After Fleets Assault on Gates the Allies Break Into Chinese Capital and Find Legation's Alive and Well.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Four days' continued fighting in Pekin; allied forces call for reinforcements; the latter en route by forced marches from Taku; Li Hung Chang's appeal to the United States for cessation of hostilities will undoubtedly be rejected; official Pekin advices reported decapitation of two prominent Chinese officials and imprisonment of another; same source located Emperor and Dowager Empress sixty miles west of Pekin.

Count Waldseer, according to the Berlin National Zeitung, may be appointed Governor of China to succeed Dowager Empress; Germany striving to be paramount power backed by Russia; menacing international complications.

Minister Conger cabled allied army arrived in time to prevent massacre of legationaries; Chinese government back of Boxer movement.

Washington, Aug. 20.—The allied forces, according to dispatches from Taku and Tien Tsin, bombarded the forbidden city in Pekin; General Chaffee confirmed report of complete safety of the legations; New Chwang captured by the Russians.

Minister Wu officially advised of the flight of the Emperor and Empress Dowager; report from Japanese source that Empress Dowager was detained in inner city, Pekin, by Prince Yung.

United States will propose an international congress to adjust present difficulties and make China safe for foreigners.

Washington, D. C., August 17.—Pekin has been captured by American, British, Japanese and Russian troops, acting together.

The capital of China was entered last Wednesday night after a hard fight.

The Ministers and all under their care at the legations are now under a strong guard of allies.

From all accounts the allies entered through the east gate at the capital and fought their way through the narrow lane-like gate street to the place where the foreigners were besieged.

The Empress Dowager and the Emperor, with the leaders of the foreign opposition, have been fugitives from the capital since August 9, and the Chinese capital has been practically without a government ever since.

The United States will not withdraw its troops nor cease its vigilance until all is in order.

Washington, Aug. 16.—It is reported here that Pekin government has appointed high official to meet allies at Tung Chow and arrange for safe conduct of foreigners under escort.

State department received badly distorted messages from Minister Conger, which are not published.

Washington, Aug. 15.—General Lenvitch telegraphed to St. Petersburg that allied troops advanced to within sixteen miles from Pekin; since leaving Yang Tsun on Aug. 8 had skirmishes with Chinese troops, who died in panic; Chinese forces concentrating at Angui and Hsiang Hossio; battle expected in latter place.

Owing to the impossibility of access the fire has assumed vast proportions and will entail a heavy loss.

It is true they arrived, but investigation by Chief Wilkie failed to show they were Anarchists or had any designs upon the President.

It developed that Moresca is an ex-convict. He is held by the immigration authorities, and will be sent back to Italy, as convicts are not allowed to enter this country.

Drought in That State Is Greatly Reducing Their Crop.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 20.—Two-thirds of Kansas west of the three easternmost tiers of counties is experiencing one of the most severe droughts in the history of the State. The general opinion is that the Kansas corn crop will be the smallest in proportion to its requirements for feeding that has been raised in many years. In 1899 it was 225,000,000 bushels. Secretary Coburn's report of conditions on Aug. 4 indicated a yield this year of about 145,000,000 bushels. Since then there have been two weeks of hot, dry weather, and the most liberal estimates of well-informed men on 'change do not exceed 100,000,000, while many place the crop at not over 75,000,000 bushels.

YOUTHFUL EYES.

Many Women are as Careful of Their Eyes as They are of Their Complexions.

Youthful eyes are a woman's constant care.

Many women are as careful of their eyes as they are of their complexions.

Every morning they are opened in a bath of salt and water. At first there is great winking and blinking, but in a short time the eyes grow accustomed to the dip and they like it.

Salt and water is a fine tonic. It not only keeps the eyes clear, but it helps stumpy lashes along.

At night the lids enjoy a couple of pads of cotton wet in hot water. Dipping the hands in hot water and gently bathing the lids is very soothing.

When my eyes ache I use my grandmother's remedy. The dear old lady believed in tea grains. She would bind them on her lids, and she used to drench a cloth wet in weak black tea when her eyes felt very tired.

She had a rose-leaf lotion too. It was made by pouring hot water over the dried leaves, letting them get cool before using the wash.

An up-to-date oculist calls such lore nonsense. Bless him, he can afford superior scorn, for he is certainly a blessing to all classes if he understands his profession.

More headachy women have been helped by having their eyes treated. It is such agony never to be able to go anywhere without trotting home with a headache. Weak eyes will spoil in this way the best part of one's life.

Tepid water should be used for the first eye bath of the day. The eyes must be opened and the water allowed to trickle under the lids, in this way bathing the ball of the eye.

Dry the eyes with a soft towel, always wiping them inward toward the nose. Wonderful sight is supposed to be the blessing of a silver-haired matron because, as she says, all her lifetime she has taken this precaution.

Be careful not to press on the ball of the eye. Oculists say that the nattering of the lens of the eye is one of the signs of old age. Wiping the eyes toward the bridge of the nose will also smooth out lines at the corners of the eyes.

Three Good Desserts.

FLAT PLUM CAKES—Work two ounces of lard into one pound of dough, add one ounce of sugar and two ounces of currants, knead thoroughly and form into flat cake on an old plate. Score across the top in diamonds and bake for three-quarters of an hour. Ten minutes before the cake is done brush it over with milk, scatter brown sugar over it and serve warm.

PINK CREAM—Boil four ounces of ground rice into a quart of milk, adding two ounces of butter, two ounces of sugar and any flavoring liked. Stir after the rice is added to the milk, and for twenty minutes after it boils, till it is a smooth custard. Color the rice to a pretty pink with cochineal. Spread the bottom of a glass dish with strawberry preserves and, when cool, pour the rice over the jam till the dish is full. Set aside till cold, and then scatter desiccated cocoanut over the surface.

BANANA SPONGE—Bananas should be peeled by hand and never touched with a knife. Dissolve over night one ounce of gelatine in one and three-quarter pints of water. Add next

BEING POPULAR.

Be Nice If You Want to Succeed in Attaining that End.

Popularity is won by a mixture of self-suppression and self-assertion. The first step toward learning how to please most people is by realizing that they are more interested in themselves than in you, and the measure of their regard will be the degree in which you minister to their pleasure and self-importance.

The way to be popular is to give much and take nothing. After all, we ourselves like best the friends who care to know details of our private experiences, so why should we act toward others as though their affairs were matters of indifference to us? Learn to rejoice when you hear of the success of an acquaintance, then you will not forget to congratulate her when she next meets you. Be sorry for a neighbor's clouded prospects—she will be gratified to find herself of consequence to you.

This worldly sermon has for its text "Be nice if you want to be popular." There is no need to debate the question "Is popularity worth seeking?" for all pursue this form of the bubble reputation. Society would dissolve into fragments if we did not.

Another essential ingredient of popularity is "cheek." Timidity is the extra spoonful of flour that spoils the cake. Modesty is a mistake, except in the company of highly gifted individuals, and even they would mostly rather be playfully than actually worshipped. Malicious gossip must be kept under the lock and key of the will. If repeated it alarms those whom it most amuses, who think "If Elizabeth would say such sharp things about Maud, what will she say of me?"

