OBITUARY.

LEGAR. William M. Legar was born in Delaware in 1832 removing to this county over forty years ago. Last fall he returned to his native state in the hope that his health would be benefitted thereby, but on May 12, he returned to Buchanan and on Sunday, May 14, he passed away at the age of Mr. Salma Barmore spent Sunday | 66 years, 7 months, and 23 days. He was converted in early years and united with the M. E. Church. For the past 21 years he has been a member of the United Brethern Church, having for a number of years been a trustee of that body. The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the United Brethern Church, being conducted by Rev. J. F. Bartmess. A large number followed the body to its last resting place at the Bakertown cemetary, and upon arrival at the grave, it was found that loving friends had decorated the grave so beautifully that there was scarcely a semblance of a grave, thus adding a mute testimony of the esteem in which the deceased was held.

ROE.

John Martindale Roc, the third child in the family of Eli and Margaret Roe, was born in Henry county, Ind., Sept. 6, 1824. At the age of six years he accompanied his parents to St. Joseph county, Ind. His father settled on Government land on the east side of Portage prairie about four miles north of South Bend. Here his studies were prosecuted in a private school and afterwards carried on for three months each year in the District School. His time was mainly occupied in assisting his father in cultivating and improving the home farm. At the age of twenty he taught a district school near his home thus securing money sufficient to pay his board and tuition for one term at the South Bend Academy. He afterwards commenced his medical studies with Dr. Daniel Dayton of South Bend as his preceptor. Here he pursued the study of medicine for about two years and then attended a course of medical lectures at Laporte, Ind. He commenced the practice of medicine at Goshen, Ind. where he remained for two years. In 1851 he came to Buchanan where he lived continuously till his death which occurred May 15, 18,09 being 74 years, 8 months, and & days old. As a physician he wes a successful practitioner for nearly 50 years. Perhaps not more than half a dozen people now live in Buchanan who were residents here when Dr. Roe came to this place in 1851. In 1848 he was married to Miss Philena Chipman, a native of Ohio, and daughter of Mr. Holton Chipman. They became the parents of four children, one of whom died in infancy. Mrs. Lennie Lough, wife of Henry Lough late of Buchanan, died in Florida at the age of twenty-seven. Alison C. Roe and Lillie E. > * * * Michigan Crop Report LANSING, May 1, 1899.

The weather during April was unfavorable for wheat in many parts of the State. The temperature was above and the precipitation below the normal. The result of this was that many acres of wheat, the vitality of which had been reduced to a very low degree by the cold weather, and which, under more favorable conditions, would have produced a partial crop has been entirely destroyed. Warm rains and low temperature would have revived some wheat that was killed by high temperature and dry weather.

The average condition of wheat in the southern tier of counties is 60, while April 1 it was 70; this is a fair indication of the wheat crop of Michigan, since, during the last twenty years, 85 per cent of the crop has been grown in these counties. The average condition of wheat for the central counties is 63, for the northern counties 77, for the State 63.

The per cent of wheat sown in the southern counties that will be plowed up because winter killed is 14, in the central counties 14, in the northern counties 7, in the State 13. This van Teachers' Training Department, of ies considerably on account of the the State Normal College, Ypsilanti, lay of the land, many rolling fields in spots and consequently will be harvested. The wheat fields that have been plowed up are generally those that are comparatively level: many fields that otherwise would have been plowed up have been left because seeded to clover or timothy. The damage by Hessian fly is slight. though some correspondents report that many fields are badly infected with the insect. The damage in per cent is, in the southern counties 6, in the central counties S. in the northern counties 3, and for the State 6 The damage from this source can be determined more accurately in a month from now. The total number of bushels of wheat reported marketed by the far mers in April at the flouring mills is 484,534 bushels, at the elevators 574,-933, or a total of 1,059,467 bushels. Of this whole amount, 872,915 bushels were marketed in the southern counties, 152,568 bushels in the central counties, and 33,984 bushels in the northern counties. The total number of bushels marketed in the nine months, August-April, is 14,100,-631, or $4,785 bushels more than reported marketed in the same months last year. At 102 mills and elevators from which reports have been received, there was no wheat marketed in March. The total amount of wheat shipped by railroads from the various stations, as reported for Febru.

ary, is 223,329 bushels. * * * The June Number of The Delineator is called the Early Summer Number, and combines an immeuse amount of authoritative and applicable advice ing telegraphy which she gave the as to what is newest and most beautiful in the world of Fashion.—including special illustrations of Bridal Costumes, with a profusion of sparkling Literary features. COUNTY SEAT NEWS

CIRCUIT COURT. Perley W. Hall won in the damage case brought against him by Mrs. Cora B. Weaver, who asked for $5,000. The plaintiff claimed that Mr. Hall sold her husband liquor in February, 1898, while the latter was intoxicated. The defense proved by witnesses that Mr. Weaver said the liquor was for a sick horse.

