EVERY CHARGE REFUTED.

The republicans of Berrien county present to the voters a ticket which should command the support of every citizen who desires faithful service from his public servants. The nominees have been tried in the balance for the past two years and have not been found wanting in those essentials necessary to fidelity to their trusts and the best service to the people. The democratic party is seeking to dodge the vital questions in this campaign, seeking to deceive the voters into support of their ticket by methods which certainly must and should meet with the condemnation of any decent and self-respecting citizen. The organ grinder who inhabits the basement of the Yore block in Benton Harbor, presuming to edit a newspaper for the instruction of the voters of this county, is only a type of that character of stand and do faith and mainly battle with the public servants. The honest fight by the democratic party has been and will probably continue to be, unjust, deceitful, false and unworthy the support and consideration of intelligent people.

The democrats are without argument—without a single spot upon which to stand and do faith and mainly battle with the public servants. The honest fight by the democratic party has been and will probably continue to be, unjust, deceitful, false and unworthy the support and consideration of intelligent people.

IT IS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE.

That the Loyal Citizens of the Nation Shall Stand by the President.

Spain is Watching the Decision to Be Made Next Tuesday.

It is seldom that a political campaign in an open year is of such great national importance as this year; in fact, it is doubtful whether within a quarter of a century there has been an election so vitally affecting the American people as the one to occur November 8. The year 1898 has been an eventful one.

Spanish barbarity and cruelty culminated in the destruction of the Maine and her gallant crew. The people of all parties demanded that Spanish misrule should end in this hemisphere and that their wish be enforced by a resort to arms if necessary. President McKinley had himself been a soldier and appreciated fully the cost of war both in blood and treasure, and while making great preparation for war, still sought to preserve peace. Diplomacy, however successfully managed, could not settle the controversy; it could only be decided by "blood and iron."

The war came. The call was responded to by men of all parties, races and creeds. The result is known. In one hundred days the oppressors were vanquished on land and sea. The flag of Castile came down and the banner of the Republic went up.

President McKinley was the master and directing mind in the contest, and his dignified and able conduct of the war was such as to win the applause of his countrymen and the praise of the people of the whole earth.

But the war is over; only a truce has been declared, to settle the possible terms of peace. The wily Sagasta is waiting, eagerly and anxiously, for election returns from the United States. If the vote should be against the President and his party it will be considered as showing a want of confidence in the administration, and that the people are against any extension of our territory. The defeat of the President would mean joy at Madrid. No one in this country of any party wishes to embarrass the President or the peace commissioners in their work of gathering up and preserving the fruits of the war won at great sacrifice by our soldiers and sailors, but the triumph of the opposition would be so interpreted. The election of a Democratic congress would be considered a rebuke to the President in every capital in Europe.

William McKinley now would be as unwise as it would have been for Dewey's men to have mutilated on the eve of the battle of Manila. It would mean trouble and delay in concluding the terms of peace and possibly the intervention of other countries and a renewal of hostilities.

Questions of tariffs and currency can wait, or if decided wrongly, can be resubmitted to the people, but if we fail to sustain the administration at the coming election the evil result can not be cured. We believe the voters will place the welfare of the country before party success and will vote to sustain their country against all foreign foes.

THE FREE SILVER FALLACY.

The Republican party stands for sound money in this campaign. It would sound money and a hundred-dollar gold coin. The St. Louis platform of that party pledged it to a continuance of a monetary system which makes the American dollar good and worth one hundred cents the world over.

The voters of this country passed upon the platform of the Democratic party in 1896 and by an overwhelming majority declared for the St. Louis platform and the maintenance of that system of finance which has made every dollar issued or coined by this government receivable at par in every country that floats the flag of commerce. The Republican party in the campaign of 1896 found its financial system assailed by the advocates of a "free" silver, known as "the free and unlimited coinage of silver upon a ratio of 16 ounces of silver to one ounce of gold." The policy of this government has always been to use both the precious metals as mediums of exchange, to an extent consistent with the demands of business and at such ratio of coinage as their intrinsic values sustained. The government has no more right than any citizen within the national jurisdiction to compel a citizen to accept any commodity or species of property, whether of money or its equivalent, at less than its real or commercial value. The government has no more right to commit larceny, or defraud the public, or demand unjustly a higher price for its currency, than it has any citizen dealing with his fellow men.