In conversation assist the backward and help the adventurous to execute clever manoeuvres; in literary discussion be as brilliant as you please, in short sentences, but exact the point for praise from the rambling arguments of others—in fact, remember always that a human being thinks "How can I acquire myself well?" not "How nice it is to meet with so much cleverness!"

This is all give and no take? True. But the reward is "being popular."

Boer Ladies at Home.

Some interesting notes about the ways and customs of the Dutch ladies appear in the British Weekly from a correspondent who spent some time in Boer households in the Wakkerstroom district of the Transvaal. The ladies, we are told, have very pale complexions, in the whiteness of which they take their pride. To keep off the scorching sun's rays, they envelop their heads in white linen scarfs, worn like the nuns and sisters of mercy, and over this wear either the sunbonnet, or "cappie," or a large straw hat tied under the chin with strings. They have the impression that they "burn black," and know nothing of the becoming brown sunburn which English girls like to get.

In most Boer houses of the better class there is an American organ or "seraphine," and the girls are generally able to play simple tunes and accompany songs and hymns. Four girls in one house where the correspondent was staying surprised their visitor by singing the familiar old songs, "In the Gloaming" and "Just Before the Battle, Mother," in preference to Dutch songs. As only one seemed able to speak English, it was curious to hear the others join in the choruses. The daughter of the house is always the one to bring the customary cup of coffee to the visitors.

At the same house the daughters entertained their visitor in their bedroom by showing her box after box full of elaborate crochet-work, counterpanes, antimacassars, and yards and yards of crocheted lace frillings, which they had made. They are also very clever makers of paper bowers, and many of the parlors and entertaining rooms are freely adorned with colored bunches and festoons of them. In some houses the bedroom walls are adorned with pages from fashion-books. The ignorance of the Boer girls is sometimes surprising. One old Dutch "frau" quite thought that there were Kaffirs or black people all over the world, and no doubt wondered how the English could get any work done with no servants at command.

Three Excellent Recipes!

CHEESE BISCUITS—Place four ounces of Parmesan cheese and four ounces of pastry bower in a basin, with a little salt and a few grains of cayenne. Rub into this two ounces of butter and make into a stiff dough with the yolk of an egg. Roll the pastry out thinly, cut it into rounds, prick with a fork and bake in a cool oven until crisp. Keep these biscuits in a tin until quite cool.

PRUNE JELLY—Take one quart of prunes, stir until soft and mash through colander; half a box of gelatine; put in bowl, cover with cold water, let it soak for about five minutes; take a pint and a half of the mashed prunes, add to the gelatine, with three tablespoonfuls of sugar; put on the stove, and let boil for five minutes; pour into jelly moulds and serve with cream.

EGGS A LA JOSEPHINE—Boil six eggs twenty minutes. Remove the shells. Separate the yolks without breaking; cut the whites in thin, narrow slices, and mix them with an equal quantity of fine shredded cooked fish and a tablespoonful of fine parsley. Place the mixture on a platter in a circular or oval ring, and put the yolks in the centre. Set the platter in a steamer to heat the mixture. Make a pint of thick white sauce and pour around the edge of the dish.

Fish Not Brain Food.

The popular notion that "fish is a brain food" is a mistake, for eminent physiologists tell us that fish, no more than any other nitrogenous food, contributes to brain growth and development. All nitrogenous foods, such as fish, meat, eggs and so on, repair the waste tissues of the body, but fish is of no more importance than the others.

CAPTURE OF JAG'S LAAGER

An Everyday Victory in Which King Alcohol Comes Out the Victor.

No one on the streets ever hears the newsboys shouting, "Extra! Great Victory for King Alcohol!" Yet you may pick up the papers any day and sort out a score of news items in which King Alcohol has played a very prominent part.

King Alcohol always marshals his forces in a mass and drops into the human stomach unawares. As soon as he arrives there is the greatest activity among his troops.

Surrounding the stomach and the intestines are myriads of little rivers in which float little boats. The medical men will tell you that they are called corpuscles, but they are boats just the same as a Venetian gondola is a boat.

They are used by the body to carry food and provisions to the great muscular system of the body. They float about continually taking on loads of fresh oxygen at the lungs and loads of nutrition at the stomach.

They are just peaceful but important river carriers.

King Alcohol seizes upon these little boats and loads his men into them.

They float along and land on the shores of the muscular system.

In an instant the little muscular fibres are up in arms and are ready to rebel boarders.

A silent but fierce fight wages. Warnings are telegraphed along that marvellous system of wires, the nerves, that the enemy is approaching.

Boatload after boatload of invaders are landed by King Alcohol and the little muscular fibres fight desperately to repel them.

King Alcohol usually sends reinforcements along from time to time, and as the fight goes on the muscle cells begin to telegraph to headquarters for help. No attention is paid.

The alarms grow more pressing, but King Alcohol is not to be denied and his little men in the boats are coming faster than ever.

They soon have the muscle cells completely surrounded and then the telegraph signals cease.

The fight is over and the man is drunk.—Frank W. Thorp.

Have a Water Garden.

There's hardly a reason why any person possessing a speck of Mother Earth should not revel in a water garden. There's nothing any more difficult, odd or uncertain about it than there is in the cultivation of a small geranium bed. As for size it may range from a mere sunken tub to a lovely, rambling lake.

All the aquatic requires is sunshine, water and plenty of rich soil. All the hardy varieties may be planted in ponds, lakes or sluggish streams early in the Spring, and under the same conditions as our water lilies these beauties will flourish. The tender varieties must be started in tubs and not put out until there is settled warm weather.

Is it not charming even to think of having a lily pond, however tiny, in one's back yard?

While a full assortment of nymphaeas and nelumbiums is out of the question in limited space, one may indulge in the intimate companionship of one or two beauties easily; says a lotus (that queen of the Nile), or if one be of late, prowling habit, one of the night-blooming nymphaeas. The Victoria Regia takes plenty of room as well as cash, the smallest starter costing $5, while the uncertain seeds of this attractive oddity come at $3 per dozen.

By planting different types one may have a succession of splendid flower from May to October. A well-known florist suggests these for beginners:

Nymphaea candidissima and dentata (white).
Nymphaea sulphurea and chromatella (yellow).
Nymphaea zanzibarensis and coerulea (blue).
Nymphaea zanzibarensis and de vonsius (red).

Talks About the Snobbish Woman. The sneering expression, "so common" of the parvenu who draws her dainty belongings from contact with those who have been less fortunate than herself, and separates her interests from every-day humanity, may seem a sign of smartness to her set but to the well-bred it can have no other meaning than that of snobbery, ignorance and unkindness.

In her way the snobby woman violates the laws of kindness with every breath she breathes, since her constant thought is a selfish desire not to be as "the common lot."

The woman also who, in her gowning attempts to escape the "common" by a lavish display of rich textures wrought into obtrusive forms, is sure to lend herself to vulgar effects, and to become not only "common," but offensively so.

The sensible, far-seeing person learns sooner or later that real style is not alone the expression of the modiste's skill in fashioning out of rich material the striking hat or gown, and that it is more essential that the wearer should be unique than that the garment should be unlike the many.

