THE WHITE MAN'S BURDEN.

BY RUDYARD KIPLING. Take up the White Man's burden-

Send forth the best ye breed -Go, bind your sons to exile To serve your captives' need, To wait, in heavy harness, On fluttered folk and wind— Your new-caught sullen peoples,

Half devil and half child. Take up the White Man's burden-In patience to abide, To veil the threat of terror And check the show of pride: By open speech and simple, An hundred times made plain,

To seek another's profit And work another's gain. Take up the White Man's barden-The swage wars of peace-Fill full the mouth of Famine,

And bid the sickness cease; And when your goal is nearest (The end for others sought) Watch sloth and heathen folly Being all your hope to nought. No iron rule of kings,

Take up the White Man's burden -But toil of serf and sweeper-The tale of common things, The ports re shall not enter, The roads ye shall not gread Go, make them with your living And mark them with your dead Take up the White Man's burden,

And reap his old reward, The blame of those ye better The hate of those ye guard— The cry of horts ye humor (Ah, slowly!) toward the light-Why brought ye us from bondage, Our loved Egyptian night?" @3.90.

* * * Rev. H. V. Warren's Mother Dead.

The following obituary is copied Mr. S. P. High who has been on from the Bureau Co., Republican of Princeton, Ill., and will be read with the sick list for the past two weeks sympathy by the many friends of Rev. H. V. Warren, who was at one Dr. Orville Curtis will remove his time pastor of the Presbyterian church at this place.

Mrs. Masy Monroe Warren was born Health Officer Garland reports that in Groton, Mass., Dec. 28, 1804 and day, are fast being completed. The She recently held a position as teachdied at Dayton, Ohio, Jan. 16 last, aged 94 years. Her three children survive her, viz: Capt. Benjamin Warren, a G A. R. of Chillicothe, Rev. H. Vallette Warren, of this city and Mrs. Mary J. Dustin, of Dayton, Ohio, a widow of Rev. Mial Dustin, D. D., late of Cincinuati Conference.

An The case of Morley vs Buchanan outline of facts will suggest, to those village will come up for trial at St who know their significance, her in-Joseph on Monday next. This is a estimable worth. In 1824 she was marries to Benjasuit brought by Mr. Morley for al-min Warren, who died at Georgetown, D. C. in 1831, leaving the above named children, the first born only five years old. Against the advice of some and the evil prophesies of others she undertook their support by her own labor and kept them together until, one by one, they were able to begin life's struggle for themselves. She wrought into the fiber of their minds the belief that honest poverty is no disgrace, labor is honorable, money got by fraud is a curse, wealth or high position without moral character is detestable, strong drink is poison, bad company is contaminating, the Sabbath is holy, the Bible is true, God is a friend, and more than all else possible to be obtained, a Christian character stands first. Her children give their the timony that seventy year's experience justifies her wisdom. On the death of her mother in 1872 at the age of ninety-five years, Mrs. Warren came to the west, living by turns with her children at Granville, Gibson City, Ill., Buchanan; Mich., and in Ohio, where her son-in-law, Dr. Dustin, held appointment. In all these homes she took a deep interest in the people and their work. She could make friends who remembered her. She never forgot them. It was not a light task to answer her inquiries after their welfare after years of separation. For more than seventy years she was a loyal member of the Methodist Episcopal church contributing to its support her money, her labors, her prayers and her Christian love. At the last election in the city of Dayton she registered and voted for members of the school board. She hoped at some day to smite the saloon with her ballot. Possessing a reading habit and a good memory she kept informed concerning the life of today. She knew what missionaries were in China India. Africa and other far away lands and what was going on there. The events of the war with Spain were of intense interest to her. In Dewey's victory she saw God opening the way for the gospel to reach 'the islands that wait for his law.' Her last question about the news was,

What is Aguinaldo doing?"

