at the factory, the farmers in most cases are making contracts to grow both Sugar Beets and chickory particularly those who have soil that varies in quality, Chickory does better in low mucky ground than beets and it being sold by weight and not mucky ground will grow more tons of beets to the acre than other land, out the per cent. of sugar is less. One year ago there was some hesitation on the part of our farmers in making contracts to grow Sugar Beets, they being afraid that the test and weight might not be properly conducted, but you hear no complaints from that source this year, in fact the three sugar factories have had less difficulty in getting acerage this season than the one last year, the same is also true of the chickory business. If vou could talk with the two or three hundred farmers who were delivering | poses, but who do not care about beets every day to the factory during its three months campaign last fall you would conclude that no crop was ever raised in this state that has been such a direct benefit to all the people, not the farmers alone but hardware merchants, machinery and implement dealers, merchants generally, in fact all classes of trade have felt the benchts derived from the cash distributed among farmers each pay day, and right here let me say that it would be a calamity if the legislature of this state should remove the bounty established for the manufacture of sugar as now on our statute books. If that bounty is allowed to remain as it now is I predict within the next five years that the smoke arising from the chimney tops of Sugar factories that willbe built, fostered and encouraged under this law can be seen ascending upwards from every county in the lower peninsula of Michigan, and a fit and proper industry to take the place of

More About Sugar Beets.

The following letter from the assistant Prosecuting attorney of Bay county will be read with interest by our readers who are centemplating

BAY CITY, Mich., March 20th, 1899.

Buchanan, Michigan.

Your letter of recent date at hand and contents carefully noted particularly the reference you make to the succes of the Bay county farmers in raising Sugar Beets, and the adaptability of the soil of this county for that purpose. I can see no good reason why Sugar Beets can not be grown as successfully in your locality as in this. If there are any farmers in that locality who have doubts as to the success of Sugar Beet growing, and it being the most profitable crop that farmers of the lower peninsula of Michigan can raise, I would suggest that they take a trip through this county on the stone roads and see and talk with the farmers that you and I met in our travels in Bay county in 1897, as you will remember when here, that I was to some extent interested in farming, having for some years the administration of the estate of the late Thomas Toohey, deceased. This farm consists of 280 acres lying one mile west of our city, while the estate did not engage directly in the growing of beets we rented the farm to W.

W. and J. S. Williams, who have raised 110 acres of beets on this farm last season, and have been so successful in their undertaking that they have secured this property for 1899 at an increased rental and have signed contracts with the Michigan Sugar

Company, Bay City Sugar Company and West Bay City Sugar Company for the growing of 250 acres of beets

The beet crop in this county analyzed from 12 to 16 per cent. and upwards, the average being close to 14 per cent. The beet growers were paid $4.00 per ton for beets of 120 test, and a corresponding amount for beets that showed a greater test. The land produced from 12 to 20 tons per acre,

I have not the exact figures at hand to give you the correct average of tons per acre but the figures in dollars, it would be safe to place at from $60.00 to $75.00 and upwards per acre.

The cost for all labor, for preparing the land, seeding, weeding, harvesting and delivering the beets at the factory, including seed, and $5.00 per acre for use of land, is placed by conservative farmers at from $30 to $35 per acre, leaving a net profit to the farmer of $30 to $50 per acre. We have now in course of construction two more sugar factories beside the one in operation last season, we also have in course of construction two chickery factories in addition to the was dried and cut in this factory and HEN'S EATING EGGS. This is an acquired vice, for the hen does not eat her eggs until she has been taught to do so, which usually happens by an egg becoming broken, and the hens having once discovered that the eggs make a rich nutritious food, they will prefer them. It is also due to the lack of meat, or some nitrogenous food, as the drain on the system by the production of eggs demands that the hens be provided with that which is absolutely necessary. There is no way to cure them except to resort to a strtagem. Placing the nests in a dark place, with only enough light for the hens to see to go upon the nests, with the nests also rather high up off the floor, serves as a partial preventive, but the surest mode is to have a false bottom to the nest, so arranged that when the egg is laid it will roll down, or to one side, beyond the reach of the hen. If the hens are deprived of the privilege of cating eggs for awhile they soon forget the vice. It is best to avoid breaking eggs, or throwing the shells within leach of the bens, so as to prevent the habit as much as possible. CORN MEAL AS FOOD FOR CHICKS. While it may be admitted that corn is a staple food, and corn meal the cheapest and most convenient material in general use on most farm's yet it is not the best food for chicks nor is corn the best for fowls. In the winter, when the weather is cold, and the birds should be kept warm, then corn is the material for that purpose, as it is rich in carbon and creates warmth, but for growing chicks it is insafficient. It must be considered, unless a growing chick is supplied with all the elements necessary for assisting in the formation of bone and muscle, it will gradually droop and die without apparent cause, in the same manner that a plant withers when not provided with fertilizers, though sometimes the chicks will appear healthy, but do not grow. Very young chicks when fed on corn meal are often attacked with bowel diseases. The safest plan to adopt for a cure is to immediately change the food to an entirely different kind. Some may claim that they have raised chicks on corn meal, which is true, but only when the chicks have an opportunity to forage and secure insects and worms. Exclusive corn meal is only a partial and incomplete