The jury went out at 4:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and at 9:30 o'clock in the evening rendered a verdict of no cause for action in the case.

R. G. Dun & Co's Review says: To speak truly of business this week one must free the mind of stocks. For a severe decline in manufacturing stocks has created an impression that it has some relation to productive industry, but it has none. There was no change in the money market worth mentioning, and the volume of business shown by payments through the principal clearing houses was 71.5 per cent. larger than in 1802, the year of greatest prosperity hitherto, which is more than double the gain anybody considered possible a year ago. The rise in prices since 1892 accounts for only an insignificant proportion of the increase. Part of it is in speculative operations, but more than half in the quantity of products exchanged in legitimate business.

A FEW POINTS ON POULTRY HOUSES

No matter how comfortable and varm the poultry house may be the hens will not remain inside during the daytime if they can find an open shed, or someplace where there is protection against the winds, and where the warmth of the sun can be enjoyed. Fowls seem to detest darkness or confinement in a closed house, but fowls will willingly resort to shelter, provided it is open on one side. Knowing this propensity it is reccomended that the poultry house be made very warm in the winter, having a window with a shed attached to the end of the house, so that during the day the hens can be under shelter from the winds and have a chance to scratch for grains in cut straw or leaves as well as dust themselves in a dry place. Such a covered run may boys were a century or two ago; but I be made of boards, tarred paper, or muslin, and the back part need not be higher than two feet. No glass will be necessary for the shed and the expense will be but a trifle compared with the employment and comfort of the fowls, as they will make good use of it. As a place of resort during the day, a low shed, open to the southeast, is excellent, as it may be made to serve for affording shade. For a flock of one dozen make a shed ten feet square, by planting posts in ground, and nailing plastering lath to the posts. Over the lath tack tarred paper, which will answer for the sides and roof. The roof should be a loss of $50,000, with insurance of | made somewhat strong but the ordinary shingling studding will answer for supporting the paper. The shed should be only two feet high at the rear end and six feet high in front so as to have it low, and it then be warm and comfortable in winter under which the fowls will scratch and enjoy themselves. It may be admitted that there is no novelty in such a shed except that it may be built at a low cost, and yet be warmer and better adapted to the requirement of the fowls than the hoards and sonsequently more expensive. Such a shed is equivalent to keeping the fowls in the open air, with a protection against rain and cold draughts, and will save its cost in a single season. It is also serviceable in summer as a protection > against sudden showers. PRESERVATION OF THE DROPPINGS One of the best absorbents for the droppings is kanit (German potash salts). It is sulphate of potash in a crude form, is soluble, and serves better than plaster for "fixing" the volatile matter. If the kainit is used freely under the roosts as an absorbent and cleaned up with the droppings, the two form a combination that is superior to either alone, as chemical changes and reactions not only render inert substances soluble but make the whole more available as plant

> DISTINGUISHING DUCKS With the Pekin and Aylesbury lucks, which are white, it is not always easy for a beginner to distinguished the drakes from the females. The drake has a more masculine appearance, is heavier and fuller around the neck, and his bill is somewhat longer. The better plan is to judge by the voice. The female has a loud, harsh note, while the drake quacks as though he had a severe cold. The difference can be readily perceived. Pinch them and cause them to quack, and the drakes will make themselves at once known by comparison with the females, their sharp, fine voices being easily distinguished. When matured the tail of the drake is curled over the back.

> MANAGEMENT IN FEEDING It is claimed that large breeds eat more than the smaller ones, and do not give as good results in the production of eggs. This depends, however, upon how they are fed. If the food is placed before them in unlimited supply, so that they can eat their fill, there will be but one result-excessive fat. All grain fed to large birds should be scattered over a surface of ground, so as to make them take as much exercise as possible. If they have plenty of range it is best to feed them nothing at all except at night, in order that they may work during the day, and thereby not only keep in better health but avoid taking on too much fat. If confined, however, the grain should be scattered over some kind of litter, such as leaves, dirt or cut straw, as the object should be to compel them to hunt for each grain rather than to fill themselves in a few minutes only, and then sit on the roost and fatten. Such hens are useless, and do not lay, but are always ready for market. QUALITY AND BREEDS

The larger and coarser the bones of the fowl the greater the proportion of offal. Breast meat is desirable, but the breast meat is always greatest on those breeds that fly, and have small bones. The small bones and prominent breasts of the games render them the best of all breeds for the table, and they also possess fine grain of flesh, Pure games are not easily raised, as the chicks feather out rapidly, but crossed on Brahma or Cochin hens, the produce is a superior table fowl. Quality is important in raising market fowls, and this can only be obtained by judicious cross-P. H. JACOBS.

