THE BOOKS YOU USED TO READ. What were the books that you used to read? Who were the authors of your favorite books?

I arrived at Solenzara between 4 and 5 o'clock. The place is populated in winter by workmen, fishermen and customs officials.

I entered a small inn and had something to eat while waiting for Matteo. Time went on, and the fellow did not put in an appearance.

"He has come to my house," he said, raising his hat. "Will you follow me? We went outside. It was very dark and windy.

"Here, Brucio, Brucio!" cried my guide; then, leaning toward me, he said: "That's Quastana's dog—a ferocious animal."

"Consi Quastana," said Matteo as we went on. "It is a gentleman who is going shooting with me in the morning."

"When you have been an outlaw and had to fly for your life, you look with admiration on a man who looks like an Italian or a Frenchman."

"It is astonishing what a mania for cards and playing existed in Corsica at that time, and it is probably the same now. The clubs and cafes were watched by the police."

"This is Quastana's cousin," said the prefect to me in a low tone. "He lives in the little village of Solenzara."

"I watched the two men with great interest as they sat opposite each other, silently playing the game. They watched each other with a keen eye."

"Between two and three hours passed in this way, and I had some difficulty in keeping awake in the stuffy air of the hut."

"Here you are," he exclaimed. "The rascal had the cheek to have his portrait taken last year at Porto Vecchio."

"Are you not afraid that the presence of a stranger will frighten your cousin and cause him to fly away on the following Sunday?" we asked.

"No," replied the man. "He is too fond of cards. Besides, there are many new faces about here now on account of the shooting."

"The next morning I set out in full shooting costume and took the coach which does the journey from Ajaccio to Bastia."

"At Bonifacio we stopped for dinner. When I got on the coach again, just a little elevated by the contents of a good sized bottle, I found that I had a fresh travelling companion."

"You are probably aware that the administration, as represented by the prefect, etc., of the magistrature never get on well together. In Corsica it is worse than elsewhere."

"But, my dear sir," said the public prosecutor, "whoever would have expected to see me in shooting costume in the house of my cousin?"

At the November election the silver candidate, John S. Joseph county by about 800 majority, and on April 5th on records of the University they had less than 350, or a loss of nearly 450. It is evident that the silver is subsiding and that by the time another general election comes the voters of the county will have relapsed into their normal political condition. Like Greenbackism, this silver sickness will prove to be nothing more serious than political measles."—Sturgis Journal.

Newspaper men have no more pleasant experience than the annual visit of the "old subscriber." He is as certain to come in as the winter is to roll around, and when his general facelights are up the doorway and says "howdy do," you know it means a big dollar for his own subscription, and probably another one for his brother out west. The new subscriber is sometimes a doubtful quantity, but God bless the old "howdy do" after they have come in regularly for 6 years and then fail, you may know that they have been gathered to their father.—Ezr.

He left his parental home when but a lad, and learned the trade of harness making with an older brother. Sylvia Chapter No. 74, O. E. S., sent a large delegation to Three Oaks, Tuesday evening, in acceptance of an invitation from Three Oaks to be present at the organization and instituting of Three Oaks Chapter O. E. S. of Eastern Star. Some forty-four members, and Glen Smith, went on the 6:38 Express, which stopped here for them, returning on the 12 o'clock train (G. E. did not go to attend the Eastern Star) the occasion was very enjoyable. Grand Worthy Matron Pratt and Grand Worthy Chapter started with twenty-seven charter members and a full complement of officers. From our standpoint, we think it starts out under very auspicious circumstances, and with some of the best people enrolled in its membership. We were cordially received, and the kindly spoken sentiments of our Bro. W. C. Hall were thoroughly appreciated, and the kind attention of all will long be remembered. We shall, in the near future, expect to receive a visit from our Grand Officers and, when we do, shall hope to reciprocate favors received to the members of Three Oaks Chapter, by entertaining them.

LITERARY NOTES.
Charles Dana Gib on has made a great hit with his Dickens illustrations in The Ladies Home Journal. In the June number we have a rare opportunity of seeing what a great illustration can do in one picture with four famous characters in fiction. Mr. Gibon presents Mr. and Mrs. Micawber, David Copperfield and Traddles. The long, quaint curls of Mrs. Micawber, and the characteristic of her gloved hands as she "lays the case" before David Copperfield, have been admirably caught by the artist. Mr. Micawber, self-poised and satisfied, wears a calm judicial expression as he balances his glass in hand.

The manuscript of Anthony Hope's new novel, the sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," which is to be published in McClure's Magazine in September, is now in the hands of Mr. C. D. Gibson, who is to make a series of full-page illustrations to be published with the several installments in McClure's. The title of the novel is "A Conspiring of Zenda." Those who have been permitted to look into it say that, while a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," and introducing the same people who made that so irresistible, it is entirely new, complete and independent, and will be found by any reader a rare good story in itself. It simply runs over with romantic adventure.

A Rich Harvest.
It costs no more to sow good seeds than it does to sow old and worthless stock. How foolish is the person who fails to get the best to start with. No doubt you have often thought of this, when your garden has not done very well.

Will you jog along in the same old way this year, or use a little forethought and send to James Vick's Sons, Rochester, N. Y., for their Catalogue, which contains a list of all that's new and good?

Their seeds are always reliable—sure to grow and never disappoint. Send 10 cents for Catalogue and deduct this amount from first order. Really costs nothing.