LET THE CHILDREN HAVE FLOCKS. There is no better mode of educating the younger members of the family to habits of economy than to give each a flock of fowls, but in so doing they should be instructed to keep strict accounts, and be made to attend to all the details of management. tested as to the per cent, makes it | Should the poultry or eggs be used more profitable on that kind of soil, in the family the young people should be paid for such, and everything should be done in a business manner. In some families no spending money is allowed children unless they earn it, which is done with a view to teach them the value of it, and by givin them a flock of fowls they not only endeavor to manage the flock to the best advantage, but acquire a knowl edge of poultry keeping which may in the future enable them to realize > annual incomes therefrom. PROCURING PURE BREEDS. There is a class of buyers who wish paying a high price simply to buy birds for "fancy points" only. The birds that may have a few sprigs on the combs, or a touch of red on a white ear lobe, may be just as pure and well bred as the prize winners, and for crossing, or for farm purposes, may be equal to the best show birds, or even better, so far as vigor and stamina are concerned. If some of our breeders would make a specialty of advertising such, a large field would be open to them.

SANDY SOIL FOR POULTRY. The poorest and most unproductive of sandy soils are best for poultry, as the rains carry down the filth, and, the soil being light, can be easily spaded or turned over. The sandy soils are also dry, and therefore such diseases as cholera in fowls or gapes in chickens are rather unusal, compared with the damage from such diseases on heavy, stiff land. Cheap sandy lands can be put to excellent use in raising broilers, and if it is desired to grow crops on the land the droppings will gradually bring it to ting a factory under way and ready a certain degree of fertility.

Another Letter From Will Strauser. EDAN, ARABIA.

On board U.S. armed transport Grant, February 16th, 1899. Dear Parents:-

I will drop you a few lines to let you know where I am at and that I am well and hope this will find you

We arrived at Port Said on the 11th about 10 o'clock a. m. and went up the canal about half a mile and anchored in front of the Custom House.

They had the Grant coaled down as heavy as she would stand in order to make the run to Singapore without stopping but they changed their minds again "which by the way is a very common thing in the army" and we will stop at Edan.

Port Said is an altogether different kind of a city compared to any thing I have seen yet; it is a strictly oriental city all the houses have large verandasrunning all the way around them, and have large arched doors and windows which make them look very comfortable. The city is under the rule of the Turkish Empire and most of the inhabitants are Turks who look very queer in their long robes or short | drawn for the amount. baggy breeches.

All the native women keep their faces covered when they go on the street unless they are married and in the company of their husbands.

The laboring class is composed mostly of Arabs and they are a very strong, hardy, working class of people and wear as little clothing as they can, a great many of them wear only a single garment which reaches to a little above the knees and looks for all the world like a night shirt. They work all day for six pence in English money which is 12 cents in our money and they claim that they live very well on that amount of money.

The custom house at Port Said is a large two story building built of gray marble and has a large terrace for The Wyman Store Leads Off With A each story, that extends all the way around the building. There are four domes on top, one at each corner and in the center of the roof is a large tower which is used as an observatory and signal station.

