BUCHANAN RECORD.

D. H. BOWER,
PUBLISHER AND PROPRIETOR.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1906

The American Newspaper Directory for 1905

accredits to the Buchanan the largest circulation of any weekly published in Berrien County.

Would it not be a good plan for the residents of Buchanan and Bertrand townships to raise a fund to send a representative to attend the "Good Roads Convention" at Lansing, March 3. Certainly the merchants of Buchanan should be interested in having good roads leading into our village, for a good road is one of the strongest inducements a village can have to secure the trade of the surrounding country. People will drive ten miles over poor roads in preference to five miles over good roads, with mud half way to the hubs.

NEW TROY.

From our Regular Correspondent.

February 3, 1906. Yesterday was "wood chuck" day and several of the inhabitants stayed inside for fear they would see their shadow. The sun came out however and now for six weeks more of winter, and it looks as if it was all to come this week.

The new store is doing a rushing business. There has been some sickness but all seem to be getting better and no one so far has died.

"I am cured since this is the first day," says one of the recovered vitality and vigor.

HARRISON

NOT IN THE RACE.

Declines to permit the use of his name at St. Louis.

Capt. John K. Gowdy, chairman of the Indiana republican state committee, called on Gen. Harrison Monday evening by invitation, and the ex-president handed him the following self-explanatory letter:

"Dear John K. Gowdy, Indianapolis, Ind.—In view of the resolutions passed by the state central committee at its recent meeting, and of the fact that delegates to the national republican convention are to be chosen in this state, I have concluded that some statement from me as to my wishes and purpose should now be made to my Indiana friends.

"Hitherto I have declined to speak to the public upon this matter, but scores of friends to whom I have talked, and many scores more to whom I have written, will recognize in this expression the substance of what I said to them. To every one who has proposed to promote my nomination, I have said 'No.' There never has been an hour since I left the White house, I have felt a wish to return to it. My Indiana friends have been most devoted and faithful, and I am their grateful debtor. The republican convention twice gave me its endorsement and that is enough. I think the voters of our party are now entitled to have a new name. For the sentiment, great or small, that has been manifested for my nomination, I am grateful; and of that I will respect and kindness—breaking party lines—which have been shown in so many ways, I am profoundly appreciative.

"I cannot consent that my name be presented to or used in the St. Louis convention, and must kindly ask my friends to accept this as a sincere and final expression upon the subject.

"BENJAMIN HARRISON.

Rumor immediately spread that the marriage had occurred, so in celebration of the event in the evening, about twenty-five men, boys and kids, armed with guns, cow bells and their vocal organs strung to concert pitch, met and unanimously chose Andy Hein for captain, thence they proceeded to the supposed bride's home and began the serenade, expecting to call out the young couple and a treat to cigars. After exhausting their ammunition, etc., without any success, they went home thoroughly disgruntled. Quite a joke on the boys.

A Letter from the Gold Belt.

WEST CREEK, El Paso Co., Colo., Jan. 27, 1906.

EDITOR BUCHANAN RECORD:—I received one of your dear old RECORDS yesterday and, in fact, it was a little ancient, Jan. 2, but nevertheless I was pleased to get it, as it seemed like home to read the names so familiar.

I have received letters inquiring about this country, and I see by the RECORD that you invite correspondence from Troy, Galien, Soles and Bertrand. I do not see why you should not have a letter from here, and as at most ever one in the good old country of Berrien reads the RECORD, I thought that if you would give me a little space, I could answer all correspondents at the same time.

This district is located fifty-five miles north-west of Denver, and about twenty-four miles north of Colorado Springs. The camp is strictly standard gold, in formation, no silver to speak of so far. The first town I start on, on account of the mine, was Pemberton, which is four miles north of this city. Pemberton is about three months old, and has a population of about 700 or 800, and is growing rapidly. This place was planned for a town about thirty days ago, and there are at the present writing sixty-five buildings finished and being built. I think this will be the town of the district, as it is at the base of the mining country. There are in the district, in the neighborhood of 2,000 people, and most of them are prospecting, and all seemed well pleased with the result. It is said that ten thousand claims have been located, up to date, and I do not believe that is any exaggeration. If you could see the crowds that go out every morning, you would estimate it almost double. It is quite a job to locate a claim. One has to find the lead before he can locate a claim, but it is much easier to locate here than in the Cripple Creek district, for the leads here crop out so bold. Some crops are one hundred feet high, and then again, they just come to the surface. It is in the same belt as Cripple Creek and Victor, where the famous Independence and the Portland are located.