The Republican party is not yet willing to recognize a silver nobility at the expense of the people of this country. The farmer demands a dollar worth one hundred cents every day and month of the year, good in every state and every country, and which, whether he is receiving it or expending it, will not make him feel that the stamp of fraud lies beneath the inscription, "In God we trust." If the government has power to legislate value into a commodity, the government can legislate value into a medium of exchange, then why the necessity of using either gold or silver, which represents an intrinsic value, but rather why not stamped thereon as the only medium of exchange and thus return to the "rag" basis of the currency of the present day?

The advocates of the 16 to 1 heresy told us in 1896 that we needed more money for business, that the treasury of the country could not be sustained without an increase of silver such as scheme would develop, yet, notwithstanding the great calamity howl of the curb stone orators and the apostle of advanced wisdom, William J. Bryan, we now have a larger per capita circulation than at any time in the history of this country, being $24.74 for every person in the United States, or an increase of $3.59 over that of 1896, and all this under our present standard of values. Besides this, soap houses and Debs strikes have been relegated to the shades of the past, and there is over $387,000,000 of money available in the treasury of the United States and $248,000,000 of that amount in gold.

The past two years has completely disposed of every shadow of silver argument as an economic factor and only those who desire to be deceived, or who will not be convinced, or who wish to defraud their creditors, are yet dangling to the silver cross. The Democratic party in nearly every state is now either giving lukewarm support or dodging the issue entirely by repudiating Bryan and silver. New York and New Jersey Democrats in their state platforms repudiated it. Other states have given it a passive recognition only, and the old leaders of Democracy, those schooled in the principles taught by Jefferson and Jackson, are hastily deserting the crumbling temple.

State S. S. Convention.

The attention of all persons connected with or interested in Sunday school work is called to the fact that the thirty-eighth annual convention of the Michigan State S. S. Association will be held at Saginaw, Nov. 15, 16 and 17. This gathering being international and interdenominational in its spirit and aims, and withal spiritual and edifying, educative in its methods, we can confidently commend it in the general patronage of the public.

The committee would specialize a few matters:

First, The sessions will be held in the First Congregational church corner Jefferson Ave. and Hayden St., Saginaw, E. S.

Second, The program already adopted by Gen. O. O. Howard, Burlington, Vt., retired, and by Mr. F. E. Jacobs, Chicago, Chairman of the International Executive Committee and well known as the foremost Sunday school worker in the world.

Third, One-day will be given to a Field Worker's Conference, in charge of Mr. E. K. Mohr Grand Rapids; and a half day to Primary methods, the discussion of primary principles, etc., led by Mrs. M. H. Reynolds, Primary Supt., Owosso, and in addition several important conferences will be held, independent of the regular program.

Fourth, The Michigan R. R. Association has granted a rate of one fare for the round trip from all points in Michigan, on one condition only, to-wit: that each person who desires this advantage must secure a certificate duly countersigned from M. L. Reynolds, State Secretary, Owosso, Mich. Clergymen are requested to secure certificates. Apply in good season for them, and present same at your ticket office when you start for the Convention.

Fifth, County and township associations are entitled to two delegates each, besides their officers, and every Sunday school in the state should send its Superintendent and one delegate.

Sixth, Entertainment, so far as lodging and breakfast is concerned, will be provided by the people at Saginaw; dinners and suppers will be provided at low rates and reduced rates will be secured at hotels.

SCHOOL NOTES.

From the Banner-Register, Boston Harbor.

In Wessau township there are five out of seven schools that have free text books.

