The Kind of Preacher Wanted.

To Whom It May Concern: We, a church of anywhere from five hundred no six hundred members, are minus a pastor and this notice is written in the hope that some charitably inclined soul, preacher, who may chance to read these lines will take pity on our forlorn condition and kindly come to the rescue This is a progressive age and we are a progressive people. Civilization is taking long strides forward, and we want to keep right up with it. Therefore, no preacher need to apply for a pastorate here who has one single solitary button missing on his overcoat. A few evenings ago one of our generally considered good preachers preached us a trial sermon. The sermon was a good one, but the preacher had but one lonesome button on his overcoat!

We were shocked at his evident want of spirituality.
No one-buttoned overcoat preachers need apply here. Further, we want no preacher whose wife works too much, nor one who works too little. Recently we had a good, earnest, energetic faithful preacher of the gospel ministering unto us, but his wife refused to do all the church work we sked her to do, and we gave her husband his "marching orders." · You see, we had contracted with him to preach for us. More recently we contracted with another good, earnest, industrious, Christian man to preach for us; but his wife worked too much, and so we "sent him his resignation."

What else could we do? Now we are ready for another preacher. We want another preacher—want nim badly. Like the veteran war horse, we are "eager for the fray." We do not want any college bred preachers. We are fond of saying, 'college bred preachers are made preachers, not natural born preachers" out we want an unusually well educated preacher. We are a very intellectual church. This is an intellectual town, and none but the most highly educated preacher will please us. Still further, we want no preacher who is extremely nice in regard to his personal appearance, who wears his hair rather long, carries a dainty cane and wears a "stovepipe" hat. We call such persons "dudes", and positively can not tolerate dudes.

But we want him to be very wealthly attired, never wear a short coat. and always be arrayed in suits of clerical cut made of neat, conventional. black broadcloth. We want a preacher of whom we can be proud. We want no "third party" preachers, out we want our preachers to be death on intemperance. We do not want them to be opposed to any of the popular amusements of the day, but we want them to oppose sin in every conceivable shape, form. size or color. We want no emotional preacher nor one that is not. We do not want old, young or middle-aged preacher. We want no preacher who has a wife nor one who has not. We want no preacher who is bald-headed, crosseved, or false-toothed. We do not want a preacher who has a single peculiarity about him, but we do not want him to be like anybody else nor unlike other people. We want the very best preacher to be found in our brotherhood—the most talented, the most elequent, the most gifted, the noblest-hearted, the finest looking, the most faultless, in short he must be as near perfection, spiritually, morally, mentally and physically, as it is possi-ble to be in this imperfect world. We have tried faithfully to enumer ate the qualifications which we desire -and require-in a preacher who minsters unto us, and that preacher who has all the qualifications herein mentioned will communicate with ns, and if he should conclude to take us in charge he shall be amply rewardedsalary, nine to twelve hundred dollars. L., in Christian Standard.

About Gossiping.

Of all the mean kinds of business gossiping is the most contemptible! And yet there are thousands of people to whom it is the bread, and butter, and cheese of life, not to say the plum

If they could not gossip they would die, and we most sincerely wish they could not gossip. Well, we do. They are continually on the lookout for something to talk about. No cat at a rathole ever was more thoroughly alert than they. Their noses are in a sniffable condition all the time, their ears ajar, their eyes are "peeled," and their feelings are put out, like those of the devil fish. If there is anything going on they mean to get hold of it! They are keen on the scent of a slander as bloodhounds used to be of runa-

They pass their time in peeping through closed blinds and crevices of fences, and accommodating keyholes. and they walk on tiptoe when they pass their neighbors' houses, because they are in hopes that there may be something going on in the back yards or cellars, which is worth knowing

In a locality where a regularly educated gossip resides we defy anybody to break a plate, or tear a dish towel, so secretly and mysteriously that the gossip will not discover it. Everybody comes in for a share of their tongue exercise. First, the minister and his wife, than the richest family in town, and so on down to Biddy Mahoney, who goes out washing at a dollar a day. The spirit of detraction is rampant in the breast of the gossip. Nothing is just as it should be. Nobody is near right in anything. Everything is weighed in the balance and found

St. Joseph it Should Stay.

To wipe the name of St. Joseph from the map of Michigan would be to commit a crime against the history of this state. Those members of the legislature who are giving countenance to such a scheme are either ignorant or grossly careless of the history of the state which in part they claim to represent. As well change the name of Sault Ste. Marie, or even Detroit, as of St. Joseph.

