

Prize Works, Poetical Works, School Books, Juvenile Books, Toy Books, Gift Books, Bibles and Booklets.

PRICE THEM

H. BINNS,

OPPOSITE HOTEL.

Business Directory.

SABBATH SERVICES. SERVICES are held every Sabbath at 10:30 o'clock a. m. at the Church on the square...

BEST BUILDING BRICK. Improved Brick and Tiling Kiln. Having recently erected an improved brick and tiling kiln...

WE TEACH TELEGRAPHY. PRACTICALLY INSTRUCTIONAL METHOD. Our students learn to send and receive messages...

LEAVE BUCHANAN. For Ferris Station, 10:40 A. M. For Ferris Station, 11:10 A. M. For Ferris Station, 11:40 A. M.

VANDALIA LINE TIME TABLE. In effect June 12, 1893. Trains leave Galien, Mich., as follows:

FOR THE SOUTH. For Ferris Station, 11:10 A. M. For Ferris Station, 11:40 A. M. For Ferris Station, 12:10 P. M.

CLEVELAND, CINCINNATI, CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS RAILWAY. THE POPULAR ROUTE BETWEEN THE MICHIGAN CITIES AND ALL SOUTHERN PORTS.

CONDENSED SCHEDULE OF TRAINS. Effective May 25, 1893.

FREE CONSULTATION! DR. A. B. SPINNEY. OF DETROIT. Will be at the Galien Hotel, Friday, February 9th.

PATENTS. THOMAS S. SPRAGUE & SON. Attorneys and Solicitors of Patents.

AN INVALID OR AN INFANT. Can eat Crackers and milk with beneficial results.

JACKSON SUPERIOR CRACKERS. ARE SURE TO INCREASE THEIR TRADE.

U. S. BAKING CO., JACKSON, MICH. FILLMORE COTTRELL, MANAGER.

ROSE & ELLSWORTH'S.

CLOAK DEPARTMENT.

We have too many Cloaks and Wraps and have decided to clear the stock if prices will do it.

JACKETS of fine black imported cloth.

JACKETS made in double-breasted reffer style.

JACKETS 36-inch length, imported beaver, full skirts.

JACKETS with full circular skirt, with high storm collar.

Plush, Velvet and Cloth Wraps and Capes.

WE HAVE A SMALL LOT OF LATEST YEAR'S GARMENTS.

ROSE & ELLSWORTH'S. South Bend, Ind.

YES YOU WANT A FARM IN THE WEST.

WE, the new paper issued by the CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R. R. CALLED THE WESTERN SETTLER.

CULVER & MONRO, Buchanan, Mich.

LUMBER!

Ceiling, flooring, base, carving, moulding, cornice, head and base blocks, doors, white pine sash, drop and level sliding, etc.

SULPHUR BITTERS.

Ladies!—The Secret Of a Fair Face Is a Beautiful Skin.

Sulphur Bitters Will give you A lovely Complexion.

FREE CONSULTATION! DR. A. B. SPINNEY. OF DETROIT.

LANE'S MEDICINE.

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 a package. It is the best medicine for the cure of all the diseases mentioned.

SHILOH'S CURE.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER. SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY.

THE METROPOLITAN Accident Association.

ROYAL INSURANCE BUILDING, CHICAGO. IF YOU HAVE A MONEY VALUE YOU SHOULD PROTECT IT.

Indemnity $100 per Month. Death Benefit $5000.

Life Pension for loss of Limbs. VAN METER, agt., Buchanan.

HAVE YOU SEEN The Knee Pant Suits.

G. W. NOBLE.

Bought in New York, for $3, $2.50, $3 and $4. They are just the thing for your boys.

Nobby Youths' Suits.

Stylish Suits for the Head of the House.

Neat and Tasty Neckwear.

STYLISH HATS.

FINE FOOT WEAR.

For Ladies Misses and Children. The best line of S2 Shoes in Berrien County.

LOOK AT US BEFORE YOU BUY.

H. ABIEL HATHAWAY, Salesman.

CURE SICK HEAD.

Headache, yet Carter's Little Liver Pills are equally valuable in Constipation, curing and relieving the most distressing complaint.

ACHE.

In the face of so many lives that have here and there been saved by Carter's Little Liver Pills.

ADIRONDA TRADE MARK.

Wheeler's Heart Cure AND Nerve.

Prevents every Heart Disease, Nervous Prostration, Sleeplessness, and all derangements of the Nervous System.

AT BEDTIME I TAKE PLEASANT SLEEPERS DRINK.

LANE'S MEDICINE.

All druggists sell it at 50c. and $1.00 a package. It is the best medicine for the cure of all the diseases mentioned.

SHILOH'S CURE.

SHILOH'S VITALIZER. SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY.

THE METROPOLITAN Accident Association.

ROYAL INSURANCE BUILDING, CHICAGO. IF YOU HAVE A MONEY VALUE YOU SHOULD PROTECT IT.

Indemnity $100 per Month. Death Benefit $5000.

Life Pension for loss of Limbs. VAN METER, agt., Buchanan.

A RAILROAD JOURNEY.

I set before this magic window, and the world runs past. Revolving like a wheel, whose axis runs through the center of my eye.

And these the scenes that reel by endlessly: Green glistening seas of corn upposing features of brown spume.

And yellow shores with beaches of ripe wheat. And hills whose feigning madness, farmers drive along.

And shafts in heaps of rick, unsterile gold; Unceasing meadows leveled unto oceanic grass.

And sprinkled with faint tinkling herds that graze. And wild hotted colts that tee us, half for fear and half for fun.

Hills dotted with snowdrifts or hooded sheep. Thick shadows forests haunted by little Dryad and things of flowers.

And things of the town, that shoot with us. But hear the sizzle: roar that shoots with us.

Comes gayly sauntering its winding path. Which leads from wide skirted hills through diaphanous clouds of the town.

And on into the evening haze. Sometimes our tempo foisted runner shrieks.

And halts to rest him at the village. Where cluster awkward loots all ragged, all stare and blatant.

Yet owing souls more marvelous than stars. Then straightway on again, with panting breath and shouting.

To race the rivaling wind across the plain. Too soon the journey ends. The city swallows.

But God he preads a few glad hours. Granting us a brief reprieve of skies and seas, towers, farms and fields.

A world more wide than ancient lifetimes knew. —Report Hughes in New York Sun.

Finnish Slave Travels.

A regular slave mart still exists in many country districts of Finland. Once a year such paupers, aged people and lunatics as cannot support themselves are put up at public auction.

A Curious Advertisement.

An old London paper contains the following curious advertisement: "Wanted, a man between 20 and 30 years of age."

The Bird That Told.

Some one reported to Willie's mother that that 4-year old gentleman had been overheard using some very strong language.

Changes wrought by Time.

It is very hard for the man who comes home late at night to realize that the penetrating and petulant voice which he hears at the head of the stairs is the speech of that gentle damsel who a year ago would have climbed on a chair to escape a mouse.

He Sold and Left.

A lawyer had a horse that always stopped and refused to cross a certain bridge leading out of the city.

BABY'S THROBING HEAD.

The doctor, to his credit, did not laugh at the Mother's Fears. There was a commotion in a household on Fourth avenue the other day.

The Walker cottage, a free hospital in Sydney, which cost $800,000, has been completed in three years.

Among the ancient Saxons November was known as wind month, or blood month, because they then slaughtered cattle for winter food.

If some people thought twice before speaking once, they would forget what they were going to say.

It is estimated that 6,000,000 of women are earning wages in the British Isles.

Maurice Barr is a poultry fancier. So are several of his neighbors. They were having more success than Maurice, especially those with the same strain of blood.

Maurice could not account for the double fact that he was getting no eggs and his neighbors were busy with a couple of incubators on any other hypothesis than that a neighbor was collecting Maurice's chickens.

Maurice had a fine dog, but this was being killed chickens and eating eggs. He could not afford to keep a dog.

Goats are a grand invention, and Maurice concluded to profit by the discovery. So he bought a flock of four goats from a neighbor and turned them into his barnyard.

One evening Maurice was attracted to the barnyard by the cries of his aged mother-in-law, whose rheuma-

It is so bad she has great difficulty in walking.

He rushed to her aid and found her safely perched on a stump nearly four feet high with a bilgey on each side of her and her apron full of eggs.

The poor old woman never had an appetite to eat when the others did, and the cause became apparent. She admitted that she was the robber all along of the hen fruit.—Indianapolis Sentinel.

A Pacific Ocean Basin.

Submarine soundings, which have recently been made with extraordinary care and precision, rendered practicable by means of superior instruments in hands most experienced and expert, show the existence in the Pacific of a trough or basin of extraordinary depth and extent along the east coast of Japan and the Kurile Islands.

Under the name of the Kuril Sea or Japan or black stream, the basin exceeding any similar depression yet found in any other region of the great ocean.

In a run of 30 miles after leaving the coast of Japan, the surveying officers for the proposed transpacific cable found that the waters deepened more than 1,800 fathoms, and upon the next cast of the lead the wire broke after some 4,643 fathoms had been run out without bottom having been reached.

The depth of the deepest cast, which was 52 miles, being the deepest water yet found, is reckoned as sufficient to hold two mountains as high as Japan's great Fujiyama, one on top of the other, and then the summit of the highest would be nearly two-thirds of a mile under water.—New York Sun.

Arsenic Eaters.

The majority of the fashionable beauties of Sydney, according to an English observer, have peculiarly delicate complexions, languid expressions, fragile physiques and a die away look in the eyes, which are more suited to the enraptured temperament of an old civilization than the active vitality of a new world.

It was easy even for a novice to detect that these ladies owed a good deal to their perquisite. The mystery of this curious combination of premature baldness and unusual delicacy of complexion was explained by the fact that these women ate arsenic in order to produce an aristocratic pallor and languor and found to their horror that another effect of the drug was to make their hair drop out.

Valuing their complexions above their hair, however, they sacrificed the one to the other. What a woman will endure for her complexion may be estimated by this, and also by the fact that these arsenic eaters rarely live past 45.—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Curious Taste For Noise.

What would Ruskin say of a highly cultivated gentleman who refused to sell his handsome home and residence in a quiet suburb and purchased another near the heart of the city and within a stone's throw of the Reading railroad?

He declares that he made the change to be near a railroad, the various noises of such a neighborhood being not only negatively agreeable, but positively inspiring. They are associated with the days of his boyhood, and he loves to be awakened in the morning with the rattle of the early trains.