State Superintendent Hammond will be in the county on Friday, Nov. 4, en route to Cassopolis.

At the Withersall school, Royaltown township, new seats have been provided and other substantial improvements made, the results of a wide-awake Board.

At the teachers' examination held at Niles, Thursday and Friday of last week, there were eighteen applicants, six for second grade certificates and twelve for third grade.

B. F. Eggert and pupils of Hinckman district, Oronoko township, recently raised enough money by subscription to purchase an organ, and they have also added forty-six volumes to the school library.

The Galien Centre School Board has also supplied the school-room with new seats. B. F. Yaw has been moderator of the district for forty-two years, and deserves to hold the position forty-two years longer. This is the best record held by any man in the county.

Commissioner Clarke does not stop for rain, when it comes to looking up the interests of the schools in the county. Last week, with the wheel, he made use of the Michigan Central gravelled roadbed, and the districts along this line were agreeably surprised by the Commissioner's call.

Reading circle No. 5 includes Buchanan, Bertrand and Niles townships. This circle met at the Niles High school building, last Saturday forenoon, with a good attendance. The reading circle work this year is the best in the history of the county. The teachers are generally well pleased with the books chosen for the year's work and attend the meetings well.

Look out for the fraudulent school chart solicitors. There have been two men in this county for the past ten days soliciting orders for charts under extremely fraudulent methods. One man represents himself to be the State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Commissioner Clarke was no sooner informed of the fact than he ordered the men out of the county.

PRIMA SCHOOL MONEY. A despatch sent out from Lansing on Tuesday of last week, says: "The largest semi-annual apportionment of the primary school interest money in the history of the state will be made on Nov. 10, at the rate of $1 for each child of school age. The sum apportioned among the counties is $701,314. Last May's apportionment was 50 cents per capita for 700,044 children."

JOINT TOWNSHIP INSTITUTE.

There will be a teachers' and patrons' institute at Eau Claire, Saturday, Nov. 5, 1898. There will be the reading circle meeting in the morning, and in the afternoon the following program:

INSTITUTE AT BARODA.

A joint township teachers and patrons' institute at Baroda, Saturday, Nov. 12, at 1 p. m., following the reading circle meeting at 9 a. m. Following is the program:

Music. Paper, German Schools. . . . . Geo. Orwell Paper, English Schools. . . . . Clyde Swen Music.

The study of English classics. Miss Bessie Hoover Responsibility of parents with respect to absence and tardiness of pupils. B. F. Eggert Music.

Drawing in the public schools. W. H. Marsh The lessons of the past year. Mrs. J. H. Royce Music.

THANKSGIVING THIS MONTH.

This month brings in Thanksgiving, and don't let it pass unnoticed. Here are found two ways of looking at this great national day:

A Thanksgiving Festival.

"What have I got to be thankful for? Guess the Lord isn't bothering himself much about me and I won't bother him with my thanks." These are the folks with whom things go wrong.—New York Press.

Children and Thanksgiving.

Gratitude is not a virtue of childhood. It has been defined as the lively sense of favors to come, and children seldom trouble themselves to look far into the future. They accept what is done for them or given to them as a right, a natural consequence of their relations to those about them. Accustomed to be dependent, the thought of making a return for what they receive does not readily occur to them, and Thanksgiving, with all its associations, seems to be a peculiarly fitting occasion for the attempt.—Home Journal.

The Morning Oregonian published at Portland, Oregon, in the issue of Oct. 26th mentions the appointment, by Gov. Lord, of Mr. Herbert C. Smith as the third commissioner of Multnomah county, and speaks in complimentary terms of Mr. Smith. Mr. Smith is an old Buchanan boy and his many friends will be pleased hear of his prosperity in his far away home.

POULTRY COLUMN

Conducted by E. P. Green.

The Poultry Yard.

REGS ON POUZTRY.

