

A BARGAIN!

Geo. Wyman & Co. offer the greatest bargains in Cloaks and Fur Capes, for October, ever offered by them.

Misses' and Children's long Cloaks for $1, $2 and $3.

Ladies' Jackets, like this cut, for $4 up to $25.

We offer an entire new line of Bonnets, Plush and Fur Capes, 30 inches deep, like this cut, for $5 up

Astrachan Capes, good quality, $15, $20, $25 to $30.
Wool Seal Capes, $25, $30 to $50.
Sheared Coney Capes, $10, $15 to $30.
Electric Seal Capes, $20, $25 to $50.
Black Martin Capes, $95 to $150.
Beaver Capes, $100 to $150.

Our Dress Goods sales indicate that we have the right goods at the right prices.

COME AND SEE US.
GEO. WYMAN & CO.
South Bend, Ind.

We close our store every evening at 6 o'clock, except Saturday.

BUCHANAN RECORD.

D. H. BOWER,
PUBLISHER AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1895.

The American Newspaper Directory for 1895 accords to the Record the highest distinction of any weekly published in Berrien County.

G. O. P.'S GREAT VICTORY.

A landslide in Maryland and the election of a Republican governor in Kentucky were the features of Tuesday's elections. The majorities given for the Republican ticket in the various states was estimated as follows: New York, 90,000; New Jersey, 27,000; Iowa, 68,000; Maryland, 20,000; Pennsylvania, 168,000; Ohio, 100,000 and Kentucky, 12,000. In Detroit Mayor Pingree carried the day by a majority that exceeded the total vote of his Democratic opponent. In New York City Tammany carried their ticket by over 50,000 majority.

A Fitting Prelude.

The results of the November elections held Tuesday in the states of New York, Ohio, Maryland, Kentucky, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Utah, Massachusetts, New Jersey and Nebraska are a fitting prelude to the great drama which will be enacted in 1896 when the great Republican party will once more take part in the government of the United States and under a policy of protection to American industries and American labor will restore once more the prosperity to which our land is justly entitled. Clear the tracks for 1896 and the G. O. P.

A FRIGHTFUL DISASTER IN DETROIT YESTERDAY.

Detroit Journal Boilers Burst.
A horrible disaster took place in Detroit yesterday morning at nine o'clock. The boiler situated in that portion of the Journal building located at 47 Larned St. west, near Shelby, blew up with a terrific concussion that was heard for blocks, and the next instant the massive building collapsed with a crash, carrying with it death and destruction to the unfortunate inmates. To add to the horror of the scene the rains caught fire and despite the efforts of the fire department the flames could not be subdued for some time. Sixteen dead bodies were taken out of the ruins, and eighteen injured were tenderly cared for, while over twenty-five are still missing. The accident was one of the most frightful in the local history of Detroit.

The wedding of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough was celebrated at high noon yesterday in New York City.

A LARGE GIFT.

Rockefeller Gives Three Millions to Chicago.

The largest donation ever made to an educational institution at one time by one man has been made in the gift to the Chicago University of $3,000,000, by John D. Rockefeller.

There had been no intimation of the intention of Mr. Rockefeller to bestow any such gift upon the university, and the trustees were so wholly taken by surprise that it was some moments before the silence which had come upon them when the reading of the letter began, was broken. Then there was general handshaking and words of congratulation.

Of this latest gift $1,000,000 goes to the university unconditionally. To the remaining $2,000,000 the proviso is attached that the trustees are to raise a similar amount or its equivalent before this time and the beginning of the year 1900. This additional money is to be exclusive of any that may be pledged at this time. The trustees say they have not the least fear of being unable to raise the full amount, and assert that the entire $3,000,000 is as readily as good as theirs.

Even should the trustees be unable to raise the $2,000,000, Mr. Rockefeller's offer will not become wholly inoperative, for the reason that they are to offset gifts as fast as they are made, up to the $3,000,000 limit. By this means every dollar given the university during the next four years will represent double its face value.

TWIN SPRINGS.
From our Special Correspondent.
Nearly everyone is complaining of dry weather. A good many farmers have quit husking corn until it rains, so the fodder will not break.
Frank Heim took some dressed hogs to St. Joe on Saturday.
Mr. William Bender of South Dakota is visiting his mother here.
The school house is being cleaned, during the vacation.
Royalton township has a live teachers' and patrons' association, with meetings every two weeks.

DAYTON.
From our Regular Correspondent.
Nov. 7, 1895.
Mr. Redding, of Waterford, Ind., who has been the guest of his cousin, Mr. Nelson Redding, of this place, returned to his home last Friday.
Mr. A. A. Lamb has purchased a fine new carriage.
Miss Edna Allen spent Sunday with her parents.
E. S. Allen and wife were in Buchanan Monday.
Mrs. Allsopp and daughters, Ada and Edith, were in Buchanan Wednesday.
Quite a number from this place attended the social at Frank Lamb's, Thursday night, and report a good time. Some of the boys forgot that Halloween does not occur every night.
David Allen and family, of Gallien, spent Sunday here, the guests of his parents.
Mr. Kroll, of Michigan City, who has been the guest of J. C. Richter for a few days, returned home Tuesday.
Mr. Fred Leggett has purchased a bicycle of Ed. Richter.
Mr. Engle and family, of Dowagiac, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Dempsey.
A. A. Lamb was in New Carlisle Wednesday evening.
Wesley Martin, who has been suffering for some time from dropsy, is very low.
Burton Martin is suffering from an attack of bronchitis.
Preaching services next Sunday at eleven o'clock.
Mrs. A. A. Paul was in Buchanan Wednesday.
A box social will be given in Lamb's hall, Friday evening, Nov. 15, for the benefit of the Dayton school library. Each lady is requested to bring a box containing supper for two. Boxes will be sold at auction. All are invited.
The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Brethren church at Olive Branch has completed a quilt, consisting of 202 names, and nicely quilted in flowers, which they will now offer for sale to the highest bidder. This quilt is to be found in the store of G. A. Blakeslee & Co. and any one wishing to examine it can do so. All bids must be sent sealed to Mrs. James Renbarger, Gallien, Mich., on or before the 13th of November.

