COUNTY SEAT NEWS

CIRCUIT COURT

The case of Peter English vs. Patrick Yore for assumpsit, was retried. The same case was tried some time ago and the jury rendered a verdict in favor of Mr. English. It was carried to the supreme court and the decision was reversed a few weeks ago. Gore & Harvey represent the plaintiff and Geo. W. Bridgman and W. C. Hicks the defendant.

The jury in the well known case of Peter English vs. Patrick Yore for assumpsit, rendered a verdict of $1,-414.53 in favor of the plaintiff. This is a greater victory than before. Gore & Harvey were his attorneys. In the English vs. Yore case 60 days were given to file a bill of exceptions.

A peculiar bill has just been filed n the circuit court and Mrs. Mary Kelley has been restrained from removing her husband's body from one cementary to another.

The plaintiff in the case is Edward D. Kelley, a Catholic priest of Ann Arbor. He claims that his brother, John L. Kelley, died five years ago and was buried in Silver Creek cementery, Cass county. The plaintiff paid the funeral expenses and also purchased the lot in the Catholic cementary at the time of his brother's death and the wife Mary Kelley, contributed nothing toward the burial. The bill alleges that she is now making arrangements to transfer her husband to Watervaliet cementary because she is now a resident of that village.

The plaintiff does not believe it would be just and right for the remains of his brother to be exhamed and therefore asks an injunction preventing Mrs. Kelley from taking the body away. Judge Coolidge has granted the request.

This is probably one of the most peculiar cases ever filed in this county. Gideon Noe has filed a declaration against Phillip Pennell to obtain $500. The plaintiff claims that the defend ant stopped a waterway in Benton township and there by flooded 10 acres belonging to Mr. Noc. He claims his property has been damaged to the amount of $500. Gore & Harvey are his attorneys. -

It took only one hour and a quarter to try and convict Martin Johnson of keeping his saloon open on election day. He was arrested last November by Sheriff Ferguson and testified that he was cleaning out the saloon on that day and four other men were in his place of business. The court instructed the jury to render a verdict of guilty without leaving their seats, which they did. The defendant is ordered to appear May 15 for sentence. The fine will probably be a heavy one. In the case of the people vs. William Hayes, for breaking into a dwelling house, the respondent was ar raigned and stood mute. A plea of not guilty was thereupon entered by In the case of Henry Clippinger vs. Warren L. Hogue and Monroe N. Lord, for assumpsit, the jury rendered a verdict of $221.58 in favor of the plaintiff. Twenty days were given in which to move for a new trial. The case of Squire M. Cushman vs.

Thomas Payne, for assumpsit, was dismissed. The case of the Dow law bank vs. Charles H. Godfrey, for assumpsit, has been continued till next Monday. Court adjourned Friday night till Atkinson Bill Knocked Out.

The Supreme Court, last Wednesday afternoon, rendered a decision in the case of the Tecumseh Telephone Co., declaring invalid the law of 1881 providing for the assessment and taxation of telegraph and telephone companies. The real importance of the decision lies in the fact that it nullifies the Atkinson railroad taxation law passed at the present session of the legislature. The Atkinson law was drawn on the same lines as the law of 1881 and it was quite plain from the decision that if the telegraph and telephone law is void the

The suit upon which the opinion is based was instituted by Gov. Pingree, who asked the court for a mandamus to compel the auditor-general to transfer to the general fund from the primary school fund all moneys collected under the law of 1881 and now on hand, upon the ground that the tax provided is not a specific tax. The Tecumseh Telephone Co. joined the governor in the suit. The essence of the opinion, which was writ- still shows prevailing belief that no subscriptions can commence at any ten by Justice Hooker, is that the tax danger point is near, tax. Not being a specific tax and not providing a uniform rule of taxation as required by the constitution for all property not paying a specific tax, it is void. There is no reference in the opinion to the Atkinson bill, but Justice Montgomery, in a concurring opinion, says that a telephone company in Tecumseh, where the local taxation added to the state tax may not exceed 11 per cent, may, under the law of 1881, be required to pay 21 per cent and that "under the Atkinson bill a railroad in the northern peninsula is required to pay the same rates as one having a terminus in Detroit, and extending through territory in which local improvements are expensive and schools are maintained at great cost." Atty .-Gen. Oren says the court has met squarely the issues involved in the Atkinson law, and that there is no alternative for the Pingree men but road tax law.