It is related that the elder Sothern. who was an intensely humorous man and especially fond of a practical joke, once at a country inn saw a notice that a convention of clergymen was to meet there the next day. Each clergyman upon arrival received a note, signed with the landlord's name, requesting him to say grace at dinner, the signal to be a bell rung in the office. Sothern had noticed that the landlord sounded a bell every day as the guests seated themselves for dinner. Everything went off to Sothern's complete satisfaction. The bell rang and up rose every clergyman and began grace, then stopped, looking askance at each other. Some began again, some sat down and got up again. The scene for some minutes was one of confused bobbing up and down, with mutterings. The landlord stared in astonishment and Sothern put on a look of polite anxiety and surprise. He afterward expressed sympathy with the landlord in his anger, but left the inn that

The Macon Telegraph tells how "Sam," the colored doorkeeper at the "putting money in his purse." appears that Governor Chandler had been greatly worried by the persistence of place hunters and men who wanted to see him "for a minute only." So he instructed Sam to keep a close outlook and fire from the waitingroom those he deemed undesirable visitors. But Sam, who had an eye to business, adopted another plan. From the well-dressed and imposing looking gentlemen he exacted an admission fee of fifty cents to "see" the Governor, whilst the less pretentious visitors gained an audience with his excellency for the paltry sum of twenty-five cents. The Governor is a most amiable gentleman, but he is said to have been indignant when he learned of Sam's ♦१♦ ♦ "The Battle of the Blockhouses" is the picturesque title of an article in the June Scribner's which describes the recent fight at Manilla, told by an eye-witness who makes the strange conditions of that campaign very real to American readers. It brings out with great distinctness the bravery of the Western volunteers, men who are of the same fighting stock as the Rough Riders. It is said that the long months of dicipline preceding the fight made these volunteer soldiers equal to the regulars.

In Faraway Manila. LA LOMO, PHILLIPINE ISLANDS, )

April 8. 399. To all the Folks at Home:

Well, I am able to tell a little about life in the far east, so far as the American soldier is concerned, and it is not as pleasant as it might be; but it will be different as soon as we get through | hours. licking these savages, for we will be in barracks then and won't have very much to do.

We landed here on March 10th, and went into camp on a nice, grassy piece of land that was at one time a park and is called the Lou Netta; but it does not look much like a park now. Dewey dropped a few 8-inch shells into it and that will spoil the looks of most anything. Well, we stayed there three days and were then sent out to the fighting | finish. line. We were put in the trenches at a place called La Lomo, which is a large thurch and nearly as strong as a fort, and is surrounded by a large stone wall, which the American boys had fixed up in good Yankee style and mounted three guns of the 1st Utah ight artillery behind the corners of it. The trenches that were used by our men were built by the Spaniards and are very good. They are laid out in good shape. When we got to the front the insurgents were posted in a strong position about three-quarters of a mile in front of us-and talk about shooting! They would start about 4 p. m. and keep it up until daylight the next morning. It seems as though all they care about is to make a noise, and they know how to do that, all

They are very paor shots, for we used to sit on top of the trenches and talk and lie around in the shade. We could hear their bullets sing over our heads. We laid there from the 13th until the 25th, and in all that time they only hit nine of our boys. and none of them were hurt very bad. On the morning of the 25th we fell in line in front of our trenches and got ready for a general advance along the whole line. At 6:30 a. m. the bugle sounded the charge and the whole line started. The Fillipinos held their trenches until we got within 100 yards of them, when they lost their nerve and started to run. And talk about running! Maybe they don't know how to do it! We followed them all day through rice fields and bamboo thickets until 8 o'clock p m, when we went into camp; that is, we laid down on the ground, with our canteen for a pillow, and slept until 4 o'clock the next morning.