To succeed with poultry there should be some object in view. Do not have two objects but one only. A great many persons who keep a few fowls undertake to combine egg laying with the production of choice meat for the table in one breed, but such cannot easily be done, as the most prolific breeds are not the most suitable for the table. Of course, all fowls find their days of usefulness as layers are ended but they do not then represent the best to be had in that line. Neither are the choicest table breeds equal to some others as layers. The Dorkings stand at the head of the table fowls, but as layers they are far below some other breeds. In selecting a breed for eggs, therefore, let eggs be the main object and give no attention to table qualities, but it is not out of place for one who desires fowls that are of choice quality for the table to select such, provided the hens are not expected to excel as layers though they may be fairly prolific.

THE WARM MASH.

The warm mash in winter is not only invigorating, but may be made to combine several foods as a variety. The mistake made in giving a warm mash on cold mornings is that of using mostly ground grain. The proper plan is to use finely cut clover, scalded, and add ground grain and ground meat. There is on the market what is known as clover meal, and it is as fine as ground grain. When scalded and used with the morning mash it makes an agreeable ration for the hens. It is not well to use too much soft food for poultry. Nature intended the gizzard of the fowl to perform certain duties and the fowl will keep in better condition when made to use whole grain than when it is ground, though a proportion of soft food is not injurious. Neither should the fowl be crammed at each meal. It prefers to seek its food, and in so doing the food is digested gradually and over a long period of time.

LADIES AND POUZTRY.

It is not proper for any farmer to turn his poultry over to the female members of the family entirely, as there is at times some laborious work to perform. It is well enough for the farmer's wife to feed the fowls or have it done when the weather is severe, but the cleaning of the poultry house is a man's work and should be done by the farmer himself. It is a pleasure, however, to ladies to take an interest in poultry, and the fowls receive the best care when they have the care given from that quarter, but for the management of large numbers the assistance of the other sex is necessary.

RAISING SQUABS.

The only safe plan to raise squabs for market is to have a large yard, covered with wire, enclosing only as many pairs of pigeons as the yard will accommodate. The sexes should be equal, as a single extra male will break up all the matings. Everything should be kept clean and gravel, grain, a head of cabbage, oyster shells, ground bone, and other acceptable foods, should always be convenient, as well as plenty of water. A salt codfish should be hung up in the yard. Make the yard deep rather than wide and have it at least fourteen feet high. Each pair of pigeons should produce at least a dozen squabs a year, though prolific pairs may produce as many as twenty squabs. They bring from $1 to $3 per dozen, according to the season. Old pigeons have little or no value in the markets.

DANGERS FROM DISEASES.

When disease appears in a flock of fowls, and becomes contagious, it is a risk to handle affected birds, as by so doing the disease may be communicated to the attendant or to some member of the family. Roup comes in different forms but when it attacks poultry as "canker" it is then almost identical with diphtheria in human beings, and those who attend to the sick should be very careful. While it may entail a loss to do so, yet the safer plan, when disease spreads in a flock, is to destroy all birds, bury or burn the carcasses, disinfect and begin anew.

TONICS AND EGGS FOODS.

Tonics are well in their place but those who use tonics and egg foods indiscriminately do more harm than good. In a majority of cases too much food is the cause of the illness of fowls, or the hens do not lay because they are fat, the use of tonics being unnecessary. The best invigorator on a cold morning is a drink of warm water or a warm mess, and then the next important essential is exercise.

FEEDING A VARIETY.

It is claimed that a laboring man should have meat, as he requires it to enable him to perform hard service, but the most industrious laborer does not require proportionately to service rendered, the amount of meat necessary for the hen to be a constant producer. Grain is the proper food for fowls, but it is not a complete food for producing eggs, and meat is therefore essential. Green bone is also a food that serves well to balance the grain ration, as it supplies lime and the bone-forming elements, as well as containing a fair proportion of meat and blood.—P. H. Jacobs.

From Faraway Manila.