"Oh, Ruskin," said he, "though a great literary artist, is a childish crank on the subject of railroads. No truly aesthetic feeling is destroyed by them."—Philadelphia Record.

Poisonous Saliva.

The saliva of dogs and cats is especially rich in bacteria, that of the latter containing a form which is seldom observed and so fatal that rabbits and guinea pigs inoculated with it die in 24 hours.

The dog's saliva contains a bacteria which occasionally gives rise to intestinal worms and so on. Those fond and loving women who are prone to waste their caresses upon lapdogs will be interested in this item.—Pharmaceutical Era.

A Good Reason.

"I don't see why you employ Dr. Hugo as your physician. He's the most ill-tempered, quarrelsome fellow I've ever met."

"I quite agree with you; but, you see, I have often been told that my throat trouble would disappear if I only could get my larynx cauterized."

A COLONIAL THANKSGIVING.

Among the papers of the late estate of Senator Guy C. Stoddard of the town of Leyard was found an old newspaper clipping containing a quaint account of an old colonial Thanksgiving church service and dinner.

NORTH CAROLINA CHEROKEES.

A Mountain Band of Indians Who Still Wear Beavers and Arrows.

One of the most interesting places in North Carolina and yet one of the least known, even by the people of the old North State, is the reservation of what is termed the "eastern band" of the Cherokee Nation.

The history of the reservation is a strange one. When the Indians in North Carolina were removed by the government to the Indian Territory, by far the greater part of the Cherokees left their old home forever.

A strong band retained land in three of the western counties in what was then almost a wilderness. A great tract of land was set apart as a reservation by the state, and voluminous laws governing these Cherokee lands were enacted.

Originally the tract of land held by the Cherokees was far larger than at present. It now comprises 73,000 acres, and some of it is the very best land in western North Carolina.

It is mainly in Swain and Jackson counties, right among the mountains, and the entire country east of the Mississippi does not contain a more picturesque beautiful region or one better suited to Indian taste and requirements, with its cold, clear streams full of fish, its mountains well wooded and abounding in game and its comparative remoteness from the beaten track of white people.

The wolf is yet a rover in this section, and there is a county bounty for his scalp, not only in the counties above named, but in several others. The bear is more abundant than anywhere else save in the great swamps near the coast of the state.

Deer are also abundant, and the pleasant, or partridge, is found, though long since gone from other parts of the state.

The eastern band of Cherokees are an interesting race of people. The Western North Carolina railway passes within 10 miles of their reservation, Bryson City being the nearest railway station.

The chief Cherokee town is known in English as Yellow Hill. It is a rambling place through which rushes a bold mountain stream, the Oconia Luff, the Indian houses are all alike in design. They are built of logs, well fitted, with a porch on one side. They are built to stand the cold, which is great there sometimes. So high is the altitude and so circled by mountains is the reservation that there is no hot weather.

The Indians are mainly engaged in farming, but do not do an extensive business in this direction, though they raise plenty of food for the present number of the eastern band is about 1,600, and it is certain that they are increasing.

Highest of all in Leavening Power.—Latest U. S. Gov't Report.

"I don't see why you intend to shoot with it."

"I wasn't intending to shoot no one." "Then was it for nothing that you got it?" "No, it wasn't."

"Come, come, sir, on the virtue of your solemn oath, what did you get that pistol for?" "On the virtue of my solemn oath, I got it for three and ninepence in Mr. Richardson's shop."

"At another time the same counsel said to a witness, 'You're a nice fellow, ain't you?'" "Witness replied, 'I am, sir, and if I was not on my oath I'd say the same of you.'"

Judge Burton, who was a very old and wizened little man, was trying a case, when another very old man, a peer at scarcely able to walk, came into court to give evidence.

Instead of going to the witness box he went toward the passage leading to the bench. One of the counsel called out to him: "Come back, sir. Where are you going? Do you think you are a judge?"

"Indeed, sir," said the old man, looking up at Judge Burton, "indeed, sir, I believe I am fit for little else."—"Seventy Years of Irish Life."

"Science" in Everything.

There is much confusion in the popular mind as to the application of such terms as science, scientific, scientifically. A young gentleman from the university lately assured me that cricket is played more scientifically than formerly, and that the present premium of 5 per cent in favor of scientific whist as compared with ordinary good play.

A writer in a recent number of a chess magazine refers to the royal game as "a science, and an exact science." In a match the champion was said to have brought so much science to bear upon this play as to make 31 drawn games before one won game was scored.

In the palmy days of the prize ring, "The Pet of the Faucy" was said to display more science than "Ben, the Bruiser."

In my younger days I visited Rosheville gardens, where a man dressed in Lincoln green offered me bow and arrows and invited me to shoot at a mark, observing that "Archery is a pleasing science."—"Notes and Queries."

Flying Powers of the Swallow.

Not only do swallows capture all their insect food while on the wing, they also invariably drink while flying, and they even feed their young on the wing, especially the house martin, although it is very difficult to observe them performing the feat, so quickly is it done.

As the young birds arrive at full growth they soon become impatient of confinement and sit all day with their heads out of the entrance to the nest, where the dams, by clinging to the nest, supply them with food from morn to night, and it is during this time that the young are fed on the wing by the parents. Then again, the house swallow will wash itself by dropping into the water at flies.

SOCK AND BUSKIN.

The expression "sock and buskin," which literally means comedy and tragedy, found its origin in the "soccus," the Latin name for the low shoe worn by the ancient comic actors, and the buskin, a contraction of the French word "brossquin," a remotedly derived from the Greek "bursa," a hide or high soled shoe worn by the ancient tragedians to increase their height.

A COLONIAL THANKSGIVING.

Among the papers of the late estate of Senator Guy C. Stoddard of the town of Leyard was found an old newspaper clipping containing a quaint account of an old colonial Thanksgiving church service and dinner.

NORTH CAROLINA CHEROkees.

A Mountain Band of Indians Who Still Wear Beavers and Arrows.

One of the most interesting places in North Carolina and yet one of the least known, even by the people of the old North State, is the reservation of what is termed the "eastern band" of the Cherokee Nation.

The history of the reservation is a strange one. When the Indians in North Carolina were removed by the government to the Indian Territory, by far the greater part of the Cherokees left their old home forever.

A strong band retained land in three of the western counties in what was then almost a wilderness. A great tract of land was set apart as a reservation by the state, and voluminous laws governing these Cherokee lands were enacted.

Originally the tract of land held by the Cherokees was far larger than at present. It now comprises 73,000 acres, and some of it is the very best land in western North Carolina.

It is mainly in Swain and Jackson counties, right among the mountains, and the entire country east of the Mississippi does not contain a more picturesque beautiful region or one better suited to Indian taste and requirements, with its cold, clear streams full of fish, its mountains well wooded and abounding in game and its comparative remoteness from the beaten track of white people.

The wolf is yet a rover in this section, and there is a county bounty for his scalp, not only in the counties above named, but in several others. The bear is more abundant than anywhere else save in the great swamps near the coast of the state.

Deer are also abundant, and the pleasant, or partridge, is found, though long since gone from other parts of the state.

The eastern band of Cherokees are an interesting race of people. The Western North Carolina railway passes within 10 miles of their reservation, Bryson City being the nearest railway station.

The chief Cherokee town is known in English as Yellow Hill. It is a rambling place through which rushes a bold mountain stream, the Oconia Luff, the Indian houses are all alike in design. They are built of logs, well fitted, with a porch on one side. They are built to stand the cold, which is great there sometimes. So high is the altitude and so circled by mountains is the reservation that there is no hot weather.

The Indians are mainly engaged in farming, but do not do an extensive business in this direction, though they raise plenty of food for the present number of the eastern band is about 1,600, and it is certain that they are increasing.

The Cherokee vote and are on the same footing as other citizens of the state. During the late war their chief was a strong believer in the Confederate states and a fine battalion or legion was raised. This was commanded by Colonel Thomas, who was later killed in an insane asylum, and it did effective service, being known as the "Thomas legion."

Earliest efforts are being made to educate these Indians. Those educated are very intelligent, speak English well and are fond of white people and do them favors. Many of the Cherokees, however, do not speak English at all and are as wild in appearance as any Indians in the far west.

Trout are generally accredited with being fish of a most fastidious diet.

scorning any sort of food save such delicate morsels as appear to tickle their palates for the time. In the common belief they are epicures of the very first water. It is no doubt that the richer and more plentiful the food supply the less ready are trout to feed on any lure artificially presented, and the closer we imitate their natural food at the time the greater is our success in attempting to make the trout take.

The Czar's Adventure With a Bear.

Although no particular friend of sport, Alexander decided to follow up the traces of two bears which had been discovered near the village of Tokrovo. He was accompanied by a numerous suite. It so happened that one of the bears sent him spinning on the ground, without, however, doing him an injury, and the animal fell dead, being killed by one of his followers about 100 yards off. Alexander is reported to have said, "The best sport I have had in my life is the hunt for a bear."

A Flower Green Eyed Monster.

Daves was in the summer house with Hawes. Their beloved wives were behind a bush and were horrified to hear the following conversation.

In my younger days I visited Rosheville gardens, where a man dressed in Lincoln green offered me bow and arrows and invited me to shoot at a mark, observing that "Archery is a pleasing science."—"Notes and Queries."

Flying Powers of the Swallow.

Not only do swallows capture all their insect food while on the wing, they also invariably drink while flying, and they even feed their young on the wing, especially the house martin, although it is very difficult to observe them performing the feat, so quickly is it done.

As the young birds arrive at full growth they soon become impatient of confinement and sit all day with their heads out of the entrance to the nest, where the dams, by clinging to the nest, supply them with food from morn to night, and it is during this time that the young are fed on the wing by the parents. Then again, the house swallow will wash itself by dropping into the water at flies.

SOCK AND BUSKIN.

The expression "sock and buskin," which literally means comedy and tragedy, found its origin in the "soccus," the Latin name for the low shoe worn by the ancient comic actors, and the buskin, a contraction of the French word "brossquin," a remotedly derived from the Greek "bursa

Entered at the Postoffice at Buchanan, Mich., as second-class matter.

W. TRENBETH, Merchant Tailor,

CARRIES THE LARGEST STOCK OF
CLOTHS,
SUITINGS,
Pants Goods,

to be found in Berrien county, at the lowest living prices for good work.

An Inspection is Solicited.

Front Street, Foot of Day's Avenue,
BUCHANAN, MICH.