But there came a time when all that is of this world, the materia and the transient, gave place to the spiritual and the eternal. Nine days of suffering reduced her physical strength o helplessness. Not so the life divine that glowed within. Faith, hope and joyful expectation inspired the words with which she talked with her abiding Friend. Her converse was of things pertaining to the life everlasting and not to be repeated here. Suffice it to say, "The last low murmurs of our dead were burdened with His name." The writer has been burying the dead more than forty years. In all these years he has been familiar with the words of hope in the sacred word, use of members. OBITUARY.

On the early morning of February 4th Mrs. Sarah Van Sandt of this place, passed to her long rest, at the age of eighty-four years. She was born in Preble county, Ohio. October 29, 1814. Her maiden name was Kingery. On January 16, 1834, she was married to John B. Van Sandt, after which her home was near Hagerstown, Ind., until January 1866. when she moved to Michigan, near Galien, and took care of her mother until her death November 1 1886, at the advanced age of ninty-one years. Soon after Mrs. Van Sandt moved to Buch anan, which has been her home ever

She has been a widow since 1883. She never had any chilcren of her own, but her mother love found expression in caring for and bringing up several children of others.

She was a bright, intelligent, woman, read much, and had an excellent memory, which made her a good conversationist. She was specially interested in the study of the Bible, was a thorough believer in practical Christianity, and in final victory of truth and rightiousness, and sincerely endeavored to obey the Golden Rule. Being sociable in nature she had many friends, among whom she will be greatly missed. She has been feeble for several years, and has suffered much from rheumatism. The final sickness was Grippe culminating in Pneumonia, which together lasted about ten days. She was conscious to the last, knew that the end was near and was ready to

* * * Miss Mericle's Success.

The Benton Harbor Palladium has the following article about the entertainment which will be given at Rough's Opera House, February 24th. It was one of the most charming elocutionary recitals ever given there, which is saying much considering the long series of public entertainments of this nature that have made the "old assembly" a delightful gathering place not only to students but to the townsfolks as well. The elaborate program last evening was representative in a larger sense of the excellent work that has always been done in the college elocution department, but the notable excellence of the physical culture drills and the creditable appearance of the private pupils in oratory were a tribute to Miss Mericle's own artistic skill alone and the result should be as gratifying to her as it was delightful to the Again, I sang a song which left its impression on someone, though it was forgotten by me. Long afterwards I found out that little deed had led to something greater and had done some good. COLOR BLIND ARTISTS.

Strange Instances of Successful

Painters Who Could Not Tell

Red from Green-

To speak of a color blind artist sounds like joking, said a London occulist, but, strange as it may seem,

there are several persons so affected who can nevertheless paint extremely well. Numbers of color-blind people there are, of course, who draw perfectly in pencil, ink and crayons, but I myself know a scene painter attached to a provincial theater who, though

"color blind," paints all its scenery, and has quite a local name, not only for his

"interiors" and oak chambers, but even for landscapes. I can tell you also of two London ladies who have consulted ly beautiful pictures. One is the daughter of a late famous artist, and was taught painting by her father. She is quite unable to distinguish red from green, but her colors are labeled with the names, and she has been taught which to use for certain effects. Possibly her painting may seem to her eyes, as it were, drawing with a brush and "shading" with the colors. The other is a lady artist of some celebrity who has for years exhibited annually in London. The public are not aware that she is color blind. She painted

"The Wedding Group" for a certain noble bridegroom a year or two ago, and also several public men's portraits, and one of an eminent physician man residing at Kensington who, hav-

finding his advancement honelessly barred by his color blindness, is at pres-his brush as an artist, designing most

Mr. J. R. Hayes, proprietor of the Wayne Hotel, Detroit, has once more added to his schedule of rates the one that has done the most to make the Wayne famous, "as the best hotel for the money in the west," namely $2.00 per day and 50 cents for single

Notwithstanding the large amount of money expended during the past year in remodelling the hotel into an entirely modern structure, erecting the beautiful pavilion, and bringing the hotel up to its present state of perfection, the addition of the lower rate for accommodations will in no way detract from the very liberal