The Port is used a great deal as a harbor by foreign war ships and the canal was full of them when we got there. There were two Yankee man of war in the harbor, the Raleigh and the Princeton The Raleigh was one of the ships of Dewey's squadron and is on the way to New York. The Princeton is an unprotected cruiser of the third class and will go with us to Manilla, that is she will go ahead of us as a kind of a guard. The Raleigh still has her war paint on and looks as if she could put up a pretty stiff fight. The sailors on her are expecting a good time when they get to the states and they deserve it if anybody

We left Port Said on the 12th, and started through the canal, the land along the canal is simply one vast stretch of hot burning sand.

The canal is 92 miles long and about 120 feet wide and is deep enough for the largest ships. About every four or five miles they have a small station house around which they have planted a few palm trees and mangrove bushes which make it possible for a person to live there. The natives that live around the station house do not wear the least particle of clothing and it is lots of fun to throw stuff in the water and see them swim and dive for it, and over the bank until the object is no good to any of them. We got to the end of the canal at 9 o'clock p. m. of the 12th, and anchored in the harbor of Suez to wait unmorning so that we could get a pilot to take us across the bar.

after one of them gets it to see all of them get after him and chase him all

The Princeton left at 6.30 o'clock in the morning and we left at 8 o'clock a. m. of the 13th., we passed the light house at 10.30 and was in the gulf of Suez. The gulf is only about 5 miles wide and we could see on one side the low sandy shore of Egypt and on the other the high mountains of Arabia and these mountains are worth coming over here to see; they are the mountains spoken of in the bible. At 6 p. nt. of the 18th. we left the gulf of Suez and started on our trip across the Red Sea. The sea is as calm as is possible for a body of wat-ter to be and the ship is steaming through it at a good clip. Well I will have to close for this time hoping to hear from you as soon as possible, I remain as ever. Your loving son,

WILL. The International magazine for April is well up to the high standard of this publication, and is filled with interesting reading. Lines to Two Railroad Stations named After Him.

Several years ago Fred D. Underwood, now general manager of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, named two stations in the upper peninsula of Michigan "Rudyard" and "Kipling," one being in an agricultural country and the other in an iron ore district. Some time later a mutual friend informed Mr. Kipling of Mr. Underwood's action, and the celebrated author sent Mr. Underwood his photograph, with the following lines on the back:

"RUDYARD" AND "KIPLING." "Wise is the child who knows his sire," The ancieut proverb ran. But wiser far the man who knows How, where and when his offspring grows, For who the mischief would suppose I've sons in Michigan? Yet am I saved from midnight ills, That warp the soul of man. R. G. Dun & Co's Review says: Business is not frightened, either by the great capitalization of new companies or by the wild fluctuations in Wall Street. It goes ahead with calm disregard of speculative performances, and payments through the principal clearing houses have been for the week 78.2 per cent. larger than last year, and 80.3 per cent. larger than in 1892, but for cities outside New York 39.2 per cent. larger than last year and 44.3 per cent. larger than in 1892. No matter how much the stock operations in New York may count, business elsewhere is large enough to warrant a wonderful expansion of industries, and that is the thing most important to observe. In no considerable branch has production diminished, but in practically all it has been increasing during the past week.

The Samoan Affair Suddenly Assumes Proportions of a Startling Nature.

Mataafa Becomes Defiant and Is Upheld by Herr Rose, German Consul.

An Attack Is Made on Americans and British in the City of Mulinuu.

United States and British Cruisers Begin a Bombardment-Several Villages Destroyed.

Loss of Life Occurs on Both Sides-Situation Recarded as of Grave Importance.

Apia, Samoan Islands, March 23, via Auckland, N. Z., March 30 .- The troubles growing out of the election of a king of Samoa have taken a more serious turn and resulted in the bombardment of native villages along the shore by the United States cruiser Philadelphia, Admiral Kautz commanding, and the British cruisers Porpoise and Royalist. The bombardment has continued intermittently for eight days. Several villages have been burned, and there have been a number of casualties among the American and British sailors and marines. As yet it is impossible to estimate the number of natves killed or injured.