During the day our side had 187 men killed and wounded, and we made over 1200 good natives. Our boys claim that a good native is a dead one and you could see good ones everywhere. We covered about ten miles of ground during the day and had to fight every foot of it, and as it was from 98 to 106 degrees in the shade, you can imagine how we felt when we laid down to sleep. Inever was so tired in my life. The next morning we got up and ate a few hardtack and drank a little water and started after them again. But we had artillery with us on the second day and they can't stand to have the shells drop among them, so whenever they made a stand we would bring up the Maxims and Gatlings and turn them lose and away the natives would go and us after them. The Spaniards used to fight them and let them go, that is never follow them up; but when we got after them we kept right at their heels, and they don't know what to make of it. On the evening of the second day we got to their large, walled city of Malobon and expected to have a hard fight the next day, but during the night they evacuated Malobon and retreated to Mololos, which is the capital of the Phillipine Republic, and which is their strongest place. Our leaders now decided to give us a rest before we went any further. But the next morning our regiment was sent back to the trenches at La Lomo, as they expected an attack from a large party of the natives that had got around in our rear. We got there the evening of the 29th, and maybe we didn't sleep that night! We were just getting in good shape when, on the night of the 30th, we were routed out of our pup-tents and sent to the water-works, a distance of eleven miles, which we covered in EFFCETIVE WEDNESDAY, OCT, 19, 1898 | three hours and twenty minutes, get-ting sourg, | quing NORTH | ting there at 3:45 a. m. We rested ting there at 3:45 a. m. We rested until daylight when we were told that there was a body of 7,000 natives in a town called Marraquina and that we were to drive them out of the town and back to the mountains. We had to ford the Pasig river and then march about four miles, after which we formed our line of battle and started after them. Our brigade was composed of Companies C, F, H, and I of the 4th Infantry, Companies G, L. and E, of the 23d U.S. Infan-

TOAD AND DOVE

A Fable With a Moral For Young Per-

In the neighborhood of a warm sand patch there once lived a busy little horned toad, who, by industry and strict attention to his own affairs, got along very well and with little trouble to his peace of mind, until upon one occasion, casting his eyes upward, he beheld a vision of loveliness by which he was completely dazzled. A beautiful dove, as dainty and trim as only a dove knows how to be, was pecking away in the sand at not more than a foot distance, and the poor horned toad

at once fell a victim to her enthralling influence. It was, in fact, a case of love at first sight, with all the usual symptoms. The dove did not remain more than a few minutes, but spread her graceful wings and flew off before the horned toad had time to realize what was amiss with him. For the remainder of that day he experienced an unusual condition of restlessness. He was neither able to enjoy his usual midday bask in the sun, nor did any flics come within reach that served to stimulate his appetite. At sundown, too, he sat on, gazing at nothing in particular, instead of burrowing in the sand and going quietly to sleep, like any peaceful minded little reptile. So the morning came and found him considerably the worse for a night spent in harrowing reflections. Two or three times that day the dove came and hopped about near the poor horned toad, and left him each time more de-

Hall, and as there were 7,000 insurgents it made us feel rather doubtful as to our ability to lick them, for they had strong intrenchments. We advanced to within about 300 yards of their line and then laid down to give the artillery a chance. They dropped about thirty shells into the town and then we charged carrying their whole line of trenches without firing a shot, but as soon as we got through the town and could see them running across the open fields we let them have it from our rifles, and between us and the artillery we got about 500 of the natives, with a loss on our side of one killed and twenty wounded. The man killed was Lieut. Craig of the 4th Inft. After driving them to the hills we returned to our old camp at La Lomo, getting there at 8 p. m., March 31st, having marched thirty-four miles and fought a hard battle in less than twenty-four

We have not done anything since then except to do our-post duty, and that would be easy enough if they would quit their shooting; but their sharpshooters keep near us and let us know they are around by the whistle of a Mauser ball. Outside of that everything is quiet along the line. If the natives do not give up soon we will go after them again, and then look out! because Gen. Lawton won't stop until he has them whipped to a The next time I write I will tell

A General Good Time. Those members of the Christian Church who attended the "Bee" at the church building on Friday had a good time. At all hours of the forenoon the men kept dropping in with hamners in hanciand were as promptly set to work at nailing lath, and flooring and making themselves generally useful. Along about half past eleven members of the Ladies Aid society began to make their appearance and ia every case was accompanied by a basket of good things well calculated to make the average man feel good natured. Tables were set in the vestibule of the church and at half past twelve about a score or more hungry men sat down to do justice to theleatables and a merry time was enjoyed by everyone. After all had satisfied the cravings of the inner man (or woman) the ladies cleared up the table, washed the dishes and spent the afternoon in having a general frolic, and at the end of the day all voted

Matrimony has had quite a boom in the Daily News office during the last year. # EXTRA SESSION

Recent Rumors on the Subject Were Groundless.

PRESIDENT HAS TAKEN NO ACTION.

Official Statement Made That No Consideration Has Yet Been Given to the Question-Renefited by His Vacation.

Hot Springs, Va., May 18 .- President McKinley has not yet given consideration to the subject of an extra session of congress. This statement was made officially here Wednesday night and was brought forward by published announcements that an extra session had been decided upon on the one hand, and on the other that such a session would not be called.