The step of the queen-like woman can command the sweep of the gown, and indeed of the whole situation, obtaining more homage because she demands none in her thoughts.—Woman's Home Companion.

Cheese crusts may be substituted for cheese wafers if preferred. Thin slices of bread are cut into finger lengths, buttered and toasted over a clear fire. Each piece is then thinly sprinkled with grated cheese dusted with a very little paprika or cayenne pepper, and put on a tin plate in a hot oven for a minute or two to melt the cheese. They are then piled lightly on a folded napkin laid on a plate and sent around hot with the salad course.

To remove stains from the hands put a pinch of borax in the water before washing, or a few drops of Ammonia.

NOTES FROM GOTHAM

POLITICAL LEADERS PREPARING FOR A GREAT BATTLE.

Busy Times at Headquarters—Campaign Not Far Advanced—Gubernatorial Candidates—The Shirt-waist Man and Others—Palatial Residences.

The campaign for the election of a President, and the control of the greatest government in the world is beginning to feel the touch of the master hand of the great leaders. The national headquarters of the Republican party is in full operation, and is visited daily by the chairman of the committee, Senator Hanna. The senator comes up from Long Branch every morning and remains in the city until the boat leaves in the afternoon. Mark Hanna is a very busy man while he is at headquarters, and being a man of business methods, he is able with all the appliances and the experienced office force with which he has surrounded himself, to turn off an immense amount of business in a short time.

Details for Others.

Senator Hanna has very little to do with details. He only concerns himself with the general plans of the campaign, and leaves to his assistants the working out of all the details. He directs the work, just as the manager of an immense business system, and then directs his work. The several departments are in charge of faithful and experienced employees, and all that they require is an order from the chairman, and the work done is soon accomplished. An immense amount of money is required in a national campaign for the legitimate expenses. The postage and express bills, the printing and literary bureau, and the spellbinders departments all absorb an enormous amount of money. There is, however, no complaint of shortness of funds.

Not So Far Advanced.

The campaign on both sides does not appear to be as well advanced now as it was this time of the year four years ago. Early in August both parties had held immense ratification meetings in Madison Square Garden in 1896, and Bryan had made his famous entry into what he then termed the enemy's country. All this indicates a disposition on the part of the managers to postpone the most active work of the canvass until the weather becomes more endurable. In 1896, Mr. Bryan spoke to twenty thousand people in the big Garden when the mercury was sailing about the one hundred mark and there was not only the greatest discomfort experienced by his auditors but a number were overcome by the intense heat. Such effects as these induce the managers to believe that the first of September is time enough to have the speaking in full swing.

Chairman McGuire.

Chairman McGuire is one of the busiest men in town. He believes that he has settled many of the misunderstandings that existed and that he will now soon have the leaders all working harmoniously and most vigorously for the success of the ticket. The chairman of the executive committee is an enthusiast himself, and he always inspires his associates with his vigor and earnestness. The Democratic Stat Committee is to make a speaking campaign, which is contrary to the advice of many of the old leaders. But McGuire is in the saddle, and his views will prevail in the management.

Gubernatorial Candidates.

It is very generally believed that B. B. Odell will be the Republican candidate for Governor, and this fact is strengthened by the fact that while he has not announced his willingness to accept the nomination, no other candidate has appeared to have any considerable boom to his credit. The Democratic situation is different. Former Senator Hill has been and still is earnestly in favor of the nomination of Comptroller Coler, while it has been understood that Tammany Hall would favor Senator Mackey, of Buffalo. A few days ago, it was announced that the comptroller would not consent to be a candidate, but soon after a conference was held composed chiefly of Senator Hill's supporters, and it was then said that Mr. Coler had consented to take a different view of the matter and that if there was danger of the Ramapo water scheme coming to the front, that he might see his duty to accept a nomination. It now looks as if Mr. Coler and Senator Mackey would be opposing aspirants for the nomination, the former having the support of Senator Hill, and the latter being backed by Mr. Croker and Tammany Hall.

The Anarchists.

Thoughtful people have been led to inquire how many Anarchists we have in this city. The murderer of King Humbert was a resident of Paterson, N. J., until a few weeks ago, and it is known that he was on terms of intimacy with the Anarchists of this city. These people are not numerous, but they are certainly dangerous, and the pernicious doctrines which they teach are coming to have more and more adherents. Their recruits come from among the recent immigrants from the Old World, who, instead of appreciating the blessings of liberty, here, use the privileges to plot against government in any form. To the real Anarchist a republic is no better than a despotism. Their strange ideas of society without organized government are even seizing upon the minds of the young, and a handsome young Italian girl of twenty, was interviewed the other day, who confessed that she was an Anarchist of the most pronounced type. She was not prepared to say that she would herself take life, but she fully justified the murderer of King Humbert. The wretched lives which many of these people live, and their surroundings, all seem to add flames to the fire of Anarchy which is perhaps the most insane and dangerous of all political heresies.

Fire Proof Piers.

The great steamship companies are talking of building fireproof piers. The enormous damage to property and the awful loss of life which occurred at the Hoboken fire recently has taught them a needed lesson. The cost of fireproof piers will be large, but not so great as many suppose. A method of treating wood and even much more inflammable materials has been discovered and is now being introduced. By the use of these new inventions, it is believed that it is not only possible but entirely practicable to make the piers fireproof.

A New Hair Tonic.

It has been discovered by the holiday makers summering at Manhattan Beach that the sun is an excellent hair tonic. A baldheaded man last summer got the top of his cranium badly sunburned, but when the soreness had passed away, he found that a new crop of hair had taken root, and before the end of the season he was as well thatched as he could desire. This is the story seashore loungers are telling each other, and now it is the fashion for women to go in bathing and to sit on the sands without hats.

The Shirt-waist Man.

"The shirt waist man"—that is the man who goes about in a negligee shirt, without a coat—is becoming more numerous in public places in New York every day. Down town, in the field financial district, you may see on any hot day scores of the best-known brokers and bankers walking about without coats. In the roof gardens it is becoming the eminently proper thing to appear in shirt sleeves. It is thought that by next summer the fashion will have established itself thoroughly. At present it takes a little nerve and the knowledge that the fit of one's shirt, haberdashery and trousers is perfect to enable a man to promenade Broadway in a costume that until now has been regarded as impossible dishabille.

Some Others.

For some unknown reason it has never been the custom to describe the dress of society men, although an article concerning a social function is regarded as incomplete if it does not picture the gowns of the belles. The injustice of this seemed to appeal to a party of men who occupied a box at the races recently, for when the reporter went to them to learn their names they insisted that their attire should be included, and several ventured information to the effect that one of the party wore a pair of "loud" socks, while another's necktie was "extremely gay."

Palatial Residences on Fifth Avenue.

More palaces are to go up in "millionaires' row," that stretch of Fifth Avenue facing Central Park, where property values are high, in harmony with the fortune of most of those who live there. John W. Sterling, the banker, is to build a mansion just north of Seventy-second street, and plans for it were finished a few days ago. Mrs. Howard Gould is to have a marble palace on the French Empire style, at the corner of Seventy-third street. It will have a magnificent entrance level with the street, guarded by splendidly carved marble pillars, and the roof of the building is to be of fine copper. Half a dozen other residences of royal splendor are projected for that immediate neighborhood.

