CHAPTER II. CONSIDERS A FEW DETAILS. In an old second-hand bookshop in London an old man sat reading Gibbon's "History of Rome." He did not know his name, but the postman brought him his letter. He just glanced indifferently at the letter and impatiently at the postman.

CHAPTER III. MRS. REFFOLD LEARNS HER LESSON. Mrs. Reffold was a winter resort for consumptive patients, though indeed many people who simply needed the change of a bracing climate went there to spend a few months and came away wonderfully helped for the mountain air. This is what Bernardino Holme hoped to do. She was broken down in every way, but it was thought this prolonged stay in Petroschist might help her toward a reasonable amount of health, or at least prevent her from slipping into further decline.

CHAPTER IV. CONCERNING WARIL AND MARIE. Waril, the little hunchback postman, a cheery soul, came whistling up the Kurhaus stairs, carrying with him that professional air which is given to all who give him the position of being the most important person in Petroschist. He was a linguist, too, was Waril, and could speak both French and German with equal fluency and to every one, but to intelligent only to himself. Well, he came whistling up the Kurhaus stairs, carrying with him that professional air which is given to all who give him the position of being the most important person in Petroschist.

CHAPTER V. THE DISAGREABLE MAN. Robert Allison told Bernardino that she was not likely to be on friendly terms with the Disagreeable Man. "They will not care about the foreigners, so you will thus be thrown on your own resources, and that might be a very awkward position for you." "I cannot say that I have any resources," Bernardino answered. "I don't feel well enough to try to do anything, or else it would be so difficult for me to have the uninterrupted leisure."

CHAPTER VI. THE DISAGREABLE MAN. Bernardino was a Russian, she said. "The Disagreeable Man," she said. "I don't feel drawn toward these mites." "Perhaps not at first, but all the same they form a subject which is very engaging. Or any branch of bacteriology?" "Well, if you were to lead me a microscopic life, I could not do that," he answered quickly. "I never lend my things."

"But you know it without doubt," continued Mrs. Reffold, "you are so severe, Kensington people here. You may meet some friends—in our hotel there are two or three families from Lecham Gardens." Bernardino smiled a little viciously, looked first at Mrs. Reffold's two companions and then at the lady herself. "She paused a moment and then said: 'Have you asked all the questions you wish to ask? I am sure you will find them all very interesting. Where does one get the best tea?' Mrs. Reffold gave an inward gasp, but pointed graciously to a small confectionery shop on the other side of the road. Bernardino thanked her, crossed the road, and then at the lady herself. 'Now I have taught her a lesson not to interfere with me,' said Bernardino to herself. 'How beautiful she is!'

"I do not suppose you would," she said. "I knew I was safe in making the suggestion." "You are rather quick of perception in spite of all your book reading," he said. "You are quite right. I suggest, I dislike lending my things, and I dislike spending my money except on myself. If you have the misfortune to linger on as I do, you will know that it is perfectly legitimate to be selfish in small things, if one has made the one great sacrifice." She asked so eagerly that he looked at her and then saw how worn and tired her face was, and the words which he was intending to say were never spoken. "Look at those asses of people on toboggans," he said brusquely. "Could you manage to enjoy yourself in that way? That might do you good." "Yes," she said, "but it would not be any pleasure to me."

The Presbyterian Church. A Handsome Edifice.

This week we present an excellent one of the churches of Buchanan, the Presbyterian, which is located on Front Street, near Oak. The history of this organization is as follows: The Presbyterian church of Buchanan was organized June 19, 1847. Its first house of worship, situated on Third Street, between Oak and West streets, was completed in 1850. In this they worshipped up to 1893, when they dedicated a very handsome and commodious church, on Sabbath, March 5th, 1893. The building is composed of one of the finest churches of this part of the country, far superior to any other in this county. The entire cost, including the lot, furnishing, etc., is $10,350.

The church stands on the north-west corner of village lot No. 2, in Block C, Central addition, facing the north on Front street. The lot is four rods front by eighteen rods deep, and was purchased of Mr. Levi Redden in 1839 for $1,000. The location is very convenient, as the residences near by are handsome, which gives the church a home-like appearance, and being not far from the business centre, it gives the society an opportunity for usefulness and service, both religiously and socially, that otherwise it could not have.

The church is of the Romanesque style of architecture, of brick veneer, with stone basement. The basement is to be finished off for church parlors, with a kitchen, which will give rooms for social gatherings, Sunday school and prayer meeting. The building is heated from the basement by a furnace. There is also in the basement a well and a pump, which will be convenient for the kitchen department. The building is 53x53 with an annex on the south-west corner for the pipe organ and choir, and a tower on the north-east corner, thus placing the entrance diagonally opposite the rostrum, with a five foot aisle through the center, the pews being arranged on the amphitheatre plan, with an incline of eighteen inches. There are two shorter aisles, at the right and left, three feet wide, and an aisle going around at the sides two feet wide. The exterior of the building is not a plain brick surface, but is broken up by timbered panel work, the brick surface colored and stenciled.