The following letter was received here by Mr. and Mrs. Brant, from their son Allan who is with the California volunteers in that faraway land:

MANILA, Philippine Islands, Aug. 7, 1898.

DEAR FATHER AND MOTHER:—We have entered Manila; the Spanish have surrendered; the fighting is over, and I am well and strong, after a pretty hard, though short, campaign. I am sitting in one of the barracks built by the Spaniards for their soldiers, ten thousand miles from dear old Michigan and now, that the excitement is over, I am anxious to get back to the United States and settle down again. I have seen so much new and strange, in this faraway land, that one hardly knows what to write about. The fighting that has been going on for the last three weeks you will read about in the papers and get better accounts than I could give you.

The time I had my closest call was on the night of Aug. 1. Nine of us were detached from our company and started out as an advanced guard, with orders to hold our position but not to fire till the enemy was upon us, then to fire and fall back. Well the Spanish outposts advanced so near we could hear the bush crack, firing all the time, and we escaped only by lying flat on the ground in the mud and water. Twice that night we disobeyed orders by rising and letting the d—d cusses have it from our old Springfield. We lay in that position from midnight till five a. m. About that time they came up a little to our right in force, and the whole line, consisting that night of men from California and Colorado, was ordered to pour it into them, and then there were a few minutes fun. Oh, what a relief, after lying for five hours with their bullet zip, zip, zip, and occasionally cutting through the few inches of dirt we had in front of us, throwing the mud in one's face. Oh, what a relief, I say, to rise and pour it into them. Well, we did pour it into them, and there is where the Yankee had the start of the Spaniard. He keeps his eye open and shoots low, while the Spaniard gets rattled and fire high. In the face of that fire they turned tail, and that ended the fighting of that night, for we had orders not to advance only to hold that position. After that night there was no more fighting of much consequence till last Saturday, and then the first and final advance of the Americans was made on Manila. During all this time our company was located about five miles from the walls of Manila, but our fighting line was only about two miles from the wall, and their fighting line only two or three hundred yards from ours, but a few days before the bombardment and final advance, they fell back the wall, and last Saturday Dewey turned his guns loose on those walls and soon opened a breach for a half-mile back from the shore, and our regiment marched through the breach while other regiments occupied them in front in this way, others were coming in upon their rear, but they fell back mightily fast and it was soon over, and with the inspiring air of Yankee Doodle the Yankee troops marched proudly up the streets ruled by the Spaniards so long feeling that the Maine was being remembered. That night I slept under the portico of one of the large public buildings on one of the principal streets of Manila and the stone pavement made a good bed after that day's hard march.

Now we are acting in the place of police, patrolling the city to keep order, protecting property, etc. Hoping to hear from some of you soon, I am your affectionate son,

ALLAN BRANT, Company C, Cal. U. S. Vol.

STRIP FOR ACTION.

British Warships placed in Trim for Service.

IMPORTANT MOVE AT WEI-HAI-WEI.

Russia is aggressive and may be preparing to seize the Port of Wei-Hai-Wei.

Wei-Hai-Wei, Nov. 3.—All the British warships here, the first-class battleship Centurion, the first-class cruiser Narborough, the second-class cruiser Heracles, the torpedo boat destroyer Whiting, the torpedo boat destroyer Fame, the torpedo boat destroyer Handy and the first-class gunboat Pencook, have cleared for action and are ready for service at any hour's notice.

The first-class battleship Victorious and the first-class cruiser Undaunted, at Chefoo, are coaling to their full capacity.

The greatest secrecy is maintained as to the means of the warlike preparations; but there is no doubt important instructions are expected at any moment.

The fact that the coast guardmen throughout the United Kingdom have been warned to be in readiness for mobilization is regarded as a menacing sign. Many of them have already joined their ships.

A large Russian fleet is assembled at Port Arthur.

OF Grave Importance.