R. G. Dunn & Co's. Review says: Failures in January were smaller than in any previous month except August, 1898, and July, 1897, and the proportion of solvent payments to clearing house exchanges is smaller than in any other month of which records exist. In January they were house payments, and the smallest in any previous month had been about $1.08 per $1.000. The defaulted liabilities were $7,721,897, against $10,451,513 last year, a decrease of 26 per cent. and 58 per cent. smaller than in 1897, 57 per cent smaller than in 1896, 50 per cent. smaller than in 1895, and 76 per cent smaller than in 1894. The manufacturing failures were the smallest excepting August, 1898. There were only seven failures for $100,000 or more, and the average of liabilities per failure is smaller than in January of any other year, and the small failures are not only fewer in number, but smaller in average liabilities than in any pre-

CHARGE NOT PROVEN

Miles' Claim That Beef Was Embalmed Not Sustained.

WAR INVESTIGATERS SO DECIDE

Commission Is a Unit in Its Report Which Is Ready for the President -Secretary Alger Escapes Unfavorable Criticism.

Washington, Feb. 9.—The war investigating commission has now completed its labors and its report will be in the hands of the president to-day. Beef Charges Not Sustained.

The report makes an important feature of the beef issue and dismisses as rgeneral proposition the charges that have been made against the beef furnished the army. It finds, it is understood, that most of the beef was such as could be properly furnished as an emergency ration, pointing out that the evidence showed it never was intended to be anything but an emergency ration. It says there were only two witnesses who really testified against the beef, Gen. Miles and Maj. Daly, the chief surgeon who made the report regarded as the most sensational forwarded to the commission by Gen.

Miles! Testimony Offset. As to the testimony of these two witnesses, the commission, it is understood, goes on to point out the mass of evidence submitted to the contrary as offsetting this testimony. As to such of the canned beef as was found to be objectionable the commission points out the effect of the tropical climate in producing liquefaction of the fat in the meat and the consequent rendering of the contents upplatable. Most of the beef, though, is found to have been satisafctory for emergency use, where fresh beef or beef on the hoof could not be procured. The strictures of Gen. Miles made publicly on the beef and his public expressions in other ways, it is understood, are subjected to a severe critcism. The methods and manner of loading the transports in Gen. Shafter's Cuban expedition are also discussed and responsibility placed for the re-

Beef Not Embalmed. The report finds that the statements of chemical treatment made by Gen. Miles, on the authority of Maj. Daly are not borne out by the chemical experts, who were also placed on the stand. It quotes from Maj. Daly's testimony and then takes up the testimony of Chemists Clarke, of the geological survey, and Bigelow, of the agricultural department, who examined a case of the beef submitted as chemical experts, and found Maj. Daly is not supported by other chemical authorities and that, therefore, his testimony is regarded as not worthy of credence. Organization of Army. There are also said to be some recom mendations as to organization of certain branches of the army, but, it is stated, the recommendations are not radical. As to the administration and conduct of the war the conclusions are understood to be that everything pos sible was done by the department in the limited time that it had at its commandin making its preparations for the war, and the report says that the conact of the war not only worked out successfully, but in such a way as to be worthy of great commendation. Alger Is Upheld. The report says that the evidence before the commission shows that Secretary Alger exercised proper diligence and supervision, and that his subordinates also were efficient, experienced and faithful. The commission is a unit on its report and there is no minority

At the outset the commission divided itself into sub-committees for the separate consideration of designated branches of the main subject of inquiry. The sub-reports will be added to the principal statement of conclusions handed to the chief executive.

See special offer at bottom of this advertisement. This Magnificent Edition for only ONE DOLLAR DOWN.

To the readers of this paper we make the following proposition to become memers of the Review of Reviews History Club, and obtain the three volumes of Our_War in Two Hemispheres, By ALBERT SHAW,

Editor of the "American Monthly Review of Reviews" and author of "Municipal Government in Great Britain," etc., and a number of prominent contributors.

