The largest plant in Maryland, and probably one of the best equipped in the country, is at Steelton, Baltimore harbor, the president of which informed me a few days since that they were prepared to construct the largest war ships, they had not and probably would not make an offer to construct a war ship, for the reason that his company had reached the point where they would have all they could do on private account. # The Doctor and Good Roads.

The sentiment in favor of improving country roads is growing every year. It has reached our legislative assemblies, and bills are being introduced in order to secure state aid in the matter. Good roads are things which no class of persons would appreciate more than the physicians, and to none would they bring more direct personal comfort, and even practical financial help. On a good road the country doctor can travel ten miles an hour, on a bad one barely five. The time required in doing his work is doubled, the physical weariness is increased, the amount of visiting rendered possible is curtailed. Besides this, the patient suffers, for the doctor's visits are delayed and less numerous. He cannot watch the patient so closely, and he brings to his work a weary body. Perhaps the horse would argue most frowned upon their union, and had eloquently of all, if he could speak, in favor of good roads. His working life would be lengthened and his working days made easier.

One day, when the baby was about a month old, the father came home With good roads the bicycle could be utilized, and through its investigating influence, perhaps the country doctor would cease, as years rolled on, to befrom his desk and found his wife radi-She was even happy when the baby was out of her sight. come obese from to much sitting in a wagon, his wits would be sharper, his "What is it, Jennie?" asked her husprofessional work better. band, gloomily, for he was yet uncer-tain as to the blessings conferred by

The Ropulation of France.

According to Der Reichsbote, Berlin, the recently published vital statistics of France reveal some startling facts. The figures for 1890 show that the number of deaths was actually greater than the number of births. According to the report of the statistical Bureau, there were $38,059 births durily the year 1890 and $73,505 deaths. Although the data of recent years had led students of statistics to expect that the annual deaths in France would soon equal the births, yet such a sudden and startling revelation was entirely unexpected; and the officials are trying to discover the causes of this phenomenon, which stands absolutely for general information. THE Niles Recorder appears to he worrying about the trouble the Democratic party is going to have in administering a hyperdermic treatment for Herbert Potter's thirst for office. and couples this with the statement that he is seeking the office of Judge of Probate. MARRIED, at South Bend, Ind., June 29, 1892, by the Rev. Mr. Chaffe, at the Baptist church, Miss Almena S. Millar, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Millar, of Niles, Mich., and Mr. Charles D. Rhoads, a rising young merchant of Galien, Mich. Mr. Rhoads is to be especially congratulated in winning the affections of this estimable young lady, who has been one of the most successful teachers in Berrien county. Mr. and Mrs. Rhoads left at once for their future home in Galien. They have the best wishes of hosts of friends. THE County Convention to be held in Berrien Springs, July 13, will decide whether Berrien county delegates will make an effort to secure the nomination of some one of the several candidates for Congress or not. The names of five candidates are prominently before the people of this county in this connection, any one of whom would fill the office with ability and acceptably to the district. To go before the nominating convention with five candidates means sure defeat for all, and the county convention is the place to decide which four should step aside and turn in to help the other one to a nomination and election.

There is the best of recision for predicting that the ratio of decrease will be continued by the faction in November. The Democrats appear to be anxious to make the "force bill" a prominent is- sue in this campaign. The "force bill," of which they hold such a dread, sim- ply provides that in the election of United States government officers and members of Congress there shall be honest elections in all parts of the country, and it provides for nothing more dangerous to the country than that, yet with characteristic alertness the entire party go wild in opposition. There has never been a measure pre- posed during the existence of modern democracy tending toward honesty in elections, but that party has fought it. There is nothing which so goads the Democratic party as the part of the Republican platform which says: That such laws shall be enacted and enforced as will secure to every citizen, be he rich or be he poor, native or for- eign birth, white or black, this sover- eign right guaranteed by the Constitu-	this. Frace, providing the limits pre- scribed shall include the entire corpo- rate limit of the village where no bridges are necessary and the cement walk impossible to build. Why Not Now? Give the boys a chance. When Abra- ham Lincoln was about to bid his friends adieu for Washington, as the Chief Executive of the nation, he re- marked to a group of his neighbors: "Give your boys a chance." Lincoln was a self-made man, in other words home educated. This is true of some of the greatest minds and expert scholars. Many of the finest speci- mens of men and women, eminent in State, church, as specialist, and in pro- fessional life and life's various avoca- tions, had but a home education, which was obtained by using the spare hours wisely. Never, heretofore, was there such opperiunity for acquiring an education at home as at the present, and never was the opportunity used with so much earnestness as now. The greatest opportunity for the least money in this direction is in the Encyclopedia Britannica. Hitherto its expense has placed it beyond the reach of the masses but now it comes in as substantial a way at a cost within the reach of near- ity all. THE DAILY NEWS RECORD of Chicago is making an offer unparalleled in the history of Encyclopedias. It is a wholesale price which, from the nature of the case, is only for the present. Hundreds are daily accepting it. This offered by the NEWS RECORD is a complete reprint of the Edinburg edition, with supplement pages in each volume, bringing each volume up to date. It is as late as issued in 1892. The maps, at much expense, are revised up to date, and some new ones added. It is bound in silk cloth and is silk sewed. The publisher's work in every way good. The people of Buchanan have an opportunity now to get this much coveted library, which heretofore has been out of the reach of the masses on account of its price, such as never has appeared before and is not likely to appear again. As this is a wholesale price the agent will not remain long, and does not stop to talk with any one a great while. # IS TRUTH A LIBEL?