Irli Hicks' Prediction.
This Will Be the Coldest November Ever Known Here.
Irli Hicks says November will come in with storm conditions in the west, moving east to the Atlantic, about the 2d or 5th.
About the 8th or 9th a reactionary swing of the elements will bring progressive change to lower barometer with rain and snow and much tendency to general storminess.
About the 12th it will rain hard, turning to snow the 16th. From the 16th to the 20th a cold wave will come that will be felt all over the country. From the 23d to the 27th is another storm period, and vast rains will fall. This month will wind up with one of the coldest waves that has ever visited this country.

NEWS BRIEFS.

A fire at Alpena, Mich., destroyed $25,000 worth of lumber belonging to Churchill Bros., Sunday night.
Theodore Durrant, assistant superintendent of Emanuel Baptist church Sunday school at San Francisco, was Friday convicted of the murder of Blanch Lamont, for which he has been on trial since July 22 last. The jury was out twenty minutes and arrived at the verdict on the first ballot. As there was no recommendation of mercy, the punishment was fixed at death.
Henry H. Holmes was convicted of murder in the first degree at 8:51 o'clock, Saturday night, at Philadelphia, for killing Benjamin F. Pitzel. Holmes coughed slightly when he heard the fatal words. That was the only sign. The jury retired to deliberate at 5:40 o'clock in the afternoon. According to one of their number, they had reached their verdict before the door of their rooms closed upon them. They ate their supper first, and then took a ballot, and without hesitation every man of the twelve answered, "guilty of murder in the first degree." But, however atrocious the crime, however despicable the criminal, it is hard to send a man to the gallows in one minute's time. So, for decency's sake, they talked about the case for a seemingly

WASHINGTON LETTER.

Some rumors which are believed to be entirely groundless connecting the name of James G. Blaine, Jr., with Miss Patten, as the principals in a wedding fixed for the near future, have called attention to the family to which the supposed bride belongs. It is not thought that Mr. Blaine, who is now the only surviving son of the great Maine statesman, contemplates another matrimonial venture. It was recalled he was divorced several years ago from his young wife, who subsequently married a physician in New York city. Mr. Blaine, who is nearing the thirty years mark of his career in public life, has been employed by the Pennsylvania railroad in this city.
He would be considered fortunate in more respects than one if the rumor in regard to his marrying Miss Patten were correct. The lady is not only wealthy, but she is a capable business woman and looks after the affairs of her family estate with a deal of shrewdness. She is the youngest of four daughters, one having married a former member of Congress from a Western state. After the death of her mother, Miss Patten's estate was developed, and now she is considered to have excellent judgment in regard to property values. The holdings of the Patten estate in this section of the country consists largely of Washington real estate. As is well known, the Patten came from California, where the father made a fortune.
It is not unusual to find women who, by taking a prominent part in society, are able to handle business, and really prove successful in the management of important interests. The late Justice Strong left three daughters, two of them being unmarried. When Judge Strong was a wealthy man in modern meaning of that word, still he had a comfortable fortune and was the owner of considerable real estate. He was very careful of his property, and naturally devolved upon the daughters and it is believed that they are fully equal to the emergency.
There are other instances which might be cited if it were deemed necessary to prove that fact that women are capable of managing business af-

AMONG THE LEPPERS.

Those of Molokai Have Many Ways of Escaping the Plague.
Here in this sequestered spot of people afflicted with the most dreaded of known diseases, from which there is no escape but through the portals of death, is presented one of the noblest and brightest pictures of the glory of Christianity, with its marvelous self-sacrifice amid surroundings and under circumstances the most depressing. These poor victims, doomed to the ravages of a disease that completes its deadly work in the average of four or five years, the progress of which is a slow and painful one, the most significant and destructive provision, can alone appreciate at its true worth the Christian heroism of those who are laboring among them, following in the footsteps of the venerated Father Damien, who reached the island to accept, if need be, the burden of the disease itself in their behalf. And yet unwhipped does not chill the air of Molokai. Death has lost its terror by reason of the family intimacy, and by the silver lining that faith has given to the cloud. The Hawaiians are naturally a light hearted people, and even the shadow of leprosy cannot suppress for long their buoyant temperament.
In Molokai leprosy may be found engaged in pleasant pastimes, among them one may hear the light and cheerful words of greeting and see the sunny smiles. Horse racing, which is a favorite national sport, is indulged in frequently. Now and then a Goblet, or a crown from H. They work, while able, in the cultivation of the ground and in other ways, and altogether lead a far pleasanter and more contented life than might be supposed. The improvement upon the old method of treatment, what it was when Father Damien took up his residence on the island in 1873, has been chiefly brought about by his influence and the labors of his successors.—Donahoe's Magazine.

WALKING FOR HEALTH.

When there is no organic weakness which is aggravated by the exertion, it is a good thing to take a walk in the open air. Of course, there is no virtue in a dawdling walk. A slow and languid dragging of one foot after another, with some people, will weary and tire the system, and will utterly exhaust a weak person, and it is the reason why most delicate people think they cannot walk. To derive any benefit from the exercise, it is necessary to walk with a light, elastic step, which swings the weight of the body so easily from one leg to the other that its weight is not felt, which is the reason why the walking of the sluggish blood is stirred to action in the remote veins. This sort of walking exhilarates the whole body, gives tone to the nerves, and produces the most beneficial results. The walking which encourages sound, restful sleep.—From "Have You Nervous Prostration?" in Democrat's Magazine for November.