Provisional Government Dismissed. As Mataafa and his chiefs, constituting the provisional government, continued to defy the treaty after the arrival of the Philadelphia, Admiral Kautz summoned the various consuls and the senior naval officers to a conference on board the Philadelphia, when the whole situation was carefully canvassed. The upshot was a resolution to dismiss the provisional government, and Admiral Kautz issued a proclamation calling upon Mataafa and his chiefs to return to their homes. Mataafa evacuated Mulinuu, the town he had made his headquarters, and went into Upheld by German Consul. Herr Rose, the German consul at menting the one he had issued several weeks before, upholding the provisional government. As a result of this the Mataafans assembled in large force and hemmed in the town. The British cruiser Royalist brought the Malietoa prisoners from the islands to which they had been transferred by the provisional government. The Americans then fortified Mulinuu, where 22,000 Malietoans took refuge. The rebelsthe adherents of Mataafa-barricaded the roads within the municipality and seized the British houses.

Mulinuu Bombarded. An ultimatum was then sent to them ordering them to evacuate, and threatening them, in the event of refusal, with a bombardment to commence at one o'clock on the afternoon of March 15. This was ignored, and the rebels commenced an attack in the direction of the United States and British consulates about half an hour before the time fixed for the bombardment. The Philadelphia, Porpoise and Royalist opened fire upon the distant villages. There was great difficulty in locating the enemy, owing to the dense forest; but several shore villages were soon in

A defective shell from the Philadelphia exploded near the American consulate, and the marines outside narrow ly escaped. A fragment struck the leg of Private Rudge, shattering it so badly as to necessitate amputation. Another fragment traversed the German consulate, smashing the crockery. The Germans then went on board the German cruiser Falke.

Three British Sailors Killed. During the night the rebels made a hot attack on the town, killing three British sailors. A British marine was shot in the leg by a sentry of his own party, another was shot in the foot and an American sentry was killed at his post. The bombardment continuing, the inhabitants of the town took refuge on board the Royalist, greatly crowding the vessel. Many people are leaving Samoa, the captain of the Royalist urging them to go, so as not to interfere with the military operations. The Porpoise has shelled the villages east and west of Apia, and captured many boats. The American and British are fighting splendidly together, but there is a bitter feeling against the Germans. Two men, a British and a German subject, have been arrested as spies. The bombardment of the jungle was for a time very hot.

Opinion in Washington. Washington, March 30.-The news from Samoa that the United States cruiser Philadelphia and the British cruisers Porpoise and Royalist had hombarded the towns held by Mataafa, who has thus far had the official support of the German government, came with startling suddenness to officials here, and displaced for the time being the attention given to the fighting around Manila. The shelling of Mataafa was looked upon as of secondary importance, but the deepest interest attaches to the attitude of the German government. At first apprehensions were felt that grave international complications might ensue. But those most intimately familiar with the latest official exchanges between Washington, London and Berlin did not take such a gloomy view of the outlook.

A Rupture Not Likely. While recognizing that the bloodshed at Samoa created a very serious and delicate situation, yet it was said to be a situation which had been clearly apprehended and had been discussed in advance between the representatives of the three governments. The real crisis, from an international standpoint, occurred last week, when this apprehended outbreak was discussed. Although relations were greatly strained, it was possible to secure an understanding which is said to make sure that the outbreak now reported will not cause a rupture in the relations between the United States and Germany, or between Great Britain and Germany. No Official News. The details of the bombardment were read with eager interest by leading government and diplomatic officers who have been most deeply concerned in handling the Samoan question. There was nothing of an official character, however, either at the state or navy departments, or at the British or German empassy, to augment the very full press reports. Upon this officials based their views. In all quarters there were expressions of concern and surprise at the seriousness and extent of the bombardment and the resulting loss of life. That some overt act would take place had been apprehended for many days, but there was little idea

Moreover, new elements of interna-

These included the proclamation of the German consul, Rose, which it is be-party to an open revolt; also the wound-possibilities of serious complications.

While they had been guarded against as far as possible by the recent anticipatory exchanges, yet it was felt that the German press and national sentiment might be wrought to a high pitch by the events which had occurred and that this outburst of popular feeling

The Greatest Contrasts Are to Be Found in the Most Lux-

Probably in Constantinople, which tween the public and private buildings than in any other city in the world.

The streets are narrow, tortuous and dirty, and even the better class of private houses are mean in comparison with those of a similar class in other countries. On the other hand, the mosques and palaces are magnificent in size, design and materials of construction, most of them being of marble, white or gray. The seraglio is one of the most splendid buildings in Europe.