Away back in 1679 LaSalle, driven ashore by the stormy Lake Michigan, built on the St. Joseph river a little fort. There he mourned the supposed loss of the Griffin, the first vessel on the upper lakes, and thither he returned the next year on that braye winter journey of 1,000 miles on foot to Mon-treal. Nearly a century later, while Gladwyn was holding Pontiac at bay at Detroit, a band of Pottawatomies rushed in upon Lieut. Schlosser, the commandant at St. Joseph, and murdered 10 of his little garrison. These events give St. Joseph a past which makes the place memorable in the annals of Michigan; but there is still another and more important episode which secures the town a place in the history of the United States. In 1782, while John Jay was striving to win for the court of Spain the right of the Americans to hold the territory to the east bank of the Mississippi, the Madrid Gazette published an account of the Spanish invasion of Michigan which had taken place in January, 1781, when Capt. Don. Eugenio Purre marched with a band of Span-

THE arrangements for the opening of the skunk farm, mentioned last week, are going steadily on. It will most likely be located near the site for the proposed dam. We will state, however, that it has been decided to not run it by water power.

THE reports from the north end of the county that apple trees would not blossom this spring, does not appear to apply to this place. If we have one apple to each fifty blossoms now on the trees, we can have dried apples and e der next winter.

A CHANGE is made in the time card of the St. Joseph Valley railroad this week. The train comes south early in the morning, arriving here in time for the Kalamazoo accommodation, and returning at eleven in the forenoon. This makes a little better accommodation for the Berrien people. Those who live at this end of the route who want to go to Berrien and return the same day will drive, as in the past

LAST Thursday Dr. Knight was tried for assault and battery on Charley Myler; was found guilty of assault and fined $1 and cost. Myler threw a brick into a mortar bed and spattered raw lime all over the doctor's little boy, which made the doctor exceeding wrathy, when he proceeded to give Myler a shaking up.

A JOINT meeting of the school inspectors for Niles and Buchanan was held in this place last Saturday, for the purpose of arranging the business for the districts affected by the change of the boundary line between the two townships. Three of the districts were changed in number. No. 10 will hereafter be known as No. 14, and two others were listed as fractional.

IT is a fine state of affairs when a brilliant county officer goes clear across the county to attend to legal business calls in a number of people from several miles distance, and then fill himself so with beer as to make himself incompetent to do the business, but such things happen under this democratic administration of our county.

THE Council has had a stone wall built just south of Spencer & Barnes' cabinet room, where the creek strikes Day's avenue, to support the bank of the street and sidewalk. This is good so far as it goes, and we are induced to expect that the balance of the creek down to the culvert will in a short time be treated likewise. It is an improvement which has long been needed.

TREAT & GODFREY,

FEBRUARY 26, 1887, $70,043.39.

Some months ago the Wheeling Development company began drilling a well in search of oil or gas. It was determined to bore as far as possible. The hole has already reached the depth of 4,100 feet, within 500 feet of the deepest well in the world. In this distance a dozen of thick veins of coal have been passed, oil and gas both struck, but not in paying quantities, and gold quartz, iron and many other minerals found. The hole is eight inches in diameter and the largest in diameter of any deep well in the world.

Professor White, state geologist, has arrived from Washington, where he succeeded in getting the government geological survey officers interested in the exploration, and the result is that the hole will be drilled to a depth of one mile. Then the government will take up the work under the direction of two expert officers of the geological survey and drill into the earth as far as human skill can penetrate.

The idea is to take the temperature and magnetic conditions as far as possible, and by means of an instrument constructed for the purpose a complete record of the progress and all discoveries made will be kept.—Cor. Philadelphia

Quick Work by an Old Time Clipper. The old tea clipper Oberon blew in from Yokohama after the fastest passage on record, being out but twenty-four days, which is almost equal to steamship time. The Oberon is a teakwood vessel, built years ago for the tea trade. Captain Fulton reports head winds for the first twelve days after leaving Yokohama. Then they struck a favoring breeze, and the old clipper recled off 315 miles in the first twenty-four hours, following this up with a 300 mile run the next day, and from that time until she sailed into the Columbia she has been making from twelve to fourteen miles per hour night and day.

The vessel is a homely looking old craft, but it is doubtful if her performance will soon be equaled .- Astoria Cor. Portland Oregonian.