Buchanan Markets.

Hay—$6 @ $10 per ton.
Lard—12 1/2 c.
Salt, retail—$1.00
Flour—$2.60 @ $4.00 per bbl., retail.
Honey—14 c.
Live poultry—7 @ 8 c.
Butter—18 c.
Eggs—20 c.
Wheat—55 c.
Oats—27 c.
Corn, 35 c.
Beans—$2.00.
Live Hogs—5 1/2 c.

This is our combination for 1894 reading matter:
Record.....$1.50
Weekly Inter Ocean.....1.00
Detroit Tribune.....1.00
New York Tribune.....1.00
Cosmopolitan.....1.50
Total to any subscriber who has his subscription account paid up in full, $3.50.

WHOOPING COUGH at Hagar.

JOHN PAGE has gone to Lima, Ohio, to visit friends.

This is the last RECORD you will get this year.

35 CTS. will secure a reserved seat for the T. B. Alexander Co., at Lough's.

FOUND, a plush robe. Call on Will Andrews.

The statement of the First National Bank appears in this paper.

FRED SHIRAY, of Michigan City, was in Buchanan on Christmas.

A NILES man drew a horse in a Niles lottery, Christmas. It was Wm. Bunbury's lottery.

SPECIAL SERVICE will be used by the famous T. B. Alexander Co at Lough's Opera House.

REGULAR REVIEW Cutler Tent No. 21, K. O. T. M., Monday, Jan. 1. Every Sr. Kt. is urged to be present. R. K.

A BRAND new son is probably the cause of the broad smile Arthur Roe wears since Christmas.

MRS. W. I. BLOWERS and daughter Belle, of Kalamazoo, are spending the week in Buchanan.

DR. SWASEY has been making extensive improvements on his property, in the north part of town, this week.

A SON was born to Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Bartmess, of San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 22.

CLINT BLISS, employed in the Norton Bros' tin plant, at Maywood, Illinois, came to Buchanan for Christmas.

MISS EMMA ROCHSTER, of Dayton, received an elegant new Lyon & Healy organ for a Christmas present.

THE Niles Recorder is going to adopt the cash in advance plan of doing business with its subscribers.

MISS LINNIA DUTTON is home from Michigan City spending the holidays with her parents and friends.

CERRY DUTTON came Saturday, from the South Bend business college, to spend the holidays.

WILL SWANGER, of Marion, Ind., paid his Buchanan friends a visit this week.

FRED SCOTT, of Benton Harbor, stepped on a rusty nail and ran it into his foot.

FRED EATON, of Jackson, spent Christmas with his parents in this place.

MR. AND MRS. ARBOGAST, of Chicago, are visiting Mrs. Arbogast's brother, B. S. Crawford of this place.

E. L. HARPER and children, Jessie and Arthur, of Cassopolis, spent Christmas in Buchanan with B. D. Harper and daughter.

MRS. MATTIE STRAW went to Argos, Ind., Saturday to spend her vacation with Miss Maud Welch.

MISS EMMA GROVER, Mrs. Irving and Mrs. Fast, teachers in our schools, are spending their vacation in Chicago.

ELD. FRANK MUTHLER is at home from Hiram College, Ohio, and preached in the Christian church last Tuesday evening.

THE lamps for the street lights are in place, but do not give very brilliant lights yet. The wire is yet delayed, and until it arrives there can be no work done.

MISS GERTRUDE HOWE visited South Bend relatives last week.

MR. MAX BARTMESS, of Wabash, Ind., was on a visit to his parents this Christmas.

MISS EDITH BEARDSLEY and mother spent Christmas with friends in La-Porte, Ind.

MRS. GEORGE SICKAFOOSE has been very sick at South Whitley, Ind. She was better at time of last report.

NICE April weather with the thermometer at thirty and roads muddy, is what we had for Christmas.

HENRY HESS, of Three Oaks, has contracted with the Michigan Central for three thousand cords of wood.

FASHIONS change suddenly in some localities. The latest in Berrien Springs is said to be outways in night-gowns.

MISS ELSIE KINGERY is spending her vacation at Berrien Centre with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. N. Nims.

MARRIED, Dec. 25, 1893, at the home of the bride's parents in this village, by Elder W. P. Birdsall, Mr. Harry H. Smith and Miss Minnie Covell.

MR. AND MRS. E. AUBEL, of Middleville, Mich., spent Christmas with Rev. and Mrs. Geo. Johnson. They returned home today.

ROBERT RICKABY went from Benton Harbor to Hartford and started a drug store. He is now under arrest for violating the local option law.

ROUGH'S opera house, Dec. 28, 29 and 30. Prices, 15, 25 and 35 cents. No higher. Don't miss this excellent company.

MR. JOHN GROVES, of Kalamazoo, was here a few days this week visiting his mother, Mrs. Post, and his brother, C. W. Groves.

DON'T miss the T. B. Alexander Co., Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, and Saturday's matinee, at the opera house. Prices, 15, 25 and 35 cents.

J. L. RICHARDS is carrying his neck in a sling. The cause of the trouble was a fall upon the icy sidewalk at Inhoff's corner, Monday.

Church Notices.
ELDER J. F. BARTMESS held quarterly meeting here last Sabbath, completing his first round of quarters. He reports prosperity on the various charges of the district. Will hold quarterly meeting next Saturday and Sunday at Tyner, Ind., on the Walker-ton circuit.

A VERY pleasant event occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brocus of Niles township, on the evening of the 20th inst. It was the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Lillian M. Brocus, and Mr. Wm. J. Hunter. Rev. Geo. Johnson tied the nuptial knot in the presence of the near relatives of both parties. The presents were many and valuable.

THE Featherbone Corset Co., which moved from Three Oaks to Kalamazoo is one of the solid institutions of the latter city. At the annual stockholders' meeting, held a few days ago, the report of J. H. Hatfield, the president and manager, showed a large increase in the business. A ten per cent dividend was declared and $4,400 added to the surplus fund.

LAST of letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Buchanan, Mich., for the week ending Dec. 25, 1893: Mr. Frank Cram, David Stroub, Miss Ida Fleisher, Miss H. B. Laevins-2, Mrs. Nettie L. Potter, Mrs. N. F. Miller, Mrs. N. Miller.

Call for letters advertised.
JOHN GRAHAM, P. M.

R. L. POLK & CO., who published a directory of this county two years ago, have representatives collecting material for a new edition to be issued early in 1894. This firm confines itself exclusively to the directory business, and are prepared to do that work to perfection.

MRS. G. BLOWERS, of Kalamazoo, Mr. and Mrs. Rob Blake and Miss Mary Blake of Chicago, and a few of our highly esteemed maiden ladies of Buchanan were pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Kingery on Christmas night by members of the W. B. C. Refreshments were served and a pleasant time was enjoyed by all.

THE body of the man who was found in the St. Joe river, above South Bend, proves to be that of A. D. Dunbar, the son of a well-known South Bend resident.—Star.

ELDER J. F. BARTMESS held quarterly meeting here last Sabbath, completing his first round of quarters. He reports prosperity on the various charges of the district. Will hold quarterly meeting next Saturday and Sunday at Tyner, Ind., on the Walker-ton circuit.

LITERATURE and Observation Work.
The Youth's (Student's) Cyclopaedia has been commended by the leading educators as the most valuable educational aid that has ever been offered to the pupils in the grammar and high schools. Prof. A. F. Ames says, "that to teachers who are doing observation work and those who are reading works of literature with their classes, will find this an especially handy and complete reference book." See Prof. Swain's endorsement on page 2, with Prof. Schiller's commendation.

WHILE filling the oil tank of H. B. J. Abernethy, yesterday, Dan Whalen, the Standard oil man, stepped on a nail, it going through his shoe and penetrating the right foot to the bone.—Niles Star.

Modern Teaching.
One of the features of modern teaching is the promotion of thought and investigation in the mind of the pupil. The student who forms the habit of seeking answers to his queries in proper reference books, secures not only the basis of a broad and liberal education, but acquires a habit of thoroughness which will prove a large factor in his future success. To provide this, many parents have bought one of the large Cyclopaedias to find it too cumbersome and beyond the understanding of the young, because it was written only for mature and educated minds.

A WATERLIET man (?) filled his wife's bureau drawers full of burnt wood and ashes, then shut them up. He was going to even up with her for burning a few extra sticks of wood in her private room.—Cor. St. Jo. Herald.

The Great Clearing Sale

Of all goods, both Summer and Winter.

An endless variety of

CLOAKS

AT HALF THEIR VALUE.

$ 6.00 Cloaks for - $3.00 | $15.00 Cloaks for $10.00
8.00 " " " 4.00 | 20.00 " " " 14.00
10.00 " " " 5.00 | 25.00 " " " 18.00
$30.00 Cloaks for $20.00.

Bill McKinley is the Cause of All This.

Lawrence L L Unbleached, at 5c
Pepperell R " " 6 1/2 c
Lonsdale, bleached, " " 8 1/2 c

C. H. BAKER, OF THE CASH STORE.

A RESIDENT of Portage street evidently thought spring was here last Saturday, as he was seen spading his garden.

THE ladies of the Presbyterian church cleared over $80 at their annual Fair, and wish to thank the friends who so liberally contributed and generously patronized them.

A SPECIAL meeting of Sylvia Chapter No. 74, O. E. S. will be held in Masonic hall, Wednesday evening, Jan. 3, 1894, for initiation.

MRS. M. M. KNIGHT, W. M. Mrs. A. F. STRYKER, Sec.

THE Buchanan delegates in the State University, including Winifred Higbee, Frank Whitman, Martin Steele, Herbert Roe, Dwight Baker and Ira Long are at home for the holiday vacation.

OUR offer of the RECORD and Inter Ocean for $1.75 includes the privilege to secure the World's Fair portfolios, which is worth all we ask for both papers. This portfolio offer lasts but a short time.

A number of diamond rings were distributed among the young ladies in this place, for Christmas. A partial list will appear later among the marriage licenses, so we will not attempt to give it now.

THE Palladium copies the Recorder's article on county seat removal, and asks its readers to apply it to Benton Harbor. Our remark on the subject will also apply as well to Benton Harbor as Niles.

MR. ROBERT BLAKE and family spent Christmas in Buchanan. Mr. Blake is employed in the tin factory in Maywood, Illinois, making American tin plate from American made sheets.