Berlin is a close second in this respect, boasting the finest streets in Europe, Unter den Linden and its public buildings will compare favorably with those of any other capital, but its slums and tenement houses are squalid and filthy in the extreme. Another city which is close in the running is Lisbon. When it was rebuilt after the earthquake the public buildings were built on a scale y no means justified by the finances of the country, while the private buildings had to be erected in accordance with their owners' means. The contrast between them is therefore naturally

He came from a Pennsylvania regiment in 1854, and he became a messenger for the Holliday Express company, running from Leavenworth to Santa Fe. W. H. Bridgens, the messenger referred to, on one of his trips had $100,000 in greenbacks strapped about his person and secreted in his clothes. There was no one but him and the driver in charge of the coach, and for days they proceeded along their lonesome journey without seeing a human face. When yet many miles from Santa Fe they were overtaken by a howling band of Indians and a fierce battle was fought. Bridgens and his companion exhausted their ammunition and continued the fight with their knives. Finally they succeeded in unloosing their horses from the stage, and, quickly mounting them, fled through the timber. The savages gave chase and succeeded in separating the two men, but did not capture either of them. Mr. Bridgens still retained his treasure, but he lost his way among the crags and canyons, and it was more than two weeks before he found his way to the house of a white man. During all this time he subsisted entirely upon berries and

SCHOOL FOR BLUSHING. Paris Has an Institute for Teaching the Simulation of Sweet Embarrassment.

One of the latest novelties of Paris, that city of novelties, is a school where blushing is taught. If there is any place where blushing has become a lost art, one would certainly think it was Paris, but the Parisians, on the other hand, declare that it is a result of Anglomania and the influence of the American girl. The young woman who plays golf or rides a bicycle in "rationals" in the freest camaraderie with her male friends is likely to acquire a self-poise which will make the flush of embarrassment a stranger to her cheeks, and the city where women are bicycling on the boulevard with their bare knees exposed has felt the necessity of a reaction. The classic grace and simplicity of the early years of the century, with their accompanying downcast eyes and simpers, are now in vogue again, and the maidens who have forgotten how to blush are going to school to learn the primitive They say it is easy enough to droop the eyes and affect bashfulness. but to call up a mantling color is as difficult as pulling eye teeth. How the crimsoning flow of red blood to the pallid cheek is accomplished in these fin de siecle schools of deportment it is hard to imagine, unless it is that they have taken a page out of Du Maurier's joke book and emulate the society girl who surprised her friend by always blushing at the right time. The days of the tall, smoke-belching factory chimneys are numbered, according to a writer in the Iron Trade Review. Instead, there are to be short stacks and blowers. For illustration, the experience of a Boston manufacturing firm is related. Changes in the arrangement of the works necessitated the removal of the boiler plant, but it was out of the question to take the chimney along. In its stead a fan blower was installed on top of the boilers and provided with a special engine to drive it at just the speed required. It is automatically regulated so that less than one pound drop in steam pressure greatly increases the draft, starts up the fire and brings the pressure back to where it belongs. The fan works by suction, draws the gases from the boiler flue and forces them out through a short stock extending only 31 feet above the boiler room floor. The draught which may be produced is two or three times stronger than that of the chimney which has been discarded and is just as strong in all kinds of weather, while the cost of the entire mechanical-draught equipment, including the stack, has been less than onehalf of that of a new chimney. cause of the stronger draught much cheaper fuel is burned, the saving being about $1,000 a year. It is possible with mechanical draught to use smaller boilers and still produce the required amount of steam.

Power at the Paris Exposition. The total amount of power estimated as necessary for the Paris exposition is 20,000 horse-power, of which 15,000 is allotted for lighting and 5.000 for motive power. Upon this assumption there is allowed a consumption of 440.-000 pounds of steam per hour, or, for 205 days, at seven hours per day, a total of 631.300,000 pounds of steam for the entire period. This will require 200 tons of coal a day, and the water, required for condensing purposes is esfimated at more than 280,000,000 cubic feet for the whole period of the exposi-

HATE THE GERMANS.

Expalsion of Danes from North Schleswig Aronses Bitter Feeling in Scandinavia.