Congratulates Lawton. The dispatch of Gen. Otis regarding the capture of San Isidro by Gen. Lawton and his forcing of the scattered insurgent ranks into the mountains was forwarded here by the war department. The news it bore was so pleasing to President McKinley that he immediately sent his congratulations to Gen. Lawton in the following telegram: "To Otis, Manila: Convey to Gen, Law-ton and the gallant men of his command my congratulations upon the successful operations during the past month, resulting in the capture this morning of San Isidro. "WILLIAM M'KINLEY." Advices also were received from Cuba which were stated to be "more reassuring," and that a satisfactory outcome of the present situation there would result.

Helped by His Onting. The president's visit here is nearly at an end. Though the time of departure has not been definitely fixed, it is almost certain that the party will reach Washington some time Saturday. The rest from official routine, the freedom from intrusion and the exercise in the open air has given the president the recuperation he needed. He appears thoroughly healthful and will return to Washington invigorated and well.

DECLARE IT IS ABSURD.

The British War Department Denies Having Directed the Plot Against the Transvaal.

London, May 18.—In response to inquiries on the subject made in government circles, the correspondent here of the press was told that the statement that the men arrested at Johannesburg had acted under instructions from the British war office was "too absurd for refutation." It is not believed that officers who bore or bear the queen's commission st the republic. It is admitted, however, that the continued refusal to redress the Uitland-ers' grievances may have driven British subjects into desperate courses. The opinion here is that the charge is trumped up, and is designed to furnish additional justification to refuse the Uitlanders' demands. In any event, it is believed it will force Mr. Chamberlain's hand and may lead to grave events with the Transvaal. All the officers arrested must have been on the retired list and for years resident in the Transvaal. They never were known to have been connected with any agitation previously. Pretoria, Transvaal Republic, May 18.—The seven alleged revolutionists. who presented the appearance of ordinary loafers, were arraigned in court Wednesday, charged with the capital offense of high treason. They were remanded for a fortnight.

Sworn affidavits allege that 2,000 men have been enrolled for military service and that it was intended to arm them in Natal, to return them to the Rand, and, at a given signal, to seize and hold the fort of Johannesburg for 24 hours, pending the arrival of British troops. The Press says the government regards the matter as "an unfortunate local incident which will not affect the general political situation."

ILLINOIS VETERANS.

Capt. John B. Inman Nominated for Department Commander of the G. A. R.

Danville, Ill., May 18 .- The parade of the Illinois department of the G.A.R. took place Wednesday afternoon. There were nearly 2,000 in line. The address of Department Commander John C. Black awakened much enthusiasm. Capt. John B. Inman, of Springfield, was unanimously nominated for department commander. The election will take place to-day. The report of Adjt. Gen. Charles Partridge, of Waukegan, showed that the number of members in good standing in the state was 23,503, embracing 573 posts. During the war three new posts have been mustered in and ten have been revived and reinstated. Five posts have surrendered their charters and five are in arrears. The net gain during the year was three posts. The net loss in membership was 771, of which number 545 died. There has been expended in charities the sum of $5.766.17. The resources of the order are a per capita tax of 20 cents. The funds of the department now on hand aggregate $3,000.

Dozens of shots were exchanged between the officers and the fugitive, who only surrendered when preparations were made to burn the premises.

BADLY DEMORALIZED

Insurgent Forces Scattered and Disheartened.

LAWTON KEEPS THEM ON THE MOVE.

Rapidly Being Driven Into the Moun tains, and Given No Chance to Rally-News from Otis Encourages Officials.

Washington, May 18.-The following dispatch has been received at the war department:

War department:

"Manila, May 17. — Adjutant General, Washington: Situation as follows: Lawton with tact and ability has covered Bulacan province with his column and driven insurgent troops northward into San Isidro, second insurgent capital, which he captured this morning; is now driving enemy porthypard into mountains. He has enemy northward into mountains. He has constant fighting, inflicting heavy losses and suffering few casualties; appearance of his troops on flanks of enemy behind entrenchments thrown up at every strategic point and town very demoralizing to in-surgents and has given them no opportun-ity to reconcentrate scattered troops. Kobbe's column with gunboats proceeding up Rio Grande. * * * (Signed) "OTIS."

Portions of the dispatch which have not been made public relate to future movements of the troops.

Disintegrated and Demoralized. Washington, May 18.-That the insurgents are disintegrated and demoralized is perfectly manifest from the press dispatches and the cable received from Gen. Otis Wednesday. Gen. Lawton, who was pushing the line of the rebel retreat along the Rio Grande, has flung his advance, which, at last advices, was resting at San Miguel, northward about 12 miles, has taken San Isidro, the second insurgent capital, and when Otis' dispatch was sent was still pressing the enemy northward. The fact that he is sustaining few losses in his forward movement, although in an almost continual contact with the enemy, is another proof of their tter demoralization. According to Gen. Otis' cable, they still continue to throw up intrenchments, but Gen. Lawton's strategy outflanks each position in turn, keeping them in full retreat and giving them no opportunity to reconstruct their scattered forces.

