State Rights Run to Seed.

The Democratic doctrine of state rights has apparently been run out to its legitimate conclusion in Tennessee. If the dispatches are correct, the attorney general of that state decides that the governor is powerless to quell an insurrection and put a stop to mob violence, save at the request and under the direction of the sheriff of the county wherein the riot occurs.

A mob at Bricefield, Anderson coun ty, is in insurrection against the laws and the authority of the state of Tennessee. Those who compose the mob say that convicts shall not work in the reason than that it prevailed "before the war"-we were to make a treaty with other nations providing that all should coin silver at the same ratio. Then England, France and Germany, all of which are willing to coin silver and to make a treaty, but which because of the attitude of our silver theorists, stick to gold, would coin silver as the equal of gold. Last year hese three nations alone coined $65,-500,000 of gold and only $10,300,000 of silver, while we coined $22,000,000 of gold and $35,000,000 of silver. The Mississippi constitution, as amended recently, works like a charm. It has reduced the negro vote by about 00,000 throughout the State, and has left but one county with a negro majority. In Lowndes county, where there are five negroes to one white resident, the registration stands 200 whites to one negro. To what further extent the negro vote may be reduced when the educational test is applied is conjectured; it may be guessed at as at

The total vote of Mississippi at the last Presidential election was 115,807; about 5,000 negroes who then voted henceforth will be eliminated from the list of factors, 10,000 more may be prevented by operation of the educational clause, which soon is to come into operation; it cannot be supposed that less than 10,000 whites who hitherto have exercised the right of suffrage

Here, then, is a reduction of 25,000 from the voting force of 1888; 90,000 may te taken as the number of voters required to give Mississippi two Sena tors and seven Representatives in Congress. But New Jersey cast 269,103 votes to gain the same number of Senators and Representatives. New Hampshire casts 86,240 votes at a Presidential election, and is represented by but two Congressmen, while Mississippi's 90,000 voters are to be represented by seven. Nebraska's 214,000 voters elect but three Congressmen, while Mississippi's 90,000 are to electseven. Minnesota's 240,893 voters elect five Congressmen; Mississippi, with little more than a third of Minnesota's voting population, has seven Representatives. Maine elects four Congressmen by its 113,824 votes; Mississippi is to elect seven by its 90,000. Kansas has seven Congress men for its 294,588 voters; Mississippi is to have the same number for its 90. 000. time the king snake caught the green one about six inches from the head, slipping himself around his adversary and getting his mouth closer and closer to its head. The green snake the while kept its mouth wide open as if in an effort to get its head too large to go into the king snake's mouth and thereby thwart its effort to swallow him. This effort proved futile, for soon the head and about six inches of the green snake were in the stomach of the king. At this point of the game another and more stubborn contest took place. In the cage are two wires-one running perpendicular and the other horizontal. Twisting itself around the perendicular wire, the green snake tied itself into various hard knots. Mounting the horizontal bar, or wire, the king began the work of unfastening the coils of the other by continued pulling and swallowing When the feat was accomplished, with the exception of about a half foot of the tail, it looked like the king snake would be defeated, but with some maneuvering the tail was untied, and the job of swallowing was completed.

After finishing the task the king snake looked wonderfully pleased, and raced around eying the spectators for some minutes.-Cor. Atlanta Constitution,

A Queer Hallucination.

There is a very good story, which has the somewhat unusual merit of truth which has been told again and again in the dispensary, as illustrating the power of imagination. A lady, who was otherwise quite rational, was troubled with a horrible feeling that a snake was gnawing away her vitals, as she explained it. Efforts were made to convince her of her error, but without avail, and it was finally decided to humor her out, of her trouble. A small snake was secured, and one day she was told the necessary operation would be gone through to relieve her of her trouble. Chloroform was administered and when she revived a scratch made while she was asleep was carefully bandaged up, and the snake was exhibited as evidence of the superi ority of her diagnosis over that of the physicians. Her joy was painful to witness, and she went away thoroughly cured .- Interview in St. Louis Globe-

Free and Unlimited Silver Coinage. To the Editor of The Press:

SIR-I frequently read of a free and unlimited coinage of silver. Will you oblige me by explaining the difference between them?

