THE STRAYED REVELER.

As she stood upon the mountain side,
The valley lay at her feet,
With gray mountains rising wide
In ruinous and gloomy state.

In every tangled copse they seem To scold her streaming hair,
And where the white white lilies gleam
Her face a lily there.

But, laughing, hand to side to still
The beating of her heart,
Tiptoe upon the lonely hill
She stands, with lips apart.

The gray rock pines, and there falls
A silence in the place,
Again the cuckoo softly calls,
The watchful squirrels race.

Then, like a sigh among the trees,
A wind is softly heard,
And like a foot down the breeze,
There darts a songbird there.

For one swift moment then she slips
Into a world apart,
She thinks of men upon her lips
And dust about her heart.

—Frank Tucker in Century.

THAT INTERVIEW.

We were in a parlor car on the Canadian Pacific, 40 miles out of Moose-jaw, and westward bound. met three civil engineers, in the employ of the company, at Winnipeg, and we were chattering it to Vancouver.

"Not half bad looking," said Parkin under his breath.

"Deuced fine looking girl," said Graham, with an admiring glance in the direction of the star passenger.

"Clean built and well groomed," muttered Clarke critically. "I wonder how she talks."

I had been regarding the young woman curiously. She was very pretty, but that was not alone what caused me to trespass the rules of good breeding by staring hard at our charming vis-a-vis.

Was it fancy? At any rate I could have sworn that, as her eyes met mine over the top of the book, there was an expression in them which said as plainly as words could have conveyed the idea, "I desire to communicate."

It was like a flash, this gesture of the girl across the way, and possibly I might have been mistaken. Could she have been simply tossing back a stray lock of the golden chain that enveloped her handsome head? Perhaps—but then, that glance.

"Let's go and smoke," said Parkin rising and making for the smoking compartment.

"I'll join you in a moment," I said, and my companion filed out. As they disappeared down the aisle I cast a guarded glance in the direction of the young woman. She had dropped the book to her knees and was leaning forward slightly. One white hand lay on the rim of the table, the other on the back of the seat.

Had she been waiting for me? I was not sure, but I felt that she was. I was not sure, but I felt that she was. I was not sure, but I felt that she was.

MILLINERY

Geo. Wyman & Co. can now tell you how Hats and Bonnets are made. Did you ever go to a corn popping bee, where a pretty girl pops corn with a hand popper over a hot fire, and the more she shakes it the more the corn pops? Well, Bonnets and Hats are made just that way. They put feathers, and flowers and ribbons and things into a corn popper and shake it, and shake it over a hot fire and a lot of girls stand ready to catch the hats as they come out hot and put them up to cool, and that's the reason they cost so little to make. Of course we have to pay for the gas fire, and the girls don't care to work where it is so hot for nothing. So there is a little expense attached to it—but per piece they cost very little. That's the reason we sell them so cheap. The crowds seen in our millinery department show that our prices are appreciated.

BUCHANAN RECORD.

D. H. BOWER,
PUBLISHER AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1895.

The American Newspaper Directory for 1895 according to the U. S. census is the largest and most complete ever published in America.

The Youth's Companion for October 3, has one of the handsomest front cover designs ever issued.

The Benton Harbor Evening News makes its appearance among our exchanges. It presents a bright and newsy appearance and has a good advertising patronage. We wish the new paper success.

PROTECT THE FISH AND GAME.

In another column of the Record we republish by request, an article from the Niles Star on the above subject. The Record cannot emphasize too strongly the duty of every true sportsman to aid in every way the measures put forth by our State, and by county deputy game warden W. A. Palmer in the protection of the fish and game in this neighborhood. The St. Joseph river from here to Niles is full of pickerel and bass, and since the dam was built here the fishing has improved greatly. In a year or two, if properly protected, there will be no finer fishing ground anywhere than this stretch of water. Let every one aid in making it the best in the State by seeing that the fish and game laws are fully enforced.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Lieut. Col. J. M. Schofield, commander-in-chief of the U. S. army, reached the age limit on Monday, and is now on the retired list. Gen. Nelson A. Miles succeeded him in command.