The inspector will look up every step of the consignment after it was put on board a railroad train out in the country until it leaves the hands of the commission merchant consignee. He will investigate whether the consignment arrived in good condition, whether the charges for freight disposed of honestly at the regular market price. If the farmer has been cheated he has remedy at law, and the board will back up, even to revocation of the license of a dishonest This is another new legislative departure characteristic of the recent session. It appears at first glance somewhat drastic, but the promoters of it insist it is only fair, and that honest commission merchants have nothing to fear from it. It is represented, indeed, as a positive benefit to them, as the destruction of dishonest commission merchants and their competitive influence will be worth much more to the legitimate commission merchant than the trifling cost of his license. It is also argued that as the grain commission merchants are regulated through the board of trade; so the commission merchants ought to be under some sort

This act had its inception in the oill introduced by Representative Lee of Jackson county. That pro vided for an elaborate system of duplicate reports to be made by all commission merchants on all consignments received by them, covering such details as freightage and cartage, market price at the hour the consignment was received, and whether the consignment was sold in the original package or in small broken lots. HER FONDEST HOPE

It Is to Be Torn in Pieces By Her Pet

Gertrude Charlotte Pianka, the lion tamer, loves her lions, thrills with pleasure when they roar, and hopes that when she dies her lions will be her executioners, and that they will make a neat job of it.

"I fully realize the dangers of my business." she said. "but I do not care. I shall not give it up until I am killed by my pets. I honestly expect to die in the lions' den; to be torn to pieces by the beasts to which I have devoted my life. In fact, I prefer such a death to any other, and I only hope that when the time comes they will make a clean job of it. "My fears is that they will only half kill me, and that I shall have to suffer in a hospital for weeks after. "Knowledge of the fact that more than nine-tenths of the lion tamers of the world who have been in the business any length of time have sooner or later died violent deaths by being torn to pieces by the beasts has no terrors for me. I hope to go in the same way. It will be a quick death if the Mlle. Pianka, the Beautiful Lion Tamer. "Hear that, and that? Its divine!" she exclaimed as the roaring of the huge beasts echoed through the empty theatre in San Francisco.

"That is the music for me. That roar is sweeter to me than any sonand cartage have been padded, and ata. Ah! now Bowser and Brutus are whether the consignment has been beginning. Hear them growling gently as Spitfire sings her solo. Never did concerto sound grander. Now they are all pitching in at the top of their voices. What a trio! It is better than any overture composed by man; it is sweeter music to me than any symphony I ever heard."

Mlle Pinka meant what she said. What fills ordinary mortals with fear and horror fascinates her, and the louder her lions roar the better she likes it. She has been rightly dubbed "The Lady of Lions." Her life has been spent in constant companionship with the king of the jungle, and she has tamed and trained lions without number. She lives with her beasts, lives for them and declares she always will. They are the sources of her greatest pleasure.

An Arab "New Woman." Many an Arab woman never leaves her house from the time she is married until she is carried out to be buried. A woman of the middle class is allowed more liberty, and occasionally goes out for walks, accompanied, as a rule, by a servant. The poor creature is enveloped in masses of white drapery which make her look like a walking bundle, and in front of her face she arranges a large black scarf, embroidered with blue, red and white flowers. It falls in front, and even by holding up the ends she cannot see more than a foot or two of the road before her. I often wonder that she does not get run over when she goes out alone, for I am sure she needs a dog to guide her quite as much as any blind man. Servants and other women of the lower classes wear pieces of black crepon wound tightly round their faces, leaving just a slit for their eyes to peep through, and they are equally muffled up in white draperies. Seen from a distance they might be men with masks or thick black beards, as in 'Arab countries it is by no means easy to tell a man from a woman at firs sight. The older a woman is the more prudish she seems to be about covering up her face, which, after all, is rather considerate on her part. Even the greater number of negresses wear the yashmak, but the Bedouin women never do. Indeed I am told that in the interior there is one Arab tribe whose men wear veils and whose women go about with their faces uncovered. These are probably the "new women" of Arabia.-Pearson's Weekly.

Crystal Ornamentation, Clear crystal is the newest material for ornamentation The velvet coats. so much a part of the reception toilet of the winter, are furnished with huge disks of clear glass, and the silk waist has many rows of these tiny buttons, round, plain or facetted. Umbrella handles are also made of it, for the quality of breakableness seems to be a desirable quality in the umbrella handle of to-day, viewed from the standpoint of the manufacturer, necessitating, as-it does, frequent renewals. Other toilet articles-brush backs. clocks, combs and a dozen and one trifles-are made of the clear substance, which has superseded the rhinestone in popularity, and possesses the merit of being itself and not an imitation, which has always militated against the success of the rhinestone with the most fastidious.

Black silk, as a fabric, is never out of style. You may vary the style of "cut and make" as you choose, and add "dressy" adjuncts, but do not overdue the garnishings, as too much of this detracts from the stateliness and dignity of the material.

BURIED THE WRONG BOX.