Horse Radish for the Grip. A week or two ago a lady of this city wrote a note to The Tribune recommending the use of horse radish as a means of alleviating the grip, if not affecting a thorough cure. Several instances in which this suggestion was acted upon with strikingly favorable resuits have come to the knowledge of The Tribune. Ordinary grated horse radish, eaten at frequent intervals during the day and in connection with food at the table, if food is eaten at all, has been found remarkably efficacious in banishing the distressing cough that frequently lingers after all the other symptoms of the grip have gone. It can do no harm to try it at all events. The humble but pungent horse radish must have been made for some good use.—Chicago Tri-

Mrs. Potter's Offer.

"I will give you $500," writes Mrs. Cora Urauhart Potter to a literary friend in this city, "for the first act, $1,000 for the second. $2,000 for the third and $4,000 for the fourth and last act of the new play to be written for me on a theme of the day and time-dealing with Americans—which shall have an absolutel new motive the interest in which shall be continued to the last scene." So difficult is it for a dramatist to secure a new motive-or what the phrase may be taken to mean, an absolutely new application of one of the familiar motives of human action—that Mrs. Potter's offer is by no means as munificent as it would seem.—New York Letter.

Napoleon VI. Prince Victor Napoleon, eldest son of the late Prince Napoleon, has been already dubbed by his partisans Napoleon VI, his father being considered as Napoleon V, the poor young Prince Imperial having been styled Napoleon IV. He will be thirty years of age next July. He is a fine looking man, with some thing of the grandiose cast of features of the great emperor, though resembling far less the mighty founder of his race than did his father. He is by no means a promising pretender, having inherited the vices of the late prince without his active and powerful intellect.-Paris Cor. Philadelphia Telegraph.

To Put a Face on Her. Dr. A. S. J. Stovall is making preparations for a novel experiment. He is about to put a new face on a negro woman who resides on Mr. S. H. Fortson's plantation near Eliam, Ga., and whose face and mouth were nearly all shot off about Christmas. She has nearly recovered from the wound, but it has left her face in a very bad condition. She wants a false face put where the wound is, and Dr. A. S. J. Stovall, whose efficient skill caused her to recover, will put the face on for her.—Exchange

A novelty at the Crystal palace during the Easter holidays was a Gilding upper railway, which has been laid down along the terrace. It is worked by hydraulic power, and the carriages have no wheels, but run, or rather glide, on plates of metal, which traverse a broad. flat iron surface, upon which a spray of water is projected.

What is claimed to be a mastodon's tooth has been picked up at the Sea Tack Life Saving station, Virginia. It is shiny jet black in color, measures 3 inches in width, 5 inches in length and 21 inches in height. The tooth weighs two pounds and nine ounces.

Time Brings Its Revenges.
It is now fully a quarter of a century since a merciful dispensation of providence so clouded the Empress Carlotta's mind that she was spared a single pang of grief when her royal husband was slaughtered in Mexico. For nearly a generation the widow of the unfortunate Maximilian has remained in ignorance of his fate. But slowly, and by almost imperceptible degrees, her mind has become clarified, and she is once more in the enjoyment of her faculties. Looking backward through the long years of darkness, that sad Mexican business in which she played the part of a heroine seems to her nearly a dream. It is well that it is so. Carlotta is not an concelling in her future may yet compensate her for her bitter past.

But the same day that her recovery was announced also brought the intelligence that General Miguel Lopez had been bitten by a mad dog and was under the Pasteur treatment.

This Lonez was the trusted officer who betrayed Maximilian to his bloodthirsty enemies—the wretch whose evil work | rived home she was gladly welcomed by caused Carlotta's insanity. After living all these long years, despised by even his own countrymen and scorned by his wife for his treason, he has perhaps met his doom.

What fate would be more fitting for this false friend, who sold his benefactor? It is hard to believe that he will be cured. He will snap and snarl and foam at the mouth like a rabid hound. He will rave in his paroxysms or maniacal frenzy. He will tear his flesh in his mad convulsions and die like a wild beast.

Time bringsits revenges. As the traitor Lopez sinks out of sight in the lurid shadows now descending upon him, his victim Carlotta comes once more into the light of day, serenely beautiful, once more herself, the most charming woman that has wore a crown since Eugenie in her happiest days. Dissolving viewslights and shadows—they make up life! -Atlanta Constitution.

