can probably boast of having one of the oldest married couples in the state. David Stickle and Mary, his wife, are the happy pair. They have been living together for sixty-four years, having been married in 1826. The combined ages of the two are 174 years. Both are still enjoying fairly good health. Mr. Stickle was born in Washington county fully ninety-one years ago, and moved to his present residence in Morris in 1840. Eight children were born as the fruits of this union, and three are still living. The old gentleman is quite active and his mental faculties are good. Mr. Gilder's Forethought.

John Gilder, an old man living in Dublin, Ga., believes in preparation for death. Some years ago he had his vault built and a coffin ordered. When M. L. Jones's store was burned down, some months ago, the casket was destroyed. Some weeks ago he wrote to a friend in Macon to send him another. His friend was slow about attending to the req and when Mr. Gilder was taken sick last week he had a telegram sent to an undertaker at Macon for a casket worth $250. -Philadelphia Ledger. tection to home industries some boards of education have such regulations as practically debar teachers of high professional skill from entering their service. This "inbreeding" has in some places got so close that school trustees prefer to appoint to a vacancy only such teachers as have been graduated from the school or live in the ward. Indeed, to have been graduated from a particular school is a peculiar merit, very helpful toward getting an appointment. Mr. A. W. Edson, agent of the Massa chusetts state board of education, in his report to the state superintendent, condemned the practice very strongly, as the following quotation shows: "One of the discouraging features, and a great drawback to the best of work, is the Whalebone Is Scarce. There is a remarkable scarcity of whalebone in the market at present, and in consequence the poorest qualities are being disposed of at prices heretofore hardly ever realized for the best that the hardy New Bedford men could procure. Parts of bone usually discarded a few years ago are now a stable article, and find ready purchasers among manufacturers.

What little bone of first quality that is placed upon the market is sold at prices which will astonish persons not familiar with the trade. A well known Pearl street firm disposed of several thousand pounds several days ago at $5.20 a pound, and a similar figure has been realized by dealers in Europe. "Whalebone is getting scarcer every season." said an old South street whale ship boat steerer, "an' pretty soon there won't be any at all. The blackfish. The Minneapolis Mummy. There has long been a veil of mystery and romance enshrouding the mummy which Thomas Lowry loaned for exhibition at the public library. Something like a year ago Miss Amelia B. Edwards. who is supposed to be an expert in such matters, was in Minneapolis, and was called on to shed some light upon the individuality of this mummy. With a the result of age, and entirely without great flourish the result of her investigaseam or decoration. - Pittsburg Distions was proclaimed to an anxiously waiting world.

Her observations were limited to the exterior emblems, for the "inside facts" were not then revealed. Miss Edwards was quite positive that the body was that of a woman, Amen-hotep by name. Miss Edwards wrote out the following ing as the correct reading:

The spell has since been broken. Professor Hall, assisted by Janitor Runge, opened up "Mrs. Mummy," placed the remains on a table, and removed the musty bandages which enveloped it, and found-that there was a sad mistake somewhere. Either Miss Edwards had not read the hieroglyphics correctly or the ancients had misplaced the body. The body unfolded to their gaze was certainy not that of a woman at all. Of this

there could be no doubt, and as soon as the professor and his assistant recovered from their astonishment they read the typewritten inscription furnished by Miss Edwards, and then laughed loud

Twenty-five Shocless Passengers. An amusing contretemps, though an awkward one for the persons principally interested, occurred on the Milwaukce train to Chicago one day recently. It was the regular train leaving St. Paul at Sp. m. and arriving in Chicago on the

On the particular night referred to both the porters fell asleep over the shoes, and when the car was dropped off at Milwankee two porters and all the shoes belonging to people in the forward car were dropped off too. The spectacle presented at the Milwankee depot in Chicago when the train arrived was, to say the least, an unusual one. Twenty-five shoeless passengers kicked vigorously for their lost brogans, in 1844, when the city became the Mecca the most remarkable pilgrimage that has taken place since the Fourteenth century. Pilgrims came from all quarters, many in large bands headed by banners and village priests. They came in such numbers that accommodations could not be given them, and they slept out of doors by the thousand. Lookout Mountain Shaken.

Recently a blast was fired on the side of Lookout mountain, which was remarkable in its size and results. One hundred kegs of powder were packed in six holes and fired by electricity. A ledge of rocks was dislodged, and hundreds of tons rolled down the mountain side, some of the pieces being as high as a two story building. The broad guage railroad track was destroyed for 200 vards and trees cut down like straw. It took two weeks for fifty men to repair the damage to the railroad, which was worse than a hole in the ground. At least 100,000 tons of rock were thrown out and down.-Memphis Appeal-Avalanche.