London, Nov. 3.—The dispatch from Wei-Hai-Wei, announcing the war preparations of the British naval authorities there, is regarded here as being of grave importance, coupled with the Anglo-French war preparations. It is supposed that Russia, growing by the present strained relations between Great Britain and France, has decided to push forward her aims in the far east by forcibly seizing the valuable treaty port of Wei-Hai-Wei.

Excitement in Naval Circles.

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 3.—Admiral Fullerton's secretary, who had left here for an up-country point, has been urgently telegraphed to return to Esquimaut at once. All the excitement in naval circles is the fact that the British fleet, recognizing the gravity of the situation, offer to raise a regiment and place the same at the disposal of the government for service either at home or abroad.

Ready for Active Service.

Halifax, N. S., Nov. 3.—The British battleship Renown is in full fighting trim and this week the Renown has taken aboard large quantities of ammunition and naval stores.

The French situation.

London, Nov. 3.—The situation regarding Fashoda is practically unchanged. Baron De Courcel, the French ambassador, who on Tuesday saw Sir Thomas Sanderson, permanent under secretary of state for foreign affairs, was absent from Lord Salisbury's reception Wednesday. The special dispatches from Paris repeat the semi-official statement that the evacuation of Fashoda is accepted in principle, but that other matters in the Fashoda-Gazal region will be maintained. Various rumors are afloat as to Abyssinian expeditions nearing the Nile to assist the French, but nothing authentic is known on this point. M. Delcasse, French minister of foreign affairs, is expected to announce his policy in the chamber of deputies Friday. It is admitted on all sides that Fashoda itself offers no difficulty, provided a way can be found to save French arm and property.

THE SANDERSON CASE.

Servant Girl Testifies in the Noted Murder Trial at Battle Creek—Saw Fatal Meal Prepared.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 3.—In the examination of Mrs. Rodolph Sanderson, accused of the murder of her husband, the servant girl whose disclosures brought about the arrest, was again on the stand Wednesday, being cross-examined by Lawyer Crosby. The witness said that Mrs. Sanderson did not secrete the pulverized glass which she had prepared to put in the porridge, but left it so that her husband could have found it if he had tried. She said the glass was ground downstairs in a dark cellar and was brought up in the condition in which it was fed to Mr. Sanderson and placed in a soup dish in the coal range, where it remained all day. She said she saw the glass put in the oatmeal next morning. The examination was adjourned until November 10, when Miss Robertson's testimony will be complete and Dr. Prescott, of the University of Michigan, will testify as to whether glass was found in the stomach of Mr. Sanderson at the chemical analysis.

Favor Holding a World's Fair.

St. Louis, Nov. 3.—The committee of prominent citizens appointed some time ago to discuss the subject of holding a world's fair to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the purchase of the territory of Louisiana by the United States can best be celebrated have decided—and will so make public report—that the holding of a world's fair will be the better way to honor the event and state their conviction that such a fair can be successfully held in St. Louis.

THEY ARE REMEMBERED.

Graves of the Victims of the Maine at Havana Are Strewn with Flowers.

Havana, Nov. 3.—Monday morning Gen. Wade and Gen. Butler, of the United States evacuation commission, went to the Colon cemetery to lay flowers on the grave of the victims of the Maine disaster. In the course of the ceremony a number of other officers visited the cemetery. Just after Gen. Wade and Butler had left the Hotel Trocheta for the cemetery, carrying the floral crown made by the committee of young Cuban girls who had asked the privilege of paying this tribute to the dead, a carriage was driven up to the hotel with representatives of the Cuban club, who brought an immense floral cross to lay upon the grave. On learning that Gen. Wade and Butler had already gone to the cemetery, the Cubans followed and overtook them in time to place both offerings together.

The Emperor's Politic Move.

Berlin, Nov. 3.—Emperor William's acquisition of a plot of land from the Sultan and his handing it to the Catholics is regarded as the final touch in a long and carefully-prepared scheme to mollify the centrists (the Catholic party in the Reichstag), the chief feature of which scheme was the response in telling for the murder of the Catholic missionaries in China. Emperor William was the first Christian to visit the tomb of David since the year 1187, the tomb being one of the most sacred Mohammedan shrines.