An Icicle One Thousand Feet Long. Monday a loud noise and slight shaking of the earth caused no little wonderment among the residents near the hills. Investigation proved the cause to be an ice slide. A small and innocent spring issues from the side of one of the mountains, its waters spreading and flowing over a steep incline of rock. During the past winter months ice formed against this wall of stone, increasing in size until one vast icicle, fully twenty feet in thickness and 1,000 feet in length, projected into the valley below. From the warmth of the sun and its own weight it released its hold and thundered down the mountain side, carrying everything before it, even trees three feet in diameter. Those who have visited the place say that the foot of the cliff presents a mass of broken ice, trees, limbs and earth fifty feet in height. This is a repetition of occasional similar occurrences in previous years, but on a grander scale.—Sumas City Cor. Seattle Telegraph.

The Locomotive Met a Ball of Fire. An engineer on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western says he was coming down the Chenango valley when the recent storm burst. A vivid flash of lightning startled him, but he was not prepared for what followed. A huge ball of fire was seen on one of the rails coming rapidly toward the locomotive.

He shut off steam and reversed the engine. The lightning, which looked like a ball of liquid fire about the size of a twelve inch football, struck the driving wheels of the locomotive and, after running several times around them, crossed over on the axles to the opposite side of the track and went spinning away in the direction from which it came and vanished around a distant curve.

The engine was not damaged, with the exception of the glass oilers on the side rods, which were broken, and the paint on the "driver" was blistered.—Binghamton (N. Y.) Herald.

Mr. Broadwell's Peg Legged Goose. There is a goose in Alpharetta that walks around on an artificial leg. It is owned by Mr. J. B. Broadwell. The goose happened to lose a foot somehow. It hopped when it traveled, but could not hop fast enough to keep up with the rest of the geese. Mr. Broadwell took a joint of cane and fitted the leg of the goose in the hollow of the cane, bound it to the leg of the goose with a cord and cut off the lower end of the cane even with the foot that was not injured. The goose now walks with ease and seemingly without pain.—Cor. Atlanta Constitution.

Barrels from Solid Logs. A core saw, intended for boring out barrels from solid logs, was recently completed at Taunton, Mass., for a company in Lacrosse, La. The saw is made of wrought iron, cylindrical in shape, and steel cutter teeth are distributed about its edge. It was expected that the saw would cut a barrel per minute, and during a trial of the first machine a core 101 inches in diameter and 211 inches long was bored ont in thirty seconds. A mill for the manufacture of barrels by these machines is to be built in Louisiana .--New York Journal.

Did Not Stop the Clock.

The lightning performed two unusual feats at the house of Nelson Vergason on Bean Hill. It cut half an inch off the rim of an inverted goblet on a table and left the goblet sitting as it found it. This work is said to have been done as neatly as if it had been done with a diamond. The electricity also sent the hands on the dial of the clock four hours in advance of the true time, without stopping the clock. The fluid was so hot that it melted several table knives.-Norwich Bulletin.

A Maine Truant Officer's Sufferings. It was amusing to see several truants hustling one day last week with the truant officer after them. They finally reached a haven of security on top of a barn, and sang in a tantalizing strain, "He's After Me." The effect was striking.—Belfast Age.

The Silent Dane. In his early manhood Moltke was called "The Silent Dane," and later he was popularly known as "The Great Taciturn;" yet he could speak seven languages fluently. Although one of the world's prefoundest and sternest soldiers he was one of the most modest and affectionate of men. Occasionally one might see him in Berlin driving in a plain cab, or sauntering along a principal street looking in at the shop windows, but few recognized him. He was as regular as the sun in his daily tasks. and even in the lighter employments of his long life he was ever painstaking and methodical. Out of these traits grew, withal, his fine literary ability that, besides his published letters, produced several valuable military histo-

The crowning honor of his life was the way Germany celebrated the completion of his ninetieth year. From the Baltic to the Alps, from the Vosges to the Vistula every household joined in the great jubilee, hung out the national colors and likenesses of Moltke in flags and torches. Berlin was decorated and enthusiastic as it had never before been for any private citizen. Germans throughout the world set apart Oct. 26, 1890, as a fete day for the vaterland, and a day of praises and congratulations for her greatest soldier. The grim old field marshal was taciturn almost by necessity, being nearly smothered by honors and rich presents; but when the city fathers of Berlin sent him their greetings, accompanied by the sum of 50,000 marks as a charity fund for the relief of the aged and infirm, he replied, "Gentlemen, say to your council that this gift touches my heart, and that of the many rich presents I have received today this is the most valued." When since the death of Washington has the world seen a more modest, complete, successful and noble life?-Harper's Weekly.

How a Man Traded His Wife.