Mistake at a Funeral Which Made Even the Mourners Laugh. It is not often that a man's funeral is funny enough to make his near relatives laugh. That, however, is what happened at the funeral of Dr. Kellogg, of Ashland, Ohio. The Kellogg family is an old and respected one in town, and, as often happens in old families of small towns, is connected with nearly every other family in the town. Dr. Kellogg died in New York. He was a widower, without any children, and left orders in his will for his body to be cremated and the ashes deposited in the grave of his wife at Ashland. Mrs. Patterson, a cousin, was directed to carry out this request. The death of the doctor cast a gloom over the whole big family of kinsfolk. Mrs. Patterson telegraphed directions for the cremation of the body, and watched anxiously for the arrival of the remains. One morning the expressman drove up with the box. A funeral was held, and attended by Ashland in a body. The wife's grave was opened, the box deposited solemnly, and the mourners dispersed.

A few days afterward Mrs. Patterson received a small zinc box, about the size of the first. She was horrified to find that this last box undoubtedly contained the ashes of her cousin, Dr. Kellogg. She knew, of course, at once that something else, no telling what, had been deposited in the cemetery in lieu of the doctor. A quiet investigation was made. It was found that another Mrs. Patterson in Ashland, a sister-in-law, had sent a dress to a dve firm in New York. The box containing this dress had been deposited in the grave of the late Mrs. Kel-

A second and very quiet burying was held at which only Mrs. Patterson and tne sexton were present. The story, was too good to keep, and was soon passed around.-Chicago Inter Ocean.

"Can we afford," he faltered, sadly, "to have a skeleton in our closet?" As for the woman, she wept, for they were indeed wreichedly poor; but she was not therefore, altogether unresourceful.

"We might keep it in the hall and use it for a hat rack!" she exclaimed. for her mind was giving away under, the constant effort to practice economy.—Detroit Journal.

A Young Girl's Experience. My daughter's nerves were terribly out of order. She was thin and weak; the least noise startled her, and she was wakeful at night. Before she had taken one package of Celery King the change in her was so great that she could hardly be taken for the same girl. She is rapidly growing well and strong, her complexion is perfect, and she sleeps well every night.—Mrs. Lucy McNutt, Brush Valley, Pa. A QUEER PET

London Lady Has a Pet in the Shape of

In the ordinary course of things wolves are not regarded as desirable household pets; but in the nei-hborhood of Regent's Park, appropriately enough, there is one often to be seen taking its walk abroad, securely muzzled, and in the charge of either a lady or a gentleman A Daily Mail representative called the attention of Albert E. Jamrach, the naturalist, of St. George street, to the fact, and asked him whether keeping wild animals as pets was coming at all into vogue. His reply was that, while wolves were not popular pets among ladies, there were some very weird creatures from the desert, or the prairie, or the jungle, that nowadays found their way into a household.

Several instances were given. As a rule, he said, ladies prefer small animals as pets. A very popular pet is the coattimund, which is sometimes known as an ant eater. Its home is in South America, and it very quickly becomes tame. It is about the size of a badger, and can be safely kept in the house, or it can be allowed to frolic about the garden if there are not any flowers in the way. The suricate, which comes from South Africa, very readily submits to a quiet domestic life. The late Frank Buckland always kept two specimens in his room. The suricate is a carnivorous animal, about as large as a ferret, and is a great favorite with Zulus and Kafirs, who almost worship it. Lately there has been a great demand for the mongoose, a curious little animal which is introduced in one of Rudyard Kipling's famous jungle stories. The mongoose, which no doubt owes its popularity to Kipling, has rather a fiery spirit, and is useful as a rat-catcher, but it can be remarkably tame, and then it finds a warm place in the hearts of lady admirers.

Up to a few years ago the kinkajon, a native of South America, had a prominent place in English homes, but it ran away before the advance of the railway engine, and is now running wild in inaccessible parts of the great southern continent. Formerly the kinkajou, which has a very fine prehensile tail, was seen in many houses, but it is now rarely seen. There is one in the zoological gardens, and the keeper proudly points it out to ladies, who at once fall in love with it. Among animals other than dogs which ladies keep as pets are large squirrels,

Australian opossums, and kangaroos. Birds as pets have gone almost out of fashion, and there is now scarcely any demand for them. In the old days, well-stocked aviaries were to be seen in nearly every lady's house, but the poor birds have been forsaken since the advent of bicycles, and they are scarcely ever inquired for now. At the present time the most popular bird is the orange-flanked parrakeet, which is delightfully tame, one of its principal recommendations being that it willingly takes its food while perched on a lady's finger.-London Daily

Have a Pinch.

