"There!" cried Mrs. Jones, spitefully, "if you want to see my kitchen girl. here she is, and much good may the sight do you! But she's bound legal and lawful to me till she's 18, and I'm one as knows my rights as well as another! No, and ain't to be cheated out of 'em, neither-no-not if I know it!" Maj. Darrell's aristocratic lip curled slightly. For the life of him he could not help recoiling in spirit from the uninviting tableau.

Lydia-dirty, greasy, and uncombed -the clamorous children, the reeking kitchen! And Lydia's great dusky FOR CENTS eyes saw it all. How she wished she were a little mouse, to run away and hide from sight at that instant!

"Exactly," said Maj. Darrell, slowly. "Of course, your inconvenience will be pecuniarily considered, Mrs.-

"It was for you to speak first," she laughed.

And this was Lydia's fortune, better than any castle of gold and diamonds. -New York News.

The Grave Is Deep."

Is the grave deep, dear? Deeper still is heart;
Thou liest below, and I stand here above,
Yet we are not apart.

The lyric patter of the little feet
That made a poem of the nursery floor, Thy sweet eyes dancing toward me from the street,

Are with me evermore.

I moan and pain the most.

My breath is balmy with thy clinging kiss, My hand is soft where thy soft fingers lay:
And yet there is something which I miss
And mourn for night and day.

Mine eyes ache for thee; God's heaven is so We can not see its singers—when thou With thy lark's voice make palpitant all diamonds was never finished.

"Is that the wild girl of the woods you have with you, Darrell?" questioned Mrs. Seacord, contemptuously, one of the great fashionable temples of the city for poor Lydia to be measured for a clean and decent outfit of clothing. "Looks like it, doesn't she?" laughed the major. "I think myself she is rather an unpromising specimen."

"What an ugly face," said Mrs. Seacord, lowering her voice. "Who did you say she was?"

"Leopold Temple's niece—and heiress, by the way—and my ward. Is that your carriage, Mrs. Seacord? Pray, allow me the pleasure." As the courteous major escorted Mrs.

Seacord to her coupe Lydia twitched herself out of the dressmaker's hand and ran up to the great mirror. "They are right," she said to herself

"But I am," she said, laughing, shaking back her curls. "Time works wonders, you see, and I'm so tired of Beauchamp lodge! You'll take a house, won't you, guardian, and let me come and pour tea and coffee for you? And let it be by the seashore, please; I delight in the sea."

"It shall be wherever you say," quo... Maj. Darrell, fairly bewildered by the beautiful vision.

districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peach time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tabules, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since l commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tabules will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

WANTED.—A case of bad health that R-I-P-A-N-S will not benefit. They banish pain and prolong life. One gives relief. Note the word R-I-P-A-N-S on the package and accept no substitute. "NECESSARY" MAGAZINE

The best-informed men and women in the world use the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS to keep well informed, and call it the "necessary" and "indispensable" magazine. In the busy rush of to-day ambitious men and women must know about the important questions of the month, and not only this, they want to know about them at the right time. When the whole country is puzzled over the gigantic combination of trusts, a well-informed article is printed in the AMERICAN MONTHLY, giving the facts, and its editor discusses the theory; when the Dreyfus affair is in everyone's mouth, the best story of Dreyfus and the great case comes out in this magazine.

Every month, in "The Progress of the World," Dr. Albert Shaw gives a comprehensive picture of the world's history during the previous thirty days. In the departments, the valuable articles and books that have been published during the past month are reviewed and quoted from, so that the readers of the AMERICAN MONTHLY can get the gist of them. In every issue nearly a hundred pictures are printed, including the portraits of the men and women who are making the history of the month.

To be thoroughly well informed helps any man or woman in his or her work. A subscription to the AMERICAN MONTHLY REVIEW OF REVIEWS represents an investment for the best kind of profit, as well as entertainment. One subscriber has just written: "Count me a life subscriber, and when you send me a number beyond the important subscription and secure no renewal from me, considerately my death." Price 25 cents per number. $2 cover, MClure's Magazine for December is a very notable artistic achievement. But it is no less notable from the strictly literary standpoint. In the Introduction and Prologue of Dr. John Watson's ("Ian Maclaran's") "Life of the Master," there is a more than satisfactory opening of what promises to be a unique and valuable feature throughout the year. Dr. Watson frankly announces that he does not expect those who follow his work to be much the wiser regarding mere sites and dates, but he does let himself hope that they "will have a clearer vision of the august Figure who invites the judgement of each man's conscience, who lays His hand on each man's heart."