WIVES AS TREASURERS.

A Man Whose Wife Carried the Purse—A Bachelor's Widow.
Two passengers on a New Haven train approached each other for a few minutes ago conversed together in a loud tone that, in one of them, was bluff, hearty, stout and a bachelor, talked in a particularly loud voice, while his companion, who was thin, weak and a benevolent, in the other, was only a woman, still not unkindly after the passengers in the seats near by began to take an interest in the conversation.
"No," said the bachelor, "they want me to get married, but I tell them that money runs in my family, and I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed. But when she found out that he had been getting $12 a week more all the time she seemed to wish that he were alive again just for a little while, but I guess that he would just as soon have been dead if he had had his choice then. I have heard lots of people say that you ought to be married, but I don't think so. I don't care to be tied down the way most of them are. Why, there was a man down in our place died not long ago, and the widow came down to get his wages. He had died on a Friday, and he had the week's wages coming. She ought to have seen that widow when she found out how much he gave a week. He had been taking his wages home to her every week and giving it all to her to divide, as she supposed.

Baking Powder

ABSOLUTELY PURE

TO HEAR HER SING.

To see her perfect head thrown back. To hear her sing (the dulcet sweet tones) These ripples forth a melody so free, So joyous and so glad, the happy birds Are moved to wonder on the maple tree. Just at the window, where she sits and sings, Herself the sweetest among all sweet things!

The little sweetest knot of golden hair— I wonder oft if aught would tempt her. The social eyes upturned—am I sure Not an inch, woman, see Cecilia's hair? Could look so sweetly on a simple braid? The bunch of white on her girlish breast? Show scarcely white against her bosom's snow—

But with an adroitness which closer cling, Glad to be near her, glad to hear her sing— How to enter in Southern Magazine!

A PRECEDENT

"But don't you think," said I to Miss Hewitt, "that the end justifies the means?" She shook her head. "Oh, no," she said, "that's Jesuitical!" "Well, now, here's an example," I suggested. "You are anxious to sell the contents of this stall, aren't you?" "Oh, yes!" responded Miss Hewitt. "And you would be delighted if some one were to come and buy it all up? It would be of such use to the charity."

"Certainly," said Miss Hewitt promptly. "I would not care to see Miss Hewitt over the way!" I added. "Miss Hewitt looked at me with suspicion, but I'm sure I was very deuce. 'Oh, it would be nice, of course, to be successful,' she assented. 'It would mean $50.' 'May I trouble you for another cent?' said I, feeling that I was not so far from the thing after all. 'Thank you—strawberry! Well, as I was saying, if you could find a means of getting rid of all this, and thereby benefiting the charity by so much, you would feel disposed to do it, even if it cost you a cent more—quite, you know.' 'I wouldn't do anything dishonest,' put in Miss Hewitt quickly. 'Oh, I wasn't talking of anything dishonest,' I protested. 'I was only thinking that there might be some means, not dishonest, of getting rid of just a little—well, not quite conventional, you know.'"

"What sort of means?" asked Miss Hewitt curiously. "Why, now," I said, "you have sold very little all the day, haven't you?" "Miss Hewitt has been and a disconcerted look came into her face. 'While I've been here,' I said, "you have only disposed of two pairs of stockings, one woolen comforter for the wet weather and a sort of—kind of—a little quilt case, but I thought I looked like—'I know I haven't sold much,' broke in Miss Hewitt hastily, and with a slight accession of color. 'You have only bought a few inches.' I looked meditative. 'So I have,' I said, feeling that there might be some means upon me. 'I wonder if I might—' 'Perhaps better not,' I suggested. 'I suppose you haven't such a thing as a baby's perambulator, Miss Hewitt?' Miss Hewitt was not amused. She had only one eye to a bargain, and she said, 'I haven't any, but I've got a very nicely dressed cradle, and some rattles—and—' 'Ah, said I, shaking my head, 'I'm afraid it's not old enough for these things.' She sighed and glanced across the way where the doctor was sitting, engaged in a rousing trade. 'I think I might have one more ice,' I said very bravely. It was not so very hard, after all. The heat was very great, and they soon melted.

"Miss Hewitt was very nice about it. 'Are you sure you ought to?' she asked doubtfully. 'Miss Hewitt,' said I, 'you are much too scrupulous. That is the reason of your failure. And yet you have sold me a cradle and rattles with perfect propriety, knowing that I am a bachelor. The inconsistency of your sex is a puzzle.' I remarked, shaking my head. 'Oh, but I didn't think about that!' she said, with a blush. 'I only thought you wanted ice.' 'Come, then,' I said, 'what would you do to get rid of all your articles of commerce?' Miss Hewitt's eyes opened. 'Oh, if I could only do that!' she exclaimed. 'Well, how far would you be prepared to go for it?' said I impatiently. She paused. 'I'd give up the hall tonight,' she exclaimed impulsively. I shook my head. 'I have no means of gauging the value of that renunciation,' I said thoughtfully, 'but possibly it is greater than the one I know which would enable you to get your stall.' 'Oh, do you know a way?' cried she breathlessly. 'Why, certainly,' I said, still reflectively. 'Mr. Randall, tell me,' she pleaded, clasping her hands and putting her elbows on the stall. She looked eagerly into my face. I really had no notion until that moment, but somehow her action put it into my head. 'Have you ever heard of the beautiful Duchess of Devonshire, Miss Hewitt?' I asked.