The Ann Arbor Daily Courier has suspended publication. The Courier is owned by Junius Beal, the well-known Ann Arbor capitalist, and was established just one year ago. It was a financial failure.

Dr. Talma's formal acceptance of the call tendered by the First Presbyterian church of Washington, D. C., has been received, and he will preach his first sermon as co-pastor, Sunday evening, Oct. 17.

Hon. E. W. Ball, the propagator and originator of the Concord grape, and a prominent agriculturist, is dead. He was born in Boston in 1806, had served in the state house and senate, and for twelve years a member of the state board of agriculture and was a Mason of high degree.

Fred E. Gleser of Allegan, who has disappeared, has apparently been cleared of the charge of being concerned in the death of Mrs. Edeline Lyons. Prosecutor Fish drove to Fennville and made another examination of the woman. It was decided that she came to her death by cholera morbus. She had been sick about seven hours before the doctor was called.

ANOTHER CHAPTER

IN THE INTERESTING $2,500 HORSE DEAL.

COREY IN LIMBO.

Some two months ago the Record published an account of Robert L. Corey's sale of a "German Coach Horse" to Buchanan parties and some subsequent developments as to the sale. Now we have another chapter to add to this interesting story, and the end is not yet. It seems that George Hartline was one of those who were not satisfied with their end of the deal and he swore out a warrant charging Corey with obtaining money under false pretenses. This warrant was placed in the hands of Deputy Sheriff Hathaway, and for the past two months Mr. Hathaway and Constable John C. Wenger have been following up the case and yesterday they secured their man on a requisition from Governor Rich, as he has been at Elkhart, Ind. for some time past, at which place Messrs. Hathaway and Wenger took him in custody, and brought him to St. Joseph yesterday, where he was arraigned before Justice St. Clair, who fixed the amount of his bail bond at $1,500. Up to the present writing, at St. Joseph, Corey had been unable to secure satisfactory bondsmen, although his lawyers, attorneys Dodge of Elkhart, went back to Elkhart today to endeavor to secure the required bail. Corey is evidently an old hand at the business, for while at Buchanan he made pretensions of owning considerable property in the east, and claimed to be worth a good deal. When the suspicions of the Buchanan stockholders in the "horse deal" were aroused the case was placed in Deputy Sheriff Hathaway's hands, and he, together with Mr. Wenger, have been doing a bit of quiet investigation as to Corey's antecedents, and the following correspondence will prove interesting reading. When Corey sold the famous $2,500 horse here he claimed that the horse had been in service the year previous at Huntington, Pa., and had made an astonishing record there. A letter written by Mr. Hathaway to the chief of police at Huntington, elicited the following reply:

OFFICE OF CHIEF POLICE,
HUNTINGTON, Pa.,
Aug. 15, 1895.

H. A. HATHAWAY, Dear Sir:—I have ascertained that Robert L. Corey came from London, Conn., last spring, he kept hotel at Mattituck, New York. He said out there, swindled the people, then came to Huntington. Here he tried to get work selling horses for H. R. Reynolds, who keeps a stock farm at this place. He failed to get work with him, and went west to sell horses on his own hook. I visited the office of the Prothonotary, where all stock horses are required by law to be registered, and found no horse of that name and description registered, and hereafter here say that no such horse ever stood in the county. I also visited the printing office, but found no bills advertising him. Corey is evidently a swindler, and has picked the horse up somewhere and misrepresented him.

Yours very truly,
W. A. DEWEY,
Chief of Police.

Messrs. Hathaway and Wenger followed up this clue by writing the Chief of Police at New London, Ct., and received the following letter:

POLICE DEPARTMENT,
CITY OF NEW LONDON, CT.,
August 10th, 1895.

