THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1894.

The Christmas number of the Buchanan Record is a very interesting and seasonable number. It contains a large amount of splendid reading matter, and is making liberal offers to new subscribers. Published by The Buchanan Record Company, 110 Boylston St., Boston.

Last Sunday, at the Presbyterian church, Rev. O. J. Roberts preached his third anniversary sermon, and in the course of the sermon made the following statement which may be of interest to our readers:

"Three years ago today, I preached my first sermon as pastor of this church from the text: 'For I am determined not to know anything among you save Jesus Christ and Him crucified.' During these three years I have busied myself to carry out the statement of that text and, standing today upon the threshold of a new year, which I have no new platform to which to stand. From my record and that of the church I glean a few facts and figures that may be of interest:

On Monday morning, Prosecuting Attorney Fish of Allegan, moved to have the case of Mrs. Ira Hurd, charged with the murder of her husband, nolle prossed, giving as the reasons that the evidence had been too weak to secure conviction. Mrs. Hurd was then discharged from custody.

The Model Minstrels.

Thanksgiving night saw Rough's Opera House well filled with an audience that had been drawn there to witness the "Model Minstrels," given by members of Hook & Ladd Fire Department. The entertainment was an excellent one and a very pleasing program was rendered.

The first part of the entertainment was of the usual minstrel style, with Fred W. Eldridge as interactor, Messrs. Stanton and Simpson, tambos, and Messrs. Woodworth and Cox, bones, with songs by the end men, as follows: "Jonah and the whale," Simpson; "She has no papa now," Woodworth, and "He's Gone," Stanton. At the close of this part Mr. Leonard Stevens gave a very creditable exhibition of "stick twirling."

Part second opened with a musical sketch by Messrs. Van Meter, Simpson, Woodworth and Stanton, followed by an exhibition on the flying rings by Frank Batt; Mr. J. G. Epley followed with his Irish specialty, introducing the song, "Pat Malone forgot that he was dead." Edwin Zeva then gave an exhibition of his skill as a contortionist, and then came Indian club swining by Messrs. Woodworth and Simpson. This part concluded with a clog dance by Geo. Stanton.

Part third opened with several pieces of statuary by Woodworth and Batchelor, followed by the Blodgett Bros. in excellent exhibition of acrobatic feats in which they were assisted by Frank Batt. Mr. J. G. Epley then gave another Irish character song entitled, "Casey's Whisky." The whole entertainment then concluded with an afterpiece entitled, "The Baby Elephant" by Messrs. Eldridge, Woodworth, Stanton and Simpson.

Taken all in all, the entertainment was a very good one and shows that Buchanan has a number of amateurs of no mean ability, both as comedians and gymnasts. The Hook & Ladd Company will not abate 8 as the result of the "boys' hard work."

CLAY AND DIRT ROADS.

When Properly Drained They Remain Dry. The Use of Road Machines.

When gravel or sand cannot be obtained, the improvement of a clay or dirt road is sometimes difficult. A good underdrain may be laid along the center of the road and the earth removed from the roadway to a depth of about a foot at the center, from which point the excavation should rise by a gradual slope to each side. On the bottom of the ditch a layer of bed of hay, straw or coarse grass should be laid to a depth of about four inches (when compacted), and the earth should then be filled in and formed to the true shape of the roadway. This method of treatment will tend to keep the roadway dry and prevent the formation of mud.

Until within the last few years we have known no way of "working" the country road except the old, shiftless, slipshod method of tinkering, in which the farmers have contributed their half hearted labor and have mired and plowed and hoed and scraped and pawed the earth into all sorts of senseless shapes in settlement of the road tax, and the chief reason why the dirt road has seen no improvement for 500 years is because no uniform system of work has been followed and no machinery devised to do the work quickly and in a workmanlike and systematic way.

In the light of modern invention this excuse no longer exists, and we now have a means of carrying the dirt from the center of the road to the side and distributing it in a smooth and uniform manner, so that the rainwater is carried from the center into the side ditches, and the wagon tracks may be kept comparatively dry.

A plow should not be used in working a dirt road except when actually necessary, because a plowed surface is difficult to make smooth and hard, and the plow is likely to cut too deeply into the earth. We should by all means have a good road machine if possible. These machines are sometimes called "graders" and sometimes "graders." There are several different forms of road machines in market, and nearly all of them are good.—Potter's Good Roads Library.

Mission is getting steadily in her reputation as a fruit state, and is manifested in the grand display of 380 varieties made for 40 days at the St. Louis exposition, attracting the attention of thousands.

FREE FERRY
Across the St. Joseph while the Bridge is Being Put In.

The taking down of a portion of the old wooden bridge for the purpose of putting in the pier for the new iron structure, work on which was commenced today, will not interfere with the travel in the least, as the wide-awake Buchanan merchants have made arrangements to have a ferry with ample accommodations for the safe transfer of teams across the St. Joseph river, and also that there will be no expense whatever to anyone using the ferry. This arrangement will be an admirable one and will be no trouble whatever for anyone wishing to cross the river, in fact it will be even safer than driving over the old bridge which had been condemned as unsafe for heavy loads for some time past. Every precaution has been taken to give prompt and safe free ferriage to all comers.

The White Belt Banquet.

A very pleasant Thanksgiving reception and banquet was given the ladies of the White Belt club, Wednesday evening last, by their gentlemen friends. The party assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Lough at 9 o'clock, and after two hours spent in a general good time, for which this club is noted, the party repaired to The Earl hotel, where the banquet had been prepared. Landlord Stevens is always equal to the occasion, but this time outdid himself, and the bill of fare was served in a manner that was a credit to both Mr. Stevens and the club, as the following menu will testify:

Raw oysters.
Oyster stew.
Cold salad, celery, olives.
Calf's head, oysters.

For some time past extensive prepa-

which has been puzzling your mind