MORE VICTIMS.—About three months since a woman canvassed this place for photographs to enlarge. She took the photograph and fifty cents the first time she came around. Said she lived in Niles and gave every evidence of good faith, excepting the collection of money in advance. A number of people here are mourning the loss of much-prized photographs and their change. It is less than two years since the same game was played here, but it appears to have been forgotten.

A NUMBER of people in this place, who are out of work, are making business of what has heretofore been counted pure sport. A good, well-trained ferret is made to keep several families in meat from the crop of rabbits.

MARY E. NOBLE has secured a judgment against the St. Joseph and Benton Harbor electric railroad company for $6,500. She had her leg broken while attempting to get off from one of the company's cars while in motion.

DEPOT poor commissioner is in trouble, because people who are living off the city give money to the church. Buchanan township poor commissioner has no complaints of that kind, but he has no trouble to find people who can find plenty of money to buy tobacco and opium, but have to depend upon the public for food and fuel.

TWO horses were sold in Elkhart, last week, one for $1.60 and the other for $3.00, the price including the harness. John A. Hartman, of South Bend, is reported as having sold a good horse at auction for 30 cents. This is encouraging for those who have a kingdom to trade for horses.

JAMES McDONALD, recently offered five lots on "the flats" for a county seat site. Ole Olson, of St. Joseph, goes him two better and says he will give him seven lots on Niles avenue for a site.—St. Jo. Press.

They may as well not worry over their liberal donations. The county is not going to need them.

A chairmaker from Dowagiac came to this place Saturday with a wagon-load of his chairs to peddle about town, and was charged $2 license. This made him mad, and he kept up a public display of his mad all day. The wonder was that he succeeded in getting rid of his load.

ACCORDING to the Recorder Niles is going to offer to give $65,000 and a site for the removal of the county seat to that place. Considering the fact that Niles can't bond herself nor make a contract for electric lighting or anything else covering a sum equal to less than one-half that amount, this proposition looks a little queer. If the Recorder will keep mum about it, we will let it into a secret. The county seat is not going to be moved until after 1893. Honest Ingin!

FOLLOWING is the cost of $2,000 life insurance in the different fraternal life insurance organizations doing business in Buchanan, for 1893, at the average age of 27 years: Modern Woodmen, $8.00; Maccabees, $15.00; A. O. U. W., $17.00. This shows a saving in the Modern Woodmen of $5.10 over any other order in this place. The members of Buchanan camp have good reasons for being proud of their success during the past year, having added 70 new members during that time, giving them a total present membership of over 100, and are adding new ones at every meeting. This order now ranks third in size in the United States and their record shows them to be much cheaper than any other.

DIED, Dec. 13, 1893, at 11 o'clock, Lunette J. Rugg, of la grippe, after only a few days' illness, aged 31 years, 3 months and 26 days. She went quietly to sleep, as it was her request to be left alone unmolested for a little while, and soon expired peacefully. She was sick a number of years, suffered peacefully and patiently, and was a Christian to the last.

Dear sister, thou art gone to rest; From every sorrow free; Since thou art gone among the blest, Why should we mourn for thee? Thy smiling lips, now pale and cold, Have ceased to move—thy tale is told; Thy crimson lips by death is chilled; Thy cheerful voice is ever stilled.

We do thank the kind neighbors and friends for what they did for us in our time of sorrow.

MRS. HENRY GILBERT.

The Promotion of Thought.

Formerly teaching was by rote, but modern teaching pursues a wiser method. The progressive teacher now endeavors to promote thought in the mind of the pupil. It is not the aim of the wide-awake teacher to fill the mind of the young with mere technical studies. While the mastery of technique is good enough in itself as a matter of mental discipline, yet any thoughtful, well-informed teacher will tell you that it is not sufficient; that a good reference book adapted to the understanding of the young will lead up to the higher knowledge and make the progress of the student easy and rapid. Such a work is the Youth's Cyclopaedia, which has greatly aided the teachers in public schools, academies and seminaries, in raising the standard of scholarship. See Prof. Swain's and Prof. Schiller's endorsements on page 2.

GOLD DOLLARS

FOR 50 CENTS!

OR ON THAT BASIS, IN

TOYS, DOLLS

TOY DISHES, PLUSH GOODS,

And ten thousand other presents, which you will see by calling at Santa Claus' Headquarters. Come early, while the stock is complete. Our confectionery stock is full, with over one hundred different varieties Candy, at

MORRIS' THE FAIR, BUCHANAN, MICH.

Dealer in almost everything.

LITERATURE and Observation Work.

THE Youth's (Student's) Cyclopaedia has been commended by the leading educators as the most valuable educational aid that has ever been offered to the pupils in the grammar and high schools. Prof. A. F. Ames says, "that to teachers who are doing observation work and those who are reading works of literature with their classes, will find this an especially handy and complete reference book." See Prof. Swain's endorsement on page 2, with Prof. Schiller's commendation.

WHILE filling the oil tank of H. B. J. Abernethy, yesterday, Dan Whalen, the Standard oil man, stepped on a nail, it going through his shoe and penetrating the right foot to the bone.—Niles Star.

Modern Teaching.
One of the features of modern teaching is the promotion of thought and investigation in the mind of the pupil. The student who forms the habit of seeking answers to his queries in proper reference books, secures not only the basis of a broad and liberal education, but acquires a habit of thoroughness which will prove a large factor in his future success. To provide this, many parents have bought one of the large Cyclopaedias to find it too cumbersome and beyond the understanding of the young, because it was written only for mature and educated minds.

A WATERLIET man (?) filled his wife's bureau drawers full of burnt wood and ashes, then shut them up. He was going to even up with her for burning a few extra sticks of wood in her private room.—Cor. St. Jo. Herald.

ELDER J. F. BARTMESS held quarterly meeting here last Sabbath, completing his first round of quarters. He reports prosperity on the various charges of the district. Will hold quarterly meeting next Saturday and Sunday at Tyner, Ind., on the Walker-ton circuit.

LITERATURE and Observation Work.
The Youth's (Student's) Cyclopaedia has been commended by the leading educators as the most valuable educational aid that has ever been offered to the pupils in the grammar and high schools. Prof. A. F. Ames says, "that to teachers who are doing observation work and those who are reading works of literature with their classes, will find this an especially handy and complete reference book." See Prof. Swain's endorsement on page 2, with Prof. Schiller's commendation.

WHILE filling the oil tank of H. B. J. Abernethy, yesterday, Dan Whalen, the Standard oil man, stepped on a nail, it going through his shoe and penetrating the right foot to the bone.—Niles Star.

Modern Teaching.
One of the features of modern teaching is the promotion of thought and investigation in the mind of the pupil. The student who forms the habit of seeking answers to his queries in proper reference books, secures not only the basis of a broad and liberal education, but acquires a habit of thoroughness which will prove a large factor in his future success. To provide this, many parents have bought one of the large Cyclopaedias to find it too cumbersome and beyond the understanding of the young, because it was written only for mature and educated minds.

A WATERLIET man (?) filled his wife's bureau drawers full of burnt wood and ashes, then shut them up. He was going to even up with her for burning a few extra sticks of wood in her private room.—Cor. St. Jo. Herald.

ELDER J. F. BARTMESS held quarterly meeting here last Sabbath, completing his first round of quarters. He reports prosperity on the various charges of the district. Will hold quarterly meeting next Saturday and Sunday at Tyner, Ind., on the Walker-ton circuit.

LITERATURE and Observation Work.
The Youth's (Student's) Cyclopaedia has been commended by the leading educators as the most valuable educational aid that has ever been offered to the pupils in the grammar and high schools. Prof. A. F. Ames says, "that to teachers who are doing observation work and those who are reading works of literature with their classes, will find this an especially handy and complete reference book." See Prof. Swain's endorsement on page 2, with Prof. Schiller's commendation.

WHILE filling the oil tank of H. B. J. Abernethy, yesterday, Dan Whalen, the Standard oil man, stepped on a nail, it going through his shoe and penetrating the right foot to the bone.—Niles Star.

Modern Teaching.
One of the features of modern teaching is the promotion of thought and investigation in the mind of the pupil. The student who forms the habit of seeking answers to his queries in proper reference books, secures not only the basis of a broad and liberal education, but acquires a habit of thoroughness which will prove a large factor in his future success. To provide this, many parents have bought one of the large Cyclopaedias to find it too cumbersome and beyond the understanding of the young, because it was written only for mature and educated minds.

A WATERLIET man (?) filled his wife's bureau drawers full of burnt wood and ashes, then shut them up. He was going to even up with her for burning a few extra sticks of wood in her private room.—Cor. St. Jo. Herald.

ELDER J. F. BARTMESS held quarterly meeting here last Sabbath, completing his first round of quarters. He reports prosperity on the various charges of the district. Will hold quarterly meeting next Saturday and Sunday at Tyner, Ind., on the Walker-ton circuit.

LITERATURE and Observation Work.
The Youth's (Student's) Cyclopaedia has been commended by the leading educators as the most valuable educational aid that has ever been offered to the pupils in the grammar and high schools. Prof. A. F. Ames says, "that to teachers who are doing observation work and those who are reading works of literature with their classes, will find this an especially handy and complete reference book." See Prof. Swain's endorsement on page 2, with Prof. Schiller's commendation.

WHILE filling the oil tank of H. B. J. Abernethy, yesterday, Dan Whalen, the Standard oil man, stepped on a nail, it going through his shoe and penetrating the right foot to the bone.—Niles Star.

Modern Teaching.
One of the features of modern teaching is the promotion of thought and investigation in the mind of the pupil. The student who forms the habit of seeking answers to his queries in proper reference books, secures not only the basis of a broad and liberal education, but acquires a habit of thoroughness which will prove a large factor in his future success. To provide this, many parents have bought one of the large Cyclopaedias to find it too cumbersome and beyond the understanding of the young, because it was written only for mature and educated minds.

Oranges and grapes, at KENT'S NEW FALL GOODS. Mrs. BINNS' for cheap Millinery. Come and learn my prices on Wool Hose. Only 25c. H. B. DUNCAN.

THOS. LLOYD sells best Hart Coal for $7. Best Hocking Valley Soft Coal for $4 per ton. Try some of Van Meter's Bread at LAMB'S. Sample Carpets for Russ. Choice for 25c. H. B. DUNCAN.

FOR SALE.—A second-hand No. 9 Garland Cook Stove in good condition, for sale cheap. Inquire at this office. Best Fall and Winter Underwear will be found at H. B. DUNCAN'S.