"Miss Hewitt leaned, starting at me for a moment, and then a look of intelligence came into her eyes, her color started, and she moved away. 'I don't think you should make that kind of jest,' she remarked. 'I'm sure it's not a jest,' I answered reassuringly. 'You're all the horrider,' she returned, beginning to be busy with her commerce. 'But,' I said in perplexity, 'I don't see—only asked you if you remember the Duchess of Devonshire—the one whose name was printed, you know. Miss Hewitt was much embarrassed. Her face took on many expressions. 'But you—' she began and stopped. 'Do you remember her?' I asked. 'Of course,' said Miss Hewitt snappishly. 'Well, then, I'm sure you would be proud to see her. You thought that I was advising you to sell.' 'Miss Hewitt got redder than ever. 'I didn't think anything of the sort,' she exclaimed hurriedly and dashing away at nothing. 'And I wish you'd go away if you're going to buy anything.' 'I should like another ice, please,' said I.

Miss Hewitt was somewhat taken aback and looked as if she would like to speak, but she only frowned and dumped another ice upon the counter. 'But new you have suggested it,' I went on, considering it. 'It's always so particular. Miss Hewitt moved to the farther end of the stall and sold another pair of stockings. 'It's quite worth thinking of,' I said when she was within hearing again. 'I am glad you mentioned it.' 'I never mentioned anything,' she retorted hotly. 'No, of course you didn't mention it,' I agreed, 'but I don't see why you should be angry, because we are discussing calmly.' 'I'm not discussing anything,' she observed tartly. 'No, no,' but if the Duchess of Devonshire thought it a good deed to purchase what she considered the welfare of her country by allowing votes to kiss her I don't think you should be offended if, for the sake of an excellent charity, 'I am not the Duchess of Devonshire,' said Miss Hewitt shortly. 'I don't suppose,' I said, 'that it was much of a kiss. Miss Hewitt's nostrils curled in scorn. 'Good people are always so particular. I said philosophically. Miss Hewitt's indignation broke forth. 'Do you suppose, Mr. Randall,' said she sarcastically, 'that one would allow any one that wished to—' 'Oh, I never said any one," I interrupted hastily. "No, certainly not any one." She looked at me with undisguised hauteur. I glanced about the stall. "I should like to have a lot of those things," I said. "I could send them to a children's hospital, you know." Miss Hewitt's face relaxed slightly. "They would be very useful," she said. "It would be $50, wouldn't it?" I asked, as if entering on a calculation. "Yes," said Miss Hewitt, with a sigh. "I don't know how to get rid of them. They've been here four years ago at the Cornell (N. Y.) station with celery under glass. Professor L. H. Bailey, who stroke to fill up the hole. When properly set, plants cannot be pulled out by the roots. Aim to set the plants when the soil is in the best condition. By this new method of cultivating is avoided most tedious part of the cultivation, that of the first two weeding, and most of the cultivating is done with the hoe. It is a cultivation with this every week or ten days. One thorough weeding by hand ought to suffice. One of the best tools for this work is an old table knife. What hoeing is necessary after this is usually done with a narrow bladed hoe.

A Convenience in Winter. A great convenience for winter is a tight room with a slant roof, under which the plants are kept in wicker wagons and coverings. The door should be large enough to take in a vehicle it is desired to keep clean. A tank should be arranged at the upper part of the room.

WINTER GROWN CELERY BLEACHING. makes the following report, claims that it is a comparatively easy matter to grow celery for late spring and early summer use. He says: "The seeds of the late fall or early winter in flats or seed pans. About one month after sowing the plants are pricked out into other flats, where they stand three or four inches apart each way. A month or so later they are transplanted into beds, following lettuce, cauliflower, etc., then for two months or more taking up little or no room, for the flats are placed in vacant places here and there throughout the house, and they need little other care than watering. They should be kept cool, for if one attempts to force them they will likely run to seed. When the plants are finally transplanted, we like to put them in solid beds without bottom heat.

In six weeks to two months after the plants are transplanted into permanent quarters they will be ready to bleach, and this operation caused more trouble than anything else. Many plants were tried, but all failed, until thick, hard wrapping paper, with an almost "sized" surface, proved to be an admirable success. The stalks were brought together and tied, and a sixth of paper reaching to within two or three inches of the tips of the leaves was rolled tightly about the plant. As the plant grew another width of paper was rolled about the first, and again reaching nearly to the top of the plant. Two applications of paper are sufficient. A month to six weeks is required to bleach the celery by this process in a cool house in April and May.

The seeds of the station's last crop of house celery were sown Dec. 10, 1894; pricked off Jan. 8, planted in beds Feb. 6, first tied in papers April 12, second tying May 6, celery for use May 21 and June 10. The plants were well adapted to house cultivation. The quantity of this house grown product is equal to that grown in the field.

Satisfactory Water Gate. An Ohio genius gave The Farm Journal the drawing of a water gate which he thinks is of the most sensible thing of the kind he ever saw, and he has had much experience with such gates. To make one take 8 or 10 strands of wire cable.

I looked at her, but she was not looking at me. "I think you have given me your water gate," I observed. "It isn't very generous," she said. "I'm sure it's quite enough," said Miss Hewitt firmly. "Well, at any rate, let us sit out the second," I suggested. Miss Hewitt looked at me in surprise. "I thought you liked to sit out the second," she said. "Oh, sometimes," I said. "But we might have a talk in the conservatory. It's sure to be very hot."