Old Gum Man.

A jolly old colored man who sells chewing gum at the dock where the Long Branch and Rockaway boats leave, has a new remark with which to attract attention to himself and his wares. He has evidently made a study of his business and has realized that the man who sells things in the streets must have something striking and that the phrase he uses must be striking in itself and at the same time short enough to be said in a single breath, so that the passer-by shall hear the whole of it. The old gum man's new phrase fills the bill in all these respects and as he stands on the street near the boat landings many people doubtless by his wares who would not if their attention were not attracted by his appeal, which he repeats over and over. Its potency is due to the frequent publication of statements that chewing gum will prevent seasickness. "When you're seasick don't blame the old gum man," he says over and over as the crowds hurry past him to the boats.

THE COMING WAR

WE ARE ON THE EVE OF THE GREAT-EST BATTLE EVER SEEN.

The United States Will Profit Greatly in the Event of This Great Struggle Taking Place Between the United States and the Determining Factors.

We are now possibly upon the eve of the greatest war the world has ever seen. It will be a war between giants, fought out to a finish. It will be replete with horrors, it will wipe out nations, and it will be short, bloody and decisive. So says Hudson Maxim, the well known inventor of death-dealing machinery, in an illustrated article in the Home Magazine.

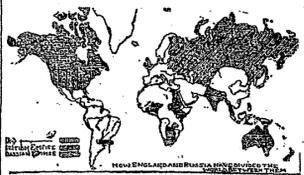

The introduction to this article, entitled "The Coming War," says: "An outbreak is at hand. The United States War Department has already ordered military representatives sent to Peking and Tokio to watch proceedings. General Sakaroy, chief of the Russian General Staff, has started for Manchuria, where six forts will be immediately erected. Russia is seizing the excuse, offered by the Boxers against Peking to rush every available man onto the disputed ground. From the foothold thus obtained it will be difficult to dislodge her, unless steps are taken at once to block her game. Japan seems ready and anxious to do this very thing. And from the conflict thus begun may arise the world war so long threatened and so long feared."

Determining Factors.

Mr. Maxim thinks that Russia and the United States will be the determining factors in the coming war. He says: "In a great general war, as for example, between France and Russia on the one side, and England, Germany and Japan on the other, the United States would be afforded an unparalleled opportunity for furnishing the combatants with supplies of every sort of contraband of war, and even of the latter commodities an outlet would doubtless be found sufficient to return an enormous profit to the American manufacturer."

"Should the United States participate in the conflict, her position would insure her against receiving any material injury, and she could run all her factories in perfect security night and day in the production of material of war for her allies, from which she would realize vast profits."

"China must adopt modern ideas. She will not do this peacefully—she must be forced upon her. The present outbreak of the Boxers offers a rational excuse for interference of the Powers. The very excesses of this riotous mob now ravaging Peking will hasten the enforcement upon China of the progressive ideas which they oppose. China is too weak in her internal organization to serve as an important military factor in the coming conflict, but she is the plum over which the other Powers may fight."

"The recent speech of Lord Salisbury betraying the weakness of the British position as against a determined attack from the continent of Europe, rendered especially assailable in view of the South African war, has," says Mr. Maxim, "caused considerable excitement in England, if not panic."

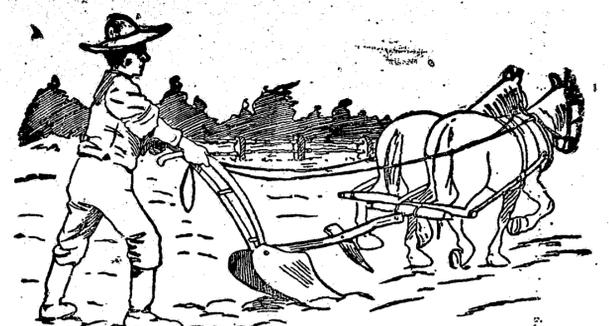

"England is weak. She has been so long in the hands of rotten bureaucracy that no one knows how weak she is, or where her weakness lies. The Boer betrayed the fact that the British military lion is a sick beast. But the Transvaal is a small, weak country—the lion rallied, and the Boer is down. In the event of an outbreak of hostilities between England and any of the great continental Powers, possibly the British naval lion will prove but the stuffed skin of the fierce beast that under Nelson fought so bravely."

India, says Mr. Maxim, is amply protected from Russia at present. He foresees terrible slaughter from the general use of smokeless powder.

"Russia," says Mr. Maxim, "desires rather to avoid than precipitate a war with any of the great Powers. She is the mistress of wily diplomacy, and prefers to secure her ends by diplomatic means, to her equally successful and less hazardous than war. She has wrested from Turkish domination the Christian Balkan States. She fought for them while the rest of Christendom did the talk, and by this act she has already paved with obligations a broad highway within cannon sound of Constantinople. Effete and imbecile Persia is all that lies between her and the Persian gulf, and already its Shah is but a puppet dancing to the march of Muscovy."

"In the Far East she now overshadows Manchuria, Mongolia and Korea, and, like a giant octopus, is reaching out to suck the life of China, and opportunity. She already has Port Arthur and advantages secured by diplomacy that far outweigh all that accrued to Japan from her victory over China."

"Japan feels the sting of the Russian whip that made her drop Port Arthur and withdraw from the continent of Asia, thus relinquishing the chief advantage gained by her victory. The whole sum paid Japan by China as a war indemnity has been expended upon her navy and on armaments. In the East, in both naval and military strength, she is superior to Russia. "It is doubtful if Japan will wait for the time when Russia shall be ready to strangle her. She may strike and drive Russia from Korea and secure, as well, a fair share of Chinese territory, or, what amounts to the same thing, a lease of a portion of the Celestial Empire."

I am a farmer located near Stony Brook, one of the most malarious districts in this State, and was bothered with malaria for years, at times so I could not work, and was always very constipated as well. For years I had malaria so bad in the spring, when engaged in plowing, that I could do nothing but shake. I must have taken about a barrel of quinine pills besides dozens of other remedies, but never obtained any permanent benefit. Last fall, in peak time, I had a most serious attack of chills and then commenced to take Ripans Tablets, upon a friend's advice, and the first box made me all right and I have never been without them since. I take one Tabule each morning and night and sometimes when I feel more than usually exhausted I take three in a day. They have kept my stomach sweet, my bowels regular and I have not had the least touch of malaria nor splitting headache since I commenced using them. I know also that I sleep better and wake up more refreshed than formerly. I don't know how many complaints Ripans Tablets will help, but I do know they will cure any one in the condition I was and I would not be without them at any price. I honestly consider them the cheapest-priced medicine in the world, as they are also the most beneficial and the most convenient to take. I am twenty-seven years of age and have worked hard all my life, the same as most farmers, both early and late and in all kinds of weather, and I have never enjoyed such good health as I have since last fall; in fact, my neighbors have all remarked my improved condition and have said, "Say, John, what are you doing to look so healthy?"