I have a lot of glazed sash for sale at the price of the glass. Good for many purposes as new sash. They are six light, 10x16. J. G. HOLMES.

For the next 30 days I will close all Hats, trimmed or untrimmed, for cost to make room for new spring goods. Will close all untrimmed Felts for 50 cents and $1. MRS. E. REDDING.

A. B. CHASE PIANOS. I have the agency for the A. B. CHASE pianos in this vicinity, and want to see all who want to buy a first-class Piano. J. G. HOLMES.

If you have any idea of buying a farm I want to have a talk with you. I have a good one for sale. J. G. HOLMES.

DRESS MAKING.—MISS ELMIRA BUNKUS is prepared to do all kinds of work in this line, at her home, on Day's avenue, fourth house north of the M. C. depot. JOHN W. BEISTLE

Is the agent for White and New Home Sewing Machines, in Buchanan. Needs and Oil. Office with Henry Lough.

Don't forget that I still sell Pianos and Organs. If you contemplate buying either, see me before buying. J. G. HOLMES.

FOR SALE. House and lot on Oak street, second door south of old Furniture factory lot. Price, $900. JOHN RICE.

I will be at the First National Bank in Niles, Dec. 14, 21, 28 and Jan. 4; First National Bank in Buchanan, Dec. 12, 19, 26 and Jan. 2; Dayton, Dec. 11, 18, 27 and Jan. 3; at my home, one mile south of Dayton, Dec. 8, 15, 22, 29 and Jan. 5, for the collection of taxes for Bertrand township. CHAS. W. MATTHEWS.

THE regular meeting of the stock holders of the First National Bank of Buchanan, Buchanan, Mich., will be held at their office, January 9, 1894, at 10 o'clock a. m. E. W. SANDERS, Cashier.

TAX NOTICE. Tax payers of Buchanan township may pay their taxes at the First National Bank at any time during banking hours. OTIS A. HOWE, Treasurer.

The St. Joseph Valley Nursery Co., located at Niles, will sell the farmers and land holders of this vicinity, guaranteed Nursery Stock true to name at panic prices. The officers of this company are well-known in the county, and a guarantee at their hands means something. Mr. FRED YOUNG is now soliciting orders for spring delivery and will be glad of your patronage.

THE M. C. R. R. Co., will sell excursion tickets to all points on the Company's lines at one and one third fare for the round trip, on Dec. 23, 24, 25, 30 and 31 and Jan. 1. Limited to Jan. 2, 1894. A. F. PEACOCK, Ticket Agent.

LOOK HERE! Any one trading Ten Dollars cash at my store will be presented with a nice Book Case, FREE. J. K. WOODS.

Full line of Nuts, at KENT'S. House to rent. Eight rooms. J. G. HOLMES. My Christmas Goods are here. Come and see what I have. H. B. DUNCAN.

FOR SALE.—House and Lot near center of town. Price, $350. J. G. HOLMES. Now as the Holiday time draws nigh, wait until we are in full dress. BINNS', Opp. Hotel. NEW GOODS. An invoice of fine Wallets, Bill Books, Ladies' and Gents' Card Cases, Purses, direct from the factory. See them at BINNS', Opp. Hotel. NOTICE. I will run my Feed Mill at my factory and lumber yard, on Alexander street, and will grind Corn, Oats, Barley, Rye, Wheat, or any other grain, for stock feed. W. O. CHURCHILL.

Citizen's National Bank,

NILES, MICH.

ORGANIZED 1871.

Interest Paid on Deposits.

CALL AND GET TERMS.

Are prepared to grant liberal accommodations to regular customers.

DIRECTORS:

A. G. Gage, J. L. Reddick, I. P. Hutton, H. M. Dean, J. H. Richardson, L. H. Beeson, O. W. Coolidge, E. F. Woodcock, L. E. Wood.

FOR SALE BY GEO. RICHARDS.

SPECIAL ATTENTION

IS CALLED TO MY NEW AND FASHIONABLE LINE OF

Fall and Winter Dress Goods.

SACKINGS in two toned and plain colors. SMALL BASKET WEAVES in shot and illuminated effects. Handsome DIAGONALS in all colors. SMOOTH WOOL SURFACES in tones and grays. We offer these

At Prices That Will Speak for Themselves.

Another line to which we call your attention is that of

KNIT GOODS.

Fascinators, Leggings, Mittens and Gloves will soon be in lively demand. These goods deserve and should have your attention.

S. P. HIGH.

BUSINESS OF TODAY.

REV. THOMAS DIXON, JR., ON "THE COURT OF HONOR."

The Next to the Last Sermon of the Series on "The Prophecies of the World's Fair."

New York, Dec. 24.—Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr., surprised his audience in Association hall this morning by announcing before the sermon that during the first day of January he would stop the publication of his sermons. He said: "I have informed the American Press Association that with the close of the present series I will no longer furnish my sermons for publication. I have two reasons for this: I am not yet 30 years old—I am writing too much too early in life. I desire to spend several years in study before writing more. Besides, with my present method of preparing an intolerable drain on my mind and energies."

The sermon this morning was on "The Court of Honor," the last in the series of the "Prophecies of the World's Fair." The text chosen was from I Corinthians iii, 21, "All things are yours." Before in my life have I stood so profoundly moved as when I stood for the first time within "The Court of Honor" of the fair—once when I stood on the lofty summit of a grand mountain peak and looked down upon the great world that had made so many things and once again when I first climbed the sand dunes of my native state and gazed upon miles of ocean breakers as they rolled in from the infinite deep and broke upon the beach with hiss and boom and rattle and roar.

I could not keep back the tears—who could that had a soul? Julian Hawthorne has most beautifully described that scene: "The pale light gleamed down the aisle of the great building, the ranged columns of the peristyle, the pinnacles and the Diana dome, with the golden goddess floating above it and forever aiming her arrow at the wind's eye; the mighty statue of the republic, under the canopy of the arms and severe drapery, dominating the eastern end of the lagoon, and the white splendor of the great fountain at the west extremity, with that ravishing figure of Liberty standing in the center of her chair on the poop of the barge, her eight maidens girdling around on either side, while Father Time steers on the stern, his scythe fastened to the tiller, and Progress lights on the bows, her trumpet in her hand; then the Venetian bridge that spans the arms of the lagoon, with Keweenaw's matchless bears and buffaloes guarding them; the mighty bulls and horses on the midway steps, the triumphal pillars marking the corners of the great quadrangle with their slender white beauty; the exquisite little Greek temples in the foreground of the peristyle, the glorious lift and sweep, strength and spirituality, of the whole stupendous conception, which, despite its infinite variety, is an integral mass unit of design, and finally the gleaming, glancing lagoon itself, rhyning with the beauty above and multiplying it and rippling round the delicate noses of the gondolas as they fit noiselessly hither and thither with the gallant figures of the Venetian armen in bow and stern. These things make an era in our national aesthetic education, and the development of our people in the knowledge and love of beauty will date from this happy epoch."

"All things are yours," even business, and the business world, and a business career, and a business life. Yet the more I see of modern business, as it is conducted, the sadder it makes me. I never have to enter a business transaction that calls me into direct touch with the supreme spirit of our modern commercial life, as at present conducted, that it does not make me heart-sick. I feel, when through with it, as if I wanted to get off somewhere in a desert and scratch out a cave in the side of a hill and live on herbs in a simpler, honest life. If there is in any man's mind a doubt as to whether the modern spirit of successful business is in harmony with the spirit of Jesus Christ, all he has to do is first to know what Jesus Christ taught, and then go with that spirit in his heart into your modern refrigerator of a thoroughly up-to-date, down to the last minute business transaction.

Is a successful business of today a field in which a true Christian, desiring the highest and noblest things, can enter and hope to succeed, and at the same time hold his Christian faith? Does the Court of Honor rule our business world? To answer that question you must ask another. First—What is Christianity? It is sacrifice and the spirit of sacrifice. Jesus said if a man would save his life, let him lose it. That is the cardinal principle of Jesus Christ. That is the first and last principle of Christianity. Jesus lived that life. He sought no power, wealth, honor, fame, name. He had no home in which to lay his head. He accumulated no wealth. He had no army to follow him. He wrote no book. He made no creed. He gathered a few simple fishermen about him, who were disciples, adherents, followers in life, in heart, in purpose, and he laid down his life, judging from a modern business point of view, an absolute failure. He only lived 33 years, and he threw away every opportunity he had of a successful career. He might have put himself at the head of an army and conquered the ancient kingdom of the Jews and thrown off the triple yoke of a Roman and kingly tyranny if he had but so desired. He threw that opportunity away again and again. He might have been wealthy, if he had used his magnificent powers to accumulate wealth. He might have had the great and powerful as his friends, but when people came to crown him and make him their leader he escaped. And he died a most miserable death, as the mock and jeer and scorn of his enemies, crucified between two thieves, with not a grave that he could call his own, his very clothes stripped from his body, dying thus outside the walls of Jerusalem, a miserable felon in a death by his disciples, disowned by all who knew him except a few faithful women. That is the kind of life he lived. That is what he meant when he said, "If a man would save his life, let him lose it, and if he would find it let him lay it down."

WHAT FAITH IS? The second principle of Christianity is what we call faith—the power to believe in something—to believe in God and in man, our brother, the image of God. The next principle is the love—love—to God and man. That is to be a Christian, and that is Christianity. I take it from the definitions of Jesus, from his life and character and from his recorded words. Second—What is business—modern, successful business—today? In the first place, it rests upon the antithesis of sacrifice. Sacrifice represents one pole, business the other pole, and the difference that separates them is a gulf as deep and wide and as impassable as the gulf that separates heaven from hell. The first principle of your modern business world is war, competition, brutal fight—every man for himself. It is the strongest and the vilest of all. The weak are trampled to the earth and killed and beaten without mercy. War and pestilence are the only hope to regulate our population, according to the principles of this modern business world. The brutal survive, while the weak perish. What is to become of this vast army of weaklings? Well, our Malthusian philosophers say: "We will have a pestilence by and by, and God will send us the cholera, and we will send a war, and war will thin the ranks, and the battle will begin again. After the weaklings have been eliminated the world will not be so crowded, and we can proceed."

Which is the basis on which modern commerce rests. In this battle, this war, this maddest, this struggle, this very competition which has been called the life of trade is its defeat. For you study I find the method of advance preparation of manuscript for the press an intolerable drain on my mind and energies. The sermon this morning was on "The Court of Honor," the last in the series of the "Prophecies of the World's Fair." The text chosen was from I Corinthians iii, 21, "All things are yours."