"Do you think it is?" she said. "Certainly." "Oh, well," she said, and she went to the conservatory. "I'm sure you'll find it very hot," she said, leaning on the stall contentedly. "I shall leave you the $50 now! And then you can send the things to the hospital at once, you know." Miss Hewitt avoided my eyes. "I didn't know," she began and looked at me. "I had it better," she murmured. I offered my hand. "Tonight, then," I said. She did look at me at last, but it was quite by accident—just the sort of accident that happened in the conservatory. H. B. Marriott-Watson in Black and White.

Distance Apart of Planting Potatoes. The assistant horticulturist of the Illinois station, in his valuable bulletin on potato experiments, says on the subject of distance apart of planting: "This has been made a special study of in eight states, and the average of the results goes to prove the common practice among farmers to be correct. Hills have seldom given as good yields as drills. In drilling potatoes Michigan makes a distinction between planting in rows and in rows and pieces and recommends for single rows 12 to 15 inches apart, for half potatoes 2 feet apart, and for whole potatoes 2 1/2 feet apart. Ohio says rows should be from 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart and the hill row 2 feet, and in supposing one or two eye pieces are used for seed. In 32 trials of hill as compared to drill planting in Michigan the results were in favor of drills. The New York experiment station, at Geneva, reports in favor of drill planting. Wisconsin has found no material difference between hills and drills.

THE NEW ONION CULTURE. What an Ohio Man Said About It as a Horticultural Societies. The new culture consists simply in sowing the seed in greenhouse, hot beds or elsewhere, and then transplanting to the open ground, as cabbage or other plants. By selecting the right varieties, it is claimed for this method a larger yield of better quality and with less labor than by any other method. There are several varieties, of foreign origin, that take well to this method of culture, but the Spanish King or Prize Taker is by far the best and most adapted to our climate. The variety was first tested. This variety resembles the large Bermudas. The seed may be sown from the middle of February to the middle of March, and transplanting done when the seedlings are about an inch high. The plants are taken up by loosening the soil under them first with a trowel or stick. By trimming off part of the tops and roots were enabled to set plants more rapidly and better. Do not trim severely, but with a bunch of plants in one hand, and with a single stroke of the knife we take off just enough of the top that the plant will stand erect when set, and at another stroke enough to leave the roots as taken off so that we can do much better work. To set the plants a round stick about an inch in diameter, sharpened to a point, answers the purpose very well. With this make two or three strokes to each plant. First, a straight line of soil, into which the plant is placed and held with the left hand, the second time the dibble is inserted, about an inch from the plant, pointed toward the plant at an angle, and then pushed toward the roots; then another light

REDHOT JOURNALISM

TRIALS OF A CONFEDERATE NEWS-PAPER DURING THE WAR.

Wanderings of The Rebel in Three States. From Waterbury, Conn., to Atlanta, Ga., His Meeting With General Bragg—How the Paper's Career Was Closed.

The story of The Rebel in its wanderings over the South in the latter part of the war is a story of the most interesting character. Survivors of the Army of Tennessee especially remember the little sheet that found its way to the camps daily and inspired the boys to renewed energy and hope for the cause they deemed the right. Like the loved and inspiring "Dixie," The Rebel frod the southern heart by its very name.

The Rebel first saw the light Aug. 1, 1862, in Chattanooga. It was a four column folio, published by Frank M. Bragg. Thousands of copies were sent to the army with much diffidence. When the supply was inadequate to the demand, owing to the fact that the publisher's press, a drum cylinder, could not print them fast enough. Often the press was kept going all day to supply the demand from the army officers.

So popular did The Rebel become in a few weeks that the publisher in October, 1862, engaged the young but versatile and rising journalist, Henry Waterson, to edit the paper. Mr. Waterson brought the assistance of Gen. Bragg, son Mr. Albert Roberts, a vigorous writer and trained journalist of Nashville. He was a humorous writer, using the nom de plume of "John Happy."

Waterson and Roberts kept The Rebel at white heat until the paper grew in importance and size, being made a five column paper shortly after the publication began. Well does the writer remember the eagerness of the army for the only highly prized paper that the boys in camp could read in their intervals of every morning on the trail from Chattanooga.

When General Bragg began his retrograde movement in the spring of 1863 to Chattanooga, The Rebel was supplied to the army with much diffidence. When the army arrived there, the paper was in still greater demand. In the summer of that year, however, it became evident that the Federals were coming to Chattanooga for the purpose of capturing the army with much diffidence. When The Rebel began its wanderings over the South.

The paper was removed to Marietta, Ga., Messrs. Waterson and Roberts staying in Chattanooga a few days before the evacuation of the city. The shelling of Chattanooga in that month soon convinced the editors that they must go to join the paper. Editor in Chief Waterson had been shortly after the evacuation of Chattanooga while the paper was in Chattanooga. One evening he visited a gentleman's house in that town, and it happened that General Bragg was also a visitor. The two gentlemen had never met, and while waiting for the host to appear, after being ushered into the parlor by a servant, Waterson and Bragg began a casual conversation, which soon turned upon the war. Although he knew he was in the presence of an officer, he did not hesitate to speak freely. Corral, which contains not only a coffee pot for food and that which they do not eat, but also a number of tin cans, and a few tin spoons, and thousands of letters have become discouraged.

The Slakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to visit with their little daughter Corral, which contains not only a coffee pot for food and that which they do not eat, but also a number of tin cans, and a few tin spoons, and thousands of letters have become discouraged.

LAXLY, the new castor oil, is being used in hospitals. It is sweet as honey.

Two Yorkshiresmen had been on a trip to Backbord and were on their way home, when one noticed that his companion was carrying a bottle half filled with whisky.

"Why, what 'ave yer got there, Bill?" he asked.

"Well, yer see," was the reply, "my old woman hasa seen 't, sea, so I thought I'd take her a drop."

"But," said the first, "while yer were doing it, why didn't yer take a full bottle?"