EVERY American teacher possessing a library, and many that do not possess one, will be interested in the announcement of the history of the late war with Spain, now published by the Review OF Reviews Company. Much of the narrative was written by Dr. Albert Shaw during the actual fighting of the summer. This has been revised and amplified by him in the light of the official reports and documents, which have only become available after hostilities ceased. A free quotation from the critical Congressional debates and other public utterances at crucial periods aids in making this work what it is; the standard reference history of this decisive and successful struggle. But it is much more than a lively and comprehensive narrative. It goes back to the years of struggle in Cuba which prepared the way for the war: to the Philippines, Cuba, and Porto Rico; and as a whole it forms a broadly conceived picture of the year which has seen America brought face to face with new world duties.

The important special and technical matters of the war period, generally dismissed by the historian with only slight and often insufficient discussion, are fully and authentically dealt with in contributed chapters, written by men who had unusual opportuites for gudying their subjects. Thus, the lessons which the war has for us as to the relative efficiency of rifies and machine guns are in a carefully written chapter by Lieut. John H. Parker, of the Upited States are naivzed in the editor of the Army and Navy Johnal; the battle with Cervera is described by the pitch and the facts which caused the war are described by the pitch and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-witnesses.

Murat Halstead and Stephen Bonsal.

The illustration of the book is especially valuable in the hundreds of portralts, pictures of the name, and the facts which caused the war are described by eye-wi mmmm The January term of court opened Tuesday morning and the case now on trial is that of Arthur L. Paul vs township of Benton. Mr. Pearl wants $11,800 damages. He claims that in December, 1895, a bridge in Benton township gave way and he was very badly injured. On this account he as commenced suit for the amount above named. Gore & Harvey are Mr. Pearl's attorneys and Valeutine & Ellsworth appear for the defendant township. The defense in the case claims that the accident to the plaintiff on account of the giving away of a bridge was not due to neglect on the part of the township but was caused by a big washout. It is claimed that the bridge was well made and properly constructed. The case will probably go to the jury to day.

$106 REWARD $100 The readers of the Buchanan Record will be pleased to learn there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure.

Two fine meteor showers are expected by astronomers this fill. The first is the advance guard of the famous "November meteo's," the main display of which is due in 1899. These maleors appear in immense numbers three times in a century, and the speciales they presented in 1833 and 1865 were magnificent. They are extended so far long their track that they require about three years to cross the earth's orbit, and accordingly, many are seen on the 13th or 14th of November in the years immediately preceding and following-that in which the principal swarm meets the earth. The other shower due this fall is that of the Andromeda meteors, suprosed to be part of the missing comet of Biela. They appear on the night of Nov. 27, their periodical returns occuring about thirteen years apart. Their finest previous displays were in 1872 and 1885.

to Prevent Making Any

More Trouble. Washington, Feb. 9. Gen. Otis sent dispatch to the war department Wednesday, in which he reports that Aguinaldo has applied for a cessation of hostilities and a conference. The American commander declined to answer either proposition. It appears that the insurgent leader has lost his influence over the Filipinos inhabiting the country around Manila, and they have been taught a severe lesson. Instead of the residents of Manila assuming an attitude defiant and warlike to the Americans, they seem to have settled down to a quiet, peaceful life and are respectful and cheerful. Business has also been resumed.

The satisfaction which this information brought to the president and cabinet was almost as great as that following the ratification of the peace treaty.

They believe now the insurrection in the Philippines is practically arrested. Wants Aguinaldo Captured. The government has asked Gen. Otis if it will be possible to capture Aguinaldo. This request was made Tuesday. The reply was received Wednesday morning and news of the capture of the chief insurgent is expected. If he is be held and kept from causing further trouble. The forces under the different chieftains are being scattered rapidly and the insurgents will be pursued relentlessly. No military violence will be spared to prevent their feeling the force and complete domination of the white man's authority. Skirmishing to Continue. The department here thinks that there will be skirmishing off and on for several days and possibly for two cr three weeks, but it is hoped that the energy and activity of the American arms will prevent the insurgents from organizing in the mountains. Up to the hour of the receipt of Gen. Otis' dispatch everything indicated a continuation indefinitely in the fighting. Now peace and order appear to be in sight. Praise is given Dewey and Otis for the firmness with which they, met and throttled the rebellion. The opinion is expressed by men here who know Gen, Otis' experience with the Indians that he will make the laying down of arms the condition of dealing with the insurgents at all, and if that condition is met of course it will mean a speedy