Prof. George Brandes some time ago agreed to visit Berlin and deliver an address before the Press association of that city, but later on declined to keep his engagement on account of the expulsion of Danes from North Schleswig. In an explanatory letter he saysuthat the Germans do not seem to realize the bitter feeling which the expulsions have excited through Scandinavia generally. He then writes: "It is precisey because our government preserves silence that the wounds caused to the national feeling by these measures burn the deeper into the hearts of the people. The theory that an agitation is being conducted from Copenhagen to restore, by force if necessary, North Schleswig to Denmark is too absurd to require serious notice. In all Denmark not a single man thinks of such a thing. But to-day one cannot denationalize a people by force." The Danish inhabitants of Schleswig, he goes on to say, do not intend to give up their mothertongue even should their children receive no instructions in it, nor do they intend to renounce their right of freely conversing in Danish with their byothers and sisters across the frontier. Germans must also learn to understand that just as they invoke the sympathy of Europe in view of the hard measures enforced against the German tongue in Bohemia and elsewhere, so too the Danes, under similar conditions, plead for the right of preserving the Danish language, even though those who speak it may be living in a strange land.

HISTORIC WINE CELLAR.

Important Discoveries Made by Two German Explorers in Asia Minor.

The explorer, Dr. Belck, who was attacked in September last while prosecuting his studies in Asia Minor, has made some interesting discoveries near Lake Wan. He and Dr. Lehmann are searching for Chaldean inscriptions, and the cost of their expedition is being defraved from a fund to which the principal contributors are the kaiser and the Virchow institute, says a Berlin Dispatch in London Mail. According to letters dated Tiflis, November 26, the two explorers, in excavating among the ruins of a palace of the old Chaldean king Argastes II., came across this monarch's wine cellar. It was filled with colossal earthenware vessels, a few of which have been secured for the Berlin museum. Of far greater importance, however, is their discovery of inscriptions on the drains of the palace, which furnish a complete chronology to the time of the Assyrian king Tiglat Phalasar (about the eighth century before Christ). The Armenian patriarehs have been very gracious to the two German explorers, and have even allowed them the unwonted privilege of taking away an extremely interesting inscription from the wall of an old monastery. Dr. Belck and his colleague intend now to visit the upper Tigris, Mossul and Nineveh, and to continue their investigations in what is probably the home of the earliest civilization, the district between Mount Ararat and the upper reaches of the Tigris and Eu-

Journey Might Be Perfect.

The queen's journey to the Riviera was rehearsed so that all arrangements for a speedy and convenient trip could be settled beforehand, says the Pall Mall Gazette. The royal train numbered eight carriages, and included her majesty's saloon. The train left Windsor at 11 o'clock in the morning, the hour fixed for her majesty's departure, and proceeded over the Great Western railway to Addison road, thence via Swanley junction on the London, Chatham & Dover line, and subsequently by the Southeastern railway, past Ashford to Folkstone, where it arrived at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon, that being the time proposed for the queen's embarkation in the Calais-Douvres for Boulogne. On arrival at Folkestone the train was shunted at the junction, and proceeded through the harbor station direct on to the new pier, where her majesty embarked. The special platforms were fitted from the train across the pier to thesteamer, and the gangways from the quay to the steamer were also tried and fitted. The Calais-Douvres left Folkestone about two o'clock in charge of Capt. Dixon, and made a splendid passage across to Boulogne, covering the 27 miles in an hour and 25 minutes. At Boulogne the landing arrangements were rehearsed at Folkestone, and the steamer subsequently recrossed the channel to Dover. The rehearsal was considered in every way a success.

INSISTED ON FRESH AIR.

And She Compelled the Cold-Blooded Man to Stand the Chilling

Traveling brings out the idiosyncrasies of people as no other experience can effect. Certainly the man and woman who occupied opposite compartments in a car that recently rolled westward from New York could not be said to be as conveniently adjusted as Jack Sprat and his wife. It was a very cold morning outside the framework of the Pullman, but within the heat surged the mercury upward until it reached the fever register "Porter," snapped the man viciously, "I want those ventilators closed. You'll give us all pneumonia in a couple of seconds," and the porter meekly closed the transoms.

"Porter," immediately called the woman, "I want the ventilators on my side of the car open as wide as you can open them."

The official hesitated only an instant for the woman's quick "Do it at once, porter," brooked no delay. He pulled them down with a grin at the opposite passenger.

But the man didn't smile himself. He uttered audible maledictions on the author of his discomfort and ostentatiously shrouded his shivering form in an overcoat, pulling the collar well up oven his throat and ears.