THE PERTINENT QUERY PUT BY REV. THOMAS DIXON, JR.

The Minister Speaks of His Libel Sait. He Discourses on the Woman of the Future and Adverts to the National Political Conventions.

NEW YORK, June 26.-Today's service in Association hall is the last one in which the pastor, Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., officiates in New York until the first Sunday in September. Mr. Dixon will preach at various Chautauqua assemblies during July and August. He devoted his review of current events this morning to the statement of some facts in the official record of Excise Commissioner Koch, upon which the so called libelous sentences in the review for May 29 were based. He said:

In view of the publicity given to the pretended libel suit of one Joseph Koch against the pastor of this church, it is The the people to whom he speaks and the wider circle of hundreds of thousands of readers that a plain statement of a part of the facts underlying this case be made.

I acknowledge without discussion that 1 am a radical. I do not try to trim the truth to suit the jaded pulses of dudes or the puling sentimentalism of æsthet ic fakirs. I have always tried to call a spade a spade, and stand ever ready to prove it. I have never found this an easy road to travel. But it always gives the consciousness of duty done, and that is enough. No teacher of righteousness dare ask more.

I have never spoken one word in this pulpit behind which there was a spark of personal wrong, hate or malice. I love men. I hate wrong. I hate a lie. I would pity and save the liar, while I denounce his fraud. I have ever sought to do my duty toward the men whom I am commissioned to save and the God to whom I answer for that commission, without regard to the fear or favor of man or devil. As I have done in the past I shall continue to do in the future.

KOCH'S COMPLAINT. A few days ago Joseph Koch, Tammany excise commissioner, went before a Tanmany police justice and swore that the following sentences from my review of May 29 were false and libelous:

"The city government bids defiance to the moral sentiment of the community Mayor Grant has just reappointed Koch as excise commissioner. This fellow was the biggest scoundrel of all the board, the one man of all men who deserved to be kicked into oblivion. He stands indicted for the violation of his oath as commissioner and should be in the penitentiary today. He alone came up to the standard of the mayor and was reappointed."

Now what are the simple facts in this man's record as excise commissioner? There are two indictments now pending at this writing on the dockets of our courts' against him for misdemeanors committed during his term of office, the penalty for the guilt of which is the penitentiary. See penal code, section 15. which declares a misdemeanor punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary.

COWARDLY QUIEBLINGS,

The only question then remaining is, Is he guilty of the offenses charged in these indictments?

These indictments were found by the grand jury more than a year ago, and this man, so careful of his honor now, the affairs of life. The genesis of this one is in my mind very definite. I found this sermon in the liquid depths of a beautiful little girl's eyes. She looked up into my face, with her eyes flashing with truth and zeal for right, and asked if the girls-were not going to be given a ender sympathy with good and truth, I thought of the greater, broader, nobler, appier life of the future toward which our civilization is progressing. I thought, Will not the hope expressed in those questions be fulfilled in life? With all my heart I believe they will. The problem of the age in which we live I do not believe can be solved by masculine brawn. The problem of the city, the problem of the nation, the social and organic questions that crowd and press upon the heart of the age for solution will never be really solved until into their solution is mingled the heart and loving sympathy of Christian womanhood.

They talk about a woman's sphere As though it had a limit: There's not a place in earth or heaven. There's not a task to mankind given, There's not a blessing or a woe, There's not a whisper, yes or no. There's not a life, or death, or birth That has a feather's weight of worth Without a woman in it.

The difference between man and woman is a difference which makes them complementary parts of the perfect unit. God made man in his own image, the male and female. The person of God has combined these two elements unseparated. The mind of God is both male and female. In man we have the strength that lifts and fugs and fights the elements. This is the aspect turned toward matter. In woman we have the finer qualities of the spirit, the aspect of the divine turned toward the source of spirit in God.

OUR FATHER, MOTHER, GOD.