A few months ago a man named Zimmerman arrived in Darlington, this county, with a herd of ponies. Among those who looked longingly on a particular pony was George Davis, a young married man of that place. Davis had no money, but he possessed a wife whom he offered to exchange for the animal and a money consideration. The wife was consulted, and after a few days' dickering Zimmerman agreed to give the pony and a deed to 144 acres of land in Montana in exchange for the woman. The papers were drawn up, and Zimmerman took the woman and Davis the pony.

The cowboy and Mrs. Davis went west, but she soon repented and asked to be taken back to her first love. By this time Davis discovered that Zimmerman did not own a foot of land in Montana or any other place. The innocent looking pony turned ont to be everything that was bad, and when Mrs. Davis arher rightful husband.—Beaver Falls (Pa.

Tribune. A Woman with Forty-three Husbands. A young Englishwoman, named Eveline Leal, who is said to be exceedingly handsome, has for a second time fallen. into the hands of the French police for practicing what may be called the marriage trick. When in 1887 she was first arrested she was at her thirteenth marriage, but today she is in the possession of no fewer than forty-three husbands. Her method of procedure was as simple as it was ingenious.

She put advertisements into the journals stating that a widow possessing a fortune of 1,200,000 francs wished to marry a gentleman in good circumstances belonging to the nobility or to the high commercial class. Replies were to be sent to a postoffice. Her accomplice, who occupied the position of comon, seems to have had the important duty of choosing the victims from among the applicants.—London Tit-Bits.

A Cool Tramp. The South Carolina railway people have added another laurel to their wreath. They now claim to have carried the "boss tramp." It requires a tramp with considerable nerve to quietly enter the refrigerator at the end of the mail car and take a nice cool ride from Columbia to Charleston. Well, that is exactly what William Wylie did. When the passenger train arrived in Charleston on Sunday night Wylie was found asleep in the refrigerator. He tried to explain the matter to the recorder yesterday in vain. He was fined ten dollars or fifteen days for trepassing on the car.—Charleston News and Cou-

Sparrows' Breakfast Table. The lazy little English sparrows have discovered a new method of obtaining food without hustling for it, and every morning they nosily put the idea into execution, being observed by many persons. When the electric lights are turned off at daybreak the sparrows chatter around the globes until they are cooled. Then the bothersome scavengers slide down into the globes by way of the carbons, and eat the unfortunate insects attracted by the bright glare during the night. Usually the sparrows get a good breakfast of fat flies and bugs, and often as many as a half dozen birds clamber into one globe.—Pittsburg Times.

The late General Albert Pike, of Washington, was perhaps better versed in the mysteries of ancient Freemasonry than any other person in the world. His translations from the vedas filled seventeen volumes of a thousand pages each, all carefully written in a beautiful hand. General Pike used none but quill pens in this writing, and carefully preserved each one, the number probably reaching

The creditors of the Prince of Wales have been walking the floor a long time, but there is at last a ray of hope for them. The little difference between his royal indebtedness and his creditors, something like $1,500,000, is likely to be paid by the queen, her majesty having given her financial agents instructions to set aside that sum out of her private fortune to pay her son's debts.

Mr. Ker's Valuable Parcel. Simeon Ker, of Melbourne, Australia, registered at the Russell house. "I came from Australia by way of San Francisco, and am on my way to London," said Mr. Ker. "I merely stopped over for a few hours' rest, and take the train for the east this evening. My business is that of a common carrier," and Mr. Ker smiled a complacent sort of smile as he placed a bulldog revolver on the table and threw off his coat and vest.

"Don't be alarmed," he said, as the representative evinced some little nervousness at these warlike movements. "I presume von have seen the stock of some diamond salesman-worth anywhere from $25,000 to $75,000. Well, I carry a much larger stock, and all in one piece. See here," and Mr. Ker drew a stout steel chain from the opening in his open back shirt, at the end of which was steel portemonnaie, locked with a secret spring. This he opened, and exhibited a diamond of most wonderful size and brilliancy. It was nearly an inch in diameter, and while holding it in his left hand Mr. Ker's right hand toyed with the revolver on the table. "That is a genuine African diamond of the first water, and is worth £27,600, as diamonds go," said he, "but on account of its unusual size we regard it as more valuable. It is insured for £25,000. No, I am not afraid of losing it. In the first place it could only be obtained by killing me, for it can never be removed from my body while I am alive. I am not afraid to show it, because I desire all good people to know I have it. You represent a well known newspaper. I find it all over the world.