But twice before in my life have I stood so profoundly moved as when I stood for the first time within "The Court of Honor" of the fair—once when I stood on the lofty summit of a grand mountain peak and looked down upon the great world that had made so many things and once again when I first climbed the sand dunes of my native state and gazed upon miles of ocean breakers as they rolled in from the infinite deep and broke upon the beach with hiss and boom and rattle and roar.

I could not keep back the tears—who could that had a soul? Julian Hawthorne has most beautifully described that scene: "The pale light gleamed down the aisle of the great building, the ranged columns of the peristyle, the pinnacles and the Diana dome, with the golden goddess floating above it and forever aiming her arrow at the wind's eye; the mighty statue of the republic, under the canopy of the arms and severe drapery, dominating the eastern end of the lagoon, and the white splendor of the great fountain at the west extremity, with that ravishing figure of Liberty standing in the center of her chair on the poop of the barge, her eight maidens girdling around on either side, while Father Time steers on the stern, his scythe fastened to the tiller, and Progress lights on the bows, her trumpet in her hand; then the Venetian bridge that spans the arms of the lagoon, with Keweenaw's matchless bears and buffaloes guarding them; the mighty bulls and horses on the midway steps, the triumphal pillars marking the corners of the great quadrangle with their slender white beauty; the exquisite little Greek temples in the foreground of the peristyle, the glorious lift and sweep, strength and spirituality, of the whole stupendous conception, which, despite its infinite variety, is an integral mass unit of design, and finally the gleaming, glancing lagoon itself, rhyning with the beauty above and multiplying it and rippling round the delicate noses of the gondolas as they fit noiselessly hither and thither with the gallant figures of the Venetian armen in bow and stern. These things make an era in our national aesthetic education, and the development of our people in the knowledge and love of beauty will date from this happy epoch."

"All things are yours," even business, and the business world, and a business career, and a business life. Yet the more I see of modern business, as it is conducted, the sadder it makes me. I never have to enter a business transaction that calls me into direct touch with the supreme spirit of our modern commercial life, as at present conducted, that it does not make me heart-sick. I feel, when through with it, as if I wanted to get off somewhere in a desert and scratch out a cave in the side of a hill and live on herbs in a simpler, honest life. If there is in any man's mind a doubt as to whether the modern spirit of successful business is in harmony with the spirit of Jesus Christ, all he has to do is first to know what Jesus Christ taught, and then go with that spirit in his heart into your modern refrigerator of a thoroughly up-to-date, down to the last minute business transaction.

Is a successful business of today a field in which a true Christian, desiring the highest and noblest things, can enter and hope to succeed, and at the same time hold his Christian faith? Does the Court of Honor rule our business world? To answer that question you must ask another. First—What is Christianity? It is sacrifice and the spirit of sacrifice. Jesus said if a man would save his life, let him lose it. That is the cardinal principle of Jesus Christ. That is the first and last principle of Christianity. Jesus lived that life. He sought no power, wealth, honor, fame, name. He had no home in which to lay his head. He accumulated no wealth. He had no army to follow him. He wrote no book. He made no creed. He gathered a few simple fishermen about him, who were disciples, adherents, followers in life, in heart, in purpose, and he laid down his life, judging from a modern business point of view, an absolute failure. He only lived 33 years, and he threw away every opportunity he had of a successful career. He might have put himself at the head of an army and conquered the ancient kingdom of the Jews and thrown off the triple yoke of a Roman and kingly tyranny if he had but so desired. He threw that opportunity away again and again. He might have been wealthy, if he had used his magnificent powers to accumulate wealth. He might have had the great and powerful as his friends, but when people came to crown him and make him their leader he escaped. And he died a most miserable death, as the mock and jeer and scorn of his enemies, crucified between two thieves, with not a grave that he could call his own, his very clothes stripped from his body, dying thus outside the walls of Jerusalem, a miserable felon in a death by his disciples, disowned by all who knew him except a few faithful women. That is the kind of life he lived. That is what he meant when he said, "If a man would save his life, let him lose it, and if he would find it let him lay it down."

WHAT FAITH IS? The second principle of Christianity is what we call faith—the power to believe in something—to believe in God and in man, our brother, the image of God. The next principle is the love—love—to God and man. That is to be a Christian, and that is Christianity. I take it from the definitions of Jesus, from his life and character and from his recorded words. Second—What is business—modern, successful business—today? In the first place, it rests upon the antithesis of sacrifice. Sacrifice represents one pole, business the other pole, and the difference that separates them is a gulf as deep and wide and as impassable as the gulf that separates heaven from hell. The first principle of your modern business world is war, competition, brutal fight—every man for himself. It is the strongest and the vilest of all. The weak are trampled to the earth and killed and beaten without mercy. War and pestilence are the only hope to regulate our population, according to the principles of this modern business world. The brutal survive, while the weak perish. What is to become of this vast army of weaklings? Well, our Malthusian philosophers say: "We will have a pestilence by and by, and God will send us the cholera, and we will send a war, and war will thin the ranks, and the battle will begin again. After the weaklings have been eliminated the world will not be so crowded, and we can proceed."

Which is the basis on which modern commerce rests. In this battle, this war, this maddest, this struggle, this very competition which has been called the life of trade is its defeat. For you study I find the method of advance preparation of manuscript for the press an intolerable drain on my mind and energies. The sermon this morning was on "The Court of Honor," the last in the series of the "Prophecies of the World's Fair." The text chosen was from I Corinthians iii, 21, "All things are yours."

But twice before in my life have I stood so profoundly moved as when I stood for the first time within "The Court of Honor" of the fair—once when I stood on the lofty summit of a grand mountain peak and looked down upon the great world that had made so many things and once again when I first climbed the sand dunes of my native state and gazed upon miles of ocean breakers as they rolled in from the infinite deep and broke upon the beach with hiss and boom and rattle and roar.

I could not keep back the tears—who could that had a soul? Julian Hawthorne has most beautifully described that scene: "The pale light gleamed down the aisle of the great building, the ranged columns of the peristyle, the pinnacles and the Diana dome, with the golden goddess floating above it and forever aiming her arrow at the wind's eye; the mighty statue of the republic, under the canopy of the arms and severe drapery, dominating the eastern end of the lagoon, and the white splendor of the great fountain at the west extremity, with that ravishing figure of Liberty standing in the center of her chair on the poop of the barge, her eight maidens girdling around on either side, while Father Time steers on the stern, his scythe fastened to the tiller, and Progress lights on the bows, her trumpet in her hand; then the Venetian bridge that spans the arms of the lagoon, with Keweenaw's matchless bears and buffaloes guarding them; the mighty bulls and horses on the midway steps, the triumphal pillars marking the corners of the great quadrangle with their slender white beauty; the exquisite little Greek temples in the foreground of the peristyle, the glorious lift and sweep, strength and spirituality, of the whole stupendous conception, which, despite its infinite variety, is an integral mass unit of design, and finally the gleaming, glancing lagoon itself, rhyning with the beauty above and multiplying it and rippling round the delicate noses of the gondolas as they fit noiselessly hither and thither with the gallant figures of the Venetian armen in bow and stern. These things make an era in our national aesthetic education, and the development of our people in the knowledge and love of beauty will date from this happy epoch."

"All things are yours," even business, and the business world, and a business career, and a business life. Yet the more I see of modern business, as it is conducted, the sadder it makes me. I never have to enter a business transaction that calls me into direct touch with the supreme spirit of our modern commercial life, as at present conducted, that it does not make me heart-sick. I feel, when through with it, as if I wanted to get off somewhere in a desert and scratch out a cave in the side of a hill and live on herbs in a simpler, honest life. If there is in any man's mind a doubt as to whether the modern spirit of successful business is in harmony with the spirit of Jesus Christ, all he has to do is first to know what Jesus Christ taught, and then go with that spirit in his heart into your modern refrigerator of a thoroughly up-to-date, down to the last minute business transaction.

Is a successful business of today a field in which a true Christian, desiring the highest and noblest things, can enter and hope to succeed, and at the same time hold his Christian faith? Does the Court of Honor rule our business world? To answer that question you must ask another. First—What is Christianity? It is sacrifice and the spirit of sacrifice. Jesus said if a man would save his life, let him lose it. That is the cardinal principle of Jesus Christ. That is the first and last principle of Christianity. Jesus lived that life. He sought no power, wealth, honor, fame, name. He had no home in which to lay his head. He accumulated no wealth. He had no army to follow him. He wrote no book. He made no creed. He gathered a few simple fishermen about him, who were disciples, adherents, followers in life, in heart, in purpose, and he laid down his life, judging from a modern business point of view, an absolute failure. He only lived 33 years, and he threw away every opportunity he had of a successful career. He might have put himself at the head of an army and conquered the ancient kingdom of the Jews and thrown off the triple yoke of a Roman and kingly tyranny if he had but so desired. He threw that opportunity away again and again. He might have been wealthy, if he had used his magnificent powers to accumulate wealth. He might have had the great and powerful as his friends, but when people came to crown him and make him their leader he escaped. And he died a most miserable death, as the mock and jeer and scorn of his enemies, crucified between two thieves, with not a grave that he could call his own, his very clothes stripped from his body, dying thus outside the walls of Jerusalem, a miserable felon in a death by his disciples, disowned by all who knew him except a few faithful women. That is the kind of life he lived. That is what he meant when he said, "If a man would save his life, let him lose it, and if he would find it let him lay it down."

WHAT FAITH IS? The second principle of Christianity is what we call faith—the power to believe in something—to believe in God and in man, our brother, the image of God. The next principle is the love—love—to God and man. That is to be a Christian, and that is Christianity. I take it from the definitions of Jesus, from his life and character and from his recorded words. Second—What is business—modern, successful business—today? In the first place, it rests upon the antithesis of sacrifice. Sacrifice represents one pole, business the other pole, and the difference that separates them is a gulf as deep and wide and as impassable as the gulf that separates heaven from hell. The first principle of your modern business world is war, competition, brutal fight—every man for himself. It is the strongest and the vilest of all. The weak are trampled to the earth and killed and beaten without mercy. War and pestilence are the only hope to regulate our population, according to the principles of this modern business world. The brutal survive, while the weak perish. What is to become of this vast army of weaklings? Well, our Malthusian philosophers say: "We will have a pestilence by and by, and God will send us the cholera, and we will send a war, and war will thin the ranks, and the battle will begin again. After the weaklings have been eliminated the world will not be so crowded, and we can proceed."