At present the United States Mint coins 371 25 grains of pure silver, and 41.25 grains of alloy into a coin of 412.5 grains weight, and calls it a dollar. The 871.25 grains of silver at yesterday's market price of $1.0025 per ounce of 480 grains, are instrinsically worth 77,5 cents. Those who believe in the free coinage of silver, but not the unlimited coinage, believe that the govern-Boomer. ment, instead of making this profit of 22.5 cents itself by coining 77.5 cents worth of silver bullion into a dollar, should coin silver bullion free of charge for American silver producers, so that if you own da silver mine you could take $775 worth of silver to the Mint and get $1,000 for it. Those who believe in the unlimited counage of silver would have the government compelled by law to do this for anybody who would apply to it with any part of the world's total product of $160,000,000 worth of silver. As we produce only about 40 per cent of this, there is quite a difference, as you see, between the free coinage of America's $64,000,000 worth of silver and free coinage of the world's $160,000,000. The "free and unlimited coinage" idea seems to be that we, the United States, alone and single handed, should enter into a financial war with the rest of the world by turning into money all the silver not needed for use in the arts, whether other nations want to add to their currency in that way or not, or whether, if they do want silver money, they want it at our ratio to gold or not. The plain result of such an attempt would be that silver produced by other nations would not only be coined here, but would stay here, while gold went abroad to pay for it Our silver cur-rency would be vastly inflated, and our gold currency in circulation contracted not only by the departure of the gold that went abroad to pay other nations for the silver that they did not want to come back to them as dollars, but by the locking up of such gold as stayed at home in bank vaults, and in the stoves and stockings that do duty as savings hanks in the sural districts Then there would be a difference in the value of the gold dollar and the value or the silver dollar, whether you called gold the standard and said that the silver dollar was selling at a discount, or called silver the standard and said that the gold dollar was selling at a premium. The fact is that gold is the

How to Clean a Plaster Cast.

A correspondent of a leading scientific journal says that a bust or statue can be most thoroughly cleaned, provided it has not been painted, oiled or waxed, by inverting it and filling it with water free from iron. The water is then allowed to filter through the plaster. After the filtering has been kept up for a sufficient time and the outside surface occasionally washed with water and a soft brush, the plaster is allowed to dry. It is then found that all the dust has been wiped out of the pores of the cast, which is thus restored to its original whiteness.

Terrible Experience of a Pleasure Party. A small fishing schooner has just returned from a trip along the coast, and brought with it a party of father, son and daughter, who had an experience which rarely falls to the lot of any one.

The party is William Buchanan, his son Tom, and his daughter Nellie. Five weeks ago they started on a cruise along the coast in a small yacht, taking a pleasure trip. They were provided with guns, ammunition and fishing tackle, and expected to have a fortnight's sport and then roturn east. Miss Nellie was as expert with the gun and rod as either her father or brother, and all three were good sailors. About sixty miles south a squall drove their yacht out to sea and wrecked the vessel on one of the small islands about twenty miles off the coast. Mr. Buchanan was badly bruised by being dashed against the rocks, and Tom had his right arm broken in a similar way. Miss Nellie was the only one of the party who received no injury, and it is to this fact alone that any of them are alive. The guns, ammunition and fishing tackle were all saved, and Miss Nellie cared for her wounded relatives and then started out to get them something to eat. The island is out of the way of travel, and in consequence not a vessel was seen for two weeks. During all this time the young lady hunted and fished, and was so successful that they did not pass one day without food.

The island is so flat and barren that unless a vessel gets close to it the people on board cannot see it. They could not use the little wood they found for signal fires, for they were afraid there would not be enough to serve for cooking their food. A storm, had sent them on the island, and a similar occurrence saved them, for the fishing schooner had been driven off the shore and out of her course, and when the captain saw the island he sent a boat ashore to see if he could get water. Mr. Buchanan had by this time fully recovered, but the son was still suffering from his broken arm. They were taken off and brought to this city, and are now feeling none the worse for their experience, except Tom, whose arm is in bad condition from neglect of proper treatment during the two weeks of suffering. -Tacoma (Wash.) The Health of New York's Wealthy Men.