partment Wednesday received the following dispatch: "Manila, Feb. 8.-Situation rapidly improving. Reconnoissance yesterday to south several miles to Lagunadebay, to southeast eight miles, driving straggling insurgent troops in various directions, en-countering no decided opposition; army disintegrated and natives returning to villages displaying white flag. The American line has not been appreciably extended and the troops generally are taking much needed rest. Reconnoissances show that the Filipinos are in force in the villages of Pasig and Paranaque, probably 7,000 men at the latter place, with strong fortifications. The provost guard is in absolute control of Manila. All fears of a native uprising in the city were dispelled by the prometitude which quelled the outbreak of Monday evening. How General Kitchener Impersone ated an Arab and Convicted

Two Spies. Gen. Sir Herbert Kitchener, the sirdar commanding the Anglo-Egyptian expedition in the Sudan, is evidently a man of resource, if a story told of him be true. The sirdar is a tall, darkskinned man who in disguise would easily pass for a native, and his knowledge of the character of the tribes, and of their language, gives him an advantage in dealing with the people.

At one of his camps on the Nile, so runs the story, two Arab chiefs, datesellers, were on a certain occasion arrested, being suspected of being spies. They were confined in the guard tent, and were not left alone, for soon after their detention a third Arab prisoner was unceremoniously bundled into the Thereupon an animated jabbering began, and was carried on for a few minutes. The two prisoners were by no means reticent in the presence of one of their own race, who was, like themselves, a prisoner, and they let their tongues wag fast. After a few minutes' conversation the sentry was surprised to see the latest arrival draw aside the door and

"All right, sentry," he said. "I am going to the general." It was Kitchener, and he had himself investigated the case to see that justice was done. A few minutes more passed, and again the door was opened. This time an orderly appeared. He handed a spade to each of the prisoners, and they were then marched outside, made to dig their own graves, and shot. They were, in truth, as had been suspected, spies, and the general had convinced himself of the fact.

VERY STRICT.

Such Is the Government of Turkey in the Enforcement of Its Moral Code.

Those who prate about the immorality of the Turk and of Mohammedanism ought to consider for a moment just how much-cr rather, how little -they know about the matter, says a letter in the Chicago Record. Islam as a theory may be all wrong, but its practical results are often worthy of notice. In no large city of Europe or America is there so little public drunkenness as in Constantinople, and the sight of an intoxicated Turk is almost unknown. In this connection I must call attention to the sultan's rigid rule against decollete and sleeveless dresses at the palace dinner parties. And let me add the following litlately appeared in one of the Constantinople papers. "The police have been authorized to forbid the letting of apartments to single men in the houses of Stamboul, especially in those near Moslem homes. The assembling under one roof of men living apart from their families is contrary to the usage and custom of the country. The same law is applied to the property of foreigners, as well as those of Ottoman subjects." What Christian government, however paternal, would make such a radical move toward im-

School Declared a Nulsance. A school has been adjudged to be a nuisance by Justice Romer of the English chancery court. A schoolmaster took a house at Turnbridge Wells on the assurance that there was nothing to prevent its being used as a school. He afterward discovered in his lease a covenant that no trade or business should be carried on in the house which would cause any noise injurious or disturbing to the neighbors and asked to be released. Justice Romer allowed the rescinding of the lease, as there was no doubt that an action against the school as a nuisance would Advantage of Teaching. Returning from school with a pumpkin seed in her hand, a little girl informed her mother that her teacher had taught her that the seed was white, but the pumpkin was yellow. He gave a rather amusing illustration of this peculiarity the other day on the occasion of the birth of his son and heir says Mainly About People He owns a fine house in Cavendish square, which unfortunately, bears the number of "13," and so alarmed was he lest this unlucky number should cast a blighting influence on the so-called happy event that he actually leased for a couple of months another furnished house in the same square where the birth took place. The Bed Cure. A French medical paper recommends, as the best care for nervousness, remaining in bed a few weeks. It reports cases of what seemed incipient insanity cured by this simple method. It recommends a partial return to the custom prevalent in the time of Louis XIV., when the hed was used, not only for sleeping, but as a pleasant place to remain while reading, eating, receiv-ner, at one p. m. Famous Chests Sold. A melancholy memory of the past was recently put up for auction by the government officials in Paris, no less than the cases in which the huge war indemnity paid by France to Germany was transported across the frontier. The chests in which the famous "cinq milliards" were held were sold for 29 francs! Evidently a lost opportunity for the antiquary. TWO EMPIRES. Contrast in Methods of Colonization Afforded by Spain and England.