There are a great many here from Cripple Creek, Leadville, Aspen, New Mexico, and the famous Rand of Johnsongberg Smith. Well, you know where it is, I guess. All who come are well pleased with the country, and stay and go prospecting. I am one of the sturdy prospectors and miners myself. I have located several claims, and I believe they will come out o. k. Though I am a millionaire, in my mind, I am a little shy in my pocket, but I will get there after a while. I have often wondered if any of the Buchanan boys didn't read of this country, and if they did, why didn't some of them come. It is no great journey, for one can step into a palace or freight car at Chicago, and ride within fourteen miles of the great gold camp. I sincerely believe it will equal Cripple Creek, and that is said to be the gold camp of the world. It has made many millionaires, and will make many more. This district is still in its infancy, as the excitement commenced about the middle of October, and it has been on the increase ever since. Although many claims have been staked, there is yet plenty of good country that is open to location. Business of all kinds is good, as far as they can be got here. A good dry goods store here would pay, as there is none. If any one wants anything in that line, it is either Denver or Colorado Springs that is the market, and it is an awful bother to get there, as there is no regular post-office or express office yet established.

Living here is very reasonable: Board per week, $5.00; board and lodging, $8.00; groceries and vegetables very reasonable. The weather so far this winter has been remarkably fine; through the day, about like October weather in old Michigan.

There are three different routes to this camp: via. South Park R. R. to South Platte, and stage from that point; the Denver and Rio Grande to Palmer's lake, also the A. T. & S. F. R. R. to the same point, and stage fourteen miles; the A. T. & S. F. also runs to Woodland park, distance from here twelve miles. So there is not much difficulty in getting here.

Very respectfully yours,

W. H. HULL.

Hawaii, the "Pearl of the Pacific."

The Third of a Series of Letter by JOHN R. MUSICK.

Author of "The Columbian Historical Novels," "Brother Against Brother," etc.

(Copyright, 1906, by Funk & Wagnalls Company, New York.)

Sans Souci and the Government Buildings, with Reminiscences of Jules Verne and Robert Louis Stevenson.

The most celebrated hotel and bathing place in the islands is Sans Souci, which is near the famous Diamond Head. Sans Souci has had for its guests some of the most famous literary men of the age. Mark Twain spent a good deal of his time while on the islands at this place. Jules Verne and Robert Louis Stevenson made it their home.

The latter, in writing of this cool retreat, said:

"If any one desired such old-fashioned things as lovely scenery, quiet, pure air, clear sea water, good food, and heavenly sunsets hung out before his eyes every evening over the Pacific and the distant hills of Waianae, I recommend him cordially to the Sans Souci."

I found several gentlemen at Sans Souci who had very vivid recollections of Stevenson. He is described by all as a small man weighing, perhaps, less than one hundred pounds, and an inveterate cigarette smoker. It is barely possible that this nicotine poison hastened the end of this strange, mysterious, gifted man.

"He smoked from morning until night," said the manager of the hotel. "I am certain he would consume sixty cigarettes a day. He was very pleasant, unless irritated, and then he was like a madman. Those who disturbed him while writing or meditating were sure to hear from him."

Mr. Timmons, city editor of the Hawaiian Star, said:

"I met Mr. Stevenson while he was here, and was very strangely impressed by him from the first. I learned that he was at Sans Souci, and went to call upon him. Reaching the quiet place, I crossed the lanna and entered the house proper. No one was in sight but a small, ordinary-looking man, who sat at a table writing."

"Where is the landlady?" I asked.

"He is out," answered the small man, and he went on with his writing.

"I think, perhaps you can answer my question," I came to see Mr. Stevenson."

"I am Mr. Stevenson."