Many Died During the Voyage.

Cadiz, Nov. 3.—The Spanish steamer Montserrat has arrived here from San Juan de Cuba with 98 deaths on board during the voyage and 800 of her passengers are sick. The Spanish newspapers are venting their spleen on the Americans by publishing articles on the fact that the United States sanitary officers at Gibraltar insisted upon the embarkation of Spanish soldiers.

Kempton of Glendora, Mich. Signalled by the wedding march, beautifully rendered by the bride's sister, the most interested couple presented themselves at the hymenal altar, and the ceremony that made one of the twin was performed by Elder Wm. M. Roe who, about thirty-two years ago, joined the bride's parents in the holy bonds of matrimony.

In due time a rich feast of good things was enjoyed by the company, and the newly married couple were given many congratulations and appropriate presents.

Important Notice

To Delegates to County Sunday School Convention, Nov. 10.

The Sunday School friends of New Buffalo have made arrangements to meet the delegates to the County Sunday School Convention who arrive over the Chicago and West Michigan R. R. on Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 9th, and desire them to take tea with them and spend the time between trains in a social visit with the New Buffalo workers.

We hope all delegates going via New Buffalo will accept this invitation.

Be sure to make yourself known as a Sunday School delegate, as the New Buffalo friends wish to provide for all. It would be a kindness if every one expecting to avail themselves of this invitation would just drop a card to Miss Mabel Jackson, New Buffalo, to that effect, as it would be a great convenience to those who expect to entertain if they knew something near the number necessary to provide for.

The Syracuse Standard, in telling how Detroit secured the next International Typographical Union convention, says the delegates from all the large cities, New York, Boston, Chicago, etc., favored Detroit. The nomination speech was made by a Boston delegate.

"Delegate Boulton, of New York," says the Standard, "said they all wanted to go to Detroit because Michigan had the best governor in the country—Gov. Pingree. This brought an outburst of applause. The nomination of Detroit went through with a rush."

The Typographical Union is a conservative body, but they appreciate our good War Governor.

Exportation of Creamery Butter.

Last July, at the request of the Department of Agriculture, the Mr. Pleasant, Ohio, Creamery Company prepared a small consignment of butter for trial shipment to London. The instructions sent out by the department were extraordinary in the main, as compared with the ordinary modes of preparing our butter for market.

To start with, patrons were requested to give their milk through aeration, keep it absolutely away from bad odors, and deliver it to the creamery in the best condition possible. It was promptly separated at a lower temperature than usual, the creamery then cooled down to 45 degrees with ice, and held there till ready for ripening, when it was warmed to 65 degrees, ripened quickly with a starter, and churned at a temperature at 54 degrees. It was salted with one-half ounce of salt to each sixteen pounds of butter, worked sufficiently to reduce the salt to, at least, one-third ounce, and the percentage of water to 10 per cent or below, even as much as nine percent, if possible. The butter, after working was packed in Australian boxes, furnished by the department, each containing a net weight of 57 pounds of butter. The boxes were each lined with parchment paper, and the lids screwed on, not nailed. Each box was covered with hurlap sucking for the markings on the boxes, and to keep them clean until their arrival in London.

When this butter was placed on sale and sampled by purchasers, it went like hot cakes, and received high complements, through several channels, and English dealers, asked for sample shipments. Charles R. Valentine, the English expert, regardless of his heavy cutting in scoring our butter, said: "I am very much pleased with the general turn-out of this shipment, and with more attention to details referred to, there would be no difficulty in creating a demand for butter of this description, and prices obtainable would be equal to the finest Australian, New Zealand and Canadian butter. I find the turn-out is more satisfactory than the St. Paul shipment."

At the time the English produce merchants were wanting trial consignments, our butter was selling in a retail way at two or three cents above Bligh, which was apparently better than it was possible to do in the English markets, hence the matter was dropped at that point.