Which is the basis on which modern commerce rests. In this battle, this war, this maddest, this struggle, this very competition which has been called the life of trade is its defeat. For you study I find the method of advance preparation of manuscript for the press an intolerable drain on my mind and energies. The sermon this morning was on "The Court of Honor," the last in the series of the "Prophecies of the World's Fair." The text chosen was from I Corinthians iii, 21, "All things are yours."

But twice before in my life have I stood so profoundly moved as when I stood for the first time within "The Court of Honor" of the fair—once when I stood on the lofty summit of a grand mountain peak and looked down upon the great world that had made so many things and once again when I first climbed the sand dunes of my native state and gazed upon miles of ocean breakers as they rolled in from the infinite deep and broke upon the beach with hiss and boom and rattle and roar.

I could not keep back the tears—who could that had a soul? Julian Hawthorne has most beautifully described that scene: "The pale light gleamed down the aisle of the great building, the ranged columns of the peristyle, the pinnacles and the Diana dome, with the golden goddess floating above it and forever aiming her arrow at the wind's eye; the mighty statue of the republic, under the canopy of the arms and severe drapery, dominating the eastern end of the lagoon, and the white splendor of the great fountain at the west extremity, with that ravishing figure of Liberty standing in the center of her chair on the poop of the barge, her eight maidens girdling around on either side, while Father Time steers on the stern, his scythe fastened to the tiller, and Progress lights on the bows, her trumpet in her hand; then the Venetian bridge that spans the arms of the lagoon, with Keweenaw's matchless bears and buffaloes guarding them; the mighty bulls and horses on the midway steps, the triumphal pillars marking the corners of the great quadrangle with their slender white beauty; the exquisite little Greek temples in the foreground of the peristyle, the glorious lift and sweep, strength and spirituality, of the whole stupendous conception, which, despite its infinite variety, is an integral mass unit of design, and finally the gleaming, glancing lagoon itself, rhyning with the beauty above and multiplying it and rippling round the delicate noses of the gondolas as they fit noiselessly hither and thither with the gallant figures of the Venetian armen in bow and stern. These things make an era in our national aesthetic education, and the development of our people in the knowledge and love of beauty will date from this happy epoch."

"All things are yours," even business, and the business world, and a business career, and a business life. Yet the more I see of modern business, as it is conducted, the sadder it makes me. I never have to enter a business transaction that calls me into direct touch with the supreme spirit of our modern commercial life, as at present conducted, that it does not make me heart-sick. I feel, when through with it, as if I wanted to get off somewhere in a desert and scratch out a cave in the side of a hill and live on herbs in a simpler, honest life. If there is in any man's mind a doubt as to whether the modern spirit of successful business is in harmony with the spirit of Jesus Christ, all he has to do is first to know what Jesus Christ taught, and then go with that spirit in his heart into your modern refrigerator of a thoroughly up-to-date, down to the last minute business transaction.

Is a successful business of today a field in which a true Christian, desiring the highest and noblest things, can enter and hope to succeed, and at the same time hold his Christian faith? Does the Court of Honor rule our business world? To answer that question you must ask another. First—What is Christianity? It is sacrifice and the spirit of sacrifice. Jesus said if a man would save his life, let him lose it. That is the cardinal principle of Jesus Christ. That is the first and last principle of Christianity. Jesus lived that life. He sought no power, wealth, honor, fame, name. He had no home in which to lay his head. He accumulated no wealth. He had no army to follow him. He wrote no book. He made no creed. He gathered a few simple fishermen about him, who were disciples, adherents, followers in life, in heart, in purpose, and he laid down his life, judging from a modern business point of view, an absolute failure. He only lived 33 years, and he threw away every opportunity he had of a successful career. He might have put himself at the head of an army and conquered the ancient kingdom of the Jews and thrown off the triple yoke of a Roman and kingly tyranny if he had but so desired. He threw that opportunity away again and again. He might have been wealthy, if he had used his magnificent powers to accumulate wealth. He might have had the great and powerful as his friends, but when people came to crown him and make him their leader he escaped. And he died a most miserable death, as the mock and jeer and scorn of his enemies, crucified between two thieves, with not a grave that he could call his own, his very clothes stripped from his body, dying thus outside the walls of Jerusalem, a miserable felon in a death by his disciples, disowned by all who knew him except a few faithful women. That is the kind of life he lived. That is what he meant when he said, "If a man would save his life, let him lose it, and if he would find it let him lay it down."

WHAT FAITH IS? The second principle of Christianity is what we call faith—the power to believe in something—to believe in God and in man, our brother, the image of God. The next principle is the love—love—to God and man. That is to be a Christian, and that is Christianity. I take it from the definitions of Jesus, from his life and character and from his recorded words. Second—What is business—modern, successful business—today? In the first place, it rests upon the antithesis of sacrifice. Sacrifice represents one pole, business the other pole, and the difference that separates them is a gulf as deep and wide and as impassable as the gulf that separates heaven from hell. The first principle of your modern business world is war, competition, brutal fight—every man for himself. It is the strongest and the vilest of all. The weak are trampled to the earth and killed and beaten without mercy. War and pestilence are the only hope to regulate our population, according to the principles of this modern business world. The brutal survive, while the weak perish. What is to become of this vast army of weaklings? Well, our Malthusian philosophers say: "We will have a pestilence by and by, and God will send us the cholera, and we will send a war, and war will thin the ranks, and the battle will begin again. After the weaklings have been eliminated the world will not be so crowded, and we can proceed."

Which is the basis on which modern commerce rests. In this battle, this war, this maddest, this struggle, this very competition which has been called the life of trade is its defeat. For you study I find the method of advance preparation of manuscript for the press an intolerable drain on my mind and energies. The sermon this morning was on "The Court of Honor," the last in the series of the "Prophecies of the World's Fair." The text chosen was from I Corinthians iii, 21, "All things are yours."

But twice before in my life have I stood so profoundly moved as when I stood for the first time within "The Court of Honor" of the fair—once when I stood on the lofty summit of a grand mountain peak and looked down upon the great world that had made so many things and once again when I first climbed the sand dunes of my native state and gazed upon miles of ocean breakers as they rolled in from the infinite deep and broke upon the beach with hiss and boom and rattle and roar.

I could not keep back the tears—who could that had a soul? Julian Hawthorne has most beautifully described that scene: "The pale light gleamed down the aisle of the great building, the ranged columns of the peristyle, the pinnacles and the Diana dome, with the golden goddess floating above it and forever aiming her arrow at the wind's eye; the mighty statue of the republic, under the canopy of the arms and severe drapery, dominating the eastern end of the lagoon, and the white splendor of the great fountain at the west extremity, with that ravishing figure of Liberty standing in the center of her chair on the poop of the barge, her eight maidens girdling around on either side, while Father Time steers on the stern, his scythe fastened to the tiller, and Progress lights on the bows, her trumpet in her hand; then the Venetian bridge that spans the arms of the lagoon, with Keweenaw's matchless bears and buffaloes guarding them; the mighty bulls and horses on the midway steps, the triumphal pillars marking the corners of the great quadrangle with their slender white beauty; the exquisite little Greek temples in the foreground of the peristyle, the glorious lift and sweep, strength and spirituality, of the whole stupendous conception, which, despite its infinite variety, is an integral mass unit of design, and finally the gleaming, glancing lagoon itself, rhyning with the beauty above and multiplying it and rippling round the delicate noses of the gondolas as they fit noiselessly hither and thither with the gallant figures of the Venetian armen in bow and stern. These things make an era in our national aesthetic education, and the development of our people in the knowledge and love of beauty will date from this happy epoch."

"All things are yours," even business, and the business world, and a business career, and a business life. Yet the more I see of modern business, as it is conducted, the sadder it makes me. I never have to enter a business transaction that calls me into direct touch with the supreme spirit of our modern commercial life, as at present conducted, that it does not make me heart-sick. I feel, when through with it, as if I wanted to get off somewhere in a desert and scratch out a cave in the side of a hill and live on herbs in a simpler, honest life. If there is in any man's mind a doubt as to whether the modern spirit of successful business is in harmony with the spirit of Jesus Christ, all he has to do is first to know what Jesus Christ taught, and then go with that spirit in his heart into your modern refrigerator of a thoroughly up-to-date, down to the last minute business transaction.

Is a successful business of today a field in which a true Christian, desiring the highest and noblest things, can enter and hope to succeed, and at the same time hold his Christian faith? Does the Court of Honor rule our business world? To answer that question you must ask another. First—What is Christianity? It is sacrifice and the spirit of sacrifice. Jesus said if a man would save his life, let him lose it. That is the cardinal principle of Jesus Christ. That is the first and last principle of Christianity. Jesus lived that life. He sought no power, wealth, honor, fame, name. He had no home in which to lay his head. He accumulated no wealth. He had no army to follow him. He wrote no book. He made no creed. He gathered a few simple fishermen about him, who were disciples, adherents, followers in life, in heart, in purpose, and he laid down his life, judging from a modern business point of view, an absolute failure. He only lived 33 years, and he threw away every opportunity he had of a successful career. He might have put himself at the head of an army and conquered the ancient kingdom of the Jews and thrown off the triple yoke of a Roman and kingly tyranny if he had but so desired. He threw that opportunity away again and again. He might have been wealthy, if he had used his magnificent powers to accumulate wealth. He might have had the great and powerful as his friends, but when people came to crown him and make him their leader he escaped. And he died a most miserable death, as the mock and jeer and scorn of his enemies, crucified between two thieves, with not a grave that he could call his own, his very clothes stripped from his body, dying thus outside the walls of Jerusalem, a miserable felon in a death by his disciples, disowned by all who knew him except a few faithful women. That is the kind of life he lived. That is what he meant when he said, "If a man would save his life, let him lose it, and if he would find it let him lay it down."