"This was my introduction to this remarkable man."

Then Mr. Timmons told me how Mr. Stevenson came to write his famous novel "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

"The novel was written on this island and in this town. Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde live in Honolulu, and you will never meet him before you go."

That novel was the offspring of a bitter religious war between Reverend Father Dannon and Rev. Dr. Hyde, D. J., who has charge of the mission school in this city for the training of preachers. The controversy between the priest and Dr. Hyde waxed warm, and Mr. Stevenson espoused the cause of the Catholic priest. He threw his whole soul into the conflict, and as a while it seemed as if we were likely to have a religious war. Dr. Hyde, able, sharp and cutting, answered him from the pulpit and through the press until the contest became personally bitter.

Mr. Stevenson had up to the time of this controversy, it seems, entertained a high regard for Dr. Hyde, but as the words grew bitter, he fancied he discovered in him a dual nature. At last he wrote the doctor the very perfection of a gentleman, a scholar, and a Christian; at others he seemed a very demon. This idea seemed to go with his moral world and he conceived of him as a man with two faces.

I was anxious to meet Dr. Hyde, the man who so strangely inspired the wonderful novel, and when I did meet him I was impressed that he was more Jesuit than Hyde. He is a tall, finely-formed, high colored gentleman, with a fine scholarly appearance. He is secretary of the Social Science Club, a meeting of which I had the pleasure of attending, and at which place I met him.

This club, by the way, is composed of the most scholarly men on the islands. President Dole is a member, and attends the meetings regularly. In addition, I met several of the most distinguished American guests present, the most prominent of whom were United States Minister Willis, and the captain of the warship Bennington. At this meeting Dr. Bogue, secretary of the Labor Bureau, read an address on the labor problem, which was thoroughly discussed and commented upon. One can not realize the force of Americanism in the club. Chief Justice Judd, of the Supreme Court, and Professor Alexander, the historian, are members of the club and were born on the islands, yet they, with the others, argued the question from an American standpoint.

The meeting was at the residence of Dr. Hyde, and, although I studied him closely all the evening, I discovered none of the "incarnate fiend," which Stevenson represents Mr. Hyde to be in his novel.

It was while living at Sans Souci that Robert Louis Stevenson conceived and wrought out his wonderful book, and decided to leave the islands of sort. To reach Sans Souci I had only to take the Waikiki street car, and go to the end of the line, and walk the rest of the way. The ride is a pleasant one, and well worth the time and cost it cost to make it. It was about two o'clock in the afternoon when I boarded the car, driven by a native, and went rolling along the street, past the government grounds and buildings, past pretty houses half hidden by graceful swaying palms, ferns, and the rich tropical foliage, past banana plantations and groves of tall coconuts, and I was soon at the beach, where on one side and a delightful grove on the other.

The manager of the famous resort showed me the rooms which had been occupied by Jules Verne and Robert Louis Stevenson, also the tables at which they wrote, and narrated some anecdotes about them. Their rooms fronted on the beach. After a sea bath, I returned to the cool lanna, and was surprised to find that the landlady, a Canadian by birth, he was prominent in pushing the lottery scheme to which the missionaries objected so strongly. Mr. Evans stated that it was no worse to have a lottery on the islands than for thousands of dollars to go out of the country every year to lotteries in other countries. At the time of the overthrow of the Queen, he was in Chicago closing up the contract with a company of capitalists for the lottery. He says that the Chicago people were to pay the government $500,000 for twenty-five years for the franchise. Of this sum $100,000 a year was to be expended for a cable to San Francisco, $100,000 a year for the Oahu railroad, $25,000 for the encouragement of tourists travel, $75,000 for improvement of roads and bridges, and $125,000 for the purchase of the Oahu Harbor. Mr. Evans did not state what was to be done with the other $75,000, though it was probably to be used as pin money for the Queen. The royal-lion visions of Mr. Evans, whether Royalists were all dissipated by the sudden revolt of the missionary element, and the subsequent overthrow of the Queen.

The Royalists are still very bitter against the Republic. They always refer to it contemptuously as the Provisional government, and the adherents of it are styled P. G's. But they all have great respect for President Dole. I have met more than one who says the country is safe in his hands. The natives all respect him, but they want him to be declared King. It is not the man they object to, so much as the Republican form of government.