Capt. A. T. Mahan contributes a most excellent article to the current number of the Engineering News. It is excellent in the way in which it contrasts the methods of the two great colonizing nations of modern times-Great Britain and Spain. France and Holland as colonizers do not belong in the same class. They have not transmitted their national characteristics to the colony, but have rather administered from

The close of the nineteenth century sees the United States in virtual possession of the bulk of Spain's colonial empire—a string of islands which practically encircle the globe. There could not be a better contrast in empires. Spain has left her colonies impoverished and half-famished; England possesses hers in comparative plenty. Both are the results of administration. Spain from the very first was inhumanly oppressive to the inferior races. and she spared not even her own descendants in the colonies, for when they became aliens she became to them tyrannical and exacting. She oppressed and extorted; she endeavored to make her colonies pay their own home debts. On the other hand, Great Britain has been beneficent to weaker communities. And not only beneficent, but she has been strong as well-strong in the quality of men she has sent out to administer and to colonize, strong to protect on land and sea. Her energies have always been directed to the elevation of the races. The conspicuous examples of colonial administration are India and Egypt.

THE OCEAN TELEGRAPH.

If There Had Been a Cable in Existence in 1812 History Would Be Different.

Owing to the six hours' difference in signing of the treaty of peace at 8:45 was known in this city several hours earlier in the day. Had there been an ocean cable in 1812, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, the war with England in that year would probably have not taken place, for the British orders in council, which were the chief cause of the war, were revoked five days after the declaration of war by congress. An ocean telegraph would have told the fact to this country instantly. It would also have told before war was actually declared that the British government was seriously considering their revocation. If there had been a telegraph then the news of the signing of the treaty of peace on December 24, 1814, would have averted the battle of New Orleans which occurred 15 days later. This would have prevented the only really creditable military episode of the war on the American side, have kept Jackson in comparative political obscurity all his life, and probably have prevented the reconstruction and nationalization of the democratic party which Jackson's ascendancy brought. As close communication between Europe and America at that time, such as exists now, would have altered history in several important particulars.

MORAL VALUE OF A QUEEN.

Woman on the Throne Furnishes a Good Example in Life for Her Subjects.

In addition to a political there is also a clear moral gain in the fact that the constitutional throne is filled by a woman. It cannot be doubted, says the London Spectator, that the court of a queen makes more obviously for humanity and for morality than does that of a king. At the present time, it is true, most of the European monarchs have a singularly good record, and some of them are clearly on a higher level than the average of their subjects. All are humane men, some are even men of an austere morality, and the presidents of the two great republies of the world are embodiments of the homely virtues which are the bulwarks of national strength. But we cannot forget that it has not always been so; nay, that it was not so but a few years ago; that the world has not forgotten the orgies of Louis Napoleon or of the great galantuomo of the house of Savoy, and it knows that what has been may easily be again. But it is impossible to-day for the "first lady" of any land not to be a force making for morality; it is impossible for her to be other than a woman of purity of life, and so an example to the nation. We pardon Victor Emmanuel's amours (or at least we overlook them) for the sake of his courage and devotion; but no pardon could or would be extended to a woman on the throne who had lapsed from virtue or had even given reasonable occasion for the tongue of scandal. Who will deny that this is a great gain for the great sovereignty of a "crowned republic?

BALLOONS WILL SOAR. Even if Pierced by the Bullets from a Thousand Rifles They Will Not Collapse.

