Township Committee.

Frank Munson has been granted a patent upon an improved heating stove.
Mrs. Frank Munson has bought out the bakery department of Mr. J. F. Crotsler's grocery.

The LaPorte county Agricultural Association held their annual fair Sept. 22-25, at LaPorte, Ind.

Born, at the residence of H. N. Mowers in this place, to Dr. and Mrs. Lester Peck, Thursday morning last, a girl.

Quite a number of Buchanan Maccaebes went to Benton Harbor Tuesday to attend the funeral of Wm. I. Mittan who was a member of the Buchanan lodge.

All bicyclists who intend participating in the parade at the Sunday school rally Saturday, will meet in front of C. Bishop Grain Co's warehouse, on Day's avenue, and report to Miss Elsie Kingery.

Mrs. Bertha Roe, who has formerly done baking for C. D. Kent and J. F. Crotsler, is now in the bakery business for herself, having bought out the business of F. E. Batchelor, and will be glad to see all who are in need of anything in this line.

The Benton Harbor Evening News, in speaking of the ball game of last Friday, says of Silver's pitching: Silver seemingly had the Blues at his mercy all the time and they played a listless, rotten game with but one or two exceptions, notably Graham and Martin.

Dr. F. H. Berrick has recovered his health so rapidly since undergoing the recent operation, that he has resumed his practice and has a card to that effect in our local columns. We are pleased to learn that the doctor has gained so rapidly.

Invitations are out to the marriage of Jennie June, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Carothers, to William Henry Grimes of Battle Creek. The ceremony will take place, Tuesday evening of next week, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Carothers on Portage St.

Niles deserves great credit for the noble manner in which her delegation came to the support of Buchanan's candidature for County Clerk, at the recent Republican Convention, and the Record desires to take this opportunity, upon the behalf of Mr. Needham and his friends, to thank Niles for the solid support given our candidate, and to promise that when the opportunity offers, Buchanan will be only too glad to reciprocate.

A telegram was received here announcing the death, on Thursday evening, of Mrs. Mary V. Nicholson, at her home in Valentine, Neb., of dropsy, caused by heart trouble. Her funeral occurred at Valentine, Saturday afternoon. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sparks of this place. She was born here and had spent the most of her life in this vicinity, going to Nebraska but a few years ago.

Berrien County Battalion.
The tenth annual reunion of the Berrien County Battalion will be held in Gallen, Sept. 16 and 17, 1896. The Camp Fire will be held in the evening of the 16th. Short speeches by Col. "Bert." Bower, editor of the BUCHANAN (MICH.) RECORD, carries the names of McKinley and Hobart and the other Republican candidates, at the head of his newspaper column. "Bert's" training in the Republican Newburgh Journal office evidently made lasting political impressions upon him.—Newburgh (N. Y.) Journal.

We thoroughly appreciate the kind words coming as the do from our old office, and always cherish a warm spot in our memory for "the boys" with whom we passed so many pleasant years. We cannot, however, refrain from stating, that although we imbibed much good political training from the years spent in the Journal office, yet our Republicanism is a family inheritance, the writer's father having been editor of the Williamsport (Pa.) Gazette and a "died in the wool" Republican, way back in the '50s, "before the war", and who gave his life to uphold the stars and stripes. The writer has a distinct recollection, during the Greeley campaign of 1872 of aiding his older brother, a lad of 13 years, in forcibly converting a democratic cousin, of the same age, into an ardent supporter of Grant.

THE RALLY.
A GOOD TIME ANTICIPATED.
Preparations are rapidly going on for the Sunday School Rally, next Saturday. All the schools are taking hold of the matter with a will, and every indication points to a big turnout.
The Niles band has been secured for the parade and the Niles schools will turn out in full force. The Niles and Bertrand delegations will arrive by wagon about a quarter to eleven and the procession will move promptly at eleven. The program and line of march was published in last week's RECORD, and will be carried out practically as published.
Every one is requested to decorate their stores and residences in honor of the occasion and then, after decorating, to turn out and witness the exercises. Saturday is the day.