H. A. HATHAWAY, Dear Sir:—Robert L. Corey owns no property here. His brother runs a livery and sales stable and informs me that Robert has no interest in it. Corey has a family here and one of his girls sells papers on the street. I learn that he has secured a sentence in state prison for rape some years ago. You will find how true this is by writing Jabez L. Woodbridge, warden of the Wethersfield penitentiary. The affair did not happen in this town so we have no particulars. Corey is a jockey, but never imported anything while in this city. He does not pay a cent of taxes and has not been here for several years.

Yours truly,
J. H. HAVEN,
Chief of Police.

A letter written to Wethersfield brought the following reply:

CONNISTRICT,
STATES PRISON,
Aug. 24, 1895.

H. A. HATHAWAY, Deputy Sheriff, Dear Sir:—Yours of 21st inst. received. Robert L. Corey was convicted at New London and committed Sept. 15, 1870 for rape and sentenced for life. When committed was said to be 23 years of age, 5 ft. 6 in. high, blue eyes, green hair, and a good looking man. He was generally esteemed March 25th, 1870. The only external marks are a scar on right knee. I am unable to give you any further information than the above.

JABEZ L. WOODBRIDGE, Warden.

On receipt of these bits of interesting information Mr. Hathaway began to hustle around to find out what he could about the horse in the case. He went to Lafayette, Ind., and interviewed Mr. J. C. Crouch, secretary of the German Coach Horse Importing Association, with whom all records are kept of imported German Coach horses, and where the horses are registered. Mr. Hathaway and Mr. Crouch examined the records and found that but two German Coach horses had been imported into the United States and that both of these horses had been imported by the Belgian Importing Association of Elkhart, Ind. From Lafayette Mr. Hathaway went to Elkhart and drove to the farm of the Importing association which was about 10 miles distant and situated near Wakarusa. There Mr. Hathaway found out the true history of the horse sold to the Buchanan syndicate. The horse sold here was represented to be seven years old, but was found to be nine years old and over. The Elkhart people had sold the horse to parties in Virginia but they had sent the horse back. Upon the return of the horse they had disposed of the horse to Corey, who was to pay them $800 for him. This $800 horse rapidly grew in value and when he reached Buchanan $2,500 was considered by Corey to be a fair price for him, owing to the distance he had been brought. These points seemed to make the case of evidence complete, and Mr. Wenger immediately proceeded to Lansing and secured a requisition upon Governor Matthews of Indiana, and from Lansing proceeded to Indianapolis, where the necessary papers were secured and then met Mr. Hathaway at Elkhart yesterday morning, where they found Corey at the Elkhart House.

ST. JOSEPH.

From our Regular Correspondent.

The past week has been a hard one on Lake traffic. The violent "blows" almost completely paralyzed shipping. The steamers, City of Chicago and Puritan, were not able to make this port from Friday until Monday night. The Puritan attempted to come over from Chicago on Sunday, but within five miles of port turned back to Chicago, who had on forty-five passengers who feared they would never reach shore alive. The schooner, Geo. Naughton, lumber laden was sighted six miles out of port, Monday morning, flying signals of distress. The life-saving crew manned their lifeboat and went to their assistance. The crew of the Naughton were found nearly exhausted pumping water from the hold, the boat having sprung a leak. The life-crafters took their places until 4 p. m. The boat lay at anchor until 11:35, when it was towed into port by the Frank Edwards.

The funeral of Mr. Della McNamara was held on Wednesday at 2 p. m. As per request of the deceased, Rev. H. W. Davis, pastor of the Congregational church, conducted the funeral.

W. Worth Bean returned from Boston on Wednesday.

The services at the Evangelical church are conducted exclusively in the English language. As a result, the attendance has materially increased.

Rev. Dr. Bradley has been returned to the pastorate of the M. E. church at St. Joseph.

THREE OAKS.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Oct. 2, 1895.

Miss Kert, assistant in the High school, is again able to resume her duties.

Peter Strahe, a well-known citizen of this place, will start for California next week. His family goes with him. He will be missed by a wide circle of friends.