Time and again the plot of a story has hinged on the escape of the villain in a balloon, and his miserable ending when a well-aimed bullet from the hero's rifle has pierced the gas bag and brought the whole concern smashing to the

Nothing could, however, be more false to fact. A simple bullet will no more bring down a balloon than a grain of sand an ostrich. The experiment has been tried, and by no less a person than don balloonists. A captive balloon was sent up and anchored about 700 or 800 feet up. Then firing began with ordinary army rifles. Impossible as it may seem, over 1,000 bullets pierced the silk, yet even then it was three hours before enough gas | cornea, and this lends a certain brightescaped to bring the balloon once more to firm ground. One reason of this is that the elasticity of the material to some extent automatically closes the rents in the material.

Canadians in the House of Lords. Canada has three of her sons sitting in the house of lords, viz., Baron Haliburton (the earl of Carn wath, and the earl of Elgin.

SPRING FEEDING. As winter passes away and the weather becomes warmer the hens will naturally begin to lay and produce more eggs than during the cold season, which fact shows that warm weather conduces to laying as much ing friends, listening to music, etc. The as does the food, but the demands of king himself did not rise till after dinthe fowl for heat-producing foods will decrease and a greater desire for nitrogenous materials will result, for which reason for feeding of grain should be done moderately only, the diet being reinforced with lean meat. It is difficult to feed with the exact quantity required, as each individual will have its special requirements, but the points should be not to feed too much, especially as the temperature becomes warmer. Sitting hens will come off the nests reduced in tlesh, as they will eat but little while incubating, and it may be added that there is nothing better for a hen that is too fat than to allow her to sit and raise a brood of chickens. MILLET SEED AMD GRAIN, The commercial millet seed is about as cheap as wheat, and it is possible that in the future it will become a special food for all kinds of poultry. Millet seed contains more oil than corn, but less starch, and is also more nitrogenous. The advantage in its use is, that as the seeds are so very small each hen is compelled to eat slowly and must also perform considerable work before she can secure a full meal of the seeds. Such method of feeding the fowls brings them nearer the natural conditions required, as a portion of the food will be digested slowly and entirely before all of the seed is eatep. By scattering a quart of millet seed in litter (such as straw, leaves or earth), for fifteen hens, in the morning, they should thus be amply supplied until night, when a full meal of grain and other foods may be given for the finish of the day. Hens so kept will give better results than fed two or three times daily.

EXTRA COCKERELS AND SPACE. It is a waste of space and food to keep cockerels that are not desired. When only one or two hundred chicks are hatched every year one male is sufficient. Many persons who keep an account with their flocks complain that the hens do not pay, when in fact the laying hens are not only paying, but also supporting a lot of drones. But the object in reducing the flock is not so room in the poultry house. It is in occupying space that should be given the layers that the most injury is done by most unprofitable.

GREEN RYE. When rye appears early in the spring it is excellent for poultry, but the hens should not be turned on rye as an exclusive food. It is relaxative in its early stages of growth and the fowls will fall off in weight if allowed to have full liberty in the rye field. Let them go on the rye but a short time each day, gradually extending the period until they have become accustomed to the change to DARK AND LIGHT EGGS. We doubt if there is any breed of uniform color and size, comparing all the hens in a flock. We have been comparing Langshans recently, and among them are two young hens, full sisters, one laying eggs that are so dark in color as to appear dyed, while the eggs layed by the other are almost as white as those of Leghorns. There is a difference in the colors of eggs from all the hens and they also differ greatly in shapes.

P. H. JACOES. WITCHCRAFT IN ALASKA.

The Government Trying to Stamp Out the Troublesome Practice of the Medicine Men.