The Republican county ticket nominated at Niles is all right, from top to bottom. Judge Van Ripper's re-nomination gives wide-spread satisfaction. He is just the man for Judge of Probate. "Bert" Ferguson will make a splendid Sheriff. John W. Needham of Buchanan, will be a wide-awake, capable Clerk. John Clark of Pipestone is one of the best esteemed farmers Berrien county will fill the office of Treasurer with ability. Alfred O. French is another estimable farmer who will bring like capability to office of Register. George M. Valentine will make a faithful and efficient public prosecutor and the rest of the ticket is composed of excellent material. There isn't a weak spot on the ticket, and it will be elected by a rousing majority.—Benton Harbor Palladium.

The senior Bible class must not take the banner for attendance, always. They had better look to their laurels. The young men are in the lead in offerings. Twenty new volumes for the Sunday school library will soon be here. What is your review question for next Sunday? We certainly had a Sunday school boom, last Sunday. Keep it going.
Rev. Wm. Roe, preached at Gallen, last Sunday. The pastor preached at Hill's Corners, at 3:30 p. m.

A WALKOVER.
HON. EDWIN S. WILLIAMS, OF NILES RENOMINATED BY ACCLAMATION AT THE REPRESENTATIVE CONVENTION TUESDAY.

If every candidate for a place on a ticket had as easy a time as had our representative to the State legislature in the representative convention at Niles on Tuesday, no one would lose any sleep before the convention. At the appointed hour the convention assembled in Bullard's hall at Niles on Tuesday afternoon. Henry L. Hess of Three Oaks, called the assemblage to order and read the call. The committee named Geo. W. Noble of Buchanan as chairman, and their selection was confirmed. Carmel R. Smith, of Niles, was elected Secretary. After listening to a rousing speech by Hon. W. G. Cochran, speaker of the House of Representatives of Illinois, the convention proceeded to business. Major L. A. Duncan, of Niles, in a very able speech presented the name of Hon. E. S. Williams, of Niles, as candidate for representative. H. L. Hess, of Three Oaks, supported the nomination and moved to make the nomination by acclamation. D. H. Bower, on behalf of Buchanan, also seconded the nomination of Mr. Williams and supported the motion of Mr. Hess. The motion was then carried unanimously by a rising vote. The old members of the representative committee were reappointed, viz: H. L. Hess, Three Oaks; E. L. Hamilton, Niles; Thomas Marx, Berrien Centre. There being some time to spare a number of short speeches were made to the convention by Hon. E. S. Williams, George W. Noble, Thos. Marx, E. A. Blakeslee, C. R. Smith, W. I. Babcock, J. K. P. McCollough, and Mr. Cochran, after which the convention adjourned.

An interesting event not down on the program occurred at the city hall just before the hose teams left for the races, this afternoon. It was the presentation of the $35 ball nozzle to the Buchanan racing team by the American Ball Nozzle Company of New York, through the agency of Mr. J. A. Crawford. It was a beautiful gift and made all the boys' eyes dance as they saw this prize go to the Buchanan boys who won it by taking second in yesterday's race.—Saturday's Benton Harbor Palladium.

Good Words from Niles.
For Clerk John W. Needham of Buchanan was nominated. Every one in this part of the county knows John. He is a high, well educated and will be a worthy successor to the present incumbent, F. A. Woodruff.—Niles Star.

To a Star reporter, Mr. Needham expressed his appreciation for the assistance of the Niles delegates, and said that he would be glad to be regarded as a personal acquaintance with the young man, we are of the same opinion.—Niles Star.

THE FROG'S PARTY.

He made special and exclusive arrangements with the author for a series of new and charming fairy stories by Walter B. Guild.

For some time they will be one of our special features. Do not miss a single issue while they continue.

THE FROG'S PARTY.
CHAPTER III.
The king blew again on his whistle, and the frogs gave grave attention. "Who will run a race," said the king, "with our guest, the magically initiated Boy Mortal?"

Twenty-seven of the strongest and swiftest runners leaped from their seats, and immediately were all across from the table. Those of us who were to take part in the race moved quickly at the starting point, and at a posio side of Frog river, when, by using both hands, I got the corn ball to let go of my lower teeth. Meanwhile I had let go of Felinus, and plump I fell into the water. It was not deep enough to drown me, but there was no fun getting well just as I was going on a visit to the fairies.