"Now, suppose I was to be chloro-formed and robbed of it, you as well as others to whom I have shown it could testify that I had it, though the officials to whom I should complain of the loss might doubt it. In the old days, and in certain localities at present, it would be as well to say nothing about it, perhaps, but in civilized countries it is different. The insurance company which holds the risk preferred I should carry it to intrusting it to an express company."-Detroit Free Press.

Puzzling Fire.

A phenomenon is puzzling the residents of Castalian Springs, Miss., just now. On the top of a high pile of earth is a spot about three inches in diameter, from which issues forth every clear sunshiny day, between the hours of 11:30 a. m. and 12:30 p. m., blue smoke, which is immediately followed by a bright, hot flame of similar hue. The spot presents no appearance different from any other barren spot on earth, with the exception of the burnt earth, caused by the fire. The charred looking dirt surrounding the center to the depth of one-fourth of an inch can be removed, but the center remains black, hard and almost impenetrable.

This strange freak was discovered by a workman over a week ago, and has been since watched daily. It is evident that the sun is a magnet in this instance, as the eruption does not occur when the weather is cloudy. Often when the sun is covered there is smoke, but no flame. If a continuance and further developments occur a geologist will be called to investigate.—Exchange.

"Peaches Is Safe." "Yes, sir," said an old Pennsylvania farmer as he dusted the frost from his beard, where it had collected in the course of a three hours' ride in the early morning, "you can just bet your boots on what I say, and that is that this year peaches is safe as if they were picked. I've watched that ere fruit this fifty vear, and I reckon I know a thing or two about the effect of frost on the blossoms. If you ketch it on the buds before they open, look out. Like as not your crop's a-goner. Or if it strikes em when the buds is wet then you are sartain to miss your crop. But once git 'em wide open an' dry, like what they is now, an' you has got a sure thing of it. When once the fruit begins to form it takes harder teeth than them of frost to touch it. Tain't the same with plums an' cherries, which'll blight even after they has blossomed. No, kind sir, peaches is safe this year, you take an old man's word for it. An' I should say it is about time."-New York Herald. "Did you know that pearls get sick?" said a well known Atlanta ieweler.

"They do, and, like babies, they require a change of climate when their health is bad, or else they crumble or die. I knew of a case once where a lady went into a ler's with a magnificent set of nearl that were losing their luster and beginning to look dead. 'These pearls are sick,' said the jeweler upon examining them, 'and unless you take or send them to a decidedly different climate at once they will become worthless.' They were sent off, and within a month were as bright and pretty again as they had ever been."-Atlanta Constitution.

A Unique Book for a Queen. Julian McNair Wright, the famous novelist, formerly of London, but now of Fulton, Mo., has had a copy of her latest novel, "Fru Dagmar's Son," elegantly bound as a present for the queen of Denmark. It is finished in white orded silk, the title in gold across the front cover, the name of the authoress and the monogram of the National Temperance society at the back; edges full gilt; on back cover Danish arms hand painted; under title Danish flag hand painted: the whole folded in fringed blue silk, laid in a satin lined box. It is a perfect gem, both in the artistic and literary sense of the word.—St. Louis Re-

Taxes Paid by Railways. During the past half year the sum of £475,000 was paid for rates and taxes by the four chief railway companies—the London and Northwestern, the Great Western, Northeastern and Midland. This is exclusive of government duty and income tax. The London and Northwestern paid the largest amount—£162, 411-in the six months.-London Tit-

A Summer Outing for Working Girls. Another month, and girls who belong to the working girls' clubs in this city will flock to the summer homes of the association. There are three of these-Holiday House and Holiday Harbor, within a half mile of each other at Miller's Place, L. I., and Brookside House at Mountainville, Orange county. The former accommodate thirty girls each, the latter twelve. Space in the house s divided among the clubs in proportion to their membership and is reserved until July 1. After that time rooms that have not been applied for may be had by any club member. In order to give all the girls an opportunity to enjoy a vacation at one of these places the length of each guest's stay is limited to two weeks. These houses are self supporting, although they give the girls a needed vacation at a minimum of cost. The entire expense of the trip aside from the new girl goes anywhere, is only $7.50. The terms for board are three dollars a week. to be paid a week in advance of departure. A sort of general agent has been anpointed who classifies all applications for accommodations, and is prepared to say just how many girls take advantage of this opportunity. She is Miss Kate Walsh, and her headquarters are at her club's rooms in Thirty-eighth street.