With Jay Gould sick with the neuralgia, C. P. Huntington out of sorts with malaria and rheumatism, and John D. Rockefeller under treatment for nervous prostration, it is not to be marveled at that Wall street men ask, "Are our great financiers breaking down?" Within the past six months the respective presidents of two big trust companies have been advised that they must either abstain from business cares or retire from all association with common humanity. The past year has indeed been a trying period for the nerves of great financiers. They have had to battle energetically with adverse circumstances, and very few have come out of the struggle with unimpaired health. Cornelius Vanderbilt, D. O. Mills and Russell Sage are conspicuous exceptions to the general physical demoralization of rich men. Mr. Vanderbilt is not only a very methodical man, but he has so many competent lieutenants in the management of his vast property that he does not feel the wear and tear of the ordinary man of millions. Besides, Mr. Vanderbilt probably gives himself more rest and recreation than any other millionaire in this country. He never bothers about details. Mrs. Pettis' Boat Floated Away.

Mrs. Pettis, a lady living at Lake Emily, in Le Sueur county, met with an experience that she is not ant to forget for some time. She was out boat riding during the evening, and while out on the lake her boat, which was leaky, began to fill with water. She was in the vicinity of Cedar island, and rowed started down the beach in an excited there for the purpose of bailing out the boat. She got on shore, and some distance from where she landed she spied a can, which she proceeded to get. She got the can, but when she returned she was horrified to find that a strong wind had taken her boat some distance out into the lake.

The island was some distance from shore, and her cries of distress were unheard, and the prospect of spending the night was anything but pleasant. Revenge on a Widower.

A heavily veiled woman, dressed in black, entered the business office of one of the morning newspapers a few days ago and inserted a death notice, with the announcement of the funeral next day. Many friends of the deceased man read of his death with sorrow, and at the hour mentioned for the services gathered at his house. Several carriages stood in the street, but no hearse was visible, nor was there any crape on the door.

In fact, instead of witnessing the last sad rites the visitors found themselves ushered into a brilliantly decorated room, in which a clergyman was about uniting their alleged departed friend to his second wife. The laugh went around, but the mystery was not solved until some time after. It has since transpired that his first wife's relatives were bitterly opposed to the widower's second marriage, and inserted the funeral notice in

The Thrasher's Song.

Ah, these are gay times up in the country, for the song of the thrasher will soon bo heard in the big farmyard, and the women folk will be hard pressed indeed to make pie and doughnuts enough to satify those hungry men.

Thrashing time is always welcome on the farm where I have been. It seems like a touch of winter gayety injected into the midst of summer. Of course I am talking now of the thrashing of winter wheat. The big thrashing machine goes from farm to farm and the men board around, take turns in helping out one another, and spark the girls with zeal mingled with discretion.

Thrashing, the farmer's wife tells me, is the hungriest work there is, and you would think so if you could see those fellows eat. A crock of doughnuts melts away like butter before a roaring ۰Tt fire, and as for pie, potatoes or pancakes, you have to hustle to keep up with them. -New York Herald.

Mrs. Bradley Martin's Diamonds. Mrs. Bradley Martin's diamond tiara is, perhaps, the most magnificent one owned by any woman not of royal lineage. As a rule, tiaras carry only small and inferior gems, which combined make a fairly good showing, but Mrs. Martin's is composed of carefully selected diamonds. Many are rare solitaires. The seven points of the tiara are tipped with single gems, each of great value. The cost of the ornament, which was made in London, is acknowledged by Mrs. Martin herself to have been considerably more Runaway Charges in France.

The etiquette of French law must sometimes take the flavor of an unwelcome surprise to lately exported brides. Not long ago the Countess de la Forest Devonne, formerly Florence Audenreid, of Washington, was driving in the Bois de Boulogne with her cousin, Mrs. Harrison Caner, another bride from Philadelphia, when her horses suddenly took fright and ran away without hurting anybody seriously or doing perceptible damage. With characteristic promptness, however, a government official called and laid before the countess a bill for damages. The official document stated that some injury had been done to the barks of the trees and some little confusion of roadway and bordering grass had been caused by her horses.