There is one significant fact which bears on the question of a college education for girls. It is that all the American women who have won distinction in original work of any kind, received the old-fashioned training. College-bred women, so far, have been successful only as teachers. Is this because the woman in one case was suffered to develop naturally like a growing tree, and in the other was moulded artificially the same as is one brick in a heap of bricks? I cannot answer this question.—Ladies' Home Journal.

OBITUARY.

MISS EVA BELL SPAULDING was born in Buchanan township, January 31, 1881, and died of quick consumption August 18, 1900, being 19 years, 5 months, and 17 days, old. She leaves four sisters and three brothers to mourn her departure, but her father and mother both preceded her to the grave. Eva was a beautiful young lady of genial nature and disposition, she was good and true, and had many warm friends.

On Monday August 20th the funeral services were held, conducted by Elder Wm. M. Roe at the Christian church, after which the remains were buried in Oak Ridge cemetery.

JEROME B. CHAMBERLAIN was borne in Cattaraugus Co., N. Y. on Dec. 10, 1846; and departed this life at Liberal, Kansas, Aug. 12, 1900.

He came with his parents to Buchanan, Mich., in 1868 when he enlisted in the 12th Michigan, Co. C, and spent two years in the service of his country. Returning he lived in or near Buchanan until he went west in 1877. The following notice was published in the Hugoton (Kansas) Herald of Aug. 17th.

We have to relate in this issue the sad news of the death of our friend and townsman, J. B. Chamberlain. He was taken ill more than two months ago, but his ailment was not considered serious by himself or friends, for sometime. At last, complying with the earnest wishes of his wife and friends, he went to Liberal to consult a physician and his trouble was at once pronounced Bright's Disease. He was in Liberal only about two weeks before his death.

Mr. Chamberlain was a man well known to the people not only of this, but of adjoining counties. He was one of the foremost business men in the early days, and his history is closely interwoven with that of the county. As a neighbor, husband and father he was loved and respected by all and he will long be missed from his place in the community. Mr. Chamberlain leaves a wife and two married children to mourn his loss.

The sorrowing family has the sympathy of the entire community in this, their bereavement.

The funeral ceremonies were conducted by the Knights of Pythias, of which lodge he was an honored member.

A HAPPY EVENT.

Two Prominent Young People Quietly Married

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gardner, Wednesday, August fifteenth, at high twelve, occurred the marriage of their only daughter, Charlotte Elizabeth, and William L. Mercer of Vicksburg. To the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, skilfully rendered by Miss Lulu Rockafellow, the young people unattended took their places before the officiating clergyman, Rev. J. C. Cook of the M. E. Church. Only the immediate family and intimate friends of the bride witnessed the solemn ceremony, which was beautiful and impressive.

The bride wore a becoming gown of white silk, and the groom the conventional black. After congratulations, a dainty breakfast was served. The presents were numerous and costly, attesting the high esteem in which the bride is held.

Mr. and Mrs. Mercer left on the afternoon train for a two week's lake trip, after which they will be at home to their friends in Buchanan, Mich., where both will teach the coming year. Mrs. Mercer has spent all her life here. She is a graduate of the high school there and of the State Normal at Ypsilanti. She taught successfully in the schools here and at Hubbardston, and for the last three years has been connected with the schools of Buchanan. She has a great number of friends here who wish her happiness and prosperity through life.

Mr. Mercer is a stranger to our people but those who met him on his recent visit here speak highly of the favorable impression he made. He is principal of the Buchanan schools and is re-engaged for the coming year. A large circle of friends will join the Gazette in congratulating him on having won so charming a bride.

Carson City Gazette.

Announcements of the above pleasing event were received here on Friday by friends of the contracting parties, who all join heartily in extending congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Mercer.

THE HESSIAN FLY.

Prof. Smith's Advice to Farmers.

Prof. Clinton Smith, professor of agriculture at the Agricultural college and director of the Michigan agricultural experiment stations, makes a very hopeful announcement to farmers relative to the passing of the Hessian fly, and the prospect for an excellent crop of wheat next year, and gives the farmers valuable suggestions which they will doubtless do well to heed.

In reporting progress in the matter of fall wheat, Professor Smith says that the Hessian fly promises to get a fair start this fall, although the parasites are becoming common. These parasites are small flies which lay eggs in the flax seed stage of the Hessian fly. While not prepared to prophecy as to the exact extent to which these flies hold their enemy the Hessian fly in check next season, Professor Smith says that with the intelligent aid of the wheat growers a good crop of wheat will be possible next year, and the makes the following suggestions for the fall campaign:

First—Plow the ground as early as possible, keeping down volunteer wheat and getting ready a new seed bed.

Second—Sow a narrow strip of wheat early to allow of the insects laying eggs in it. Plow this strip under when about ready to sow, doing the job thoroughly.

Third—Sow a little later than usual, say not far from September 20 in this latitude, depending somewhat upon the weather conditions.

Fourth—Use a little fertilizer of the commercial class to give the wheat a good strong start.

Fifth—Get all the farmers in a given community to adopt this method, as no matter how successful a given farmer may be getting rid of the fly in the fall, he will have the fly in his wheat in the spring if his neighbors do not aid in the work.

Sixth—Advise against sowing rye for at least three seasons: viz: Rye as well as wheat is attacked by the fly, rye once in the soil is hard to eradicate and will seriously injure succeeding wheat crops; rye brings a price less than wheat, and the average yield in the states is less than that of wheat.

Seventh—Farmers should sow their usual acreage of wheat this fall, because the price will probably not be as bad again for several years as it has been this year, although this will depend somewhat on the intelligent work of the farmers; because the rotation generally adopted ought not to be changed and wheat is peculiarly a Michigan money maker.

CHEAP EYE-GLASSES

And Spectacles—slighted work—are frightfully expensive in the end. "Not how cheap, but how good," should be the motto of all who need optical work.

THURSDAY, AUG. 28, 1900.

LOCAL NOTES

A large number of our citizens have been attending the carnival at Niles, yesterday and today.

If you haven't paid your water tax yet you had better hustle for Saturday is the last day, if you don't want it shut off. See local.

Two barns at Three Oaks belonging to Mr. Sylvester Copeland were burned last Friday. Cause, lightning. Partially insured.

Messrs. Beistle & French started up their polishing machine last week, and are greatly pleased over the manner in which it does the work.

We would call attention to the advertisement of Mr. H. A. Hathaway in another column and any one contemplating a sale should read the announcement.

Buchanan Base Ball team played at Three Oaks on Saturday afternoon and met with their first defeat the score standing 12 to 9 in favor of the Featherstone town.

Riverside Camp Meeting is very successful this year, a large number being located either in tents or cottages. Next Sunday will be the closing day and large crowds will be in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hess were at Buchanan last evening attending a surprise party on Mrs. Hess' sister, Mrs. Leno of that place, in commemoration of her 30th birthday. There were 52 guests present and all had an enjoyable time. They left a beautiful eight dollar rocker as a happy reminder of the occasion.—Galen Advocate.

HERBERT ROE CASHIER.

The Miller-Zigler-Roe family reunion was held at South Bend last Thursday. Nearly eight hundred persons being present.