Are we to thank la grippe for the latest fad which swell women have taken up? Whether that prevalent disease is responsible or not, the fact remains that the fashionable woman of to-day has taken to "snuff." Snuff hoxes are a dainty and as yet novel adjunct for one's dressing table and chatelaine, and it is not to be wondered at that this has proved an inducement to the habit. The very finest snuff is used, and it is said that the manner in which some of our smart women have learned to use it is very taking indeed, though to many even this is hardly a compensation for the habit as a habit Only the ultra smart women have taken to the snuff habit, as they did to that of cigarette smoking. It does not necessarily follow that those of more conservative taste will adopt the habit. Leisure, lucre and laxity of standard to an unlimited degree are needed before one can become converted either to snuff taking or cigarette smoking. A striking thing about the present revival is that it appears to be confined to women.

The demand had evidently exceeded the supply, and pussy had been brought into requisition. The fad, in consequence, perhaps, had fallen into disfavor, when, lo and behold! from the seats of the mighty the edict has gone forth proclaiming it the thing again. One of the principal favors in the cottilon given by Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt recently were dainty, gold mounted rabbit's feet. These little feet were vouched for as being the genuine left hind foot of a grave-yard rabbit, and therefore brimful of talismanic

A Trade Lost to Women. In these days when women are gradually usurping men's places in nearly all trades and professions. it is refreshing to learn the fact that men are now paramount in a trade which used to belong entirely to women—that of glovemaking. This is due chiefly to the introduction of machinery used to-day for sewing and dressing the seams and to improved means for draughting patterns which were formerly of paper or wood. Glovemakers are divided into dispose of a good hen only when she three classes. LARGE FLOCKS. Failure in keeping large flocks of poultry results frequently because vermin and disease sweep off the members and thereby discourage all attempts to continue with a large number. With a flock ten or twenty hens the poultryman has an opportunity to give daily attention, and if anything goes wrong it is quickly noticed; but when large flocks are kept the matter of having them always in proper dondition becomes difficult. Either the entire time of the poultryman must be bestowed or the flock must be reduced. In order to give all his attention the number of hens kept must be sufficient to remunerate him for his labor. If this is not done there will be no profit. If the number is too small the labor will be too large an item, and failure be the result. It is on this point that a majority of failures occur. It may safely be stated that 500 hens will not support a moderate family, but there are a few persons who keep more than that number. Like any other occupation, the expense must be taken out, and whether the expense is too great or not depends upon the occupations. As one man can attend to a 1,000 hens nearly as well as he can 500, it is plain that the smaller the flock the greater the proportinate expense. Many make the mistake of endeavoring to keep toomany fowls together, thus inviting disease, and more frequently lice. When lice make their appearance in a large flock of several hundred it is usually the end of the enterprise, as the labor is at once doubl-I. By beginning with clean premises, and cleaning them daily, as is done with stables, much difficulty may avoided. Large flocks may be kept as easily as small ones, provided

EGGS FOR A SITTER. A hen should never be given more eggs than her naked body will come in contact with. Hence the smaller the hen the fewer the eggs she should | ily. have. If the weather is cold, and too many eggs are given her, the frequent changing of their positions will cause the whole lot to be alternately chill ed, and the number of chicks hatched from a small number of eggs than from a full sitting. If the weather is moderate, the nest in a warm place, and the hen is in good condition, the prospect for a hatch will, of course, be more favorable, but it is not best to rely an a large number of eggs in

THE PROFIT. Most of the experienced poultrymen estimate that each hen will afford a profit of $1 per year. This may seem small to some, but it means after the interest on the capital, food, and other cash expenses are paid. It is really a large profit, as most hens are not valued at more than half that sum, and with a flock of 30 hens it represents the interest on $500 at six per cent. When we take into consideration the fact that on most farms the actual capital invested in poultry is very small, the profit from the hens is usually quite large. The sick fowls, or those that do not lay, re-

of the flock. INCUBATOR CHICKS. It has been claimed that incubatorhatched chicks are inferior to those hatched and raised in the natural manner under hens, and that they are not suitable for breeding purposes. Such supposition is a mistaken one. There cannot possibly be any difference. If a chick is hatched, it comes into the world fully endowed by nature to maintain its existance ro matter what the method of hatching may be. But after it is hatched everything depends upon the care. Some incubator chicks are superior to those hatched under hens, as also the reverse. They are, when matured, equal to those not hatched in incubators as breeders, in every respect.

USE OF THE DUST BATH. The dust bath is used by the hens to keep themselves free from vermin. If they once become infested with lice they will die unless they have a dusting place. If the quarters are kept clean, and the lice driven out, after taking possession the hens will, if provided with clean, dry dirt, soon attend to their part of the duty and rid themselves of the annoyance. Hence always provide a dust bath and at all seasons.