Well, this seemed rather amusing to an American, but when bills for damages to five different carriages came in, one after another, the countess began to get anxious, and consulted her checkbook with a growing interest and much wonderment as to whether there would be enough left of her yearly income for necessary expenses. Furthermore, she has no idea when the demand will stop or how many more ancient and decrepit vehicles will come out as good as new at her expense.-New York Times.

A twelve-year-old Auburn boy rapped at the teller's wicket of an Auburn bank the other day, called the cashier up and asked for the loan of three dollars with which to buy a bicycle. He was that much short and had heard that they loaned money there.-Lewiston Journal.

To Determine the Speed of Electricity. Philadelphia scientists are preparing to find out how fast an electric current travels. An experiment will be made, probably from the Franklin institute, by connections over the Atlantic cable to Liverpool and return.

A recent test appeared to show that an electric current is a slow coach as compared to light, being only able to get over to Europe and back in something like a second, or at the rate of only some 400,000 miles a minute, while light ambles along at a million miles a minute gait. The Philadelphia scientists who are proposing to make further investigations are not satisfied to give up the record to sunlight, and hope to prove that the electrical current, if not handicapped, is the swifter element.

The most recent experiment was tried at McGill college, Montreal. The current was transmitted in Montreal, was transferred to the cable at the Newfoundland cable station by means of Thompson's mirror galvanometer, sent across to the station at Liverpool and returned to Montreal by the same method. The distance traversed, partly by over-been claimed for them. It was found that if one of the watertight sections was pierced the result would be that the water would seal the air in the section, which would continue to afford support. If both sections were pierced the boat would only draw a little more water, and the supporting capacity not be extinguished, but only diminished, and that if all three sections were pierced the boat would still float, while it would only lose its buoyancy if the sections were simultaneously pierced both above and below the water line, which would be an almost inconceivable event.

The steel boats can be produced at a cost which will compare favorably with the price of wooden boats of good class, and they will stand usage which would quickly destroy a wooden fabric, but at the same time they are remarkably light, a boat of 12 feet long and 3 feet beam, complete with mast. sails, oars, etc., approximating only 300 weight.-Land and Water.

The Peddler and His Sponges.

The heavy rain on the afternoon of July 4 was the cause of much excitement in Waterbury. A Hebrew dealer in sponges, with his stock in trade on his back, was walking through the principal streets when the shower came on. He was not dressed in holiday attire, so he did not mind the rain, but his load of sponges evidently enjoyed the shower. They swallowed every drop that fell upon them, and pretty soon they began to swell. The faster the rain fell the bigger grew the sponges, until finally they took up the larger half of the sidewalk. A policeman whose coat sleeve had been dampened by coming in contact with the mass of sponges ordered the man to walk in the middle of the street. He obeyed, but this only made matters worse. His pack grew larger and larger, until the peddler looked like a gigantic walking mushroom. Carriage horses were frightened at the sight, and even street car horses, which rarely pay attention to anything but the conductor's signal, turned out for him and drew the cars off the track. A special from Montgomery, the new mining camp in the extreme southwestern-part of Nevada, says: About a month ago Bob Montgomery, brother of the finder of the mines here, with Mr. Sherwood and Mr. Metcalf, left here with six jacks on a prospecting trip in the foothills around Death valley. They are all old hands at roughing it, but they agree the famous valley is well named. A very small boy stole a ride on a train running out of Jersey City the other day. When two men took their seats they heard a slight snifile beneath them, and one of them, looking around, found a boy hardly bigger than a pound of tea lying on the floor, shielded from sight by the reversed backs of two seats, which formed a tent over him. Of course, the men did not inform the trainmen that they were carrying a stowaway. Indeed, one man was inclined to slip twenty-five cents down to the little rogue. Men always seem to like young scamps. The child was still beneath the seats when the two men got off the train. He was still sniffling, too; perhaps from a prickling conscience;