Creamery work was never at a standstill; it has done wonders toward the improvement of buttermaking, and has also created the demand for large quantities of fine butter that otherwise would never have been made. The march of progress has come with the advent of the creamery, and the centrifugal separator, never and better methods called into action, and transmitted from stations to the press, thence to the intelligent factoryman. Later the government took up the cause in our behalf, to relieve our apparently crowded markets, or so demonstrate whether or not exportation of our butter could be made successful.—Geo. E. Scott, in Rural New Yorker.

Danish Dairying.

The Jutland cows are said to give a yearly average of 4,000 or 500 gallons of milk per cow, this being also the average of the grey brown Allgäu cows of Bavaria, one of the best milking breeds known in Europe.

The Allgäu cows give a richer milk than the Jutland animals, for in Bavaria, it is estimated that nineteen to twenty-one pints of milk will produce one pound of butter, while in Denmark the estimate is that twenty-four to twenty-five pints are necessary.

From the dairy book on the farm, I found that the total quantity of milk received in fifty-two weeks was 168,540 pounds, or an average of 3264 pints per cow, for the year. Autumn milking, as to produce winter milk is the general custom, and the dairy book showed that while 6,800 pounds of milk was obtained in October, the quantity obtained in December was 11,093 pounds; rising in January to 14,480 pounds, and in February to 15,346 pounds. It is generally assumed that all the dairy factories in Denmark are worked on co-operative principles, but such is not the case on the east coast of Jutland. The dairy factory I daily visited during my stay had been built by a "dairyst," who erected the buildings and fitted in the plant, after he had got the promised support of four large proprietors and farmers and the terms of agreement are simple. They promise, should the factory be erected and in working order by a given date, to supply it with milk from that date onwards, and agree to give their cows about one pound of rape cake a day, and when feeding turnips, to give one pound of cake, grain, etc., for every five pounds of turnips used. The milk to be delivered early every morning—the evening's milk kept over night on the farm—and the factory to return ninety per cent of the milk delivered as separated or skim milk. The proprietor of the dairy agrees to give about 10 above the maximum figure quoted by the Copenhagen Committee for every twenty-five pounds of milk delivered, and to deduct three-fourths of an ore per pound for the separated milk returned. Milk in Denmark is always paid for by weight, and not by measure, and the payment, as above is based on butter rates—twenty-five pounds of milk being taken as equal to one pound of butter. The market price of Danish butter is fixed by a committee, at Copenhagen, consisting of eight members. They meet every Thursday, and fix the wholesale price for the ensuing week. Their quotations are official, and on their figures the whole trade in butter and milk depends.

The milk, on reaching the factory, is put into a zinc receptacle, and weighed. It is then run into another receptacle, about three feet lower, from which, by a steam centrifugal pump, it is lifted to a tank on a raised platform, and from which it runs by gravitation first to a heater, and then after passing the heater, to two steam centrifugal separators. Between the separators there is a tank, into which the separated milk flows, while the cream is received into cans. Another steam centrifugal pump takes the milk up to the level of the receiving platform, and it is wanted for skim milk cheese or household purposes, run straight on to tank, near receiving door, from which the wagoner can fill up his cans again. If the separated milk is only required for feeding pigs and stock, the milk is shut off from this tank and turns into the heater, where it is boiled, and then passes through a cooler to a separate tank, from which the farmer's tanks can also be filled.—Farming World.

Shortage of Grain Cattle.

Topan, Kan., Nov. 3.—Complaints are being received by the board of railroad commissioners of the scarcity of grain cars at many Kansas points. It is impossible, the complaints say, to get sufficient cars to handle grain. A complaint filed from five grain farms at Gladis, Kan., says 30,000 bushels of wheat is waiting to be moved at that point, 7,000 bushels of which is lying on the ground. Farmers generally have been holding their grain for higher prices, and the consequent movement has caused a shortage of cars.