Well, after I had waded out of the river and had sat down on the bank Felinus folded his wings and sat down beside me. Didn't he just laugh, though! It would have done you good to have seen him, he looked so happy and amused. There he sat on his hind legs hugging his sides for dear life. He laughed till the tears ran down his cheeks. "This funny and very unusual to see a cat laugh, so Felinus did not prove me very much. As Felinus could speak he said, "That reminds me of how you played it on old Towser last winter."

Now, although the green corn ball did not taste so good as it might, still seeing Felinus laugh so heartily made me feel better, and after I had struggled a few minutes more it finally came out of my mouth and stuck to my hands. "What do you know about Towser and green corn balls?" said I.

"Oh, my boy, he's taken from me one of the greatest pleasures, and a chorus of cries from the other members of the family, as the little fellow, bleeding and still unconscious, was carried to the wagon to be taken to the county hospital. But the lamentations were drowned in the oaths of the hoodlums and the shouts of the police and the infuriated neighbors, who were shouting and shouting at the man who had taken the child to the hospital."

At the word all jumped a jump of nearly fifty feet, and while they were in the air Felinus said, "Drop on my back quick and hold on."

Of course the instant he spread his wings we were both invisible, and the way we flew over those frogs' heads made them almost as if they were standing still. When the frogs commenced to arrive, there I sat, and Felinus was calmly washing his face with his right hand.

CONFICER KILLS A BOY.

He Was Shooting at a Man Who Assaulted Him.

TRAGEDY ON A CHICAGO STREET.
James Linhart, a 5-Year-Old Boy, Shot While Playing in Front of His Home by a Bullet Intended for Another and Dies in a Short Time—Tragedy Caused by a Crowd of Hoodlums Attacking an Officer on the Duty.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—In attempting to frighten off a gang of hoodlums who were bent on taking a prisoner from him, Patrolman Mahoney shot and killed James Linhart, a 5-year-old child, near West Fifteenth and Jefferson streets, Monday afternoon about 5 o'clock. The little fellow was standing in the middle of the street, down which one of the toughs was speeding, and received the bullet in the groin, the missile passing up through the abdomen and out at the left side, near the back. He clasped his hand where the bullet had struck him and toddled manfully to the door of his home, where his mother and his mother rushed out and carried the bleeding form of the little sufferer upstairs and placed him on a bed, moaning in his agony while the din of the struggle outside and the rattle of the patrol wagon and the ambulance that had been summoned added to the confusion.

His mother is Grief-Stricken.
"O, my boy, my boy, he's taken from me one of the greatest pleasures, and a chorus of cries from the other members of the family, as the little fellow, bleeding and still unconscious, was carried to the wagon to be taken to the county hospital. But the lamentations were drowned in the oaths of the hoodlums and the shouts of the police and the infuriated neighbors, who were shouting and shouting at the man who had taken the child to the hospital."

While waiting for the wagon to arrive and struggling with Sullivan, who was assaulting him, he was struck in the head by a bullet from a revolver. He was carried to the hospital, where he died a few minutes after his arrival.

IN MEMORY OF WASHINGTON.
Li Hing Chang Has a Floral Wreath Placed Upon His Bier.
Washington, Sept. 8.—One of the handsomest floral offerings ever placed upon the bier of mortal was deposited by the minister of Chinese affairs, Yang Yu, upon the casket containing the remains of the immortal Washington. The emblem was in the form of a wreath, mammoth in design, and composed entirely of the rarest and most beautiful flowers of the season, the base having sprays of bay laurel intertwined with sashes of yellow, the Chinese color. It was the gift of the Chinese minister, who had a special car to convey himself and the members of the legation to Mount Vernon.

CORN BALL TREES.
The fairies had told me that I was entirely welcome to any of the fruit, berries, or other good things which I wanted to eat or drink in Fairyland, but that I never would do to carry any of these into the outside world, as it would cause people to ask questions, and I could not keep secret the matter of my visits to them.