And the woman, in linen shirtwaist, read her book serenely, whimsically unmindful of the glares of her neigh-

FLASHLESS GUNS.

The Latest Artillery Improvement Is Far Ahead of Smokeless It is reported that the new French rapid fire gun invented by Col. Humbert gives no flash or sign of fire. If this be true, the French have made an advance in artillery second only in importance to that which marked the introduction by them of smokeless powder, says the Scientific American. In the operations around Santiago the only means by which our men could locate the position of the enemy was by the flash. If this should be removed the art of war, especially on land, will become more difficult than ever, for a masked battery of smokeless powder and flashless guns would be positively undiscoverable. The only description of the gun that has come to hand is rather obscure; but it would seem that an attempt is made to cool the larger portion of the gases below their flash point before they are allowed to reach the open air. The rate of fire has reached a maximum of 20 shots per minute. To accommodate the increased expenditure of ammunition it is proposed to reduce a single battery from five to four guns and increase number of ammunition wagons.

SPANISH LETTERS.

Many of the Missives Are Written by Hired Scribes Along the Streets.

In nothing is the illiterate condition of Spain shown as in the numerous wiit ing booths which line the streets o Barcelona. Spain has preserved much of the picturesque life of past ages and even at the present day in many of its towns may be seen the watchman, with pike and lantern, going his nightly rounds not far from a fine street brilliantly illuminated by the electric light. In the Rambla, the principal street of Barcelona, may be seen several of these writing booths of the public scribes. There, for a small consideration, the illiterate or anyone else may have anything indited, from the poetry of a love epistle to the prosaic application for a situation. The front of each booth is placarded with the name of the scribe and the services he is prepared to render to his custimers. Some scribes combine the art of painting with that of writing, and all add to their activities the business of registry offices for servants.

THE INDIAN GAME OF GOLF.

Twenty Redmen Will Play Their Exciting Game at the Paris Fair Next Year.

Arrangements have just been completed with a band of 40 Creek Indians, says a Wichita (Kan.) correspondent of the Chicago Inter Ocean, to go to Paris in 1900 and give the visitors there an exhibition of the toli game, which is the most exciting and rude game among the Indian tribes. The Indians are now engaged in practice on their reservation, near Eufaula, and reports from there say that a number have been fatally wounded while going through the game. Only about 20 Indians are required to play the game, but the redskins are going to take along enough extra players to complete the series of 50 games for which they have been engaged. The game is similar to golf, excepting that it is much ruder. The Indians are divided on sides, and the scramble commences when the leader throws a wooden ball into the air and the players start after it with their sticks, on the end of which there is a little basket. They are supposed to catch this ball with their sticks before it reaches the ground and carry it about 300 yards to the goal; then with one mighty throw land it over a high pole, and the game is won. This trick is not easily accomplished, when the fact is brought to mind that 20 other Indians, with heavy clubs, are pursuing him and attempting to beat him to earth, which is oftener done than he escapes. The swiftest runners are chosen for this game, so that when they once get the ball it can be carried to the goal and the game

Over in Brooklyn there is a lumber dealer who has learned what it is to have too much of a good thing. He has occasional use for pennies. He has among his customers a man who makes hand, organs for the use of the street beggars. To this maker of Italian street musicians' supplies he had successfully applied on several occasions for pennies in small amounts. A week or so after the last of these applications the hand organ maker drove up to the office of the lumber merchant and with much effort managed to haul into the office a nose bag such as horses are fed from when standing on the street. There was a smile of satisfaction on the face of the organ maker as he lifted the bag and plumped it with a resounding and metallic clang on the desk of the merchant, says the New

"You like the pennies," he said, cordially, as he beamed upon the lumber-"I have here 2,500 of them. How you like?" And he fairly bubbled oven with good nature.

As it wouldn't do to offend a good of the organ grindlers in the future.

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since l commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any page. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

Nearly Fifty-eight Years Old!! It's a long life, but devotion to the true interests and prosperity of the American People has won for it new friends as the years roll by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast to-day, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and fire-As a natural consequence it enjoys in icans. It is the "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper. Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of the RECORD (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekls Tribune" which enables him to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year. Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and the community in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by experiences of over a half a century.

It has lived on its merits and on the cordial support of the progressive Amer-home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for the different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a yeekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive home. Just think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.25 a year.