An interesting little story is told about the founding of these homes. One day about four years ago a lady, a stranger, called upon Bishop Potter and told him she had $7,000 she wished to devote to some philanthropic object. She could not make up her mind, and so she begged him to suggest something. He men-tioned beds in hospitals, missions, homes, orphan asylums, but nothing seemed to suit her. After she had called several times the idea of a summer home for working girls, in connection with the clubs in which his daughters and nieces are interested, occurred to him. This was just what she wanted. She paid the $7,000 in cash to the bishop, departed, and has never been heard of since.—New York Recorder.

Fresh Air for Families.

Another charitable organization, the purpose of which is to give to entire families opportunity to enjoy fresh air, has come into existence. A society has been incorporated with the name of the 'Gilbert A. Robertson Home." It was formed under the terms of a devise of about $125,000 made by the will of the late Mrs. Gilbert A. Robertson. The trustees for the first year are William Nelson Blakeman, Jr., Elliott Smith, Charles D. M. Cole and S. Sidney Smith, of New York, and E. Clarence Hovey, of Brookline, Mass.

The home has purchased about seventeen acress of land a short distance north of Yonkers, on the high ridge of ground between the Hudson and Bronx rivers. The property includes a large house and outbuildings. There it is proposed to give to poor families, free of expense, short periods of rest and recreation. While the fund provided is a large one, it has been deemed advisable to receive public contributions, and those wishing to aid the charity may do so by becoming associate, active or life members or patrons.—New York Recorder.

Elopers Met with a Shotgun. There was a little wedding at Caraway Springs, Tenn., Sunday night, and as a result two fond hearts are happy and a stern father is further angered. Charley Wright has been forbidden the entree of Henry Williamson's house, whose daughter, Louisa Williamson, was the object of young Wright's affections. After much coaxing the old man still withheld his consent, but Charley got a license and resolved to steal the girl. Old Henry heard of this and shut the girl up for a Sunday night, at church, the old man stayed behind to talk to the preacher, when Wright grabbed her and rushed to Esquire Armstrong's and the two were married. They then went to see the father next morning, but he stood in the door with a double barreled shotgun and ordered them not to come inside.—Cor. Louisville Courier-Journal.

Deadly Poison on Coins. The many friends of Miss Clara Meredith will regret to learn of her death Miss Meredith was the daughter of Edward Meredith, and was cashier and bookkeeper at the Bates House.

About ten weeks ago she became ill and while the physicians were unable to determine the exact nature of her disease, it was supposed to be blood poisoning, the result of handling a large amount of coin. Miss Meredith had the common habit of rubbing her fingers across her face and ear, and as an eruption appeared on these parts which soon spread throughout her entire system, it is thought that impurities from the coin were communicated to her system.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

Two Buildings in a Race. There was a lively race between the crews moving the two buildings from the May lot on Court street, in Auburn. It so happened . that the route of both stores was down Main street, and the buildings were of the same size. Captain Cain started his building a day and a half after the other had left the location on Court street, and by lively work and with plenty of apparatus he overhauled it at the Park House. Here Captain Cain says that he jokingly demanded the right of way and the other fellows turned their building into Academy street and let him pass.—Lewiston Jour-

Mother and Baby in a Deep Well. Wednesday afternoon the little fouryear-old daughter of Mr. M. D. Proctor, who resides on Major Shelton's farm, three miles north of Covington, fell into a well forty feet deep and containing about twenty feet of water. Mrs. Proctor, in her frenzy, leaped in after the child, and by clinging to the brick curbing succeeded in keeping herself and little one above the water until the husband and father arrived and drew them safely out of their perilous situation. Neither suffered any serious injury.—Cor. Memphis Appeal Avalanche.

· Driven by a Corpse. Cabman Thomas Gilbert died on his oox while driving a passenger to the West Side Union depot. After the Chicago Opera house was built Gilbert made his stand at the southwest corner of lark and Washington streets. He wa there at 8 o'clock, when a man stepped into his cab and said, "Drive me in a hurry to the West Side Union depot. Gilbert climbed on the box, and gathering up the lines swung his horse into Washington street and headed west. A crowd of people was surging into the Chicago Opera house when the cab rattled by. Some one noticed Gilbert's headdroop and then fall over on his breast. The whip fell from his hand and he clutched at the iron rod of the box. "That cabman's dying," said the man who had noticed Gilbert's actions. He wally, acting directly upon the blood followed the cab. Three or four others and mucous surfaces of the systm. followed him. The horse trotted along Price, 75c per bottle. Sold by all Daug Washington street and stopped for a gists moment at La Salle to let a Milwaukee avenue cable train pass by. At Fifth avenue the men who had followed the cab from the Chicago Opera house overtook it and one of them grabbed the bit. The occupant of the cab leaped out and demanded what right the stranger had to stop the horse. "I have only ten minutes to make my train," he said excitedly, "and I paid this cabman in advance to haul me to the Union depot." "You will never reach the Union de pot with this driver," said the man who stopped the horse. "Look up there and you will see that you are being driven by a corpse." Two men climbed on ton of the vehicle and lifted the driver off. He was dead. His fingers were twined around the iron rod of the seat .- Chicago Herald.