That is how it came about that the corn ball trees gave me so much trouble. When we make corn balls, you know how sticky it will be before the sugar or molasses is boiled sufficiently, and how molasses candy that is not quite done is so soft and sticky that even butter will not prevent it from clinging to your hands. You might say that this is because the candy is not ripe enough—it needs to boil a little longer. Well, Felinus had told me that green fruit in Fairyland was no better than it was anywhere else and had shown me a ripe corn ball which grew on one of the trees in the queen's orchard.

Sometimes a ripe corn ball on the most thorny trees in Fairyland will be as large as a man's head, and they always burst open in leaves about a quarter of an inch thick. This causes a really ripe corn ball, when looked at from a distance, to appear like a giant rose. The leaves break off very much like thin corn cakes, but they are finer and better flavored. When ripe, they do not stick to your hands and are delightful to the taste.

Of course I was a boy at that time, and fruit was fruit if it looked fit to eat. Then, too, whether it was ripe or not, I was apt to eat it. So, as we flew past one of the corn ball trees, I reached out and picked a ball about the size of an apple. It looked all right, and although Felinus warned me not to touch them until they were fully ripe still I thought that it was too bad to wait three weeks longer. The corn ball was about as hard as a green apple and did not stick to my hands at all, but the minute I took a good large bite and it became warm in my mouth you ought to have seen the fun begin.

CONFINING WIREWORKS.

Full Cultivation the Best of All Methods. Poisoned Clover Bait.

Among the most prominent of the pests that infest field crops are the wireworms. These are long, slender grubs of a yellowish white color, and with unmarked backs. Their bodies are cylindrical and the hardness of the body have suggested the common name. Fig. 1 in the cut represents a wireworm about two weeks natural size. Unfortunately the term wireworm has been misapplied to certain animals—the millipedes—which are not true insects, but belong to a different class in the animal kingdom. Fig. 2 in the cut represents a millipede. The true wireworms are the young of click beetles, or snapping beetles, as they are more commonly termed. Our common kinds of click beetles are mostly small or of medium size. A few are larger. They are usually of a uniform brownish color. Some are conspicuously spotted. A click beetle is represented at Fig. 3.

Three years' experimenting with both defensive and offensive measures at the Cornell station failed to discover a simple and effective method of protecting seed, or of destroying immature wireworms in the soil. The scope of these experiments was large, embracing all the known methods. Professor Slingerland tells, however, in his report that fall cultivation will destroy the wireworms, and that the best method of fighting these pests yet suggested.

In experimenting with poisoned baits, instead of those attracting the wireworms, as was expected, their parents, the click beetles, came to the bait in large numbers. The beetles were attracted by the larger number, 65 per cent. It was found that the beetles were not active at night, and that they seek the food chiefly by running over the surface of the ground. The wads of poisoned bait were placed under boards in various parts of a body infested field.

NEW POTATOES.
In looking over the spring catalogues, the Money Market is conspicuous not only from its name, but from the claims made by those interested. It is claimed to be the "most productive potato in America and absolutely rot-proof. It is a late sort."

VALUE OF HOG PASTURE.
A Brief Report of Two Years' Experiments Conducted at the Utah Station.
The Utah experiment station has issued a bulletin on the value of pasture in swine growing, giving the results of a series of experiments which are of important conclusions reached are the following:

Pigs allowed to run at large over 18 acres of good pasture and fed a fall ration of good grain, showed most rapid growth and required the least grain per pound of gain. The pasture in all the various feeding trials contained eight varieties of grass in mixture, and about one-half of it was alfalfa, a fact to be borne in mind in considering the value of the pasture when the question under consideration. Pigs confined in movable pens in the pasture grew more slowly than those running loose and required an increase of one-fifth more grain to make a pound of gain. Pigs pastured and fed under three different conditions gained 92 1/2 per cent more and ate 2 per cent more than pigs getting grass and otherwise similarly fed, but confined in pens, the grass in this latter case being cut two years. The gain per acre was increased 100 per cent as compared with those fed under similar conditions. Satisfactory gains were made by pigs fed part rations of grain and pasture. Those getting a three-fourths grain and one-fourth pasture gained more than those fed a full grain ration and grass either in the yards or in pens.