SELECTING THE LAYERS. If you notice a particular hen during the season that excelled the others in laying, do not sell her because she is moulting, or has stopped laying for awhile, but keep her for another year. You may not be able to breed as good pullets from her as she is herself, but leaving the value of her offspring out altogether, it is always safe to retain one that has shown herself profitable. Hens often last four or five years, and it is time to begins to fail.

it Was Apparent F om the Way Sic Lingered Behind the Traveling Mau. Some one had told her that you always have to register, but she wasn't used to hotels: that was apparent from the way she lingered behind the oldtime travelling man who stood by the clerk's desk. She wanted to see how it, was done. The old fellow had had the same room in the house for nine years. It was always kept for him; 63, on the second floor. He had wired three days before that he was coming, so it was all ready for him. He dipped the pen in the inkwell, and with an extra flourish or two scratched down the name,

"She won't!" cried her astonished husband. "How do you know she won't?" "I'm sure she won't," replied Mrs. McBride; "and even if she is, I shall not know it. She's a Finn, just over,

Fierce Engagement with Filipinos at San Tomas.

REBELS ROUTED AND TOWN CAPTURED

Insurgents Set Fire to the Town Before Their Retreat-Failure of Envoys to Secure Cessation of Hostilities.

London, May 4.-Advices have been received here from Manila that Gen. Wheaton captured San Tomas after a severe fight with the insurgents. The insurgents were routed. The town was nearly destroyed by fire. Lawton's brigade is advancing toward Maasin. ere the insurgents are expected to

.....e another stand. Hard Eighting Reported. Calumpit, May 4 (by Carrier Pigeon 5 Manila). A hard battle is being fought about five miles to the north. Whe American forces, under Gen. Hale, are now driving the enemy toward San fernando. The insurgents are offering strong resistance. The forces under len. Wheaton are engaged with a large aree of rebels at the bridge over San omas river, and the insurgents are fighting with desperation. The natives hat set fire to the buildings in San

Tomas, and the town is likely to be completely destroyed before the enemy

evacuates. Gen. MacArthur's division began the advance at eight o'clock this morning The Kansas and Montana volunteers followed along the railway. The South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska volunteers and the Utah battery moved forward on the right of the line. The insurgents cpened fire upon the advancing troops before they had got within four miles of San Tomas, and sharpshooters kept throwing bullets at our men with annoying persistency. The insurgents had a very large force concentrated in the vicinity of the bridge at San Tomas, and there was more of a determination to show fight than has been the rule in recent engagements. Sumner's brigade and Lawton's command are rapidly advaneing north toward Maain.

Their Visit Useless. Manila, May 4.—The Filipino envoys. Maj. Manuel Arguelles and Lieut. Jose Bernal, have abandoned the pretense under which they came to Gen. Otis that they represented Gen. Antonio Luna, and Wednesday they announced that they came as representatives of Aguinaldo himself. The two emissaries used all their wiles to secure a reply from Gen. Otis to the letter from Senor Mabini, Aguinaldo's prime minister and minister of foreign affairs in the dictator's cabinet, which they presented to Gen. Otis on Tuesday: Gen. Otis refused to make any reply, on the ground that to do so would be equivalent to a recognition of the socalled government of the Filipinos.

Will Continue to Fight. Maj. Arguelles said that Aguinaldo knew he would be overpowered in time but that he would be able to continue the fight for months, and that he would do so unless he were given what Maj Arguelles termed peace with dignity.

The Filipinos now ask for a truce of three months to enable Aguinaldo to summon the congress and consult with the insurgent leaders on others of the islands. The envoys admitted the contention of Gen. Otis that Aguinaldo has little control over affairs outside of the

The question of the release of Spanish prisoners in the hands of the Filipinos mentioned, Maj. Manuel Arguelles, the chief member of the deputation, said that he considered them as being in the same category with the Americans, the United States being the successor of Spain in dominion over the island and acquiring by treaty all Spanish rights and obligations.

After the close of the conference with Gen. Otis, the Filipino envoys had a consultation with the United States Philippine commissioners. A Good Effect.

Mr. Schurman, the president of the United States Philippine commission, expressed the opinion that the interviews accorded by Gen. Otis to the Filipino representatives will have a good moral effect, as tending to convince Aguinaldo's representatives that the American authorities mean to give the Filipinos a good government, and not one of the Spanish sort.

Certainly it has had a civilizing influence in inducing them to observe the amenities of war and consent to the Americans furnishing food for American prisoners. The exodus of natives from the insurgent lines continues. By filling in the roads where it was required, putting canoes on the river and plowing fields south of Malolos, the army is in a fine position for the expected decisive blow.