"Not me," was the answer. "What should I 'ave done when the tide began a-risin' and broke the bottle?"—London Tit-Bits.

A Hard Day's Work. "I almost feel tired," said the new woman as she laid her beaver aside and gave orders for the proper stabling of her bicycle.

"I thought you men never got tired," groaned her husband.

"Rarely," replied the new woman, "but today I made the speech that killed the bill for the consumption of human beings, and raised the roof of the capitol with a piece of my mind, and if that ain't enough to tire a body I'd like to know what is!"—Atlanta Constitution.

When cleaning house, it is convenient to have a stick with a deep notch in the end with which to lift picture wires and cords off their hooks. It saves much climbing up and down.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, ss. FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & CO., done business in the City of Toledo, County of Lucas and State of Ohio, the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for one and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1888.

A. W. GLEWSON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, sending it into the system.

Send for a description of this BRED, O. T. C. HOGS, which weighed 1673 lbs. First applicant from each locality can have a pair on time.

The Man Who Knows How to Dance Well Knows Little Else. She had been to a party the night before, and she was looking correspondingly pale, tired and interesting. When I saw her she had just eaten a hearty breakfast.

"Did you have a good time last night?" I inquired, beaming at her with my best smile.

"No, I didn't," she said shortly. "No, didn't? Don't you have plenty of parties?"

"Oh, yes, of course. But I've discovered one thing (looking very wise and important), and that is, that the nicest man either can't dance or won't dance. They are all very complimentary, but my poor girls have to wait with the clowns. They are splendid partners, but they're such dummies aside from their dancing. In between dances time drags horribly. One says the same old things to each man. 'Do you like to dance, Mr. Stuppidly? Really? How interesting?"

"Nice floor, isn't it? Yes, such a pretty ballroom. The hostess is sweet, isn't she? Such a delightful home, too, —" as a success.

"If a girl does get a sensible, bright fellow to ask her to dance this what happens?"

She threw open her closet door and brought out the flurry which had been worn the night before. The flurry made the hostess cry out in indignation and the tips of the white satin slippers had been trodden upon (ill none of their original purity of color remained).

"Did you go to the circus?" asked the girl indignantly. "Yes," responded I, wondering what that led up to.

FARM GARDEN

CELERY UNDER GLASS.

For Late Spring and Early Summer Market. Bleaching the House Grown Product. Celery goes out of the market in April, when the stored crop is exhausted, and until the early field product is raised in July, celery is not to be obtained. With view to supplying the demand in May and June, experiments were begun four years ago at the Cornell (N. Y.) station with celery under glass. Professor L. H. Bailey, who

A Convenience in Winter. A great convenience for winter is a tight room with a slant roof, under which the plants are kept in wicker wagons and coverings. The door should be large enough to take in a vehicle it is desired to keep clean. A tank should be arranged at the upper part of the room.

WINTER GROWN CELERY BLEACHING. makes the following report, claims that it is a comparatively easy matter to grow celery for late spring and early summer use. He says: "The seeds of the late fall or early winter in flats or seed pans. About one month after sowing the plants are pricked out into other flats, where they stand three or four inches apart each way. A month or so later they are transplanted into beds, following lettuce, cauliflower, etc., then for two months or more taking up little or no room, for the flats are placed in vacant places here and there throughout the house, and they need little other care than watering. They should be kept cool, for if one attempts to force them they will likely run to seed. When the plants are finally transplanted, we like to put them in solid beds without bottom heat.

In six weeks to two months after the plants are transplanted into permanent quarters they will be ready to bleach, and this operation caused more trouble than anything else. Many plants were tried, but all failed, until thick, hard wrapping paper, with an almost "sized" surface, proved to be an admirable success. The stalks were brought together and tied, and a sixth of paper reaching to within two or three inches of the tips of the leaves was rolled tightly about the plant. As the plant grew another width of paper was rolled about the first, and again reaching nearly to the top of the plant. Two applications of paper are sufficient. A month to six weeks is required to bleach the celery by this process in a cool house in April and May.

The seeds of the station's last crop of house celery were sown Dec. 10, 1894; pricked off Jan. 8, planted in beds Feb. 6, first tied in papers April 12, second tying May 6, celery for use May 21 and June 10. The plants were well adapted to house cultivation. The quantity of this house grown product is equal to that grown in the field.

Satisfactory Water Gate. An Ohio genius gave The Farm Journal the drawing of a water gate which he thinks is of the most sensible thing of the kind he ever saw, and he has had much experience with such gates. To make one take 8 or 10 strands of wire cable.

I looked at her, but she was not looking at me. "I think you have given me your water gate," I observed. "It isn't very generous," she said. "I'm sure it's quite enough," said Miss Hewitt firmly. "Well, at any rate, let us sit out the second," I suggested. Miss Hewitt looked at me in surprise. "I thought you liked to sit out the second," she said. "Oh, sometimes," I said. "But we might have a talk in the conservatory. It's sure to be very hot."

"Do you think it is?" she said. "Certainly." "Oh, well," she said, and she went to the conservatory. "I'm sure you'll find it very hot," she said, leaning on the stall contentedly. "I shall leave you the $50 now! And then you can send the things to the hospital at once, you know." Miss Hewitt avoided my eyes. "I didn't know," she began and looked at me. "I had it better," she murmured. I offered my hand. "Tonight, then," I said. She did look at me at last, but it was quite by accident—just the sort of accident that happened in the conservatory. H. B. Marriott-Watson in Black and White.