WHAT FAITH IS? The second principle of Christianity is what we call faith—the power to believe in something—to believe in God and in man, our brother, the image of God. The next principle is the love—love—to God and man. That is to be a Christian, and that is Christianity. I take it from the definitions of Jesus, from his life and character and from his recorded words. Second—What is business—modern, successful business—today? In the first place, it rests upon the antithesis of sacrifice. Sacrifice represents one pole, business the other pole, and the difference that separates them is a gulf as deep and wide and as impassable as the OLD AND NEW COINING. A Modern Press That Is to Do the Work in the Philadelphia Mint. The striking of medals in the coiners' department of the United States Mint has for years been by means of the screw and fly press. The screw in this press is 6 inches in diameter, and there are three threads with a pitch of three inches. The double lever attached to the head of the screw is 13 inches in length, or 9 1/2 feet either way from the center of the screw, and upon the ends of the arms are mounted balls weighing about 180 pounds. Three men are employed in the working of the press—two to arrange the blanks to be struck upon or between the two hardened steel dies, while one at each end of the lever furnishes the power to raise the screw and then by a rapid movement cause the same to descend so that the work may be struck at the proper moment to stop inside to avoid being struck by the recoil of the lever. Two and a half revolutions of the screw give with all the force the men can impart a blow or pressure equivalent to 250 tons. In the striking of a 4 inch diameter medal some 50 or 60 blows are necessary to complete the medal. The blank, which becomes hardened by the force of each blow, is annealed. Each piece consequently the amount of labor bestowed makes the cost of such medals quite high. Some 19 years ago the idea was conceived that the introduction of hydraulic pressure would be more satisfactory and produce better results, both as to cost and execution. The trial was then made on an ordinary hydraulic press, such as is used for forcing the wheels of a bicycle, and the result was so satisfactory that the machinery of William Sellers & Co. An accident occurring in the bursting of the steel collar, by which the thin center of the mint was injured, had a dampening effect upon the scheme, though the experiment with encouragement, until some two years ago, when an opportunity was offered to make a test of the pressures required to make the various coins. This being so satisfactory and having gained the confidence of the government, the plan had been only guess work, it encouraged the revival of the idea, and plans and estimates were framed for a press that should have a capacity of striking pressure equivalent to 2,000 tons. The contract for this press was awarded to Messrs. William Sellers & Co. at a cost of $7,000. The designs having been approved, the press was completed in September, 1901, and the striking of the works the result was most satisfactory. The dies used upon the trial were those of the 4 inch General Grant medal. The blanks were submitted to a pressure of 1,000,000 pounds, and the second pressure after the annealing of the blank almost finished the medal. One blank, upon which the pressure was exerted three times in succession, was found to be more than was necessary. The press is complete in detail and arranged in design in an exact form, the case and head being heavy iron castings, the whole being secured by two cast steel bands 4 inches thick and 6 inches wide. These bands were submitted to a strain of 6,000,000 pounds, and the pressure being applied, the bands were found to be in perfect condition. The ram is located in the upper end of the casting and is placed in a steel case. It is 25 inches in diameter, and the maximum pressure of 4,000 pounds a square inch is applied to the ram. There is a graduated device attached by which any desired pressure can be secured and held for any length of time. Experiments will soon enable the person in charge of the press to determine the amount of pressure required for various sizes of medals. The movement of the ram and of the oil from the tank, situated about 15 feet above the ram, the maximum pressure being supplied by a 7 1/2 horsepower Eddy electric motor of a slow speed type. For the purpose of blanking there is a small gas oven, and it is very satisfactory. It has been demonstrated by the experiments already made that the pressure of 20,000 pounds per square inch is required to cause such medals as gold, silver and copper to commingle and flow or become fluid. Very interesting results are expected from the installation of this plant, which will add so much to the advantage of the government.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

What is CASTORA? Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrup, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Cures, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend. Castoria. "Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children." Dr. G. O. Osgood, Lowell, Mass. "Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. Ancres, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y. "Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have known our medical supplies what we know as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it." UNITED HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY, Boston, Mass. ALLEN C. SMITH, Pres. The Centaur Company, 77 Murray Street, New York City.

WE ARE THE OLDEST SPECIALISTS TREATING CHRONIC DISEASES. Our long experience and careful study of the best methods enables us to Cure Every Curable Case. We have made regular visits to the same offices for many years and can show recommendations of ability and honor. Consultation Free. Send for Circular of Information. DR. BREWER & SON EVANSTON, ILL. Will be at Niles, Mich. Gall House, on Tuesday, the 9th of January. "A HANDFUL OF DIRT MAY BE A HOUSEFUL OF SHAME." CLEAN HOUSE WITH SAPOLO WE ARE IN IT! If you want Water in your yard or house we have the Pipes, Hydrants, Hose, Sinks, Wash Bowls, Closets, and everything to do a first-class job of Pipe Work or Plumbing. Both work and goods warranted to give satisfaction. M. LYON & CO.

OPIMUM THE WIRE-FENCE MACHINE. Material costs 25 cents per rod, galvanized. Machines sold and reuses made by JOHN BILMIRE, BUCHANAN, MICH. FARMERS! Are you going to put up any new fence this Fall? If so don't pay anything for nothing. See S. Ferguson, of Dayton, or write him for prices on the best of fence. Get something that is stayed to stay and put up on its merits. Fence adapted by S. Ferguson, Dayton, Mich.

MODEL FORM CORSETS. Fashionable Ladies Dress-Jackets. Recommended Them. Leading Merchants Sell Them. WHY? They are the latest and will fully supply the deficiencies of the old. They are made of the finest material, and are the most comfortable and most economical. They are made of the finest material, and are the most comfortable and most economical. Our Model Form No. 850. Are you going to put up any new fence this Fall? If so don't pay anything for nothing. See S. Ferguson, of Dayton, or write him for prices on the best of fence. Get something that is stayed to stay and put up on its merits. Fence adapted by S. Ferguson, Dayton, Mich.

TWICE-A-WEEK. A REVOLUTION IN NEWSPAPERDOM. "Twice-A-Week" is the new name given to the Semi-Weekly Detroit Free Press. The "Twice-A-Week" has taken the place of the old Weekly edition, which, after an existence of 27 years, was discontinued Nov. 30th, 1901. A weekly paper is no longer fully adequate to the requirements of this progressive age. The Free Press, first in circulation, is the first to provide for its great host of readers a "Twice-A-Week,"—complete in every detail of the modern newspaper,—at a price ($1.00 a year) hitherto unheard of for a 6-page semi-weekly journal. This is indeed a newspaper revolution—a revolution the benefits of which accrue wholly to the reader. The spirit of Free Press enterprise is ever alert to promote the interests and welfare of patrons. SOMETHING TO REMEMBER: 1st.—The Twice-A-Week Free Press comprises 8 or more pages and is published every Tuesday and Friday morning in time for early outgoing trains. 2nd.—It is the largest and best Twice-A-Week in America and contains all the News, Markets, Literary Miscellany, etc., brought down to the hour of going to press. 3rd.—The Twice-A-Week Free Press will cost only ONE DOLLAR a year—104 newspapers for $1.00. Did you ever hear of so liberal a proposition? 4th.—Take your local paper for local news and The Twice-A-Week for general news. No other papers in the world will give you so much for so little money. THE POSTMASTER WILL TAKE YOUR SUBSCRIPTION, or you can send it to THE FREE PRESS CO. DETROIT, MICH.

BUCHANAN Real Estate Exchange. If you want to buy or sell a house, or if you want to buy or sell a farm, or if you want to buy or sell a lot, or if you have money to loan, call on—

The Buchanan Real Estate Exchange, 100 ACRE in Weesaw township. Price $25 per acre. 200 ACRES, lying one-half mile southwest of Niles City, on Chicago road; first-class land, good improvements, and a most pleasant home. Belongs to Geo. A. Correll. Price $7,500. Call as above or upon Mr. Correll at the premises. One of the finest residences on Front street, for $2,500. Good home and lot on Second street for $500. New house and lot on Second street for $250. 80 ACRES in Chatham, the south half of the northeast quarter of Section 24, Price $40 per acre. On West street, 20 acres are improved, balance in timber. Price $1,000. 40 ACRES in Section 5 in Buchanan township. Price $7,500. Here and lot owned by J. N. Smith, on Chicago street. Price $450. Good house and lot, 3 1/2 by 20 rods, with good water, clean and other improvements. All fruit-trees. On West street, north. Price $2,500. Apply as above or to Mr. Correll at the premises. 200 ACRES, good buildings, 2 1/2 miles from Buchanan. $25 per acre. Easy terms. A bargain.

Your Watch Insured Free. A perfect insurance against theft or accident is the now famous Non-pull-out. BOW, the only bow (ring) which cannot be pulled or wrenched from the case. Can only be had on cases containing this trade mark. Keystone Watch Case Company, of Philadelphia. The oldest, largest, and most complete Watch Case factory in the world—1500 employees; 2000 Watch Cases daily. One of its products is the celebrated Jas. Boss Filled Watch Cases which are just as good as solid cases, and which are sold by jewelers, without extra charge for Non-pull-out bow. The manufacturers will send you a watch case opener free. H. E. LOUGH, Agt., Buchanan. Chancery Notice. First publication Nov. 23, 1902. The Circuit Court for the County of Berrien, in Chancery. GEORGE W. FALKER, Complainant. EVELYN W. FALKER, Defendant. In this case, it appearing from affidavit on file that the defendant, complainant's wife, is not a resident of this state but is a resident of the state of North Dakota. On motion of complainant's solicitor, it is ordered that the appearance of said non-resident defendant, within ten days after the date of this order, and the filing of a verified answer thereto, be required to the bill of complaint to be filed and a copy thereof to be served on the complainant within twenty days after the service on her of a copy of said bill and notice of this order, and in default thereof said bill will be taken as confessed and the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in some newspaper published in said county, and in default of such publication, the complainant cause a notice of this order to be published in some newspaper published in said county, once in each week for six weeks in succession, on or before the 15th day of December, 1902. THOMAS O. HARRIS, Circuit Judge. Victoria M. Gore, Complainant. Last publication Dec. 23, 1902.

ADDEL FORM CORSETS. Fashionable Ladies Dress-Jackets. Recommended Them. Leading Merchants Sell Them. WHY? They are the latest and will fully supply the deficiencies of the old. They are made of the finest material, and are the most comfortable and most economical. They are made of the finest material, and are the most comfortable and most economical. Our Model Form No. 850. Are you going to put up any new fence this Fall? If so don't pay anything for nothing. See S. Ferguson, of Dayton, or write him for prices on the best of fence. Get something that is stayed to stay and put up on its merits. Fence adapted by S. Ferguson, Dayton, Mich.

ADDEL FORM CORSETS. Fashionable Ladies Dress-Jackets. Recommended Them. Leading Merchants Sell Them. WHY? They are the latest and will fully supply the deficiencies of the old. They are made of the finest material, and are the most comfortable and most economical. They are made of the finest material, and are the