It is reported that Morris McGowan's four-year-old daughter, Ethel, is seriously ill with scarlet fever.

The Misses Cornelia and Myrtle Zimmerman and their brother, Theo, went to Ann Arbor last week. All will attend the State University, where the Misses Zimmerman will take the Musical course.

We have a night school running, at present, and expect to have another in a very short time. The one not yet organized will probably be held in the High school building, and will be free to all.

Last night about 9 o'clock a fire broke out in the creamery building. Only a part of the apparatus was saved. The fire engine could not be used, because there was no water near enough. This is the second time a creamery in this place has been destroyed by fire.

TWIN SPRINGS.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Sept. 25, 1895.

The change in the weather was pleasant for all, and we would be pleased to have a good rain.

Many loads of apples are going to the elder mill—some being sold, others made up for home use.

Deputy Sheriff Helmick captured a "board jumper" in this neighborhood last week.

Casey Bishop has moved on the Sylvester farm, which recently changed hands.

Walter Pullen spent Saturday in Chicago.

The base ball social netted about $12, and a good time was had.

Mr. Geo. Bailey and wife were at Grand Maar, last Monday, after cranberries.

Miss Esthur Gaugler of Berrien Springs is visiting at Mr. Rokey's this week.

Tuesday was a poor day for peddlers, but three were seen on our streets.

Seeding is pretty well done.

We are wondering what will come next in the shape of weather.

Rev. Geo. Johnson of St. Joseph attended quarterly meeting in the Evangelical church last Saturday and Sunday.

Several from here who attending the Fair at Berrien Springs said "School Day" was a success, in spite of the rain.

Mr. Hendelman is putting a cellar under his house.

Miss Edith Stover of this place is visiting in Cass county.

Mr. Caleb Rokey is "pitching" his barn roof.

Miss Mattie Tobias of Shawnee was the guest of Miss Essie Helmick last Saturday and Sunday.

G. N. Bailey is painting and papering Herman Botth's house.

Two of Mr. Castie's children are sick.

R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly says: The week's reports are highly encouraging as to monetary matters, although exports of gold still continue, and also as to the cotton manufacture, but not as satisfactory regarding iron, woolen, leather or silk manufactures. The volume of business represented by railroad returns for September thus far is 2.8 per cent smaller than in 1892. The exchanges though all the principal clearing houses have been 21.4 per cent larger than last year, but 81.4 per cent smaller than 1892. It is the future, rather than the past, upon which men are trying to base business calculations, and at present the outlook as to future business is nearly as encouraging as it was a week ago. The one drawback is that while imports of merchandise continue about 30 per cent larger than last year, exports of cotton, the main reliance at this season for debt paying, are likely to be materially restricted by the great advance in price.

Application will be made to the board of supervisors at its coming session for permission to build a dam across the Kalamazoo river in Trowbridge township. The dam is to be 845 feet long, and constructed of iron or steel and solid masonry. The waterpower thus obtained will be used to generate electricity for use as power or lighting purposes. Samuel Clark of Monterey is the petitioner.—Allegan Gazette.

SPEED RECORD SMASHED.

The World Flyer to Syracuse Made 68.8 Miles an Hour for 14.8 Miles.

From New York World, Sept. 25.

The World hired a special train of the New York Central Railroad yesterday, to carry its regular morning edition to the breakfast tables of the Democratic delegates at Syracuse. Tuesday's special was a success, but yesterday's special was a triumph.

Special efforts were made by the railroad company, and the world's record for speed was broken. The train made the 291 miles in 292 minutes, including the slowdown and stop of two minutes last change of engine at Albany, and the slow down for the streets of Syracuse.

The World special left at 3:15 a. m. The bundle of papers were hurried to the Pullitzer Building to the station, at Forty-second street.