It will be observed from the foregoing that the exercise taken by the pigs which did the over-forging, contributed largely to their gain, proving that the pasture had a value of its own apart from the mere question of the amount of food eaten from it. As nearly as can be estimated this exercise alone increased the gain 22 per cent, while the amount increased by 1 per cent, and it at the same time decreased the amount required for a pound of gain 22 per cent. Grass cut and fed green to pigs, whether in pens or in yards, and whether with a full or part grain ration or without any grain, proved to be of very slight value. Confined in pens and fed on grass alone, which it will be remembered was chiefly alfalfa, for three months, lost over a quarter of a pound per day.

From these conclusions it would seem that the best animal is called soiling has but little, if any, value with swine, and the true value of grass lies largely in the pigs getting it for themselves from a pasture. Indeed one of the reasons why the pig system, producing a three-fourths grain and one-fourth pasture, is so profitable is that it requires more grain to make a pound of pork with the grass than without it. These conclusions are quite radical, but the experiments upon which they are based are accurately reported, and to warrant them, says a good authority as the Iowa Homestead.

THE POTATO CROP.
Profitable Varieties—Second Crop Seed.
A valuable digest made of bulletins reported from 36 stations where experiments with Irish potatoes have been conducted, and published by Home and Farm, affords much information of general interest. Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Missouri stations, after testing varieties for two to six years, find the most profitable to be Alexander's Profligate, Beauty of Hebron, Burbank, Charter Oak, Dakota Red, Pearl of Savoy and Rural Beauty. In the Southern States the digest finds the Triumph (sometimes called the Triumph and Tennessee Red Triumph) most profitable and in every way best.

PLANTING CORN.

Farmer, says: "The depth at which corn should be planted depends largely on the date and the quantity of moisture in the soil. In early spring the surface is warmer than the deeper soil and shallow planting is advisable. There is no good reason for deep planting at any time if there is sufficient moisture in the soil. Deep planting favors rows 30 inches apart and small seed pieces 13 inches, quarters 18 inches, halves 24 and whole seed 30 inches apart in the row. Alabama, Kansas and Utah stations favor level culture, while the Indiana station favors ridging and Maryland, New York and Ohio favor no difference. The general tendency is toward thorough preparation of soil and shallow, level culture.

In dry countries and dry seasons mulching pays well; otherwise it is injurious. In fields climates much half the crop. The best fertilizer depends on the deficiency of the soil. Generally commercial fertilizers are preferred to barnyard manure for potatoes. Rolling seed in flour of sulphur or soaking an hour in 15 gallons of water in which 3 1/2 ounces of corrosive sublimate has been dissolved prevents scab. Sublimated corrosive metal and is a rank poison; hence it is a hazard on the soil. Spraying the growing plants early and often with bordeaux mixture containing paris green, and neither bugs nor blight will trouble the crop.

End Gate of Wagon.
A simple and durable device for securely holding the end gate of a wagon in place, and permitting of quick loosening it for convenient removal, is shown in the accompanying illustration from the Philadelphia Times. The end gate slides loosely in cloas, extending through one of which in a short screw rod with its nut on its outer end and an eye on its inner end, and the eye is connected by a rope with a link adapted to engage a projection from the fulcrum end of a lever pivoted in a bracket attached to the other side of the wagon body.

The link is readily engaged with a recess in the outer end of the lever, when them over. Then bend a hook on the end of each as shown, having the hook on the inside of all the four arms, and make large enough to hook over a three-fourths inch piece. Let the hook at the end turn up three-fourths inch. This will make an implement a trifle larger than the one illustrated, but will be all the better for a tall person, as the larger it will be more easily adjusted. The object in making shorter would be for a short person to "clear the ground."

Protection Against Frost.
Water vapor is the approved protection against frost. The latest in this line is spraying small fires with water. Rapid evaporation takes place and the heat of the fire is greatly increased, evaporating the water, and the vapor rising from the fire is almost immediately condensed in the lower air. The heat is thus made sensible in the region needing protection.

In carrying out this plan small fires of snuffe material should be established, and when they are burning brightly each should be partly extinguished by spraying water upon them, as they recover their former brightness they should be again sprayed.