Entering the church by the vestibule and coming into the tower, at the left is a stairway leading to the study, one of the coziest and pleasantest rooms imaginable, frescoed and carpeted, having the north-east portion all taken up with a handsome five paneled bay window of stained glass. Above the bay window, where the sweet-toned bell, the gift of Mr. J. D. Ross, placed in the old church, then new, in 1850, still peals forth its invitation to all people to turn to the sanctuary. Forty-four years of service have not brought any crack nor discord into the making or music of the old bell. Descending from the study we pass through great hall doors into the main entrance room, which is fifty feet square, finished off in Georgia pine, giving the room a very light and cheerful appearance. The ladies have carpeted the entire church in a very tasty and beautiful way, in perfect harmony with the rest of the furnishing.

The ceiling is in delicate tints, with hand-painted scroll designs, edged and gilded, divided by stenciled borders and panels. Over the pulpit is an elaborate arch embellishment, with the motto above: "Praise Vultus for Thee, O God, in Zion." Above the windowing all about the room is plastic modeling, with a free hand-running design, all gilded in attractive style, and a liberal amount of gilding appears throughout the work. It is but the simple truth to state that very few audience rooms in a church of such moderate cost, can compare with this in neatness of design and harmonious blending of colors, all the furnishings and decorations being in perfect harmony. The pews are of kiln dried red oak lumber, best hard oak antique finish. They are finished without cushioning, and are comfortable for sitting and perfect in finish. The pipe organ is not only an ornament to the part of the house which it occupies, but an important aid in the service of song.

Special mention is merited by the handsome decorated window at the side of the orchestra. It gives an added grace and beauty to its immediate surroundings, as well as to the entire interior. The pulpit, though not new, yet is in perfect keeping with its environments. The pulpit chairs, though the same as used in the old church, yet would not be recognized by their best friends, so completely have they been changed. The provisions for ventilation in the building are excellent, and the acoustics are perfect. In each of the four squares of the interior appears a beautiful Memorial

H. BINNS, window. These windows are semi-circular in form, sixteen feet wide and ten feet high, divided by graceful sweeps in lacet heads. Rich coloring of cathedral and Venetian glass, worked in graceful scrolls and jewel borders, color the different divisions in one harmonious design, while centers of richly colored and beautifully worked emblems and inscriptions tell the story of love for those who have gone before. The audience room, with a seating capacity of 350, is well lighted in every part by a central arc light. The active membership at present is 130, though there are many persons who are active christians, but not enrolled in this particular church. There are 90 families connected with the congregation, and every department of work is in good condition. It is the purpose of the present Pastor and his official advisors to make this a church for all people, without distinction, who wish to associate themselves with it.

Protecting Cottoleone. The N. K. Fairbank Company of Chicago have lately brought suit in the U. S. District Court against W. L. Henry, of this city, for $50,000 for infringement of their trade mark "Cottoleone." The N. K. Fairbank Company's trade mark is a small proportion of Beef Suet, making a pale yellow marmalade, and not the marmalade of lard almost without admixture of suet. In order to indicate the source and genuineness of the new food product, they originated, coined and used a trade mark the word "Cottoleone." The healthfulness and many other advantages of Cottoleone over hard lard were so apparent that Cottoleone became so very popular and is now largely sold all over the country. The new food product and its name "Cottoleone" have become widely known as the inferior article and claiming it to be Cottoleone that the Fairbank Company are determined to protect their customers and propose to sue every retail dealer who is ineptly using the name of Cottoleone upon his The N. Stockbridge, his widow; Mary A. Stockbridge, his daughter; A. S. Sheldon, and the Children's home, of Kalamazoo; Marcia E. Houghtling, of Asheville, N. C., a niece; Marcia B. MORRIS' THE FAIR,

BUCHANAN, MICHIGAN.

At a meeting of the Young People's Union, last Sunday evening, delegates were elected to the annual convention of the Y. P. C. U. to be held at Elkhart, on June 20th, 1894. The delegates were Miss Edith Beardsley, Miss Gertrude Hanley and B. Frank Bressler.

A fatal accident occurred to the eight-year-old son of Peter Malone, a farmer living three miles south of Niles, Sunday. The lad fell fourteen feet from a beam in his father's barn and striking on his head, sustaining fatal injuries.

Last Sunday's issue of the Detroit Free Press was a souvenir edition commemorating its sixty-third anniversary and consisted of thirty-six pages. It contains among other things a very fine illustrated article on the history of the marvellous growth of the Free Press during its existence.