A Queer Halo.

A remarkable circle or halo was observed on a recent afternoon about 1 o'clock. The halo did not surround the sun, but passed through the sun. The circle was of great size, the diameter being measured from the sun's center northward to the place of the north star. The center of the circle was a little to the north of the zenith. This is one of the most remarkable phenomena ever observed in this latitude. In the higher latitudes such circles or halos are not rare.-Rochester (N. Y.) Democrat.

Cold Winters and the Salmon Catch. A Waldo county fisherman says that this old fashioned winter will result in a large catch of salmon. Why? Well, he says that when we have an open winter the salmon are near shore, and go up the rivers before the season opens, making poor fishing for them along the coast. In a cold winter the salmon go into deep water and are longer getting back. That gives the coast fishermen a chance to catch the beauties before they get up river.-Lewiston Journal.

Koch's Consumption Care. It cannot yet be said that the exact status of Koch's remedy is fixed; nor can we even yet say with certainty that this much heralded cure is destined to survive among established methods at all. The most that is claimed for it by its most ardent advocates is that it seems capable of depriving the bacillus of the material in which it thrives best-i. e., of disintegrating and destroying tuberculous tissue. There has been no claim that it has any direct effect upon the existence of the bacillus, nor that it, having deprived the bacillus of its food, tends in any way to remove that parasite from the body, and thus to eliminate the possible source of danger of subsequent or more general infection.

Under its influence in some forms of local tuberculosis-especially of the skin -it has been shown that tissue which was of the very lowly organized variety characteristic of the disease has been at first in part and then wholly replaced by a tissue of higher organization, and one that is likely to be permanent. In regard to tuberculosis of the lungs, there can be no question that improvement in the patient's general condition,

A Descendant of Columbus. Americans who visit Madrid are surprised to learn that Christopher Columbus is still living there in excellent pres ervation, and still enjoys the title of Duke of Veragua, conferred upon the family by the king of Spain 350 years ago. The first who bore the title was Luis grandson of the discoverer, from whom it has descended lineally to the present duke, who bears also the identical name of his ancestor. Few of us know or care about the imaginary dukedom of Veragua, but no American can look with indifference upon a Christopher Columbus descended from the man who made the name illustrious and immortal 399 years ago. Among other relics he has a very fine portrait of the navigator, some features of which reappear in the countenance of his descendant. Dr. Henry Field, of The Evangelist, visited this old gentleman a year or two ago. While looking alternately at the picture on the wall and the face of his host he perceived a considerable likeness between them. Dr. Field did not forget to remind him of the approaching four hundredth anniversary of the great discoverer, nor did

Columbus to visit America on that accasion. But the Duke of Veragua is an elderly gentleman and a Spaniard. Spaniards of the present day are not so fond of roaming the seas as their ancestors were. He could get to America much more comfortably than the first Christopher Columbus, but he was strongly of opinion that the celebration should be held in Spain, the country that sent his ancestor forth on the glorious voyage of 1492. It is to be feared, therefore, that we shall not have the pleasure of seeing

Had to Change His Prayer. Chaplain Waldron, of the Massachusetts House, who as the occupant of that place for the last thirteen years has given universal satisfaction, was mildly remonstrated with the other day because of a certain petition in his morning prayer. He had asked the Lord to help his servants redeem the time, enabling them to do two days' work where they had done only one before, and to strike two blows in the place of one. Soon as these were. afterward he was buttonholed by one of the solons, who said, "See here, chaplain, that kind of prayer won't go down here, with all these labor reformers clamoring for shorter days and less work." The minister took his rebuke with his characteristic meekness, and did not even intimate that the persons whom he had especially in mind were the dilly-

> Reward for Saving 1.200 Whalers. The owners and crews of the whaling vessels Midas, Lagoda, Progress and Daniel Webster, of New Bedford, and the Europa, of Edgartown, have just received the money appropriated for them for their rescue of 1,200 men in the Arctic fleet in 1871.

In that year twenty-two of the whaleships were hemmed in by ice and abandoned. The crews took refuge on the shore, where they heard that there were five ships further south. An imploring message was sent to the captains by Henry Pease, one of the men, asking them to abandon the voyage in the cause of humanity and to take the wrecked men aboard. The captains held a conference and agreed to bring the men