Mr. Zed Jarvis of Dowagiac, and a brother of Mr. John Jarvis has been installed as night man at the electric light plant of the Beckwith Estate at this place, and has rented the Roe house on N. Third street and has moved his household effects from Dowagiac.

Alba Heywood and his company gave a fine entertainment to a good sized audience at Rough's Opera House on Tuesday evening. The impersonations of Mr. Heywood were greatly appreciated and it was the general verdict that he had improved greatly since his last visit, which is a very high compliment. The solos of Miss Cole, the cello work of Mr. Gustave Ulrich, and the violin playing of Miss Monroe were all enjoyed by the audience.

Mr. L. S. Bronson who resides about 2 1/2 miles southeast, brought to the Record office an interesting curiosity in the shape of an ear of corn. About three weeks ago Mr. Bronson cut his corn stalks from a patch of sweet corn and Tuesday he was surprised to find growing from one of the stumps left in the ground, a perfectly formed ear of corn. He says that the prevailing damp weather has kept the roots green and growing after the stalks had been cut.

Aeronaut W. L. Hogan received serious if not fatal injuries while making the balloon ascension at the Niles Carnival yesterday. In some manner the ropes became entangled throwing him against a building breaking several ribs and causing other internal injuries. He managed to cling to the ropes but the balloon overturned at the height of 150 feet and he fell into the St. Joseph river. When picked up he was unconscious and was floating down the river.

The widely advertised "Harvest Jubilee" of last Friday would have been a success, had it not been for two things, the weather and the back down on the part of the Twin Cities base ball team, who at the last moment sent word that they could not come. A good sized crowd had been gathered and were much disappointed in not witnessing the "Jubilee." The failure of the ball team to come rather put a damper on the rest of the program. The bicycle race was run, and won by Mr. Geo. H. Richards. The 100 yard dash was won by Mr. Phay Graftort. The balloonist was present but owing to the threatening weather decided not to make the ascent.

I. W. Riford for Prosecutor.

The Republican County Committee at its meeting yesterday, held at St. Joseph Mr. I. W. Riford of Benton Harbor was selected to fill the vacancy for Prosecuting Attorney caused by the declination of A. A. Worthington. This county being so strongly republican the action of the committee is practically an appointment to fill the office.

An Excellent Concert.

Last Monday evening an excellent concert was given by three talented young ladies from Niles, Miss Welling, vocalist; Miss Coolidge, reader; and Miss Lardner, pianist.

There was an attractive program which was in every detail gone through in magnificent style. All the ladies proved themselves to be artists of a high order, as was shown by the individual encores they all received.

Miss Welling has a trained voice which she uses to excellent advantage. Mr. Coolidge as a reader captivated her audience and rendered especially well her Scotch Selection, and the reading, entitled, "There were Ninety and Nine." Miss Lardner gave popular and classical selections on the piano, which delighted the audience and contributed much to the pleasure and profit of a happy evening.

A Week of Storms.

The past week has been an usually stormy one, severe electrical storms being of almost daily occurrence. Last Friday night a very heavy storm passed over the prairie south of Buchanan, doing considerable damage.

Lightning struck a windmill belonging to Mr. Benj. Chamberlain, splintering it quite severely but did not quite put the mill out of business. The same storm blew over one of the large new silos on the farm of A. L. Howe, completely wrecking the same. Lightning also struck one of the telephone wires and came into the exchange at Morris the Fair, burning out the switch board melting the cable and setting fire to the side of the building calling out the fire department. A few pails of water put the fire out, but it took three days of good, hard work to get the phones connected up, and in good working order. Lightning struck and injured the house of Jacob Bachtell in Orenoko township.

On Saturday morning a new barn belonging to Mr. Harry Granger near Glendora was burned, destroying the entire contents, with no insurance.

On Sunday afternoon, during a storm that passed over Glendora, lightning struck and set fire to a fine barn belonging to W. J. Hanover, about 1 1/2 miles east, and the building and contents were a total loss, everything even to harnesses. The loss is about one thousand dollars, partially insured.

Monday afternoon a severe storm passed over Buchanan, a bolt of lightning striking the house on Detroit street owned by Mr. J. G. Gorey, shattering it badly and doing much damage to the property, which fortunately was vacant at the time. A barn on the Harrington farm, belonging to Mr. J. E. Miller was also struck and burned to the ground together with its contents. Roads were washed out and cornfields levelled in many places, and taken altogether it has been about as severe a spell of weather as has occurred for some time.

Miss Florence Childs who was the accompanist of the evening received many compliments for the high class and pleasing quality of her work. Miss Mildred Childs showed that as a violinist she had a lively appreciation of the possibilities of her favorite instrument. Mr. John Childs who is but fourteen years of age showed a wonderful ability in his cornet playing.

The local musicians all rendered their parts in their accustomed excellent manner.

The amount realized from the sacks was $76.53 and this amount will be largely increased by the sacks yet to be returned. Rev. W. B. Thomson on behalf of the audience thanked all who had aided in making the evening a success.

Our attention has been called to the new Shoe Drill manufactured at Cassopolis, this week by H. R. Adams who has secured the agency. The characteristic features of this drill is the peculiar construction of the shoes which spreads the grain in seed bed and the feed which will sow all kinds of grain evenly and without bunching. The drill is nicely finished, and the construction throughout commends it to the trade. Mr. Adams will be pleased to show the drill to all parties whether interested in buying a drill or not. Our former townsman, H. C. French is secretary of the company manufacturing this machine.

THE FARMER'S MODEL ACCOUNT BOOK

This is something new and will interest farmers generally. On one page of this book is printed the history for one season of a farmer's cash affairs just as they occurred on his farm. On the page opposite this history the Cash Account is written out in legal bookkeeping form. This forms a correct model to which the farmer may refer and correctly write his own cash account on the properly ruled blank pages farther along in the book.

On another page are printed the facts concerning a season's business with a cornfield. The bookkeeping work in correct form is written out on the page opposite, showing all outlays, receipts, and the final profit.

All is made so plain by full explanations that any farmer can on the succeeding blank pages keep in strictly scientific and legal form his own accounts with any grain or hay field.

In a like manner a model is given for an Apple Orchard Account which may be applied to any orchard; as plum, peach, or to a berry field.

A model Account with Cows is given, from which any farmer may keep any stock or poultry account.

A model account with a hired man is given. Also with another person. There is also a correct legal model for recording notes.

With this book, containing models, full explanations and properly ruled blank pages, a farmer may by a few minutes' work each week keep his account in the same correct and legal manner as does a merchant or any careful business man. No matter how poor the writing, the form will be correct and would stand in any court of law.

No farmer can afford to be careless in the matter of his accounts any more than any other business man. It is of daily occurrence as shown by the newspapers that unexpected legal complications, accidents, and death, cause serious trouble that might have been avoided had the person's accounts been kept properly.

It will surprise any one, who has not seen the FARMER'S MODEL ACCOUNT BOOK to learn how plain it is, how easily followed out, and with what little loss of time. It will not require for the ordinary farmer more than twenty minutes a week to keep his accounts in clear, legal shape that will be a source of satisfaction to himself, and a valuable matter to his family in case of death.