But they were not hurried before the train. The papers were opened, and to receive the latest news from all parts of the world. At this particular time the latest news was what the committees at Syracuse were doing. The committee had no more to say until 2 a. m., but what they had done was in the World office straightway upon the adjournment, and was in the copies of The World that started for Syracuse at 3:15.

Engine 807 took the train to Albany. It was a fast run looking at it one way, but a slow run for record breaking. The train reached Albany at 5:55 a. m. It had made the 143 miles in 100 minutes.

At Albany a line 900, the World's Fast, took the place of 897. Ed Chase, the best engineer the Central has, was at the controls, and the running here. Picked out was in the tender. Assistant Superintendent Leonard was in one of the two coaches and kept the record of it. The total weight of the train was 115 tons and 553 tons in the train, which was more tons than the weight of the English record-breaking train.

The last stretch of track the Central has is that between Albany and Buffalo. It was not an ideal running for breaking a record, because the fog had wet the rails. The delay at Albany was only a few minutes. At 6:37 a. m. The World Flyer, as Mr. Leonard called the train, set out, and for the next two hours there in the cars saw the scenery flow past as if it were a fluid. Forty miles were covered in this forty seconds. Dozens of miles were made in less than a forty-five seconds.

Wherever there was a particularly smooth stretch of track Chase let the engine go, and isolated farm houses ran together in villages. Yet for the speed the train moved easily and did not lose the passengers about it.

At Syracuse tunnel there was a slowdown. Up to that time the average speed from Albany had been 68.8 miles an hour. But even with the slowdown the world's record was broken. The 148 miles between Albany station and Syracuse station were made in 180 minutes, which is at the rate of 68.8 miles an hour. The English record was 68.8 miles an hour.

"You did it," said Leonard, in answer to Chase's anxious look or inquiry. "You did it," said Leonard, in answer to Chase's anxious look or inquiry.

The time of arrival at Syracuse was 8:07 a. m. The World Flyer reached Syracuse thirty-seven minutes earlier than it did Tuesday. And every body was very glad to get it. For it had not only the last possible news of the day, but the last possible news of the day.

U. S. WEATHER BUREAU.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

IMPORTANCE OF FARMING.

As Shown in National Legislation and in the Development of the Agricultural Department.

There is a vague idea in some quarters that the occupation of farming is one of the last arts, and that at the present time comparatively few people are engaged in it. What has, perhaps, contributed to this impression more than anything else are the statements which frequently find their way in the public prints in regard to people leaving the farms and going to the cities. It is not surprising that there should be an idea that farming is in its decadence, and that the class of people who gain their livelihood from the soil are gradually disappearing in numbers. The facts, however, do not justify this opinion.

According to Mr. Morton, the Secretary of Agriculture, there are in the United States about 6,000,000 farms, where are located the homes of more than 30,000,000 of the population in this country. It is evident from these figures that nearly fifty per cent of the population are engaged in farming. It is further estimated by the Secretary of Agriculture that these farm-dwellers furnish more than 74 per cent of the value of the exports of this country.

In point of numbers, as well as in their contributions to the wealth of the country, and farmers constitute the most important element of our population. It is evident that the interests of this class are considered by Congress, especially if any weight can be attached to the amount of money which is annually expended under the auspices of the Agricultural Department. During the year 1894, the appropriations for the Agricultural Department amounted to nearly three millions of dollars. It is true that this is a small sum of money when compared with the expenditures for other departments, but it is a sum which is constantly increasing, and it is a sum which is being expended for the benefit of the farmer and the consumer.

The department is constantly growing, and during the year referred to there was upon its payroll some 25,000 employees. Of course all these were not located in this city, but the force here is constantly increasing, and it is a force which is being expended for the benefit of the farmer and the consumer.

It is now stated "upon good authority" that the St. Joseph Valley Railroad will be pushed through to Benton Harbor. This sounds familiar and refreshing.—St. Joseph Press.

It will probably not be done this fall as the weather is becoming too cold for work on that road.