The United States court of Alaska acting under instructions from Washington, is endeavoring to stamp out witchcraft, as practiced by the Indian tribes on the southeastern coast of the territory. A number of Indians are at Juneau under arrest, and their cases are being considered by the grand jury that is now in session. These Indians are very superstitious, even more so than those of the interior. If the medicine man is unable to effect a cure in any case he pronounces the patient bewitched. The relatives of the sick Indian will accuse some of the tribe of being the "witch devil." The accused is confined until the fate of the patient is decided. In every case he is put to death if the sick man dies. The number of Indians killed as "witch devils" increased during the past year, and Gov. Brady gave it prominence in his

Judge Johnson, in charging the grand jury, said: "You will be called upon to investigate a number of offenses peculiar to this territory growing out of the belief in witchcraft prevalent among the native people. Many of the cruel murders among them may be traced to this belief, and it is your duty not to ignore, but to make patient inquiry and return true bills where the evidence so warrants, for the protection of these people. The stamp of the law's disapproval of all such practices must be emphatic."

BEAUTIFUL EYES.

An Oculist Authority Says Those With Large Pupils Are Apt to

Be Defective. A large pupil is one of the chief beauies of the eye, and so well is this recognized that the atropia, which dilates the pupil, has been named belladonna. Yet a dilated pupil is a very common sympton of a defective vision. The iris is a shutter to regulate the amount of t falling on the retina, and if the latter be dull or defective it requires a larger supply. Hence a dilated pupil is often associated with a feeble retina. which, of course, means feeble vision. Short-sighted people have often a greater convexity of the front of the ness to the eye. Apart from these mechanical causes, there is a very common, but unexplained, association of defective sight, and an irritable and easily inflamed eye, with some of the rarer and more beautiful colored irises. The much-admired violet eye, and certain shades of gray and blue, often suffer from such associated defects. Those with long eyelashes are said to be more subject to "stye" and other inPROCEEDINGS OF THE

· To secure for you the best and most interesting of the great illustrated magazines at the lowest possible price has been the aim of the editor of this journal. That we have succeeded we leave our readers to judge. A special contract recently entered into with The Cosmopolitan, which seeks to become better known in this neighborhood, has enabled us to offer you a year's subscription to the greatest of the illustrated magazines together with a year's subscription to this journal,

In this way you secure your own home paper and an illustrated magazine at a price that is only about a fourth of what some of the illustrated magazines sell for. For three years The Cosmopolitan has undisputedly claimed that it reached the largest clientele possessed by any periodical, daily, weekly or monthly, in the world. It was The Cosmopolitan which sent Julian Hawthorne to India to let the world know the real horrors of famine and plague. It was The Cosmopolitan which established at its own cost a great Free Correspondence University which now has over 20,000 students on its rolls. It was The Cosmopolitan which offered a prize of $3,000 for the best horseless carriage and prizes for best plans for public baths, and best arrangement of sewer and pipe systems for cities. We have also succeeded in arranging for two additional offers in connection with this journal and The Cosmopolitan.

After placing on your book-table the best of the illustrated magazines in connection with your home paper, probably the most important thing in a household-for every household, in fact-is the proper keeping of accounts. The only thorough system of Self-instruction in Bookkeeping is the "Ellis." It is not only a complete instructor, but with it, neatly put up in a box, go sales-book, cash-book, journal, ledger, bill-heads, statements, bank-book, bills payable and bills receivable, checks, remitting book and every conceivable appliance for beginning and carrying on the business of the farm, the shop, the manufactory or the store. More people fail in business because they do not keep their accounts straight than from any other cause. Farmers and mechanics, husbands and wives, students and professional men, young and old, rich and poor, all need some knowledge of accounting. By the "Ellis System" this is easily acquired through home study.

The cheapest price at which this is sold at retail is $1.75 (express from Michigan unpaid), but The Cosmopolitan has purchased many thousands of sets so that it may offer them if taken in connection with this paper and The Cosmopolitan

One other opportunity we offer you. You wish to keep in touch with metropolitan life, through the medium of a great daily. The Thrice-a-Week World of New York is the equivalent of a daily and is a marvellous fund of knowledge concerning the happenings of the day. Each issue contains six to eight pages of eight columns each or over eight thousand columns of reading matter a year. In former days this would have cost you probably as much as $6.00 a year, by itself. Now you can have it, if you wish, in connection with your home paper and The Cosmopolitan Magazine