Distance Apart of Planting Potatoes. The assistant horticulturist of the Illinois station, in his valuable bulletin on potato experiments, says on the subject of distance apart of planting: "This has been made a special study of in eight states, and the average of the results goes to prove the common practice among farmers to be correct. Hills have seldom given as good yields as drills. In drilling potatoes Michigan makes a distinction between planting in rows and in rows and pieces and recommends for single rows 12 to 15 inches apart, for half potatoes 2 feet apart, and for whole potatoes 2 1/2 feet apart. Ohio says rows should be from 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart and the hill row 2 feet, and in supposing one or two eye pieces are used for seed. In 32 trials of hill as compared to drill planting in Michigan the results were in favor of drills. The New York experiment station, at Geneva, reports in favor of drill planting. Wisconsin has found no material difference between hills and drills.

THE NEW ONION CULTURE. What an Ohio Man Said About It as a Horticultural Societies. The new culture consists simply in sowing the seed in greenhouse, hot beds or elsewhere, and then transplanting to the open ground, as cabbage or other plants. By selecting the right varieties, it is claimed for this method a larger yield of better quality and with less labor than by any other method. There are several varieties, of foreign origin, that take well to this method of culture, but the Spanish King or Prize Taker is by far the best and most adapted to our climate. The variety was first tested. This variety resembles the large Bermudas. The seed may be sown from the middle of February to the middle of March, and transplanting done when the seedlings are about an inch high. The plants are taken up by loosening the soil under them first with a trowel or stick. By trimming off part of the tops and roots were enabled to set plants more rapidly and better. Do not trim severely, but with a bunch of plants in one hand, and with a single stroke of the knife we take off just enough of the top that the plant will stand erect when set, and at another stroke enough to leave the roots as taken off so that we can do much better work. To set the plants a round stick about an inch in diameter, sharpened to a point, answers the purpose very well. With this make two or three strokes to each plant. First, a straight line of soil, into which the plant is placed and held with the left hand, the second time the dibble is inserted, about an inch from the plant, pointed toward the plant at an angle, and then pushed toward the roots; then another light stroke to fill up the hole. When properly set, plants cannot be pulled out by the roots. Aim to set the plants when the soil is in the best condition. By this new method of cultivating is avoided most tedious part of the cultivation, that of the first two weeding, and most of the cultivating is done with the hoe. It is a cultivation with this every week or ten days. One thorough weeding by hand ought to suffice. One of the best tools for this work is an old table knife. What hoeing is necessary after this is usually done with a narrow bladed hoe.

A Convenience in Winter. A great convenience for winter is a tight room with a slant roof, under which the plants are kept in wicker wagons and coverings. The door should be large enough to take in a vehicle it is desired to keep clean. A tank should be arranged at the upper part of the room.

WINTER GROWN CELERY BLEACHING. makes the following report, claims that it is a comparatively easy matter to grow celery for late spring and early summer use. He says: "The seeds of the late fall or early winter in flats or seed pans. About one month after sowing the plants are pricked out into other flats, where they stand three or four inches apart each way. A month or so later they are transplanted into beds, following lettuce, cauliflower, etc., then for two months or more taking up little or no room, for the flats are placed in vacant places here and there throughout the house, and they need little other care than watering. They should be kept cool, for if one attempts to force them they will likely run to seed. When the plants are finally transplanted, we like to put them in solid beds without bottom heat.

In six weeks to two months after the plants are transplanted into permanent quarters they will be ready to bleach, and this operation caused more trouble than anything else. Many plants were tried, but all failed, until thick, hard wrapping paper, with an almost "sized" surface, proved to be an admirable success. The stalks were brought together and tied, and a sixth of paper reaching to within two or three inches of the tips of the leaves was rolled tightly about the plant. As the plant grew another width of paper was rolled about the first, and again reaching nearly to the top of the plant. Two applications of paper are sufficient. A month to six weeks is required to bleach the celery by this process in a cool house in April and May.

The seeds of the station's last crop of house celery were sown Dec. 10, 1894; pricked off Jan. 8, planted in beds Feb. 6, first tied in papers April 12, second tying May 6, celery for use May 21 and June 10. The plants were well adapted to house cultivation. The quantity of this house grown product is equal to that grown in the field.

Satisfactory Water Gate. An Ohio genius gave The Farm Journal the drawing of a water gate which he thinks is of the most sensible thing of the kind he ever saw, and he has had much experience with such gates. To make one take 8 or 10 strands of wire cable.

I looked at her, but she was not looking at me. "I think you have given me your water gate," I observed. "It isn't very generous," she said. "I'm sure it's quite enough," said Miss Hewitt firmly. "Well, at any rate, let us sit out the second," I suggested. Miss Hewitt looked at me in surprise. "I thought you liked to sit out the second," she said. "Oh, sometimes," I said. "But we might have a talk in the conservatory. It's sure to be very hot."

"Do you think it is?" she said. "Certainly." "Oh, well," she said, and she went to the conservatory. "I'm sure you'll find it very hot," she said, leaning on the stall contentedly. "I shall leave you the $50 now! And then you can send the things to the hospital at once, you know." Miss Hewitt avoided my eyes. "I didn't know," she began and looked at me. "I had it better," she murmured. I offered my hand. "Tonight, then," I said. She did look at me at last, but it was quite by accident—just the sort of accident that happened in the conservatory. H. B. Marriott-Watson in Black and White.

Distance Apart of Planting Potatoes. The assistant horticulturist of the Illinois station, in his valuable bulletin on potato experiments, says on the subject of distance apart of planting: "This has been made a special study of in eight states, and the average of the results goes to prove the common practice among farmers to be correct. Hills have seldom given as good yields as drills. In drilling potatoes Michigan makes a distinction between planting in rows and in rows and pieces and recommends for single rows 12 to 15 inches apart, for half potatoes 2 feet apart, and for whole potatoes 2 1/2 feet apart. Ohio says rows should be from 2 1/2 to 3 feet apart and the hill row 2 feet, and in supposing one or two eye pieces are used for seed. In 32 trials of hill as compared to drill planting in Michigan the results were in favor of drills. The New York experiment station, at Geneva, reports in favor of drill planting. Wisconsin has found no material difference between hills and drills.