While hunting, the other day, John Hanover shot an animal that he would like some one to name for him, as he never saw one like it before. The animal has a body and stripes like a chip-munk, a head like a rat, pink eyes, cream colored fur sprinkled with red, much lighter in color than the chip-munk, and jaw pouches like a gopher.

will ask no questions and call it square.

The news in Chicago Sunday papers blow came. The deceased was well

Obituary.

Great trials come at lengthened intervals to each one of us, and we rise to breast them. "Boast not thyself of tomorrow, for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth."

Lewis Wilson Baker, second son of Lewis W. and Elizabeth Baker was born, Sept. 28, 1855, in Bakertown, Berrien county, Michigan.

His childhood was spent in this vicinity. After attending school in Bakertown and Buchanan, he entered the Medical course at Ann Arbor. He graduated in New York City, Feb.
1870. In just one month death came so suddenly and unexpectedly and took from that home his mother. In October of the same year he was married to Miss Ida M. Beardsley by Rev. Geo.
Siskafosse.

Mr. Baker first practiced medicine in Three Oaks, entering into partnership with Dr. F. F. Sovereign. In Feb., 1880, he moved to Buchanan, remaining here, with the exception of three years spent in Osego county,
New York, until he moved to Chicago, in Dec. 1894.

Death came on his 40th birthday, Sept. 28, 1895, in Chicago, at 5:30, so suddenly and unexpected. He leaves a devoted wife and son, Joel, three sisters, Mrs. John Redden and Mrs. K.
Koonz of Bakertown, Mrs. George Treat of Buchanan, and one brother,
C. H. Baker of Buchanan, to mourn.

"I have seen his ways and heal him. I will lend him also, and restore comforts unto him and to his mourners."
The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Geo. Siskafosse, at the home of C. H. Baker on Front street, on Tuesday, Oct. 1, in the presence of a large number of sympathizing friends, and his body laid to rest in a beautiful location in Oak Ridge cemetery.

May the benediction of God abide with the broken-hearted wife and sorrowing relatives.

Uphold the Fish Laws.

There should be a sentiment developed in this county that will result in a better state of affairs than now exist, in regard to the fish laws. Unscrupulous men are constantly violating the laws and the Star will ask the co-operation of all newspapers, and also every honest fisherman in the county, that the violators shall be brought to justice.
It is an undeniable fact that some men are engaged every day and every night spearing and netting fish.

It is true that the state appropriates but little money to pay deputies, and this is used in many settled counties where there is absolutely no sentiment favoring protection of game and fish.
It would seem that an enlightened and prosperous county like Berrien would act very differently in the matter. Above here is where the supervisors should come in and assist, by appropriating good and sufficient sums with which to pay the expenses of wardens. There are few counties in the state that need protection more than Berrien, and no county would be more benefited by such protection.

At St. Joseph they are seizing the river and nets used with smaller meshes than is provided for by law.
All along the St. Joe river a certain crowd go spearing at night and they take the best fish such as bass and pickled, also fish of all kinds. Above and below the dam in this city, hold parties who are known, never hesitate to spear whenever they choose to, but it will be damaging to their pocketbooks if the practice is continued, for in the future they will be watched and made an example of, and if the other portions of the county are taken care of, honest fishermen will have a chance.
The laws for the protection of fish in Berrien county are very exacting and should be enforced. All that it needs is co-operation. Mr. Chas. S. Osborn, of Sault Ste. Marie, state game and fish warden, will be glad to advise, and so will deputy warden Wm. A. Palmer of Buchanan. It is hoped that the newspapers and people of this county in general will agitate the question of protection, and report every known violation to the proper authorities.—

nent bacteriologist, died Saturday eve-

From our Regular Correspondent.

Everybody digging potatoes, and there are plenty of them. More than there is sale for.

Some land changing hands in this township, at about $40 per acre for improved land: Stephen Norris sold out to Clayton Smith; Chauncey Ferry to A. W. Pierce; T. L. Wilkins sold 35 acres to Will Blimke, off the Miller farm south of New Troy.