Gen. MacArthur Moves. Gen. MacArthur has moved his headquarters to San Vicente, across the Rio Grande. Gen. Wheaton's brigade has advanced beyond Apalit. Gen. Hale has returned to cooperate with Gen. Lawton. At Balibog there was a running fight, in the course of which one American soldier was killed and three were wounded. The rebels scattered before Gen. Lawton and Gen. Hale. On Tuesday, while Capt. Wheeler, with a detachment of the Fourth cavalry, was covering Gen. Hale's advance, he discovered a large body of rebels at Pulilan. The cavalry opened fire, but there was no response. Thinking that the rebels wanted to surrender, Lieut. Bell went forward to parley with them. The Filipinos replied that they did not wish to surrender, but that they had been ordered to refrain from fighting during the negotiations. They asked what Lieut. Bell wanted, and in reply were given half an hour in which to retire, which they improved. A Spanish prisoner who escaped into the American lines reports that after Gen. Hale's advance on Quingan, 200 Filipinos were buried, 35 in one trench and 27 in another. This is the largest number of rebels that have been killed in any engagement for several months.

Names of Captured Men. Washington, May 4.—The following cablegram has been received from Admiral Dewey: "Manila, May 3.-Secretary Navy, Washington: The following are the Yorktown prisoners at insurgent headquarters at San Isedro: Lieut. Gilmore, Chief Quartermaster William Walton, Sailmakers' Mate Paul Vandoit, Coxswain John Ellsworth, Apprentice (third class) Albert Peterson, Lansman Sylvio Brisolese, Landsman Paul Edwards and Landsman Fred Anderson. Provisions have been sent to them by Otis. Am continuing inquiries as to the fate of the other seven.'

FURIOUS STORMS.

They Are the Cause of Damage in Wisconsin-A Cloudburst at Trempealeau.

Milwaukee, May 4.- A Sentinel special from La Crosse, Wis., says nearly an inch of rain fell in 15 minutes Wednesday. The rain was accompanied by hail, which broke thousands of panes of glass in conservatories. At Pittsville, Wis., during a severe storm of wind, hail and rain several buildings were blown down, including the shingle sheds of the E. W. Ring Co. Part of the roof of the Johnson house was also torn off. At Black River Falls, Wis., the severest storm in years visited that place. Hailstonesan inch in diameter fell. Several buildings were struck by lightning, and bridges and dams were washed out.

A cloudburst at Trempealeau turned Main street into a raging river, flooding many business houses. Froating debris and even horses were carried down for blocks. No lives were lost, though geveral narrow escapes are reported. The greatest flow of water seemed to occur when the storm was subsiding, and investigation proved it to come from a dam of fallen trees and debris forming in a deep ravine at the foot of Castle peak. After filling the ravine the water burst its bonds and came down like a cataract, and as it rushed around the corner of Second and Main streets great excitement prevailed, which was heightened by vivid flashes of lightning and tremendous peals of thunder that seemed to shake the ground like an earthquake.

Atkinson's Pamphlets Scized. San Francisco, May 4.—The local post office officials on Wednesday seized some of the pamphlets sent out by Edward Atkinson, vice president of the Anti-Imperialistic league, of Boston. The pamphlets are addressed to Admiral Dewey, Gen. H. C. Otis, Gen. Miller and Profs. Schurman and Worcester, the latter two gentlemen being members of the Philippine commission.

SOME BIG FEES.

European Physicians Sometimes Obtain Fortunes for a Single Operation.

Several European physicians have made fortunes by single operations. Dr. Thomas Dimsdale, a Hertfordshire specialist, who was summoned to St. Petersburg in 1752 to vaccinate Empress Catherine II., received $60,000 and a pension of $2,500 a year. A certain Dr. Butler, who had obtained a world-wide reputation for his operations in lithotomy, received a lakh of rupees (then forth $50,000) from each of six Indian rajahs for releasing them from their pains. The late czar of Russia paid Prof. Zacherine, a noted specialist of Moscow, $75,000 for two days' attendance. Dr. Gale, of Bristol, received a check for $250,000 for curing a certain prominent nobleman of a diseased knee. Dr. Gale Yowski, who traveled all the way to Tcheran to attend the son of the late shah, received $35,000 and his expenses. Sir William Jenner received a baronetcy and $50,000 for four weeks' attendance at the bedside of the prince of Wales. Sir Morell Mackenzic received $100.000 for attending Emperor Frederick. Perhaps the most extravagant fee of all, however, is that of an English army surgeon, who charged an Indian rajah $50,000 for one prescription in a simple case of rheumatism.-

Belligerent Crabs. The most savage specimen of the crab species is found in Japan, seeming to dream of nothing but fighting, to delight in nothing half so much. The minute he spies another of his kind he scrapes his claws together in rage, challenging him to the combat. Not a moment is wasted in preliminaries, but at it they go, hammer and tongs. It sounds like two rocks grinding against one another as their claws rattle against the hard shells. The sand flies as the warriors push each other hither and thither until at last one of them stretches himself out in the sun, tired to death. But he does not beg for mercy or attempt to run away, only feebly rubbing his claws together in defiance of his foe. That foe comes closer, and with his claws trembling with joy at his victory the conqueror catches hold of one claw of the vanquished crab, twists it until it comes off and bears away the palpitating limb as a trophy of his prowess. Such is a battle between warrior crabs.- \