It will soon be the mountains or the sea for the insurgents. As our troops could be transported by sea to the mouth of the Agno and a new base of operations established there, it would be folly for them to take that course. Scattered, demoralized and disheartened, it is almost certain that the rebels in desperation will retreat into the fastnesses of the mountains, where they would be safe from pursuit, and where they could keep up a guerrilla warfare indefinitely, or until their leaders came to their senses. Although all the past efforts of our troops to get into the rear of the insurgents have failed up to this time. by sheer force of the battering ram the enemy has been driven back step by step into the pocket where nothing will be left for them but surrender or the mountains. Over 55 miles, as the crow flies, the rebels have been forced back. Only Slight Resistance.

Manila, May 18.-Col. Summers' command, consisting of the Twenty-second infantry, on the left, the Minnesota regiment in the center and the Oregon and North Dakota regiments on the right, preceded by scouts and accompanied by Scott's battery of artillery, advanced from Baluarte at daylight. The troops first encountered the enemy two miles from San Tsidro, the rebels retiring when our artillery opened fire. Just outside the town, a rebel force, estimated to number 2.000 men. was entrenched. It made a slight resistance, but quitted its position when our troops turned its right

The enemy's loss was 15 men killed and 20 wounded. Our troops also captured three prisoners and many rifles. On the American side one soldier of the Oregon regiment and one of the Minnesota regiment were slightly wounded.

After capturing the town, Col. Summers' troops continued their advance. pursuing the retreating rebels for several miles.

Pushing Forward. Manila, May 17 .- Maj. Kobbe's column reached San Luis, eight miles up the Rio Grande, yesterday, meeting with but slight opposition. One man was wounded during a brush with the rebels. At daybreak to-day the Americans began a further advance toward Candaba, about six miles up the river beyond San Luis. The insurgents along Gen. MacArthur's front evacuated their positions during the nighttime, presumably moving further up the railroad. The Twenty-third infantry has sailed on the transport Leon AIII. for Jolo island, to relieve the Spanish garrison there. MAY EXECUTE ANYONE. Possession of the Ching Fang Sword

in China Gives One That Privilege. It is announced by the Imperial Gazette of Peking, the court circular of the Chinese empire, that the downger empress has presented two "Schang-Fang" swords, one to Prince Tsa Tschi, elector of Tuan, the other to Prince Tsai Lieu, III. grade. These swords give their bearer the right of beheading any man, woman,or child who may have offended him or incurred his disfavor. He can perform this execution without even a word to the emperor and need make no record of his victim's butchery. The idea of the sword, however, is that it is a safeguard against treason. The bearer must instantly do away with any one who may have designs against the ruling family, and thus discourage "lese majeste." at the same time it is a mark of esteem for those who receive

The Schang-Fang sword dates back centuries, still there is only one other instance, besides the one just mentioned, recorded in Chinese history, where this sword was given to anyone. It was presented on that occasion to the Mon-Gol General Sai-Schang-ah by Emperor Hsien-Feeng, when, during the Tai-Ping rebellion, that general distinguished himself by exceptional bravery and earned the rank of gener

STONE HOTELS

They Arc Said to Burn Oftener Than

Those Built Entirely of Wood.

Considering how many huge hotels, constructed entirely of wood, and often in a more or less flimsy manner, are scattered about the country in places where security from fire depends almost wholly on the watchfulness of proprietors and guests, it is, indeed, remarkable that fatal conflagrations are not more numerous than they are. As a matter of fact, it is the old city hotel that most often is the scene of a great catastrophe, not the big frame structure at mountain or beach resorts, though these, at first thought, would seem to be much more convenient fuel

for flames, says the New York Times

It must be remembered, however that the difference between the urban and rural hotels is more apparent than real. Stone or brick outside walls give no infiammability to a building with wooden floors laid on wooden beams, and with scantlings covered with lath and plaster for partitions. As one of the officials said in discussing the tragedy at the Windsor, the summer hotels are safer than they seem. They contain few except kitchen fires, and their structure is such that every inmate is moved to more carefulness than resi-

Common Shell of Gypsum Is Used,

He generally uses the shell of some common egg, chosen for its likeness in size and shape to the one desired, but when that is impossible gypsum is used, this, when properly colored, being indistinguishable from nature's handiwork. The coloring process is not costly, but a very lengthy and tedious operation, for each variety of egg has its distinctive marks and spot. Nightingales' eggs, which are finely marked, are worth good prices, and knowing this the dealer finds no difficulty in obtaining larks' eggs and coloring them to resemble the genuine

THE SIGN OF THE BOOT.