THE NEW ONION CULTURE. What an Ohio Man Said About It as a Horticultural Societies. The new culture consists simply in sowing the seed in greenhouse, hot beds or elsewhere, and then transplanting to the open ground, as cabbage or other plants. By selecting the right varieties, it is claimed for this method a larger yield of better quality and with less labor than by any other method. There are several varieties, of foreign origin, that take well to this method of culture, but the Spanish King or Prize Taker is by far the best and most adapted to our climate. The variety was first tested. This variety resembles the large Bermudas. The seed may be sown from the middle of February to the middle of March, and transplanting done when the seedlings are about an inch high. The plants are taken up by loosening the soil under them first with a trowel or stick. By trimming off part of the tops and roots were enabled to set plants more rapidly and better. Do not trim severely, but with a bunch of plants in one hand, and with a single stroke of the knife we take off just enough of the top that the plant will stand erect when set, and at another stroke enough to leave the roots as taken off so that we can do much better work. To set the plants a round stick about an inch in diameter, sharpened to a point, answers the purpose very well. With this make two or three strokes to each plant. First, a straight line of soil, into which the plant is placed and held with the left hand, the second time the dibble is inserted, about an inch from the plant, pointed toward the plant at an angle, and then pushed toward the roots; then another light

REDHOT JOURNALISM

TRIALS OF A CONFEDERATE NEWS-PAPER DURING THE WAR.

Wanderings of The Rebel in Three States. From Waterbury, Conn., to Atlanta, Ga., His Meeting With General Bragg—How the Paper's Career Was Closed.

The story of The Rebel in its wanderings over the South in the latter part of the war is a story of the most interesting character. Survivors of the Army of Tennessee especially remember the little sheet that found its way to the camps daily and inspired the boys to renewed energy and hope for the cause they deemed the right. Like the loved and inspiring "Dixie," The Rebel frod the southern heart by its very name.

The Rebel first saw the light Aug. 1, 1862, in Chattanooga. It was a four column folio, published by Frank M. Bragg. Thousands of copies were sent to the army with much diffidence. When the supply was inadequate to the demand, owing to the fact that the publisher's press, a drum cylinder, could not print them fast enough. Often the press was kept going all day to supply the demand from the army officers.

So popular did The Rebel become in a few weeks that the publisher in October, 1862, engaged the young but versatile and rising journalist, Henry Waterson, to edit the paper. Mr. Waterson brought the assistance of Gen. Bragg, son Mr. Albert Roberts, a vigorous writer and trained journalist of Nashville. He was a humorous writer, using the nom de plume of "John Happy."

Waterson and Roberts kept The Rebel at white heat until the paper grew in importance and size, being made a five column paper shortly after the publication began. Well does the writer remember the eagerness of the army for the only highly prized paper that the boys in camp could read in their intervals of every morning on the trail from Chattanooga.

When General Bragg began his retrograde movement in the spring of 1863 to Chattanooga, The Rebel was supplied to the army with much diffidence. When the army arrived there, the paper was in still greater demand. In the summer of that year, however, it became evident that the Federals were coming to Chattanooga for the purpose of capturing the army with much diffidence. When The Rebel began its wanderings over the South.

The paper was removed to Marietta, Ga., Messrs. Waterson and Roberts staying in Chattanooga a few days before the evacuation of the city. The shelling of Chattanooga in that month soon convinced the editors that they must go to join the paper. Editor in Chief Waterson had been shortly after the evacuation of Chattanooga while the paper was in Chattanooga. One evening he visited a gentleman's house in that town, and it happened that General Bragg was also a visitor. The two gentlemen had never met, and while waiting for the host to appear, after being ushered into the parlor by a servant, Waterson and Bragg began a casual conversation, which soon turned upon the war. Although he knew he was in the presence of an officer, he did not hesitate to speak freely. Corral, which contains not only a coffee pot for food and that which they do not eat, but also a number of tin cans, and a few tin spoons, and thousands of letters have become discouraged.

The Slakers of Mount Lebanon recently came to visit with their little daughter Corral, which contains not only a coffee pot for food and that which they do not eat, but also a number of tin cans, and a few tin spoons, and thousands of letters have become discouraged.

LAXLY, the new castor oil, is being used in hospitals. It is sweet as honey.

Two Yorkshiresmen had been on a trip to Backbord and were on their way home, when one noticed that his companion was carrying a bottle half filled with whisky.

"Why, what 'ave yer got there, Bill?" he asked.

"Well, yer see," was the reply, "my old woman hasa seen 't, sea, so I thought I'd take her a drop."

"But," said the first, "while yer were doing it, why didn't yer take a full bottle?"

"Not me," was the answer. "What should I 'ave done when the tide began a-risin' and broke the bottle?"—London Tit-Bits.

A Hard Day's Work. "I almost feel tired," said the new woman as she laid her beaver aside and gave orders for the proper stabling of her bicycle.

"I thought you men never got tired," groaned her husband.

"Rarely," replied the new woman, "but today I made the speech that killed the bill for the consumption of human beings, and raised the roof of the capitol with a piece of my mind, and if that ain't enough to tire a body I'd like to know what is!"—Atlanta Constitution.

When cleaning house, it is convenient to have a stick with a deep notch in the end with which to lift picture wires and cords off their hooks. It saves much climbing up and down.

STATE OF OHIO,