This book is retailed at $1.50 each, but through an advantageous offer of the publishers we are able to make the following liberal offer. We will send you the

BUCHANAN RECORD

For six months and the Model Account Book both for only $1.50 the price of the book alone.

ABOUT GARDENING

Useful Information of General Interest to the Gardener.

In watering all plants, never use cold water, but that which has just the chill taken away. If cold water for watering purposes be used in the cool weather, it chills the roots; and if in warm weather, after a day's sunshine, it would very likely kill a tender plant—similarly to the mischief it would cause to a human being, if, while suffering from heat, he or she were plunged into a cold bath.

Worms in roses.—These pests will now be making havoc with the rose buds. They must be sought for and crushed; no washing the plants will kill the worms.

Violet.—Take off the runners, and plant each singly in two-thirds of furry loam and one-third leaf-mould. Place them in a cold frame, and keep closely covered and shaded till the plants are rooted.

Liquid manure for watering geraniums and fuschias is half an ounce of guano dissolved in a gallon of water (four quarts); it injures plants if it touches them.

Sow mignonette in boxes and pots for standing on window sills, and thus perfuming all rooms.

In removing plants from pots to the open ground, give only enough water to settle the earth round the roots, and this only on the following day; then give no more till the earth becomes dry—so says one authority; but we have found the following process rarely fails. In the hole that is made to receive the plant, say a geranium, put about half a pint of tepid water, then take the plant with the ball of earth round the roots, and place it firmly in the watered space, pressing down the earth on the top of it; then do not water the plant for a day or two. The collars of plants should then not be wetted, but the watering be done so as to reach the roots.

Pinch off great shoots from rose trees to about the third eye of bud seen above ground.

If plants are weakly, nip off all flower-buds, to thus promote a thicker and stronger growth.

Where it is possible without injury to the bulb, remove all faded leaves, and the bulbs themselves, and dry them in the dark, or at least in the shade.

Strike cuttings of pansies from the young shoots, never from the old stems.—S. A. Lassell, in The Market Basket.

Stock Notes.

Every time you worry your horses you shorten their lives and days of usefulness.

Many recommend sheep for feeding in orchards rather than swine. They leave no safe cover for insects to breed, and will keep the orchard healthy and the trees manured.

The sheep should be clipped clean about the hind parts, lest filth gather and attract blow flies. A mixture of glycerine and fish oil in equal parts is excellent to smear over such parts.

The average life of the city horse is

GRAPE GROWING.

Layering is the simplest and surest method of increasing them.

Layering is the simplest, surest and easiest method of increasing the grape, and is the best way to grow them where but few vines are wanted. There are two kinds of layers, called spring and summer layers, from the season at which they are made.

Summer layers are made in the summer, generally the last of July, from a branch of the same season's growth. They are likely to be weak for several years, and do not make as good plants as the spring layers. In making them, the wood should be slit for an inch or so near the buds that are covered. Bury about one foot of the cane four inches deep in the ground and it will be rooted by late autumn, when it should be separated and treated as a young vine; and it is generally best to get them well started in a garden or nursery before planting in the vineyard permanently.

Spring layers may be made by laying down any cane early in the spring. It will root in one season. By fall it will have made a good growth of roots, when it may be cut from the main cane, and if strong it may be divided into two plants. This form of layer is illustrated in figs. 1 and 2. By a little different treatment of the spring layer a vine may be grown from each bud on the layer cane. For this purpose some thrifty cane should be selected in autumn, pruned of its laterals and buried. In the spring it should be uncovered and only one shoot permitted to grow from each joint. After the new growth has started about six inches from each bud the whole cane should be layered about four inches deep, handling it carefully so as not to break the new growth.

Fig. 1 represents a rooted layer. Fig. 2, the rooted layer separated, making two plants.

Fig. 3, a rooted layer, each bud making a new plant.

Fig. 3 shows such layer after it has rooted. It is a good plan to cover it not more than three inches at first, and to fill up the trench as the shoots grow. If covered four inches deep at once the young growth will sometimes rot, though this seldom happens, and some skillful growers fill the trench full at once. In the autumn roots will be found growing from each joint, and these may be cut apart and treated as recommended for weak vines grown from cuttings. If this method of propagation is to be used to some considerable extent vines should be grown especially for the purpose. It is not a good plan to use fruiting vines for layering to any great extent, though it may be safely done in a small way.—Farm and Fireside.

The Rouen Duck

The Rouen duck is a fine market bird, but does not mature as early as does the Peking or the Aylesbury. The flesh is considered very delicate and the breed is acknowledged to be superior for table purposes, being easily fattened. The Rouen will be found a profitable bird to raise on the farm, being hardy, prolific, quiet in disposition and of beautiful plumage. Their eggs are as large as those of the Peking and are diverse in color.

The Rouen is undoubtedly closely related to the Mallard duck. Its plumage alone would make good this belief. But the shape of the domestic Rouen duck has been greatly modified from that of the wild Mallard. The body is grown longer and heavier, with a tendency to drop down in the rear, and the wings have lost the power of flight which the wild ancestor possessed. The plumage, however, remains almost the same.—Bulletin Department of Agriculture.

How to Judge Horse Character.

Horse phrenology is the latest discovery of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons of England. According to Harold Leoney, a member of the college, it is easy to tell a horse's character by the shape of his nose. If there is a gentle curve to the profile, and at the same time the ears are pointed and sensitive, it is safe to bank on the animal as gentle, and at the same time high-high-high. If, on the other hand, the horse has a dent in the middle of the nose, it is equally safe to set him down as treacherous and vicious. The Roman nosed horse is certain to be a good animal for hard work and safe to drive, but he is apt to be slow. A horse with a slight concavity in the profile will be scary and need coaxing. A horse that droops his ears is apt to be lazy will as well be vicious. Hard work sometimes make a horse which started out properly let his ears drop, as is illustrated by the animals that pull the North Side carriages.—Chicago Tribune.

While most varieties of fruit are produced year after year on the same fruit spurs, the peach never produces fruit but once on the same wood, and that is on the wood grown the preceding year. We readily perceive that the peach must not only mature a crop of fruit each year, but also new wood and fruit buds for the next year's crop.

The fruit of the quince is in such great demand in all large cities that it should stimulate farmers and fruit growers to greater efforts to succeed with the trees they set out. Quinces do best in deep-cool soil, though in dryish places they will do fairly well if mulched. They have the roots cool is a great step toward success.

THE HORSE.

A Few Pointers on the Feeding and Treatment of This Valuable Animal.