Bernhardt Shot Frogs. Time hung heavily on the hands of Mme. Bernhardt one day while she was here. After comparing St. Louis unfavorably with Paris for the hundredth time she sent for "Bos" Henderson, chief clerk at the Lindell, and had a consultation with him through the kind offices of an interpreter. As a result of that interview "Bos" tells the following story: She desired to know if there was any swamp lands about St. Louis where she could shoot frogs. Mr. Henderson re-ferred her to the lowlands in East St.

Louis. Mme. Bernhardt immediately bundled herself up, so Henderson says, and with two masculine members of her company started for East St. Louis in a hired coach. They rolled over the Eads bridge very merrily, and soon reached the slimy ponds where the bullfrogs are to be found The great actress was delighted. She shot at turtles, frogs and snakes impartially, and toward 5 o'clock returned to the city with three defunct frogs, which she ordered prepared for her evening re-

It is said Mme. Bernhardtis an exceedingly good shot. She declared that she had not enjoyed herself so much since she left France as she did in the Illinois swamps. The three frogs killed by Mme. Bernhardt were daintily prepared by the Lindell's chef and devoured with relish by the eccentric actress .-- St. Louis Re-

Old Settlers for the Fair. Warren K. Moorehend, a young archæologist of Xenia, O., who is acting for the government in getting up an exhibit of archæological specimens for the World's fair at Chicago, has just made a rich find at Fort Ancient, in Warren county, which is attracting a great deal of attention. He has uncovered walled vaults which contain twenty-four perfect and complete skeletons of the aborigines. He has had them photographed as they lay in the vaults, and is now tearing the vaults away, marking each stone and all of the skeletons, so as to put them, in place just as they were found at the World's fair. In one of the skulls was found an arrow head, while through the skull could be seen the hole where the arrow had penetrated. Several of the skulls had similar holes in them, showing that they had died in battle.-Cincinnati Enquirer. Just What Keeley, the Motor Man, Is Doing I am making a sympathetic harness for the polar terrestrial force—first, by exciting the sympathetic concordant force that exists in the corpuscular interstitial domain, which is concordant to it; and, second, after the concordance is established, by negatizing the thirds, sixths and ninths of this concordance thereby inducing high velocities with great power by intermittent negation, as associated with the dominant thirds. Again, take away the sympathetic latent force that all matter is impregnated with, the connective link between the finite and the infinite would be dissociated, and gravity would be neutralized, thereby bringing all visible and invisible aggregations back into the great etheric realm.—Interview with Keeley.

Millions of June Bugs on the Wing. Sunday a loud, roaring sound was heard, and heavy black clouds were observed passing rapidly over the city. Upon close observation it was found that the clouds were composed of millions of bugs about one inch in size. They pass en from the west to the east, and the noise of their combined wings made as much sound as an express train at full speed. Several were captured, and are said to be of the "June bug" variety.—Green Castle (Ind.) Cor. Philadelphia Press

Russian scientists are about going to northern Africa to make a study of the methods employed by the natives in resisting the inroads of quicksands. This inquiry is the result of ineffectual efforts on the part of Russian engineers to counteract the effect of quicksands in trans-Caspian sections, where thousands of acres of the best arable soil are annually used up. A new pianoforte keyboard, having six rows of keys, has recently been exhibited in Manchester, England. An octave is formed by six keys in two continnous rows. All the keys are on the same level, and each note is separated from the next by an interval of two semitones.

The Winds of the Mediterranean. The winds of this sea, though generally regular and periodical, have local characteristics which give rise to various names: "The Birazones of the southeast coast of Spain; the Vent de Bize, or Mistral, of the southern French coast; the Raffiche of Corsica and other mountainous islands; the Gregale of Sardinia and Malta; the Saffanto and Bora of the Adriatic; the Tramontana, generally over the Levant, and the Levanters and Sirocco of the whole Mediterranean." In strong contrast to the frequent blasts of the well known Sirocco are the calms of this deep sea, the bonaccia of the Italian mariner, which in the days before the advent of steam compelled a loitering and weary voyage.