Wardner, Idaho, May 4.-With the exception of last Saturday, Wednesday was the most exciting day Wardner has seen. Every hour in the day squads of colored troops, assisted by constables, have been arresting dynamiters. At six o'clock in the afternoon 101 had been arrested. A few of them made a show of resistance, but the bayonets of the soldiers soon brought them into line. The troops are waiting for reenforcements before making arrests at Canyon Creek, as they may meet resistance there. Gen. Merriam is expected here this morning, also the attorney-gen-

FOND OF TOBACCO. A Trainer Says That Many Wild Animals Have a Liking for the Weed.

Torra Alta, W. Va.

"I have been an inveterate user of tobacco in some form for the past 40 years, and during that time have had much to do with all sorts of wild beasts, which I have found are nearly all, more or less, partial to the smell or taste of the weed," observed an old and experienced animal trainer to a Washington Star reporter. "For instance, the common brown bear is so fond of the fumes of tobacco that if you blow smoke through the bars of its cage it will; with evident delight, push forward and rub its back and head against the iron bars over which the smoke passes. This is invariable. Not long ago I blew through a hollow stick a pinch of snuff into the nose of a sleeping lion. The brute shortly after awoke, sat up straight, sneezed violently, and then lay down to sleep very contentedly again. All goats, deer, llamas and so on will chew and eat tobacco and snuff with great eagerness. Monkeys and big baboons also breathe with great satisfaction the smoke from cigars. "I once made a very vicious llama, be longing to a circus, my friend by feeding it daily with a small quantity of snuff. One day when the show was in Brooklyn, N. Y., several men-o'-warsmen came to see our exhibit of tame and wild animals. When the men got to the inclosure where the llama was kept, one of the company commenced teasing the beast. By way of protest the Ilama suddenly spat at the offending sailor, and the latter, with a very astonished look, exclaimed: 'Holy Moses, how his breath smells of snuff,

THE HUSBAND'S JEALOUSY

She was only eighteen when Gilbert Amydon married her—a bright-eyed little thing, with hair like gold, and a complexion like the pink-and-white of a conch shell.

"Gil, you're a fool!" said his plainspoken uncle, who had money to leave, and comported himself in a proportionately uncivil manner. "You're like all the rest of the world-infatuated by a pretty face."

"I confess, dear Gilbert, I am surprised at your choice," said his elderly maiden sister, "after having told you that Sylvia Simmerton was inclined to look favorably upon your attentions-why, Sylvia has three hundred a year of her own."

"I'm really afraid, Gilbert," said his mother, "that Florence is rather young and inexperienced." "She'll grow older, mother," said the bridegroom cheerily; "and there's plenty of experience to be had in this world, if one only lives long enough." And Gilbert Amydon and his pretty little wife were as happy as the day was long. Florence cried a little when her husband was obliged to go away on important business connected with the firm in which he was a partner. They had been married only a few months. "I wish I were going with you, Gilbert," said she; and Gilbert Amydon laughed and patted her rose-leaf cheek. "Why, what should I do with a little sephyr of a creature like you?" said he. "How would you endure traveling all night and running about all day? No, no; you must stay at home and keep house till I come back." So Gilbert Amydon went away. He had not been gone many weeks before a long and acrid letter from his maiden sister, Drusilla, infused a bitter element into the current of his re-

"Florence is very well," wrote Miss Drusilla, who, although by no means either fat or fair, was forty at least, "and apparently very happy. She had friends to tea last night. Of course, I was not invited, although most inopportunely I called in, about the Dorcas Sewing Club, just as they were sitting down to tea. The Misses Myrtle were there, with their cousin, Major Darrock is very handsome"—these words were underscored with two vicious dashes of the pen-"and, judging from their conversation, Florence and he were old friends before she met you. I dare say it is all right-indeed, Florence told me that when she invited the three Myrtle girls she didn't know that Major Darrock had just arrived on a visit to them. But, nevertheless, I hardly believe it is well to re-ignite the ashes of an old flirtation on the altar of an absent husband's hearthstone. However, as 1 said before, Florence is very young, and can hardly be expected to comprehend these things. Gilbert Amydon felt a sharp sting of latent jealousy go through his heart as he read his sister's words, but presently he broke into a smile, and tore up Miss Drusilla's letter unceremoniously into cigar-lighters.

"They would shut her up in a nunnery if they had their way, said he to himself. "Poor, dear little girl! she must have some amusement."