A Familiar Emblem That Usually Hangs Over the Door of the Shoemaker's Shop.

The sign of the boot seen hanging out in front of the shoemaker's shop may be made of wood or zinc or of copper. Of these three the wooden boot is the cheapest, the copper the dearest. Such boots, says the New York Sun, have been made also of chalk and of iron. Sign boots are made in two or three standard sizes and of other sizes to order. They are most commonly seen gilded, but sign boots are occasionally finished in some bright color, as, for instance, a brilliant red. The boot signs may be bought in the establishment of the dealer in emblem signs, where there are also to be found the gilded fishes for the dealer in fishing tackle, the great gilded padlock for the hardware dealer, and a variety of other signs of an emblematic character, and they may also be bought of the dealers in leather and findings who make a specialty of shoemakers' supplies.

Besides these familiar gilded or painted smaller boots there is occasionally seen in front of shoe stores a giant boot, with the foot part perhaps three or four feet in length and the leg in proportion, four or five or six feet tall. These great boots, of which the number used is limited, are made of sheet iron or tin and painted. The dealer who wants a boot of this kind gets it made to order by some skillful worker in sheet

People are telling a most remarkable story about a famous but somewhat eccentric woman who was lately visiting the capital, says the Washington Post. She was invited to a luncheon and she accepted the invitation. Several women well worth knowing were asked to meet her.

When they all came to the table the famous guest asked for a finger bowl. The maid, too well trained to show surprise at anything, brought a bowl half filled with water. The famous woman drew a small bottle from her pocket and emptied its contents into the water. Then calmly she proceeded to lave her spoon and fork in the liquid and wiped them on the damask napkin, explaining the while that for her health's sake she made it a rule never to touch her lips with silver that had not been properly sterilized. The bottle contained antiseptic of some kind-I've forgotten the name of it.

The best part of the story, to my way of thinking, is what the hostess did. She did not look upon the proceeding as any reflection on her housekeeping methods. She did not stare haughtily She simply smiled into the agonized eyes of the woman who had brought the famous guest, and said:

"What a very excellent idea."

the War.

THE SIGN OF BECKONING. A New Gesture Acquired by United States Troops Returning from

Among the troops returning form the new territories added to the United States by the Spanish war many have unconsciously acquired a new trick of ges ture, says the New York Tribune. Ask anyone in this part of the world to beckon to a distant person to come nearer, and the sign will be made by extending the arm forward, palm upward, three fingers flexed into the palm and the index finger moved back and forth. Neither in the new eastern nor the new western possessions does that signal mean "come here;" as a matter of fact it has not that meaning among the American Indians. The northern races of Europe are almost the only people who employ the sign in that sense, and with them it may be regarded as but a hand dialect. All over the rest of the world "come here" is made by extending the arm rigidly before the body, palm facing forward and the four fingers sharply extending and flexed back into the palm several times. Every soldier of the armies of occupation who comes in contact with the Spaniards and the native races is bound to acquire the new gesture and to bring it home with him. .

Bear Liked Sugar.

In a Vermont maple sugar camp, owned by a Mr. Forsythe, the owner this spring often missed cakes of the maple sugar which had been set out in the snow to harden. For a long time the men at the camp watched for the thief, but never caught him, until at last one day they found bear tracks leading away from the camp, and followed them until they came to a cave in the hillside. Mr. Bear was not at home, but in one corner of the cave they found their cakes of maple sugar neatly piled up. Mr. Bear had hidden away nearly 200 pounds of the sweet stuff. and when they went to carry it away they met him coming through the woods, walking straight up on his hind feetlike a man and carrying more sugar in his arms. When he saw the men he did not wait to be shot, but dropped his sugar and ran away like any other thief.

An Old Peerage. The premier baron of England, Lord de Ros, has just celebrated his birthday, having completed his seventy-second year. There are older peerages still in existence, but the barony of De Ros is the oldest peerage of that grade, it having been created in 1264 by Henry III., and the present peer is the twentyfourth holder of the title. That gives an average life to each holder of over 26 years, but many of them did not succeed to the title very early in life. The present peer was 47 when he succeeded his father. The present Lord de Ros receives about one cent a day for every served as equerry and lord in waiting to the queen and prince consort.

OUTBREAK AT MANILA.

An English Lady Describes the Horrible Treachery of the Natives.