All of the more intelligent Royalists, however, admit that the Republic has come to stay, and even the Queen has lost all hope of being restored to the throne, unless Great Britain or some other European power espouses her cause; which even she admits is not probable.

I have been informed that Mr. Charles Wilson, the agent and trusted friend of the ex-Queen, has declared that he is willing to shoulder his musket to support the Republic. He was the ex-Queen's bravest friend in her hour of trouble. He advised her against the promulgation of the constitution which brought about her overthrow, but when he found she was determined, he declared he would stand or fall with her. When the uprising came, he was the only one of her followers willing to fight the revolutionists. The average Kanaka doesn't care a fig about any sort of government. His mind is taken up with luau, hula, and fishing. To him life presents no serious problems. He devotes more energy to a fishing party than to political matters.

The following extract from The American Wheelman, the recognized cycling authority for the east, gives a well deserved compliment to a "Buchanan boy," Mr. Geo. W. Noble, Jr., who is a son of Geo. W. Noble, the well known Buchanan merchant. The article is as follows:

"The Hector Manufacturing Co. is a new concern just launched upon the sea of wheel manufacturers in Chicago. It is composed of men born and brought up in the bicycle business.
The manager, Mr. G. W. Noble, got his education with the Sterling Cycle Works, and is a practical bicyclist man from the ground up. The wheel made by this firm will be known as the "Noble." William Hector, from whom the company derives its name, superintended the Standard output last year and is also of Sterling fame. High grade wheels only will be made, and the 1896 models, 35 in number, are now on exhibition at the factory, No. 39 West Washington street, Chicago. Two roadsters, 18 lbs., racer 10 lbs., a ladies' drop frame 24 lbs., and a ladies' and gentlemen's tandem comprise the list."
The Record congratulates Mr. Noble on his prospects and wishes the Hector Mfg. Co. under his management, abundant success.

Obituary.

MARY ANN RHODES was born in Juniata county, Penn., March 11, 1840, and died at the family residence
near Adamsville, Mich., Jan. 30, 1896, of heart and lung trouble, aged 55 years, 10 months and 19 days. She was married to J. R. Rhodes, April 5, 1857. She leaves to mourn her demise, her husband, one son, James of Vandalia, Mich., a daughter, Mrs. Jennie Redding of Buchanan, two brothers,
Benjamin Page of Elkhardt, Ind., Henry
Page of Iowa, two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Scout of Buchanan and Mrs. Catharine Blake of Chicago.

The deceased was a great sufferer for about three years, and endured it all with great courage and patience.
She expressed a desire many times to depart and be at rest, but willing to abide the will of her God and be with her Christ. She united with the United Brethren church about three years ago, of which she continued a faithful and devoted member, until the Master called her home.

The funeral service was held from the U. B. church at Adamsville, Mich.,
on Sunday, Feb. 2, conducted by Elder Geo. Sickafosse. The audience at the house, and the church as well, was evidence of the fact that Sister Rhodes lived very tenderly in the hearts of the people of her community. She was a devoted wife, a kind-hearted mother and a faithful Christian. Her sufferings are ended; she rests from her labors, and her works will follow her.
May the benediction of our God be upon our dear brother, the children, and relatives, and may all meet in the better country.

BERRIEN CENTRE.

Protracted meetings are being held here now conducted by W. W. Hess.
The meetings at South Berrien Centre and Eau Claire have closed. Quite a number joined the church at both places.

lake skating one day last week.

brating Washington's birthday at the happily surprised at their home Saturday night, it being their 50th anniversary. Some useful presents were received.

OLD-FASHIONED
FOOTWEAR.

We hear a good deal nowadays
about how easy old-fashioned footwear was on the feet. Just look at the above styles worn thirty years ago. How unsightly they are. It is difficult to see how they could have been comfortable.
Shoe manufacturers today make special efforts to have their products the exact shape of the foot. Some of them have succeeded better than others. In buying shoes we deal altogether with makers who have been the most successful in that direction.