But Uncle Crawley's next letter was more vaguely annoying still. "I suppose you have heard from your wife about the fancy masquerade ball," said he. "The young folks are all wild about it. Your wife is to go as Rowena to Major Darrock's Ivanhoe. The costumes are to cost no end of money, I am told. When I was a young man people didn't squander their incomes in that sort of way. But I suppose if you are willing, it's not my business to object." Gilbert Amydon knit his brows and bit his lip, as he read the words that his Uncle Crawley had penned with such malicious pleasure. This was quite a different affair from the tea party to which Drusilla Amydon had taken exception. And for the first time in his life Gilbert felt in his heart a strong, surging tide of anger toward the beautiful young wife whom he had promised at the altar to love and cherish. "If she is really going to this ball," he said to himself, "I don't know what the consequences will be. She knows I hate bal-masques, and she knows, too, that she has no business to go with that major fellow when I am away. Drusilla was right—she is too young for a wife. I should have thought twice before I gave up into her hands such unbounded power to sting and torture me. At all events, I

Florence, whom he had loved and trusted—Florence, who had grown into his heart as the clinging ivy makes its way into the crevices of the granite rock-Florence, whose pure innocence and singleness of nature he had worshipped—what would life be worth to him if she should prove untrue? Not that he feared any such misery-no, he knew Florence too well for that—but a plum with the bloom brushed off was no plum for him, he had told himself, with a hot, fevered anger throbbing through his brain; of what value were the smiles whose sweetness was lavished liberally on all alike? And as he rode along, with folded arms and traveling cap drawn sullenly over his eyes. Gilbert Amydon felt like one who was already bereaved The house was dark as he ascended the steps and opened the door with his latchkey.

"Gone!" he said to himself, with a bitter smile. "Gone! Well, I know it. What else could I have expected? She is no longer my sweet, home-loving Florence, but-Rowena, the Saxon Princess!"

With these thoughts in his mind, he strode up the passage, and opened the drawing-room door. To his surprise, it was neither dark nor deserted. A cheerful fire burned in the grate-the shaded lamp threw its 'circlet of light on the red-covered centre-table-and there, all alone, sat Florence, her cheek resting on her hand, her soft eves fixed intently on something in her lap—his photograph!

It was the prettiest little tableau in the world. Amydon stood for a second, scarcely willing to disturb it. "Florence!"

"O, Gilbert, Gilbert!" And with a low, sobbing cry of joy

she sprang to his breast. "So you haven't gone to the fancy ball, after all," said he, as he sat down beside her, passing his nand fondly over her golden hair.

"To the fancy ball? I never thought of going, Gilbert. I knew you did not like balls; and, besides, where would be the pleasure of going, with you away?"

"They wrote to me that you were going as Rowena, the Saxon Princess,' said Amydon, half ashamed of the words he uttered. "O, I know!" said Florence, laughing. "Fanny Myrtle did want me to go. She was to be Rebecca, the Jewess, you know, and Major Darrock, her thought it would be a nice party. She even ordered a costume for me, but I told her all along I shouldn't go; so Clara Myrtle is wearing it to-night." "While you are sitting here all alone, and studying my photograph?" he interrogated fondly.

"I-I'm afraid I was crying a little," confessed Florence, "for I was so lone ly, and I wanted to see you so much.' "My own darling little wife!"

This was the last of Gilbert Amydon's brief madness of jealousy. Drusilla's spite and Uncle Crawley's quiet malice had all fallen short of their Java, containing 25,000,000 people, and although the natives are Malays they are very loyal. She also has other rich possessions in the east, the island of Sumatra being four times as large as Cuba, and the island of Celebes being larger than all New England, to say nothing of her six islands in the West Indies and her possessions in South America. The good-natured Netherlands, like the British, have held on to their profitable territory by keeping the spirit of trade alive rather than the spirit of autocracy, and avoiding the levy of murderous taxes, with nothing in return to compensate.

About Mosquitoes. Mosquitoes, it is to be presumed, exist for some useful service, but what it is known only to etomologists. To the majority of people there is no information regarding them so welcome as the fact that they are gradually being exterminated by the advance of civilization. This being so, it should be additionally interesting to those who live in districts where mosquitoes abound to know how their departure can be expedited. Permanganate of potash, says a medical paper, can be used against them with deadly effect. Minute parts of the crystal are sufficient for the purpose. The same authority informs us that only two and a half hours are required for a mosquito to develop from its first stage, a speck resembling cholera bacteria, to its active and venomous maturity.

> Bernini's Centemary. Rome has just celebrated the third centenary of Giaulorenzo Bernini, who was sculptor, painter, architect and dramatist. Bernini, from early childhood until he died, at the age of SS, found constant employment in art. He lived long enough to have seen not less than ten popes. It was Urban VIII. who was Bernini's great patron.

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"