Extracts from the diary of an English lady at Manila have been published in the papershere. They give a graphic description of the situation at Manila, the outbreak of hostilities and the feeling of panic among the residents. They also tell of the scare in the city in the middle of January, owing to the small rising inside the walls. The people packed their jewels, money and clothing, all ready to run. Under date of January 8, she describes the previous Sunday, and says: "A huge red balloon ascended from the rebel camp as a signal to attack, and the firing increased steadily. A soldier came to tell us that the rebels had burned the waterworks, and that we must fill everything we had, as the supply would stop in a few hours. The firing came nearer and nearer. We seemed to be in the very center of a perfect storm of bullets all around the house. At last we heard that the rebels were driven back, and saw the home troops returning. Poor things! They were dead beat, just tramping along, dragging one foot after the other, and behind them was the sad little procession of wounded on stretchers."

On February 9, referring to the skirmish at Malate, she wrote: "When the fire was too hot for the rebels they put up a white flag, and showed the butt ends of their rifles. So, the Americans advanced, and, when quite close, the rebels fired at them. This horrible treachery met with a just reward."

TALES OF THE INJURED.

They Troop Into the Offices of Down town Physicians in Chicago

Doctors offices in the region of Randolph and State streets frequently witness strange scenes of accidents and disorder. More people are hurt in the busy downtown thoroughfares than the rest of the concentrated world imagines. The other morning in the waiting-room of a prominent physician a woman had barely entered with a limp wrist bound in a handkerchief when a man opened the door hurriedly, his white face daubed with trinkling streams of blood, says the Chicago Chronicle.

"Tend to him first," moaned the woman, unselfishly. "Poor man, he seems to need it most." As the doctor examined his injuries the masculine victim told his story. He was a painter and was decorating the interior of a jewelry store when he slipped from his ladder and fell face downward through the glass top of a showcase, which accounted for his sanguinary appearance.

"Nothing very much happened to me," gasped the woman in her turn. "At least I thought it was nothing much. I only slipped on an orange peel that lay innocently on the sidewalk and the consequence is a broken wrist, for, of course, as I felt myself going I put out my hand to break my fall. I don't think I would have minded it so much either," continued the suffer ing patient, "only that three men saw me slip and they could easily have caught me, but they only laughed."

A way with men.

A ZULU BRIDE. Elaborate Hair Dressing Is the Leading Feature of Her Nuptial Get-Up.

The daughter of a Zulu in comfort able circumstances does not leave her father's kraal without much pomp and many queer rites, which doubtless are held by her people in high estimation. It may be noted, too, that the marriage customs of these dusky Africans are subject to innumerable variations each tribe having its own peculiarities. Hair-dressing, by the way, is an important feature both to the bride and bridegroom, and the attention paid to the coiffure of the pair would shame the performance of a West end hairdresser who arranges a bride's locks and fastens the orange blossom chaplet. A cone-shaped erection, for instance, is the lawful coiffure of a Zulu wife, and this cannot be legally worn till the marriage rites are duly completed. Save for the all-important one the head of a Zulu bride is closely shaved, an assegai being used for the purpose; whilst, as soon as a youth is of a marriageable age, his head is shorn to leave a ring around the scalp, and then liberally besmeared with fat and ochre, without which unguents no Zulu would feel fittingly decorated for his bride. When the bridegroom-elect has been shorn of all his hair save the wool on the crown, which is trained in a circular shape and some four inches in diameter, a ring is sewn to this, of gum and charcoal; in this the Zulu thrusts long snuff spoons, needles and small utility articles, and is very proud of his ring, which is the badge of manhood.—Cassell's Magazine. YALE'S ANCESTRAL HOME.

They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

Nearly Fifty-eight Years Old!!

It's a long life, but devotion to the truinterests and prosperity of the Ameri can People has won for it new friends as the years roll by and the original members of its family passed to their reward, and these admirers are loyal and steadfast to-day, with faith in its teachings, and confidence in the information which it brings to their homes and fire-

As a natural consequence it enjoys in its old age all the vitality and vigor of its youth, strengthened and ripened by experiences of over a half a century. It has lived on its merits and on the cans. It is the "The New-York Weekly Tribune," acknowledged the country over as the leading National Family Newspaper. Recognizing its value to those who desire all the news of the State and Nation, the publisher of the RECORD (your own favorite home paper) has entered into an alliance with "The New-York Weekls Tribune" which enables m to furnish both papers at the trifling cost of $1.25 per year.

Every farmer and every villager owes to himself, to his family, and the ommunity in which he lives a cordial support of his local newspaper, as it works constantly and untiringly for his interests in every way, brings to his home all the news and happenings of his neighborhood, the doings of his friends, the condition and prospects for the different crops, the prices in home markets, and, in fact, is a weekly visitor which should be found in every wide-awake, progressive home.

Just think of it! Both of these papers for only $1.25 a year.