I have a horse, ordinary weight 950 pounds, goes barefoot the year round; seldom has any grain, very ordinary in his build; is not groomed every day like many other farm horses. He seldom gets curried and yet he proves himself more than a match for iron-shod, daily-groomed, grained horses. He has the privilege of taking a roll occasionally and also is out to grass some. His strength appears to be more than equal to grain-fed horses of his weight; also his powers of endurance, as I frequently go some twenty miles or more with him and he goes the last part of the journey best. The wearing of shoes serves as a draft upon the native powers of the system and so it is with the feeding of grain. Generally speaking, a horse is much better off to go barefoot and to go without grain and also without a blanket. Let him have hay and grass and not so very abundantly of that; better to have short feed where he will have to feed all day to get enough. Scant feeding is much better for a horse than abundant feeding, as scant feeding calls into action the native powers of the system, while abundant feeding necessarily restricts the action of the native powers of the system. The same principle dominates or underlies the growing to perfection of fruit as the perfection of the horse does not lie merely in a frame well covered with flesh and his coat sleek and shining, but he must possess powers of great endurance, but abundant feedings serves to deprive him of those natural powers of endurance. The same is true in regard to vegetation. Trees and shrubs that grow on very rich land are consequently the shortest lived and the least hardy. May bear luscious fruit, but are inclined to rapid decay. What's the matter with potatoes? Why the native power of the potato is overtopped by artificiality or in other words the potato is in an enfeebled state of being, caused by a departure from the natural course of things. The potato, in its enfeebled state, is subject to its enemies and it is even so with fruit and it is even so with domestic animals and with man in a so-called civilized state of being. We're mankind truly civilized they would not be subject to disease, but masters of it. Even masters of the universe. The natural outcome of living according to the nature of things would be a vastly superior race of people and the feeding and treatment of domestic animals according to the nature of things would permit them to become masters, not subjects of disease. What is termed civilization stands directly in the way of all true advancement both as regards mankind and domestic animals. To seek the kingdom of God and His righteousness means to live according to the nature of things and not according to an idea imbued with something called civilization.—R. A. Tripp, in Green's Fruit Grower.

Fence in Your Swine.

After settling in the West my father planted a patch to corn. After it was harvested a pig was bought. Then a bunch of hogs were raised and each year since the hogs have been among the profit makers of the home farm. The first year we raised hogs in small pens. One day a neighbor came along and said, "Why don't you fence a hog pasture?" The answer was of course "Couldn't afford it." The neighbor promptly informed us that we could afford it and go at it and do it, no matter if we had to buy everything on time. We took his advice. We fenced about nine acres with cedar posts every eight feet and three fence board's and two wires all around it. It was good clover and timothy. I don't remember what the fence cost, but the wire was fourteen cents per pound; that was the first barb wire. We bought it on time and the hogs paid the bill. We sold some for eight cents per pound. Hogs bring only half that price now, but fence costs only about half that amount now.—S. A. Lassell in The Market Basket.

Keep Clear of Gapes.

Keep chicks on clean ground, and they will escape gapes. Gapes seldom appear on new locations. It is on the old farms, on ground that has been occupied for years by poultry, that gapes destroy so many chicks. As a precaution, scatter air-slacked lime freely over the ground again. If gill of spirits of turpentine be thoroughly mixed with each peck of lime it will be an advantage. By so doing the gapes may be prevented.

If lice are suspected, examine them first, as all lice on the chicks come from the hen. If lice are found, dust the hen and chicks with fresh Dalmatian insect-powder, holding them downward so as to get it well into the feathers, and rub a few drops of melted lard well into the skin of the head and necks. Of course, their quarters must be cleaned of lice, also. This may be done by sponging the boxes well with coal-oil, touching a lighted match to it and allowing the fire to run over the boxes, both inside and outside. Then dust the boxes well with insect-powder and examine them frequently.—C. F. Fox, in The Market Basket.

Worth Trying.

An exchange says: Do you or any of your readers know that some plants grown in close proximity to some varieties of fruits will impart their flavor to the fruit? asks a contributor to Rural New Yorker. I had a melon vine run in a small patch of pepper-mint, and the melons had a decided peppermint flavor. My neighbor has a gourd vine which ran on a peach tree, and the peaches had a disagreeable, gourd-like taste. I have noticed while gathering wild blackberries that those which grew close to the French mulberry (a species of Calli carpa.—eds.) had a peculiar fragrance which was quite an improvement over the others. I took the hint, have planted this shrub among my patch of blackberries, and produced berries which are superior to any blackberry I have tasted.

Fruit Items.

It is no more unreasonable to expect blood from a turnip than abundant crops of good fruit from poor soil. Fruit trees and plants of all kinds are like animals—they must be fed if they are expected to be profitable. It is rare that either of them fails to make ample returns if they are given wise and faithful attention.

There is a plenty and more than a plenty of wormy, knotty, scabby, bruised and decaying fruit grown and sent to market. This whole thing should be reformed or discouraged. There is plenty of demand for the best of fruit, honestly and carefully packed; and fair prices will ever await the man who meets this demand.

Practical Poultry Points.

Once more we feel that we ought to urge our readers not to select the best early chickens for broilers and fricasées, or to send to market and keep the late culms to replenish and increase the flock. This is the surest and quickest way to run them down to inferior, undersized fowl, slow growing, and not ready to give any eggs until next spring, when they will be eight or ten months old.

Select about twice as many of the best as it is intended to winter, feed them well, and keep them growing as fast as may be, and then next fall cull out those that are not up to the mark, and retain only the best. They will be worth twice as much as a flock of culms from which all the best ones have been taken, and they will probably give more than twice as many eggs next winter.

Poultry for a Small Investor.

Had there been no money in the poultry business people would long ago have abandoned the undertaking and have turned their attention to something else. As it is, hundreds are yearly added to the list of those who have gone before them on the poultry road to success. And the end is not yet. Our boys and girls are waking up to the possibilities of "a few hens," and women are so astir and determined that radical changes are everywhere in progression and under deep consideration. And it is going to result in better poultry and better money returns, happier hearts and prettier homes, more of content and less of fretting over imaginary "unenviable environments," and a greater love for rural homes and rural pursuits, and a lesser love for the city life that, afar off, has appeared to them all roses, nectar and dew.—Poultry Herald.

The author of "The Workers," Walter A. Wycliff, has published nothing since the appearance of those two remarkable volumes. In the September Scribner's he will reappear as a writer with an account of his journey to the far North with one of the Peary relief expeditions. He will tell particularly of his observations of the strange race of Esquimaux, known as the Arctic Highlanders. The articles contain much valuable observation, and are besides amusing and entertaining on their adventurous side.

Robbers Set Fire to Town.

Peoria, Ill., August 18.—Incendiaries who sought a chance to secure plunder are held responsible for the fire which destroyed an entire block of business houses in the town of Smithfield early this morning. For a time it was feared the whole village, which has no fire department, would be laid low, but the flames died out after twelve buildings were burned. The total loss is estimated at $75,000.

Two Convicts Gai Liberty.

Chicago, August 17.—Three prison officials started to transfer twenty-six prisoners from the Jeffersonville (Ind.) penitentiary to the Michigan City prison yesterday. At Otis, Ind., eight miles south of Michigan City, two of the convicts who were shackled together slipped the iron from the leg of one, and just as the train was pulling out they raised the window and jumped to the ground. The men wore no handcuffs. The train was stopped and an officer was left behind to search for the convicts. Up to a late hour last night they had not been captured.

Sheriff McCormick that he had plotted his escape and the delivery of twenty-one other prisoners by sawing the iron bars out of a window, which would have permitted the escape of all the jail inmates. A plot had been discovered to break jail and the bars had been partially sawed when Bigsby broke down and confessed. Sheriff McCormick says Bigsby is a member of an influential family at Troy.