Judge Buck, of Kalamazoo, has rendered his decision in the case of Schneewind vs. the City of Niles. The decision renders dissolves the injunction Schneewind obtained restraining the city from issuing $20,000 bond for water works improvement, and Niles can now issue her bonds.

In learning to swim, if you have confidence in yourself and your powers, and strike out strongly you will succeed. If, on the other hand, you make a few wild movements and then stop, you will sink. So it is with advertising. It's the man who knows what he is going to do and does it that gets on in the advertising world.

New Time Table.
Last Sunday, May 27th, the new time table of the Michigan Central went into effect. Buchanan gets a little better service than under the old one, getting a train east at 12:28 (midnight), and one west at 4:13 a. m. The other trains are about the same, except that No. 2 going east leaves at 9:48 a. m. and No. 3 going west leaves at 3:13 p. m.

Chester Needham, a painter employed by D. Montgomery on Frank Brown's new house, took a three-story tumble from the roof, Friday morning, over two gables and the main roof, changed ends four or five times and landed on the ground, a distance of about thirty feet. He lost about three minutes time, and has been sticking right to business ever since.

It would seem that the school boys of the eighth grade have organized a smoking club, judging from the numbers seen smoking cigarettes. If the fathers of these boys would organize a strap club and hold a few sessions with the youngsters, there is no doubt but that the moral effect would not be lost on those to whom the lesson is applied.

We welcome to our advertising columns the well-known Niles clothing firm of Brown & Rosenberg. Their adv. will be found in another column of the RECORD. Surely the readers of the RECORD need not be at a loss to know where to buy clothing when they have such firms to select from as the advertisers of the RECORD—Messrs. Weaver & Co., Geo. W. Noble of Buchanan, and Messrs. M. & S. Crowl and Brown & Rosenberg of Niles.

Messrs. N. M. Gorman, of Holling Prairie, Ind., and D. S. Soffer, of New Carlisle, Ind., were in town Tuesday in the interests of the Farmer's Union Picnic to be held at New Carlisle, Ind., on September 20 and 21st. They report the prospects very favorable for a successful exhibition. Among the attractions promised are: an address, on the 20th, by Mrs. Mary E. Lease, of Kansas, on the subject, "Money, Monopoly and the Masses"; and one on "Woman Suffrage", by Helen M. Gouger, on Sept. 21st.

A Serious Accident.
Milton, a young son of Clarence Wilson who is employed by the Buchanan Power & Electric Company, met with a serious accident last Friday, which came near ending fatally. He was leading a cow by means of a rope, when in some way the rope became entangled with his waist and the cow started to run, dragging the lad some distance. When the animal was captured and the lad picked up, he was unconscious, and it was feared that he was fatally hurt. On examination it was found that he had sustained the fracture of the collar bone, but was not injured internally as was feared. He is slowly improving and is expected to recover.

AMERICAN CLOTHIERS.

Money Moves the World.
And low prices will move our immense stock of Mens', Boys' and Children's Clothing and Gents' Furnishing Goods. We know buyers have their eyes open now-a-days.

Cash Talks and Low Prices Speak Louder Than Words.
We close the door on competition. Our prices are at the low water mark on safe and reliable goods. People must have food and clothing, no matter how the times and seasons may be.

Our solution of the problem is simply this: If the buyer's means are limited, why give him more for his money; a bigger and better dollar's worth. That's the story in a nutshell. Firm as a rock we stand by our customers and protect them on prices and qualities every time.

FACTS, SOLID FACTS.

For a New Iron Bridge.
Petitions are being circulated for the purpose of having a special election called to decide whether the town of Buchanan shall replace the old wooden bridge on St. Joseph river just above the dam, with a new iron bridge. The old wooden bridge has been repaired but it is still weak, and a new bridge will be a necessity very shortly. The expense of "tinkering" the old wooden bridge last year was a matter of about $700 and we still have an old broken-down bridge on our hands. The taxpayers of the township should not hesitate long in deciding that the money spent for the repairs to this old bridge might better be invested in a new iron structure that will be a credit to the town besides saving expensive repairs each year.

Arrival of Mails.
The time of the arrival of mails at the post-office is as follows:
From the West—9:48 a. m., 1:02 p. m.
" East—4:13, 8:23 p. m.
" " —1:56, 3:13 p. m.
Trains carry mails from Buchanan leave as below, but letters intended for these mails should be in the post-office at least 30 minutes before train time:
West Bound—4:13, 8:03 a. m.
" —1:56, 3:13 p. m.
East " —9:48 a. m., 1:02 p. m.
At 7:22 p. m. there is a mail sent out both East and West, but none received.