The idea of a male deity is an erro neous one in theology. The conception which limits the nature of God to the male faculties is incomplete. God is both male and female. I have often wondered why Jesus was a man. It scems to me that God revealed himself as man in Christ, because the method of his revelation expressed the depth of human need. He stooped lower in assuming the form of man than he would in assuming the form of woman, thus coming nearer to those who are by their na ture further removed from things spirit ual and divine. In other words, the form of his revelation and incarnation was determined by the measure of ou nceds and capacities. Man and woman are the two comple men are no good."

ments of the divine image. If so, it folows: First-That their part in working out the destiny of the race is equally essential. It need not be discussed that the responsibility of the propagation of the race, therefore the possibility of a future life to the race, is equally dependent upon man and woman. If the possibility of the race's future be equally deendent upon man and woman, then their duties and rights and responsibilities in the race must be equal. Woman is essential to the full life of man personal. Old people who have lived together as man and wife for a long lifetime usually die about the same time. They have been mutually dependent upon each other for life. Man's life is incomplete without the mingling | tion. Men enter the marriage relation of this female life. So, upon the other

-Washington Cor. Richmond Times.

A Mistake Which Men Are Making. It will not be many years, in Miss Willard's opinion, before the eyes of men will be opened to see what a mistake they are making when they put a premium on the celibate condition among women. When, for instance, they say that no married woman shall hold a position in the public schools, as some small souled educational boards have done in certain cities that shall be nameless. It is the utmost unwisdom to bestow the ballot on single women and to withhold it from those who have given the costliest hostages to fortune. These unjust discriminations, combined with the love of liberty and largeness of life which is native to all human beings, will keep many of the largest natured women from sacrificing their influence and bread winning power on the marriage altar.

Men who decorate that altar with all that can command the holiest ambitions and the loftiest aspirations of the women who are their daughters and who have inherited from them the love of a forceful reaction on their environment-the wise men of the future-will place upon the brows of those most dear to them above the wreath of Venus, the helmet of Minerva. "Good men have already given us such large standing room in the great world so long their undivided inheritance that it will not be nearly as much more should they some day give us all we ask-that is, an undivided half of the round earth."-Chicago Post.

Billy Sexton, postmaster of Chicago, is one of the boys. Billy is always fond of a good story and has always a full store to tell. A great many newspaper men had gathered around him a short time back-all were interested in what Billy had to say in regard to the civil service examination.

"You have no idea," said the genial postmaster, "what foolish questions are asked of the applicants. I remember one case in which an applicant for a carrier's position gave the board of examiners a most appropriate answer. As you know, each person taking the examination has a printed list of questions. One of the questions the board had required an applicant for mail carrier in Chicago to answer was:

has fought them at every stage upon the flimsiest legal quibblings and technicalities. He has never dared to face a jury of his fellow citizens and clear his record by establishing his innocence. His legal quibblings were carried step by step up to the last court of appeals, and every court that heard the case sustained the indictment and forced him to trial. But not daring to meet a jury with his crooked record under the indictments, as a last resort the Tammany "pull" was invoked and a Tammany legislature passed a new law, which acted in the nature of an ex post facto edict.

Under this dirty subterfuge of a ser-vile legislature in behalf of a political pal in danger of the penitentiary one of these indictments has been quashed under a trick at law with this new trick statute. Never yet has this man dared to face a jury with his record. Now what were the decisions of the judges who successively heard and passed upon the indictment of Koch?

THE JUDGE'S SCATHING DECISION. Several complaints were lodged against itself. Joseph Koch and others for refusal to heart. enforce the excise laws they had sworn to execute. A writ of peremptory mandamus was issued by the supreme court from Judge Barrett on the full evidence of their guilt. The decision of Judge Barrett reads as follows: "The uncontradicted testimony shows that the commissioners have neglected their duty in not deciding this and other cases brought before them. They say they have not taken unreasonable time to decide the cases, but the facts show that in this instance, upon the simplest and briefest testimony, they have taken over forty days. That was plain negligence, and it was subversive of the law in that the dealer's license had nearly expired. The fact of negligence plainly appears and the writ should therefore issue, with costs."

further says: "And it apported Barrett commissioners afores 25 tharing that the commissioners afores? ind have unreasonably and designed, in failed and intenionally omitted to decide the said com-plaint and the questions arising there-upon, although repeatedly requested to decided about repeated to decided the same, and that they are now ure ireasonably and designedly failing and omitting to decide the same, in violation of law, now it is ordered that a per-emptory writ of mandamus issue." The general term of the supreme court sustained this decision, and the decision of Judge Van Brunt, the presiding justice, is equally emphatic and clear. They then carried it up to the court of appeals, where these decisions were all sustained again, with costs against the defendants. They were indicted by the grand jury for failure to perform their duties as sworn officers, and on the pleadings the judge ordered a verdict of guilty. Judgment was suspended during an appeal. The appeal was not sustained and as the penitentiary finally loomed up in near prospect, a Tammany legislature came to the rescue with a villainous statutory trick creating a technicality, under which Judge Ingraham, with expressed disgust, felt compelled to quash one of the indictments. The other two are still pending.

Is the truth libel? The law says not. How a man who has been devoting his time during the past two years to sneaking out of court under contemptible legal quibblings, never once daring to face a jury on the infamous charge of having "willingly and designedly" violated the law he had sworn to enforcehow such a man can have the unutterable gall, the matchless impudence, in the face of this record, to try to throttle the pulpit that arraigns a corrupt city gov-ernment for its responsibility is a sublime mystery.
